

A. & M. COLLEGE AND UNIVERSITY DIVORCEMENT.

Pertinent Reasons Why Resolution 34 Should be Adopted at the Election on July 24th.

On July 24 the voters of Texas are to pass upon six constitutional amendments submitted by the Thirty-fourth Legislature. Among them is House Joint Resolution No. 34, better known as the Sackett resolution. It concerns the State institutions for higher education. It deserves the support of all who stand for the advancement of the cause of education. It is agreed by all who are familiar with the subject that the existing provisions of the constitution in regard to these institutions are not satisfactory. The object of this statement is to point out the respects wherein the existing provisions are unsatisfactory, and the ways in which the proposed amendment will bring about better conditions. The constitutional provisions affecting the institutions for higher education are found in article 7, sections 10 to 15. These provisions as they now stand are unsatisfactory.

1. No money can be appropriated out of the general revenue for the erection of buildings for the University of Texas.

In one section of article 7 provision is made for the establishment of a university "of the first class," in another section the use of money out of the general revenue for buildings for the university is prohibited.

Section 14 now reads: "The Legislature shall, also, when deemed practicable, establish and provide for the maintenance of a college or branch university for the instruction of the colored youths of the State, to be located by a vote of the people; provided, that no tax shall be levied and no money appropriated out of the general revenue, either for this purpose or for the establishment and erection of the buildings of the University of Texas."

It is passing strange that the inhibition against the use of money out of the general revenue should appear as a "rider" in the section which provides for the establishment of a school for negroes. The urgent need of buildings has been repeatedly stated by the board of regents in the most emphatic terms. The proposed amendment does not give the university any buildings; it merely empowers the Legislature to appropriate money for that purpose. Who would contend that the Legislature ought not to have that power?

2. The relation of the Agricultural and Mechanical College to the University are not satisfactorily determined by the present provisions of the constitution. Nobody knows to a certainty what these relations are. Technically, by section 13, the college is a "branch" of the university. Is it, then, lawful to appropriate money out of the general revenue for buildings for the college? It has generally been held that it is lawful; but at least one Governor has held that it is not. There is the ever-present danger that after the Legislature has voted money for buildings for the college, the appropriation will be vetoed by the Governor on constitutional grounds. Surely this uncertainty ought to be removed.

These two are serious objections to the constitutional provisions as they now stand. The benefits to be secured by the adoption of the proposed amendment are of prime importance.

1. The Legislature will be authorized in its discretion to appropriate money for buildings for the university, the Agricultural and Mechanical College, the College of Industrial Arts and to provide otherwise for their support.

2. The Agricultural and Mechanical College will be separated from the University and made an independent college.

Conditions demand that this be done. In no other way will the college be able to be of the highest service to the people. If the people were just establishing a system of higher institutions they might well consider the plan of erecting one comprehensive institution whose functions should include all the activities now carried on by the existing institutions. There are strong arguments on both sides of that question. But the time for its consideration has passed. The Agricultural and Mechanical College has been in existence thirty-nine years; the University of Texas thirty-two years. Each has its own history, its own traditions, its own individuality, its own ideals. It is too late to think of consolidating them. They are now in effect two independent institutions and have always been so. The technicality under which the college is considered as a part of the University is little more than a legal fiction. It has led to uncertainty and friction and has stood in the way of the full development of the Agricultural and Mechanical College. The ideal for the college is a school of technology of the first rank. It can never become such while it remains a "branch" of another institution, with vexatious questions continually arising which affect its very existence.

The proposed amendment is in line with the platform demands of the Democrats and Republican parties, and the various industrial organizations, including the Farmers' Congress, Farmers' Union, Farmers' Institutes and bankers' convention.

CENTRAL BOARDS A FAILURE.

Complete separation carries with it separate control, independent boards for each of the three State institutions, known as the University, A. & M. College and the School of Industrial Arts for White Girls. Is this wise? Is it best for our educational system? If it is, then the amendment now under consideration providing for separation ought to be adopted. This amendment will establish each an independent school with its own governing board. The best authorities in the United States on this question are all agreed.

Prof. Arthur Lefevre, in his able work, "The Organization and Administration of a State's Institutions of Higher Education," plainly shows the failure of a central board of control. He says:

"The States that have had any experience with central boards of control are Florida, Georgia, Iowa, Mississippi, Montana, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota and West Virginia. Their practices, in my judgment, represent the worst possible devices. The opinions of men dependent upon the central boards are conflicting, but the short history reveals only warning examples."

