Governor John Connally spiked increasing rumors of a "near future" special legislative session on congressional redistricting and made clear that he plans to await the decision of a federal court on this touchy issue.

In a specially-called press conference, the Governor also emphasized his support for poll tax repeal. He said "chaos" will result at the polls if the state constitutional amendment is rejected and the Federal amendment to ban the poll tax requirement for voting in presidential and congressional elections is ratified.

Connally was in Washington this week to discuss U. S. financing of the screwworm eradication program, oil imports, forest lands around Toledo Bend Dam, the Jefferson County seawall project, and possibility of a national park in the Guadalupe Mountain Peak area.

He said that President Kennedy may come to Texas on or about November 21-22.

Connally indicated no surprise at a recent statewide Belden poll which showed that 61 per cent of the voters interviewed approved of the way he is running his office. That's an increase of seven per cent since May. Survey revealed that Mexican-American, Negro and labor representatives liked the Governor by about the same percentage as other voters.

Redistricting Suit Heard

A federal court took under advisement a Republican group's suit for Texas congressional re-apportionment. Suit alleges discrimination against big cities in present representation.

Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr argued that the U. S. Supreme Court has furnished the Legislature no real guidelines for carving out new districts.

Rep. Menton Murray of Harlingen, chairman of the House committee on Congressional and Legislative Districts, testified that this was a key factor in the Legislature's failure to re-district this year.

Await Federal Action

Carr told newsmen he plans to take speedy action to enforce the Texas Communist registration law after the federal government winds up its present proceedings against John W. Stanford, jr., of San Antonio.

U. S. Subversive Control Board held lengthy hearings on alleged Communist Stanford's activities at the request of U. S. Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy.

Stanford refused to register under either State or Federal Communist control laws. Recently he wrote President Kennedy: "The government has no business telling me what my politics should be."

Tribute to Garrison

Col. Homer Garrison, jr., received a surprise tribute on his 25th anniversary as director of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Said Sec. of State Crawford C. Martin, representing the Governor at the program honoring Garrison: "It is a tremendous job protecting the lives and property of the people of Texas. We Texans are very fortunate in having a tremendous man to do the job over the past quarter of a century."

Crisis Period Ahead

Following a meeting of leaders in the screwworm program, Dolph Briscoe, jr., of Uvalde, predicted the eradication drive will face perhaps its most crucial test within the next 30 to 60 days.

Screwworm cases were reported in the Big Bend area, Wilson, Kinney, Medina, Bandera, Dimmit, Maverick, Edwards, Frio, Val Verde, and Zavala counties.

Program leaders called for early drops of more sterile flies in the areas hardest hit. Also establishment of a federally-financed "barrier" zone 200 miles deep into Mexico to block continued migrations of screwworm flies across the border.

Disaster Areas Proclaimed

President Kennedy notified Governor Connally that he has declared the zone hit by Hurricane Cindy on September 16 as a "major disaster" area. He also advised that damages are being surveyed by federal government representatives to determine assistance requirements. President Kennedy pledged "all possible assistance in the rehabilitation of the area."

Health Report

Only 49 cases of polio had been reported to the State Health Department by mid-month.

Veneral disease is on the upswing in Texas. By September 14, a total of 21,405 cases of gonorrhea had been reported, compared to 1962's high of 20,086. Syphilis cases totaled 4,156, compared to 3,562 at this point last year.

Ogallala

A vast underground water reservoir, which supplies irrigation and municipal water for all or part of 48 counties in West Texas, was the subject of a two-day hearing before the Texas Water Pollution Control Board.

Water districts in the area from Dalhart to Odessa asked the board to outlaw the use of open, unlined salt-water disposal pits by oil and gas operators. Their experts contend that the salt seeps into the underground formation, contaminating the water.

Oilmen were concerned that the Pollution Control Board might set up regulations for the use of salt water disposal wells which would replace the pits as a means of getting rid of the water. They want supervision of their operations to remain under the Railroad Commission.

