John R. Baze, printer, is well-known to most everyone in Scurry County, having been raised and educated in Snyder. John decided some 25 years ago to become a printer's "devil" and started to work on the old Coming West, one of the two papers published here at that time, the other being the Western Light, on which the writer started as "devil" at the same time. Since that time John has developed into a printer of no mean ability and has held many responsible positions on weekly, semi-weekly and dailies in this and many other States. He has also been in charge of job shops and job departments where they turned out nothing but high class work.

About a year ago John located on Clairemont Street, the 1st door south of the Woodrow Hotel and put in an up-to-date job shop, which is amply equipped to handle any kind of printing in the stationery line. This shop has been busy since its establishment and has done much toward putting Clairemont Street on the map. Mr. Baze appreciates the patronage that the business men of Snyder and Scurry County have accorded him and solicits a continuance of this patronage. He also joins with the other "live" merchants on this busy street in inviting every person in the town and county to trade with them as it is possible to buy practically everything a person needs in their stores. Practically every line of business in Snyder is represented in this block and a half.

Trade with Clairemont Street Merchants and be satisfied customers all the time.

What does he say about it a month later? That's the question that goes through our mind when we sell a customer a suit, a shirt, a tie. When a man comes into a store he can always be sold something. That's not the point. If we don't sell him the thing he wants to buy we know we've failed in our end of the deal. We don't fail any oftener than we can help.

The firm of Dodson & Cooper was established on the south side of the square in their present location about two years ago. The firm is composed of Mrs. J. O. Dodson and Mrs. Charles Cooper, both of them being well-known to the people of Snyder and Scurry County. They have been connected with various firms in Snyder for several years prior to the establishment of the present business. They opened this store solely for the ladies and they have one of the largest stocks of ladies' wear to be found in West Texas. They keep up with the style changes and always receive goods in keeping with the new styles. They have just received a large showing of the very newest Coats, Dresses, Sweaters, Vanity Fair Lingerie, Hosiery and Novelties. In this store is to be found the prettiest line of Hats ever shown in Snyder. You are always made to feel at home in this store and they both declare "it is a real pleasure to show the people our merchandise for we know that we have the goods that will stand the most rigid inspection and comparison." When your clothes comes from this store you are assured of the fact that they are the "last word" in material, workmanship and style. Few firms with exclusive lines can boast of a more rapid increase in business than can the firm of Dodson & Cooper. Their success can be attributed to three things. First: The splendid quality of merchandise offered. Secondly: Advertising, and lastly: Their own personality and square, fair treatment of their many customers. You are extended an invitation to visit them at any time and see the many pretty things they have.

WEST SIDE SQAURE

SNYDER

"HIGHCOCKALORUMS" HOLD ANNUAL SESSION.

(Communicated.) One hundred thirty eight business men of this community had a perfect alibi Friday evening, October 16, for being out late—if there is such a thing. In the event, an alibi was needed, the culprit could answer to wife, mother and sweetheart or to their conscience that they were in good company. For this large number of business men were at the Highcockalorum banquet held at the Woodrow Hotel, which is staged as an annual affair each year by our wide-awake, congenial editor of the Scurry County Times-Signal.

Although this was the first feast of this nature that the writer has attended, it is easy to see that if the Highcockalorums live up to the ritual of the order, no one could be in better company, even if all old hens, "chickens" and pullets are barred from the sacred picking grounds.

For three hours the "picking grounds" was the scene of much revelry, superior oratory, good music, both vocal and instrumental, rich eats and the best that money could buy in the way of smokes. Probably never before in the history of this city have so many business men met in an affair of this sort. Probably never before did so many of our citizens strut before their neighbors. Probably never before did one have the opportunity to really and truly get acquainted with his fellow townsmen and business competitor.

Working on the basis of the truth of the old saying that the shortest route to a man's heart is through his stomach, editor J. L. Martin has been staging these affairs for thirteen years. Along in the fall of each year, the town or city which is fortunate enough to be the home of this man, there is a Highcockalorum banquet held. The host has held them so long that he says that they are just as much a part of his business as getting out the weekly edition. During the 13 years he has held the tribe feasts at Crowell, El Campo, Royse City, Mexia and two at Snyder, and at these occasions there have been thousands of men taken into the order, upon which the whole thing is based.

