First Briscoe Co. Onion Crop Being Harvested

Briscoe County's first crop of commercial onions is being harvested this week by Roy and Wiley Bomar, Jr. on the Bomar farm southwest of Silvertown. Wiley said they started harvest early this week with a crew grading and sacking. He estimated they were making about 300 bags to the acre, and that the grade was fairly good. At noon Wednesday he did not have a price, and said they were not far enough along with the work to really know what the crop would make.

The Bomars planted 65 acres to onions this spring. 15 acres were destroyed by the tornado that hit Silvertown May 15.

The crop of onions are being machine graded in the metal building north of J. E. (Doc) Minyard's Implement House. Trucks are being loaded out to transport the crop to markets in St. Louis, Mo., New Orleans, Louisiana and Birmingham, Alabama. The crew that is harvesting the crop was brought to Silvertown from Raymondville, Texas.

Garden Tour Will be Wednesday, July 10, For 4-H Boys, Girls

Briscoe County 4-H Club Boys and Girls will have their annual Garden Tour and Judging Wednesday, July 10. This makes the second year that 4-H Clubbers in this county have participated in a County Wide Garden Program. Gardening is one of the most satisfying demonstrations a club member can carry out. This year's gardens are especially good as result of the fine spring rains that came. Boys and girls enter this program to grow fresh produce for the home. The demonstrations actually show a nice profit for the participants.

Carolyn Garrison, Silvertown Club Girl and one of last year's winners netted $20.48 for her garden work last year. She has taken on home canning as another part of this work, thereby putting up some of her surplus for later use. Carolyn's folks, the Pascall Garrisons, pay her for the vegetables that the family uses at home. They think this is fair, because her brother Max feeds calves and receives pay for his work in this method. Carolyn will enter the state competition for a trip to the National 4-H College Scholarship at the end of this club year.

Mrs. Obra Watson will be one of the judges. She will visit each garden demonstration and score it. The first four winners will be awarded a County Garden Medal at the Achievement Program in October.

Thrips Continue to Infest Cotton in Briscoe County

Thrips continue to infest cotton in Briscoe County. They have been especially bad in the area around Silvertown above the Cap-Rock. Most fields show from light to heavy infestations. Severe damage has been caused in some fields by these tiny insects.

One field was reported that two weekly sprayings were not keeping them down, and upon checking it was found that they were re-infesting after about two or three days after spraying from nearby careless weeds. These weeds have been the source of much thrip trouble this year. Damage will continue as long as these weeds are a shelter for thrips.

Thrips stunt plants by stopping the leaf action. Leaves that are not functioning properly stop the entire plant from growing and cause serious delays in fruiting.

Barney Stark Was Killed In Truck Crash Monday on Farm to Market Road

Barney Stark, Swisher County farmer, was killed at 11 a. m. Monday, July 8, when his pickup truck collided with a truck partially loaded with cement sacks.

The accident occurred at the intersection of a country road and Farm to Market Road 598, 12 miles southwest of here. It was reported by those who investigated that the vehicles collided when Stark's pickup pulled onto the highway into the path of the Tomlin-Fleming Gin Company truck driven by Leroy Vardell of Silvertown. Vardell was not injured.

Also the Texas Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee are now at work drafting policies concerning the 1958 cotton allotments. PCG Directors will hear proposed plans on freezing Texas cotton allotments at the 1957 level and other policies affecting acreage.

The "Rains" and Social Security

Probably few farmers have seen any connection between the recent rains and their social security payments. According to a statement from John R. Sanderson, manager of the District Social Security Office in Amarillo, there is such a connection.

Over 1200 farmers have filed claims for monthly social security payments in the Amarillo Office this year. Except for farmers who became age 72 before 1957, payments cannot be made for all months of the year to a farmer who has net profits of over $1200 in 1957. Because of the recent rains, many farmers who did not expect net profits of over $1200 when they filed their claims now expect more than that amount in 1957.