Dr. Van Hise, president of the University of Wisconsin, on the same subject, says:

"If there be a central board which is to govern several institutions at different localities, it will be impossible to get the best men of a State to give sufficient time to master the details in reference to them. They would be unwilling to take a position involving responsibility for several institutions at different locations. Further, if compensation be offered, the fact that the service is not free will make men of the highest type reluctant to take positions on such boards. To illustrate: At the University of Wisconsin, for many years, we had the services of Colonel William F. Vilas. No cash estimate of the value of this service can be made. The larger part of his estate will also finally go to the university. Nothing could have induced Colonel Vilas to accept the place of regent with compensation. If the compensation of a board be small, it will be composed of inferior men; if it be large, places on the board will be sought by unfit men, and it will be extremely difficult to fill the positions without political interference.

"A difficulty with central boards, which has appeared as a result of experience, is that some of the men are interested in one institution and others in another; and this has led to trading back and forth in grants to the different institutions.

"It is possible in such a board to have the special friends and champions of each of the institutions, and then you have the same collisions and collusion of interest that you have in a city council or other bodies of similar character.

"Another difficulty with central boards created at one time is that a break is thus made in the continuity of the government of an institution. The recognized aims and practices which have grown up through many years are likely to be ignored by a new board having no knowledge of or experience with the several institutions which they are to govern."

If the amendment separating the A. & M. College from the University is defeated, we may expect the two schools to be placed under one board, thereby augmenting friction and internal strife, which will hinder the growth and development of these two great institutions and retard the advancement of higher education in Texas.

The people of Texas are jealous of the constitution of their State, and should be. No amendment should be adopted until it is discussed before the people. For many years the people of Texas, through the various political conventions, the Farmers' Congress and the Farmers' Union, have demanded an amendment to the constitution separating the A. & M. College from the University. For the first time the Legislature, this year, has complied with the demands of the voters and submitted said amendment. It is to be voted on the 24th of July, and we trust the friends of education throughout the State will vote for it, and thus settle it for all time to come.

House joint resolution No. 34, to be voted on the 24th of July, if adopted, will make the A. & M. College an independent institution, and will permanently establish the Industrial School for white girls at Denton. That school at present has no constitutional status and can be moved by a legislative act.

The Managers Room
A good beginning will be made toward business methods on the farm when every manager has in his home a room for his own personal use. This room will be the center of the farm's activities. In it will originate the plans, the methods and the designs that bring in larger returns and better profits.

The room may not be large enough or sufficiently equipped to be worthy of the name business office. It need not be an office at all, but it should be a place where records are kept, books, magazines, bulletins and the farm paper read. This will be the most important preparation for better farm management, because it will fortify the manager with dependable information.

There will be business matters on every progressive farm, where it is desirable to have a room that is more or less private; where important correspondence, contracts, etc are filed and where other business records may be consulted. Every farm manager will need such a room and when it is provided for and occupied, a new era is likely to begin on that farm.—Texas Farm & Ranch.

Volume Twenty Nine

The Signal with its successions has just rounded out its 28th year of active experience and effort in Snyder and this is No. 1 of Vol. 29. The town has grown and built in that timeso much that it would take a book to tell it all.

The newspaper has done what it could in the line of progress and the Signal is still on the job, better equipped than ever before. The Signal is proud of the people of Scurry county and appreciates the patronage and confidence of the people.

It is gratifying to hear scores of homefolks and visitors assure us that the Signal is one of the best newspapers in West Texas.

The present management has had twenty-five years experience in the harness together and are putting their experience and best efforts in the work of making the Snyder Signal even a more potent factor in the building up of Snyder and Scurry County.

OUR PUBLIC FORUM

I---Introductory

Through the Press Service of Agriculture and Commerce, the master minds of this nation will be invited to the public forum and asked to deliver a message to civilization. Men who achieve seldom talk, and men who talk seldom achieve. There is no such thing as a noisy thinker, and brevity is always a close companion to truth.

It will be a great privilege to stand by the side of men who can roll in place the cornerstone of industry; to associate with men who can look at the world and see to the bottom of it; to commune with men who can hear the roar of civilization a few centuries away.

Too often we listen to the rabble element of our day that cries out against every man who achieves, "Crucify him." Mankind never has and probably never will produce a generation that appreciates the genius of its day. There never will be a crown without a cross, progress without sacrifice or an achievement without a challenge.

