

All Around the Town
by Mary Ann Sarchet

A great portion of the dynamic progress made in Texas during the past two decades can be attributed to the tireless work and astute political skill of President Lyndon B. Johnson. As a national figure, the President cannot campaign on purely local issues, and perhaps too many Texans are prone to forget that Mr. Johnson has been the chief architect of numerous projects that have benefited all Texans—that have provided business and industrial opportunity, agricultural growth and jobs for many thousands.

Mr. Johnson's imprint of progress is found everywhere in Texas—in the all important areas of water conservation and the preservation of natural resources, in the multi-million dollar interstate freeway system, the Texas Tideland and the Harris Gas Act, the depletion allowance, the Manned Spacecraft Center near Houston and the vast military bases in San Antonio, and many others.

Long before President Johnson became Vice President, he was a national leader, working quietly and effectively as a member of the House and later as a Senator on problems of national and international scope.

Pulitzer Prize winner William S. White writes in "The Professional: Lyndon B. Johnson," that in Mr. Johnson's freshman senate year "he became what he had been in the House, the Senate's untitled but acknowledged leader in the area of military preparedness and collective security."

His colleagues thought so highly of him that on January 2, 1951, at the age of 41, they elected him assistant floor leader of the Senate Democrats. Two years later, while still a freshman senator, he was elected floor leader.

VOTING PARTICIPATION
Goldwater's excessive absences from roll call votes in the Senate stand out in contrast to President Johnson's record as a Senator. As an example, in 1960 Goldwater's voting participation was 27 per cent, whereas President Johnson, then Majority Leader and also involved in campaigning for the Vice Presidency, scored 94 per cent voter participation.

THREE ON THE TEAM
It is important that Texas Democrats remember that President Johnson needs and wants the assistance of men like Walter Rogers and Ralph Yarborough in Washington. I don't really think that Texans want to trade the dependable leadership of our Democratic Congressman and Senator for the "vote no on everything representation" of another Senator John Tower. Take a good look at Tower and his record in Washington if you are debating whether to vote for Ralph Yarborough.

Yarborough's record as a United States Senator is actually much more impressive than that of the Senator who is the Republican Presidential nominee. Goldwater has never authored a piece of major legislation; neither has his running mate, Miller. Yarborough has authored many pieces of major legislation and he represents the people of Texas well.

If you'll just notice how the Republicans of Texas are campaigning now, you will note that they are devoting most of their efforts to defeating Yarborough and Rogers. They aren't out beat-

The County Democratic Committee is sponsoring the fund-raising dinner for Congressman Rogers to say "thank-you" for his efforts in Briscoe County's behalf in the past. It has been due to his efforts that our Mackenzie Reservoir damsite has been surveyed (this was included in the bill which he authored and led the passage of on the Salt Fork and Prairie Dog Town Fork feasibility surveys) and he has fought out-of-state interests opposed to Texas development.

ing the bushes for votes for Goldwater nearly as enthusiastically. It is said that this indicates that they are conceding Goldwater's defeat, and are working to embarrass President Johnson by seeing that another Republican Senator is elected in Texas.

Remember that all three—Johnson, Rogers, Yarborough—deserve your support on November 3.

Community Health Clinic Held Here

A community health clinic was held at the Production Credit Association office in Silvertown last Saturday afternoon. The free clinic was for the purpose of giving immunization against polio, DPT and smallpox to Latin Americans of the community who had not already received them. A total of 95 immunizations were given.

Assisting with the registration were several members of the L. O. A. Junior Study Club, Mrs. Sonny Lowery, Mrs. James Hawkins and Mrs. Leo Fleming. A Public Health Nurse was assisted in the immunization program by Mrs. Doris Marler, Mrs. Roy Francis, Mrs. L. R. Dunn, and Dr. and Mrs. Neville Muckleroy.

This was the first in a series of clinics which will be held for the purpose of immunization. The next clinic will be scheduled in about six weeks, according to Mrs. Francis, who is the school nurse.

Commissioners Approve Repairs

The Briscoe County Commissioners Court recently approved a request to remodel and repair the public library which is located in the basement of the courthouse, according to an announcement by Mrs. Marvin Montague, president of the March of Time Study Club.

"The repairs will include new lighting, which is badly needed," Mrs. Montague said.

The March of Time Study Club sponsors the public library and is continuing its disposal sale of duplicated copies of books which have been given to the library through the years.

The money from the sale of duplicate books will be used to buy new books for the library.

