

Annual Bailey County Fair scheduled for Sept. 15 & 16

By Curtis Preston
CEA - Agriculture

The 16th Annual Bailey County West Plains Fair is scheduled to be held on September 15 and 16, 1995, here in Muleshoe.

The Bailey County Extension office personnel have managed the agricultural and home economics exhibits for the past fifteen years, and certainly plan to do it again in 1995.

As you know, the recognized achievements in the many areas of the fair are awarded ribbons or cash prizes.

Many local people are exhibitors in the Bailey County Fair who would not be able to participate at any other fair, and we feel that is important ... to us ... to our community.

In the past, until last, various civic groups were responsible for overseeing the "booth rental" part of the fair. Last year, however, it was left to the Extension office to handle that as well.

The booth rentals have normally been offered to local vendors and businesses prior to extending invitations to others, and we want to honor that commitment again this year; however, we need to have more response from our local community.

In order for the Fair to give cash prizes, we must have some income. Your support is needed. A booth (10' X 10') will rent for $50 for the two-day period (September 15-16). We are also in need of sponsors if we are to continue the cash awards for "Best of Show." Twenty dollars is awarded to the "Best of Show" in each of the seven adult and Finney and Mule-Plex produced a success!

Alan Finney, the producer, director and music co-writer of "Keepers of the Legend," said there would be lots of hard and fast decisions about dealing with tight management, considering how fast the outdoor drama grew.

Finney said he sees no reason at this point for not doing the outdoor drama every year. "Plans initially were to do it every year," he said.

Although there are final figures yet, the break even point was estimated at 400 spectators a night, and there were 1500 paid receipts, Finney said.

Finney, who has been a resident of Muleshoe for 24 years, spent six of those years away at college. He graduated from Texas Tech University in 1991 with a bachelor of music performance degree.

After a short stay in the Dallas area, attending the graduate school at the University of North Texas, Finney decided to make a career change, to move home to Muleshoe and go into banking. He is now assistant vice president and lending officer at Muleshoe State Bank.

He and his wife, Kerry, also serve as music directors at the First United Methodist Church in Muleshoe.

Actors gather before production of "Keepers of the Legend." Pictured are most of the actors who participated in the play. The cast consisted of local businessmen, college students and many younger children still in Muleshoe schools. There were a few cast members from out of town. The historical outdoor drama was presented Aug. 4-8 on a stage in front of the Janes Ranch House at the Muleshoe Heritage Center.

Don't miss it! Meet the Mules Friday, Aug. 18

Booster Club President David Marricle says "Meet the Mules" is scheduled for Friday night, Aug. 18 at the Benny Douglas Stadium, weather permitting.

Festivities will begin at 6 p.m. with introductions of fall participants in football and cross country events—freshmen through varsity.

The band and the cheerleaders will be there, and the Mini Mule Cheerleading Camp participants will perform. An ice cream supper will follow.

The Booster Club will be selling signature ads for a $10 donation. Marricle says the ad entitles a fan to membership in the Booster Club.

Reserve ticket options can still be picked up

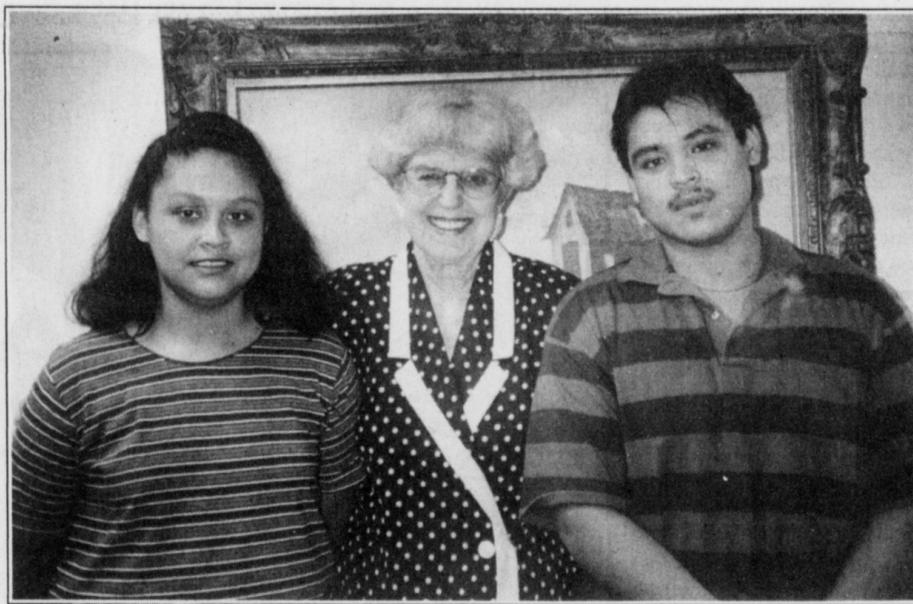

Muleshoe Independent School District would like to remind all persons holding reserve seat tickets for the 1995 football season that they may pick up their options through Friday, Aug. 18 until 5 p.m. at the administration office.

