All Around the Town
 by Mary Ann Sarchet

Due to the death in Mrs. Crow's family, we will appreciate it if you will call or bring your local news items to the News Office for awhile. We need and want your news, and we hope you will cooperate with us during this time.

 This, apparently, is the season of the year for the door-to-door peddlers. One of my pet peeves is to find at my door one of these young magazine salesmen (or saleswomen) who have ready such a line of gab that you are doing well if you get a word in edgewise. They quickly present you with the fact that they are trying to earn a nursing scholarship or some sort of educational opportunity for orphans or something so equally wonderful that you just couldn't possibly refuse to help them. The manner in which they have been trained to present the information is positively a thing to behold! They are all alike; the current group is like the group who came last year, and a carbon copy of those who came the year before. Their mannerisms are so alike that it is almost frightening to think of the routine that "Some-one" puts them through to teach them the "art of selling magazine subscriptions."

One of the favorite introductions is: "My Daddy told me to stop by to see you. You know my Daddy, don't you? He's tall and sort of bald and wears overalls most of the time. I know that you'd know him if you saw him—he's old me so much about you!" And on and on. Sometimes they aren't from Quitaque or some nearby town as they claim, but are from some city thousands of miles away. There is usually a group of boys and girls traveling together, and they are usually teenagers.

We've hit on a solution: it's best to trade at home! We've decided to buy all our magazine subscriptions from the F.F.A. boys who conduct a sales campaign in much more pleasant way each year. And, they are working to earn a trip to the National Convention in Kansas City.

Consider these points when a door-to-door salesman calls at your home:
 1. Does he live in this community and pay taxes which help support our school, city and county?
 2. Does he live here and support the civic projects and churches, helping make our town a better place in which to live?
 3. Does the salesman guarantee satisfaction from the product or service as I would expect a friend to do?
 4. Does any of the money I pay for the goods sold in my home give me any future benefits whatsoever?
 One example might be the Sealbest man, James Hawkins. He lives in Silverton, and is a property-owning taxpayer. The profits he makes as an independent distributor of dairy products remain here and are re-circulated in Silverton.

Another example is the Baldridge bread man, Brubs Bomar. He is also an independent distributor, and makes his home here. You like his product just as well as the one that sits next to on the grocer's shelf, aren't you better off to trade with home-baked than to help support some unknown distributor who lives in another town?

There are a number of others who take orders for various products in your home who earn their livelihood and make their home right here in Silverton. Why not make it your policy to buy from those who are your friends and neighbors rather than from those who are strangers?

Because of Depressed Agricultural Commodity Prices

Bankers Show Farm Concern

The Agriculture Committee of the Independent Bankers Association, in Washington, D. C., sessions February 10 to 13, presented the following position paper to Vice-President Humphrey and discussed it with President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers. President Lee M. Senejem read the paper, as formal remarks, at a Congressional dinner session, Hotel Statler, Thursday night, February 11.

Should the disaster of the Thirties seem remote in these Soaring Sixties, remember that the lengthening shadow of the Great Depression went unnoticed as America danced its way through the Roaring Twenties.

Depressions have always had their beginning at a peak of prosperity, and they always are farm- and farm-fed.

It is now apparent that the mistakes of the Twenties are being repeated. Commercial banks are loaned up to historically high levels in ratio to available deposits. The easy money of the Sixties has made us a seemingly Affluent Society and we are now reaching for the Great Society.

But those who see a bright future for America apparently are not aware of a new shadow that has crept over the horizon. The most significant feature of the American economy today is this: rural banks cannot much longer continue to supply the credit needs of rural America. Since 1951, farmers have been using credit as a substitute for earned income because of depressed agricultural raw material prices.

With the inception of its agricultural research program 3 1/2 years ago The Independent Bankers Association has warned repeatedly that such credit could not continue indefinitely. The Association has urged that action be taken to revive the economy of rural America before the point of no return was reached, but the downward drift has been allowed to continue.

The Association now finds it necessary to caution its member banks to be concerned with the quality of their loanable assets. Country bank loans to farmers are dangerously close to deterioration. The IBA is not alone in its concern.