Hildebrand Home Destroyed by Fire

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hildebrand and family of Vernon lost all their belongings in a fire which destroyed their home last Thursday night.

Hildebrand is still a patient at John Sealy Hospital in Galveston. He has lost the use of one arm and has only fifty per cent use of the other arm as a result of a spray plane crash last July.

He was supposed to be released by the hospital in about two weeks but now has no home to go to. Mrs. Hildebrand is planning to buy a new house with the insurance money, but the family lost all household goods, linens, clothing, etc.

Anyone who wishes to help the former Silvertown residents is asked to contact Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brannon. The Brannons are planning to go to Vernon to help the Hildebrand family Saturday, and will take anything Silvertown residents would like to send.

The Hildebrands have three children, Gaylon, 16; Allen, 12; and Connie, 18.

Three Amendments Also on Texas Ballot

Overshadowed by the excitement of the presidential election and statewide races are three decisions Texas voters must make November 3 about the State Constitution.

In order of their appearance on the ballot, the proposed amendments would:

1. Remove the Legislature's constitutional authority to transfer up to one per cent of the permanent school fund annually to the available school fund.
2. Require notice to the public and to the Texas Water Commission of intent to introduce legislation creating or substantially altering a conservation and reclamation district.
3. Authorize the Legislature to enact a program, under the federal Kerr-Mills Act, of financial help for Texans 65 and older who are not on the old age assistance ## rolls but who can't pay for needed medical services.

NUMBER ONE
Since 1891 the Legislature has had power to shift not more than one per cent a year of the permanent school fund into the available school fund for current state school aid expenses.

It has used this authority in 12 of the 73 years—1892 through 1898 and in 1957, 1958, 1959, 1961 and 1962. This century's transfers, all during a period of state fiscal crisis, totaled $21 million, including $9.2 million for fiscal 1962.

The permanent school fund resembles a huge trust fund—about $535 million—invested in government bonds and some corporate stocks and bonds. The interest and dividends from these investments go into the available school fund. Increases in the investments' value and mineral income—such as oil and gas royalties from school lands—are not subject to automatic transfer to the available fund. They serve to increase the permanent fund, which has been growing since 1948 at an average of $26 million a year.

The Arguments
Advocates of the amendment say it will prevent depletion of the permanent fund by removing from legislators the temptation to dip in the funds to avoid new or higher taxes, which might be politically unpopular.

They argue that mineral income is declining and the day may come when the fund will no longer be growing.

Those opposing it contend the Legislature has used prudently and reluctantly its authority to draw on the permanent fund. They say the lawmakers should be allowed to retain the power for emergency use.

Also, the opponents argue, such revenues as oil and gas royalties should be treated as income for the available school fund anyway.

NUMBER TWO
The second amendment is obscure in its wording on the ballot but it is important.

It requires newspaper publication of a legislator's intent to introduce a bill creating or substantially changing a conservation and reclamation district 30 to 90 days before the measure is submitted.

Also required would be delivery of the proposed bill to the governor for submission to the Texas Water Commission for its recommendation, which would go to the governor, lieutenant governor and speaker of the House.

Included in the scope of the amendment is legislation adding land, altering the taxing authority or bond issuance authority and amending the qualifications or term of office of the governing board of a district.

Those favoring the amendment say it would be a safeguard against creation of new units of government, with taxing powers, before those affected can prepare and argue a case against it.

They argue that requiring the water commission's opinion will provide expert advice on whether the proposed district would harmonize with the needs of the area and benefit the statewide water program.

Opposing View
Opponents say adequate notice is already given under a constitutional requirement of 80 days published notice of intent to introduce a local or special bill. They also argue that the amendment would add to the load of an already overburdened water commission.

NUMBER THREE
The medical care proposition has received the most attention. It would expand Texas' participation in the federal-state program of medical assistance to the aged under the Kerr-Mills Act of 1960.

Texas already participates in a portion of the act that raised the amount of federal matching funds available for medical care to recipients of old age assistance. Since 1962 the state has paid a monthly group health insurance premium for each recipient plus direct payments to nursing homes.

The program costs about $30 million a year, with three-fourths of the money coming from the federal government, one-fourth from state funds.

Medical services authorized by the proposed amendment include fitting of eyeglasses. Eligibility standards for assistance, as well as aid limits, would be set by the Legislature.

The amendment is strongly supported by the Texas Medical Association, which says privately purchased health insurance and the old age assistance program already take care of the medical needs of 72 per cent of Texans 65 and over.

The association says the Kerr-Mills program is preferable to medicare under Social Security, a plan which died in a congressional conference committee after passage by the U. S. Senate.

