THIRTY-FIFTH YEAR

NUMBER THIRTEEN.

WAR LIABLE IF ENGLAND IMPOSES TERMS IS THREAT OF DE VALERIA

PAY SCHOOL TAX IN SEPTEMBER

A campaign has been started to pay your school tax in September and help the school tide over. If enough tax would be paid in in Sept. to run one month, it would save the board having to borrow the money thereby saving interest. It would be quite an item now to save that amount, deficient as the school funds will be.

Miss Ida Kelley, the collector, is now ready and has already issued some receipts and she would be pleased to issue yours, in September.

GAINES COUNTY ROADS ARE IN GOOD SHAPE

The Commissioners' Court of Gaines County has just completed grading and dragging a little stretch of road east of Seminole, and this completion puts the roads of Gaines county in excellent condition.

We have what we believe to be the best stretch of dirt road to be found anywhere in Texas. We have tourists from every direction, every day, who compliment us on the excellent condition of Gaines County's roads. Despite certain reports to the contrary, all the public roads of the county are entirely free from sand, and the tourist needs his low gear for starting purposes only. Men who have driven over the roads in and through central Texas as well as those of the central and north plains, with one accord praise the excellent condition of our roads and without hesitancy state that they are superior to any purely dirt roads in the entire country.

This excellent condition of our roads is due largely to the use of the drag which has been used regularly after the roads were graded some time back, and also the excellent work and co-operation shown by the Spearman Land Company at Seagraves. They having on their own accord graded and placed in first-class condition some forty miles of road in and around Seagraves.

So we would say to anyone who wants to live in a county with good roads, do not pass up Gaines county, and to the tourists of the country, that Gaines County can give you more miles of first class dirt road than any other county in Texas.—Seminole Sentinel.

Scurry county should try this recipe on the Dunn road as they have on the Ira road. It is worth the money.

Good Rain Falls.

A very fine rain fell Monday night, covering the entire county. Reports from Dunn is that it was light there, other places received an inch of rain and better. 1.15 inches fell at Snyder. Though late coming it will be of considerable benefit to most all crops. Late cotton will be benefitted for there were lots of small holes that will now be maturated. One man said he thought he would be benefitted two or three bales.

Lots of late feed will be benefitted. There is already a big feed crop, but it doesn't matter how much feed is made it can be stowed away for the years that will be short.

Those who want to break their land can now do so in preparation of sowing wheat. Indications are that a good acreage will be sown to wheat this fall. In fact, a larger acreage to wheat is expected than is common sown.

Will We or Will We Not?

The Snyder public school opened Monday with a splendid enrollment. There were 180 high school pupils at the West Ward and 592 in the grades school at the Central building, and enough new ones have entered since to run enrollment up to 800. Prospects for the coming session is very flattering.

Interest is the very best, and students have gotten down to work in earnest. Practice in athletics has already begun. Mr. Alsop, the principal, assisted by Miss Runkles and Miss Wicker. But the school success depends upon the co-operation of everybody. The boys and the girls are taking their places for a term of work that will have to do with their lives from this time forward, to the close. This is an important event for all of us. This school term might shape the destiny of some school boy or girl. What does this have to do with the parent? And what part do we have to play in this all important question.

It means that we are to be the beneficiaries of this great school system of schools in measure as we avail ourselves of it through our children.

In view of this fact we should know the teachers. We should know them intimately in connection with their work with our children, especially. We should then keep in touch with them and go forward through the session, being fully informed as to the progress that is being made by our sons and our daughters. It is unfair to the teachers to the officers and to the children, for us to decline to keep in touch with the work and then to complain about this, or that, failing to meet our expectation. Unfortunately we are prone to criticize.

at times, when criticism is not due, and in such instances as this there is no real trouble with the school, save in the minds of the people. If we say, unthoughtfully that our school is bad, it goes out over the country that the Snyder school is bad. If we say it is the best then it is the best for we have so declared, what is a school system more than what the patrons and teachers make it.

These schools are ours and they will amount in measure at least, to just what we design they shall. The patrons of a school or system, have considerably to do with the character and success of the institution. Friendliness, co-operation, interest in the progress being made, all have their part and place in the constructive progress of the school. It is not fair to the officers and teachers that parents shall dump their children into the school to be pushed along the way of success while the parents drop all consideration for the work in which they are engaged.

The success of our children will be, must be, measured by the amount of time and attention we put upon them. It is vitally necessary, that we stand behind the constructive program proposed by the Superintendent and teachers in the school. The work is really ours, and yet we do not realize this. It is only supervised by these men and women, expert in their special lines. Every parent is anxious for the best results for his children, and now, it is up to us parents to get behind those who have to do with their children and see to it, that they are supported to the limit.

Let us stand behind our schools. Let them know that we are proud of them, and expect of them great things, through our children. WILL WE OR WILL WE NOT.

DIPLOMATIC EFFORTS BEING MADE BEHIND SCENES FOR RECOGNITION

Mexico City, Sept. 7.—Although an impasse apparently exists between the Mexican and United States governments on the question of recognition of Mexico due to the Mexican government's refusal to sign a treaty of amity an commerce as a prior act, expressions of the belief are general in Mexico City that some thing is going on behind the scenes in an attempt to break the deadlock, but at the same time to place neither nation in the light of receding from its original position.

The local newspapers, quoting both American and Mexican sources assert that a new basis for an interchange of ideas between George T. Summerlin, the American charge d'affaires, and Senor Paul, the Mexican Foreign secretary, is being expressed although nothing has been given out in official quarters which would clear up the situation.

Mr. Summerlin, denying announcements in this morning's newspapers that he had received instructions from Secretary of State Hughes to take up the matter of recognition of Mexico along new lines, told the Associated Press today that so far as he was concerned the question of recognition remained where it had been, and that he had made no representations to the foreign office here.

D. J. JOBE RESIGNS POSITION WITH HIGGINBOTHAM BROS.

Mr. Jobe has resigned his position with the firm of Higginbotham Bros. & Company to accept a position with the H. K. Mulford Company of Philadelphia, Pa., and will leave in a few days for San Antonio where he will make his future home. Mr. Jobe was formerly connected with this company for a period of eight years, the greater part of which time he spent in San Antonio. He states that he regrets very much to leave the good friends which he has made during his stay here but that he will enjoy again meeting his old time friends and acquaintances in San Antonio.

MR. NORTHCUTT TAKES THE MANAGEMENT AT HIGGINBOTHAM'S

The management of the Higginbotham Bros. & Co. store at Snyder made vacant by the resignation of Mr. Jobe has been accepted by Mr. Geo. Northcutt who has recently held the same position with this firm at Texarkana.

It will be remembered that Mr. Northcutt was manager of the Snyder store a few years ago and was transferred to Texarkana where he has been since that time.

Mr. Northcutt needs no introduction to the people of Snyder and Scurry county for he has a host of friends who are glad to have him in our midst and give him a big hearty welcome.

Cotton Market

Cotton sold Monday in Snyder for 18.50. Tuesday for 20 cents and Wednesday for 22 cents, and Thursday it dropped off to about 18 cents.

There is quite a bit of speculation as to why this decline. Some say it is the speculators taking their profits, others say that it is due to the European unrest, more particularly that of England and Ireland. Anyway these fluctuations will come in the cotton market. The general belief is that cotton will stay around twenty cents, but all beliefs do not have much to do with the cotton market for it could go way up or way down in the face of all ideas. Notwithstanding, however, we do know that the crop is shorter than for many years, and if supply and demand has anything to do with it, the price should hold.