Sanderson urges any farmer now under age 72 and receiving social security payments to have these payments stopped if he feels that his net profits will be over $1200 in 1957. If he fails to stop the payments and does have net profits of over $1200, he will have been over-paid and will have to refund some or possibly even all of his 1957 payments. At the end of the year, when the exact amount of 1957 profit is known, an adjustment will be made to pay the farmer for any additional months due him or to collect from him the amount of any over-payments already made to him.

Since both 1955 and 1956 were low income years for most farmers, it is quite possible that a good crop in 1957 could cause an increase in the amount of a farmer's social security payments. Applications to have payments refigured to include 1957 profits cannot be filed before July 1, 1958.

Pfc. Tommy L. Strange, of Corpus Christi, Texas, spent the week end with his mother, Mrs. Bryan Strange and other relatives.

Huge Locomotive Poses Big Problem For Ford Museum

DEARBORN, Mich.—Because locomotives, like automobiles, have grown in size over the years, the Henry Ford Museum found itself facing a big problem.

Some automobile owners are having to squeeze their present-day cars into garages built only a few years ago. It took the museum a longer time to be caught with the same problem.

Nine locomotives have been handled in the past with ease. Parked inside the museum on two parallel tracks, they have been pushed in and out of the 11-acre museum grounds as the occasion demanded.

The problem came in the form of a gift from the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway—a huge Allegheny type locomotive, one of the largest ever built. Constructed in 1941, and now retired, it was among the last steam locomotives used by the completely dieselized C. & O. Locomotive and tender weigh nearly 600 tons and are more than 125 feet in length.

But weight and length weren't the problem. The rails rest upon concrete pillars two feet wide, reinforced with steel. C&O experts say the floor will support easily the locomotive's weight and the block-long tracks could accommodate several of this length.

Width and height, however, were different. Museum officials found that by removing the cab and upper portions the locomotive would barely clear the doorway which is 11 feet 7 inches wide and 15 feet 8 inches high.

Once inside, the job was comparatively simple. A diesel pushed the locomotive to a head position on one of the tracks and it'll stay there. The high, 28-foot ceiling permits complete restoration.

20-20 Vision May Not Be Perfect

NEW YORK—Time was when the average person was perfectly satisfied if told that he had 20/20 vision. That was supposed to be the last word in perfection. And a good many people still believe it is.

Unfortunately, the truth is not so simple. A 20/20 verdict only means the patient can see at a distance of 20 feet what normal vision sees at that distance—that he has sharp eyesight when looking at distant objects, in other words. But there are a number of other factors involved in good seeing, such as acuity for reading and other close-up tasks, teamwork between the two eyes, side vision, and dark adaptation.

In a large proportion of the seeing problems encountered today—especially those associated with reading difficulty—20/20 vision exists along with definite trouble. Out of 100,000 Texas schoolchildren recently analyzed, 53.4 per cent were found to have 20/20 vision and yet to be lacking in ability to use both eyes properly.

Mighty Grizzly Bear In Need of Protection

WASHINGTON—The mighty grizzly bear, once the terror of both man and beast, is today himself in great need of protection.

Scarcely heard of until 1807 when Lewis and Clark returned from their expedition to the Pacific, King Grizzly reigned throughout the West for many years. Indians, armed only with bows and arrows, rarely challenged his supremacy. Such was the Indians' awe of the beasts that any early frontiersman who felled a grizzly wore its claws around his neck as a badge of unexcelled courage.

As guns improved and the price of pelts increased, however, killing bears became commonplace. Today, they are nearly extinct in this country.

Outside Alaska, the animal's last stronghold, only about 700 remain in the United States—mainly in Glacier and Yellowstone National Parks. The bears are still legal game in Montana and Wyoming beyond the parks. But in Colorado, Idaho and Washington, the only other states reporting grizzlies, they are protected.

