Early Spring Snows Leave 2.08 Inches of Moisture

I hope our politically-interested friends were watching the interview with Will Wilson, candidate for the U. S. Senate, on Tuesday night of this week. A panel composed of Louise Evans, Troy Martin, Ben Ezzell and Ray Cullen quizzed Mr. Wilson regarding his views on a number of subjects.

Under direct questioning by Martin, Mr. Wilson could not answer "yes" to the question, "Do you support the national Democratic platform?" When questioned as to whether he supports more of the platform than he does not, he answered that it is a very long platform and he could not answer that question.

If ever a candidate has squirmed before the very eyes of the tele-viewing audience, Mr. Wilson did.

It has been brought to our attention that if Jim Wright were elected to the U. S. Senate, another election would be necessary to fill the position he now holds. It should be pointed out that the election would involve only the people of his district, which I believe includes only one Texas county. This does not seem to be logical grounds for opposition.

It has also been pointed out to me that a schoolmate of Jim Wright's reported that Jim is not as good a candidate as he has been reported to be.

Well, I will admit that choosing a candidate from a field of complete strangers does pose a problem. We have to base our beliefs on what we learn from reliable sources. And we have noted in the Star Telegram glowing letters of praise for Jim Wright from some of those who know him personally.

It is always possible that there are those who will talk behind another's back, but the letters in the Star Telegram were all signed and published with the writers' names on them.

Jim Wright has been endorsed by many newspapers of the state, most influential of these being the Fort Worth Star Telegram and Fort Worth Press. In addition to this, the newsmen and women of Fort Worth have added their personal endorsements to those set forth by their bosses at the Star Telegram. Press and local radio and TV stations.

The newsmen report that Jim is one of the most cooperative candidates they have ever had the privilege to cover. They also report that he is probably one of the few candidates in history to refund campaign contributions in excess of actual campaign expenses.

Others who have endorsed Jim Wright in his campaign for the U. S. Senate are the Telephone Cooperatives of Texas, three former greats of the Texas gridiron, John Kimbrough, Marvin Lasater and Dan Bowden, as well as these news-papers: The Sherman Democrat, Temple Telegram, Hearne Democrat, Gatesville Register, The Tulia Herald, Dell City Review, Jacksboro Herald, Weatherford Democrat, Brownwood Bulletin, Mineola Monitor, Wood County Review, Moody Courier, and the Midlothian Mirror.

James D. Knight, Texas County Democratic Chairman, has announced his support for Jim Wright in the Senate race. This endorsement comes from the home city, San Antonio, of two of Jim Wright's primary opponents, Maverick and Gonzalez.

I won't say I'm never wrong. But if I've not chosen one of the best candidates in this Senate race, then there are a lot more across the state who missed the boat with me!

Silverton residents blinked and looked again last Sunday morning as they witnessed a snow landscape that would put the imagination of an artist to shame. An unruffled blanket of snow eight inches deep was spread over the ground, trees, shrubs, fences and utility wires. All objects were outlined with the wet, clinging snow. It was a breathless morning.

Snow, preceded by light rain, began falling in the early morning hours. A light fall of snow continued until mid-morning Sunday, disrupting services at some of the local churches.

Some of the snow melted as it fell. A high temperature reading of 39 in the early afternoon Sunday removed some of the snow, leaving the cover at about three to four inches by the time the thawing stopped.

Total moisture Sunday was 1.16 inches, according to Ray C. Bomar, who keeps the official measurement in Silverton. This was added to the .92 of an inch which was received Thursday night from four to five inches of snow which melted very quickly in the mild low temperatures. This gives us a total of 2.08 inches of moisture in the four-day period.

Since the first of December, we have received near thirty inches of snow which has netted us approximately three and a half to four inches of moisture.

There was snow on the ground when Spring made her official debut Monday afternoon. It was an unusual sight to behold the green trees and blooming fruit trees with a dazzling backdrop of snow.

Such an underground season as long-time Plains residents have seldom seen awaits this year's crops. The snow of the past week was excellent on pastures, wheat, alfalfa and fields in general. It has been reported that the snow has halted the green bug population which had threatened the wheat crop. Some farmers are not as far along with listing and other preparations as they would like to be at this time of the year, but the ground will dry fairly fast in the warm weather which is following the snows.

The snow clung to trees, weighting branches to the ground and breaking off many. Chinese elms were in the seed stage and foliage was emerging. The new cover gave the snow a surface on which to cling and many elm branches were broken.

