The public is invited to hear Ralph Nafser of Plainview, a candidate for State Representative, and Frank Hinkson of Muleshoe, a candidate for United States Congressman in Silverton on Thursday, April 16.

"Give me the good old days." It sounds a little strange in this day and space age to hear this expression used. There may be some things from the "good old days" that would be best kept in our modern society, but for the most part I think these days which we are presently living are "good old days."

American farmers have a special interest in the fact that the world's population is growing at the rate of about 50 million per year. This special interest, of course, lies in the ever-increasing demand there will be for food.

For instance, some authorities estimate that, by the year 2000, world requirements for meats and animal products will be 190 per cent higher than today.

Livestock disease control is going to be one of the notable ways in which we can meet these increased meat production needs. In fact, the current drive to eradicate hog cholera may point the way to drives against other diseases which are costing our farmers such a heavy toll of meat animals. In this cholera eradication effort, farmers and veterinarians are jointly meeting a challenge which may have far-reaching effects.

Thus far, fine progress is being made in the cholera eradication program. But, there is room for improvement in at least one phase of the drive—vaccination.

Here we have fallen behind. At least 75 per cent of the nation's swine herds need to be vaccinated to provide a shield against widespread outbreaks of cholera. However, this year, less than 50 per cent of our hog herds have been vaccinated.

Another important point—proper vaccination isn't just a routine procedure. Pigs need to be examined by a veterinarian, to make sure they are in proper condition to develop immunity. The right type of vaccine also needs to be determined. Then, and only then, is the veterinarian ready to vaccinate.

With the peak season for fall hog cholera outbreaks not far away, swine producers should mark their calendars to have pigs vaccinated in ample time to provide solid immunity against this No. 1 hog killer.

The present cholera eradication drive may well point the way to the future.

JIM LANGDON—A WINNER!

Railroad Commissioner Jim Langdon is a 49-year-old native Texan with a winning record in public office. When John Connally appointed him to the Railroad Commission, the Governor said:

"I have for several weeks been attempting to find a man I consider to have outstanding ability, integrity and honor... I am happy we have found that man—Judge Jim C. Langdon."

Jim Langdon has fully lived up to Governor Connally's expectations. He has conducted his office in the spirit of Governor Jim Hogg, who had the Commission set up in 1891 to look after the public interest in railroad and freight rates. It now regulates also truck and bus rates and the production of oil and gas. Judge Langdon will continue to keep transportation rates in line and see to it that our oil reserves are protected against waste and greed. This will help keep down Texas gasoline prices, already among the lowest in the nation.

Jim Langdon was elected District Judge twice and re-elected Chief Justice of the El Paso Court of Civil Appeals.

ON THE OTHER HAND—

Jim Langdon's Opponent Is a 10-Time Loser!

Jesse Owens, 69-year-old attorney, is still running for office after 38 years and TEN DEFEATS. He has lost the following races:

- 1926—Defeated for Sheriff of Foard County by L. D. Campbell.
- 1930—Defeated for District Attorney by John Meyers.
- 1932—Defeated for District Attorney by Ed Gossett.
- 1940—Defeated for District Attorney by T. Gene Rogers.
- 1946—Defeated for Court of Criminal Appeals by Tom L. Beauchamp.
- 1952—Defeated for Court of Criminal Appeals by K. K. Woodley.
- 1956—Defeated for Court of Criminal Appeals by W. A. Morrison.
- 1958—Defeated for District Judge by Tom Davis.
- 1960—Defeated for Court of Civil Appeals by James Denton.
- 1962—Defeated for Texas Supreme Court by Meade F. Griffin.

LIVE A LITTLE LONGER

Today, because of the tremendous improvements made in medicine and prescription pharmaceuticals during the past few years, there are over two million Americans living who, without these advances, would not be living.

In the prescription you buy today, you are often buying cures where, in the past, only temporary relief was available. This is resulting in a longer life expectancy for all Americans. Average life expectancy is now over 70 years.

The average prescription costs about $3.25. In the minds of many people, this is a modest price to pay for the world's highest health standards.

Natural Born Tinkerer...

Farm Boy's Favorite Toy—1935 Tractor

Off with a roar. To start the 1935 tractor, Rollin and his 13-year-old brother, Roy, wind a length of rope around the belt pulley and yank. Though not recommended, the method works.

