

COUNTY SUPT. BULLOCK ASKS FOUR-H CREDITS

Appears Before State Board Lost Week to Boost Rural Schools

County Supt. A. A. Bullock appeared before the State Board of Education at Austin last week and started the ball rolling for the farm girls of Texas to receive school credits for their 4-H Club work. The idea suggested by Mr. Bullock himself is but one of the many improvements that he has brought to the attention of state educational heads for rural school work. Today, if the citizens of Texas could visualize just what Pat Bullock has inaugurated in Scurry county there isn't a voter who would not render their O. K. vote for his elevation to the State Superintendent of Schools.

But getting back to Mr. Bullock's trip to Austin meant the needed help for the rural school girls. As matters stand today, Four-H Club members under direction of their home demonstration agents really do more work than city school girls do with food and clothing. "Here in Snyder," Mr. Bullock said, "four full credits are given for nine months of such work whereas in the rural section no credit whatsoever is given. These club girls not only do four years of work but many projects of their own as well as keeping books. Twelve months of the year they do work under the supervision of their home demonstration agents and the State of Texas should absolutely recognize their efforts."

Mr. Bullock was the only County superintendent in the state who attended the meeting. The proposition is just one of the many that he has brought to the attention of the state board and that he played a lone hand in doing so is but evidence of the persistence that is necessary in securing the things that the rural schools need.

State Supt. Marrs and other members of the board assured Mr. Bullock that recognition would be granted for the work and the Times-Signal glories in Pat's "spunk" in playing a "Lone Eagle" role to get to the attention of the state school heads.

But folks write it down in your book, "Pat" Bullock today is fully capable of handling the role of the State Superintendent's job and his campaign for that position is starting in right here and now.

Fort Worth Good Will Boosters Here Next Week

Large Party Will Arrive Wednesday for Two Hour Visit Here

Fort Worth business men, manufacturers and boosters for West Texas' greatest and finest city will arrive in Snyder next Wednesday noon and be guests of the city on a two hour visit. Luncheon will be served the visitors at the Manhattan Hotel and the welcome sign will be hanging out at all four corners of the square and side streets for these distinguished visitors and guests.

"THE FLORODORA GIRL QUAIN ROMANCE OF '90'S"

When Marion Davies' new starring vehicle, "The Florodora Girl" opens Wednesday at the Palace Theatre, the modern generation will be given an opportunity to see how their parents and grandparents dressed and acted in the days when the 21-story Flatiron Building was considered a skyscraper of awesome proportions.

The picture filmed from an original story by Gene Markey depicts the romance of one of the famous "Florodora Sextette" and revives such ghosts of the picturesque past as the bustle, the muff, the plumed hat, the petticoat, the side-walk-sweeping train, red flannels and the voluminous costumes fastened at the rear by hooks and eyes.

NEW 'VOC-AC' TEACHER

R. P. Tull of Stephenville, a graduate of A. & M. College, receiving his Master's degree from that school, has been engaged as a newspaper office. He was dressed in a long, black, frock-tailed coat. "He asked me how long I had been in Rome, how long I expected to remain in Rome and if I did not think Rome was a beautiful city."

"In the course of our conversation I asked him what he thought of Lindbergh and he used one word to answer, 'great.'"

"I asked him what he thought of President-elect Hoover and he said he was a big man and would make this country a great president."

"I invited him to visit America and he said he had to do much work so do in his own country at present, but hoped to come to America when he was an old man and would per-

NEW DIRECTORY OUT Distribution of the new City Directory was being made this week by Charles Tant. The booklet is a fine improvement to the many civic thoughts that have been added to Snyder, is well printed and a most welcome addition to every business place and home in Snyder.

Charter Delivered to 'George W. Green' Camp of Spanish War Vets; Elect Chilton Commander

Veterans of the Spanish-American War, the United States' only conflict fought with 100 per cent volunteer troops, were mustered back into "service" again here Tuesday night, June 24, when comrades who marched long ago under Old Glory into Manila and Porto Rico and Santiago, organized the George W. Green Camp of the United Spanish War Veterans.

Thirteen charter members were present when H. E. Geyer, senior vice commander from San Antonio, officially delivered the charter for the local post.

Rev. George W. Green, pastor of the First Baptist Church here and a veteran of both the Spanish and World Wars was honored by his comrades when the new organization was named, by unanimous consent, the "George W. Green Camp."

Thomas H. Chilton, court reporter for this district, was elected commander for the local camp and T. E. Crutcher, city, was chosen vice commander.

Other officers named were: Tilden Copeland, junior vice commander; William F. Mullins, adjutant and quartermaster; R. B. McPland, trustee; Rev. George W. Green, chaplain; T. L. King, officer of the day; J. M. Jones, officer of the guard.

All officers were installed at the Tuesday evening session which was held at the Blue Bonnet hotel.

Other veterans of this war, which continued from May, 1898 to June 30, 1901, and which cost the lives of 355 officers and 10,237 men, are invited to join the new organization. The charter membership list will be held open for 30 days to receive additional charter members.

NEW FOLKS ARRIVE

Mr. and Mrs. Delas Reeves and two children of Stamford, arrived in Snyder, yesterday, to make their future home here. Mr. Reeves will be in charge of the dry goods department at the Bryant-Link store and The Times-Signal joins in a hearty welcome to him and his family. J. Q. Barnes, formerly identified with the store is moving to Lovington, N. M.

Snyder Bands Need Finances To Help Cause

Local Bands Are Great Boosters and Help For Town

Unless some regeneration in the way of financial help is given in handling the financing of the direction of the two Snyder bands, the city will be without a competent director. Complete reorganization of the present method of finance is absolutely essential.

The High School Band and the newly organized Junior High School Band are two organizations that Snyder is justly proud of but the bands need help and instant action is going to be necessary if citizens are to enjoy the pleasure of having good band music. The Snyder High School Band is one of the greatest advertising forces in the town today, and with the Junior Band coming along, nearly 100 trained musicians will be ready for all Good Will building plans. Snyder needs these two bands, it needs J. W. Crowley as director and here's hoping that the entire matter may be cleared up yet this week that will guarantee these musical groups to remain intact as they are today. Lots of money has been invested in instruments, much study and hard work has been put in and there is no earthly reason "why" there should be anything to come up that would stifle this activity at this time.

ROAD TRAFFIC

Road Foreman G. R. Austin and his employees kept a traffic check for four days, starting at 6:00 a. m., June 28th, and continuing to the same hour, July 2nd.

On Highway No. 7, at the Nolan-Mitchell county line 1880 autos passed over the 24-hour periods.

Highway No. 83 at Fisher county line showed 1,200.

The report from No. 83 at Borden county line was not available yesterday morning, but sufficient traffic has been shown that will keep pace with the Broadway of America highway.

COLORADO WILL CELEBRATE FOURTH

Many Scurry County Folks Will Join With Neighbor City To Celebrate

Citizens of Colorado are inviting Scurry county folks to join with them in their July 4th program when the new Mitchell County Amusement Park will be officially opened.

According to the Colorado Record, Pete Ainsworth and Clay Smith are in charge of the rodeo events and have announced the following program:

10 a. m.—Goat roping.
11 a. m.—Wild mule riding.
12 m. to 1:30 p. m.—Barbecue.
1:30 to 2:15 p. m.—Calf roping.
2:15 to 3 p. m.—Wild cow milking.

Trick rope work by experts will be given during the intermissions.

All contestants are asked to register before 1 p. m. July 4th at the box office.

At 3 p. m.—Col-Tex Refinery baseball team will contest with the undefeated Colorado All-Stars. This game promises to be one of the best features of the day and alone will be worth the price of admission.

To bring the celebration to a close the negro teams of Snyder and Colorado will play. Snyder boasts of an unbeatable aggregation of colored players and call themselves the Black Eagles. The Colorado team is named the Black Hawks. This game should furnish plenty of fun.