J. D. Atry of Snyder was a pleasant caller this morning. He is out of the harness just now but likely to break into the newspaper game again soon.—Quannah Tribune-Chief.

Presbyterian Ladies.

The Aid Society of the Presbyterian Woman's Auxiliary met at the church Monday 4 p. m., with the new president, Mrs. Walcott, presiding. We regret very much to give up our efficient president, Mrs. Farmer, she having recently moved to Dallas, but we gladly welcome Mrs. Walcott as our leader and assure her of our hearty co-operation in the work.

A very helpful devotional service was enjoyed, the Scripture lesson being from Proverbs 20. Several important business matters were considered at this time, and all unfinished business disposed of. The membership committee for the past month report one new member, Mrs. Noah Jones, whom we heartily welcome as a co-worker.

All are ready for intensive preparations for the Christmas Bazaar, notice time for which will be given later. Work for same will be taken up at the meeting next Monday, which will be with Mrs. Walcott in her home. All are urged to be present.

Clarence Ousley of Fort Worth has announced as a candidate for the United States senate.

By the birth records all over the country there seems to be more girls than boys. Last week the city of Dallas reported 72 births, 37 girls, one set of twins and 33 boys.

HONESTY, RELIGION, BUSINESS.

While the country could not have hoped to escape the painful experience we are passing through in the readjustment period following the war, it is possible to lighten the burden and shorten the period if the best method is employed and the right course followed. It is not a problem for the government alone, it is a problem for the individual citizen. There should be nation-wide support for the right method, cheerful co-operation from all lines of business, from all walks of life.

Since the close of the war many writers and speakers have appeared with suggested panaceas, remedies and cures. Roger W. Babson of Boston has spoken often and written much on that subject. It has been his contention from the first that the greatest need of the nation, the prime need of the business world was a full application of the Golden Rule in all affairs. He would have the stamp of individual integrity on each business transaction. He would have the people practice thrift and be industrious.

He would have personal honesty and individual industry and thrift made a part of one's religion and religion made a part of each line of business. He would put value received in each business transaction. With that done, with these qualities developed and applied, he says there would be business and it would be good business. In his professional work he has seen much of the evil results of the moral lapse in human affairs that came with the war. The weakness he sees is the individual weakness, the lack of wholesome, old-fashioned honesty and fair dealing. Restoring that, he feels, would restore the basis and give business a chance for right development.—Fort Worth Record.

A. R. Kirby, who lives out east of town, was in the city Saturday. Mr. Kirby says that his cotton is going to do better than first expected.

SCHOOLHOUSE VS. COURTHOUSE.

As a rule out in the West, every county has a beautiful courthouse. If we don't have another decent building in the whole county we have a big fine courthouse. Now, why is that? No use to waste paper and time answering that. Everybody knows it is political pride. Our men especially think everybody who goes through town will judge the whole county by the courthouse. It's our capitol building. It reflects our ideals. It is the civic copy set up in the middle of the county for everybody to look at and, and, and, talk about. Every time anybody comes along looking for a new location, a place to buy and make a home, someone immediately points to the courthouse as much as to say "That is our ideal. That is our standard. That is the badge of OUR progress and prosperity." The newcomer gazes around calmly and asks "What kind of a schoolhouse do you have? We had a fine courthouse down where I came from, but the school wasn't any account. That's why I am leaving. I have a large family; I want to give them a good high school education and that is why I am looking for a county with a first-class school. I am not so much interested in the courthouse as the schoolhouse."

Then the land agent doesn't know what to do. He is afraid if he shows him the schoolhouse he will lose a sale, so he begins to make excuses and apologies and promises. "Just cannot do everything all at once in a new country. So the people ??? thought the first thing to do is to build a good courthouse. You see it is very important that we have a good safe place in which to keep our deeds to our homes and the records of the county. Then, too, if a county has a good courthouse, clean and comfortable, modern in every way, the county officers take more pride in their work."

"Say, by the way, we have a fine jail, too. Let me show you that." Hoping to get the prospective buyer's mind off of the schoolhouse. "Nah, I'm not interested in the jail, either. Don't expect to send my boys there if I can find a good school to send them to for a few years."

Poor man. He'll have a time finding as modern a schoolhouse as the courthouse in most of our counties. BUT, you see how it is. The whole county builds the courthouse, and the schoolhouse belongs to just one district. Too true. But if a boy from the poorest little school in the county commits any kind of a crime he is given free transportation then to the county seat. He is hauled up in those tinted rooms which are furnished with the best of everything while the judge and the jury lean back in oak chairs and listen to the boy's downfall with great concern for justice. Perhaps if the boy had ever seen inside of a school room as beautiful and comfortable as the courthouse and if he had had as capable a teacher as the State is now providing a lawyer to prosecute him, he might be in some good school now instead of in so much trouble. Who built that courthouse? Very likely his father helped to build it. No matter if his farm is the least one in the county he had to help build the courthouse, and every boy or girl or man or woman in the whole county will be brought there to answer for all their wrong doings. Why were they not brought there to be educated? Why can we not have a county high school as well as a county courthouse? Why is it not the duty of the county to give every child an equal chance to get an education the same as to be punished for its crimes? Why is it not as much the county's business to work together to build its young life up as to tear it down? Why should not the parents' money go to build a good high school for all the boys and girls in the county the same as to build a courthouse and a jail for all their unfortunate children? Why should not the county's teachers who are trying to develop our children have as comfortable a place to work as the county officers? Why should not the schoolhouse be as beautiful and clean and attractive and SAFE as the courthouse? Which is most precious, the deeds to our homes or the children in our homes? Which will mean the most in the future development of our counties, a modern courthouse for a few men whose characters are already fixed, or a modern school for the hundreds of children whose characters are in the making? Think on these things and see if you can see any relation between them and the crime wave.—Phebe K. Warner.

Senior B. Y. P. U. Organized.

Mrs. Elizabeth L. Candall, special agent of the United States Social Hygiene Board, after a five months investigation has come to the conclusion that it is time for the Womens Club in small cities and towns to wake up to the dangers of the barn dance, unsupervised. With its attendant motor rides and moonshine both kinds. She told the United News that some of these places "bigger description". "Girls will have a good time," she said. "They are inherently good," and with the right kind of care and supervision the evils could soon be eliminated. No one seems to care, is the great trouble of the day.

THE NORAH COLORADO BAPTIST ASSOCIATION

Meets with Pleasant Ridge church near Lone Wolf at 11 a. m., Thursday, September 8, 1921, and continues throughout this week.

A large attendance is expected. The messengers of the churches are duty bound to attend. Everybody is welcome. Let's all turn loose for three days and attend to the business of the churches.

When the war broke out between Spain and the United States, it was very necessary to communicate quickly with the leader of the Insurgents. Garcia was somewhere in the mountain fastness of Cuba. No one knew where. No mail nor telegraph message could reach him. The President must secure his co-operation, and quickly. Some one told the president that there was a fellow there who would find Garcia, if he could be found. He was sent for and given the letter to be delivered to Garcia. In three weeks he found Garcia and delivered his message. The point is this: The man did not ask where Garcia was. It was enough for him to know that such a man existed. If all men possessed such vertebrae as this one, all things possible could be accomplished. We are oftentimes appalled at the weakness of men when some local enterprise is at stake. Even if they are disposed to render assistance, their courage oftentimes falters at the magnitude of the undertaking and ask "how can it be done?" instead of carrying the message to Garcia and surmounting all difficulties by a determined effort.