All remaining tickets will go on sale Monday, Aug. 21 on a first come, first serve basis.

CEA - Agriculture

The Bailey County West Plain Fair Catalogs are in the mail! "It is time to begin making your plans to attend the fair," says Curtis Preston, County Extension Agent-Agriculture. School will be in motion and fall will be in the air... a perfect setting for our county fair.

Fair dates are Friday, September 15 from 1 until 7 p.m., and Saturday, September 16, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

All entries must be left in place until 4 p.m. please. Judging will be held on the morning of September 15; therefore, we will be able to judge with out interruption.

Entries for the fair will be accepted on Thursday, September 14, from 10a.m. until 8 p.m., as noted in the catalog, page 2. Please read all of the rules of the fair and them plan to enter one or more categories as shown.

This year there are some new categories, in the fine arts division and a few new changes which we hope will encourage mor participation. Added categories are silk painting, fabric painting, clay items, and enamel on copper.

In addition to those categories, a new division has been added—Division 5-jewelry and it has three classes from which to choose. In the crafts and hobbies division, an "open media" category has been added which will include any mixed media work.

Please notice that in the Georgia Pena, Director of Special Programs at Muleshoe High School, presented Freddy Santos and Lisa Rodriguez to school board members Monday night at the board meeting. Freddy Santos, a sophomore at South Plains Junior College, participated in St. Edward's 1993 summer program, and Lisa Rodriguez, who is a sophomore at MHS, participated in the program this summer.

According to Pena, the program is designed primarily for students whose families move often and travel for farm work. The student may need assistance with necessary credits lost or not available because they have changed school systems. Often the students are also from a single-parent home, and many times the student has had to overcome tremendous obstacles to stay in school. Extension service closing South Plains soils testing laboratory

LUBBOCK — After more than 35 years of providing scientifically and economically sound soil testing services to Texas High Plains producers, the South Plains Soil Testing Laboratory of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service will close Sept. 1.

The laboratory handles from 8,000 to 12,000 soil and plant samples for crop producers and homeowners each year, said Dr. Michael Hickey, Extension Service soil chemist and director of the facility here. In addition to Hickey, the lab employs an office manager, two technicians and a part-time high school student from the cooperative agriculture program.

Escalating costs of upgrading and replacing analytical equipment and operating the laboratory, coupled with reductions in state and federal funding, has not been offset by sufficient increase in the number of samples handled, said

Dr. James R. Supak, associate head of the Department of Soil and Crop Sciences at Texas A&M University.

After Sept. 1, samples from the area now served by the Lubbock facility will be processed at the College Station laboratory. Supak said a 60-day phase down period at the Lubbock lab will allow completion of existing projects, transfer of equipment and closing of the facility. All operations at the facility will end Nov. 1.

Alan teaches private music lessons to some of the individuals who acted in the recent performances of the outdoor musical drama.

Besides Finney, who played trumpet and piano for the performances, other band members for "Keepers" have been recording recently at Gill Prather's "Cowboy Connection." They are musicians from Clovis, Portales and El Paso.

Johnny Mulhair played guitar, Kim Blakey was on fiddle and guitar, Roy Black played bass and Brad Billingsley was on the drums.

The lighting, sound, band and radio and television advertising were handled by the "Cowboy Connection" recording studio and advertising agency.

Many people and entities of the community played a part in the outdoor drama. The City of Muleshoe provided funds toward the promotion of the event.

The Muleshoe Squares participated in the "party" scene. The Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture allowed the use of their office for ticket sales.

Muleshoe Kiwanis Club cooperated in closing the Miniature Golf Course. Bailey County allowed the use of the Coliseum parking lot and restrooms as well as lots of "dirt" for the sandhill and stage.

The Heritage Foundation provided the barbecue supper and the facilities that formed the set and background for the drama. The City of Littlefield provided bleachers.