The Colorado High School Band, under the direction of Roy Hester, will furnish music throughout the day.

The price of admission to the all-day celebration will be 50c, including the barbecue.

Mitchell county ranchmen are donating the beefs for the barbecue and enough pledges have already been given to assure plenty of good barbecue.

BAPTIST CHURCH HOLD REVIVAL

Interest Increases Daily in Campaign of Song, Prayer and Sermons

The Baptist Revival now in progress has been attracting a packed house nightly, with increased interest being shown in the morning services.

Pastor McGahey has been delivering a wonderful group of sermons with E. Otis Allen proving himself to be one of the finest singers ever to grace a local rostrum. Present plans call for the services to close Sunday night.

Celebrations Will Be Held During Week

Sonora, Ozona, Eldorado, Crane and Brady Offer Programs

TO DRAW CROWDS Elaborate Entertainment Features Offered By Towns

This is the week that West Texans, glad that it's alive even if sheep prices are low and cattle prices somewhere near the marshes, throw their hat in the air, let it fall on good green grass and celebrates in the jubilant manner. There are so many picnics and celebrations that one can pick them in almost any direction from San Angelo, says the San Angelo Standard.

July 1 and 2, Sonora and its Stockman's Paradise Association gives the biggest barbecue of the decade and feeds the visiting thousands on the streets. There'll be horse races and rodeo.

On July 3, 4 and 5 Ozona again gives its premier attraction of fine livestock, fast horses, carnival, free barbecue and the admission is expected to set new records. Joe Pierce is the man in charge of the program.

On July 4 and 5 Don McCormick and Frank Meador offer as heads of the Eldorado rodeo and race meet a program of unexcelled merit, so diverse as to appeal to all tastes. The prime bucking horses of the world are raised on the Eldorado plateau.

Crane City opens wide the doors on July 4 with a monster rodeo and carnival. The fifty-five candidates for office in that county will be there handing out cards.

Brady's three day affair opening July 3, and continuing three days, is attracting them from far and wide to see the race horses and enjoy a varied program of unusual merit.

The winners of prizes at The Economy Store contest last week were: Mrs. Ethel Lynch, bedroom suite; Miss Inez Logan, cedar chest; Mrs. Opal Logan, silverware; Miss Veta Sterling, wrist watch; Miss Ollie Mae Irvin, bat box.

SNYDER POSTOFFICE TO HOLD EXAMINATION

TIGER COACH IS ATTENDING SCHOOL

Coach "Red" Moore of Snyder High School is attending the third annual Southern Methodist University coaching school that is now in session at Dallas. More than 200 high school and college coaches were in attendance at the opening session, Tuesday morning.

Snyder is terribly proud of "Red" Moore and what he has done for athletics in Snyder High and here's hoping the 1930 season will be the most successful in the history of the school, as well as in the efforts of its coach.

OUTDOOR ROMANCE GREAT SPECTACLE

Spectacle, rousing action, tense suspense, compelling romance, all combine to make "The Light of Western Stars" with Richard Arlen, great entertainment. Like "The Virginian" it is a master outdoor picture, filmed on authentic locations with every detail true to the historic background on which its characters act. "The Light of Western Stars" will show at the Palace Theatre Friday and Saturday.

This picture is the first Zane Grey story to be filmed with dialog. In it, the he-man heroes and danger-defying women of the West step from the pages of the famous novel, act their gripping drama, and talk. Imagine the great Zane Grey pictures, "The Wanderer of the Wasteland," and others, with the true-to-life characters speaking the Zane Grey lines. "The Light of Western Stars" is the gripping story of the West in which the last desperate stand of banded outlawry on the American frontier is authentically pictured.

Two of the lovers of "The Virginian", Arlen and Mary Brian, have the leading roles. Arlen, a swaggering cowboy, rescues Mary Brian from Fred Kohler, an unscrupulous badman, and wins her from Regis Toomey, her Eastern lover. Harry Green contributes his unimitable comedy to the picture, and, in boots and saddle, he is funnier than he was even in "Kibitzer."

Otto Brower, who made thrillingly great moving pictures of several other Zane Grey stories, outdoes himself in this picture. He has captured the real desperado, devil-may-care spirit of the West in the intimacies of his people and the spectacle of his sweeping scenes.

BRONTE SCOUT SAVES A LIFE

BRONTE—James Hearne utilized his Boy Scout training this week to save a companion from drowning. The lad, who was a poor swimmer, was sinking in the middle of the Colorado river when Hearne came to his rescue and drew him to safety.

Scout training enabled young Hearne to break his grip the grip the other boy took on him.

HOME PRODUCTS BEING BOOSTED

COLORADO—A "Buy home products" campaign has been introduced here by the Chamber of Commerce as a means of stimulating diversified farming in Mitchell county.

People are requested to ask for home grown vegetables and other things whenever possible when they do their shopping. Dairying and truck farming are two industries expected to increase as a result of the policy.

SNYDER PEOPLE IN CAR WRECK

Six Snyder people were in a car wreck in Justiceburg Sunday. Only two were injured. They were: Miss Ruth Doak, bruises and internal injuries; and Jim Woods, cut on the head. Others in the car who were uninjured were Miss Louise Payne and Miss Beale Dewberry and Virgil Woods.

The wreck was caused by a flat tire turning the car over into a ditch.

Salary of Postmaster $2,600 A Year and Is Second Class Office

The position of Postmaster for the City of Snyder has been vacant since May 26th, although Postmaster B. F. Womack has been handling the affairs of the office. The position pays $2,600 and is a Second Class postoffice.

To fill the vacancy in the position of postmaster in this city, the United States Civil Service Commission has announced, at the request of the Postmaster-General and in accordance with an order of the President, an open competitive examination.

To be eligible for the examination, an applicant must be a citizen of the United States, must reside within the delivery of this postoffice, must have so resided for at least two years next preceding the date for close of receipt of applications, must be in good physical condition, and within the prescribed age limits. Both men and women are admitted.

Under the terms of the executive order, the Civil Service Commission will certify to the Postmaster-General the names of the highest three qualified eligibles, if as many as three are qualified, and the Postmaster-General will select one for nomination by the President. Confirmation by the Senate is the final action.

Applicants will not be required to assemble in an examination room for scholastic tests, but will be rated on their education and business training and experience. The Civil Service Commission will make inquiry among representative local business and professional men and women concerning the experience, ability and character of each applicant, and will assign ratings upon the evidence secured.

Nothing will be permitted to appear in the evidence upon which ratings are assigned which might even suggest the political affiliation of any candidate.

Full information and application blanks may be obtained from the secretary of the local board of civil-service examiners at the postoffice of this city, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

West Texas Press Meets Abilene July 11th-12th

Plans Insure Large Attendance at Fifth Meeting of Body

Plans completed at Abilene last Friday in a special meeting of the program committee of the West Texas Press Association insure one of the greatest meetings in the history of this institution.

Max Bentley of the Abilene Reporter-News, and Tommie Carswell of the Chamber of Commerce have been working hard in hand with the officials of the press body to give one of the enjoyable meetings that have made this press body noteworthy in their efforts to give practical and satisfying programs for the members of the Fourth Estate.

More than 7,000 pieces of mailing matter have gone into the hands of West Texas editors in the past ten days. According to Manager Al Badger of the Hotel Wooten, official headquarters of the convention, more reservations have been received for this meeting than any with which he has ever been identified and he has spent a lifetime in the hotel game, serving with some of the biggest names in the country.

The banquet program of Friday night will be broadcast and noted speakers from all parts of the state will be there. Editors will be introduced that should occasion a large radio reception. The complete official program will be appearing in every West Texas daily next Sunday and editors should watch with interest what is being prepared for them. Some surprises are not shown on the business program which will insure two days of real entertainment and honest enjoyment.