At the recent convention of the American Bankers Association, the ABA said "it is difficult to find justification for the degree of ease which now prevails in credit markets."

Insurance companies and large as well as small lenders are voicing the same caution. Similar experiences are being reported by the Production Credit Associations and by the Farmers Home Administration. It has been said that unless corrective action is taken soon, the FHA will one day be known as the graveyard for bankrupt farm loans.

In case after case, depreciation transfers are completely used up in paying operating expenses or providing food, clothing and other bare essentials for the farm family.

Rural bankers believe we have been building our economic future on a weak foundation. Our facade of prosperity has been achieved at the expense of the producers of agricultural raw materials.

We have not constructed true economic wealth at all, but a will-o'-the-wisp prosperity in which some segments of the economy have been fattened by feeding upon another. Since the land represents the beginning point of our country's wealth, such prosperity can only be temporary. It will eventually fall of its own weight.

In the absence of adequate profits in agriculture, essential to reduction of ever-increasing debt, the time approaches when banks will have to terminate credit availability to thousands of farmers in rural America. This will force liquidation of numerous farm units and subsequently the destruction of thousands of rural businesses that serve farmers.

One result will be the loss of a market for an important portion of our total output of goods and services. This indicates a cutback in industrial production and an increase in unemployment. Whatever gains can be made through the Administration's antipoverty program will be more than canceled out by the inability to the rural population to earn a living.

And remember—some 30 percent of the United States population lives in rural communities of 2,500 and under and on the farms surrounding them.

Because net farm income has declined while the income of other segments of the economy has soared to record levels, the farmer has been caught in a cost-price squeeze. The result has been a drop of more than three million in agricultural employment today. It is now contributing more to the poverty of the nation than any other single fact.

In the face of this, the prevailing economic philosophy calls for the elimination of 2 1/2 million additional farmers. These would not just be the "little inefficient farmers." They would be a broad category of farmers—large and small alike.

We have apparently overlooked the most obvious answer to the unemployment problem. An expanded rural economy would slow down the out-migration of farmers. It would create an expanded rural labor force, both on the farm and in the rural communities.

Government figures show that the largest pocket of poverty in America today is in the rural areas.

The farmer is in a state of economic depression because he is not getting a fair price for his production. That is, farm raw material prices are not in balance with the prices of other segments of the economy.

The situation has occurred not because important political and business interests have served to gain from maintaining farm raw material prices at depressed levels.

Our profit-starved rural economy has been dependent on massive doses of credit every year since 1953. This credit will one day have to be repaid. When we do this we will deprive the market in some future years of the income necessary to consume our annual production at a profitable price level.

The farmer has been using credit to keep his head above water. His borrowing always is in anticipation of future profits, but the sad fact remains that repayment often is made from liquidation of assets accumulated in prior years.

There is a limit to the amount of credit that is available in the United States. Expanded credit cannot much longer serve as a substitute for adequate earnings in agriculture.

Ten thousand banks collapsed between 1931 and 1934 because of the necessity for rural bankers to withdraw loanable funds from agriculture. The reason the bankers were compelled to collect

Two Accidents In County Last Month

There were two rural accidents in Briscoe County during the month of January, according to Sergeant W. E. Wells, Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

From these crashes resulted one person injured and an estimated property damage loss of $660.00.

April 15 is the deadline to have your motor vehicle inspected. During the past five and one-half months only 1,800,000 or 40% of the 4,500,000 registered vehicles in Texas have been inspected. This leaves 2,700,000 vehicles to be inspected in approximately two months. If the number of un-inspected vehicles were divided evenly among the 5,200 official inspection stations in Texas, each would have approximately 520 vehicles to inspect in about 40 working days, or 13 vehicles per day. The stations in heavy populated areas will have many more than this average number to inspect. In areas where there are only a few stations you may have many miles to travel.

The Sergeant urges motorists to have their vehicles inspected without delay to avoid the inconveniences of waiting lines.

Remember, there will be no extension of the April 15, 1965, Safety Inspection deadline.

House Approves Trailer Weight Bill

The House of Representatives in Austin recently gave final approval to House Bill 11 which increases the gross weight load limit on cotton trailers from 10,000 to 15,000 pounds.