Traffic was not impeded here, as the highway department employees were at work very early, clearing streets, highways, and the farm-to-market roads of the snow. The highway employees have performed a great service to motorists in this area this winter.

The snow quickly turned into slush and began melting into the already-wet earth.

The Young Adults Class of the First Methodist Church in Silverton had their St. Patrick's Day Party in the community room of the Production Credit Association office last Friday night.

Several people who are participating in the Great Plains Conservation Program have had fine results this winter with rye cover crops. Jack Edens, whose place is in the Antelope Community, overseeded his cotton with rye in late July, 1960. His rye was seeded primarily as a cover crop and soil improving crop. Edens was by the SCS office the other day and mentioned another very beneficial use of his rye.

He has grazed about twenty-five cows and their calves on his approximately seventy acres of rye from November until the present. He states that the cows and calves are fat and have had no other feed in addition to the rye pasture.

R. L. Salman, also of the Antelope Community, has grazed his rye cover crop with similar results. Of course, the rye on Edens and Salman places have served their purposes as a cover crop and soil improving crop.

Others who planted rye cover crops last fall, include R. L. Brunson, on his home place and on the Paul Hamilton place, O. V. Johnson, Will Currie and Theo Giesler.

The Cap Rock Soil Conservation District has a broadcast seeder which can be attached to the tractor at the last cultivation on cotton, and overseed the rye. By seeding the rye early, there is nearly always assurance of getting a good stand for a cover and soil improving crop. And, as Edens has well demonstrated, rye can be a very valuable crop from the standpoint of grazing value.

There were ten present to enjoy Sue's refreshments at the close of the study.

ALL AROUND THE TOWN

A problem has come to the publishers of the Briscoe County News which has been hashed by newspapers in several other nearby towns recently. This past weekend we received a questionnaire from an advertising agency in Lubbock that is interested in placing advertisements in our newspaper for several liquor stores.

The problem that arises herewith has been decided by several of our neighboring newspapers. At the time that the Nazareth precinct was voted wet, the Happy Herald began carrying the liquor advertising and on a number of occasions I have observed that a large part of that paper's income for the week was from the liquor stores. At the same time, the Tullia Herald soundly denounced advertising liquor and refused all such advertisements which were offered.

With the coming of the liquor stores to the Lubbock area, the battlefield has moved into the Ralls, Lorenzo, Crosbyton and Petersburg areas.

The Ralls Banner has been condemned by a number of readers who believe the editor is promoting "liquor traffic" in the community for "blood money."

In our personal opinion, carrying an advertisement for liquor would be no different than carrying advertising for an automobile that we happen to dislike or a food product that we did not care for.

Our business is providing and selling advertising space. In the columns of our newspaper we may carry political advertising for a number of candidates the same week. We are neither endorsing a candidate by accepting his advertising nor are we being "fickle" when we accept it from all the candidates. Wouldn't we be just as wrong to refuse to carry a particular candidate's advertising because of our personal feelings toward him?

Not too long ago we accepted advertising from a steel building company. Whether as a result of the newspaper advertising or as a result of the company's salesmen's efforts, I do not know, but a Briscoe County farmer hired this company to erect such a building on his farm. When the construction was completed, he began to fill the building with grain and no sooner had he begun the operation than the end of the building gave way and it and a portion of the roof collapsed. He is having much difficulty getting a settlement.

Would you consider that we were responsible for this trouble?

By the same token, could we possibly be responsible for the broken lives that could result from the consumption of liquor?

We would no more be endorsing a product or accepting responsibility for it by running its advertising than we would for any other of the thousands of products that are advertised in our newspaper each year.

Being young in the newspaper field it is very hard for us to turn down anyone's advertising dollars. The only reason we would do so would be for the sake of good will in the community.

Do you think it is necessary to turn down income which would be honestly earned in exchange for advertising to avoid the criticism of those who would say that we are promoting its use in our community?

FORMER RESIDENT INJURED IN AUTO-TRUCK CRASH

Cleve Diviney, 33, of Burlington, Iowa, was very seriously injured in an accident involving the English Ford he was driving and a large diesel truck. The truck driver was injured less seriously but both vehicles were badly damaged.

Cleve, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Diviney, of Burlington, was born here and spent most of his childhood in this community.

Mrs. Jake Penn of Lubbock and Mrs. Watson Douglas went to Burlington early last week to be with their sister, Mrs. W. T. Diviney, and other relatives. Mrs. Douglas returned home Sunday, but Mrs. Penn remained for a longer visit.