The programs were printed by Trafton Printing. Hardcopy advertising and promotional engagements were by Holland, Merriman & Christiansen advertising agency. Photography was by Rhonda Carpenter, and tickets were printed by Bob Stovall Printing.

Paul Goad of Clovis was the engineer for the production Mule-Plex Production Company was a driving force behind the idea for the outdoor drama.

Mule-Plex Production Company began in the fall of 1988 when Arline Phelps and Pat Prater were visiting one day about ideas for bringing tourists to Muleshoe.

Some type of historical outdoor drama seemed to have possibilities. They contacted MHS drama instructor, Kerry Moore.

An open public meeting held to determine the level of community interest resulted in the gathering of a core of people to work on the project—with Prater as president and Norma Bruce as treasurer.

Melodramas and musical variety shows were directed by Moore, with the high school auditorium as a setting. The Indians were outnumbered by cowboys in Muleshoe's outdoor drama, "Keepers of the Legend." One of the most beautiful night scenes was of Indians dancing atop a giant sandhill that symbolized the legend that sandhills drifted suddenly into the area and covered a river that ran through it.

Muleshoe Activities Committee lended its support with candy sales.

Under the guidance of Moore, Mule-Plex produced additional dramas. Lee Horsley was a special guest at a 1990 production.

An outdoor drama at the Heritage Center was written and directed by Darla Rhodes, Nelda Merriott, Billie Downing and Prater, with nearly 100 people involved.

There were horses, a stage coach, a wagon and a carriage running through the staging area, and even a gunfight. The ambitious project was enjoyed by a large audience.

So, the idea of producing an outdoor historical drama has long been a desire of the group.

In 1994, when Alan Finney said he would produce and direct an outdoor musical for Mule-Plex, Pat Prater decided to contact Paula Paul, who was originally from this area, to see if she would be interested in writing a script.

Paul had recently been to Muleshoe for a "Toast of Texas" celebration, and she had written the foreword in the Bailey County history book.

After visiting with Paul, Prater discovered the Albuquerque author had written numerous novels and several outdoor dramas. One of her books is being considered for a movie.

We feel that this change will be an encouragement for more young people to enter and will be a fairer way to judge the entries. "Best of Show" awards will be once again awarded to seven adults and seven youths in seven divisions, and ribbons and rosettes will be awarded as shown on page 2 of the catalog.

The Muleshoe Jenny-slippers will also be giving prize money to some lucky person or persons who is entered in the fair.

Commercial and exhibits areas are available as shown on page 19. We encourage anyone who is interested in reserving a space to call the extension office at 272-4583 education," and he decided to go on to college.

Lisa worked this summer as a teacher's aide and also wants to continue her education after graduation from MHS.

Both students felt the program had made a real difference in their lives. Pena and high school principal, Al

Bishop, both said they were impressed by the self-confidence and positive attitudes Freddy and Lisa have.

The funds providing students this opportunity come from various sources. MISD provides only $650 per student.

The program director said Muleshoe has been participating in this program for four years, and has sent 13 students. Their success has been very good—four have graduated, six are currently enrolled at MHS, and are due to graduate in May, two have withdrawn from MISD, and only one has dropped out. Three are presently enrolled in college.

to College Station will notice little difference in receipt of analyses and reports, Supak said. The College Station laboratory provides one-day turnaround upon receipt of soil samples; water and forage analyses take about a week.

"For almost four decades, the laboratory at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension center at Lubbock has set the standards for sound soil testing services on the High Plains," Supak said. "But it is no longer feasible to equip, maintain and operate state-of-the-art facilities at both Lubbock and College Station."

The Lubbock facility was established in 1959 to serve an area that represents an estimated 43 percent of the state's total agricultural production and 54 percent of its total crop coverage, Hickey said. The area it served produces 76 percent of the state's wheat, 75 percent of its cotton and 70 percent of its corn, he noted. It has had three directors during its continuous operation: James Valentine, Dr. Dale Pennington and Hickey.

The Lubbock lab was one of the first in the nation to recognize that nitrate nitrogen measurements in soil can be useful nitrogen fertilizer recommendations, and one of the first to incorporate that into sampling and analysis procedures, Hickey said.

"Soil testing techniques for phosphorous used by the A&M laboratories today were developed at Lubbock, in conjunction with scientists of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station," he said.