The bill, which was sponsored by State Representative Ralph Wayne of Plainview, became entangled in a floor hassle last week when Representative Jim Nugent of Kerville attempted to force farmers to acquire commercial registration tags for cotton trailers. Had Nugent's amendment passed, a 15,000 pound cotton trailer would have cost over $90 for registration. Representative Wayne was successful in getting Nugent's amendment tabled and thereby preventing increased registration fees for cotton trailers. Under House Bill 11 the registration fee remains $5.00 and no brakes are required. The only change in the present law is the increase of the gross weight from 10,000 to 15,000 pounds. There is no change in the registration fee.

The weight change applies only to cotton trailers used for the transportation of seed cotton from the field to the gin. Final passage of the bill is awaiting Senate action.

Look ahead to harvest

Have you decided what fertilizer to use, and when to apply it? A wrong judgment can mean a big difference in profit at harvest time.

The return you get from any cotton crop depends to a great extent on the amount of usable nitrogen available during the growing season. To make sure the crop has all the nitrogen it will need, pre-plant Nitromite . . . Shamrock's fine brand of anhydrous ammonia.

In the form of Nitromite, the nitrogen stays in the ground until used by a plant, BETTER than ANY OTHER type of fertilizer.

Right now we have a good supply of Nitromite and application equipment on hand to give you quick delivery. If your land is ready for an application, give us a call.

How Much Does It Cost You

when your neighbors go out of town to buy?

We may think . . . when one of our neighbors buys a shirt, or a car, or a hot water bottle in the city . . . that it's nothing to us . . . unless we happen to be trying to make a living in the shirt, or car, or hot water bottle business here in this community.

But . . . as a matter of fact . . . every time a dollar leaks out of local circulation, it hurts everybody who lives around here.

Because . . . financial anemia is a very contagious disease. Trade volume . . . the lifeblood of every community . . . when drained off to invigorate some other place . . . leaves us weaker, our schools and churches poorer, job opportunities fewer, our own businesses less profitable, our property worth less, our living standards lower, and important help and services less convenient to us.

On the other hand . . . Prosperity is also contagious.

Every single dollar that stays here at home turns over again and again as long as it's here . . . to account for two, three, or more times it's value in increased local trade volume . . . to keep every single one of us in better economic health.

Minns Honored on 40th Anniversary and Mrs. Bud McMinn were married with a reception in their Sunday afternoon in observance of their fortieth wedding anniversary. The children and grandchildren of the couple hosted the occasion.

and Mrs. McMinn were married on March 15, 1925, in the home of the bride's father, the Ed Vaughan, five miles south of Silverton. The couple lived in the rest of that year, and have lived in Briscoe County since then.

They made their home on the southwest of Silverton for years and Mr. McMinn was engaged in farming. Their children, Ed and Fayree, now Mrs. Mel Watkins, were born there and attended the Silverton schools. McMinn family now make their home in town, and he now works as a carpenter.

McMinns recall their wedding, which was a Sunday, attended church and enjoyed a dinner which had been prepared by Mrs. George Seaney before the wedding was performed by a Rev. Crawford of Wellington, a minister who was holding service at Rock Creek at the time.

tor of Mr. McMinn's church when he lived at Quail.

Mrs. Ethel Campbell, who now makes her home in Plainview, one of those who stood up with the McMinn on their wedding day, was present Sunday to recall old times, as were Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Stephens, Mr. and Mrs. George Seaney and Mrs. Steve Duncan, who were also wedding guests of the McMinn 40 years ago.

A luncheon which was enjoyed before the reception Sunday in the R. E. Stephens home was attended by 25 relatives. Mrs. Elbert Stephens, Mrs. Paul Ledbetter and Mrs. R. E. Stephens prepared and served the meal.

At the reception, guests were greeted by Mrs. Melvin Watkins, Anita Watkins and Dudley McMinn were in charge of securing names for the guest book. Debbie McMinn and Gail Watkins served punch, cake, nuts and mints, while Mrs. Gaston Owens of Quitaque, sister of Mrs. McMinn; Mrs. Ella Fay Atkinson of Lancaster and Mrs. Howard Riddell of Grand Prairie, sisters of Mr. McMinn; Mrs. Henry McMinn of Levelland, a sister-in-law of Mr. McMinn, and Mrs. Paul Ledbetter assisted with the other hospitalities of the home. Members of the houseparty wore red carnation corsages and boutonnieres.