Cleve's condition is slightly improved, but he is still in serious condition.

Bill Watters, who recently broke his hip and heel in a fall, went to Plainview for a checkup on Tuesday. They removed the cast from his foot, and advised that the heel and hip are both doing fine. He will not be allowed to put his weight on either for a while. Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Crow took Bill for the checkup.

Battle Beyond The Andes

Peru Launches Jungle War Against Malaria

Beyond the Andes lies a part of Peru little known to outsiders — la selva, the jungle country on the western fringe of the great Amazon Basin. Unlike the central highlands, this remote region boasts no famous sites of empire or battle. The pre-Columbian Incas spread their dominions along the Andean ridges and Simon Bolivar's liberating armies sealed the Republic's independence in the mountain meadows. Yet it is in the selva that the Peruvian army is now at war with an enemy more entrenched than any the Incas or Bolivar faced in the Andes. The enemy is malaria.

Malaria has been a major problem here since the time of the conquistadores. Many experts hold it accountable for the region's under-development. For though it makes up 56 per cent of the national territory, the selva holds but 800,000 of Peru's 11 million citizens and as never pulled its own weight within the country's economy. All that is changing now, however, thanks to an agreement between the army's "Jungle Brigade" and the National Malaria Service whereby the soldiers put aside rifles and took up sprayguns. This campaign's aim is not merely to reduce the number of malaria cases within the selva, but to eradicate the disease once and for all from the entire area. The soldiers are now spraying with residual insecticides all surfaces where the Anopheles mosquitoes that spread malaria are likely to bite humans. The object is not to kill off all anophelines, an impossible task, but to kill those carrying the malaria parasite before they have a chance to pass it from one human to another and thus to break the disease's chain of transmission. Reaching their targets is one of the toughest jobs facing the soldiers-turned-spraymen. Houses in the selva are few and far between and the vast rain forests are cut only by streams and rivers. So the soldiers rely heavily on motor launches, outboards and even canoes for transportation. Assisted by the Pan American Health Organization, the World Health Organization, the United Nations Children's Fund, and the United States International Cooperation Administration, Peru hopes to complete its jungle war by 1966. Then the selva will be free of an old and deadly enemy and a rich slice of territory will be open to greater development.

HOW TO STUDY THE BIBLE

"It is pre-eminently necessary that we come to the study of the Bible without prejudice. It must be treated honestly by being approached with an open mind. I earnestly plead for this open mind, believing that wherever the Book is given its opportunity of producing its own impression, it will win a singular victory.

"The Bible should be studied when the mind is freshest and most acute. Continuous study is also necessary; the patient persistence which avoids hasty decisions, and is content to work and watch and wait. I do not hesitate to affirm that the Bible demands more diligence than any other literature.

"No man is in any sense a Bible student who takes up the Bible and reads it by a method which can only be described as haphazard. The system should be from general to particular, from extensive to intensive.

"The student must approach the study of the Bible in that attitude of mind which says, "If it speaks to me, I will obey."

"The way to study the Bible is to read to think, to work. Such study inevitably makes appeal to conscience. Let the life be submitted to the truth which has been discovered; and then by all means let there be instant obedience, for by this method alone can we be prepared for new unveilings; and by this method the Bible will become, as the days go on, more and more full of value, and full of delight.

FEATHER YOUR NEST FOR SPRING

By JANE ASHLEY

Just as surely as birds fly north in the springtime, women get an urge to perk up their homes. Suddenly, curtains and slipcovers look dull, faded, drab or limp. Now is certainly the time to refresh and renew, especially ruffly window treatments which may have become grayed by winter's gloom.

Nylon and other synthetics (except glass fibers) take to tinting beautifully. Just think how pretty your curtains would be picking up a gay color from the room's color scheme. Pale pink, perhaps, or pale yellow?

To begin, launder the curtains according to the manufacturer's directions, then use all purpose dye (Rit) to tint them right in your washing machine being careful to follow the simple directions that come in every package. After dyeing, starch them right in the washing machine, too. Just reset the machine for deep or final rinse and add a 12 oz. box of instant cold water starch.

The makers of the starch, Niagara, say this gives a nice even crisp appearance to the average washer load of these curtains. For a very stiff finish, of course more starch is needed. In addition, starched curtains stay clean longer because they shed dust and, because the dirt that does cling stays on the surface, they will wash out cleaner, too.