The lab and the High Plains

Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 evaluated area soil fertility and identified that nitrogen and phosphorus were the nutrients which most limited cotton production on the Southern High Plains.

A subsequent educational program initiated by the Lubbock soil chemist, the water district and county Extension agents improved crop fertilization. Together with improved irrigation management and variety selection, this reversed the declining cotton production of the Southern High Plains, Hickey said.

For the past six years, Hickey and the Lubbock lab have been developing a cotton petiole monitoring program for area cotton producers, designed to improve the efficiency of nitrogen application. "The bottom line is, it helps them get better use of their fertilizer and reduces environmental impact," Hickey said.

In conjunction with the Extension Service "Don't Bag It" lawn care program to reduce urban yard trash, Hickey and the Lubbock lab initiated a "Don't Bag It Soil Test Program" for urban residents. "It is designed to reduce the potential for urban environmental impact," Hickey said. The program has since been adopted by Oklahoma State University.

The lab has been working with irrigators to identify salinity problems in center pivot systems. It is involved in a cooperative program with the water district to quantify the extent and impact of that problem and find ways to alleviate it. For several years the lab has worked with the oil industry in reclaiming salt-affected soils.

Parmer County Fair to be September 14

Calling the Shots on Crucial Issues

I have promised not to send out mass mailings at taxpayer expense, using the so-called franking privilege, so I have not conducted any formal surveys of constituents through the mails.

But since this newspaper has made a commitment to inform its readers on issues affecting all of us, I am asking them to allow me to communicate with you on an informal basis by asking you to answer these questions and return this form.

- 1) Do you favor replacing the current income tax with a flat tax (one rate for everyone, regardless of income with no mortgage or charitable deductions)? Or a national sales tax or a consumption tax, which wouldn't tax you on money you save, but only what you spend?
Flat tax: Sales tax: Consumption tax:
- 2) We are making difficult decisions to try to balance the federal budget. Would you support Congress balancing the budget by the year 2002 if this meant slowing the growth of Medicare spending? Medicaid spending? Social Security spending?
Medicare: Medicaid: Social Security:
- 3) Do you believe that agricultural policy should look for alternatives to its income support programs? Should there be a cap on subsidies or income testing to receive agricultural subsidies?
Alternatives: What kind: _____
Subsidy cap: Income testing:
- 4) Congress has cut national defense spending by 40 percent in real terms since 1985. Do you believe that current levels of spending on defense are adequate, too low, or too high?
Adequate: Too low: Too high:
- 5) Do you believe there should be a national commitment to encouraging American culture through the arts?
Yes: No:
Would you support federal arts funding if procedures were reformed so that federal funds would go only toward supporting legitimate arts groups, museums and arts education?
Yes: No:
- 6) Do you think this Congress has taken significant steps toward making itself more accountable to the American people?
Yes: No: In what areas would you like to see more progress? _____

Please send your responses to me at 283 Russell Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510, and write "SURVEY" on the outside of the envelope. I look forward to hearing from you.

Dr. Erfan called to tell me his story. He's spent seventeen years inventing and testing a device to help people quit smoking. It involves a small battery operated unit that clips in your ear like a hearing aid. Whenever the smoker feels the urge to smoke, he pushes a button on the unit. It sends a micro-amp charge which stimulates a nerve in the ear. This nerve causes a release of natural body chemicals which reduce the need for a smoke.

Human trials have shown very positive results. Enough so that the device is already cleared for use in other countries. But not in the U.S. The F.D.A. is not satisfied. They are now demanding animal testing. Thus Dr. Erfan's call. His question, "Was I aware of any animals stupid enough to smoke."

Food for thought. First we would have to find a species we could teach to smoke. Then once they were addicted we'd have to teach them to push a button the size of a match head whenever they felt the urge.

Certain species, regardless of their stupidity are eliminated because of life-style. Largemouth bass, for instance, whales or sea anemone could never keep one lit.

Others lack suitable anatomical features necessary to smoking like prehensile lips, i.e. crocodiles, ducks or hippopotami.

Or ears in which to insert the unit. Penguins are out as are frogs, snakes, millipedes and woodpeckers.

Then the selected species would have to be physically capable of pressing the small button. As you could imagine even the most dexterous ungulate would have difficulty manipulating its cloven hoof. And I doubt the smartest rhinoceros in the world could reach his ear with his finger.

So, that narrows it down some. I came up with three suggestions for the good doctor. The anteater, the bird-dog and the cowboy.