Mrs. H.M. Blackard is here visiting Mr. Blackard and family have recently moved from Wichita Falls to Plainview.

Bald headed people should nevermore be discouraged, for the sage of Zion City, Wilbur Glenn Voliva, declares that a bald head is the noblest work of creation. It denotes not only sharp intellect, but likewise sterling character and high ideals.

D. J. Neimeyer, cashier First State Bank of Hermleigh, was in the city Monday. Mr. Neimeyer said that the two gins at Hermleigh were beginning to run. Cotton, he said, was going to do pretty well in that community and that Hermleigh would probably gin 3,000 bales or better.

Captain G. C. Buchanan, came down town Monday and was a pleasant visitor at the Signal office. Mr. Buchanan is very jolly and optimistic though 78 years old. He is an extensive reader and conversant on most subjects of the day. He served in the Civil War for 18 months, was wounded and sent home. He has raised a family of twelve children, ten living and twenty one grand children.

LOVE THE YANKS

People of the Aisne Realize Debt to Doughboys.

"Les Americains" Will Long Be Remembered With Gratitude in That Part of France.

Alexander Woolcott writes in the North American Review that whatever of bitterness and disappointment there may be traced in the attitude toward this country among certain French people—and that bitterness is grotesquely exaggerated by some of the incomprehending tourists—you find none of it in the Aisne.

After all, any man's notions on large questions are narrowed and colored and deflected by his own personal experience. I suppose many a Yank who lost his arm in France and was later fleeced by some French shrew now cares precious little what becomes of the "frogs" the next time Germany splits her seams. Then I know one Britanny mother whose bouncing three-year-old boy is a daily reminder of a passing surgeon in olive drab who saved the eyes a stupid midwife had blinded. I doubt if the most caustic of Paris newspapers could dissuade her from hearty enthusiasm for "les Americains."

Or consider the woman who beams over the rich old farm on the outskirts of Beau-le-Gueury, near Belleau wood. To her the war was a distant rumbling, a faraway disaster, till one day all her neighbors from the north seemed in flight past her door and every one told her she too must fly. Then in came certain fresh young Americans who climbed into her greniers, strung wires from her tool-house, displaced her cows with map tables and slept all over her house. She heard the enemy come booming to the very edge of the landscape visible from her upper windows, saw these newcomers hurry up to get between her and that enemy (very obliging of them), knew of the tussle that followed, and then, in time, heard that the Germans were in inglorious retreat to the other end of the world. All this she saw with her own eyes, heard with her own ears. So, when some tired poilu says to her scornfully: "And did you know that those effrayable Americans are claiming they won the war?" she probably makes answer: "Mon dieu, and didn't they?"

So, if it be a good thing to hope that France and America will remain in sympathy with each other—not that their chancelleries should always be in cahoots, but that their peoples should be fraternal and mutually respectful—we may all be glad that the hard-pressed folk of the Aisne at least do not think of the Americans as comrades in arms who, when the fighting was over, packed gayly off and left them neck deep in want and trouble.

Trustworthiness Attracts.

If you can't be a genius you can be a safe and sane leader in your own line. You can make reliability your motto and wrest from reluctant conditions a competence worthy of your rating. The majority of mortals are not trustworthy. They do what attracts irrespective of what the results may be. It's so easy to see the pot of gold at the foot of the rainbow until you go after it. But promises are variable quantities that require sacrifices of means or self to make real. In the process much of the rosiest loses its color and we find life more commonplace than we dreamed. So the honest seeker after peace in progress will try to make good without leaning on fate. And by the process of developing himself he will often rise to the merit and reward of genius. This is a nature offers to men and they grow by using what they have.—Grit.

Heating by Acetylene.

Acetylene as a substitute for coal in domestic heating in Switzerland is reported to have given great satisfaction. For several months, the Palace hotel, a block of five houses in Lausanne, has been heated by hot water from a central station, where acetylene is generated in a stationary apparatus, mixed with air, and burned in a coil system. In 20 minutes the entire hot water service for the five houses can be raised to 150 to 175 degrees F. Heating the building in mid-winter would require nearly a ton of coal per day, but in mild winter-weather a comfortable temperature is maintained with a daily consumption of 200 to 300 pounds of carbide.

Poisoned by Cream Cakes.

Doctors Lesre, Vielle and Langle report to the Press Medicale (Paris) a case of many children being poisoned by cream cakes that had stood for 24 hours in a window show case. So many of these cases occur in the summer time that it is suggested that such fillings—made of sugar, yeast, etc., be forbidden.

Three-Legged Whale.

A whale with three legs the first ever discovered has been caught at a whaling station near British Columbia. The legs project four feet from the body near the tail and are about six inches long. The whale is a female fifty feet long.

Whale Sausage and Steak.

Delicacies made from the flesh of whales are now being put on the market by Newfoundland whalers. Among them are sausages, meat extract, canned steaks and tongue.

WORLD HAS CHANGED LITTLE

Like Ponce de Leon, People Today Are Apt to Believe What They Want to Believe.

Ponce de Leon didn't originate the idea of a spring of eternal youth. That was not in his mind when he sailed for the new world. He sailed with Columbus upon the latter's second trip and was appointed governor of Porto Rico, where he believed gold existed in abundance. While exploring the island he met an old savage, who told him that not only was there gold to be found in another country to the northward, but also there existed in the land a spring whose waters brought eternal youth. So the restless adventurer set out upon his search and discovered Florida.

All of which is stated not because the information is new, but to call attention to the fact that Ponce de Leon believed the eternal youth proposition because he wanted to, remarks a writer in the Columbus Dispatch. All of us, to this good day, do the same thing. We believe that which we desire to believe, whether it is good or bad. We believe the scandals we hear about others when we want to believe them—and we reject them if we do not want to believe such things of the persons connected with the scandal.

Further, we usually hear that which we are desirous of hearing. The wild old savage wanted to get rid of Ponce de Leon. He knew enough of human nature and of Spanish nature to be aware that gold—and youth—would prove highly interesting to the invader. That was what Ponce de Leon was expecting to hear—especially the story of gold. But the old savage, to make the gold story all the stronger and to lure the invader from the island all the more surely, added the eternal youth proposition to the story which the explorer was expecting to hear—and thereby was he successful in ridding his island home of a troublesome character.

Superstitions.

The Woman's Press club gave a party at an Indianapolis hotel, which was followed by a playlet. The woman who had charge of the property list, in her excitement, forgot that a broom and dustpan were among the articles needed. At the last moment, as the guests were arriving, she rushed downstairs and started to enter the elevator with the articles. The middle-aged man in charge halted her and said:

"Mindo, you can't take that broom up in this elevator."

She tried to explain that it was to be used in a playlet and had been forgotten, that she would tuck it away in a corner, and it could not possibly interfere with any one's comfort on the trip up. "No," he replied, "You can take the dustpan all right, but woman, not for anything would I take a broom in my elevator. Why, don't you know it is bad luck?"

She didn't know it, but she had to get out of the car, and smilingly walked up the nine floors.