The official program of The West Texas Press Association, July 11th and 12th, 1930. Official headquarters, The Hotel Wooten, Abilene, Friday, July 11.

Registration, Meszarine Floor, Hotel Wooten, starting at 8:30 with Miss Treva Miller, Rotan, executive secretary, in charge. Every person must register and secure badge. 10:00 a. m. Luther M. Watson, Chairman, in ball room of meszarine floor.

Music—Led by Ed Shumway, Executive Chisholm Trails in charge. Address of Welcome, Mayor Thomas Hayes.

Response, W. E. Cooper, Colorado President's Talk, Eddie Warren, Post.

Appointment of Committees. 12:00 noon. Luncheon at Hilton.

SUPPLEMENTING THE COTTON CROP

Live stock from feeders to chickens as a supplement to cotton makes an ideal combination for the average farm. Live stock assures a year-round income, makes the farm self-supporting, enriches the soil and increases farm values. Cotton may then be safely raised as a cash surplus.

No farmer can afford to devote his entire efforts to cotton at the sacrifice of other needed things; but cotton, combined with live stock and plenty of feed, is a wise and profitable program for any farm.

E. E. Loomis, president of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, says:

That few persons seem to appreciate the struggle the railroads must continuously wage to maintain their service at its present high standard.

There is a constant demand for faster and more exacting service, necessitating enormous expenditures for special equipment and additional mechanical safety devices, etc.

The railways, at the demand of regulatory authorities, must spend many millions of dollars annually for the elimination of grade crossings. Railway taxes have increased over 300 per cent since 1911 and now amount to more than $1,100,000 per day.

At the same time, the Government is spending vast sums of public tax funds on inland waterways which tend to divert freight business from the railroads in the face of the fact that their most urgent need is additional traffic.

Railway rates are regulated by the Interstate Commerce Commission while their competitors on the highways, airways and waterways are not so regulated.

The question is: How long can the railways continue to provide efficient transportation under these conditions?

Newspaper readers were horrified by the account of the doings of a World War veteran who threw his wife and four children from a cliff, following them as a suicide. Did the dementia which clouded his mind date back to the World War? The seeds sown by such a conflict are far-flung and slow of growth. Armistice Day brought a general peace, but for many a head un-settled in those days of horror, there will be no peace short of that which ends all troubles.

The Bethel baseball team under the management of Horace Townsend sent to Sardis Sunday, and in one of the finest played games of the season, defeated their opponents, 1 to 0. Lester Gladson pitched for Bethel and struck out 13 men, while Smoky Allen of Sardis struck out 12.

The two teams will meet at Wolf Park, Sunday and supporters of both teams are invited to attend. No charge will be made.

Snyder men who saw the game Sunday stated that the two teams put up as fine an exhibition of baseball as could be witnessed anywhere, including a league game.

In words which are almost repelling in their cold-bloodedness, a prominent jurist declares in favor of the gallows as the only trustworthy deterrent from crime. Perhaps he is right. In one city alone two torch murders were attempted within thirty days, the proceeding being to tie the victim fast and ignite his clothes.

haps fly, as it was his prediction that airplanes would be flying across the Atlantic like boats are sailing today.

"I asked him what he thought the future held for aviation. He said that the day would come when the Atlantic ocean would have airports; that the boats that are plowing the Atlantic today would be replaced with monstrous, giant seaplanes—35 or 40 motors, crossing the ocean in the air. He also stated that aviation did not mean only transportation, mail express and freight lines, but last but not least, the day would come when aviation would be the salvation of the world in the way of National defense.

"He said he was very fond of flying; had just made a trip to Naples the day before.

To show you what Mussolini thinks of aviation, in a country smaller in area than the state of Texas, his 1930 budget for aviation was fifty-seven million and some odd hundred thousand dollars.

"He asked me if I was in the service in the late war. I told him I was in the U. S. Marine Corps and he said 'great body of men.' He then told me some of his own experience in the war, as well as a story about a world war veteran. He was only a Corporal in the late war, was wounded on the Italian front and today a Dictator to forty-seven million people, including Kings, Queens, Generals and Admirals.

"He asked me what I thought of the flight his country made from Rome to South America—some four thousand and eight hundred miles, and I told him I thought it was one of the greatest on record.

"Then I drifted on to the Rome-New York-Dallas flight, knowing that he must approve the flight, as no foreign plane can go into Rome without his approval. He started off by saying, 'Colonel, I am going to approve your Rome-New York-Dallas flight and throw it open to the world and make it an international flight. If my country makes it, it will bring my country closer to your country.'

"I then asked him what he thought of ocean flights and his statement was that ocean flights mean everything to any country.

"He wanted to know all about America; what my country was doing for aviation, and I made the statement that my country was coming to the front very fast.

"Before the interview was closed, which interview lasted about forty-five minutes, I was presented with a photograph of Mussolini by an Italian General from the Aviation Department. I laid the photograph upon his desk and asked him if he would mind autographing it; he looked up and smiled and said "with pleasure,"—writing on the picture "To Col. W. E. Easterwood, Jr., Rome, February 29, 1929" (his secret mark of his seven years of Fascist) and in the lower left hand corner, "Mussolini." I carried this picture away with me after being told that he had discontinued autographing pictures.

"He asked me when I was leaving Rome, where to, and invited me back to his country.

"Before leaving I told him I thought he was a big man, doing great things for Italy, his country. He smiled and said, 'I thank you.'

"This ended the interview with the world's greatest Dictator, a big man who is doing great things for Italy."

Ed. Note: The picture that Mussolini gave Col. Easterwood is placed directly over his desk in his suite in the Baker Hotel, along with celebrities from every land and clime.

At a meeting of medical men, a doctor denounces hospitals as training schools for specialists. Specialism has its place, but results in superiority in a narrow field, at the expense of breadth of vision. The sick and sore were not always the losers at the head of the old-time physician. His wide experience and isolated self-reliance made him a master of rough and ready expedients that carried through many a patient who would have died while specialists were trying to diagnose the disorder by the process of elimination.

The papers comment on the primitive instinct which prompted a boy to sit quietly on shore, watching boatmen grapple for his body, after a supposed drowning; but nothing is said about the primitive effectiveness of the ancient paddle.

vide funds for producing new plays or theatrical shows. This trust might be described as "angelic" borrowing from the slang use of the word "angel" which is common in theatrical circles. The angel is the person who "backs the show"—who provides the necessary capital.

Precisely defined, this use of the word is marked "slang" by Webster's New International Dictionary. "A nonprofessional financial backer of a play or other amusement enterprise." The word "angel" comes from a Greek word meaning a messenger, especially a messenger of God, and its most frequent use retains this basic meaning. An angel, in theological parlance, is a spiritual, celestial being, superior to man in power and intelligence, belonging to any of the orders, especially the lowest order, of the celestial hierarchy.

HELPING TO BUILD TEXAS

Potato shipments from the Valley will exceed considerably the total of 1,650 last year, according to the Donna News, and will go well past the 2,000-car mark. The average price per car to the shipper is $1,000. The first carload shipments of roasting ears and tomatoes were shipped from the Valley recently. The Swift poultry and produce plant at Taylor, employing 75 persons and furnishing a market for Williamson County poultry and dairy products, was recently put into operation. East Texas Canning Co. plans a branch cannery at Jasper where it is expected to raise 300 carloads of truck of all kinds this year.

Only relatively is there any slowing up in Texas' industrial advancement, and there are many projects, large and small, under way, starting or projected in various towns over the state. American Cyanide is reported to have secured options on land at Corpus Christi for a plant to manufacture fertilizers and chemicals and using a lot of sulphur from the Duval county mines. Donna and San Benito are slated to get concrete plants, according to the San Juan Sentinel. Mente & Co., New Orleans, are establishing a branch bagging factory at Houston to employ 75 workers on a site purchased from the Missouri-Pacific. Paso-Tex Petroleum Co. is spending a million and a quarter on an additional unit to its El Paso refinery. Placing of machinery in the Marble Falls plant of Certified Laboratories is proceeding preliminary to manufacturing surgical gauze and other products used by the medical profession.