This is an age of service, and that man is greatest who serves the largest number. The present generation has done more to improve the condition of mankind than any civilization since human motives began their upward flight. The Greeks gave human life inspiration, but while her orators were speaking with the tongues of angels, her farmers were plowing with forked sticks; while her philosophers were emancipating human thought from bondage, her traffic moved on two-wheeled carts driven, and oftentimes drawn, by slaves; while her artists were painting divine dreams on canvas, the streets of proud Athens were lighted by fire-brands dipped in tallow.

The genius of past ages sought to arouse the intellect and stir the soul but the master minds of today are seeking to serve. Civilization has assigned to America the greatest task of the greatest age, and the greatest men that ever trod the greatest planet are solving it. Their achievements have astounded the whole world and we challenge every age and nation to name men or products that can approach in creative genius or masterful skill in organization, the marvelous achievements of the tremendous men of the present day. Edison can press a button and turn a light on multiplied millions of homes; Vail can take down the receiver and talk with fifty millions of people; McCormick's reaper can harvest the world's crop, and Fulton's steam engine moves the commerce of land and sea.

The greatest thing a human being can do is to serve his fellow men; Christ did it; Kings decree it, and wise men teach it. It is the glory of this practical age that Edison could find no higher calling than to become the janitor to civilization; Vail the messenger to mankind; McCormick the hired hand to agriculture, and Fulton the teamster to industry, and blessed is the age that has such masters for its servants.

II---L. E. Johnson

On Two-Cent Passenger Rates

The farmers of this nation are vitally interested in railroad rates and equity between passenger and freight rates is especially important to the man who follows the plow for the farmer travels very little but he is a heavy contributor to the freight revenues.

Some of the states have a two cent passenger rate and whatever loss is incurred is recovered through freight revenue. The justice of such a procedure was recently passed upon by the Supreme Court of West Virginia and the decision is so far-reaching that we have asked L. E. Johnson, president of the Norfolk and Western Railway whose road contested the case to briefly review the suit. Mr. Johnson said in part:

"Some ten years ago, passenger fares were fixed by the legislatures of a large number of states at two cents a mile. As a basis for such economic legislation, no examination was made of the cost of doing the business so regulated, nor was any attention given to the fact whether such a rate would yield to the railway companies an adequate or any net return upon the capital invested in conducting this class of business.

"Such a law was passed in West Virginia in 1907. The Norfolk and Western Railway Company put the rate into effect and maintained it for two years. Its accounting during these two years showed that two cents a mile per passenger barely paid the out-of-pocket cost and nothing was left to pay any return on capital invested. It sought relief from the courts. Expert accountants for both the State and the Railway Company testified that the claims of the railroad were sustained by the facts. Two cents did not pay the cost of carrying a passenger a mile. The State, however, contended that the railroad was earning enough surplus on its state freight business to give a fair return upon the capital used in its passenger as well as its freight business. For the purposes of the case, the railroad did not deny this, but held to its contention that the State could not segregate its passenger business for rate fixing without allowing a rate that would be sufficient to pay the cost of doing business and enough to give some return upon the capital invested in doing the business regulated. This was the issue presented to the Supreme Court. Its decision responds to the judgment of the fair-minded sentiment of the country. The Supreme Court says that, even though a railroad earns a surplus on a particular commodity by charging reasonable rates, that affords no reason for compelling it to haul another's person or property for less than cost. The surplus from a reasonable rate properly belongs to the railway company. If the surplus is earned from an unreasonable rate then that rate should be reduced. The State may not even up by requiring the railroad to carry other traffic for nothing or for less than cost.

The decision is a wholesome one and demonstrates that the ordinary rules of fair dealing apply to railway companies. The fact that one makes a surplus on his wheat crop would never be urged as a reason for compelling him to sell his cotton at less than cost. It would not satisfy the man who wanted bread to be told that its high price enabled the cotton manufacturer to get his raw product for less than cost. In this case the court reaffirmed the homely maxim that each tub must stand upon its own bottom."

III---Julius Kruttschnitt

On Financing Railroads

The farmers of this nation need to become better acquainted with the railroad men and their problems. It is only those who know that can give us information and the farmers of America should listen attentively to what the men who manage railroad property have to say. Mr. Kruttschnitt, executive head of the Southern Pacific, has written an article dealing with the financing of railroads. He said in part:

"The financing of a railroad is a function which the people, through their servants, the Railroad Commissioners and the Legislators, have never attempted, but it is a most important problem, especially to sections of a State where new railroads are needed. The placing of securities has been left entirely with the promoter and owner of railroads.