Hawk Makes Fatal Mistake.

The other day the family of B. P. Malsbury of Bullystown, N. J., heard a crash of breaking glass and discovered a bay window broken, and flopping helplessly about the floor, a large hawk.

Knocked to the floor, also, was a freshly stuffed ruckneck pheasant. Which Russel Malsbury had shot during the gunning season and had just brought home from the taxidermist as a gift for his mother. The stuffed bird had been left in the bay window while the family admired it, and the hawk, probably sighting it from a nearby tree, had made a 100-yard swoop for its intended prey, only to crash through the unseemly glass barrier and injure itself fatally.

New Pumice Stone.

A material noted by a commerce report as promising increased future use is "Kola Selt," a Japanese variety of pumice stone. It is found only in the small group of Nijima islands (New Islands), lying off the Izu peninsula about 30 miles south of Tokyo. It has been used locally from ancient times as a building material; but its great tensile strength, durability and resistance to temperature of 1,300 degrees Centigrade adapt it especially for boiler and furnace construction, as well as linings for safes and refrigerator insulation. It can be easily cut, takes nails, and can be painted or plated with metal.

Memorial Forests?

Memorial trees have been planted by the hundreds in honor of the hero who fought in the great war, and hundreds will be planted yet in their honor, says the American Forestry Magazine. But why stop with the planting of one tree in honor of each? Why not make it a half-acre, or even more, for each, and bunch the planting to make a forest? We can call it whatever we may, a township, a municipal, a county or a community forest, letting it be distinctly understood that it is to serve as a memorial forever to those for whom planted.

French Soil Restored.

Of the 7,000,000 acres of land in France made unfit for cultivation by the effects of battle from 1914 to 1918, only 280,000 acres will not be in a condition to permit sowing during the next season.

Handed 40,000 Prisoners.

After traveling 60,000 miles by the "Black Maria" and carrying nearly 40,000 prisoners a London police sergeant has just returned.

MANSFIELD MINISTER DIES

FROM HEAT STROKE

Mansfield, Texas.—Rev. N. C. Pyles, 67 years old, while engaged in doing some overhead paper hanging, was overcome by the heat Friday and fell to the floor and died almost instantly.

Mr. Pyles was a minister of the Presbyterian church and had lived most of his life at Mansfield.

Labor Problems.

The labor department at Washington recently reported the total of the jobless in this country at 5,000,000, or nearly one in every twenty of the whole population. This is said to break all previous records in that respect. Allowing for the probability that a considerable percentage of these workers have since re-found employment, the number still idle—producing nothing and earning nothing—must be extremely large, and, if not lessened, will tend to create a troublesome situation.

No nation can hope to prosper while its unemployed are vast in number. Idleness deteriorates men and women individually and when it exists on a large scale does great collective damage by diminishing the production which utilizes resources, builds up wealth, and gives a country its strength and stability. When growth of capital is checked or declines the nation so far forth lives on its own fat and ceases to progress. If such a rich country is ours, it should be possible for all who live by toll of brain and brawn to earn at least their daily bread. If present conditions make that impracticable, it is incumbent on everybody to strive to improve them.

But temporary and emergency and charitable measures are not adequate to the final settlement of the unemployment problem. It can be permanently and automatically solved only by steady creation of legitimate new undertakings or expansion of old ones. These should rise naturally out of the needs and opportunities of the time. They will come into being in growing array if industry and commerce are properly encouraged, if the channels of trade are not clogged and taxation shall not hamper enterprise.

To a great extent, the manner of unemployment is bound to right itself. Readjustment must reach its last before long and then, with battered business, the disengaged employees will be summoned back to the ranks.—Leslie's.

Mayor Jim Pagan of Lone Wolf was transacting business in the hub Saturday and was a pleasant visitor at the Signal office.

Will Richards was here the first of the week from Seminole.

"INSCRIPTION ROCK" (OR "EL MORRO.")

Ramah, N. M., Aug. 21, 21.
The people of Inscription Rock or El Morro, community gathered at the "Rock" on the 21st of August, 1921, for a picnic which had been planned, the week before.

Although this country is very thinly settled, there were fifty-one children and adults present.

At noon lunch, which the people had brought, was spread in the camp house, which is provided by the government.

Services were held in the afternoon at 2 p. m. by Rev. J. I. Adams after services the Inscription Rock was inspected by those who were interested in seeing the sights. Some went to the top of the "Rock" to see the old ruins which are very wonderful.

Everyone seemed to enjoy themselves altho the sky was clouded and it rained a bit.

Anyone passing in this vicinity would do well to visit the sights afforded by Inscription Rock.

For the benefit of those who are interested in this part of New Mexico, I will tell some of the country and crops. This country is very mountainous, the mountains being covered with red cedar, spruce pine, white cedar, juniper, pine, and pinon, which bears the pinon nuts.

The crops are looking fine in spite of the fact that we had no rain until about the first of July. But we have had plenty since. Apples, corn, wheat, oats, all kinds of garden truck, and spuds, do awfully good, and in fact almost anything will grow here, besides cotton as the seasons are very short.

It begins snowing here, usually in the month of October, and continues until May.

We have no school as yet, for this is a new country, but we hope to have one soon. Neither have we a church, but services are held twice a month, first at one home and then at another.

There are plenty of good land to be taken up all around here.

HAS COLORADO FOUND THE SAME?

The Answer is Found in the Straightforward Statement of a Colorado Resident.

We have been reading week after week in the local press of Snyder citizens who have been rid of distressing kidney and bladder troubles by Doan's Kidney Pills, and we have often wondered whether the same high opinion of this medicine is to be found in our neighboring towns. This frank and earnest statement by a well-known and respected resident of Colorado will set this doubt at rest. C. D. Daggett, retired stockman, Colorado, Texas, says: "Several years ago I was troubled with my bladder, which caused me to get up often during the night. I can gladly say that Doan's helped me a whole lot and I take pleasure in recommending them to anybody suffering with their kidneys or bladder."

Man is timid and apologetic; he does not say "I think," "I am;" but quotes some saint or sage. He is ashamed before the blade of grass or the blowing rose. These roses under my window make no reference to former roses or to better ones; they are for what they are; they exist with today. There is no time to it. But man postpones or remembers; he does not live in the present, but with reverted eyes laments the past, or, heedless of the riches that surround him, stands on tiptoe to possess the future. He cannot be happy and strong until he too lives with nature in the present, above time.—Emerson.

Business Changes. Z. D. Kemp and Brother last week purchased the Carter Gro. Co., and will take charge on or before the 10th of Sept. The new firm will be known as Kemp Brothers.

C. C. Logan general merchant at Justiceburg has sold his business to a Snyder man, who has already taken charge. We did not learn his name.—Post City Post.

Wants The Signal. Austin, Sept. 4, 1921. Snyder Signal, Snyder, Texas.

Dear Sir: Please send the next issue of the Snyder Signal to Odessa, Texas, and oblige. Mrs. Earnest Ashberry.

B. F. Bennett, assistant organization manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce was in Snyder for a short time Thursday on his way to Slaton. Mr. Bennett has travelled over a good deal of the country and has observed the crops. He says Scurry county looks like it would make as much or more cotton than any county in the west. Moreover he said, that Scurry county in his opinion Texas exhibit at the Waco cotton could carry off the prize of the West Palace.