Texas towns and cities also are going ahead. Amarillo voted $150,000 for street paving and $25,000 for park improvements. Waco's new city hall is ready for occupancy. Perryton has a new $50,000 hospital. Spearman, Eagle Pass, Bryan are added to the long list of Texas communities providing funds for handsome new school buildings. Port Arthur let contract for a $247,000 pleasure pier.

Grapevine is interesting an Indiana sewer pipe concern in the fine clays found in that section. Flatonia is going in for poultry with more than 50,000 baby chicks distributed there this spring. An egg-breaking plant is an early result. Cameron's cheese plant is going ahead with increased milk receipts and "farmers more interested in dairying and diversification." Gorman is seeking a potato curing plant. Work on the Big Spring

FLYING MISSIONARY BROTHER G. J. FELTES

New York, June 30—Destined for a career of humanitarian and spiritual usefulness in the snowbound back country of Alaska, a "Missionary Plane", christened "The Marquette Missionary", was presented by the Marquette League at Roosevelt Field, Long Island, yesterday to Brother G. J. Feltes, S. J., the first "flying missionary" of the Jesuit Order. He plans to leave June 30th with George Pickensack as co-pilot, for the Pacific Coast, and officials of the League state that he will thus win the distinction of being the first member of a religious order to attempt a transcontinental flight. The plane, which was presented to Pilot-Brother Feltes by the Marquette League, of which Judge A. J. Tully is President, and the Rev. William Flynn is Secretary-General, to further its objects of rendering aid to Eskimo missions of Alaska, is a Bellanca Pacemaker, powered by a Packard Diesel Motor and fueled and lubricated by Texaco Aerodiesel Fuel and Airplane Oil. It is said that "The Marquette Missionary" will be the first Diesel powered plane to fly on the Pacific Coast and in Alaska. It was given to the Jesuit missionaries at the earnest request of Venerable Bishop of Alaska, the Rt. Rev. Joseph Raphael Crimont, S. J. Much interest has been manifested in the many unique features of this plane which will be exhibited at important transcontinental way-points, including Buffalo, Detroit, Dubuque, Des Moines, Wichita, Albuquerque, Phoenix, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle. Upon arrival in Alaska, where it will be shipped from Seattle, "The Marquette Missionary", with headquarters at Holy Cross Mission, about 400 miles up the Yukon, will be utilized for humanitarian as well as spiritual work. It is equipped to serve as an emergency ambulance, can carry serums to isolated posts, and through quick flights and by the use of its radio equipment, maintain contact throughout the winter months that will relieve untold hardships and suffering. The main use of the plane will be to connect up the various missions which are completely isolated from one another and from the outside world, for the greater part of the year. The Superior of the Missions, who now requires several months to make his circuit by dog team and boat, will be able to visit even the most isolated posts in a total of less than two weeks. Realizing the importance to the progress of Alaska of adequate landing facilities, the United States Government has established seventy-three landing fields, beside the many natural fields to be found in many parts of the North. In the winter time, a plane can land on its skids in the snow most anywhere there is a level stretch free of obstructions. Brother Feltes, the Jesuit Pilot, who is 32 years old and a member of the Jesuit Order for 15 years, is the only Jesuit holding an aviator's license in America. He has had about 100 hours of flying in many types of planes, and has received varied types of instruction from some of the world's most famous pilots. He started his training on the sixteenth of last July, under the able tutelage of Captain Royce at the Alameda Airport, across the bay from San Francisco. After eight hours of dual instruction, he made his first solo flight on the 5th of August, this being the first time a Jesuit ever flew an airplane alone. He won his Private License on the 28th of August, and then continued his instruction with the Curtis Company, receiving his instructions in acrobatics at the hands of Roy Hunt. The first training he received was in an OX5 Robin, Challenger Robin, and Pledgling. On finishing his instructions, he received his Limited Commercial License, having been examined by Dillard Hamilton, Inspector of the Department of Commerce. Since going to New York, last January, Brother Feltes has inspected and flown a large number of different types and makes of planes. He has flown the Bellanca Pacemaker with Capt. George Haldeman, Wesley Smith, Jack Ayres, and Howard Young; the Ireland Amphibion with Captain George Pickensack and Elmer Meyers; the Stinson-Detroit with Eddie Stinson; the New Crescent with Clarence Chamberlin; the Junco with Fred Melchior; the Ryan Brougham with "Red" Harrigan; and the "Spokane Sun God" Buhl with J. M. Johnson. He also flew the Diesel Powered Stinson with Walter Lees, chief test pilot of the Packard Company. After studying the different makes and types of planes, Brother Feltes decided the Bellanca Pacemaker, powered by a Packard Diesel Motor, fueled with the new Texaco Aerodiesel Fuel and lubricated with Texaco Airplane Oil, was best suited for the work he will be called upon to do in the frozen north. The fact that Texaco Aerodiesel Fuel has a sub-zero gear test and can be handled by unskilled labor without the slightest danger of explosion greatly influenced this choice. Pilots George King and Alger Graham, noted Alaskan pilots, gave him valuable information on flying in the extreme weather conditions to be met in the North. He also received valuable technical information on the different makes and types of planes and motors from the late Captain L. M. Woolson, inventor of the Packard Diesel, and from Commander R. D. Weyerbacher of the Naval Aircraft factory at Philadelphia. On the west-bound trip, Brother Feltes will receive further instruction on flying and care of the motor under these conditions from the Packard Company, during his stop in Detroit. Officials state that this is the first transcontinental flight of a plane powered by a Diesel Motor and the first notable flight in which the new Texaco Aerodiesel Fuel has been used. He has had 14 years experience in mechanics and has studied the Diesel Motor before it was adapted to use as an aviation engine. The first leg of the transcontinental flight will take the Flying Missionary over the little village of Auriesville on the Mohawk River, where he will drop a wreath on the spot, where, in the middle of the seventeenth century, three Jesuit missionaries were cruelly tormented and put to death by their Indian captors. These martyrs are to be canonized by Pope Pius XI in St. Peter's, Vatican City, on the 29th of June, the first American Saints.

Better Breakfasts

ALL healthy men enjoy their breakfasts, but many of them have an unfortunate habit of eating the same breakfast three hundred and sixty-five days in the year. Variety is the spice of life, and this is a meal which it is easy to vary. It is not only easy, but hygienic, since the "permanent breakfast" most men adopt is a bit heavy for the warm weather of the summer months. Let's try varying it with fruits. Both of these products can now be obtained in cans. The latter is especially easy to serve, as the juice of any quality brand of tomatoes is good for the purpose. Just pop the can into the ice box the night before, drain the juice, stir and drink it in the morning, and use the remaining tomato solids in an entrée at a later meal. Fruits for All Tastes. These are only two of the products which come in cans which can be used to give a new tang to a breakfast. There are apples, apricots, blackberries, blueberries, grapefruit, peaches, pears, pineapple, raspberries and strawberries, among others, and many of these mingle very happily with a favorite breakfast food.

