THIRTY-FOURTH YEAR.

SNYDER, SCURRY COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1921.

NUMBER THIRTY-FIVE.

Beacon Thinks Snyder Logical Place for the A. & M.

SNYDER CORNET BAND ORGANIZED

After about four years silence they are coming alive. The drouth and war disbanded the boys, but with A. C. Alexander, as director, A. P. Morris tuba, Ed Thompson and Geo. Devlin, drummers, D. Anderson and T. C. Watkins, slide trombones, George Harless and T. B. Ware, altos, Billie Wilsford and Clarence Dowdy, cornets, they are determined to grow into a good band and hope to be an asset to Snyder, that will prove to be of benefit socially as well as a medium of advertising.

A good live band is a necessary asset to the development of a town and we hope to see the Snyder band develop into a first class band. With the above line up and co-operation of the city there is no reason why Snyder shouldn't have a band that we all could be proud of.

A band advertises a town in a way that nothing else can do.

Of course the boys will have to have the support of the town financially as well as otherwise. Music will have to be bought and an instructor ought to be employed. The band boys have paid for their own music and other things necessary to begin work. They meet regularly twice a week for practice.

This should not be passed up lightly by the people of Snyder, but we urge that this be a part of the program in the city's development.

Snyder Mission.

The First Quarterly Conference convened the 5th and 6th of this month at Plainview. Snyder Mission being a brand new work, it was unorganized, but the organization was completed in the First Quarterly conference. The District Steward, Recording Steward, and Lay Leader, were elected. Also church stewards, and Superintendents of Sunday schools.

The Elder preached three delightful sermons, and the pastor one. The choir rendered fine music, so all felt it was a success.

The pastor reported fourteen members received last quarter. Thirteen by vows and one by letter. The number however at this writing are 25 received, and 25 conversions, and others to follow.

We have a very fine citizenship over this work, and we are expecting a great year, I am at this writing in Mitchell county near Lorraine visiting friends whom we knew years ago in Smith county. Am anxious to know whether they too have neglected to keep in touch with God, and the church. These people are the Davies, Dales, Stanleys and Halls. Mrs. Davie stated those who were faithful there were faithful here.

J. W. GRIFFIN, P. C., Snyder, Mission.

Joseph J. Dowling, a character actor of note, is a positive and perpetual delight in the role of Senor Sarros, president of a South American republic, in J. Warren Kerrigan's newest screen work, "A man's Man," from the thrilling magazine story by Peter B. Kyne, which will be seen at the Cozy Theatre tonight. Dowling who is probably the oldest actor on the screen today, belies his years in the way he cavorts about while trying to rid his country of the handsome hero.

At The Ranger Convention.

Messrs. Heslip, H. B. Winston and A. C. Wilmeth, have returned from Ranger where they attended the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. They were very enthusiastic over the convention, that it is the biggest thing in the state, that all West Texas was represented and portions of Central Texas and that probably 3000 were in attendance.

A spirit of friendliness and co-operation existed during the session. Speeches were made, bands played, of which there were three or four, and everybody had a good time. Telegrams were read from the Secretary of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, from Gov. Neff and others. The principle address was by Clarence Ousley on "Cotton and its world significance."

He said in part, "The outstanding fact of the whole cotton situation is that, including the entire normal period from 1866 to 1914, and excluding the abnormal war years in the period from 1914 to 1919, there have not been two years in succession or five years in the whole period when all cotton farming paid the actual cultivators of the soil more than the meager wages of the commonest and most in different labor. Therefore I appeal to you to avoid this economic waste that has blighted the South for the last fifty years. There is not a neighborhood in Texas where some farmer is not proving that there is a better way to do things. I urge you to follow the lead of these diversificationists."

Clifford Jones of Spur was elected president, J. A. Kemp of Wichita Falls and W. V. Crawford of Waco vice presidents.

The 1922 convention goes to Plainview, defeating Brownwood, Sweetwater and Cisco.

Failures and Achievement

When you are discouraged, down in the mouth, and your little world looks all upside down, the Praetorian Guard asks you to think on the career of failures in the life of one who achieved.

When Abraham Lincoln was a young man he ran for the legislature in Illinois, and was badly swamped. He next entered business, failed, and spent seventeen years of his life paying up the debts of a worthless partner.

He was in love with a beautiful young woman to whom he became engaged—then she died.

Later he married a woman who was a constant burden to him. Entering politics again, he ran for congress and again was badly defeated.

He then tried to get an appointment to the United States Land office but failed.

He became a candidate for the United States senate, and was badly defeated.

In 1856, he became a candidate for the Vice-Presidency and was again defeated.

One failure after another—bad failures—great setbacks. In the face of all this he eventually became one of the country's greatest men, if not the greatest.

