A QUICK READ OF THE NEWS

Aircraft buzz city

Look! Up in the sky. It's a bird. It's a plane. It's a...a ... flying go-cart? Two Oklahoma couples, visiting friends in Muleshoe, caused quite a stir this weekend flying their ultra-light aircraft over the city.

Children stopped riding their bikes while parents drifted outside to gawk at the strange visitors in the sky.

Pilot Jerry Brown of Battiest, Okla. described the aircraft, which sound like giant weed-wackers, as powered parachutes.

Kept aloft by rainbow-colored parachutes and powered by 60 horse-power engines, the light-weight aircraft flew over and around Muleshoe at heights ranging from 50 feet in open pastures to 1,000 feet over the city.

Brown said he spent Sunday morning "chasing jackrabbits" in cattle pastures south of town.

"When you leave the ground you leave the hustle and bustle of everyday life behind," said Brown, a truck driver whose delivery route takes him through Muleshoe a couple of times a week. "It's such a relaxing feeling. The scenery is completely different. It's so much prettier in the air."

Brown sells the aircraft through a company called Sky Chutin'. For more information, call (405) 241-5431.

Council increases garbage rates

By RICK WHITE
Managing Editor

The City of Muleshoe will start charging more cash to haul trash next month.

The Muleshoe City Council voted 4-1 Monday to raise residential and commercial rates for solid waste removal.

Starting the first of the month, when Wes-Tex Waste Services takes over the city garbage service, residential customers will pay an additional $3.25 per month and commercial customers between $15-20 more.

The city is basically tacking about $5 on the cost Wes-Tex is charging the city for its waste services.

City Manager James Fisher said the increase will help offset the cost of closing the city landfill, which is included in the 1997-98 budget, and must be closed by March.

Figuring the cost of closing the landfill at $100,000, the rate hike would enable the city break even.

"The idea is for the water, sewer and sanitation departments to pay for themselves," Fisher said. "That way there won't be a need to raise taxes."

Councilman Larry Kirk voted against the rate hike.

He said he considered the cost of closing the landfill a "one-time fee."

Kirk wanted to see the $80,000 the city received from Wes-Tex for two city sanitation trucks and 600 dumpsters used toward closing the landfill.

Fisher recommended the money be set aside in case the project costs more.

"What happens if the cost of closing the

Johnson back on his feet

By RICK WHITE
Managing Editor

Seeing Ted Johnson on the Morton sidelines Thursday during Muleshoe's scrimmage with the Indians at Benny Douglass Stadium is going to be strange.

But the former Muleshoe coach said he is lucky to be on any sideline coaching—or even standing —two months after suffering a serious neck injury.

Ted Johnson

Johnson broke a vertebra in his neck June 10 when he fell from a ladder while working in his backyard in Morton.

He landed head-first on the ground.

Doctors told him the type of injury he suffered easily could have left him paralyzed or even killed him.

"All I can tell you is that you're a lucky man that you have a big, thick neck," one doctor told him. "Most people wouldn't have even survived."

After being hospitalized for several days, Johnson spent the last two months recuperating at home.

"Doctors were telling me how lucky I was," Johnson said. "But I was in so much pain at the beginning, I didn't realize how lucky I really was."

"You don't appreciate what it's like to be healthy until something like this happens."

City auction surprising success

By RICK WHITE
Managing Editor

The City of Muleshoe cleaned house Friday, collecting more than $100,000 during a municipal auction for surplus items it would never use.

The city sold approximately 250 surplus items during the four-hour action at the city warehouse.

The items ranged from wire and tent poles to an Army water tanker.

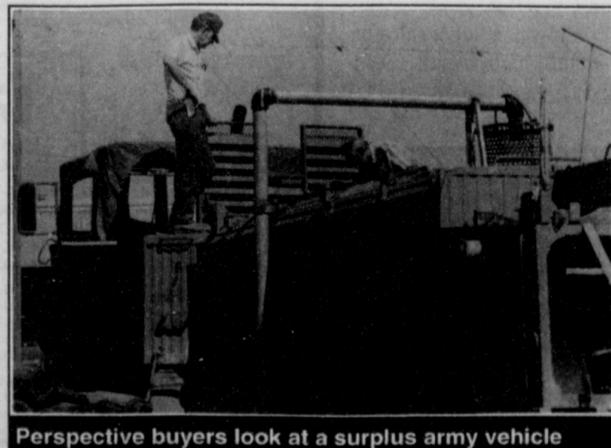

A California man bought two giant beer vats the city somehow owned for $450 apiece.