Results are what count, and Konjola can be counted on for results. Sufferers want relief, not promises. Konjola has made a matchless record simply because it does the things it is designed to do. Take, as a typical example of Konjola at work, the case of Harmon Glaze, 12, whose mother, Mrs. Annie Glaze, Route 4, Lonoke near Little Rock, Ark., says: "My boy, Harmon, 12, had typhoid about five years ago, and his health since then was not good. He frequently had fever and had attacks of nausea. He had no desire to play and his appetite was poor. Nothing I gave him seemed to do any good. Konjola had helped me so much that I decided to give it to Harmon. Today, he is like a different person. He eats, sleeps, and plays like other children and is no longer subject to fevers. I am still giving him Konjola for it has done so much for both of us." So it goes: victory after victory wherever Konjola is given the chance to prove its merits. TERRELL GIVES OUT THIRD CROP REPORT Cotton Acreage Decreased 6%—Corn, Grain Sorghums and Other Feed Crops Slightly Increased

Austin, Texas, June 23rd, 1930 THIS REPORT BASED ON CONDITIONS OF JUNE 15TH AND COVERS PRACTICALLY ALL AGRICULTURAL COUNTIES

District	Counties	Acreage %	Condition %
Eastern District	49 counties	93%	82%
Northern District	22 counties	94%	81%
Western District	22 counties	94%	79%
Central District	44 counties	93%	83%
S. Western District	37 counties	94%	85%
N. Western District	58 counties	95%	82%
Average for State		94%	82%

The cotton crop is practically all planted, and 90% of the crop is reported clean, and 10% foul. A large percent of the crop is late, and much of it is not chopped out. The acreage is reduced 6% and the condition is fairly good. Some boll weevils, fleas, worms and hoppers are showing up, but it is too early to show much damage. If insects continue to increase with so much late cotton the production will be greatly decreased. Corn and grain sorghums have been increased 5% and the condition is 90% which indicates a good crop. Wheat and oats have been slightly decreased, and the condition is 70%, which indicates a lower yield than last year. This is caused by the excessive drought in early spring. Peanuts and sweet potatoes have been slightly decreased and the condition is below normal. Rain fall has averaged about 4 inches in the past month, with six to eight inches in some sections. Stock ranges are in excellent condition because of recent rains, grass is fine and the livestock industry is much improved. Cotton Market Situation. The price of cotton is very low, middling basis being around 13c. In 1926 we produced nearly 18 million bales and the price went very little lower than it is now and the price went back to 20 cents before the first day of September, 1927. Last year we produced 14,800,000 bales and the price has dropped to 13 cents. What is the cause of a crop of 14,800,000 bales

During his tenure of office General Bobbitt has handled many important legal matters for the people of Texas, understanding among which was his successful defense of the Rural School Aid bill, carrying an appropriation of $5,000,000. Within twenty-four hours after the bill was attacked, and when it seemed that four thousand Texas schools would be closed, General Bobbitt took steps which prevented this and allowed four hundred thousand children in the rural districts to continue their school work. General Bobbitt spent Sunday at his headquarters in Dallas. He declared that information received from many sections of Texas indicated that he would carry the State by a heavy vote. "People of Texas are keenly alive to the importance of this office," General Bobbitt said, "and they desire to elect a man whose training and experience qualify him to represent them as their lawyer."

THE VALUE OF SOUND DESIGN

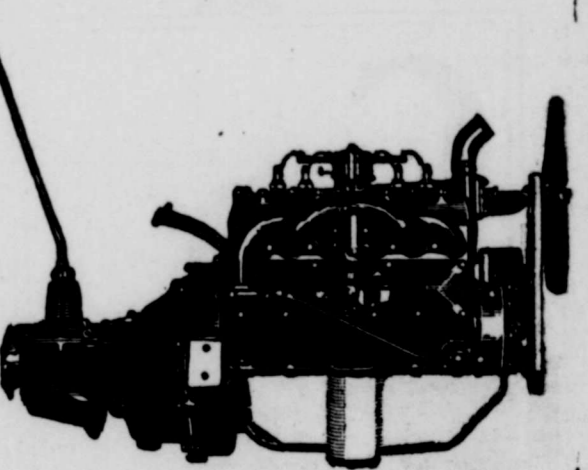

New Ford engine gives outstanding acceleration, speed and power without sacrificing reliability or economy

THE good performance of the Ford car, so apparent on every highway, is due largely to the sound mechanical design of the engine.

It has outstanding acceleration, speed and power, yet that is only part of its value to you. Greater still is the fact that it brings you all these features without sacrificing either reliability or economy.

That is the reason the Ford car has given such satisfactory service to millions of motorists all over the world and has been chosen by so many large companies that keep accurate cost figures. In every detail of construction it has been carefully planned and made for the work it has to do.

The design of the compression chamber is an important factor in the efficiency of the Ford engine. It is built to allow free passage of gases through the valves and to thoroughly mix the fuel by producing turbulence within the cylinders during compression. The spark thus flashes quickly through the whole fuel charge, resulting in quieter and more effective engine performance. Other factors are the direct gravity gasoline feed, the specially designed carburetor, the new hot-spot manifold, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves of larger diameter, statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft and flywheel, the simplicity of the electrical, cooling, lubrication, and fuel systems and accuracy in manufacturing.

A STATEWIDE INDUSTRIAL PROGRAM

The time has come when Texas must think about repairing and reinforcing the foundations upon which she builds her prosperity. Heretofore she has relied almost exclusively upon agriculture, but she has grown too populous to impose so great a burden upon one form of industry. Moreover, agriculture itself is beset with a multitude of ills and is in poor condition to carry an ever-increasing load.

Too much dependence upon agriculture has placed Texas at considerable disadvantage in the economic competitions between the states. A natural wealth so great as to be almost incomprehensible has carried her into the fore ranks. It is true; but where might she be had she properly balanced and diversified the production of field and factory?

Cotton, for instance, has been the nucleus about which Texas built a system of splendid deep water ports. Cotton in bales, cotton-seed oil and cotton-seed cake have comprised the major items of Texas commerce. The cotton crop, however, fluctuates widely; this year there may be an enormous production, next year a comparative failure. In consequence, activity of Texas ports has been lopsided, and shipping has been preponderantly of the "tramp" variety.

A statewide industrial program therefore appears necessary and desirable from many viewpoints. Not only would it relieve agriculture of a burden which has become unbearable, but it would provide Texas ports with a steady flow of varied import and export cargo. Industrial payrolls would tend to fill the valleys which now characterize Texas business graphs, and if the peaks were leveled a little in the process no harm would result.

A well-balanced program of industrialization would stimulate prosperity in remarkable degree. Indeed, because it would provide new, strong markets for agricultural products, industry might prove to be the very remedy for agriculture's ills.

That the future prosperity of the state depends upon some such program of industrial expansion and development, most Texas editors agree. This agreement does not extend, however, to the ways and means by which that development should be fostered.

HERE IS SOMETHING WORTH READING

If people would apply the same good business principles to their attitude toward their community as do "1930 Sellers" to the store, firm or business they represent, there would be fewer "dead" towns.

In a recent issue of a bulletin called "Better Selling" appeared an editorial from which every thinking citizen of every live community can get much good. Here it is with quotation marks omitted:

Did anyone with a secure position, drawing a regular salary and knowing that he or she could not be fired for indifference, carelessness, laziness, impudence or inattention, ever advance any new idea, accomplish anything worth while or ever GET anyplace? No!

The real things of life have not been accomplished by men and women who counted the days and hours, not by the hands on the clock, but by the results obtained; people who had a goal to be reached, a prize to attain, a reward to be earned; men and women who were BIG enough to "take telling" and who DID take telling and who got out and WORKED to profit by that which they were told.

If I am ready and willing to work 12 hours a day and do work 12 hours a day, it is none of your business. If you are willing to work only six hours a day and work but six hours a day, it is none of my business. BUT, if I work 12 hours a day and you work but six hours a day, it is none of your business if my wife and children wear better clothes, eat better food, drive a better automobile and live in a better house, than your wife and children.

Indifference toward Snyder on your part can keep it from ever "getting anyplace." Carelessness in what you say regarding it can cause inattention to it at a time when attention is most desired to obtain a worth-while industry. Failure on your part to get out with others and work together for a common good can and will keep you from accomplishing anything.