HUTCHINS, TEX. — Like many youngsters, 15-year-old Rollin Heifrin is a natural born tinkerer. Give him a shiny new set of wrenches, and chances are you'll find him a little while later trying them out on his favorite "toy"—a farm tractor, vintage 1935.

In 1962 he found it parked in the weeds on some land he had rented for grazing the Heifrin family's three horses. Spade lugs for the tractor's big iron wheels were found in a nearby shed. He put them on and spent a month reconditioning the 29-year-old rig with the help of local garage mechanic, Billie Schultz.

Even his mother pitched in to help him find odd parts such as square bolts.

"With the new coat of paint I just gave it, the old Allis-Chalmers looks pretty good," said Rollin. "It runs good, too, except that the transmission must be worn because it seems to 'hang' in third gear."

In Milwaukee, Wis., the manufacturer dug out an old operator's manual and parts book from its archives to make it easier for him to work on the tractor.

Rollin has a unique way of starting the engine. Instead of using the hand crank to turn it over, he winds a 10-foot length of rope around the belt pulley, and then pulls hard and fast to fire the engine. Though highly unconventional, the method works.

With the old tractor, Rollin and his 13-year-old brother, Roy, farm 97 acres of rented land. Earnings from crops of oats, wheat and hay, and from the sheep and cattle they graze are put aside for their education.

Born in Weatherford, Tex., Rollin's interests in farming dates back to a dairy farm his father, Roy, owned near Hutchins. Since moving to rural Hutchins, the youngster is extremely active in 4-H Club work. He was chosen one of the top three boys in Dallas County, which has about 2,500 4-H members.

His father now manages the grain elevator at Lancaster. Rollin has an older sister, Kathlene, 17.

Darrell Brown, assistant (Dallas) county agricultural agent, says of Rollin: "Chances are that he will go to the top in almost anything he makes up his mind to do."

His vocational agriculture instructor at Wilmer-Hutchins high school believes he is one of the best students he has had in 21 years of teaching.

Besides being able to maintain the antique Allis-Chalmers tractor in top shape, Rollin is also a good driver. He took first place in the Dallas county tractor driving contest in 1963, and went on to place second in the 19-county district meet. He ranked 10th in the state contest and was the youngest entrant.

Rollin takes special pride in a limerick he wrote for an English class:

I love my tractor with all my heart,
I hope that we will never part.
The engine it misses,
It fires and hisses
I just hope that next time it will start!

Only 29 years old and still going strong. Discussing fine points of the antique tractor are Rollin Heifrin and Darrell Brown, assistant (Dallas) county agent and 4-H counselor. Resurrected from a weed patch, the Allis-Chalmers model is used in Rollin's farm operation.

Teach Children To Dial Zero For Help In An Emergency

Small children should know and trust the telephone operator as much as they do the corner policeman, and should turn to the operator in the event of an emergency.

Extension Service specialists at Texas A & M University say that although pre-school youngsters can't be expected to memorize long telephone numbers, they can be taught one rule: If an accident happens, dial zero, tell the operator what is wrong, and she will help you.

A child should be taught, however, that he is to dial zero only in emergencies, say Bobye Riney, Extension rural civil defense specialist, and Patsy Reynolds, family life education specialist.

One five-year-old's plaintive message to the operator was "My Mommie's asleep and won't wake up —and there's a fire in our house." After a little prodding, the operator learned the boy's name and address and called the fire department. Firemen rushed to the address, found the house on fire, and the mother knocked out by sleeping pills. Both survived, thanks to the child's action and the operator's help.

Another youngster whose mother fell through a floor and was trapped, went directly to the telephone and dialed zero. He could not remember his daddy's name or where he lived, but he rattled off the name and address of his grandparents. The operator called them, got the child's address and had a doctor on the way in minutes.

Although operators are ingenious in tracing calls from small fry, such procedure is a waste of precious time. Encourage your

Menu For Fever

When that first lazy feeling of spring makes meal preparation seem a chore, try table-top cooking as an escape from the kitchen. Portable electric cooking appliances lend variety and a gourmet touch to meal preparation. An electric aluminum skillet with automatic controls, a warming tray made of even heating aluminum, and an automatic coffee maker will permit you to be the leisurely hostess with the main course finished and served right at the dining table.