When you think of a series of setbacks like this, doesn't it make you feel kind of small to become discouraged, just because you think you are having a hard time in life? —The National School Digest.

BIRDS AND GARDENS—EXACT HEAVY TOLL

Don't mix, or rather they mix too much.

The sparrows are so thick all over the town and country that gardens and crops will suffer unless something is done and why not let every body work together and poison them.

Now is the best time for the poisoning for several reasons. The first one being that just now, before the green begins to come they are hungry and will eat the poisoned grain better, and another reason is because every bird killed now means fewer young birds being hatched thru the year. If everyone will put out poisoned grain say Feb. 22, it will be much more effective than for a few to put out some poison today, some next week and the balance another time.

The poisoned grain can be put in a box or bucket large enough so it can not be scratched out by the birds, and fastened on the barn, in a tree or even on houses, where the birds stay, so it is high enough to be out of the way of chickens and stock.

One family in town poisoned about a teacup full of crushed grain and put it out and todate they have found twenty one dead birds around the place. So why not everybody work together and poison a quart, a half gallon or even a gallon of small grain and put it out on Feb. 22, and leave it out until all the grain or birds one are gone.

EILEEN PERCY SEEN IN CLEVER SCREEN FARCE

A smashing clever screen farce in which Eileen Percy, the William Fox beauty—who has the added distinction of being one of the cleverest young women on the screen—is the star at the Cozy Theatre Monday, when "Beware of the Bride" will be shown to an audience who will realize the hope of seeing something as good as if not better than Miss Percy's recent big comedy success, "The Husband Hunter."

To describe a screen farce is well-nigh impossible. It moves too fast, and, besides, the printed word is impotent to do it justice. Then what's the use? The best way is just to see it and enjoy its laughs first hand.

To our way of thinking "A Wild Night in Armor" wouldn't have been such a bad title for "Beware of the bride," because the comedy is first encased in and eventually escapes from a suit of knightly tinware worn at a masquerade ball to which Miss Percy, as Mary Emerson, a newly wed, goes to relieve intolerable boredom when her husband is summoned by his firm in the midst of the honeymoon.

Two former suitors, a jealous wife a crabbed uncle and a snooping cousin contribute to the rapid comedy action, which ends in a whirl of everything that makes a motion picture audience shake its sides with mirth. Edgar Franklin wrote the story and Howard M. Mitchell directed the picture.

Worry Over Printer's Profits.

From Amarillo Daily News—Communities shouldn't worry for fear their local newspapers are making too much money, thinks the State College of Agriculture; on the contrary, it is to the advantage of the community that its local newspaper should be prosperous, in the college's opinion. Some of the difficulties of newspaper publishing are pointed out in an editorial headed, "Pices and Printers," in the current issue of the Extension Service News, issued by the college. The editorial follows:

"Before a community starts to worry for fear the publisher of the local paper is making too much money, it should know the facts. Few lines of endeavor have been so severely hit by changing industrial conditions as have the small newspapers. It is abundant testimony that there are 123 fewer weekly publications in this state (New York) in 1919 than in 1915.

"Only recently has definite effort been made to study costs on county newspapers; this study shows that few publishers have been getting even cost for the advertising space and printed matter they have sold. Like the farmer they have been producing their commodities largely with the unpaid labor of themselves and the members of their families and without taking into consideration such items of expense as depreciation, interest on money invested, and the like.

"No newspaper, regardless of its circulation, can sell advertising space at less than 30 cents an inch and be prosperous. A committee from the National Editorial Association has worked this out after careful study. The local newspaper of about 5000 circulation must charge approximately 55 cents an inch.

"A similar study has been made of the cost of job printing and the results have been compiled in a loose leaf book which is kept constantly revised. If the local printer and publisher quotes his price from this little black book the customer may know he's getting a fair price, and the printer is getting a living profit."

Judge W. S. Adamson came back the first of the week from Ranger where he has been the past two weeks making preparation to move there. They shipped out their household goods Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Adamson and Margarette went thru in their car.

Mrs. C. James, wife of C. James of Snyder, died Sunday afternoon at Lubbock. The remains were shipped to Ennis Monday where enternment was made.

Mrs. James had been sick for only a few days with an attack of appendicitis, but had rallied Saturday and was considerably better. She was taken worse Sunday and was hurried off to Lubbock where she was operated on. She only lived a short time after the operation.

Mrs. James was a member of the Methodist church and a devoted Christian woman. She leaves a husband and one child, Christina, a little girl of 9 years to mourn her loss.

The Signal extends sympathy to the bereaved family.

Miss Ann Morris of Dallas has arrived in the city and is in charge of the Millinery department of the Bryant-Link store. Miss Morris has had a wide experience in millinery and she will be pleased to show her nice line to the ladies of Snyder and vicinity.