"The immediate determination of what earnings the railroad shall be permitted to receive and what burdens it shall have put on it is in the hands of other servants of the public —the Legislators and the Commissioners.

"Managing a railroad is quite different from managing a government where the money is raised by taxation. When the expenditures, for good reasons or otherwise, increase, taxes can be equally increased. The railroads, while servants of the public, cannot raise money with such ease and facility. The railroads must keep their expenditures within their incomes because while they have some control over their expenditures they have almost no control over their incomes, their rates being fixed by public authorities.

"There is not a railway manager in the country today who is not fearful that under the pressure of increasing demands the transportation systems of the country will, in a few years, break down, unless the railroads are allowed to earn larger funds wherewith to build it up. There are vast sections of the country, especially in the West, where more railroads are needed and they cannot be built unless the railroads raise new capital.

"People invest money in order to make money, and they are skeptical as to whether they can make money by investing in concerns that are dealt with stringently and unfairly. Railroad securities must be made more attractive to invite investments, and in order that they may be made more attractive, the roads must be allowed earnings that will enable them to meet the increased capital charges."

Appreciate Our Visitors

It was my privilege to attend the District meeting of the Medical Society of this district which convened in the County Court room on Wednesday of this week.

The Doctors, a fine body of useful citizens were present to the number of almost thirty.

An informal or "round table" talk on various diseases affecting the lives of the people today and their treatment was had. This was a very interesting and profitable discussion and should have been more largely attended by the public. More public spirit must be shown visitors on this and other occasions. Nothing will make so good an impression on the part of a town as for each and every man to constitute a committee of one to extend the glad hand to visiting strangers. They go away and speak of the splendid hospitality of the town. Let us extend the glad hand to visitors whenever the opportunity presents itself.

CALOMEL SALIVATES AND MAKES YOU SICK

Acts Like Dynamite on a Sluggish Liver and You Lose a Day's Work.

There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel when 50 cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone—a perfect substitute for calomel.

It is a pleasant, vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and can't salivate.

Children and grown folks can take Dodson's Liver Tone because it is perfectly harmless.

Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury and attacks your bones. Take a dose of nasty calomel today and you will feel weak, sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead and you will wake up feeling great. No more biliousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue or sour stomach. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone acts better than horrible calomel your money is waiting for you (12)

I. W. W. Trouble Makers.

More than 500 Industrial Workers of the World, a brotherhood that do less work and create more industrial trouble than all other organizations went into Oklahoma and engaged to work in the harvest fields. Others went into Kansas and made like contracts. The farmers were depending on them and just when ready to begin work, the agitators came in and promoted a demand for more pay than the farmers could afford and the men refused to work. They had been getting free grub and threatened force when the commissary was closed. They had figured that it would be too late to get other hands but they may be mistaken.

SNYDER

By Nannie Hillory Harrison.

I left beautiful central Texas a week ago for the golden West. Just where I was to find the gold in the West I was not sure.

Coming out of Fort Worth over the T. & P. I was surprised and greatly pleased to find a diversity of scenery, equalling in some respects the far famed scenic routes of Colorado. I saw miles and miles of golden grain almost "ripe unto harvest". I saw mines and oil fields cotton and corn, and fat cattle galore and from the fullness of heart we cried "Great is Texas." From Roscoe to Snyder I encountered the broad prairie and wide stretch of country minus a tree, and a sort of lonesomeness crept over "our mortal mood," but at the end of the way I found the real climax. Snyder! One of the prettiest, liveliest, most progressive towns in Texas. Casting off my knapsack I said as did the explorer of old, "Here we rest," but who could rest in Snyder. If you want to keep up with the procession you will have to keep moving. I knew there was a Snyder on the map, but I did not know that Snyder was a city, minus the ordinary city's greed and selfishness. I haven't been here long enough to see and know all there is to it, but I've taken a few turns around the square and it all suits me. The banks, the hotels, the business houses, the churches, the school buildings, are modern, up to now, and bespeak the citizenship back of them, and lest I forget, I'll add right here that if there is a finer lot of people, a more cordial community anywhere I have not found them, and that is the key note of the whole situation. It is folks that makes a town worth while. I'm sure the country is here too, the climate has found me already, and when some friend "in an automobile" shows me the rest I'm going to have to tell it.