If some other community gets together and works consistently, persistently and harmoniously to make their town a better, more interesting, more attractive place in which to live, work, play, and make money—that's their business. If you refuse to put your shoulder to the wheel alongside the men and women who are trying to push Snyder ahead; if you lie back and not only refuse to work but don't even shout encouragement—that's your business. BUT, don't crab if some other town takes business away from you, people move away from you and—yes, even if your factories close down, and you are laid off.

Say what you please, think what you please; but the fact remains that empty houses, empty stores, empty factories and empty other things are sure signs that somewhere along the line there have been some empty heads. No handful of people in any town can do everything, but all of the people, working in the right direction, TOGETHER, can do anything.

Youth Tells Own Story Of Descent From Peak of San Jacinto To Valley

Mentone, Calif., June 27, 1930. Dear Sirs: I am enclosing a good Boy Scout story, the scene of which was some forty miles south of east from our home. It occurs to me that the piece may prove interesting to the Scouts of Scurry County. We are getting along very nicely. With all good wishes to the Times force, I am Most cordially, James H. Tate

From Redlands Facts: Harold Johnson, 12-year-old Corona Boy Scout, who was lost in the San Jacinto mountains four days and started all Southern California by coming safely alone down the precipitous northeast slope from the 10,800 foot peak, says he does not want to make the trip again unless he has plenty of grub and blankets.

As he rested at the Banning hotel yesterday afternoon, Harold gave to a Riverside Daily Press representative his first newspaper interview. He talked modestly and boyishly of his experiences. "Today he is safe at home with his parents, Postmaster Roscoe Johnson and Mrs. Johnson, his elder brother, Marvin, who aided tirelessly in the search for the lost lad, and his small sister, Theda Mae. But from last Friday morning, when he became separated from other Scouts on the mountain peak, until 10 o'clock yesterday, when unhurt he appeared at the State Snow Creek fish hatchery several miles south of Whitewater, Harold had wandered alone about the most dangerous precipices and canyons of this isolated region.

Just how many miles he tramped and climbed, back and forth across the steep mountain side, can never be estimated. "It wasn't very hot in the day time," he told us, "but it was sure cold at night."

There appears to be nothing of the "smart Alec" about this slight-built boy, whose courage and will had just brought him through an experience which might have dismayed many a man. He seems just a nice American boy, somewhat embarrassed by the fuss being made over him.

His sandwich finished to the last crumb, Harold laconically told his experiences in the mountain sheep, so little visited that mountain range, shy and almost extinct animals, are its principal inhabitants. "Tells of Journey: "We'd started down from the peak about six o'clock Friday morning," he said slowly, "and I got lost from the others in our crowd. I thought I knew how to get back to the trail, but I missed it. Two hours later I was sure I was lost, but I still tried to get back to Round valley, where we'd camped the night before."

According to Scout leaders this was the one big mistake in judgment made by the lad, who became a Scout only a few months ago. Had he remained where he was, when he realized his predicament, he would have been found easily by searchers. "I fell down a place in the snow and lost my blanket early Friday morning. I hurt my face a little," he continued. This mishap was the only accident suffered by Harold during the 96 hours of his wanderings.

Without a particle of food, lacking matches to make a fire, and without blankets, he began what proved to be an unprecedented climb down the mountain to the desert. "I didn't find any water until Friday night," Harold said, "then I camped for the night near a stream. It was pretty cold there, all right, but I slept some."

Courage Shown: Asked if he had feared the loneliness and quietude, or prowling animals, the boy said calmly, "No I wasn't scared." He saw a number of deer and but one rattlesnake. "I didn't kill it. I knew if I didn't do anything to the snake it wouldn't come after me. Snakes won't hurt you know," he explained gravely. "I heard other snakes rattle, but I didn't stop to look for them," he said with a faint smile.

"Well, Saturday I had to climb around some falls, and then I came to Snow Creek. It was awful steep there, with lots of big rocks. Saturday night I slept on a ledge of rock where I sort of cleaned out a place to lie. "I saw the airplanes. I waved hard at them, but they couldn't see me."

Continues Climb: "Sunday morning I began to hike down the hill again. I knew there'd be a road or something if I could get down from the mountain. I went over kind of to one side of the canyon and headed for the desert." The lad became silent and appeared to be thinking hard.

Endives for Early Fall Salads

The endives are the mainstay for fall salads before the late crop of lettuce comes from the farms. There are two varieties, the curled and the broad leaved. The latter is generally known as escarole or broad leaved Batavia. The curly endive is more commonly seen and is a most attractive appearing vegetable because of its slashed and curled leaves which when blanched are creamy white with the tips green.

The Batavian or escarole need not be blanched. It is eaten green. The curly is blanched by tying up the tips of the outer leaves with raffia or by setting a flower pot over it. Both are easily grown. While the late main crop should not be planted until well into July or early August, a September crop may be raised by planting the two now. It is of finer quality than the later planting but by blanching and planting in a half shaded situation, good salad material may be obtained by the last of August.

The plants should be given plenty of room to develop in the seed row, 10 inches apart being none too much for the curly types. They need rich soil, plenty of moisture and for early plantings should be shaded from the hot afternoon sun. They must be kept growing at top speed to be of good quality. If allowed to become dry they will be tough and bitter. Paper mulch is excellent for bringing early endive to edible quality. This mulch is spread between the rows, keeps moisture in the soil and protects it from the hot sun. It has been tried successfully all over the country for vegetable crops that suffer from drought.

The blanching process should start when the curly endive has made a rosette about five to six inches in diameter. The tips of the outer leaves should be gathered together with raffia, taking care not to break the midribs in the process. If they are to be blanched by turning a flower pot over them, see that it is tilted on the north side, away from the sun.

"Papa, I saved six cents today. I ran all the way to school behind a street car and saved the six-cent fare."

"Why didn't you ride behind a taxi and save 50 cents?"

ALPHABETICAL EATING

Do you ever get tired of planning menus? This story does not refer to the alphabetical soup in which children take such delight, but to the device of a bachelor to solve the problem of choosing meals constantly at clubs, hotels and restaurants. Even bachelors have their food problems, although all that some of them have to do is to make up their minds while looking over a menu with an attentive waiter hovering beside them. How much more difficult it is for the housewife who has no menu of happy suggestions before her, but must evolve from her own experience and inner consciousness not only what foods to have but how to cook and serve them!

This bachelor hit upon the plan of alphabetical eating. He decided that at each meal he would eat only foods the names of which started with one particular letter. When he confided this scheme to a friend, the latter cynically remarked that he preferred to diversify his diet, and suggested one from the two extremes of the alphabet—apples, asparagus, zwieback and zoolak.

Found Dining Difficult: But the bachelor persisted in his plan, and got along fairly well by including dried foods under D, until he reached the fifth letter of the alphabet. There he found himself apparently limited to eels, eggs, eggplant, and elderberries, unless he went out hunting for eels. So he made an analysis of the alphabet and found that the best letters to dine in were C, B, P, S and T, with the food supply rapidly tapering off in the others.

C was the most successful day under the new plan. He had cocktails, clams, celery, chicken, corn, cheese and coffee, and a host of other good things for dinner, and topped off his C evening by taking a cab to a musical comedy to see the chorus girls before he retired to his couch.

Then He Got Married: Then he got married, but when he made his helpful housekeeping suggestion to his bride, she laughed so hard that he really felt hurt about it. But the suggestion was not entirely lost. His wife couldn't get it out of her head. Being a wise woman and economical, she used a proper proportion of canned foods, and she soon found out, as he had, that C is a great gastronomic letter. C the canned vegetables in C are cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery and corn (cream style), whole grain, kernerettes and on the cob). The canned fruits are cherries (red, white and black), cranapples, cranberries and currants. The canned fish are caviar, cod fish balls, cod fish cakes, cod fish flakes, clams (Little Neck, razor and minced), crabs (plain and deviled) and crawfish. The canned meats are chicken (boneless, deviled, in tamales and whole). In addition to these there are catsup, cider, cheese, chili con carne, chili sauce, chow chow, clam cakes, creamed white potatoes, clam chowder, consommé, chicken curry, chicken a la King, chop suey, chicken soup, clam broth, cut mixed peels, and coffee (vacuum packed).