Miss Susan Rush entertained with a Theatre party at the Cozy and an after theatre luncheon at the Chocolate shop, Wednesday evening. The guests were: Misses Helen Rootes and Verna Middleton and Messrs. Dick Leslie, Booten and Rankin Thompson.

The Snyder Signal suggests that her people get in the race for the establishment of the new A. & M. College, which is proposed in a bill now pending before the Texas Legislature. The Signal says it will hardly be located above the Cap-Rock, and suggests that Snyder is the logical point. Snyder was in the race when the school was attempted to be located before. Snyder would have gotten the school, and it would now be in operation had it not been for the effort to jockey it off to Abilene. If the location was left to us, we would say put it at Snyder. We rather favor its location below the cap-rock, at Snyder, than to bring it higher up. It would be centrally and accessably located. Snyder will fill both of these requirements. The Plains and Panhandle country will ask that the West Texas Normal College be equipped to teach agriculture peculiarly adapted to this section. Let Snyder get in the ring. She stands a good chance to get the location of this new institution.—Lockney Beacon.

We are very grateful to the Beacon for its kind consideration unsolicited in regard to Snyder and the location of the A. & M. College. Snyder is going to ask for the West Texas A. & M. College, we will present our advantages modestly but frankly and if we fail in receiving the location we are still for the West Texas A. & M. College.

THE DAIRY COW A SOLUTION TO PRESENT FARMING PROBLEM

Every farmer is asking this question "What can I produce next year and in future years that I can sell quickly for cash with a margin of profit above cost of production?" A careful study of this question reveals but the one answer, namely: those products which during the past have always sold readily at good prices and for immediate cash. Such products are butter fat and offspring from the dairy cow, eggs, poultry and hogs. In other words the cow, the hog, and the hen will put any farmer in a position to live on a cash basis, enable him to produce other farm crops without borrowing money in advance and above all enable him to independently "live at home." with cotton practically an unmarketable crop at this time, acres of it being plowed under because the claim is made that the selling price will not justify the cost of picking and ginning the farmer who in the past has planted his acreage largely to this crop does not face a very optimistic outlook for his next years operation if he expects to follow his old paths. On the other hand, it is encouraging to know that butterfat in form of cream finds a ready and cash market, that Texas is by no means oversupplied with this product and that by using the byproducts, skim milk, for calves, poultry and pigs other products can be secured that can be sold for cash, thus enabling him to exist in this most critical time in the history of our farming operations. Food and food crops should be the basis for our 1921 farming operations with enough live stock to convert them into readily salable products. Think it over, Mr. Farmer, look over your community and see for yourself who the farmers are that have gotten by this year and follow that old axiom "delay is dangerous." Remember that from six to ten good dairy cows, fifty to one hundred laying hens, with two brood sows will make any farmer independent.

You remember the old saying that "can't didn't do anything," is as true as steel. The person or community that never tries never does anything. The school boy or girl who says "I can, I will, or I will make an effort" is the one that will accomplish things in the world. The town or community that says we will try is the one that will do things. It is better to try and fail than not to try at all. Poor old Micawber who was waiting for something to "turn up" was a wart on society.

"HOME-CHURCH CAMPAIGN."

Dallas, Texas.—Widespread interest is being manifested in the "Home—Church Campaign" which is being carried on among the Baptists of Texas under the direction of the State Executive Board. The Campaign began January 15th and will continue until March 15th. Dr. T. V. Neal, Executive Secretary working under the Baptist General Convention of Texas, is State Organizer for the movement. "The 'Home—Church Campaign' is for the purpose of reaching every member of every Baptist church in Texas through what we call an 'every-member canvass' to be put on by the local Baptist forces in churches throughout the state." Dr. Neal said February 1, "We plan to enlist more of the people in putting conscience into their church membership; to strengthen the lead of local pastors and to make their support adequate, especially in the rural districts; to get such support placed on a regular, systematic basis; and to get subscribers to the 75 Million Fund to agree to pay on the weekly or monthly basis instead of the annual or semi-annual basis, thus freeing the hands of the pastor and church for the greater moral and spiritual development of its membership and friends.

The Newby-Brown Wedding.

After the close of the morning service Sunday Evangelist and Mrs. Clyde Lee Fife were visited in their home by Mr. Roy H. Brown, life time friend of Dr. Fife. Mr. Brown brought with him his bride-to-be, Miss Myrtle Newby to whom he was immediately united in marriage. The ceremony was beautiful and impressive.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown were in the company of their parents and Mr. and Mrs. Fife most of the afternoon and evening, but the wedding remained for that day a secret.

Mr. Brown is employed with the Cozy Theatre where he will remain and he and Mrs. Brown will make their home in Snyder.