Dynamite Removed From Community Hall

SCIO, Ore.—Local residents who have made use of Bohemian Hall here would not have danced so enthusiastically or for so long, or run so hard in athletic contests had they had any idea what was under the floor.

A case of dynamite, enough to blow up the building, was removed recently.

It was apparently placed there 12 years ago after a Scio boy lost a hand in an explosion.

Traffic Jam
NEW YORK—A global survey shows that there were some 94,990 cars, trucks and buses on the world's highways at the start of this year. This is 7.8 per cent more than at the beginning of 1955. The survey indicates there are 2.64 persons for every motor vehicle in the United States.

ELECTRICITY BRINGS
THE PASTURE TO THE COW

Fantastic, No! Latest innovation of the application of electric power actually brings the pasture to the cow, and dairymen in many sections of Texas are using the machine for supplemental feeding. The magic equipment is a cereal grain "incubator" which grows grass 6 to 8 inches in six days.

Secret of the installation, called a Herbager machine, is in the use of electric heat pumps for accurate temperature control and a practical application of hydroponics. Hydroponics is the cultivation of plants by placing the roots in liquid nutrient rather than in soil.

The cereal grains are pre-soaked, allowed to drain, then put in trays and racked like a file cabinet. With proper control of heat, humidity, light, and chemically treated water, seeds are sprouted and a phenomenal growth is completed in six days.

The experience of dairymen using this machine has shown that 20 pounds per day per cow will increase milk production from 10 to 20 percent and buttermilk content 2 to 3 points. Cost of the forage has been from $8 to $12 per ton. Annual production in a 40 cow unit equals that of 80 acres of farm land, the plantings are spaced to yield 800 pounds of forage daily.

Blankenship Dairy, Amarillo, is putting a 12 by 20 foot machine through its paces at this time. This machine has 120 trays with 5 grain baskets per tray; it produces grass for 40 head and will produce over 140 tons of grass per year.

Heat and circulation is controlled by units attached to sides of incubator building. These units have whipped the mold problem which plagued the earlier models of the machine.

Mr. A. C. Blankenship, Blankenship Dairy, Amarillo, inspects a tray of five day old wet grass. Lower left, two baskets show grass and root development after 6 days of growth.

Cover Crop

Have seen some good drilled sorghum cover coming up this week on the Gabe Garrison farm west of Silverton and on the John Johnson farm north of Quitaque.

This sorghum cover will make a mighty good seed bed for seeding native grass next spring.

As Bill Helms puts it—"The odds are against you when planting native grass on bare ground."

Others are waiting on a shower before sowing. As a matter of fact every body would appreciate a small shower.

Weeds Vs. Grass

Many of our grass plantings made in row stubble this year have a pretty good crop of weeds on it.

They matured before we could get around to spraying. Seems everything needed to be done all at once.

Bill Helms at Quitaque gave us a good mowing. Says that was his best alternative since weeds are hard to kill by spraying after they mature.

Winter Watering Vs. Rain

Suppose that winter watering was thrown away after we got our rain? I doubt it. We'll soon know.

Miss Bonnie Chappell of Costa Mesa, California, spent the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Chappell. Returning home on Friday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Davis, a son, Tommy Jeff, weight six pounds 10 ounces. Born June 26. Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Davis, Mrs. Andy Beagin and Mr. Haskell Jackson, are the grandparents.

New Radar System To Make Tracking Hurricanes Easier

BOSTON—Earlier and more reliable storm warnings will soon be possible through new U.S. Weather Bureau radars that can detect and track hurricanes and tornadoes up to 250 miles away.

Under production are 39 new-type weather radars for the Department of Commerce—tailor-made to Weather Bureau and forecasting needs. The U.S. Navy's Bureau of Aeronautics will use eight of these equipments at Naval installations here and abroad. Delivery is scheduled to begin in early 1958.