The refreshment table was laid with a white lace cloth over red and a centerpiece of red roses was used. The cake, made to resemble an open memory book with the names of the couple and the date of their marriage on the open page, was made by Mrs. Ronald Vaughan, a niece of the couple.

Travis McMinn, who makes his home in Jacksonville, Florida, was unable to be here for the reception, but called his parents Sunday morning to extend his best wishes. His children, Debbie and Dudley McMinn of Kress, assisted with the celebration as did the three children of his sister, Gail, Anita and Melanie Watkins of Amarillo.

Ninety-five guests were registered including Mr. and Mrs. Elma Seaney of Morton; Mr. and Mrs. Henry McMinn of Levelland; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hacker of Hereford; Mrs. Ella Fay Atkinson and Carol of Lancaster; Mrs. Edna McMinn of Lubbock; Mrs. Alma Riddell of Grand Prairie; Mrs. Ethel Campbell of Plainview; Mr. and Mrs. Leon Gunn and children of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Bailey Henderson of Lockney; Mr. and Mrs. Edd Watkins and family of Kress; Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Johnson of Erick, Oklahoma; Mr. and Mrs. George Owens and Mr. and Mrs. Gaston Owens and Eddie of Quitaque; Fred Garrison of Plainview; Mrs. Maggie McMinn and children of Kress; Mrs. Mack Gaston of Nocona, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Watkins and children of Amarillo.

DEAR EDITOR:

Dear Charles and Mary Ann:

The first 45 days of the 59th Legislative Session have gone by quite rapidly and I know you, as those interested in our governmental process, would like to know what has transpired thus far.

I can say one thing as a new member and that is they put you to work early here in Austin. I arrived in Austin January 6, six days before the Session began, and let me assure you there have been no uneventful days since then. The organization and planning that goes with setting up the House for operation took place, in most instances, unreported and unheard. For example, I was called to Austin on January 6 to take an active part in the whirlwind campaign to elect Representative Ben Barnes of De Leon as Speaker of the 59th Session. This campaign was the result of a surprise move in which Speaker-elect Byron Tunnell resigned and was appointed by Governor Connally to the Railroad Commission.

I was fortunate in my committee appointments inasmuch as this places me in position to better work for the common interests of our District. My committee appointments are: Rules, Conservation and Reclamation, State Schools and Hospitals, Penitentiaries and Aeronautics.

I know that you are probably interested in some of the legislation I have sponsored and supported. My cotton trailer bill, House Bill 11, increasing gross weight on cotton trailers from 10,000 to 15,000 pounds with no increase in registration fee, and no brakes, has passed the House. House Bill 11 has passed the House and Senate and is expected to be signed into law by Governor Connally early next week. I am very happy about our success with this bill since the increased weight in the cotton trailer gross weight will allow our farmers to utilize the full capacity of our cotton strippers and to get the cotton out of the field to the gin early, and thereby avoid possible field deterioration.

House Bill 113, which I authored, is awaiting the Governor's signature. This bill creates the Swish Memorial Hospital District. I have now introduced House Bill 622 which creates the Mackenzie Municipal Water Authority. This would provide domestic and industrial water for the cities of Tulia, Floydada, Lockney and Silverton from present surface water in the Tule Creek watershed. This bill presently is scheduled for a hearing before the Conservation and Reclamation Committee, of which I am a member.

House Bill 278, which I introduced in early February has passed out of committee and now waits House action. This bill simply allows counties in the 64th Judicial District to increase the pay of the District Attorney's secretary up to $350 per month maximum salary. I am co-author of legislation that will assure our landowners private ownership of their underground water. As you know, our courts have upheld this but it is only by implication. This bill would spell it out.

Another bill I have co-authored provides for 5-days, 30-day cumulative, sick leave for our school teachers.

