Odd Buildings Traced

to Roman Occupation

Efforts have been made for centuries to bare the mystery that hangs over the unique "Rows" at Chester, England, but their efforts have been in vain. These rows consist of street lengths of covered arcade, not on the street level but several feet above it. One walks in front of shops and on the roofs of shops at once, looking down upon the traffic in the street and upon pedestrians. Visitors say that the mystery of the origin of these structures causes them to give a pleasant, creepy feeling to those who walk through them and that buying a collar stud in the rows is almost like buying a bronze or picture on pavement level. Chester was the great Roman military station of Deva. The central point of the Roman station was exactly where the rows now converge. The principal streets of the modern city were the principal streets of Deva and the principal streets of all subsequent towns on

A Busy Man as Your Executor

You might not hesitate to ask your busy friend to act as your executor if you could relieve him of the necessary, burdensome details of adminration. The same would apply to your helpmate.

YOU CAN; name this institution co-executor.

Thus your heirs enjoy your friend's business judgment and familiarity with your affairs and you have not burdened him with detail. And our trust department, in addition to its experience in the technicalities of estate procedure, is organized to care for detail with sure accuracy and real economy.

A co-executorship is often an ideal arrangement. You are invited to discuss these matters with our officers-without obligation, of course.

First Locomotive to Make Mile a Minute The thrill of traveling a mile a minute by rail was first experi-enced in 1848, when the Antelope, a 10-ton engine built under the direction of Superintendent Minot of the Boston & Maine railroad, cov-ered the 26 miles between Boston and Lawrence in just 26 minutes. The engine had single drivers, six feet in diameter.

Every detail was carefully arranged to give the new engine a chance to break all previous rec-ords. Minot selected an engineer named Pemberton to drive the locomotive. Pemberton was reluctant at first, but when Minot threatened to take the throttle himself, he agreed to try. Minot rode with

A large crowd gathered at the station and amid cheers and waving of hats, the Antelope began its historic run. Half way to Law-rence, Minot looked at his watch. Fourteen minutes had elapsed. He urged Pemberton to get more speed and Pemberton pulled the throttle wide open. The engine responded and when the train was brought to a stop at the station, Minot's watch showed just 26 minutes had elapsed since the start.—Railway Life.

The greatest sermon ever written, or ever will be written, is that honesty is the best policy. No that honesty is the best policy. No one man wrote this sermon; all men lived, proved it. Creation of Mankind Flattering to Indians An ancient Sloux legend of the creation is a popular story in the West today. Chauncey Yellowrobe, son of a Rosebud Sioux chieftain and a teacher in the federal Indian school at Rapid City, S. D., always includes this story in his repertoire.

"When the Great Spirit had created his wonderful land here of mountains and prairies and streams and trees," he tells his pupils, "he sought to fashion a human being worthy to enjoy its grandeur. He shaped the clay in his hands and baked it in his campfire, but when he drew it forth it was pale and had not baked rapidly enough, and he threw it behind him.

"He molded another form and laid it in the hot ashes, but when he drew it to the hot ashes, but when he drew it out it was blackened and crisp. So he tossed it to one side. Then he molded a new figure, even more carefully than before, packed the red coals around it, and when he lilfted it from the fire it was red and sound and perfect. "And he put it into the great wilderness of the West, and it multiplied its kind and was the tenant of the Great Spirit's own garden." —Pathfinder Magazine.

Baked Potato "Tips" Mrs. Sarah T. Rorer, Philadelphia cooking expert, adds two or three artful touches to baked potatoes which make them taste unusually

"After scrubbing large, perfect po-tatoes, I soak them an hour in cold water," she says.

"I bake them on the upper grate of a medium oven, and turn them after 20 minutes. I let them bake another half hour, or until they feel soft when pressed in a napkin.
"Never try them with a fork, for this allows the steam to escape and makes them heavy. Serve in a nap kin at once. "The secret of good baked potatoes is a slow oven; for a hot oven hardens the skin at once and makes the potatoes soggy."

Stuffed and Browned Miss Margaret Allen Hall, nutrition expert at the Battle Creek College of Home Economics, has a de-cided preference for stuffed potatoes.

She fixes them like this: 6 medium-sized potatoes tablespoonfuls butter

1 teaspoon salt Select well-shaped potatoes about equal size. Bake until soft, then cut or break each potato at about the middle. Remove the contents, mash, add salt, butter, and sufficient cream or milk to cause the potato to beat up light. When very light, fill skins with the seasoned potato, piling it up in irregular shapes. Set the stuffed potatoes in oven a few minutes to brown.