There is lastly no organ in the community more helpful to the upbuilding of right ideals than the newspaper, and in this Snyder is wonderfully fortunate in possessing "The Signal."

In conclusion "Then versus Now," will say.

THE EMPTY CORRAL. (?)
By Miss Nannie Hillory Harrison in Waco Times-Herald.

This great boundless plain of this "Panhandle" land,
Was once but a long winged corral
Just the cowboy's domain
Was this vast rolling plain —
And controlled by the lone cowboy's yell.

On this wide stretch of plains,
Where the long grasses waved,
Roamed the untrammelled herds at their will;
The wild bison here, the fleet-footed deer,
With the coyote matching their skill.

Where once unmolested the bison and deer,
The coyote and "Maverick" grazed
Today here's a field with a bountiful yield,
Vegetation luxuriantly raised.

Along the "lone trail" the long horn they sought.

Here the cowboy delighted to roam,
We find in corrals, school buildings, hotels,
Banks, churches and comforts of home.

The lone cowboy's whistle no longer is heard.

Nor the strains of the wild "round up" yell;

For today the "staked plain" is a rich field of grain.

With "thoroughbreds" in the corral.

Primitive Baptist Services.

Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Ponton of Post City were guests of Snyder friends this week.

TALK WITH SUBSCRIBERS.

Be Sure You Read It Whether You Like it, Or Not.

The Signal feels impelled to indulge just now in a heart-to-heart talk with its big and splendid family of subscribers.

There is probably not a county newspaper in the state with a larger more intelligent, refined and conscientious list of regular readers. The management appreciates the cordial relationship existing between the paper and its constituency. It is the whole ambition at this end of the line to make a paper that will interest and benefit the readers, and to print the news of Scurry county, Snyder and surrounding country, so that the people here at home may know what is going on and that people away from here may know that we are going forward in West Texas along sane, progressive, upliftin lines.

As said before The Snyder Signal is proud of its patronage. For very largely the most part, the subscribers are prompt and regular in paying for the paper and new names are being added to our list with enjoyable regularity. One thing we want to say is that we have a few subscribers who fail to note that they are about a year in arrears and unless settlement is made right away we will have to drop the names.

It is generally understood that newspaper subscription is payable in advance but to meet the convenience of our friends here at home we have fallen into the habit of continuing to send the paper and trust to the subscribers to pay up during the year. Nearly all do it, though some forget until reminded. Once in awhile we find a man who will read the paper for a whole year over time and then refuse to pay the delinquent dollar.

If we could know before hand what sort of a man he is we could avoid the loss of his dollar and save him the pain of an accusing conscience, but we can't always know. We try to treat all our friends alike, even though we may sometimes misjudge an individual character.

Finally let us say to subscribers in arrears, we expect you to pay before a year is out; but if not, then at the end of the year, the name must be checked off until such arrearage is provided for and don't forget that even if the subscription is out renewed the delinquent dollar is still due us.

CAMP SPRINGS.

This is a wonderfully beautiful Tuesday morning and this glorious, mellow sunshine of spring is calculated to have a fine effect on Man's aesthetic nature. About the only thing troubling the Camp Springs people is that they did not get the rain they needed and had such fine prospects for. The rain fell here the past week all together was not more than half an inch.

Some small grain was cut very short for lack of rain. Some would be helped yet by rain.

Cotton, and feed stuffs in general look good. Most everybody began chopping cotton last week.

J. J. Harris who has been under the weather for some time is still improving. We have not heard from M. D. Reep in some time, but he was gradually getting better from his stroke of paralysis.

Olie Brown, who moved to the plains some time ago has recently been back after the remainder of his things.

Bob Williams, Vera Jones and Meddie Butler, all of Camp Springs left the last of the past week for Abilene to attend the summer normal.

CAMERA.

IDIOTT DRAW.

We are all here and badly in the weeds and if we could get a good rain in a few days, we will have some nice crops, in fact the crop is looking good, but as a general thing it is late. I was at Snyder the other day and asked lots of farmers about their crops and nearly all agree that the prospect is good.

Tom Crowder seems to think that people are stealing weeds out of his field to feed their pigs on, and when I asked him how his crop was he answered me just like Peck's Bad boy, "damfino." Tom certainly is the original bad boy.

Some of our small grain men have started their harvesters and they are making hay while the sunshines.

K LAMITY.

CROWDER

Health is only tolerable good in this community.