Bought Store at Justiceburg. Mr. J. S. Eads of Snyder has bought the store at Justiceburg from C. C. Logan. He has already taken charge. Mr. Logan has moved to Snyder and occupies the Eads home in West Snyder.

CROWDED "GARDEN OF ASIA"

Some Sixty Million Chinese Live in an Area About Half the Size of Texas.

While many of us may feel that we live in exceedingly well populated districts, even our most crowded farming communities are almost deserted when compared with some sections of China. Take Sze-chuan, for example, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

In this province some 60,000,000 persons live. The area is 181,000 square miles. As Sze-chuan is surrounded by mountains and in some places is bare rock itself, about 50 per cent of the total area is impossible to cultivate. We find, in consequence, that these 60,000,000 human beings are crowded into a space less than half the size of Texas, and that all the food they eat is grown within this area.

The problem of raising the food necessary to keep these millions alive is complicated by the Chinese farmer's lack of scientific knowledge and the primitive implements he uses. In addition, rice, which is the staple food of China, is the most difficult of all cereals to produce. This is particularly true in a country like China, where the hills must be terraced and the water used to irrigate the paddy fields be lifted by wheels moved by foot power.

Yet these 60,000,000 persons who live in Sze-chuan never know famine, while other parts of China are sometimes decimated through death by hunger. In this, the garden of Asia, is produced nearly every vegetable and grain we know, besides some we do not know. The climate is so advantageous to agriculture and the soil is so rich that fine foods are easily raised. The abundant rainfall, with climatic and other conditions, provides the water necessary for irrigation at certain seasons, for certain purposes.

For instance, so plentiful are oranges—and they are second in quality to none—that a thousand oranges may be bought for half a dollar. However, we must remember that 50 cents in China, especially in Sze-chuan, has a purchasing power of many dollars in that densely crowded land.

Telephony or Teletaphy.

The telephone gets blamed for a whole lot of things and the gentle operator often gets hauled out by the irate subscriber or the fellow who is borrowing somebody else's phone. On the other hand the telephone and the gentle operator are not always credited with all they should be and they deserve mention when they add telephony to their other accomplishments. That must explain this incident. A few days ago a subscriber at Jeffersonville wished to telephone to Mr. Smith, and was told at his office that he had just gone to the bank. The subscriber called the bank number while actively thinking of Mr. Smith; the telephone operator—or her subconscious self, let us say—plugged in at quite another number, of course. "Is this the bank?" "No, this is the newspaper office." "Sorry, I was looking for Mr. Smith." "Well, wait a minute; he has just stepped in." How's that for "service"?—Indianapolis News.

A True Story.

Secretary Lawson Purdy of the Charity Organization Society, said in a recent address:

"Unorganized giving usually does more harm than good. Let me tell you a true story.

"A lady last week besought her husband with tears in her eyes to buy her a set of near-coney furs which she had seen in a Fifth avenue shop, marked down to $1,000.

"My love, her husband said, 'I can't do it. This very day I subscribed $1,000 to save poor dear old Sinnickson from bankruptcy.

"The lady a few days later rushed into her husband's office in great excitement.

"Jack, what do you think?" she cried. "You know that $1,000 set of near-coney furs I wanted you to buy for me? Well, I saw them on Mrs. Sinnickson in Fifth avenue this afternoon."

Consolation in Fatigue Couch.

It will be a revelation to many to find how sure an aid electricity has been and still is in troubles small and great, from the neurotic with logorrhea and the woman who is "so ill as to think she is ill when she is not," to the despondent, mutilated, war-spoiled soldier with increasing paralysis, says the New York Medical Journal in a review of Dr. J. Curtis Webb's "Electrotherapy."

It can soothe and banish all those everyday attacks of headache, tic, neuritis, and make all nerves approach the happy condition of the ninth one. Only those who have tested the restfulness of what is sometimes termed the fatigue couch can appreciate its consoling power.

BAD HABITS GROW

Successive Stages in Husband's Carelessness.

Especially is He Apt to Be Thoughtless of His Wife's Comfort as the Years Advance.

Man is a careless creature by nature and displays it in the stages of his life when he should be most careful. Perhaps his carelessness is only visible in its most aggravating form to his women folk.

The imputation that it is a constant vice would be resented, because a man, while he may grow more careful as he grows older in matters affecting his work, his health, possibly his appearance, fails to observe, self-centered creature as he is, that a careless attitude has arisen and become a habit in his married life.

Before marriage a man's every effort is to please the woman; afterward, to please himself, writes Lady de Frece, in the Paris Mail. There comes a time—some people call it the danger year—when cigars, clubs and company are first consideration with a man. He makes appointments and then tells his wife, where once he consulted his wife, and then made appointments.

Carelessness, that is all. But his wife, whose thoughts are at times vividly retrospective, is wounded on each and every occasion.

The blatant carelessness of the breakfast newspaper once started develops from first hasty glimpses at the news to grim, masticating silences. A husband becomes careless in his hours, careless in his caresses, careless in all his attentions to his wife.

Some men become careless about their clothes, particularly in the house. Anything will do for the house. That is an added slight to his wife and a flattery to himself. He implies that she is not worth the price of a new tie, or the donning of a collar, and that his own personality is potent against the effect of the baggiest of trousers.

Men never quite lose the little traits that marked them in their courtship days. They will still show a hundred and one little politenesses and considerations—but to other women than their wives. The effort to continue for years the same attentions to the one woman is too much for the average man. Where once he hastened to recover a fallen ball of wool he now allows his wife to carry the coal upstairs. Yet his manners outside his home may still be up to his old standard.

New High-Speed Generator.

The so-called Blomquist steam generator, lately put in operation in a Gothenburg mill, is described as a radically new type of high-speed steam generator. It is a boiler consisting of 11 pressed steel cylinders 12 inches in diameter and 8 feet in heated length, and these are rotated on ball bearings at the rate of 375 revolutions per minute. Feed water is injected at one end, the steam being taken out at the other. Centrifugal action spreads the water over the entire inner surface of the tubes, and the temperature of the steel is said to be thus kept below 300 degrees Centigrade. The capacity is 13,000 pounds of steam per hour at 50 atmospheres or 740 pounds per square inch. It is suggested that this generator may be added to increase the pressure in plants already established, and to provide steam for high pressure turbines.

Telephone Fluctuation.

A chart representing the telephone business of the average day shows that from midnight to 6 a. m. business is small and getting smaller; then as the retail stores and other "early" businesses begin to shake off their slumbers it starts to mount. As offices open and clear for the day's action the rate of increase gets faster and faster, until in the one hour between nine and 10 the calls are three times as numerous as during the 60 minutes immediately preceding. As the day's business gets into full swing, with everybody at work, calls continue to increase, though at a much less alarming pace; and the peak-load for the day is carried by the hour between 10 and 11, with 428,000 calls in New York City.

Generals of United States Army.

Following are the six American generals: Ulysses S. Grant, Phillip H. Sheridan, William Tecumseh Sherman, Tasker H. Bliss (emergency), Peyton C. March (emergency) and John J. Pershing. Pershing was made a full general September 3, 1919; he was in command of the American expeditionary forces.

There are two lieutenant generals in the army—Hunter Liggett and Robert L. Bullard—and five major generals—Leonard Wood, John F. Morrison, Charles G. Morton, William L. Sibert, and Henry G. Sharpe.