UNIVERSITY REMOVAL ENDORSED BY STUDENTS

Austin, Texas, Feb. 8.—A petition over twenty-five yards in length and signed by 2461 students of the University of Texas endorsing the proposal of the Board of Regents and urging the removal of the University to the Brackenridge site, will be presented to the legislature by prominent students of the institution, who circulated the petition. At the time the petition was circulated opportunity was given also for students opposed to the removal to record that fact. The record showed, on final count, 2461 for and 220 against removal. It is regarded as significant that the students signing the petition for removal represent 214 counties over the state, and that the count would indicate strong approval on the part of students from all parts of the state, with the possible exception of those of Austin, where the chief opposition has been manifested. Of the students recording opposition to the proposal, 40 per cent gave their place of residence as Austin. However, more than half the students from Travis county, most of whom reside in Austin, signed the petition favoring removal.

Rotan is to have another newspaper, edited by B. W. Eaton. Mr. Eaton is a graduate of the A. & M. college. It will be published monthly in behalf of the farmers of Fisher county.

A Princess of Mars

SYNOPSIS.

FOREWORD.—The author tells of his acquaintance with the hero of one of the most remarkable adventures ever recorded. From a manuscript left by his friend he has vividly set out the strange happenings which brought together a brave Virginia gentleman and a Princess of Mars.

My horse was traveling practically unguided, as I knew that I had probably less knowledge of the exact location of the trail to the pass than he, and thus it happened that he entered a defile which led to the summit of the range and not to the pass which I had hoped would carry me to the valley and to safety.

My first knowledge that I was on the wrong trail came when I heard the yells of the pursuing savages suddenly grow fainter and fainter far off to my left.

I drew rein on a little level promontory overlooking the trail below and to my left, and saw the party of pursuing savages disappearing around the point of a neighboring peak.

I knew the Indians would soon discover that they were on the wrong trail and that the search for me would be renewed in the right direction as soon as they located my tracks.

I had followed the trail for perhaps a hundred yards when a sharp turn to the right brought me to the mouth of a large cave. The opening was about four feet in height and three to four feet wide, and at this opening the trail ended.

Dismounting, I laid Powell upon the ground, but the most painstaking examination failed to reveal the faintest spark of life.

Leaving the body where it lay on the ledge I crept into the cave to reconnoiter. I found a large chamber, possibly a hundred feet in diameter and thirty or forty feet in height; a smooth and well-worn floor, and many other evidences that the cave had, at some remote period, been inhabited.

As I was continuing my examination I commenced to feel a pleasant drowsiness creeping over me which I attributed to the fatigue of my long and strenuous ride, and the reaction from the excitement of the fight and the pursuit.

I soon became so drowsy that I could scarcely resist the strong desire to throw myself on the floor of the cave for a few moments' rest, but I knew that this would never do, as it would mean certain death at the hands of my red friends, who might be upon me at any moment. With an effort I started toward the opening of the cave only to reel drunkenly against a side wall, and from there slip prone upon the floor.

A sense of delicious dreaminess overcame me, my muscles relaxed, and I was on the point of giving away to my desire to sleep when the sound of approaching horses reached my ears. I attempted to spring to my feet but was horrified to discover that my muscles refused to respond to my will. I was now thoroughly awake, but as unable to move a muscle as though turned to stone. It was then, for the first time, that I noticed a slight vapor filling the cave. There also came to my nostrils a faintly pungent odor, and I could only assume that I had been overcome by some poisonous gas, but why I should retain my mental faculties and yet be unable to move I could not fathom.

The noise of the approaching horses had ceased, and I judged the Indians were creeping stealthily upon me along the little ledge which led to my living tomb.

I had not long to wait before a stealthy sound apprised me of their nearness, and then a war-bonneted, paint-streaked face was thrust cautiously around the shoulder of the cliff, and savage eyes looked into mine.

The fellow, instead of approaching, merely stood and stared; his eyes bulging and his jaw dropped. And then another savage face appeared, and a third and fourth and fifth, craning their necks over the shoulders of their fellows whom they could not pass upon the narrow ledge. Each face was the picture of awe and fear, but for what reason I did not know, nor did I learn until ten years later.

Suddenly a low but distant moaning sound issued from the recesses of the cave behind me, and, as it reached the ears of the Indians, they turned and fled in terror, panic stricken. Their wild cries echoed in the canyon for a short time, and then all was still once more.

The sound which had frightened them was not repeated, but it had been sufficient as it was to start me speculating on the possible horror which lurked in the shadows at my back.

Several times I thought I heard faint sounds behind me as of some body moving cautiously, but eventually even these ceased, and I was left to the contemplation of my position without interruption.

Until possibly midnight all was silence, the silence of the dead; then, suddenly, the awful moan of the morning broke upon my startled ears, and there came again from the black shadows the sound of a moving thing, and a faint rustling as of dead leaves.