B is Bounteous: B, too, proved bounteous in canned foods. The vegetables are beans (baked, with tomato sauce, with pork, red kidney, lima, fudge and wax), beets (whole, in pieces, and sliced), and Brussels sprouts. Blackberries and blueberries are the fruits, and the meats include bacon, beef (boiled, corned, dried, roast, stew), beef steak with onions, and brains. There are also Boston brown bread, beef a la mode, beef soup and beef bouillon under the specialties beginning with this letter.

As to P, she also found it prolific of good foods. The vegetables that came in cans are peas, peppers (sweet and green), pickles, pimientos, potatoes (Irish new, and sweet), and pumpkin. The fruits are peaches (whole, halves, crushed, and sliced), pears (whole and halves), pineapples (Hawaiian sliced, crushed and unseasoned juice), plums, and prunes (dry and in syrup). The only meat is pig's feet, but specialties in P are puddings (fig and plum), pea soup, pepper pot, and puree (beans, lima beans and celery).

KNOW TEXAS

Texas led all the states in production of crystalline graphite in 1929. Texas had 7,021 farms electrically served from transmission lines at the end of 1929. This represented a gain of 1,236 over 1928, but only 1.5 per cent of the 465,640 farms in the state.

Texas has more prisoners confined for violation of the prohibition law than any other state in the union and more than 32 other states combined on that account. (Authority: Representative Bachman, W. Va.)

One Texas gas field—there are several others, some almost or quite as important—is estimated to have 8,000 billion cubic feet in available reserve.

Measured by the electrical output yardstick, business conditions in Texas are eight times as good as the average over the United States. For the last three months Texas' electrical output gained 8 per cent against an average over the United States of 1 per cent.

Old Lady: If you really want work, Farmer Gray wants a right-hand man. Tramp: Just my luck, lady, I'm left-handed.

Why not begin by organizing a competent, effective industrial board?—Editorials of Month.

Some Lean Letters: But the bride would not admit the efficacy of his plan. Whenever he boasted, she pointed out the lean letters of the alphabet. There are no canned foods at all the names of which begin with I, N, U, X, Y or Z, and a goodly number of letters with only one product. The only D is dill pickles, the single E eels, Q stands alone for quince, and W for wholewheat. So she maintains proper discipline whenever her husband misbehaves by threatening him with a meal in one of these barmaid letters.

VISITORS HONORED

Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Hicks entertained with bridge party Tuesday night, complimenting Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Vinsant of McAllen, Texas, who are visiting Snyder relatives and friends.

Five tables of guests enjoyed the bridge play, and Miss Hattie Hern and Raymond Sims were winners of high score prizes. The honored guests also received lovely prizes.

Delicious ice cream and cake were served to Messrs. and Mmes. Ivan Dodson, Geo. Oldham, W. C. Shull, A. R. Norred, Robt. Curnutte, Jr., Raymond Sims, Tate Lockhart, Miss Hattie Hern, Miss Neoma Strayhorn, Mrs. Rector Lester of Harlingen, and the honorees.

Those inclined toward apology for the inconvenience to which Admiral Byrd has been subjected by the crowds which have assembled to greet him, should recall that the advantage is not altogether on the side of the spectators. It is impossible to look upon the face of a great man, or spend a brief hour in his presence, without acquiring a better understanding of his past achievements, and a deeper sympathy with his aims and hopes for the future.

LAUNDERING VS WASHING

Did you ever stop to think that we have been in the Laundry business here for many years; that we pay Insurance, School, City and County Taxes here, and that our PAY ROLL is spent in your own town; that we work from fifteen to twenty people in our plant; that we own homes here and we help to pave the streets and county roads and that we always help to get anything that is good for our town by donating to different causes and working in their interests also.

We employ experienced help and most of our employees are people who need the work. Our plant is a credit to any town ten times the size of Snyder and is as well equipped as you will find in any town this side of Fort Worth and a good ways the other side of Snyder.

You Will Always Look Dressed Up If You Send Your Clothes to the Laundry

We give the best Laundry Service in this part of the country—Family Finish, Flat Work, Bachelor Service, Wet Wash, Quilts, Blankets, Carpets, Rugs. We use only pure soft water, even softer than rainwater, and your clothes are given 9 to 13 different changes of water each time and we do not use the same water over again as you will get from the average wash woman, just pure, clean, filtered water changed each time.

You can well afford to set your washing machine aside and send your clothes to the Laundry at the prices for which we do wet washes, for when you use a washing machine you only have a wet wash, and it does not iron your clothes.

There is a difference in Washed and Laundered clothes. If you have been having your clothes washed where they use about three changes of water on them, and maybe the same water was used on some one else's clothes—TRY THE LAUNDRY WAY OF WASHING.

We invite the public to visit and inspect our plant at any time.

GEORGE MAHON TO TAKE PART OF CLARA BOW

George Mahon, district attorney for the 32nd judicial district, does not confine his activities merely to sending law-breakers to the jug.

On July 4 he has a much more difficult part than that. For he is to play the part of Clara Bow in a water carnival at Colorado.

Mahon's appearance is to be in a woman's bathing revue staged as a part of the Independence Day program sponsored by the Colorado country club.

Proud Parent: How do I know that you are not marrying my daughter for my money?
Bold Suitor: We are both taking a risk. How do I know you won't fall in a year or so?
"Jack said he'd kiss me or die in the attempt."
"Gracious! And did you let him?"
"Well, you haven't seen any funeral notices, have you?"

SECOND LETTER FROM MRS. D. P. YODER

NEW YORK, June 18, 1930
SNYDER SIGNAL:—

We arrived in New York, the great metropolis of the world, with its 6 1-2 millions of people.

After being in the beautiful city of our National Capital, where everything is beautiful, seemed quite a contrast. It also seems very small compared to New York.

This hotel Knickerbocker where the Wicker Touring company have their headquarters is located in the heart of the city. We are only a block from Broadway and we have done some window shopping and took a sightseeing tour of the business part of the city, viewing the skyscrapers, including the Woolworth building which is 67 stories high, three very old and quaint churches which are of historic value. We also saw the Chrysler building which is 76 stories high. The top of this building is made of untarnished steel.

We went through the diamond district—Wall Street, Stock Exchange and went to see the Aquarium, which contains fish of every known description. Beautiful fish, most of them were very interesting. This is located near the ocean where we could see the Statue of Liberty at a distance.

We were taken through the East side of New York, made famous by Ex-Governor Al Smith, also the defeated candidate for President. His fame, however, has not changed the condition of East side New York. It is the most congested part of New York. One has only to appreciate what a wonderful blessing it is to live out in God's open country, even though it is in Snyder.

We went to a large wholesale fish market and my how awful the odor. As well as I like fish that scent makes me smell like fish yet. It was awful. We went to Chinatown adjoining East Side. While in Chinatown we were shown where Al Smith was born and reared and the church he attended. With such environment, one could expect little. We went to Bowery Mission we've read so much about, which, before it became a mission was one of the biggest gambling dens in the world. It was bought and turned into a mission where people are fed and Christ is preached. The basement of this mission was once an opium den, and a tunnel runs out of this room 220 feet long so that if a policeman made a raid they could make their getaway, but finally there was a raid made in which 27 persons were killed. Fourteen were Chinese and the rest Americans, including three women. Since that time it has been turned into feeding men and one time as many as 300 men would sleep on the floor, and there would be too many. The rest sleep in the mission above, on the benches—anywhere to be comfortable.

The bread was piled up on a counter and two large kettles to be filled with coffee for supper. They have been able to provide coats for them by donations made by tourists.

From the mission the guide took us to a temple where the Chinese gods were shown, and how they worshipped them. An educated Chinese girl showed them to us.