The auction drew 60 registered buyers from all over the Southwest and at least a hundred more curious onlookers.

City Manager James Fisher figured the surplus sale would bring between $10,000-$30,000.

"I knew we had a lot of stuff out there, I just didn't realize it was worth those kinds of dollars," Fisher said. "We had a lot of good items, it was just that it was stuff that wasn't valuable to us."

RIGHT TOOL FOR THE JOB

BAXTER BLACK
ON THE EDGE OF COMMON SENSE

Some might wonder why prehistoric cave drawings weren't more detailed. Surely there were artists capable of rendering intricate representations of the circulatory system of aurochs or the dentition of a Saber Tooth Tiger drawn to scale.

But what we see on these cave walls are stick figure men chasing antelope shaped quadrupeds, reminiscent of Dick and Jane throwing a bone at Spot. Rather primitive at best.

I think there had to be a Neanderthal equivalent of Norman Rockwell, but he was born without a pencil sharpener, a pencil, or even a Big Chief pad. He didn't have the right tools for the job.

How many times have you screwed up a perfectly good latigo, bridle, spur strap or belt for want of a hole punch?

Have you ever knocked the corners off a hex head nut tryin' to take it off with a pair of pump pliers?

How 'bout wirin' a couple of old board panels across a broken hole in the pen thinkin', 'This will only have to hold 'em till the trucker comes at noon.'

Have you ever fallen prey to the temptation to rope a turn back steer when yer ridin' a 3 year old trainee?

Do you recall using baler twine to repair some temporary break-down, hopin' it will hold until the welder comes?

In Iowa you can buy a handy little tool made from bent PVC pipe affectionately called a chicken catcher. It's like a sheep crook and is commonly used to grab baby calves.

Doug had cornered one of his calves in the barn lot to treat him for pinkeye last June. While a group of his itinerant coffee shop companions watched, Doug attempted several lasso's at the streaking 250 pounder.

Finally the peanut gallery climbed to the fence to help. They stepped carefully around the rain puddles and shoosed and waved as the calf ducked and dived between them.

Randy spotted the chicken catcher layin' with the baby balling gun and empty box of scour pills. "Maybe I can snag him with this", he laughed, pickin' up the chicken catcher. "I'll catch the calf, then you guys come and help."

It was an even match. Randy weighed about the same as the calf. He shot the hooked implement out and snagged the adrenaline charged calf above the fetlock of the hind leg.

He was jerked off his feet, but hung on as the calf jerked, rattled, kicked ad ran, slingin' mud and cow droplets across Randy's broad front. Randy went down, but hung on as the calf drug him around the pen. His teeth were clacking like a bad valve job when the crew, weak from laughter dropped a rope over the calf.

Randy looked like the floor of a stock trailer. "You reckon," he asked, "they make one in a bigger size?"

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Relative demands public apology

Dear Rick:

I was appalled to learn about the recent article, written by you, regarding the death of my nephew, Gary Hanks.

It was bad enough to have written the article, but to not have any regard, or concern about the family, and friends, was unconscionable.

My sister, Charlie Hanks, has a history of high blood pressure, and my concerns are now focused on her health. As a result of your untimely article, her pressure has soared to a very dangerous level.

In my opinion, to restore good faith for your position, you owe a public apology to my sister, and family for the degradation that you have forced them to endure.

In closing, I only hope you have enough compassion to attempt to rectify this horror.

Sincerely
Kay Swena

Board adopts school budget

By TERESA STONE
Journal Staff Writer

Muleshoe Independent School Board has kept the budget and tax rate in check while still managing to give all district employees a raise.

The school board Monday approved a $9.7 million budget for the 1997-97 fiscal year, slightly less than last year's budget.

The board tentatively approved maintaining the current property tax rate of $1.2704 per $100 of valuation. The board will officially approve the tax rate at their next meeting.