Some in this community have had sore throat.

Most of the farmers are catching up with their crops on account of the dry weather, as we are needing rain and feed will soon suffer if a rain should not come.

Other Busby has been down with rheumatism.

Brother Hotelling preached for us Sunday.

Misses Nora and Nellie Turner of Plainview community were visiting R. L. Turner Sunday.

Mr. McCormick took dinner with S. D. Hayes last Sunday.

People are very busy harvesting the small grain in this section.

Mr. Duke and wife took dinner with Mr. Crowder.

Our mail carrier is hard to catch on Route 1 since he got his new automobile.

BETHEL

Mr. Eastman of Crowder community gave a party to the young people, Friday night. Several from Bethel attended.

Arthur Dennis, Bob Wren and W. H. Shuler had their oats threshed last week.

Misses Annie and Ruth Seabourn were guests of Miss Virgie Davis, on Sunday.

Frank Womack went to Snyder last week and bought a new Advance two-row binder, which he put to work on his neighbor's field at once.

Cotton is growing fast these days and will soon have squares on it.

Maize and other small grain will need rain pretty soon.

Miss Stella Womack attended the party given by Miss Mamie Wilburn in honor of Miss Bessie Patterson Friday night.

Miss Velma Seabourn was a welcome visitor in the home of Misses Davis Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Minyard and little son Floyd were pleasant visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Davis.

Some few Bethelites took in the White Bluff "Children's Day" services.

The young people met at Mr. F. L. Davis' home Sunday evening and had a "rattling good time. Carlos Whitefield, Ike Butler and Ace Moseley furnished some good music for the occasion.

Mr. H. P. Wellborn's family visited Mr. Frank Womack Sunday.

Among Acid Fumes for Three Weeks

A large manufacturer of cotton oil, fertilizer, etc., needed some roofing. Up to that time no roofing had been found which would stand the acid fumes given off in the manufacture. So his chemists thought of the strongest test they could make.

In the laboratory a cabinet was used for all experiments where dangerous acids were required; this cabinet being provided with a flue to carry off the fumes.

Up in the neck of the flue, right where all the acid fumes concentrated, different brands of roofing were placed, Texaco among the number. For three weeks they remained right in the destructive gases.

Texaco Roofing was untouched—as good as before. The rest were eaten away and partially destroyed.

Texaco Quality and Service are always ahead. All products marketed under the Red-Star-Green-T emblem are reliable under any conditions.

THE WOOLLY BEAR— HOW TO KILL HIM.

Autin, Texas, June 9, 1915.
Mr. J. S. Hardy,
Snyder, Texas.

Dear Sir:
Your letter addressed to Mr. J. W. Neill has been referred to me for further attention and advice. The insect you mention in your letter is very likely the woolly bear. It can be controlled by either dusting or spraying the plants with a mixture or solution of either Paris Green or arsenate of lead.

Mr. Neill has promised to visit you at an early date and will give you information in full in regard to this pest.

Very truly yours,
ERNEST E. SCHOLL.

BRYAN AND GERMANY AFFAIR

Hon. W. J. Bryan has eliminated himself from American politics. He has been a prominent leader since the delivery in Chicago of his famous utterance: "You shall not press the crown of thorns to the brow of labor nor crucify it on a cross of gold." Mr. Bryan has been the political idol of thousands of Americans. He has been honored for his high ideals and loved for his frankness of expression in condemning wrong and for his recognized personal purity of character.

The American people were glad when he accepted the position of Secretary of State in President Wilson's cabinet. People felt secure in believing that our National affairs had been lifted out of the slime of partisan little ness and placed in the keeping of two superior minds that would look beyond personal or party interests to the upbuilding of the whole country and to the material and moral betterment of all the people.

The two years that these men have so faithfully co-operated has been a period of strenuous labor. The best thought of these unusually strong and discreet Christian statesmen has been put to the test.

Friendly nations at war with each other have sought favors at our hands and each has watched with jealousy the orders from Washington to see if, perchance any act of favoritism toward the other might be imputed.

Not an order has been issued, not a move has been made by the American government that could be construed as favoring one European nation as against another. The whole trend of our government has been for peace and we have submitted to encroachments upon our rights, rather than fly to arms or even indulge in threats.

The destruction of merchant vessels on peaceful errands has furnished sufficient grounds for resentment but these cases have been held in abeyance, pending a more suitable time for consideration.