Board delayed hearing until November 20, to give the oil industry time to make suggestions for curbing the problem.

Rainmaking Agency Proposed
 Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler thinks the State should have an official rainmaking agency. He says he has discussed the subject with the Governor and hopes to soon have a "concrete proposal to offer."

The Land Commissioner feels that his success with several cloud-seeding experiments warrants serious consideration of a rainmaking agency.

Drought Posing Problems
 Texas, with 53 reservoirs completed since 1950 and 12 more under construction, needs a stronger water development program says Governor Connally.

He proposes that the State harness surplus flood water for the protection of persons and property in areas which have too much water, then transport it to areas which have too little.

"We have the water resources to meet future demands. But only if they are properly developed, conserved and managed," the Governor stated.

According to the Texas Water Commission, reservoirs in the state stand at 65 per cent of capacity. That's nine per cent less than last year at this time. As of the end of August (before Hurricane Cindy) streamflow was deficient for the entire state.

Football Teaches Interdependence

With a proper attitude football can be a source of satisfaction, providing a sense of accomplishment and a feeling of fellowship. The football player learns about interdependence (if the line let go the back wouldn't get very far). This characteristic alone is one of football's greatest values.

The football player becomes a symbol for the great traditions of the many fine schools across the land. As this symbol, he accepts a great responsibility to live the part which the public expects. In order to do this he must constantly seek to build himself toward certain characteristics, morality, unselfishness, integrity, reputation, loyalty, sense of responsibility, word of honor, politeness, courtesy and respect.

This is a great responsibility, but the football player has the opportunity to develop himself, and consequently becomes better qualified for future life.

Football has many values to others as well—but none are so valued as those bestowed upon the participant.

In an academic institution the football field is a laboratory of life, which, added to the classroom knowledge one develops during his term of study, makes a well-rounded citizen.

Many of the values learned on the football field, determination, courage, ambition, cooperation, can, and are, transferred to later life, and therefore it is imperative that the lessons be learned well.

The foundation must have as its base a sound academic background. An athlete must meet the standards set by the academic institution for entrance and must continue to meet the standards during his school career. The scholar who is also an athlete often studies much harder than the boy who does not participate

SOMEBODY WAS WRONG

If you have confidence in yourself and your potential abilities, don't let anyone talk you out of them, suggests an item in MacLean's Magazine, Toronto.

F. W. Woolworth, founder of the five-and-dime chain, was once hired as a janitor for fifty cents a day by a retail store owner who didn't think Woolworth had enough business sense to wait on customers.

When Zane Grey was still an unknown trying to sell his book manuscripts, a publisher told him he had no ability for writing fiction; and Louisa May Alcott, author of Little Women and other famed works, was a tomboy marked by her fellow townspeople as a girl would never amount to much. A publisher once told her to give up the idea of writing.

The first time George Gershwin ever played the piano on stage, he was laughed out of the theater by both the audience and his fellow actors.

Albert Einstein's teachers classified him as a dunce, and even his parents thought him backward.

And when Thomas A. Edison was in school, he was always at the foot of his class because he couldn't remember his three R's. His teachers called him stupid, and doctors predicted that he would have serious brain trouble.

in athletics. For the boy who is not out for sports does not have that added incentive to pass his work, is not penalized when he fails to make a passing mark, and sometimes had rather drop out of school than continue failing.

Athletics serve to spur the boy who is less interested in scholastic achievement because he must pass in order to continue to play. And, later in life when he realizes how much his education means to him, he will be glad that he tried a little harder and did not become a drop-out statistic.

Keeping pace with academic development, the football player must dedicate himself to the hard work which a physical contact sport demands.

And on his graduation from this school of learning, he is able to meet his responsibilities in a manner becoming a man who is morally, mentally and physically strong and alert.

New Hot Check Law For Texas

On August 24, 1963, in the State of Texas, a new hot check law with teeth in it went into effect. This law is like the two-edged sword because it cuts both ways. The law was passed by the last session of the Texas Legislature and is an amendment to the Texas law governing fraudulent checks.