Other legislation which I have actively worked for and supported includes: increasing the speed limit for pickups to the same as automobiles; protection of landowners from liability when people hunt and fish on their property without paying; inclusion of optometrists under the medical assistance program for the blind; provision of one billion, seven hundred million dollars for public schools this biennium which is an increase of over two hundred and thirty million dollars from our current spending; labeling of imported beef; and permission to make oleomargarine from grain sorghum oil thereby opening up another market for our grain sorghum crop.

I will oppose liberalized liquor laws, as well as legalized gambling.

In my next report to you, I will let you know the progress of not only my legislation but the status of other matters I think you will be interested in. Remember, I work for you in Austin and I consider it an honor to represent the fine people of our West Texas area. Please call on me any time and if you are in Austin, my office phone number is GR 5-3212 and my apartment number is GR 2-6132. Incidentally, if I have your address incorrect, please send me your present address at your convenience.

Best personal regards,
Sincerely yours,
Ralph Wayne
District 89 Representative

CHANGES

Times change, drugs change, laws change. But the ideals and goals of professional pharmacy practice continue unchanged for your protection.

Today's drugs have to pass more rigid tests than ever before. At every stage, from early research to final development, prescription drugs are subject to multitude of examinations. These tests are so demanding that few other kinds of products, if they had to be exposed to such restrictions, would ever be presented to the public.

And after all these tests are passed, the unceasing watchfulness of the professional pharmacist stands as a final sentinel . . . assuring that the medicine which passes through his hands to you, the customer, is exactly what your doctor wanted you to have. This protective role of the pharmacist, perfected through the years, has not changed and will not.

Future FTA Officers Attend Convention

by Kathy Hughes

Johan Bull-Njaa, Monty Smith, Margaret Minyard, Tina Weaver and Kathy Hughes left at 6:00 a.m. Thursday for the Texas Future Teachers of America Convention in Houston. The group arrived in Houston at 6:00 p.m. and checked into the Rice Hotel. Registration was Friday afternoon. The District meeting was held on Friday night all 4000 F.T.A. members met in the Music Hall.

Saturday the girls attended a workshop, "So You Are Planning To Go To College," and the boys heard "Coaching Is Teaching Too" discussed in another workshop.

Saturday night another session was attended in the Music Hall and awards were presented. Governor John Connelly sent a message proclaiming March 13 at F.T.A. Day. A ball was held in the Rice Hotel afterward.

The American History class is wondering who Larry Smith is, but no one has the nerve to ask the teacher.

Fact: The ability to tell someone where to go so skillfully that they look forward to the trip!

Secret: Something you tell one person at a time.

A woman who runs a nursery school in San Bruno, California, was delivering a station wagon-load of kids home one day when a fire truck zoomed past. Sitting on the front seat was a Dalmatian dog. The children fell to discussing the dog's duties. "They use him to keep the crowds back," said one five-year-old. "No," said another, "he's just for good luck." A third child brought the argument to an end. "They use the dog," he said firmly, "to find the fire plug."

Women can keep a secret just as long as men, but it generally takes more of them to do it.

Teachers Association.

Dr. McIntyre pointed out that California teachers now receive a yearly salary that is $2,500 above the national average and are expecting an additional raise this year. He stated that 2 million signatures from taxpayers were secured in a 10-day period petitioning their current legislature for an increase in the salary of their public school teachers. The salary of Texas teachers is now $774 below the national average and they are ranked 32nd in the nation.

E. L. Galyean, Director of Research and Records of T.S.T.A. gave a legislative report in which he fully explained both the T.S.T.A. plan and the Governor's plan to raise teachers' salaries. He said that he was fearful that the general public was not aware of the real purpose behind the Governor's plan — which was to shift the burden of financing the public schools of Texas from the state level to the local level. It was his opinion that not only the teachers will suffer from such a move, but also every taxpayer in the state. He stated that "this alternate program is to shift to the ad valorem tax on homes, businesses, and personal property a major portion of the cost of financing public school education thus freeing the State of Texas of its long established policy of paying at least an equal share."

17 Ways Of Getting A Boy

At one year. Hit him over the head with your bottle (milk). Be sure to wear pink booties.

At two years. Let him play with your plastic Donald Duck.

At three years. Get his attention. Go knock him off his tricycle.