An attractive, tempting main dish is ham steak with a snappy cherry sauce served, perhaps, with parsleyed potatoes and a medley of green peas and mushrooms. The vegetables can be prepared slightly in advance and kept properly warm on the aluminum warming tray while the main course is getting its final cooking in the table-top skillet.

Ham with a Snappy Cherry Sauce

- 6 slices boneless ham 1/2-inch thick
- 1 #2 (1 lb., 6 oz.) can cherry pie filling
- 1 cup orange sections and juice
- 3/4 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon

Heat electric aluminum skillet or buffet server to 360° F and brown ham slices on both sides, pushing the browned slices to one side until all are browned. Mix cherry pie filling with orange slices and spices. Arrange browned slices in skillet and pour sauce over ham. When mixture boils, reduce heat to 240° F. Cover and cook 30 to 40 minutes, stirring once or twice. Yield: 6 servings.

Suggestions Offered For Spring Pruning

If you have been thinking about doing some pruning around the home, A. F. DeWorth, head of the Floriculture Section of the Soil and Crop Sciences Department of Texas A & M University, offers these suggestions.

The cardinal rule of pruning is, if you have no good reason for pruning a plant, put the tools away. The primary purpose of pruning is to remove unwanted growth, whether it be for the plant's health, appearance, safety reasons or for disease control.

In dealing with shade trees, corrective pruning is sometimes needed to prevent formation of weak V-shaped crotches and limbs in the future. On older trees, removal of many small branches is more desirable than removal of a few large ones. When large branches or portions of the tree need to be pruned, an expert should be contacted.

Trees may be pruned at any time, but spring is excellent for pruning because of the rapid healing of wounds which occurs at this time. Pruning ornamental shrubs and small flowering trees depends on growth habits and blooming characteristics of the plants. Most shrubs and small trees which bloom during the

Prepared by American Foundation for Animal Health

From time to time, what are called "new diseases" crowd their way into the animal health picture to rob farmers of more profits.

All of these "new diseases" mean trouble, but from there on the meanings may be far different. For instance, "new disease" actually may be just a different form of an old disease. In other cases this term may describe an already-established disease which has changed and become capable of affecting a different species of animal. In still other cases a "new disease" may be just that — a livestock problem never before encountered.

But, regardless of the meaning of the term, the important question in the minds of livestock raisers is, "What can we do about it?"

One of the farmer's most important safeguards in this respect is the scientifically-trained observant veterinarian, as he goes his rounds in the community each day. He must be always on the alert for the new, the strange.

New diseases are always a threat to livestock and require prompt action when they appear.

Seldom does he find a clear-cut case of a brand-new disease, because nature doesn't often work that way. But, if he does, the veterinarian will probably approach it with such methods as treatment, isolation, nursing, prophylactic measures and other means. If the case is not clear-cut, he may then have to employ such measures as postmortem examinations, or he may call on the resources of the scientific laboratories of state and federal governments, veterinary schools and commercial laboratories. As a disease detective, he also may call for aid from his professional library, scientific periodicals and his veterinary colleagues.

The key to a solution to the problem lies in part in early detection and prompt action. And this requires alertness on the part of livestock raisers for any abnormal signs in animals.

Caution Urged When Using Chemicals

The use of agricultural chemicals will increase as the production year moves ahead and farmers and ranchmen are urged to never take anything for granted when using chemicals, especially those which are labeled poison.

County Agent Leon Grosdidier said the Texas Department of Health in its latest listing of poison control centers in Texas shows 22 such facilities. These centers are designed to provide information, treatment and public health information. The services are available to local physicians who may not be acquainted with the proper treatment and antidotes for specific pesticides or other poisonous materials.

The poison control center or centers in this area are located in Amarillo, at Northwest Texas Hospital, DRake 6-4431, Ext. 211 (Amarillo Poison Control Center) and in Lubbock at Methodist Hospital, SWift 5-4321, Ext. 234 (Lubbock Poison Control Center) the county agent said.

He strongly emphasized the need to supply the attending physician, in case of a poisoning accident, with the entire label from the package of poison material so he will know the exact nature of the chemical when asking for antidotal and treatment information.