If you line dry your washing, remember to smooth out wrinkles, straighten edges, and square corners. Should small patches of excess starch appear on the material, blot them with a clean, dry cloth. If drying in an automatic dryer, use clean, dry terry towels as buffers and remove the curtains while still slightly damp to avoid deep wrinkles.

When ironing, use a steam iron only if it has a special setting for synthetics. Otherwise use a dry iron at the lowest setting. Do the ruffles first and keep a small damp sponge handy to use on patches that dry too fast.

DON'T DEplete YOUR LAND!

INCREASE CROP YIELD
MAINTAIN SOIL FERTILITY
WITH ARMOUR FERTILIZERS

Investment in proper fertilization pays two ways. First, good fertilization increases crop production, and can return up to $3 for every $1 invested. Second, it improves soil fertility, the land's most valuable asset.

Every crop harvested and removed from the land takes large quantities of the vital plant food elements necessary to grow good crops. Among these are nitrogen—which gives dark green color to plants and produces rapid growth, phosphorus—which stimulates early root formation and growth and gives plants a rapid and vigorous start—and potassium—which imparts increased vigor and disease resistance, and many valuable minor and trace elements as well. If this plant food is not replaced, soil fertility is depleted, and both yield and quality of future crops suffer.

This chart indicates generally the amount of each major element removed from the soil by a characteristic yield of a key crop:

CROP	YIELD	Pounds of Plant Food Removed*
		NITROGEN	PHOSPHATE	POTASH
CORN (grain & stover)	100 bushels	90	55	25
	3 tons	70	25	95
COTTON (lint and seed) (stalks, leaves, and burrs)	1500 lbs.	40	20	15
	2000 lbs.	65	10	35
WHEAT (grain & straw)	40 bushels	60	25	15
	1.5 tons	80	5	35
MILO (grain & stover)	60 bushels	60	25	15
	1.5 tons	65	20	35

Weight Watching in Europe

Calorie Counting Needn't Spoil the Fun of Travel Abroad

Only a really cockeyed optimist would describe Europe as the place to go to lose weight. Still fear of a disappearing waistline need not spoil your trip abroad. For, according to Mile Sabena, Women's Advisor for SABENA Belgian World Airlines, who keeps in close touch with the continental calorie situation, there are many ways to stay trim and still sample Europe's tastiest dishes.

To begin with, some of Europe's best-known national delicacies are obligingly non-fattening. Beefsteak, for example, is a favorite food in Belgium where salads of great ripe tomatoes and crisp greens — including, of course, Belgian endive — are good enough to enjoy with just lemon juice.

England's famous Dover sole, tastefully grilled, costs only a hundred calories per portion.

Wherever you find it, seafood is a fine caloric buy. All for 100 calories you can savor 15 to 20 good-sized Greek shrimp or 30 of the smaller pink Danish variety. It takes 8 of Dublin Bay's fabulous oysters or a dozen of Portugal's tiny fresh clams to bring the count up to 100. One tasty Scottish crab accounts for 75 calories; so do two fine French frog legs. For dessert, one orange from Seville or two juicy pears from Anjou make a 100 calorie portion.

You can sip in European cafes at reasonable caloric cost, too. Instead of Scotch or Bourbon (both hard to find and expensive when you do), at 80 or 90 calories per ounce or an apt-to-be sweet martini at 160, try a glass of vermouth or white wine at 75. Club soda adds only 5 calories to an ounce of wine (25) and the result is tall, dry and thirst-quenching. You can linger over a Spanish sherry at a mere 60 calories, quaff 8 ounces of British ale for 130.

And a leisurely lemonade on a warm French afternoon costs only 75 calories.

If you prefer exercise to keep in shape, Europe offers a number of possibilities. There's bicycling, of course, which is not so much an amusement as a serious-minded means of transportation. It is very chic to ride horseback in Paris' Bois or along Britain's country lanes. Canoeing is big in France; swimming, on the rivers of Italy, France, Spain and Portugal; tennis, in all of Europe. Rugged sorts can try mountain-climbing in Norway or Switzerland. Golf is the game in Scotland.

When it comes to less active methods of shaping up, the Finnish have their sauna, a sort of super steam bath topped off with an icy plunge in water or snow; it's invigorating and reducing once you get used to it. One pleasant common-sense note for dieters abroad: while it is admirable to keep your figure in line, it is sheer folly to miss the great dishes of Europe. You should taste at least one true French soufflé, give in at least once to the temptations of Danish smørrebrød. Skip the butter with breakfasts for mornings to come, but learn how delicious fettuccini can be in Rome.