The shock to my already overstrained nervous system was terrible in the extreme, and with a superhuman effort I strove to break my awful bonds. Then something gave, there was a momentary feeling of nausea, a sharp click as of the snapping of a steel wire, and I stood with my back against the wall of the cave, facing my unknown foe.

And then the moonlight flooded the cave, and there before me lay my own body as it had been lying all these hours, with the eyes staring toward the open ledge and the hands resting limply upon the ground. I looked first at my lifeless clay there upon the floor of the cave and then down at myself in utter bewilderment; for there I lay clothed, and yet here I stood, but naked as at the minute of my birth.

"For There I Lay Clothed, and Yet Here I Stood, but Naked as at the Minute of My Birth."

My first thought, was, Is this then death! Have I indeed passed over forever into that other life! But I could not well believe this, as I could feel my heart pounding against my ribs from the exertion of my efforts to release myself from the anesthesia which had held me.

Again was I suddenly recalled to my immediate surroundings by a repetition of the weird moan from the depths of the cave. Naked and unarmed as I was, I had no desire to face the unseen thing which menaced me.

I leaped quickly through the opening into the starlight of a clear Arizona night. The crisp, fresh mountain air outside the cave acted as an immediate tonic and I felt new life and new courage coursing through me. Pausing upon the brink of the ledge I upbraided myself for what now seemed to me wholly unwarranted apprehension. My better judgment, when permitted the direction of clear and logical reasoning, convinced me that the noises I had heard must have resulted from purely natural and harmless causes; probably the conformation of the cave was such that a slight breeze had caused the sounds I heard.

As I stood meditating, I turned my gaze to the heavens, where the myriad stars formed a gorgeous and fitting canopy for the wonders of the earthly scene. My attention was quickly riveted by a large red star above the horizon. As I gazed upon it I felt a spell of overpowering fascination—it was Mars, the god of war, and for me, the fighting man, it had always held the power of irresistible enchantment. As I gazed at it on that far-gone night it seemed to call across the unthinkable void, to lure me to it, to draw me as the lodestone attracts a particle of iron.

My longing was beyond the power of opposition; I closed my eyes, stretched out my arms toward the god of my vocation and felt myself drawn with the suddenness of thought through the trackless immensity of space. There was an instant of extreme cold and utter darkness.

CHAPTER II.

My Advent on Mars.

I opened my eyes upon a strange and weird landscape. I knew that I was on Mars; not once did I question either my sanity or my wakefulness.

It was midday, the sun was shining full upon me and the heat of it was rather intense upon my naked body, yet no greater than would have been true under similar conditions on an Arizona desert.

A little to my left, perhaps a hundred yards, appeared a low, walled enclosure about four feet in height. No water, and no other vegetation than moss was in evidence, and as I was somewhat thirsty I determined to do a little exploring.

Springing to my feet I received my first Martian surprise, for the effort, which on Earth would have brought me standing upright, carried me into the Martian air to the height of about three yards. I alighted softly upon the ground, however, without appreciable shock or jar. Now commenced a series of evolutions which even then seemed ludicrous in the extreme. My muscles, perfectly attuned and accustomed to the force of gravity on Earth, played the mischief with me in attempting for the first time to cope with the lesser gravitation and lower air pressure on Mars.

I was determined, however, to explore the low structure which was the only evidence of habitation in sight, and so I hit upon the unique plan of reverting to first principles in locomotion, creeping. I did fairly well at this and in a few moments had reached the low, encircling wall of the enclosure. I cautiously gained my feet and peered over the top upon the strangest sight it had ever been given me to see.

The roof of the enclosure was a solid glass about four or five inches in thickness, and beneath this were several hundred large eggs, perfectly round and snowy white. The eggs were nearly uniform in size, being about two and one-half feet in diameter.

Five or six had already hatched and the grotesque caricatures which sat blinking in the sunlight were enough to cause me to doubt my sanity. They seemed mostly head, with little scrawny bodies, long necks and six legs, or, as I afterward learned, two legs and two arms, with an intermediary pair of limbs which could be used at will either as arms or legs. Their eyes were set at the extreme sides of their heads a trifle above the center and protruded in such a manner that they could be directed either forward or back and also independently of each other, thus permitting this queer animal to look in any direction, or in two directions at once, without the necessity of turning the head.

There was no hair on their bodies, which were of a very light yellow-green color. In the adults, as I was to learn quite soon, this color deepens to an olive green and is darker in the male than in the female.

The iris of the eyes is blood red, as in Albinos, while the pupil is dark. The eyeball itself is very white, as are the teeth. These latter add a most ferocious appearance to an otherwise fearsome and terrible countenance, as the lower tusks curve upward to sharp points which end about where the eyes of earthly human beings are located. The whiteness of the teeth is not that of ivory, but of the snowiest and most gleaming of china.