In case of an accident involving poisonous material, recovery of the person will depend upon immediate attention and treatment. Prevention, as is the case with all accidents, should be the major concern but just for insurance it's well to know that certain centers have been established where the latest information is available in emergency situations, the county agent said.

spring produce their flowers on growth made in the previous year, therefore, these plants should not be pruned until they have finished blooming.

Additional information on pruning may be obtained from the county agent. Ask for bulletin B-977, "Modern Pruning Methods."

Suggestions Given For Midge Control

Don R. Rummel

Area Extension Entomologist
Every area has certain peculiarities when it comes to the control of an insect pest. Based upon observations and tests, the following considerations may be helpful in sorghum midge control in this region.

1. Effective chemical control is dependent upon killing the midge before eggs are laid. Insecticides should be applied when the heads have completely emerged from the boot or no later than the initiation of blooming. Proper timing assures the presence of the insecticide on the head when midge infestations occur. Two applications, three to five days apart, will probably be necessary for effective control under conditions of heavy midge infestations.

2. Under conditions of heavy midge infestations experienced in 1963, one application of most of the recommended insecticides failed in some cases to give significant increases in grain yield.

Application of carbofenthiol (Trithion) in all tests and diazinon in two tests resulted in significantly greater yields than that harvested from untreated grain sorghum plots. Trithion can be used only once on a grain crop. Since two applications are usually needed, the second application of another material should be selected from the recommended list.

Parathion was used in one replicated test and was not any more effective for midge control than carbaryl (Sevin) based on one application.

All insecticides recommended have shown poor control in some tests, probably due to a continuation of heavy midge infestations.

3. Applications of certain insecticides may cause moderate to severe leaf discoloration or burn on some varieties and hybrids. A grower may consult with his seed dealer as to the phytotoxicity of insecticides to certain grain sorghum varieties. If there is any doubt in an established crop, spray a few rows a week or so before booting with the intended insecticide at the recommended rate. No data are available relative to economic loss of grain yields due to the phytotoxic effects.

Copies of "Texas Guide for Controlling Insects on Grain and Forage Crops" are available at the county agent's office.

This season will undoubtedly find you planning lunch for your church or club group or a shower for a prospective bride. A salad that is perfect for the luncheon plate is the congealed souffle salad made with real mayonnaise. It is easily prepared the night before the luncheon and looks especially pretty for buffet service with each guest helping herself, first to the crisp iceberg lettuce, then to the salad. Add sandwiches made with tiny rolls, a beverage and simple dessert.

- Souffle Salad
2 cups boiling water
2 (3-ounce) packages lemon flavored gelatin
1 cup cold water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup Hellmann's/Best Foods real mayonnaise
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup chopped pecans
1/2 cup chopped dates
Iceberg lettuce
Real mayonnaise
Strawberries, for garnish

Pour boiling water over gelatin in bowl; stir until gelatin is completely dissolved. Add cold water, lemon juice, mayonnaise and salt. Blend with rotary beater. Pour into freezing tray or metal loaf pan. Chill in freezing unit until firm about 1-inch from edge of pan but still soft in center, about 20 to 25 minutes.

Turn chilled mixture into bowl and whip with rotary beater until fluffy and thick. Fold in celery, pecans and dates. Pour into 9 x 9 x 2-inch pan. Chill in refrigerator (not freezing unit) until firm, about 1 hour. Unmold. Place on large serving dish. Spread thin layer of mayonnaise over top and pipe mayonnaise rosettes around top edge. Garnish with strawberries, cut in half, other fresh fruits, or canned or frozen fruits, well drained. Serve on crisp iceberg lettuce. Makes 8 to 12 servings.

What's so national about today's National Guard?

Mention the National Guard to the average man on the street and he'll tell you, "Oh, that's the state militia... they get called out to help in case of flood or fire or riots..." Or, he might say, "Oh, sure, they're part of the reserves. In case of war, they get called."

But, what the average man may not know is that today the National Guard has more of a national job than ever. Did you know, for example, that the Air Guard has 26 fighter-interceptor squadrons on 24-hour alert? (Last year alone, they answered the "scramble" call over 10,000 times, intercepted and identified over 19,000 potentially hostile aircraft.)

Or, did you know that the National Guard operates 30% of all NIKE air defense missile sites, and 35% of the Air Defense Command's total fighter interceptor force? In Hawaii, Guard NIKE-HERCULES battalions and air defense units provide the sole fire line air defense.