At four years. Have your mother have his mother bring him to swim in your wading pool. Wear a very brief bathing suit.

At five years. There are great opportunities in kindergarten. Give him part of your orange at recess, or you might sneak up and kiss him.

At six years. Be sweet. Let him wiggle that loose front tooth.

At seven years. Let him be big. Learn to play marbles; then let him win all of your cateye marbles.

At eight years. Wear a party dress to a birthday party. Get in a fight with him.

At nine years. Earn his respect. Learn to pitch a baseball and strike him out everytime he is up to bat.

At ten years. Just go out and catch him. Surely you can run faster.

At eleven years. At this age such advice really isn't applicable. All you want is a horse.

At twelve years. Consider measurements. Go to dancing class. Be short.

At thirteen years. Have something novel to attract him. A unicycle or motorbike, maybe?

At fourteen years. Wear lots of makeup. Chances are it won't make much difference, but at least you'll have gotten over trying to look like Cleopatra.

At fifteen years. Just gaze at him in mute admiration. If you're lucky he might gaze back.

At sixteen years. Act older. After all, don't boys appreciate older women?

At seventeen years. Let's face it, girls. With all the older oys off at work or college, who is there that is worth wasting your maturity and sophistication on? (You might try telling yourself that occasionally, anyway.)

We've finally figured out what dictors scribble on prescriptions to druggists: "I've got my $5.00—now he's all yours."

JANICE'S JOURNAL

Are you willing to help a friend in need? Most people would consider this an extremely ridiculous question. Naturally a person would want to help his friends. But just how much would you be willing to sacrifice in order to assist that friend in need? The situation has now taken on an entirely different aspect.

You cannot so easily answer this second question. You can't afford to answer this question without first giving it some careful thought. Otherwise, you might be committing yourself unintentionally. Needless to say, everyone likes to think that they would be willing to give up anything for the sake of their friends. When actually faced with such a situation, however, would you react as you think you would?

Keep in mind that committing yourself to act in a certain way and actually doing it are two entirely different things. Being friends with others is easy enough as long as it does not make demands on either of the persons involved. If you are never called upon to make a special contribution concerning your relationship with your so-called friends, you don't know the true meaning of friendship.

A friendship should be built upon a strong foundation. One of the strongest foundations possible is sacrificing for the good or welfare of others. If you call a person a friend, there should be something personal or binding between the two of you. You naturally expect a friend to do special favors for you when you have no one else to turn to.

Each person, in order to be a friend to others, must meet certain standards. You must be able to forget your own selfish desires and think of what you might do to make the lives of others a little happier. You must trust those with whom you associate each day. You must be a person who can be depended on at any and all times. Last, but not least, you will be expected to give of your time and energy to the development of worthwhile friendships with others.

Contract Awarded For Turkey Post Office

A contract has been awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hedrick of Estelline to lease a building to the Post Office Department on the north side of Main Street between Fourth and Fifth Streets, to improve postal operations in Turkey, Texas, Postmaster General John A. Gronouski announced recently.

"This project is in accordance with our policy of building new post offices only where they are urgently needed," Mr. Gronouski said. "We are constantly re-assessing our construction program to determine whether present buildings can be altered or remodeled to take care of our expanding mail volume. We now have about 45,000 postal locations throughout the country handling an anticipated volume of 72.2 billion pieces of mail for the 1964-1965 fiscal year. By 1970 it is expected to rise to 90 billion. Our employees are doing a great job of processing the mail. But it is clear that if we are to meet the demands of our growing population we must make use of the best mechanized equipment available in areas where it is economically justified."

Under the Department's Lease Construction Program, Mr. Hedrick will improve the building ac-

ording to departmental specifications and lease it to the Department for ten years, with renewal options running up to an additional ten years.

The improved Post Office quarters will contain approximately 1460 square feet of floor space, adequate parking and maneuvering area and will be equipped with air conditioning. They are expected to be ready for occupancy in the Fall of 1965.

Mr. Gronouski explained that the Department's capital investment is limited substantially to postal equipment. The building will remain under private ownership, with the owner paying local real estate taxes.

These are additional examples of how we serve in the ever-broadening field of communications.
