Leptospirosis Among Cattle of Briscoe County, Says Agent

Leptospirosis, a disease of cattle that has caused State Wide attention is present in Briscoe County. All ranchers are reminded that the disease is a costly one and should be on close observation for its presence. Generally the symptoms will be manifest when a pregnant cow loses her calf prematurely. These calves are usually aborted in the last 1-3 of pregnancy.

Other symptoms may or may not be present. Large calf losses are often experienced before vaccination. Cows may be vaccinated for the disease and this usually is the sure way out. "Lepto" bacteria can be carried in a number of ways, but the common one is by water. Streams from waterbeds are often a source of infection from other places that have cows with the disease. One cow can contaminate the entire source of water on many ranches. Rodents are often sources of the leptospira organism. A suspicious cow should be blood tested by a veterinarian immediately. Vaccination is cheap compared to the disease losses.

County Agent Ledbetter, said today that the Donley County Extension Agent was having a meeting Thursday night on control of "Lepto". There will be competent veterinarians there to discuss the subject and its importance. The meeting will be held in Clarendon Thursday night at 8:00 p. m. and any that wish to attend should let Ledbetter know. He said that he hoped that several carloads would attend.

WINTERTIME PRE-WATERING YIELDS QUALITY COTTON

The value of wintertime watering has long been known. Evaporation is only about 15% compared to a summertime loss of as much as 70%. But, most important, wintertime watering eliminates the dangers that can come from early freezes.

A case in point is the experience of J. T. Pinkston of Slaton, Texas. Mr. Pinkston practices wintertime pre-watering on his cotton land. Many grimly recall the early freeze of 1957 which lowered cotton quality to a price averaging 17¢ per pound. That year, Mr. Pinkston's cotton brought an average of 32¢ per pound.

Says Mr. Pinkston, "In that 1957 season, I did my last watering back in the month of May, consequently, when the freeze hit, my cotton was already matured and not loaded with watery sap. Out of my 45 acre cotton allotment, I made 46 bales. Only one bale graded as low as strict low middling; the other 45 graded strict middling."

"While it's not easy to water in the wintertime — sure, it's cold and sometimes nasty — the effort pays off in good cotton, which is really what we're all looking for," Mr. Pinkston concludes.

County agents are ready, willing and able to give additional information on wintertime watering for individual soil conditions. It will pay you to look into wintertime watering for your land.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Hampton, of Fort Worth, spent several days here during the Thanksgiving holidays with her uncle and family, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Smith. Other Thanksgiving day dinner guests in the Smith home were Mr. and Mrs. R. L. O. Riddell and Alton, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Smith and children, Mrs. Donnie Perkins and Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Hester.

Mrs. Rusty Arnold and Mrs. Jord Hollingsworth recently attended a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. W. T. Ross, in Flomot, honoring Miss Gayle Depert, of Amarillo, bride elect of Mex Washington, of Flomot. He is a student at WTSC, Canyon, is a cousin to Mesdames Arnold and Hollingsworth.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Watters visited in Amarillo from Thursday until Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Oather McGowen and family; they spent Sunday in Hereford with Mr. and Mrs. Richard McGowen and family. Mr. and Walt Perkins and children of Hereford, were also dinner guests in the Richard McGowen on Sunday. The Messrs. McGowen are brothers to Mrs. Watters.

Charlie Poole, 81, of Portland, Oregon; Glen Poole, of Petersburg; and Mrs. Doyle Poole, of Lockney, visited Mrs. P. D. Jasper and Dawn and other relatives here one afternoon early last week. Charlie Poole is an uncle to Mrs. Jasper, Glen Poole and Doyle Poole; she had not seen her uncle in 62 years and her cousin, Glen Poole, in more than 20 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Tunnell and daughters of Amarillo were week end guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lenton Lanham. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lanham, of Quitaque, were Sunday visitors with his brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lenton Lanham.

Biggs, celebrate their birthday anniversaries, which fell on Sunday and Monday, with a delicious dinner and a family gettogether in the smalley home. Twenty three relatives were present.

All The Family At Monroe Table For Thanksgiving

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Carver Monroe, Silverton, was the scene of the annual Thanksgiving reunion of the Charles O. Simpson family. The use of the traditional Thanksgiving holiday for the family reunion began in 1938, with all of the then eight members present. As the years passed, the number increased at the average rate of one new member per year. Presently the number has increased to twenty.

Another unusual part of this annual assembling of the family is that every member of the family has been able to attend each year. The first family gathering saw those original eight gathered around a dining table at one end of the dining room. For this year, the table had to be enlarged, so that it reached into the center of the Monroe's living room.