The budget includes a minimum teacher salary increase of $1,500 and a raise for all district employees.

Insurance claims in the neighborhood of $800,000 helped offset the salary increase.

The claims are being collected for hail damage and will be used primarily for roofing renovations.

No renovation funds were included in the budget.

In other business Monday:

■ The board discussed a request by Quicksilver Construction to eliminate licated damages for not completing the bandhall and choir room projects on time. The Lubbock contractor agreed to pay the district $300 for each day past the agreed completion date.

Prior to the request, the district approved exemption of approximately 13 days due to rain delay.

Quicksilver, which cited different reasons for additional delays, owes the school between $13,000 and $14,000 in fines.

The board authorized district Superintendent Bill Moore to negotiate a settlement with the company.

■ The board approved campus and departmental action plans. The plans are outlines how each school will implement their goals and objectives.

During discussions, Board Secretary Max King voiced concern about the district's low reading performance on the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills Test (TAAS).

Principals from the local elementary schools assured the board that modifications to reading classes have been implemented in order to better prepare students for the TAAS.

■ The board approved district policy for use of the Internet.

■ The board approved a tuition free transfer agreement with Sudan Independent School District.

The agreement allows Sudan to collect state funding for students who live in the Muleshoe district but attend Sudan schools.

Muleshoe is not eligible to collect state funding for those students.

■ The board hired Kathy Ambriz as a pre-kindergarten teacher for Dillman Elementary. An extra teacher was needed due to an unexpected increase in pre-K enrollment.

GOLF SHOOTOUT: One-in-a-million chance

Picture this: not one, but 11 shooters will have a chance to win a $1 million Saturday if they can make a hole-in-one on Muleshoe Country Club's 9th hole.

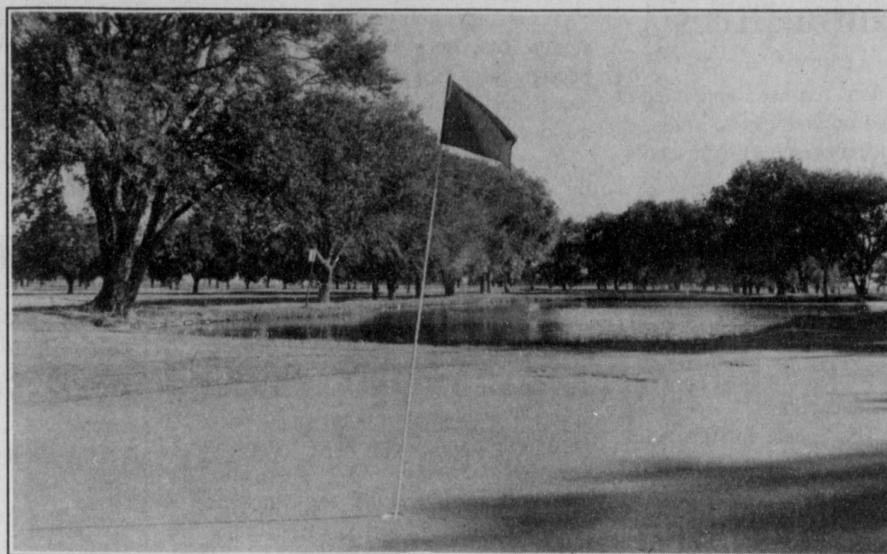

The field of shooters is diverse.

There are three youngsters, representing Muleshoe's high school, junior high, and elementary school. There are two coaches, a local tractor dealer, and two young men, one right out of high school.

Finally, there is the local businessman, a senior parent, who qualified twice shooting for a local civic club.

The event is a fund-raiser for Project Graduation 1998 to allow the graduating seniors a trip their graduation night.

The general public is in-

The 9th hole at Muleshoe Country Club where the shootut will take place vited for a similar shootout, a putting combo, this coming weekend. The 20 closest to the pin on the putting green will each have an opportunity to win $25,000. Balls will cost $2 each or three for $5 to qualify.

This event will precede the Million Dollar Hole-in-One shootout. The times for qualifying will be 3-8 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. to noon Saturday. The finals begin at noon.