STEEPLES OF MANY DESIGNS

No General Rule Has Been Followed by Architects in Centuries of Church Building.

Steeple is a general architectural name for the whole arrangement of tower, belfry, spire, etc. The origin of steeples is obscure, the term spire (Old English, "spr," a blade of grass, and so anything tapering to a point), is the specific architectural term given lofty roofs in stone or wood, covered with lead or slate which crown the towers of cathedrals, churches and various other buildings. In plan they are conical, or pyramidal or octagonal, or hexagonal, often pierced by ornamental openings where they are enriched with crockets. On the continent the architects aimed to make the steeple and spire one, merging them into each other, while in England they openly confessed it was a separate structure by making its point of origin behind a plain or pierced parapet, or ornamental battlements. A spire properly belongs to pointed architecture and hence has never been fully developed except in Gothic buildings. As early as the Twelfth century they took on different forms, and almost everywhere from the Thirteenth to the Sixteenth century became the terminating construction of every church steeple, tower or lantern, and also those of similar buildings, more especially in Germany and France. In England Norman churches were without spires, but with the coming of early English, short ones were introduced; decorated Gothic called for much higher ones, and the perpendicular still higher. The earlier spires were generally built of timber, and they were always so when the building was roofed with wood. These early timber spires were, as a rule, not very tall, but later reached a greater elevation; that which crowned old St. Paul's in London is said to have been 527 feet in height. The most lofty spires now in existence, such as those of Salisbury, Coventry and Norwich, are all of stone.

SOME STRAIN ON THE EYES

Wall Paper of Colonial Days Truly Deserved to Be Called "Fearful and Wonderful."

The antique wall papers found in the colonial "mansions" of Portsmouth, N. H., marvelously preserved, are too animated for restful companionship. Only a nerveless race could have gazed all their lives upon such a monotonous variety of incident.

Thomas Bailey Aldrich tells us that a typical paper, familiar to his childhood, displayed over and over again a group of English country people wearing Italian hats, and dancing on a lawn which ended abruptly in a sea beach, on which stood a fisherman angling for a whale, and wisely indifferent to the issue of a terrific naval combat which was being fought just beyond reach of his fishing rod.

Grander in scale, but as irrelevant in detail, is a very handsome paper on the walls of the athletic club, where we beheld gayly dressed ladies and gentlemen passing under Virginia's Natural Bridge to get a good view of Niagara falls, and turning from the barbarous splendor of an Indian war dance to witness a drill of West Point cadets.

The painted walls of the Warner house, discovered by chance in 1850, present a wide choice of disconnected subjects. Abraham prepares to sacrifice Isaac under the supervision of Governor Phipps, and foreign cities of impossible picturesqueness stretch before the eyes of fair Priscilla at her spinning wheel.—Agnes Repplier in Harper's Weekly.

The Opening of a Lily.

The comparatively rare instances in which the motions of plants, such as the opening of buds into blossoms, occur during a single brief period of watching, always give much pleasure to the onlooker.

An English botanist, who has spent much time in India, tells of a species of lily, Crinum augustum, which in an Indian garden opens with uncommon swiftness. Just after a shower of rain in the evening he saw the pink-striped buds of one of these lilies, each about four inches long, on the point of opening. Passing the plant shortly afterward, he was surprised to find the blossoms wide open, and in 20 minutes more the petals had curved themselves backward like ram's horns. In an hour the points of the petals had swept over an arc of at least eight or nine inches.

First Lecturer and His Fee.

Truman H. Talley writes in the World's Work: Ralph Waldo Emerson was the first famous professional lecturer. His fees were low at first. There is a letter in existence that he wrote the William committee regarding his fee: "I am willing to accept the $5 you offer me, but I must have in addition three quarts of oats for my horse." He spoke ninety-eight times in the Concord Lyceum without pay, but when the fee system began, he rapidly rose from the $5 level to $150, and in the days of his greatest popularity he received as high as $500.

A Kindhearted Bluff.

"Don't you think Reginald takes himself rather seriously?"

"No," replied Miss Cayenne. "Reginald knows he's no intellectual marvel. He is merely making a generous effort not to undecieve his fond parents."

DEALS BLOW TO OLD THEORY

Writer Points Out Fallacy of Supposition That Prehistoric Men Were All Savages.

The notion that all prehistoric men were brutes and savages dies hard, a notion which has been spread by poets, painters and sculptors as well as by many thoughtless prehistorians. A theoretic rebuttal is afforded in the simple consideration that any tribe in which brutal and savage elements predominated would have undergone a retrogressive social and racial development and would never have attained the superb qualities which we discover immediately on their emergence from the so-called savage state. Man is not a savage because he dresses in skins and uses stone and wooden weapons; he may be savage while riding in an automobile and using a rifle. "The New Stone Age in Northern Europe," by John M. Tyler, is refreshing for those who desire to bury the primitive savage theory once for all and to give our prehistoric ancestors credit for our fundamental virtues, both mental and spiritual, as well as to excuse them for certain customs which have only recently disappeared from our own civilization. Altogether, the new Stone Age covered not only a very long period of time, but one of great cultural progress, partly autochthonous, but more largely introduced from the East. The varied industries of the era, the valuable implements, the trade in salt, gold, copper and amber, the mining for flint, indicate people equal, if not superior, to the average inhabitants of the same regions of Europe at the present time.—Henry Fairfield Osborn in the Literary Review.

HISTORY REVEALED BY DEBRIS

Interesting to Speculate What Future Explorers Will Think of That of the Present Day.

When the archeologist wishes to know which of two civilizations is the older he seeks a place where the debris of one is piled upon that of the other—superposition, he calls it, Clark Wissler writes in Harper's. Again, if he wishes to determine the periods in the development of a single city he seeks out the places where the daily refuse was dumped. Naturally, the bottom of the dump is the older, the top the most recent. Experience has shown that pottery decorations and styles are subject to frequent changes and that where pottery is made numerous fragments find their way to the dump, where they form successive layers in order of their dates.

The first effective use of this method was in the valley of the Nile, where lies the refuse of the ages, in the strata of which was found the key to the history of early Egypt. The same method has been applied to the valley of the San Juan in New Mexico, in which lies the Animas river and this ruin, and to the neighboring valleys where similar ruins are found. The extensive researches of Kidder, Morris and Nelson have established a relative chronology for the pottery types in this valley.

"Good Queen Bess" of England.

Elizabeth, the "Good Queen Bess" of England, whose reign from 1558 to 1603 was one of the most glorious periods in the history of her country, was the daughter of Henry VIII and his second wife, the famous Anne Boleyn. When Anne fell from favor and was beheaded, the young princess was declared illegitimate and for a time had an unhappy life. Finally, however, she was given her place in the succession, after Edward and Mary, and during Edward's reign she lived a peaceful life. While Mary was on the throne Elizabeth was more or less an object of suspicion, for it was well known that she had been brought up a Protestant, but at Mary's death in 1558 her right to the throne was unquestioned. The great issue confronting her was that of religion. She restored Protestantism, reinstated the English Book of Common Prayer and asserted the royal supremacy over the church, but she avoided fanaticism and showed herself willing to call to her aid Catholic as well as Protestant ministers.—Kansas City Star.

Arabian Horse Has Less Backbone.