Even granting the anteater a modicum of intelligence, none of the three species suggested have been known for their good judgement. In addition all are creatures of habit, work close to the ground and have a symbiotic relationship with another species which could be helpful in the collusion.

There are some who might question the anteater's ears but you gotta admit he has smoker's lips!

Dr. Erfan was kind but I could tell he thought my suggestions were ridiculous.

On a flyer I called up Dr. David Kessler, Czar and Mahatma of the F.D.A. to find out what animals he might suggest

Pavarotti & Friends II

In September of 1994 in his home town of Modena, Italy, tenor Luciano Pavarotti joined forces with the talents of five of today's leading pop and classical artists. In a concert ranging from opera favorites to well-known ballads, chart topping rock numbers, and a new "Ave Maria" composed by Pavarotti himself, the audience was enthralled with the star-studded spectacular.

In Pavarotti & Friends II, Pavarotti is joined by Bryan Adams, Italian pop-idol Georgia, new age harpist Andreas Vollenweider, and two of today's most celebrated young opera singers, the enchanting soprano Nancy Gustafson and the blind Italian tenor Andrea Bocelli. It's a magical evening where six friends from all walks of musical life come together for a musical celebration that delights a cheering audience.

Pavarotti begins the concert with a heart-rending solo "Il Lamento di Federico" from Cilea's "I Arlesiana," a tragic love story in which the hero kills himself rather than marry a woman he cannot love. His duets include "O Sole Mio" with Bryan Adams, a surprising combination of two very different but equally expressive styles of singing, and "Santa Lucia Luntana" with Georgia. Pavarotti & Friends II airs Sunday, August 20th at 9:00 p.m.

Jack Williamson: Wonder's Child

He refers to himself as a dreamer. He is in fact one of the true pioneers of science fiction. Jack Williamson began writing the same year the first science fiction magazine, Amazing Stories, appeared. In Jack Williamson: Wonder's Child, a half-hour documentary produced by KENW-TV, viewers will hear about and from this author, scholar, and visionary who is considered the Dean of Science Fiction. A professor in English at Eastern New Mexico University since 1957, Williamson and his work have profoundly influenced the shape of Science Fiction. He currently is Professor Emeritus at the university.

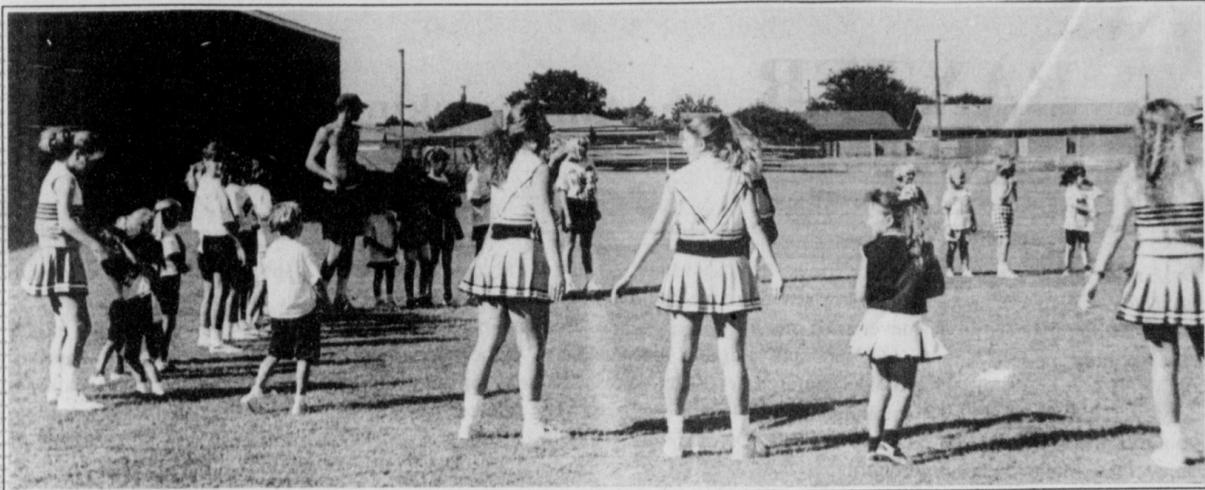

Dr. Williamson was the first to coin the terms "matter" and "anti-matter," "terra-forming," and "androids." At 87 years of age, he continues to write with an agile and questioning mind. This special program offers viewers an opportunity to meet this venerable author and hear his views on a number of interesting subjects.