Then came the sinking of a British ship, and destruction of American citizens without warning or show of consideration.

The civilized world stood appalled. Germany was asked to explain and her argument and line of reasoning proved unsatisfactory, yet the administration and the people of this nation remained steadfastly opposed to resorting to war. As a rule the people have felt all along that this country was not obligated to protect the Lusitania passengers, since they had elected to board a British ship and put themselves under the British flag. They must have known the dangers to which they were exposing themselves and ignoring their duty to protect their own government, they relieved this nation of obligation. But our controversy with Germany goes beyond the Lusitania incident. That terrible tragedy may be put aside and we are called upon to lay before the German government our rights on the high seas in the conduct of peaceable transaction of legitimate business. Germany's submarine methods of warfare have proven disastrous to our commerce and our treaty rights have been abused. Our government has called upon Germany to respect our rights and in the course of diplomatic efforts, the unfortunate break in our official family at Washington came last week. Mr. Bryan had signed the first official note, but when the second was submitted he refused to sign it, although it was practically of the same tenor and import as the first.

Mr. Bryan has been severely censured by his countrymen for quitting his valuable services just at a time when the President needed him more than ever and the very fact of a rupture in the cabinet would probably cause Germany to believe that the American people were weakening.

Of course, Germany knew the American people were anxious to avert war, or even a diplomatic break with any European power, but the time had come when our country must contend for American rights and dignity, and that is all that the second note carried.

Fortunately it seems now that Germany is disposed to be reasonable and the probable war that Mr. Bryan feared is not even a probability.

Mr. Bryan's assertion that the press of this country has changed attitude and that "jingoism" has been suppressed, surely comes to him as an afterthought. American papers have opposed war, if possible to avert it and they still talk the same way.

Mr. Bryan is quoted as saying that the note was changed after he resigned, when as a fact his resignation was not effective until Mr. Lansing had actually signed the document.

The truth is, Mr. Bryan sees that he blundered and naturally would like to build up a line of excuses.

His very act of resigning lest a war should come would probably do more toward encouraging a war, except for the fact that Germany is sufficiently fair and reasonable as to grant the contentions of the American nation.

Married on the Bridge at Sundown.

Wednesday evening, June 16th, 1915, at 7:15 o'clock, one half mile south of Dunn, Scurry county Texas, there took place one of the most romantic nuptial affairs in the history of west Texas.

Exactly at 6:30 o'clock with H. G. Towle at the wheel, John Stephens, Jr. the officiating minister and the groom, Homer E. Watkins, left Snyder for Dunn. The wind was blowing a gale of 50 miles an hour, but nothing can detain or hinder one when on such a mission, so like a whirl wind we sped through the air, sometimes up and sometimes down, but always right side up without much care. We landed or rather lit at Dunn promptly at 7 o'clock. The bride-to-be, Miss Lena Ramsour as gracefully as a swallow glided into the car and on we sped one half mile south to the bridge, suspended across a deep canyon. We alighted from the car, walked out on the bridge, where about twelve months before in the glowing of a June twilight these two happy lovers vowed each to the other, while the angels whispered of love and happiness and the earth and sky kissed each other, the trees uncovered their heads in sacred honor of the holy estate that they should ever after be until death do them part.

There we stood, twelve months later, not a solemn quiet evening as afore, but the storm king in all his fury threatening to swoop down upon us, there amidst the warring elements, gathering the real estate that makes our glorious west so famous; as quiet and composed as if nothing unusual were taking place, they sealed the vow previously made in the presence of God and witnesses that forever makes them one.

Immediately after the ceremony was said, the storm in all its fury broke upon us. Dust, wind, rain, hail, all in quick succession and terrific force enveloped us. But we battled on and by the wisdom and skill of our guide and the good providence of God we came out without harm.

Thus may this happy young couple take this stormy, romantic beginning as a good omen, through all the storms of life which may come (and may they be few); may they pass through together as successfully as through the first one is the wish and prayer of the writer.

Miss Lena Ramsour, the accomplished daughter of our townsman R. V. Ramsour and Homer E. Watkins, a well known young professional man of our city, with sterling qualities begin their wedded life under such romantic conditions, may their journey be an eventful one and each event culminate as successfully as the first.

—J. E. Stephens

Scalp Bounty Law.

