Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street length dress of white lace fashioned with fitted bodice, three quarter length sleeves and bouffant skirt. Her bouquet of white carnations, edged with pleated blue satin and net with white satin streamers with lover's knot festoons, was carried atop a white Bible.

A reception was held in the home immediately following the ceremony. The bride's chosen colors were used in refreshment table decor and refreshments. The table was laid with a white lace cloth over blue. The wedding cake was white with blue decoration and a miniature bride and groom

Jerry Sue Sweek served the cake and Cheryl Cowart poured punch. Jean Green registered the guests.