Opponents say the program would place a heavier tax load on Texas citizens and is not needed. Some argue also that adoption of the amendment would be a step toward socialized medicine.

News from Washington

"WHY THE NATION'S ELDERLY SHOULD FEAR SEN. GOLDWATER"

By Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich.)

Washington—"I think Social Security should be voluntary. This is the only definite position I have on it." This was Sen. Barry M. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) speaking not long ago in one of those revealing insights into his philosophies that have caused millions of elderly Americans to feel apprehensive about their futures.

What would a "voluntary" Social Security System mean to the nation's 18,500,000 men and women over age 65? It would mean no system at all. Earlier this year, Robert J. Myers, Chief Actuary of the Social Security System calculated that if even a small number of workers abandon the system the fund would be completely bankrupt in 24 years.

In very human terms it means that a man turning 40 this year would find nothing in the Social Security benefit fund by the time he retires. Fortunately, under the present compulsory system, that fund will have amassed some $99 Billion by the time he becomes a senior citizen. The simple fact is that no country in the world operates a "voluntary" Social Security System.

Fear of destroying a system in which 71,000,000 Americans participate is not the only fear the elderly feel toward the Republican presidential candidate, however.

"By our votes you can judge us, not by our talking," the Senator said in Monterey, Calif. in May of this year. And the record compiled by Sen. Goldwater under Republican and Democratic Administrations since 1953 is one of nearly constant opposition to programs for the aged. He has voted against adding disability insurance to the Social Security system, against expanding housing programs for the elderly on four occasions, against reduced capital gains taxes for senior citizens who sell their homes, against increased benefits for the aged blind and disabled.

The elderly are only too familiar with his flying a couple thousand miles back to the nation's capital to vote against Medicare.

Not as many perhaps remember he was "proud" to say in 1960 he was one of the only two Senators who voted against the Kerr-Mills program of aid to the "medically indigent."

Democrats and Republicans do disagree on many issues. But I sometimes think Sen. Goldwater spent the greater part of the past decade disagreeing as much with his own party as with our side of the Senate. The vast number of the important programs for the aged against which he voted passed by substantial bipartisan majorities.

Sen. Pat McNamara

As we grow older perhaps we all become a little more conservative. But even a life-long Republican this year has a right to wonder just what kind of "conservatism" or Republicanism Sen. Goldwater represents.

It's a rare Republican who would label the Eisenhower Administration a "dime store new deal" as did Sen. Goldwater or say "I don't believe in Federal aid to education, or aid to the aged or any kind of medical assistance."

One of the great traditions in both parties and of the country is compassion for the less fortunate and respect for the dignity of the individual. These virtues have never had more importance than when we seek to deal with the problems faced by the elderly—now ten per cent of our population—and increasing by a million every year.

Contrary to what Sen. Goldwater seems to think, the elderly do not want charity from their children or the Government. They are proud. They have lived long through two World Wars, and countless other foreign and domestic crises. They have seen a technological explosion transform the world from the horse and buggy age to the missile age. And at every step they have contributed to the greatest production system the world has ever known.

For all their contributions, the average senior citizen is not rich. The average aged couple has an income of little more than $55 a week—about $27 a person. Half the couples are expected to live on annual incomes of $2,875 or less. Half the non-married aged must make do on an annual income of $1,130 or less. Irrespective of his previous income, the average aged individual probably has less than $100 in assets on which he can fall back in an emergency. The Senate Subcommittee on the Health of the Elderly found only about half the nation's aged held hospital insurance policies. The other half—predominately the very old and those in poor health and with the lowest income—those most in need were without any hospital coverage. Yet a person over age 65 can expect to spend one or two long sessions in the hospital as part of his retirement.

It may come as a shock to him while recuperating that Sen. Goldwater signed a minority report to the annual subcommittee arguing that to assume a retired couple with a $2,000 annual income "is in serious financial straits—simply does not jibe with reality." Depending on the style in which one lives, the Senator said, "such income could either produce financial difficulties or permit reasonably handsome living."

It's this kind of "conservatism"—I hate to think of it as Republicanism—that the elderly have come to fear in Sen. Goldwater. It's the kind of philosophy which, if acted upon, would strip the elderly of every protection this country has developed since 1931. It would return the elderly to the grim days of the depression, days of soup kitchens, bread lines and indignity many well remember. This is why the choice offered the elderly on Nov. 3 becomes so vital. To vote for Sen. Goldwater is to vote against their future security.