I was given but little time to speculate on the wonders of my new discovery. I had seen that the eggs were in the process of hatching, and as I stood watching the hideous little monsters break from their shells I failed to note the approach of a score of full-grown Martians from behind me.

They might have captured me easily, but their intentions were far more sinister. It was the rattling of the accoutrements of the foremost warrior which warned me. Had not the rifle of the leader of the party swung from its fastenings beside his saddle in such a way as to strike against the butt of his great metal-shod spear I should have snuffed out without ever knowing that death was near me. But the little sound caused me to turn, and there upon me, not ten feet from my breast, was the point of that huge spear, a spear forty feet long, tipped with gleaming metal, and held low at the side of a mounted replica of the little devils I had been watching.

But how puny and harmless they now looked beside this huge and terrific incarnation of hate, of vengeance, and of death. The man himself, for such I may call him, was fully fifteen feet in height and, on earth, would have weighed some four hundred pounds.

And his mount! How can earthly words describe it! It towered ten feet at the shoulder; had four legs on either side; a broad flat tail, larger at the tip than at the root, and which it held straight out behind while running; a gaping mouth which split its head from its snout to its long, massive neck.

Like its master, it was entirely devoid of hair, but was of a dark slate color and exceeding smooth and glossy. Its belly was white and its legs shaded from the slate of its shoulders and hips to a vivid yellow at the feet.

Unarmed and naked as I was, the first law of nature manifested itself in the only possible solution of my immediate problem, and that was to get out of the vicinity of the point of the charging spear. Consequently I gave a very earthy and at the same time superhuman leap to reach the top of the Martian incubator, for such I had determined it must be.

My effort was crowned with a success which appalled me no less than it seemed to surprise the Martian warriors, for it carried me fully thirty feet into the air and landed me a hundred feet from my pursuers and on the opposite side of the enclosure.

"My Effort Was Crowned With a Success Which Appalled Me No Less Than It Seemed to Surprise the Martian Warriors."

I alighted upon the soft moss easily and without mishap, and turning saw my enemies lined up along the further wall. Some were surveying me with expressions which I afterward discovered marked extreme astonishment, and the others were evidently satisfying themselves that I had not molested their young.

They were conversing together in low tones, and gesticulating and pointing toward me. Their discovery that I had not harmed the little Martians and that I was unarmed must have caused them to look upon me with less ferocity; but, as I was to learn later, the thing which weighed most in my favor was my exhibition of hurdling.

While the Martians are immense, their bones are very large and they are muscled only in proportion to the gravitation which they must overcome.

The result is that they are infinitely less agile and less powerful, in proportion to their weight, than an Earth man, and I doubt that were one of them suddenly to be transported to Earth he could lift his own weight from the ground; in fact, I am convinced that he could not do so.

My feat, then, was as marvelous upon Mars as it would have been upon Earth, and from desiring to annihilate me they suddenly looked upon me as a wonderful discovery to be captured and exhibited among their fellows.

I noted that each was armed with several other weapons in addition to the huge spear which I have described. The weapon which caused me to decide against an attempt at escape by flight was what was evidently a rifle of some description and which I felt, for some reason, they were peculiarly efficient in handling.

These rifles were of a white metal stocked with wood, which I learned later was a very light and intensely hard growth much prized on Mars, and entirely unknown to us denizens of Earth. The metal of the barrel is an alloy composed principally of aluminum and steel which they have learned to temper to a hardness far exceeding that of the steel with which we are familiar. The weight of these rifles is comparatively little, and with the small caliber, explosive, radium projectiles which they use and the great length of the barrel, they are deadly in the extreme and at ranges which would be unthinkable on Earth. The theoretic effective radius of this rifle is three hundred miles, but the best they can do in actual service when equipped with their wireless finders and sighters is but a trifle over two hundred miles.

The Martians, after conversing for a short time, turned and rode away in the direction from which they had come, leaving one of their number alone by the enclosure. When they had covered perhaps two hundred yards they halted and turning their mounts toward us sat watching the warrior by the enclosure.

When his force had come to a halt he dismounted, threw down his spear and small arms and came around the end of the incubator toward me, entirely unarmed and as naked as I, except for the ornaments strapped upon his head, limbs and breast.

When he was within about fifty feet of me he unclasped an enormous metal armband and holding it toward me in the open palm of his hand, addressed me in a clear, resonant voice, but in a language, it is needless to say, I could not understand. He then stopped as though waiting for my reply, pricking up his antennae-like ears and cocking his strange-looking eyes still further toward me.

As the silence became painful I concluded to hazard a little conversation on my own part, as I had guessed that he was making overtures of peace.

Stretching my hand toward him I advanced and took the armband from his open palm, clasping it about my arm, above the elbow; smiled at him and stood waiting. His wide mouth spread into an answering smile, and locking one of his intermediary arms in mine we turned and walked back toward his mount. At the same time he motioned his followers to advance.