The law imposes much stiffer penalties and provides for much more effective enforcement than in the past. Not only does the new law cut deep when dealing with givers of hot checks but its two-way bite also imposes a penalty on businessmen . . . and others . . . who attempt to use the state's law enforcement machinery as a collection agency, by filing hot check charges against offenders and then, having collected the money

ANYONE FOR GOLF?

Willard Waterman, who was "The Great Gildersleeve" on radio and TV, stars as the golf-playing tycoon in "How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying." The award-winning musical comedy will be presented in Dallas Oct. 4-20 during the 1963 State Fair of Texas.

or made satisfactory settlement, refuse to prosecute or try to have the charges dismissed.

Under the law, any person who files hot check charges and then "requests or suggests dismissal of charges after filing" is guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to a fine of not less than $100 and not more than $500. In other words, don't bluff: if you file on a hot check, you'll have to go through with it.

By far the sharpest side of the two-edged sword will be turned toward the offender. For the first offender whose check is less than $50, the penalty on conviction will be not more than two years in the county jail and not more than $1,000 fine. On second conviction for hot checks "under $50" the penalty becomes not less than 30 days and not more than two years in the county jail, and fines not exceeding $2,000.

For third and subsequent offenses, the matter is a felony and the penalty if convicted is not less than two years nor more than ten years in the state penitentiary.

If a hot check is given for over $50, the first offense is a felony and the penalty is not less than two years . . . nor more than ten . . . in the penitentiary.

The new law also provides for more effective enforcement of the law with a new provision which provides that "all prosecutions and process serving" on any hot check case shall be the same as if the offense were of felony grade . . . which means that hot-checkers who dodge across state lines can be extradited . . . and compensation of witnesses at a trial shall be the same as if the offense were of felony grade.

This is intended to make it easier to bring the paper-hangers back to face trial . . . and easier to bring witnesses to the courtroom to testify against them. It's all a part of a movement to put under the check-writer as he puts on the check.

Soybean Price Support Rates Set

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced 1963-crop soybean county support rates. It also changed the 1964 maturity date for 1963-crop soybean loans from May 31 to July 31.

The change in loan maturity date will give farmers with soybeans more time in the final period of the marketing season in which to judge sales possibilities.

Record domestic and export demand for soybeans has been maintaining market prices well above price support loan levels. In the absence of reasonable price supports, however, production of soybeans might fall behind the increase in demand as it did in 1960 after a period of low price support and low prices. Instead, the encouragement being given to increased production by means of price support has enabled producers to fill increasing market needs. In turn, better prices for increased production have helped provide substantial increases in the level of farm income.

The 1963 crop rates are based on the announced national average support price of $2.25 per bushel, unchanged from the average 1962 price support level.

The method followed in determining the 1963 crop county rate is the same as in previous years; however, increases of one to three cents per bushel have been made in some areas so as to more accurately reflect prices received by farmers there in recent years.

Factors influencing the farm price for soybeans in areas for which changes are made include favorable location for the export of beans or development of a stronger market based on increased production and processing capacity.

An increase of two cents per bushel is made in statewide support rates of Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North and South Carolina, and Alabama, and a one-cent increase in Georgia.

An increase of from one to three cents per bushel is made for about 90 counties close to the Mississippi River in the states of Missouri, Kentucky, Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana.

These states, except for Missouri, formerly had uniform statewide rates.

Terminal rates are not established for soybeans. No change is being made in the premium and discount schedule for soybeans.

Except for moisture content, which cannot be more than 14 per cent, minimum requirements for support eligibility correspond to requirements for Grade No. 4 soybeans.

Price support will be carried out as in the past through farm- and warehouse-storage loans and purchase agreements. Loans and purchase agreements will be available from harvest through January 31, 1964. Maturity date for loans will be July 31, 1964.

Copies of the county rates are being sent to State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.