The program was written and directed by David Lam, an Eastern New Mexico University graduate student. KENW-TV staff members Don Criss and Orlando Ortega helped with the videography and video editing.

Jack Williamson: Wonder's Child is the first full-length KENW-TV television production to be edited on the station's new non-linear editing system, the Media 100. This system allows audio and video to be edited completely on the hard drive of a computer. The finished product is then transferred to video tape.

Jack Williamson: Wonder's Child airs Sunday, August 20th at 10:30 p.m.

Local teachers attend annual state convention

Over 1300 women teachers from all parts of Texas attended the 66th annual state convention of The Delta kappa Gamma Society International in mid-June in Houston. Jo Nell Lowry of Conway, Arkansas, international second vice president, attended as official representative of the international society. Margot Salinas de Resendez of Nuevo Leon, Mexico attended as Southwest Regional Director.

Dr. Dolores Akins of Hurst, state presidents, selected as convention theme, "Journeys for a Better Earth: We Can Make a World of Difference." Pre-convention tours included trips to Galveston, NASA-Space City, San Jacinto Battleground, Old Town Spring and various museums.

Convention co-chairmen included Marion Beckham, Marcile Hollingsworth and Martha Pauler, with Margaret Scott as consultant, all of Houston. The 37 Houston area chapters served as hostesses and wore identifiable red cobbler's aprons featuring a red rose, the Society flower. The Wyndham Greenspoint Hotel served as the convention site.

A pre-convention workshop featured Nancy Davidson, a licensed professional counselor, who discussed "How You communicate with Others Depends on How You Communicate with Yourself." The workshop featured ideas and practical solutions to communication problems in the classroom.

During the executive board meeting on Friday, members voted on various committee recommendations. Special interest workshops for members included such topics as trends in flexible schooling, elder hostel experiences, journeys to China and Russia, computer use ideas, gender differences in oral communication, writing by published authors and taming the paper tiger. Committee workshops took place on Friday and Saturday.

Jean Lee of Baytown, state first vice president, presided over the annual birthday luncheon. Members of fifty-plus years, scholarship recipients, and outstanding chapters and members received recognition during the luncheon.

In addition to committee workshops in the afternoon, members heard a research assistant of True Women, a genealogical historical novel; learned the energizing effects of humor and discussed portfolio assessment. A formal presentation of the 17 past and present state presidents, 304 chapter presidents and 17 area coordinators took place Friday evening.

Newly elected state officers installed in a ceremony preceding the final presidents' and founders' banquet on Saturday evening included Sandy Whitney of El Paso.

Delta Kappa Gamma was founded in 1929 in Austin by Dr. Annie Webb Blanton, first woman president of the Texas State Teachers Association and the first woman elected to public office in Texas.

From the original dozen members, the organization now has chapters in 14 countries with a membership of over 176,000 women teachers on all levels from pre-kindergarten to university administrators.

The Society offers scholarships to its members for use in furthering their education and annually grants world fellowships to women in non-member countries to study in the university of their choice.

Local members attending included Georgia Pena, President of Epsilon Delta Chapter, Brenda Light, Virginia Bowers, and Jane Rudd.

Cats may be the key weapon against fighting Aids virus

COLLEGE STATION— They chase mice, play with balls of yarn and claw at the sofa, but researchers say household cats may also hold the key to a new weapon in the fight against AIDS.

A team of researchers in Texas A&M University's College of Veterinary Medicine are studying feline immunodeficiency virus (FIV), an organism that attacks cats' immune systems in much the same way the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) affects humans' immune systems to cause AIDS.

They hope to find ways to fight the feline disease that would also prove effective against the human one.

Nursing Home News

By Joy Stancell

Hi ho! Hi ho! and off to the mall we go. Thursday morning we loaded up on the First Baptist Van and other vehicles and drove off into the West Texas - New Mexico sun for an outing at the North Plains Mall.

After having a nice lunch at Personalities, we toured the mall, enjoying the latest fashion in Pennys, to the aquariums in Wal-Mart.

Our many thanks to all the fine folks that helped make this a special day — The First Baptist for the loan of their van, to all the "wheel chair pushers" and those who took their cars. Terri Brown, bus driver or chauffeur, Vikie

Hutton, Ruth Kitchens, Jessie, Viki, Clara Lou Jones, Robin, Scott, Chiki, Lanell, Joyline — Thank you!!