Mrs. Ben Martin of Pampa, a former Silvertown resident, visited friends here last week. She was a guest of Mrs. L. C. Yates, Mrs. W. H. Newman, Mrs. E. C. Newman, Mrs. Milton Dudley and Mrs. Rieley Yates.

DEAR EDITOR:

More than half a century ago, two "tiny blobs of human clay"— fiber" and the "destiny" of that great nation!

Both babies were boys; born to separate sets of parents; born in widely separated localities of the expansive territory known then as now, as "The United States".

will reach "the age of accountability" when they must be held responsible for their deeds, and the examples they set before others.

Years passed. Both men entered "mid-adult" age with a strong, seemingly "insatiable" desire for "political power" in the government of this greatest nation in the world.

methods, in his efforts to obtain the coveted "crown of power," that could not be termed "honorable,"— even in the finite mind of man.

Dawned the year 1964, when the eyes of the entire world were focused upon these two men as they faced each other across the political ring. They were now bitter opponents, in conflict for "supreme power." Their objective: To be President of the United States.

For weeks now, the world has listened as each of these men bemoaned the character of his opponent. Neither man has taken time to "construct a sound platform to stand on;—moral, or otherwise! What's happening to the entire "moral structure" of the once esteemed Democrat and Republican Parties anyway!

The extreme length of this years campaign has wearied me; and the "political stench," (true or false) that's been flagrantly instigated against both men in the Presidential Race, would leave me with no desire to even cast a vote in the coming November Election . . . Except for one immutable fact. Namely: Lyndon B. Johnson already has an established record of "positive thinking" where the "good of the majority" is concerned; while Barry M. Goldwater has a record of "negative thinking" about everything in general that concerns the plight of "the little man;" both in America and abroad.

On November 3, the Lord willing, my vote shall be cast for the "Johnson-Humphrey-Yarborough" ticket, regardless of everything J. Evetts Haley, and others, have done to discredit those men. But I hope, before another election year rolls around, that both political parties, and all candidates, have learned the meaning . . . as well as the importance, of waging a "clean campaign."

Two "tiny blobs of human clay" and half a century of "time"! Ah! but 'tis a "sobering thought"— what the "time" element can (with individual consent) do "subject to sin"; all are also "prone to err." Yet, in the beginning, each one is "created in the 'image' of God; created for the glory of God."

Bro. Lonnie Branam Speaks In Assembly

On Wednesday, October 14, Bro. Lonnie Branam, minister of the Silverton Church of Christ, presented a program on the subject, "God Has a Plan for Your Life."

He brought out the fact that by observing nature one can see that a planning, purposeful God made the world. This fact is obvious in a bird's singing, a duck's geography, and the way in which an ant works on his own without a ruler.

The Milky Way contains approximately 100 billion stars of which only 200,000 can be seen by the naked eye. It would take four years traveling at the speed of light (186,000 miles a second) to reach the nearest star in the Milky Way. It is obvious that only God could have planned a universe so extraordinary.

God has a plan for every human life. Each person should seek God's will in his life by first discovering himself and his talents, and then determining what he is best suited for. Strive to become all you can become because God has provided plenty of opportunities.

Bro. Branam expressed his belief that God limits the amount of money you will make according to the service you render to humanity.

Bro. Branam closed by stressing the importance of a college education. A college graduate makes $180,000 more in a life time than does a high school graduate. Today attending college for four years costs approximately $6,200. It would, therefore, seem to the advantage of every young person to attend college, would it not?

"I tell you I won't take this room," protested Nena to the bellboy. "I'm not going to pay good money for a room like this. It's too small and it hasn't got a window. Just because I'm from the country . . ."

"Get in," sighed the bellboy, "this is the elevator."

Freshman Class News

by Debbie Dickerson

Venita Teeple and Van May have been chosen as candidates for Halloween Queen and King. Harvey Masey, Lynn Frizzell, Clifford Rowell, Ian Lanham, Ricki Bingham and Elizabeth Davis were appointed to the carnival committee. It was decided to sponsor the hayride at the carnival.

Seventeen attended the class party at the Boy Scout Camp. Transportation was provided by Glen Grossdier and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne McCutchen.

Sociologists are only just now expressing concern over the teenage practice of going steady, although Shakespeare, in "Romeo and Juliet" warned how messy it could get.

Special Dates And Holidays Announced

Each year school is dismissed for special holidays. The following is a list of these and of other special dates.