We believe that we will not be telling tales out of school if we give our readers just an inkling of what the Tribe of Highcockalorums stands for. The candidate for initiation takes the solemn oath that he will do all within his power to "crow" for the good of the order, for the up-building of his city and his community. He vows that he will stay clean in the conduct of his business, in order that the business establishment may stand for more in the eyes of the community than that which is on the sign over the door. "Poultryism" is rampant throughout the ritual. In fact, as the name suggests, everything is based on the rooster. His characteristics, his mannerisms and his conduct towards the weaker members of his flock are upheld and raised as a standard for business men's practices. Underlying the whole affair, though, is the real purpose of the meeting, and that is to stimulate a desire for closer co-operation, a spirit of fellowship, a spirit of tolerance and brotherly kindness among the business men gathered around the banquet table. There, they will be able to catch a vision of what they should do toward their fellow townsmen and business competitor each and every day in the week. Such a spirit instilled in the minds and hearts of any community is bound to assist the morale of the participants in the meeting to go out hand-in-hand to put over enterprises for the betterment of the community.

Portraying as nothing else can, Mr. Martin's idea as to the building of a city, which is, "Cities do not grow, they are built," he has capitalized this original and novel means by providing the tool whereby the business men of his town can get together and start something for the good of the community. No doubt our newspaper boss is the only country, or city, editor, as far as that goes, who ever undertook such an affair in any community in the United States. It is but characteristic of the originality of the man, who we all know as J. L. Martin.

At the banquet Friday night, Mayor Fritz R. Smith presided in his usual easy and efficient manner as master of ceremonies. In the initiation of "Abe" Rodgers, who was the only stranger within the sacred picking grounds, Chief of the Tribe W. M. Morrow delivered the charge, while Rooster Joe Stinson, Cock of the Walk, was the conductor. The Hon. Joe Merritt was Crow Leader and opened the banquet by summoning the highcockalorums to the feed by giving two very natural crows. They sounded just like Joe's leghorns. Rev. A. B. Davidson offered prayer and then the big time was on.

Naturally the host made the welcome address. In his talk, Mr. Martin gave his plans for the enlargement of his plant and many other items that demonstrated his belief in the future progress of Snyder. W. W. Hamilton responded in his customary oratorical manner, sweeping out the stars with his peroration.

Highcockalorum George Northcutt delivered a short inspiration address on the subject, "Why all Highcockalorums Advertise." Fred Wilhelm quit his eating and his accordion long enough to tell "What It Means to be a Highcockalorum." The main program was ended by an address from the peerless orator E. J. Anderson on "The Value of a Newspaper to a Good City and a Good Community."

The speeches were interspersed by splendid musical numbers by the Tribe's quartet, composed of E. D. Curry, T. L. Lollar, Pat Brown and Joe Merritt, and the band, which included a fiddle, played by W. V. Jones, an accordion, played by Fred Wilhelm, A. P. Morris on the guitar and W. M. Morrow with his drum.

The banqueters were kept busy all of the time stowing away the most appropriate menu the writer has ever enjoyed, which was prepared and served by Ollie Morrow and his fair helpers, F. C. Hairston, manager of the Woodrow Hotel, deserve special mention for the fact, as we understood it, of donating the use of his large dining room for the meeting place.

The meeting closed with a benediction offered by Rev. H. J. Manley, but before the members of the tribe dispersed for their respective roosting places, Imperial Gizzard Martin cordially invited everyone present to be present at the next annual meeting which will be subject to the clarification call some time during the month of October.

NOTICE.

Remember next Saturday at 2 o'clock p. m. on the courthouse lawn Prof. A. H. Now, if you have it in your noodle he is coming here to tell you how to farm get it out for this is not the case, but before he gets through you will believe the grain sorghums are the foundation of agriculture of West Texas. So be sure and hear him, as he is coming to speak to all who will come to hear him. Respectfully yours, J. A. MERRITT.

CATON-DODSON DRY GOODS COMPANY

ARCHER CITY TO SELL CITY LIGHTING PLANT.

Muni Power and Light Plant Operated Under Heavy Deficit.

Archer City, Texas.—By a ratio of 14 to 1 the taxpayers of Archer City have voted to sell the municipal power and light plant to the Wichita Falls Electric Company. The plant has been operated by the municipal government for several years and accurate accounting showed a heavy annual deficit. This prompted the citizens to ask for a special election authorizing the city officials to sell the property.

The Wichita Falls Electric Company have announced that they will extend their transmission line into Archer City and give the town dependable power and light service capable of the requirements of any large user of power, such as factories.

The company will take over the local system as soon as the transmission line is brought into Archer City, which probably will be in about ninety days.

SEES BRIGHT FUTURE FOR TEXTILE MILLS

Engineer With Dallas Party Attend Opening of Texas Tech.

Dallas, Texas.—L. W. Robert, Jr., textile engineer, who is responsible for inaugurating several new cotton mill projects in Texas, sees a bright future for Texas textile development.

Mr. Robert, with a party of about twenty business men from Dallas and Fort Worth, attended the opening exercises of Texas Technological college at Lubbock. The new school, which has an opening enrollment of 750 students, has only recently been completed. Mr. Robert is consulting engineer for the institution.

One of the features of the new school, according to Mr. Robert, is a textile department. The school was modeled after Georgia Technical college.