Saturday afternoon, Benny and Jean O'Brien hosted our bingo party.

Each Sunday morning the Muleshoe Church of Christ directs the Communion service, and Clara Lou Jones, teaches a Sunday school class.

Sunday afternoon the Calvary Baptist Church came to direct the church services and sing a long.

Tuesday afternoon, Susan Anderson, Lanell Stancell, Beverly Wagnon, Skeet Bradshaw and the activity department shampooed the ladies' hair and gave nail care.

The Muleshoe Church of Christ ladies baked and brought fruit cobblers and ice cream to serve the residents and staff, following the beauty shop.

Wednesday morning Buster Kittrell and Lois Killingsworth directed our music, song and devotional time.

Glenda Jennings and Jonessa Brockman directed our weekly sing-a-long-puppet show Wednesday afternoon. Benny and Jean O'Brien and Holly Millsap were special guests at the event.

We wish to welcome our new resident, she is Ruth Lackey, she was born in Oklahoma, Sept. 26, 1911; she is a member of the New Covenant Church. She is in room 84.

Rosia Sneed was visited by her sister, Friday.

Kathrine Rogers was visited by Clinton and Maxine Rogers and her grandchildren and great-grandchildren, Tuesday afternoon.

Guy Kendall was visited

Tuesday by Elsie Kendall and his daughter, Darla.

The monthly birthday party will be Thursday, August 24, at 3:30 p.m. Everyone is encouraged to come help the residents celebrate their birthdays.

We wish to thank the family of Cleta Williams for the beautiful bouquets of flowers, also the family of Gladys Darsey.

Safe school zones are responsibility of Adults

We've all heard the saying, "kids say the darnedest things!" Well, kids do the darnedest things, especially around school zones. With school starting up again, there's sure to be trouble afoot. Now is the time for drivers to start thinking about the dangers this presents.

Whether you drive in school zones once a year or work there every day, you can never forget certain lessons. One is that you have to use better judgment than the 7-year olds who surround you, according to Trooper C.B. Baiza, public information officer for the Texas Department of Public Safety.

"It's important to remember that kids aren't small adults, and they don't think like adults. They lack experience with traffic, and they don't always act logically. When you sound your horn, for instance, a child may think its okay to cross the street in front of your vehicle," Baiza added.

Children also have limited perceptual skills. Sometimes they can't even tell if your vehicle is in motion or stopped. They can't accurately judge the speed and distance of vehicles or detect safe gaps in traffic.

"Elementary school aged children often aren't tall enough to be seen on the other side of a parked car, or as they move between vehicles to cross the street when they're being picked up. School zones are not the time to light a cigarette or call the office on your car phone," Baiza says.

The key is to see children in time to avoid a collision. Search for curb to curb for kids who could enter your path. Everyone who enters the roadway is vulnerable to injury, but children on foot are even more at risk.

Many times the kid probably have their minds on school or friends, not on the vehicles moving around them. That means it's your job to be even more aware of what's going on around you. Since it's hard to predict kids' actions near schools, try to avoid these areas. Reroute your trip, if possible, to avoid peak drop-off and pick-up times and getting stuck behind a school bus.

However, if you can't avoid a drive through a school zone, the best strategy is to just slow down and stay alert. It's up to us to take precautionary steps to keep kids alive and safe.

Equipment training session
Sam Walls of C&H Equipment in Mulshoe attended a training session like this one in servicing the hydraulic and electrical systems found in 2100 Series Axial-Flow combines.

Early education critical to young children

Early education can be critical because of the amount of learning that takes place in the preschool years.

The Preschool Program for Children with Disabilities provides services for children ages 3-5. If you are aware of a child who is suspected of having a disability, please contact your local school district's special education department for information about screening and evaluation services at no cost.

Public schools in Texas provide for the special education of children who have a disability. Children with identified physical, mental, perceptual, speech, language, social and/or emotional disabilities may be eligible for the program.

Children with vision and/or hearing problems may be eligible for services beginning at birth. Districts will use information from a variety of sources to determine eligibility according to Texas Education Agency guidelines.

The services provided are developed by the Admission, Review and Dismissal Committee. This committee typically consists of the child's parents, an educator, and administrators and someone involved with the testing. Each child's program is individualized to meet the child's needs.

For additional information and/or referrals, contact the Special Education office in the Mulshoe High School building, 272-5239, Venida Collins, director.