Or, that the Air Guard has actually gone global? On training missions for MATS (Military Air Transport Service), Guardsmen are flying vital cargo to our bases in Japan, Germany, Spain and Hawaii.

And that's not all. Today, Guard military strength is being used as a deterrent to war. Berlin, as you know, was the first time the Guard was called on to help prevent a war.

And again with Cuba, the National Guard was in there helping to prevent world disaster. (No, the Guard wasn't officially called up, but they did fly transport aircraft carrying troops and equipment during the crash build-up program. Many also volunteered their services and worked directly with the Air Force while continuing their regular jobs during the day.)

Now, the National Guard is undergoing intensive training as part of the nation's immediate reserve force. In fact, there are eight National Guard combat divisions that are getting ready to be deployed anywhere in the world within two to five weeks, if needed.

Maybe our original question should have been, "What's so international about the National Guard?"

The Value Of A Pleasing Personality

by Janice Lewis and Chyrel Cowart

What character trait do all successful people have in common? Possibly they have more than one trait in common, but the predominant one is a pleasing personality.

People in all walks of life must be able to get along well with others if they want to succeed in their special fields of work. They must be pleasant and well liked. Do you suppose these three qualities could be considered as part of the composition of a good personality? In the opinions of some they are, while others might define a pleasing personality in entirely different terms.

Let us consider what traits might be considered as contributing to the building and growth of a pleasing personality. First, let us think about what the word "personality" itself means. It is set up on an individual basis of daily actions and mental, as well as physical, attitudes. One's personality may cover other phases of life, but the above mentioned qualities are the first we think of in connection with the definition of personality.

A pleasing personality would then seem to be pleasant daily actions and a pleasant attitude. Other qualities that might enter into the making of a pleasant personality, but these are the major constituents. One will notice that those who are popular, as well as the organizational leaders, all are pleasant to be with. They are well on their way to becoming the future leaders of our great nation.

You will find that few people are born with pleasant personalities. You must work to develop your personality and continue in your efforts to promote continuous personality growth. If everyone in Silverton High School would practice this, just think how much more could be accomplished. Don't you be the one to stand in the way of the growth of your school!

The candidates for Mr. Ugly were Reid, a senior; Fred Stafford, junior; Johnny McGavock, sophomore; and Walter Dunham, freshman.

WHO AM I!

I'm brown on the outside and peaceful; but, green, brown and gray on the inside, and as stirred up as a hornet's nest at times.

I flow along slow, whirl around fast. I pick up paper and put it down again. I make girls' hair get in their eyes and then get it out again. I can change my temperature from hot to cold from season to season or in a few minutes. I'm neither here nor there, but almost everywhere.

I'm a typical Junior boy of average height and weight. I'm as mischievous as the next fellow, and more so than most. I major in sports—basketball, football, tennis—campus-ology, and the like. I can smile to be nominated for both Most Handsome and Mr. Ugly.

I'm a teacher in S.H.S. I teach government to the prospective graduates. My favorite pastime is drinking coffee and visiting other classes. I direct traffic in the hall between periods so as to slow the speeders. I'm known for my understanding of the students who had rather visit with me than stay in class.

I'm considered a "quite different teacher" by some of my students. I joke when it is least expected of me. I try to teach the Unbelieving chemistry and physics students. When others wish I sometimes let them make out the test and add a few alterations of my own. I love to hear stories about Alfred Hitchcock and Andy Griffith.

My name reminds some of forests and trees; therefore, some have given me the nickname, "Mrs. Trees." I roam around among the books and listen to students' problems. I visit with the business teacher during fifth period each day. I try my best to find books for each and every student which are usually needed by each and every student at the same time.

I am sure I am the most-loved reporter on the OWL'S HOOT page. I try to find out the truth about everyone and print it. Sometimes my work is altered and sometimes it is left out completely. I pry into others' private night life and school life. I am here

County Spelling Bee Held At Quitaque

The annual Briscoe County Spelling Bee was held at Quitaque April 3, at 1:30 p.m. There were 27 students from Silverton Junior High entered in the competition, and a similar number of Quitaque students took part.