Thanksgiving—Nov. 26-27
Christmas—Dec. 19-27
New Years—Jan. 1
Mid-term—First semester closes January 15
Teachers' Meeting—March 11
Easter—April 16-19
Graduation—May 21

"I'm in a tough spot!" Howard told his mother sadly. "The teacher says I must write more legibly. If I do she'll find out I can't spell."

Those who know how to do a thing do not find it difficult; those who find a thing difficult, do not know how to do it.

JUST LIKE HUMANS

Two tough old mules said, "Get this dope, We're tied together with a piece of rope."

Said one to the other, "You come my way, While I take a nibble of that new-mown hay."

"I won't," said the other, "You come with me, There is some hay over this way, you see."

So they got nowhere, just pawed up the dirt, Pulling each way—how that rope did hurt!

Then faced they about, those stubborn mules, And said, "We're acting just like human fools; Let's pull together, I'll go your way; Then you come with me and we'll both eat hay."

So they ate their hay and liked it, too, And said, "Let's be comrades, good and true."

As the sun went down they were heard to brag: "Ah, this is the end of a perfect day."

A purple hand-crocheted Bible marker has been found and can be picked up at the church office.

JANICE'S JOURNAL

As of today the election is less than two weeks away. You students of Silverton High School will not be able to vote, but you may use your influence for the candidate of your choice.

It is not of major significance which party's candidate you choose to support. It is important, however, that you align yourself with one of the major political parties and work for that party's candidate.

The young people in high school have shown their interest in politics by organizing a Young Citizens for Johnson and Humphrey club. It would be good if a similar club could be organized for those students who are interested in the Republican Party.

Some of the students now in high school will be eligible to vote in the next Presidential election. They will have a substantial political background and will be prepared to choose the man best suited for the job. They now have a better knowledge of politics than do some people who will be voting on November 3.

This great interest in politics and government is the factor responsible for the maintenance of freedom and the American way of life.

In the last Presidential election only 64% of those eligible to vote did so. Figures like that could cost you your freedom. Young people keep up the good work. Make sure that your parents go to the polls to vote. This will be your contribution in this election and in the next Presidential election you can contribute your vote.

If each young person in America would do this, just think of the increase in voting percentages.

Did you hear about the naughty little girl who was put in a clothes closet for punishment. For 15 minutes there wasn't a sound. Finally the mother opened the door and peered inside.

"What are you doing in there?" she asked.

From the darkness came an emphatic answer: "I'm thpittin' on your new hat, I'm thpittin' on your new dreth, I'm thpittin' on your new thatin thippers and—and—" There was a breathless pause.

"And what?" cried the mother. Came the voice of vengeance, "Now I'm waitin' for more thpit!"

THE NEXT PRESIDENT

A youngster has a better chance of growing up to be president of the United States today, because he has a better chance of growing up.

Thanks to the many scientific advances in such fields as medicine, hygiene, sanitation and others, babies and children now have a greater chance to live into adulthood. Since 1930, the death rate in the U.S. for babies under one year has dropped 63 per cent; for children 1-4 years, 82 per cent and for children 4-14 years, 76 per cent.

More than 300,000 babies born last year are alive today as a result of these advances recorded in the past 45 years. And in just the past 15 years, for every 10 prescriptions written, seven have been for drugs discovered during this period as modern medicine wages a fight to help man live better, longer and more comfortably.

TAKE A SLICE OF HAM...

There is no end to the good things you can prepare with ham steaks. Now, any Southerner knows how well the smoky flavor of ham goes with the sweet smoothness of yams. Here's a dish that combines the two.

Thin slices of tasty pasteurized process cheese spread are arranged on top of ham steaks. Then the cheese is topped with a savory mixture of yams, saltine cracker crumbs, onion, and herbs. The whole dish is baked to warm the ham, melt the cheese, and brown the yam topping. Mmmmm...happy eating!!!

SOUTHERN HAM STEAKS

- 1 cup PREMIUM Saltine Crackers crumbs (about 25 crackers)
- 1/2 teaspoon tarragon leaves
- 1/4 teaspoon thyme leaves
- 1 (9 1/2 ounce) can yams, drained and cut into small pieces
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1/2 pound Velveeta Pasteurized Process Cheese Spread, thinly sliced
- 2 ham steaks, cut 1/4 inch thick (about 12 ounces each)

Combine first 4 ingredients. Sauté onion in butter or margarine until tender. Add to dry ingredients. Mix lightly. Arrange cheese slices over ham steaks. Top with sweet potato mixture. Place in a baking dish. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350°F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Serve with a green salad. Makes 4 servings.