For the information of parties interested, below will be found a text of the Scalp Bounty Law as passed by the 34th Legislature:

This law takes effect June 20th, 1915, and all animals killed after that date, that is all animals for which a bounty is provided under the recent law, wolves, wild cats and Jack rabbits, scalps may be preserved and presented to the Commissioners' Court, accompanied by affidavit that said animal or animals were killed in Scurry county and by the person presenting such affidavit.

The scalp of such animal shall not be mutilated or disfigured, and shall have both ears intact, and upon approval of such claim shall receive warrant, drawn on the General Fund of the County for same.

The law provides that 5 cents shall be paid for jack rabbits, One Dollar for Wild Cats, and Two Dollars for Wolves.

Building New Gin

The Farmers Union Gin Company have purchased a new gin outfit for their Snyder plant and are tearing away the old building to erect a new and bigger house. They are preparing to put in a battery of five gin stands, with all the newest and best attachments and expect to have a plant second to none in point of excellence.

FARM ACCOUNTING AND LOANS

(By A. M. Hove)

"Farming is no longer just a hit or miss business," says C. M. Richards, cashier of the National Bank of Carlsbad. "There was a day when the incompetent industry or business could as a last resort be a farmer."

"Farming is now recognized as the leading business. It is in fact a complicated business; especially so is mixed farming, the most reliable money maker in our section. Yet the farmers themselves often fail to place their operations on a business basis. They may show a profit at the end of the year, but many of them keep no books and can only guess what made the profit. Careful accounting is just as necessary on the farm as in the store, the factory or the mill.

"There are grain and feed crops, produce, fruit, cows, sheep, hogs, chickens and so on; all essential departments on the modern farm. The books alone can tell what each gains or loses. Serious leaks here and there proper accounting alone can reveal and prevent in the future.

"Farm accounting can be easily done. The farmer will find that keeping accounts will increase his profits and at the same time gives greater confidence in his business, the accounting removing many elements of chance in his operations.

It will help the farmer's credit. He will be in a position to make a written financial statement of his business as now being urged by the Dallas Reserve Bank and receive accommodation from his banker. This is a most important consideration at this time when feeding and growing stock on the farm is being so strongly advocated. It will require a written statement to obtain funds from member banks of the Federal Reserve System. The book keeping farmer will have the first call on feed lot loans.

The Weather.

Sunday was a day of promise of rain. Reports of floods were coming from North Texas, from Oklahoma and from Kansas. Clouds over spread West Texas, but failed to deliver.

Monday came cloudy, cold and drizzly. Temperature dropped to 52 degrees and the wind blew from the north. People hoped for a good rain, but it came scanty.

By Tuesday the clouds had passed away and the weather turned rapidly hot.

There was a light shower Saturday at Hermleigh and also about Dermott, but the rest of the county got even less than that.

Farmers say the crops are growing and can stand it for some days yet but we would appreciate a general rain.

He is a New Judge

A new district court was recently created for Travis and Williamson counties and A. S. Fisher was appointed Judge of the District. In speaking to his first grand jury he said:

"We have heard of late a great deal of agitation concerning judicial reform and defects of our laws. This is all bosh. We have almost a perfect system of laws and our judicial system does not need reforming. The vice is neither in the law nor in the system; it is those who have been elected to administer the law."

This new jurist is fresh from the ranks and feels yet the influence of unsophisticated environment. After a few years of dignity and pomp and a few turns in the circle he may drop into the common channel and be made to cringe under the withering gaze of bearded lawyers and pass cases over on technical motions.

Dr. Sed. A. Harris returned Monday from Corpus Christi where he was called last week to the bedside of his father, Rev. W. L. Harris. He states that his father is very low and at the time he came away there was considered no hope for recovery.

Rev. Harris is about 70 years old and has been in the ministry for many years. He was in this country for quite awhile, 16 or 17 years ago. Has preached often in Snyder and surrounding towns and communities and is kindly remembered by many of our people.

TO THE LOVERS of Something GOOD to EAT

We are introducing a new line of can goods, the famous "RENOUN" brand. The word Renoun on a can stands for the highest quality of fruits, vegetables or anything else for table dainties and we also have the Beech-Nut Brands and everything that goes to make up a first class Grocery Store.

This Hose Will Last for Years
Every Foot Guaranteed

No man can tell how long lawn hose will last by simply looking at it. When you buy hose you have to trust the dealer and the manufacturer to give you full value for your money.

In Goodyear-Akron Lawn Hose you have a hose that is not sold "at your risk." Every foot is guaranteed perfect—and every foot is labeled with the Goodyear trademark.