He exchanged a few words with his men, motioned to me that I would ride behind one of them, and then mounted his own animal. The fellow designated reached down two or three hands and lifted me up behind him on the glossy back of his mount, where I hung on as best I could by the belts and straps which held the Martian's weapons and ornaments.

The entire cavalcade then turned and galloped away toward the range of hills in the distance.

In a short time we gained the foot of the mountains, and after traversing a narrow gorge came to an open valley, at the far extremity of which was a low tableland upon which I beheld an enormous city. Toward this we galloped, entering it by what appeared to be a ruined roadway leading out from the city, but only to the edge of the tableland, where it ended abruptly in a flight of broad steps.

Upon closer observation I saw as we passed them that the buildings were deserted, and while not greatly decayed had the appearance of not having been tenanted for years, possibly for ages. Toward the center of the city was a large plaza, and upon this and in the buildings immediately surrounding it were camped some nine or ten hundred creatures of the same breed as my captors, for such I now considered them, despite the suave manner in which I had been treated.

With the exception of their ornaments all were naked. The women varied in appearance but little from the men, except that their tusks were much larger in proportion to their height, in some instances curving nearly to their high-set ears. The adult females ranged in height from ten to twelve feet.

The children were light in color, even lighter than the women, and all looked precisely alike to me, except that some were taller than others; older, I presumed.

I saw no signs of extreme age among them, nor is there any appreciable difference in their appearance from the age of maturity, about forty, until, at about the age of one thousand years, they go voluntarily upon their last strange pilgrimage down the river Iss, which leads no living Martian knows whither and from whose bosom no Martian has ever returned, or would be allowed to live did he return after once embarking upon its cold, dark waters.

Valuable to Science.

The telescope gives enlarged view of distant objects, the microscope shows only what is almost in contact with its lens, and by giving a near of making intermediate observation the modifications of the Davon micro telescope have proven a boon to the naturalist. With great depth of focus and a large field of view, the short focus type, for example, has a working distance of 10 to 18 inches, and magnifies 15 to 28 diameters. An adjustable rubber-tipped rod serves as a rest to support the instrument at the desired height for studying such objects as insects, plants and rocks.

Bluffer Finally Unmasked.

For a time a chatterbox may outshine the wiser man whose tongue wags less. But, in the end, as Solomon long ago assured us, "a prating fool shall fail." The man whose brain works full time finds bluffing unnecessary. His talk is profitable, not only to himself, but to all with whom he comes in contact.

THIS BANK WILL BE CLOSED FEBRUARY 12TH in honor of the birthday of ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Is it not altogether fitting that we should thus pay earnest homage to the indomitable spirit that lived and had its being beneath the rough exterior of the child of the soil?

The perseverance that made of the raw stripling of the wilderness the head of our nation, is a story to inspire.

Every American should have graven on his heart and mind the example of Abraham Lincoln's life and teachings as a standard of high endeavor and selfless rectitude.

INCOME TAX FACTS

YOU SHOULD KNOW

Birth, deaths and marriages, during the year 1920 affect materially in come tax returns for that year.

Millions of babies were added to family circles, each of whom brings an exemption of $200 in the parents' income tax return.

Widows and widowers who lost their husbands and wives during the year are especially affected. They are single for the purposes of the income tax law and are granted only an exemption of $1,000 unless the head of a family.

Persons who were divorced or separated by mutual agreement during the year also must consider them-

The status of the taxpayer on December 31, 1920, determines the amount of the exemption. If on that day the taxpayer was married and living with wife or husband, claim may be made for the $2,000 exemption. If single, or married and not living with wife or husband on December 31, the exemption is only $1,000.

Persons who reached majority during the year and whose earnings for that period amounted to $1,000 or more, or $2,000 or more, according to their marital status, must file a return and pay a tax on their net income in excess of these amounts.

To avoid penalty, the return must be in the hands of the Collector of Internal Revenue for the district in which the taxpayer lives, or has his principal place of business, on or before midnight of March 15, 1921.

HOW DOCTORS TREAT COLDS AND THE FLU

First Step in Treatment Is a Brisk Purgative With Calotabs, the Purified and Refined Calomel Tablets that are Nausealess, Safe and Sure.

Doctors have found by experience that no medicine for colds and influenza can be depended upon for full effectiveness until the liver is made thoroughly active. That is why the first step in the treatment is the new, nausealess calomel tablets called Calotabs, which are free from the sickening and weakening effects of the old style calomel. Doctors also point out the fact that an active liver may go a long way towards preventing influenza and is one of the most important factors in enabling the patient to successfully withstand an attack and ward off pneumonia.