The bee was divided into junior and senior divisions, with fifth and sixth grade students competing and the seventh and eighth grade students competing.

Barry Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Johnson of Quitaque, won the senior bee. He is thirteen years old and in the seventh grade.

The junior spelling bee was won by a Silverton student, Cathy Jones. Cathy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Jones. They have recently moved to Silverton, and Mr. Jones is manager of Salem Dry Goods here. Cathy is eleven years old, and is in the sixth grade.

The Amarillo Globe-News Spelling Bee will be held May 2. The junior and senior winners of the county spelling bee will be honored at a luncheon in Amarillo on that day. They will receive trophies and silver pins before the television cameras during the intermission of the regional spelling bee.

SPRING HAS SPRUNG

by Mary Monroe

As most of us have probably noticed, spring is here. Spring is the time of year for bright flowers to begin blooming, for birds to begin singing, for the earth to change color, and for people to get "spring fever."

Our five senses tell us that spring is with us. We can see the green wheat growing taller, and the flowers beginning to grow and bloom. We can hear the birds in the trees as they sing their cheerful songs. We can smell the freshness in the air that always seems to accompany Mother Nature as she dons her colorful new dress each year. We can touch the blossoms on the trees, and can almost taste the fruit that will come later on.

Spring to school students, is very special because it means that in a few weeks another year of studies will be completed.

To almost everyone spring means freshness, coolness, and (when there is time to rest a few moments) peace of mind. If you haven't had time to do so, stop for a minute. Take time to look about you and enjoy the newness of another spring.

DIANNE DAVIS

DIANNE DAVIS HITS JACKPOT

For the past few weeks the students in the three typing classes have been striving to type 70 net words per minute for five minutes in order to reach the treasure chest in the center of the king-sized speed chart that is displayed on the bulletin board in the typing room. The pictures of all students who are enrolled in typing are posted on the board with stars to represent each person's speed.

Last Friday, Dianne Davis was the first to attain 70 nwpm; she attained this speed with no errors for the five-minute writing. Dianne received the typing award medal last May for being the outstanding Typing I student. She also received a Facit Accuracy Award from the Facit Typewriting Company for turning in the fastest perfect five-minute writing in the girls' Typing I class. She represented Silverton High School in the Interscholastic League typing contest.

Next in line on the speed chart are Donna Stephens, Pat Cagle, Dwight Rampley and Linda Fisch. Linda is a first-year student and is competing heavily with the above second-year students for top honors. She has attained a speed of 58 nwpm. Masako Nakabe, also a first-year student, follows next in line with 57 nwpm.

N. H. S. Members Receive Pins, Guards

Zenith Chapter of the National Honor Society met Friday, April 10, and pins and officers' guards were received by those who had ordered them.

Members were reminded to be considering future club projects.

THE OWL'S ROOST

by Mary Monroe
The little owl had sprung from last week and flew away. While flying over Silverton, he saw and heard several interesting things. Nena, is it true that you really do feel lighter now?
When Robert Bomar went to Crosbyton, the little owl heard that he was late for a date. Did you make it to Lockney by 7:30, Robert?

The senior shorthand girls finally figured out why they can't take dictation as fast as they should. They got the message from a cartoon that read: "Don't dictate too fast; I'm in love."
There is only one reason that some of the typing students wish they had more than five weeks of school—they haven't gotten their speed up yet!

Tena, why did you look so pale last Friday night?

We think Linda M. will agree that it's a sure sign of Spring when the boys' rings start going from their hands to the hands of the girls.

Clarendon College Presents Program

On Wednesday, April 8, the Clarendon Junior College Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Weaver, presented a program for the Silverton High School students body and faculty.

Preety Yarborough, a member of the group, introduced the choir, their director and the fast representative for the college. The choir, dressed in shimmering green robes with white collars, sang a variety of selections including "In the Good Old Summer Time," "East Side, West Side," "And The Band Played On," "School Days," and "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

The Boli Weevils, a male group of six members of the choir wearing white Beatle wigs and playing various musical instruments, sang three songs of their own composition: "The Boli Weevil Song" (not the popular one, but one of their own creation), "Lulla Belle" (to the tune of "Clementine"), and "Frog No. 1".
The program was concluded with an invitation to attend a dance April 19 and a Homecoming dance April 24 at the college.

by Raye Garrison