Ag chief applauds tax reform package

AUSTIN — Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry today applauded a provision in the federal tax reform package that will allow more families to pass their farms and ranches onto the next generation by providing inheritance tax relief.

"This death tax break is one of the single most important policy decisions that could have been made by our lawmakers in Washington, D.C. to help maintain family farms and encourage younger generations to stay on the farm,"

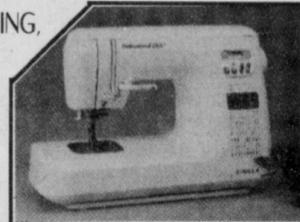

Perry said. "Without this tax relief, we would have continued to see many families forced to break up or sell off farms and ranches to pay steep inheritance taxes."

Beginning in 1998, family farms, ranches and small businesses will have an estate tax exemption of 1.3 million-up from the current exemption of $600,000.

COTTON NEWS

By SHAWN WADE
Cotton Plains Growers

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry issued a Section 24(c) Special Local Need label for Furadan 4F control of cotton aphids.

The 24(c) label, effective for 90 days under provisions of the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA), may be limited to a 10 day application window if revoked by the Environmental Protection Agency. The 10 day window would allow producers who purchase Furadan 4F time to apply the product they have on hand.

Several restrictions are included with the 24(c) label including the prohibition of feeding gin trash from Furadan treated fields to livestock. Gin trash from Furadan treated fields should be separated at the gin.

Growers applying Furadan are required to possess a copy of the Section 24(c) label. Copies of the label can be obtained from chemical dealers, the Texas Department of Agriculture or Plains Cotton Growers.

Projections of supply and off-take for the 1997-98 marketing year indicate a total supply of 21.9 million bales. The supply figure is based on estimated 1997-98 production of 17.78 million bales being added to 4.1 million bales carried over from 1996.

USDA projections call for negligible raw cotton imports in 1997. Recent clarifications of Step 3 provisions by the USDA have alleviated some industry concerns about the transition from old crop to new crop prices under the competitiveness provisions of the last Farm Bill.

Projected offtake for the 1997-98 marketing year is 18.1 million bales, 11 million bales going to domestic consumption and 6.8 million bales entering export markets.

The August crop estimate released by the National Agricultural Statistics Service estimates that 13.655 million acres of Upland cotton were planted in 1997. Texas plantings for 1997 were estimated at 5.6 million acres. Yield expectations have declined slightly over the past month and US production is estimated at 17.229 million bales. Texas is pegged to produce 5 million bales in 1997.

If the August estimates hold up, the Texas High Plains is on pace to produce 60 percent of the Texas crop or close to 3 million bales.

The table below shows the U.S. Supply/Offtake figures for 1995-96, estimated figures for 1996-97, and the 1997-98 supply/offtake projection.

TDA accepting applications for Family Land Heritage program

AUSTIN — The Texas Department of Agriculture is accepting applications for the 1997 Family Land Heritage Program through Sept. 15.

The program recognizes farms and ranches that have been in continuous production by the family for at least 100 years. More than 3,000 farms and ranches have qualified since the recognition program began in 1974.

Announcing the availability of applications, Agricultural Commissioner Rick Perry called these farm and ranch families the legacy of Texas agriculture.

"The history each of these families brings to the Family Land Heritage Program is an integral part of the solid foundation that helped build

Texas agriculture into what it is today - the state's second largest industry," Perry said. "And these honorees will continue to strengthen Texas agriculture through their commitment to hard work and their love of the land."

Program applications are available through county judges as well as from TDA. Applications are also available on the department's website (<http://www.agr.state.tx.us>).

Those farms and ranches that qualify will be honored during a January 1998 ceremony in Austin.

Applications also may be obtained by writing to Debbie Ellis, the Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78111; or by calling Ellis at (512)463-7653.

Top Air Force band performing in Portales

PORTALES — The Air Force entertainment group, Tops in Blue, is coming to Portales for a show celebrating the Air Force's 50th anniversary with song and dance from the 40s to the 90s.

The show is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Greyhound Arena. The show is free and open to the public.

Tops in Blue features 37 of the Air Force's most talented vocalist, musicians, and dancers. The group has performed with such legends as Bob Hope, Alabama, Barbara Mandrell, Boys II Men, as well as at the Super Bowl.