"It looks like a good year for the Texas textile industry," the engineer declared. He said that the state now had twenty-six operating mills.

TEXAS' FUTURE DEVELOPMENT IS YOURS

Undeveloped Resources a Ladder to Industrial and Agricultural Supremacy.

This vast state of Texas with its unbounding wealth is in its industrial and agricultural infancy. The surface, so to speak, has hardly been scratched in the development of its natural, agricultural and industrial resources. California, with its limited area for development, came quickly to the fore-front as a citrus producing state, notwithstanding that acres and acres of arid land had to be reclaimed and that practically all its fruits are a transplant; are not a native product of that state.

Texas has an unbounding future before it—this state surpasses all others in its undeveloped resources and all it needs at this time to give it a momentum of growth and development, such as California enjoyed, is co-operative planning and building by those agencies which are closely associated with the raw and semi-developed resources of this state.

What irrigation and co-operative marketing did for California can be done for Texas and on a much larger scale. Texas can and should be the citrus, agricultural and live stock monarch of this country. Only concentrated effort by those now involved can accomplish this.

DECATUR'S WHITE WAY GETS COMPLIMENTS

Lights Strung Beneath Awnings in Business Section.

Decatur, Texas.—Decatur merchants, co-operating with Manager John M. Greer, of the Texas Power & Light Co., have lighted the public square by strung lights under the awnings. The square now resembles a "real White Way," and is being complimented by all who have observed it, as one of the best improvements of the kind to the business part of the town in a generation.

This "white way" is in keeping with the progressive spirit of the town and marks the accomplishment of just one of the many improvements made in the past few years. Increased sales incentive should be felt by merchants as the now modern square lends more value to their highly remunerative show windows. Both the power company and the business men should be complimented for their work in the making of this great improvement.

STAMPEDE BIG SCENE IN "A SON OF HIS FATHER"

Directing a stampede of one-hundred horses in one scene was the accomplishment achieved by Victor Fleming while on location in Southern Arizona directing Harold Bell Wright's "A Son of His Father" for Paramount.

The story of "A Son of His Father" is one of tremendous sweep and has for its basic theme the terrific battle of the ranchmen on the Mexican border against a band of smugglers.

To regain a herd of horses stolen from him by the band, Warner Baxter swoops down upon the rustler's headquarters and single handed works the animals into a stampede so they will charge out of their enclosure.

Featured players in "A Son of His Father" are Bessie Love, Warner Baxter and Raymond Hatten. Other players prominent in the picture include Walter McGrail, James Farley, Valentina Zemina, Carl Stockdale, Billy Eugene and Charles Stevens.

TO THE POULTRY ENTHUSIASTS OF SCURRY COUNTY.

What have you decided? Are you going to show anything or are you going to let some one else out of the county come in and take off all of the silver cups offered which will be fifteen or sixteen, besides cash prizes and ribbons? The association has endeavored to offer a premium list this time that should interest every man, woman, boy or girl who raises poultry in the county. The standard bred stuff will be in a class to itself, then the utility stuff in its own class, then comes the boys and girls clubs of the county for their part.

Now, to the utility folks. If you have anything you think are egg-producers show them, and when the judges say you have the winners you will sure receive all the premiums and ribbons coming to you. Then, I would love to see every boy and girl who belongs to the different clubs in the county show a pen of birds.

Remember we admit all club stuff free of entry fee, however, you don't compete with anything but club stuff. So get busy and make your club class strong. I am receiving letters of inquiry from all over the State and some from Oklahoma.

Prospects are bright ahead for a good show and I would love to see Scurry County folks receive a good per cent of the honors. See me or write me for catalog and premium list.

Secretary.

ARIZONA THE SCENE OF "A SON OF HIS FATHER"

The setting of the new Victor Fleming production for Paramount, "A Son of His Father," adapted for the screen for Anthony Coldewey from Harold Bell Wright's best selling novel by that name, is the fascinating one of the changing west as it noticeably shifts in the brief lapse of time between father and son.

Bessie Love, Warner Baxter and Raymond Hatten are featured in the cast of the production, a stirring tale of the Arizona border with the plot woven around a band of cattle smugglers that is over-running the state. One of the big scenes shows a stampede of more than one-hundred horses.

The time is the present, but the band by its daring has transformed the civilized into the primitive. There are heart-interest and sympathy mingled with thrills and comedy.

Walter McGrail, recently seen in the Jack London story, "Adventure," heads the strong supporting cast. Other big names are Charles Stevenson, Carl Stockdale, James Farley and Billy Eugene.

"A Son of His Father" is the first Harold Bell Wright novel to be screened by Paramount—and it's done in true Paramount style.

J. T. Riggs and family left this week for Floyd County where they will reside indefinitely. Mr. Riggs farmed the Snyder place north of town the past year.