One Calotab on the tongue at bed time with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, pleasure or work. Next morning your cold has vanished, your liver is active, your system is purified, and you are feeling fine, with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Druggists sell Calotabs only in original sealed packages, price thirty-five cents. Your money will be cheerfully refunded if you do not find them delightful.—(Adv.)

U. S. Treasury Saving Stamps.

Records of the local postoffice show that the number of residents regularly and systematically investing in Government Savings Securities which are issued by the United States Treasury Department to encourage saving and make the saving of money in large or small amounts convenient and safe, is increasing from month to month.

"Especially attractive locally are the two brand-new securities of 1921, which are the $1 Treasury Savings Stamp and the $25 (registered) Treasury Saving Certificate, and the $100 (registered) Treasury Savings Certificate," said Postmaster E. B. Barnes.

"The $1 Treasury Savings Stamp, used to save money in dollar amounts with a few pennies, is exchangeable for a $5 interest-bearing Government Saving Stamp when four of them are affixed to a Treasury Savings Card. Twenty of them and a few cents can be exchanged for the attractive $25 (registered) Treasury Savings Certificate, or one can use them to build for a $100 (registered) Treasury Savings Certificate. Many persons are buying their $25 and $100 SCertificates outright."

"These securities bear compound interest, are cashable at cost plus interest when the owner has need of his money, and they cannot depreciate in value. In addition, being registered in and inscribed with the owner's name, they are loss and theft proof."

GERMANY MUST PAY SAYS FRENCH PEOPLE

Munich, Feb. 7.—The Allies will be resisted by the German people if they attempt to enforce their reparations demands, Rudolph von Linder told 25,000 persons in a demonstration here.

"There's only one answer to the demands, von Linder declared. It's No."

"If the enemies come they will feel the people's fists."

Paris, Feb. 6.—Complete dismemberment of the German nation if she does not accept her punishment was threatened by France today.

"I will not move one millimetre from my position," Premier Briand declared.

"Germany was guilty, Germany must pay."

French officials indicated there was serious pressure upon them to let Germany bluster and bluff over the reparations, then descend upon the former empire and exact the indemnity demanded by taking possession of German territory.

"There are many Frenchmen whose greatest desire is to see German cities in ruin just as our own cities were demolished by the German invasion," a French official declared.

"Nothing would please this element more than to see Allied agreement on reparations torn to bits while a French army is sent into

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY AMERICAN LEGION

Austin, Texas, Feb. 10.—The creation of the Woman's Auxiliary as a sister organization for the Department of Texas, American Legion, is now under way, and indications are that the Woman's Auxiliary will prove a "big sister" for the American Legion in the state.

Since the perfecting of the State organization of the Woman's Auxiliary, more than twenty-five cities and towns of the state have applied for charters for local units. Mrs. E. C. Murray of Houston, president of the state auxiliary, has started an organization tour, which will embrace twenty-three or more Texas cities, and considerable interest has been aroused in all parts of the state.

A committee report adopted at the last national convention of the American Legion provided that "membership in the woman's auxiliary shall be limited to the grandmothers, mothers, wives, daughters and sisters of the members of the American Legion, and to the grand mothers, mothers, wives, daughters and sisters of all men and women who were in the military and naval service of the United States between April 6, 1917, and November 11, 1918, and died in line of duty or after honorable discharge. This makes the membership resources of the Woman's auxiliary considerably larger than those of the American Legion and

What Good is Skimmilk?

When fed with corn, it will raise almost twice as many pigs to market weight in just about half the time and with about half the amount of corn than when corn is fed alone. It will raise just as good a calf as whole milk at from one-third to one-fourth the cost. When fed to chickens, it increases the production of eggs nearly one-third over grain alone.

But it must be fed warm and sweet with the animal heat still in it. The only way to save all the butter fat and produce skimmilk in the proper condition for feeding is to use a cream separator.

It will pay you better to buy a separator now than later because butter fat is worth more in the winter than in the summer. You can get more out of corn by feeding it to stock and selling your butter fat than you can by selling the corn.

For the next few weeks, we are offering special inducements on the Primrose cream separator to those who need a machine. If you have no separator or if your machine is old, now is the time to buy a new thoroughly up-to-date Primrose that saves all the butter fat and makes money for you every day in the year. Come in and see us, drop us a card, or telephone us. We will be glad to bring a machine to your home and demonstrate it.

French officials admitted they were unable to determine now whether the uproar in Germany over the Allied demands was a bluff or really the prelude to a situation which might justify the nation in unsheathing the sword.

Josh Billings.

The humorist whose pen-name was "Josh Billings," was Henry Wheeler Shaw. He lived from 1815 to 1885. He turned off many shrewd sayings, bits of quaint philosophy and pointed jokes, but they were rather damaged by the laboriously bad spelling in which they were written. This style of humorous writing, quite popular in the United States half a century ago, has about gone out of vogue. Today Josh Billings is little more than a name.