The performing team sets up more than 32,000 pounds of staging, lighting, audio, and special effects equipment required for each performance.

Including sales tax, the Muleshoe auction brought $110,942. Plus the city sold four vehicles at a Lubbock auction earlier in the week for $10,500.

The city manager credited Rene Bates Auctioneers of McKinney for much of the success.

The company earned an 11 percent commission for conducting the auction.

"He does municipal auctions all over the country and just did a great job," Fisher said.

Having the Muleshoe auction sandwiched between bigger auctions in Lubbock and Amarillo didn't hurt either.

The city recently passed ordinances aimed at cleaning up the city, especially weedy and junk-filled lots. So officials thought it better clean up its own lots, Fisher said.

Some of the money raised will go toward purchasing new pickups for the Department of Public Works, Fisher said. The rest will go into the city's general fund.

Of the six Public Works pickups, only one is considered in good enough shape to even leave the city limits, he said.

Legislative aides tour local facility

Legislative aide Beau Greenwood from the office of Congressman Charlie Stenholm of Stamford, the ranking Democrat on the U.S. House Agriculture Committee, and aide Maurice Kurland from the office of Democrat Sylvester Reyes of El Paso, were in Muleshoe recently as guests of the Texas Agricultural Lifetime Leadership (TALL) program.

They toured local farms, including peanut acreage and organic crop production, cattle feeding facilities, and area industries in an effort to gain more insight into agricultural production.

Jimmy Wedel, a local farmer and TALL member, explained that inviting members from other districts helps them understand what we need locally. It also gives them a first line as to how the farm program affects farmers and agribusiness on the base level. Greenwood and Kurland toured Muleshoe Pea & Bean with TALL members Glenn Schur of Plainview, Jimmy and Susan Wedel of Muleshoe and Dr. and Mrs. Bill Pope of College Station. Dr. Pope is the Founding Director of TALL who now serves as an alumni advisor.

Mike Cleavinger, president of Muleshoe Pea & Bean, along with co-owners Ed and Nicky Nickels welcomed the group.

Cleavinger gave a brief history of the company stating the need for crop diversity arises from the diminishing water table.

Nicky Nickels spoke to the aides about the high costs of irrigating due to fuel increases.

Local farmers have found dried beans and peas to be a viable alternative to other crops as they take less water and are basically a 90-day production.

Dried beans and peas are known to be beneficial to the soil for their nitrogen adding property.

Cleavinger along with another local farmer Sam Harlan saw the necessity of a facility to handle the cleaning and processing of these products bringing the Nickels' into the partnership to begin building Muleshoe Pea & Bean in 1995.

Harlan has since relocated to Lubbock and is working in the engineering field.

Bottom line farming classes in Levelland

LEVELLAND — South Plains College is offering Bottom Line Farming, a course in agricultural finance and production.

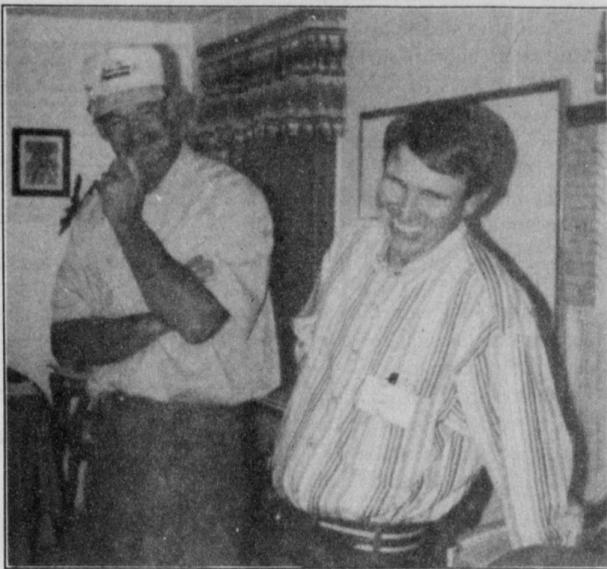

Classes will be Sept. 6-7 and Sept. 13-14 at the Levelland campus. Cost is $350.