SHAKESPEARE'S seven ages of mankind made no reference to the number who were cut off in their prime by automobiles. If he had, suggests the Stewart-Warner Safety Council, it might have run something like this parody on his famous lines:

At first the infant, Killed by a truck while in his nurse's arms, And then the careless schoolboy with his marbles, Playing in the streets after his lessons Are over. And then the lover, Absent-minded, walking with a box of candy Under his arm, to see his loved one, Is struck by a taxi and hurtled to the ground.

Next comes the gay young blood Out for his evening's entertainment, whom Sixty miles an hour lands forty years too soon Upon a slab in some unfriendly morgue. And then the banker, full of worldly pride and honors, Jay-walks across the street between two mighty deals of finance, And wakes to find Saint Peter quizzing him.

These priests in 458 discovered an "immense land" lying 3,250 leagues east of They named the land "Fou Chang," and, according to Scie, from the description which they gave of it there is no possible doubt that it was the American continent. Nearly forty years later Fou Chang was visited by a Buddhist priest named Hui Shen. Where he landed is not known; but there is a legend in Mexico about "Halpecocha," who, Scie claims, was the Buddha priest who dressed in a long robe and taught the inhabitants a new religion and philosophy. In this connection Scie reminds scholars of the subject that the first Spanish explorers who landed in South America were struck by the resem-blance of the native architecture to

Cane and Beet Sugar

When highly refined no one can distinguish between cane and beet sugar, as they are one and the same thing. Between the crude or raw beet and cane sugars there is a great difference, the latter being edible, while the former is not, as it possesses a very disagreeable odor and taste. Cane sugar molasses is good for culinary purposes; beet sugar molasses is not. Cane juice contains glucose, but beet juice does not, though the latter contains raffinose and the former does not.

"Curiosity Killed the Cat" Just how this saying got started is unknown. There was an old proverb that a cat has nine lives, yet care would wear them out. Another version of the proverb is that though she had nine lives care killed the cat. Probably "curiosity killed the cat" is merely a corruption of the former saying. Its popularity seems to rest on the alliteration of the three hard "c" sounds, rather than on the sense of the expression.-Exchange.

To the Voters of Scurry County:

Judge Geo. L. Davenport of Eastland County is a candidate in the run-off primary for Associate Judge of the Court of Civil Appeals of this, the 11th Civil Court District.

Having known Judge Davenport for a number of years, and knowing him to be honest, capable, and eminently qualified to discharge the duties of the high position to which he aspires, and knowing him to be a Christian gentleman who will discharge those duties faithfully and in accordance with law. I most earnestly commend the candidacy of Judge Davenport to the favorable consideration of the voters of Scurry County in the primary election next Saturday. He was the leading candidate in the July Primary.

Very respectfully yours,

What the bank manager and Miss Carfax had really been talking about was the taking over of the local bank at Plympton, a lan-guishing institution six miles away, by the big bank in the city of which Lorenzo's bank was a branch, and consolidating the said Plymouth bank with the branch bank at Rockdale, And Mary Carfax had a large block of stock in the Plympton bank which Lorenzo, as agent for his employers, was anxious to purchase from her.

"It's the most surprising piece of news I ever heard," said Mrs. Atherton Gage over the teacups two hours later to Mrs. Roger Fleming and others. "Why, I don't be-EVERYBODY in Rockdale—that that is, everybody who counted—was filled with that pleasurable excitement which comes to so able excitement which comes to so late in a small town when a new late and unexpected piece of gossip pops up. Rockdale was not such a very small town, either. It had

That afternoon Mrs. Sam Rogers called Mary up by telephone to "congratulate" her.
"Why, what are you talking about?" said Mary indignantly.
"Oh, it's all over town?" said Mrs. Rogers. "Annie White was just here and said she met Ren Downing on the street and asked blum it' it was true, and he said him if it was true, and he said 'Yes.'"

Mary was "mad clear through.' She called up the bank and told the clerk who answered the tele-phone that she wanted to see Mr. Downing at her house "just as soon as he could make it convenient." "Why did you tell Annie White

"Because it is true," he replied doggedly. "Now just sit down and listen to me. I have been looking for an opportunity to reopen an old matter between us which was never satisfactorily settled.