And when you have on-the-spot questions about restaurants, whether 'grand gourmet' or health bar the Mile Sabena on duty at SABENA desks across the continent will be pleased to help.

Mrs. Dan Montague has had as visitors her sister, Mrs. Ed Slaughter of Trinidad, Colorado, and Mr. and Mrs. James Micklejohn and family of Raton, New Mexico over the weekend.

Mrs. Bruce Womack has been brought home from the Tullia hospital and seems to be improving satisfactorily.

ARENA DRIVE IN

"GO NAKED IN THE WORLD"

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY

March 23 and 24

Moviegoers will see a redheaded Gina Lollobrigida in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's romantic drama, "Go Naked in the World," in which she stars with Anthony Franciosa and Ernest Borgnine.

Director Randal Mac Dougall had Gina tested in the new hair color for the CinemaScope and color production and the tests turned out so sensationally that he decided to have her keep her hair red.

It marks the first time Miss Lollobrigida has appeared on the screen in anything but her own raven black hair.

Gina received the "royal" treatment, with $50,000 worth of furs highlighting her sumptuous Helen Rose wardrobe for this picture.

Among the furs are a full-length silver-blue mink coat, a chinchilla jacket, black-fox muff, white ermine wrap, grey-fox scarf and a nutria cape.

The furs supplement a luxurious collection of 26 changes, among them a figure-hugging, hand-beaded dress which alone cost $6,000!

"FIVE GUNS WEST"

SATURDAY

March 25

An action packed western thriller is scheduled to be shown at the Arena Drive In next Saturday night.

Starring John Lund and Dorothy Malone, "Five Guns West" is produced in wide screen color.

Don't fail to see this saga of the old west.

"NORTH TO ALASKA"

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

March 26 and 27

John Wayne, six foot four-inch 220 pound athlete, starring in "North to Alaska," new 20th Century-Fox CinemaScope DeLuxe Color epic of Alaska goldrush days, is a man's man on movie sets.

A veteran of some of the biggest action money makers in film history, Wayne believes that an actor ought to know as much about the mechanics of picture production as every other member of the crew. Producer of some 18 independent films of his own, he is reputed to be an expert on camera techniques lighting, staging and directing. In between his own ventures as a movie-maker, he "rests" by taking acting assignments with the major studios.

In "North to Alaska" Wayne plays the lead role of hardboiled big-hearted gold-lusting adventurer, Sam McCord, a partner in a hard-won mining stake at Nome in the year 1900. Capable of fighting for everything he wants, he comes into conflict with his partner and best friend in a contest for the love of a honky-tonk dazler named Michelle (Capucine). Wayne delivers one of the most vigorous performances of his career, as he struggles to keep a fair balance between his own roaring ambitions as gold-miner and lover and his loyalty to his long-time buddy, George Pratt, (Stewart Granger) with whom he has shared the dangers, the crises, the heartbreak and the victory of fortune-hunting in the snow-bound wilderness.

Surprising side-light on Wayne's private life: he is one of Hollywood's most meticulously tailored for his social gallantry, his polite talk and his savoir-faire. This public favorite who has made his career-name as a swashbuckling man of action, is at home in a foreign embassy, on the yacht of an international banker, at a "high society" debut.

GOOD NEWS FOR FARMERS

Now you can use your regular lister bottom (lister point and wings) on the Cline "W" planter instead of the point and modified wing as has been used in the past.

Cline Industries have developed a new shoe attachment for the Cline "W" Planter so it is possible for you to use your regular lister bottom on the planter now.

These SHOE ATTACHMENTS will enable you to plant uniform straight rows and eliminate trash trouble.

These attachments can be bought from your Cline "W" planter dealer for a nominal cost and can be put on Cline "W" planters you have bought in the past. The advantage of planting with a Cline "W" Planter are:

1. Provides water furrows to keep standing water and crusting soil away from seed row.
2. Firms moist soil close around seeds.
3. Has center ridge to protect seedlings from wind and wind blown soil.
4. Warms up faster than bottom of furrow planting. (This enables earlier planting and earlier maturing cotton.)
5. Presents no difficulty for early cultivation.
6. Will not dry out any more or as much as bottom of lister furrow planting with conventional planters.
7. It gives more uniform stands for satisfactory mechanical harvesting.