Classes will meet 9 a.m. - 7 p.m. Saturday and 1-7 p.m. Sunday.

The course will cover goal setting and priority management, interpretation and use of financial statements, strategic planning, operation planning and other aspects of farm management.

Ron Presley, assistant professor of agribusiness, will be the instructor.

For more information contact Presley at SPC, (806)-894-9611 ext. 2328.

Sharing a laugh
Mike Cleavinger, left, president of Muleshoe Pea & Bean, shares a laugh with Jimmy Wedel, a member of the TALL program last week when legislative aides visited the area.

The company has been under expansion with the addition of an on-site truck scale, a fumigation chamber and a warehouse.

More importantly, being local growers themselves, the owners shared their learning experience.

They have found blackeye peas to be a better crop alternative over pintos or other dried legumes, largely due to harvest and marketability.

Greenwood, who is in his sixth year on the hill, and Kurland, a freshman, seemed especially interested in opinions concerning the crops program restrictions.

Cleavinger explained he understood the reasoning for restricting the planting of blackeyes behind hailed out cotton was largely due to lobbying from states like California whose producers are not subsidized on their blackeye pea acres.

These producers feel it is unfair for Texas growers to have access to government funding. They also fear flooding the market.

Greenwood asked for input regarding solutions.

From a personal perspective, Cleavinger and Nickels don't mind giving up some of their government subsidy to grow blackeyes.

"We know it works on a cost per acre basis," said Ed Nickels.

landfill is more than $100,000, then where are we going to get the additional money?" Fisher said.

He told the council if unused, the money is needed elsewhere.

Fisher said the city is nowhere near adopting its 1997-98 budget, but initial revenues projections are falling well short of even the most basic budget needs.

City reserves have dwindled to virtually nothing he warned the Council.

"Instead of doing something, they just robbed from reserves," Fisher said about the previous administration.

Other Councilors and Mayor Robert Montgomery felt there was little choice but to raise rates.

"Under the current budget crunch, we don't have the luxury of not breaking even"

Montgomery said. "We've got the whole operation of the city to talk about. This is just a small part."

Councilman Juan Chavez wondered if raising city taxes could produce the needed revenue.

Fisher said the rate would have to be raised more than 3 percent, which would make it subject to voter approval.

Councilman Roger Williams felt the raising the rates was the fairest way because the burden would be spread to a majority of the people, instead of just property owners.

Councilman Cliff Black agreed.

"I hate to raise rates, but we've got to do something," Black said. "And raising the user rate is much more fair because you're charging people for what they use instead of just charging landowners."

Recognition for service

Longtime resident moving on

Bob Copeland, office manager of Texas Work Force Commission is transferring after three years of service in Muleshoe.

Copeland is taking a job in the Veterans Placement Unit in Irving.

"I'll be leaving my home, leaving my friends. It's hard to do," said Copeland, who has lived in Muleshoe since 1958.

A "Recognition Award" in appreciation of his services, was presented to Copeland last Wednesday by Nelda Merriott, on behalf of the mayor and the City of Muleshoe.

Copeland, his wife Susan, and their two children, BJ, age 15, and Buddy, age 12, will be residing in Garland, Texas.

Johnson said he lived and slept in a lounge chair for the first six weeks because getting in and out of bed was so painful.

"I guess I know what I'm going to ask for for Father's Day next year," Johnson joked.

He said he's getting around a lot better now and only wears a neck brace when he's at practice or moving around.

"It was disappointing because I wasn't able to get out and meet the people in town or get to know the kids," Johnson said.

Johnson took a coaching job at Morton this summer after eight years at Muleshoe.

He will served as defensive coordinator under friend and former Muleshoe coach Bruce Lacefield, who took over the Morton program this spring. Johnson will also coach the boys track team.

Johnson was building a storage shed when he lost his balance and fell off a six-foot ladder.

He credited former Muleshoe coach Jimmy Orr (who also took a job at Morton), his family and plenty of calls and prayers from friends in Muleshoe with helping him through the ordeal.

"I thank the Lord for allowing me to keep doing the things I like to do in life," Johnson said.