The tradition ascribing to the Arab horse extraordinary endurance is sustained by abundant evidence. H. K. Bush-Brown, who presents the case for the Arab in the Journal of Heredity, offers an explanation of the extraordinary endurance of animals of this breed based in part on the fact that the Arab has only five lumbar vertebrae (between the ribs and the pelvis) while all other families of horses have six. This difference in structure is believed to explain why the Arab, though small, can carry great weight. The anomaly illustrates the relation between structure and function.

Like the Poor and Taxes.

The pile of rocks to be broken was a very large one, thought the stone breaker as he gazed at it disconsolately between his bites at a large sandwich of bread and cheese, recounts the London Morning Post. A minister came along and gave him a cheery "Good morning," remarking afterwards that he had a deal of work to get through yet. "Aye," said the eater, "them stones are like the Ten Commandments." "Why so?" inquired the genial patron. "You can go on breaking 'em," came the reply, "but you can't never get rid of 'em."

BIG CATTLEMAN ARRESTED IN AMARILLO AS VAGRANT

"Malefactors of great wealth" may be exempt from arrest in other parts of the world, as our I. W. W. and Bolsheviki friends declare, but that is certainly not the case in Amarillo.

Saturday night a couple of local policemen arrested E. M. Coffman of Goree, Texas, at the F. W. & D. railroad station on the suspicion that he had ridden in on a freight train. Coffman declared that he was a wealthy rancher, and that he did not ride any freights.

Nevertheless, the cops pinched him and booked him on a charge of vagrancy. Because he persisted in his plea that he was worth a half million and the owner of several spacious ranches, the police turned him over to the county authorities Sunday on a charge of lunacy. The county kept him over night and then turned him loose.

Now Coffman has reached his home at Goree, and it has developed that he was really everything that he claimed to be. He is an eccentric rancher, who dresses roughly. He was returning home from a visit to his ranch in Sherman county when he was arrested.

And he has threatened to sue both the city of Amarillo and the county of Potter for false arrest. So local law enforcers are getting their alibis in shape to resist his charges.

Coffman is worth about $500,000, or as his cowboy friends would say, "he's a half millionaire."—Amarillo News.

"I asked her to marry me by talking with my hands like I'd seen the French do. She said yes in German; I understood that much." The war romance between a former doughboy of the Rainbow Division and the daughter of a German farmer with whom he was billeted in the Army of Occupation ended in New York last week with the marriage of Everett C. Haughn, Columbus, Ohio, and Fraulein Elsie Bauer, Unkelbach on the Rhine, Germany. Two of the bridegroom's buddies of the American Legion of Columbus attended him at the wedding, one acting as best man. The couple will live in Columbus.

MAN'S BIG BLUFF

Mere Fiction That He Is Incapable of Housework.

Yet Throughout the History of the World, as Writer Points Out, He's Got Away With It.

When Adam delved and Eve spun, the fiction that man is incapable of housework was first established. It would be interesting to figure out just how many foot pounds of energy men have saved themselves, since the creation of the world, by keeping up the pretense that a special knack is required for washing dishes and for dusting, and that the knack is wholly feminine. The pretense of incapacity is invidious in its audacity, and yet it works, Heywood Brown writes in McCall's Magazine.

Men build bridges and throw railroads across deserts, and yet they content themselves with the job of sewing on a button is beyond them. Accordingly, they don't have to sew buttons.

It might be said, of course, that the safety of suspension bridges is so much more important than that of suspenders that the division of labor is only fair, but there are many of us who have never thrown a railroad in our lives, and yet swagger in all the glory of masculine achievement without undertaking any of the drudgery of odd jobs.

Probably men alone could never have maintained the fallacy of masculine incapacity without the aid of women. As soon as that rather limited sphere, once known as woman's place, was established, women began to glorify and exaggerate its importance, by the pretense that it was all so special and difficult that no other sex could possibly begin to accomplish the tasks entailed. To this declaration men gave immediate and eager assent and they have kept it up. The most casual examination will reveal the fact that all the jokes about the horrible results of masculine cooking and sewing are written by men. It is all part of a great scheme of sex propaganda.

Naturally there are other factors. Biology has been unscrupulous enough to discriminate markedly against women, and men have seized upon this advantage to press the belief that, since the bearing of children is exclusively the province of women, it must be that all the caring for them belongs properly to the same sex. Yet how ridiculous this is.

Most things which have to be done for children are of the simplest sort. They should tax the intelligence of no one. Men profess a total lack of ability to wash baby's face simply because they believe there's no great fun in the business, at either end of the sponge. Protectively, man must go to the whole distance and pretend that there is not one single thing which he can do for baby. He must even maintain that he doesn't know how to hold one. From this pretense has grown the shockingly transparent fallacy that holding a baby correctly is one of the fine arts; or, perhaps, even more fearsome than that, a wonderful intuition, which has come down after centuries of effort to women only.

Seek Candle Light Shade.

At a committee of the National Electric Light Association, investigating the question of toning lamps for color, it seemed to be the general judgment of those to whom samples were submitted that a light even somewhat more distant from white than that of the carbon incandescent lamp was desirable, something indeed approximating the kerosene flame of earlier days. The result of practical experience on a considerable scale in the candle-flame lamp now brought out meets the color requirements very beautifully, and moreover, the coating given to the bulb is permanent in hue even when used on the gas-fitted lamps, thus possessing a virtue which most of the earlier experimental lamps did not have in a reliable degree. The loss in efficiency by the color-toned diffusing coating is relatively small, the specific consumption being less than half that of a carbon lamp of anything near the same color.

Building Model a Wonder.

What is claimed to be the most complete piece of model building ever attempted is that of Pershing square, New York, shown at the recent convention of hotel men in that city. The model is a large one and attempts to be a complete miniature. It was constructed from plans furnished by the public service commission and architects, Francis T. Gilling, a sculptor, worked on it for two years. The materials used for the miniature of Grand Central terminal are wood pulp and celluloid. The 15,000 windows of the skyscraper are shown, together with cars, lights, signal devices and other equipment of the subway. After the exposition the model is to be shown in other cities and may be taken abroad.

Suspicious Prosperity.

"Are there any 'moonshiners' about here?" "I wouldn't make a positive statement as to that," said Squire Witherbee, "but since the eighteenth amendment went into effect a lot of mountaineers in this neighborhood who couldn't support their families before have bought motor cars, phonographs and pianos and finery for their wives and daughters, so I'll just let you draw your own conclusions."—Birmingham Age Herald.

LEGEND OF 'SEVEN SLEEPERS'

Of Syrian Origin, the Story Has Always Been Widely Current in Eastern Countries.

The quotation from Dickens' Christmas Carol, about the "other six" sleepers, is a playful reference to the legend of "The Seven Sleepers of Ephesus." The legend goes back to the time of the persecution of the Christians during the reign of the Roman emperor Decius. According to the story seven Christians fled from Ephesus in Asia Minor in the year 250 or 251, and hid in a cave. There they were discovered, and their persecutors waited up the entrance in order to starve them to death. The seven fell into a sleep in which they lay for nearly 200 years, for it was not until the reign of Emperor Theodosius II (417) that they awoke, believing that they had slept but a single night.

