Mail Packages and Christmas Cards Next Ten Days

The local post offices hopes to keep its good record on handling Christmas mails by getting everything processed and delivered well before Christmas Eve, Postmaster E. C. Fowler said this week.

He added that how well the mail moves will depend a great deal on the cooperation local people give in getting their packages and Christmas cards mailed during the next ten days.

"It's important in the small town as well as in the city to mail early during the Christmas season," the Postmaster said. "Most people appreciate the early arrival of a gift or card, and where there is a heavy concentration of mail early mailing could mean the difference in on-time and late delivery."

"And be sure to use the correct address," Mr. Fowler added. "Wrap and address packages carefully. Take a little extra time and place the address inside the package just in case it should come unwrapped."

The address on all mail destined for the larger cities should include zone numbers to insure faster delivery.

The Postmaster also advocated the use of first class postage on Christmas cards. First class postage—a three-cent stamp—allows a written message to be included inside. There are other advantages, too. The Post Office considers first class mail as preferential mail which is entitled to the fastest handling. Also, a Christmas card with first class postage may be forwarded or returned to the sender.

"Incidentally," the Postmaster concluded, "it is socially correct to place your return address on the envelope bearing a Christmas card."

Mail Packages and Christmas Cards Next Ten Days

The local post offices hopes to keep its good record on handling Christmas mails by getting everything processed and delivered well before Christmas Eve, Postmaster E. C. Fowler said this week.

He added that how well the mail moves will depend a great deal on the cooperation local people give in getting their packages and Christmas cards mailed during the next ten days.

"It's important in the small town as well as in the city to mail early during the Christmas season," the Postmaster said. "Most people appreciate the early arrival of a gift or card, and where there is a heavy concentration of mail early mailing could mean the difference in on-time and late delivery."

"And be sure to use the correct address," Mr. Fowler added. "Wrap and address packages carefully. Take a little extra time and place the address inside the package just in case it should come unwrapped."

The address on all mail destined for the larger cities should include zone numbers to insure faster delivery.

The Postmaster also advocated the use of first class postage on Christmas cards. First class postage—a three-cent stamp—allows a written message to be included inside. There are other advantages, too. The Post Office considers first class mail as preferential mail which is entitled to the fastest handling. Also, a Christmas card with first class postage may be forwarded or returned to the sender.

"Incidentally," the Postmaster concluded, "it is socially correct to place your return address on the envelope bearing a Christmas card."

Stanley L. Mohr, a teacher in the local school, spent the Thanksgiving holidays at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Mohr, in Grandfield, Oklahoma.

Mesdames Alice Womack and J. E. Minyard were in Matador Tuesday afternoon of last week.

Let all the Earth be Silent

It is the time of the year that we all share a common feeling of waiting, watching, and hushed expectations. It is the time of anticipation and merry making and, more important than all, It is the remembrance of the miraculous Peace of God that descended into all the Earth two thousand years ago to prepare it for the birth of a Savior.