The new radars will be linked into a planned nationwide network of radar weather stations to be strategically located throughout the country. By tracking a storm and relaying the findings from one station to the next without losing contact with the disturbance, meteorologists will be able to make a continuous check of storm progress and development.

Use of this network, Weather Bureau officials point out, will reduce to a minimum present difficulties in plotting of hurricanes as they approach the coast. It will also be used to help guide planes and ships either away from or safely through turbulent weather and severe storms.

Each of the new weather radars can instantly pinpoint the exact location of severe storms within its 200,000-square-mile coverage. The weatherman will see an entire weather front or storm systems at once, thus greatly improving his present piecemeal, intermittent roundup of the situation.

Caves and Mines Have Practical Use

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa.—Properly air-conditioned caves and abandoned mines can serve as excellent storage places for military and industrial materials and for the preservation of food, says Elmer R. Queer, director of engineering research at the Pennsylvania State University.

When the U.S. Army Ordnance Corps decided to transform an abandoned limestone mine near Atchison, Kans., into an underground storage depot for military supplies, it called on Queer and other Penn State staff members. They supervised the design of a dehumidification system for the 14-acre section of the mine which had been used previously by the Commodity Credit Corporation of the Department of Agriculture as a cold storage place for food.

As the Navy learned in "moth-balling" its ships after World War II, controlled atmosphere is the key to successful long-term storage and preservation of military material, Queer says.

Employee Turnover Subject of Study

LOS ANGELES—Why do employees quit? This is the question Dr. Wayne L. McNaughton, of the Graduate School of Business Administration, UCLA, has been studying in cooperation with a large aircraft company.

The company was concerned about its rate of employee turnover—5,600 separations a year from a work force of 10,000. The investigation covered all former workers who had been gone from two to 11 months.

One of the study's most interesting findings was that the reasons given by ex-employees on why they quit were quite different from those given interviewers at the time of separation.

At the time of departure, most workers gave some "polite" reason such as "other employment" or "leaving the state." On the questionnaire, however, they emphasized such reasons as "poor pay," "bad supervision," and "slow advancement." This was true of 40 per cent of ex-employees questioned.

Interestingly, three out of four ex-employees who had quit after two months employment said they would like to rejoin the company.

New Dummy Helps in X-Ray Experiments

NEW YORK—Galatea is the intriguing name scientists have assigned a new testing dummy. Galatea is man-made, has sponges for lungs, wood sheathing for a heart, and cotton interior—all constructed around the real heart of a human chest.

The model is being used by X-ray technicians in experimenting with techniques and films to improve the knowledge of radiology—the use of X-rays, radium and other radioactive substances in diagnosis and treatment.

More and More UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—The population of the world increased 40,000,000 people at midyear 1955 over the previous year, the United Nations reports. The new estimated world population is 2,692,000,000.

Placid Possum Has Survived For Generations

WASHINGTON—The placid possum, one of nature's unassuming mammals, rates a number of distinctions—among them the height of his family tree.

Possum ancestors waddled the earth millions of years ago with dinosaurs and other prehistoric monsters, and the possum out-survived the lot. How they did so has never been explained—unless it is that the possum is not so stupid as he is supposed.

Like the bear and the eagle that contributed "bear hug" and "eagle-eyed" to the language, the possum's ability to feign death gives meaning to the expression "plink possum." Some experts think possums may actually swoon from fright. Others compare the exhibition to the rigid state of severe human mental cases.

The possum ranges across much of the United States and as far south as Patagonia. As North America's only marsupial, the inoffensive creature has served and amused generations of man, while creating strange beliefs. One old legend credits the possum with fishing with its foot-long ratlike tail. Mexico's Aztecs brewed possum-tail broth as a cough remedy, used it to draw ailments from flesh and bone and to accelerate childbirth.

Beset by hawks, owls, foxes, bobcats and man, the possum has few defenses other than an odor sufficient to give attackers pause.