One of the seven went into the city to buy provisions, and he was amazed to see crosses on the churches and other buildings, for while they had been asleep Christianity had made great progress. Offering a coin of the time of the Emperor Decius in a baker's shop, he was arrested, his startling story not being believed until he guided the citizens to the cavern where he had left his comrades. The emperor heard from their lips enough to convince him of the life beyond the grave, whereupon they sank again to sleep till the resurrection. This legend is of Syrian origin—it is widely current in the East, and was adopted by Mohammed, who even admits the Seven Sleepers' dog Kithir, into paradise. In some parts of the world the festival of the Seven Sleepers is held on June 27. The names usually given to the Seven Sleepers are: Maximianus, Malchus, Martinianus, Dionysius, Joannes, Serapion and Constantius.

Egyptian Worship of the Sun.

The Egyptians were, early in their history (about 4000 B. C.), attracted by this light of the sun. They evolved their religion on the thesis that life was given by the sun. It was the heat that he gave that caused all things to grow, and he gave to man warmth and comfort. So they created the god of the sun, and called him Ra-Harachte. In one of the earliest cities, built on the east side of the Nile, and a little to the north of modern Cairo, they erected his first temple. The city was called On, later named by the Greeks Heliopolis, the City of the Sun. Here the Egyptians established the priesthood of Ra, a sect that became famous for its knowledge of the occult sciences, the practice of magic, and the laws of medicine and astrology. It was with them the youthful Moses was brought up, and it was by the art he had mastered in the priesthood of On that enabled him later to put into practice his magic before Pharaoh, which finally led to the liberation of the Israelites.

He Signed with an "X."

An unusual suit, involving the use of a cross-mark as a signature, was tried at Atlantic City, N. J., before Judge Ingersoll. The action was brought by the estate of Michael Quinn against Mrs. Mary Henry for $150 for rent for an apartment, and Mrs. Henry displayed receipts for the money. Quinn, when living, was unable to write, it was testified, and was in the habit of signing papers with a cross-mark.

The estate averred that the cross-marks on the receipts were not made by the same person as marked the lease. The handwriting expert from Philadelphia testified that the cross-marks on both were made by the same person and were therefore authentic. Judge Ingersoll gave judgment for Mrs. Henry.

China's Metal Imports.

The value of China's metal imports was $76,931,631 in 1919, as compared with $21,619,174 in 1913. The advance in value coincides with an equal advance in quantity. Copper ingots were imported in very much larger quantities than ever before and the value was more than 100 times as great as in 1913. The copper imported is used almost exclusively by the mills. Manufactured iron shows considerable gains. There was a large increase in the importations of tin in slabs. This is a product of the Kwangsi mines, and is reimported from Hong Kong after having been exported there from China.

Hard Times.

"Elderly married men have a pretty hard time of it. Their wives care for them no longer, and pretty girls actually despise them." The speaker was George Ade. He went on: "In the lounge of a fashionable restaurant I overheard one night a love-voiced conversation between an elderly married man and his wife. "Bill," the wife hissed, "I don't like the way you looked at that girl in the outrageous yellow gown." "Well," said Bill savagely, "she didn't, either."

Builds Rainbow Bank.

A monument to the persistence of the pioneer spirit is a bank building in northern South Dakota, a unique structure, its owners are sure. It is made entirely of rock from the fields and prairies roundabout. But the startling part of the story is that the work of preparing these stones was done by one mason, unassisted. For almost a year he toiled, splitting the gneiss boulders with iron wedges to reveal their rich color—pink, red, purple, brown, yellow and gray.

Membership in the American Legion proved its worth to Arnold Hawkinson, Glencoe, Minn., after his automobile was stolen in Minneapolis recently. Shortly after the theft police scrutinized an automobile in which two women had driven to the jail for a visit with a prisoner. Under the seat they found a copy of the American Legion Weekly addressed to Hawkinson. The women were arrested and the automobile returned to its owner.

For Torpid Liver

"Black-Draught is, in my opinion, the best liver medicine on the market," states Mrs. R. H. Whiteside, of Keota, Okla. She continues: "I had a pain in my chest after eating—tight, uncomfortable feeling—and this was very disagreeable and brought on headache. I was constipated and knew it was indigestion and inactive liver. I began the use of Black-Draught, night and morning, and it sure is splendid and certainly gives relief."

Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT

For over seventy years this purely vegetable preparation has been found beneficial by thousands of persons suffering from effects of a torpid, or slow-acting liver. Indigestion, biliousness, colic, coated tongue, dizziness, constipation, bitter taste, sleeplessness, lack of energy, pain in back, puffiness under the eyes—any or all of these symptoms often indicate that there is something the matter with your liver. You can't be too careful about the medicine you take. Be sure that the name, "Thedford's Black-Draught," is on the package. At all druggists.

MAYFIELD EXPECTS KEEN COMPETITION

Waco Cotton Palace Official Says West Texas Will Meet Rival

Competition from several directions promises to prevent West Texas from winning first honors with its agricultural exhibits at the Waco Cotton Palace, as this section has been doing each year, according to Seth N. Mayfield, secretary of the Waco Cotton Palace, who was in Fort Worth Tuesday. He declared that there would be exhibits representing East, Central and South Texas to compete with the West Texas exhibit.

The intersectional contest will be one of the most interesting features of the Palace this year, according to Mayfield, Keen rivalry between the sections of the state and diversity of their products, indicates that the interest will be great, he said.

The Palace will carry more foreign exhibits this year than ever before," he stated.

Rat proof storage facilities have been built and protection is guaranteed the owners of the products for exhibition for any length of time. Exhibitors are urged to ship their exhibits to the Palace now, Mayfield stated.

Last year the West Texas exhibit, which is entered every year by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, represented the products of twenty-seven West Texas counties, according to W. T. Wheeler, assistant manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. More counties will participate in the West Texas exhibit this year than before, he said.

The Waco Cotton Palace has made a larger name every year, until this year it is an international affair. Thirty states will have duchesses this year, Mexico, Cuba and Canada also will have large exhibits at the Palace.

During the annual season ticket campaign 1,000 more season tickets were sold this year than last. The Palace will be held this year from Oct. 22 to Nov. 6, inclusive.

IT NEVER FAILS TO PUT HER RIGHT

Muskogee Woman Relieved of 15 Years Trouble By Taking Tanlac.

"Tanlac has relieved me of a case of stomach trouble that made my life miserable for fifteen or twenty years," said Mrs. Margaret C. Grider, 906 Elgin Ave., Muskogee, Okla.

"Nothing agreed with me, and the gas which formed on my stomach bloated me up so that I suffered agony for hours. There was a pressure around my heart that almost took my breath away. I was so nervous and restless any unusual noise almost drove me distracted and I scarcely ever got a good night's sleep. I was so weak and run down I could not do anything hardly, but would just move about the house like I was half dead. I used every medicine I ever heard tell of, but nothing did me any good and I had almost given up hope of ever getting well.

"But after I got Tanlac I began to mend from the very start. My appetite soon became ravenous and I began to eat things I hadn't dared touch in a long time. I have just finished my sixth bottle and haven't felt better in years. I sleep like a child, wake up refreshed and have strength to do my housework with ease. I always keep Tanlac on hand to take when I get to feeling a little bad, and it never fails to put me on the right road again. Tanlac is just grand."

Tanlac is sold in Snyder by Grayum Drug Company.

Favoring the name of a private soldier who gave his life for his country during the world war to that of "some illustrious general," an American Legion post of Minneapolis, Minn., has petitioned the city board of education to name a large new high school there for Cecil Kyle, who was working his way through college by selling newspapers and tending cows when he enlisted.