The Merrow Report

In its fourth season, The Merrow Report continues its in-depth study of educational and learning issues facing the nation. The documentary series is the only one of its kind to report exclusively on education and learning in America. John Merrow hosts.

During September, The Merrow Report offers four documentaries. First is "Education's Big Gamble: Charter Schools." Charter schools are hot news in the education arena. In fact, more than 600 charter schools serve over 105,000 students across the nation. This program visits four of these schools, capturing the highs and lows of the charter movement.

Charter schools operate on a seemingly simple premise: they promise to educate all of their students and to spend tax dollars wisely. In return, they expect an exemption from most regulations and bureaucratic oversight. Do they keep their end of this critical bargain? Are charter schools educationally and financially accountable? Or are they gambling with children's lives and taxpayer dollars?

"School Crusade" is a special two-part documentary, airing over two nights. In 1994, Philadelphia's school district ranked among the worst in the United States. Typical of many urban centers, students were failing. There was a high drop-out rate, crime, and a critical lack of funds. Then David Hornbeck, an untested superintendent with a background in theology and law, was hired to institute a radical change. He brought with him an uncompromising 10-point program entitled "Children Achieving." As Hornbeck worked to trim the bureaucracy, add kindergarten, introduce technology, create a new testing system, and hold Philadelphia's teachers accountable for each student's academic achievement, fierce opposition began to mount.

"The Dream" (Part I of "School Crusade") reveals the principles outlined in "Children Achieving." It studies the obstacles — such as political opposition, teacher opposition, and the threat of a union strike — that Hornbeck faced in its implementation.

"The Reality" (Part II of "School Crusade") delves into the "Children Achieving" program as it begins to affect the schools. The Merrow Report covers Philadelphia's reaction as Hornbeck invokes a little-noticed provision in the teachers' union contract that allows him to declare a school "academically distressed" and follows the initial uproar as he orders the transfer of 75 percent of the teachers from the school.

With "Elementary Confusion" The Merrow Report provides an insightful follow-up to last year's "Early Learning" — a report that centered on the efforts of first, second, and third grade students to learn to read and do math. In "Elementary Confusion," host John Merrow returned to two schools to discover how the children had fared.

The Merrow Report will be broadcast on consecutive Fridays at 11:00 p.m. beginning September 5th.

SCAC NEWS

The Student-Community Action Club (SCAC) met Aug. 14 the Muleshoe Depot for its annual "Installation of Officers."

Heather Hooton, president, called the meeting to order.

Vice President Mark McGuire gave the opening prayer.

Hooton thanked members for all the work they did each night of the outdoor musical "Keepers of the Legend."

Members set up chairs, helped serve the barbecue dinner, manned the pop corn and cold drinks stand, as well as helped put chairs, tables and other equipment indoors each night.

Jean Allison lead the installation of officers ceremony.

Each old officer read his/her duties to the new officer. Old officers then presented the new officers with a scroll of these duties.

At the conclusion all old and new officers signed the traditional "Exchange of Officers" which will be placed in the SCAC scrapbook.

The scrapbook is actually four books now and contains, not only a history of the SCAC organization, but also a history of the Muleshoe Heritage Center.

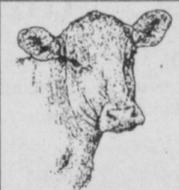

SCAC was organized formally in 1983 by junior and senior students at Muleshoe High School as an outgrowth of trying to "Save the Muleshoe depot."

SCAC has supported the Heritage Center for the past fifteen years with money donations and work at the Center.

New officers of SCAC installed are Amy Hooton, president; Chris Shelburne, vice president; Katie Black, secretary; Amy Locker, treasurer; Larry Pineda, reporter; Krystal Heathington, parliamentarian; Robin Cowart, chaplain; Keila Kennedy, historian.

Outgoing officers are Heather Hooton, president; Mark McGuire, vice president; Stacy Harlan, secretary; Colby Latham, treasurer; Jo Beth Gilleland, reporter; Isaac Miramontes, parliamentarian; Chris Shelburne, chaplain; Cari Faver, historian. The new sponsor installed was Chris Mardis. Other sponsors are Jim Gruhlkey and Jean Allison.

SCAC's first meeting of the year will be at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 15 at the Robert Hooton home on Highway 70.