I for one, feel thankful that I wasn't born a Chinese and brought up in all that superstition and ignorance.

This guide said that to his certain knowledge 240 American women had married Chinese men and some of their children look very much like Americans. Here in Chinatown and East Side New York the buildings are brick, of course, built on the walk and we saw hundreds of washings stretched out in front of their apartments. There is not a blade of grass to be seen.

Children by the droves and people by the hundreds on the streets buying from shops built on the opposite side of the walk that contained articles of different kinds. All of inferior quality. Also vegetables and fruits. At night the shacks are covered over with canvas.

This is the way they live month in and month out—year in and year out. We might wonder why they stay in such a place.

This is all they know—if they were to go to some other place they wouldn't know what to do for they have few advantages and meager education and no surplus money to go anywhere on.

We didn't have time to see all the pretty part of New York. We went to a talking picture to-night—a war scene, "Journey's End", a very splendid picture of its kind.

Tomorrow we sail at 2 o'clock. We leave here at 12:30.

Met with the Wicker Touring company and the group that are to sail in our party this evening at 5 o'clock. A very splendid group, I'm sure, of preachers and school teachers mostly. I will not write any more for awhile.

Mr. Wicker told us that on his last trip there were 30 in the group and not a one got seasick. That was very encouraging. When you hear from me again I'll tell you how this party came out in regard to seasickness.

PRECISION A LAW IN CHEVROLET PLANT

"Hand built throughout" used to be the hallmark of American industry, the "Tiffany touch" to the quality output of American manufacturers everywhere.

Today, such are the precision demands of mass production in the automobile and many other industries, that to call a product hand-built would be to brand it as a crude product indeed.

When parts are put together at the assembly line they must fit to hair-breadth accuracy, else the efficiency of the whole unit is destroyed and delays are occasioned that are far above cost limit. Such a variable factor as the human equation must play only a minor role in measuring variances, for research engineers have found the light ray infinitely more exacting than the human eye. And so they have developed many wonderful instruments to displace the old-time workman with his calipers—instruments tens and hundreds of times more accurate.

Concrete examples of the exactness required in precision manufacture are provided every few steps along the assembly lines of the Chevrolet Motor Company, at Flint, Mich. Here every motor has to undergo 5,162 separate precision inspections, and one man in every six is an inspector.

"Check and double check" has become a part of the American vernacular, but in the Chevrolet plant it is the law and the statute. Without it the enormous volume of the company would be impossible, for precision is the first law of volume production.

Among the thousands of inspections in the plant the following prove of unusual interest to visitors: Cylinder bores are subjected to individual tests to determine accurate smoothness, straightness, size and the correct right angle of each bore to the cylinder block, with a size tolerance held to less than one-half thousandth of an inch. The cylinder head is hydraulically tested under high water pressure to make certain that all water passages and openings are correct.

The crankshaft's bearing surfaces, after final rolling and polishing, are subjected to nine inspections for size. Each Chevrolet piston is hand-fitted to the cylinder bore with absolutely no deviation from a standard clearance permitted. It is then gauged for size, taper, and absolute roundness with instruments that register correctly within one-quarter of a thousandth of an inch. Each is then weighed with its bronze bushings and placed in sets of six. A half-ounce variation in the weight of any piston in a set results in its rejection.

Perfect fit of piston rings is insured by means of a special light test inspection. Connecting rods are subjected to inspections for weight, straightness and alignment of the upper and lower bearings. If the alignment is not perfect the rod is not used. The rods, with caps and bearings in place, are also weighed and accurately matched in sets according to weight, which must not vary a quarter of an ounce.

A tolerance of within two-thousandths of an inch is the maximum for Chevrolet camshafts which are repeatedly tested for weight, straightness, shape of the cams and their maximum lift. Timing gears are matched in sets to insure quietness, and special dial gauges register the meshing of every tooth on both the crankshaft and camshaft gears to within three thousandths of an inch of the standard. Even the Chevrolet flywheel is balanced on machines especially designed for the Chevrolet Motor Co. and are gauged for mesh of starting motor gears and the accuracy of the clutch mounting.

"We have to demand accuracy in every detail to build the finest power plant ever placed in a Chevrolet," declared C. F. Barth, vice-president in charge of manufacturing.

"Secondly, did we fail, we could not achieve our high output. Mass production is the tyrant of present day manufacture. But precision is. It comes first. Contrary to general opinion, mass production does not prevent precision, but lack of precision prevents mass production. The fit is the thing. When a part does not fit, it holds up output. It will not fit if it has been made with an indifference to standards. Cut precision from a factory's program and you cut its power of production. Precision is the father, quantity production is the child. The reverse would be impossible."

"Tilly, you were entertaining a man in the kitchen last night, were you not?"
"That's for him to say, ma'am. I did my best."
"Let's make whoopee."
"Too much trouble; let's buy it."

ELEPHANTS ARE ANCIENT BEASTS

When, not many months ago, the giant circus elephant Black Diamond was condemned to death and executed for killing a woman and abusing a former trainer, people read of the punishment with curious interest, for, of old, the elephant has captivated mankind. Huge in size, subtle in intelligence, the elephant has ever been the chief attraction of the traveling circus.

There was Jumbo, giant of Barnum's triumphant day, now stuffed and mounted in the museum at Tufts College, Medford, Mass. And now Black Diamond, giant successor in the successor of Barnum's circus, has gone, too.

From childhood, when the name of the elephant so often persists as "elefant," elephants lure the attention of man and boy, woman and girl. They have been caught and tamed by man through past centuries. The very name of the animal, according to Webster's New International Dictionary, is of unknown origin; elephant was, in middle English, "elefant" or "olifant," in Old French, "olifant," in ancient Latin, "Elephantus." The name occurs in a similar form in ancient Greek. Its ultimate origin is unknown, hidden in the mists of the past.

FISH FOR FUN AND FOOD

An angler can find some place to fish, and some kind of fish to be caught, at any season of the year. But in the spring and summer particularly, the angler is in his heaven; out come rods and lines, and various tackle, for examination, polishing and repair.

"Highly esteemed by anglers on account of their gameness, finely flavored and rich flesh, and handsome (usually mottled or speckled) coloration," the trout are ever the eager quest of sporting fishermen. The name of the fish is Anglo-Saxon; it is one of the native English words.

The cod is not considered a game fish. The origin of the word "cod" is uncertain, but the ling, in the same class with the cod, was so named, says Webster's New International Dictionary, "from its being long." Also related to the cod is the hake, probably so named because of a "hook" or hook-shaped fin.

Popular quarry among the large sea fish is the albacore, which has an interesting etymology. This word is traceable to the Arabic for a young cow or heifer! It was so named, probably, from its size. The name is sometimes given also to the bonito or tuna, both large fish and game fighters; the word "tuna" is a popular corruption of "tunny" the original name for the fish.

The barbel is a European "bearded" fish, for the name itself refers to a "slender tactile process on the lips of certain fishes." The rudd, a small European fish, was so named ed from the red irises which are among its characteristics; compare the familiar word "ruddy." The pike was so named because its head resembles a sharp point or pike; the word "pickered" applied to pike of small size or to smaller species of the pike, is the diminutive of pike. The char is interesting here because it was named for its red belly; the word comes from the Gaelic, meaning red or blood-colored.

Perhaps most interesting of common food fish, etymologically, is the halibut, for the word means, according to its origin, "holy flounder"—being so named because it was commonly eaten on holidays ("holy days").

Music for the Occasion
Mother (to Bobby): Surely you did something else but eat at the school treat?
Bobby: Yes, mummie, after tea we sang a hymn called "We can sing, full tho we be."
Mother learned later that the hymn selected had been "Weak and sinful tho we be."

THE NEW TEXACO MOTOR OIL LONGER-LASTING, "CRACK-PROOF"

THE Texas Company again demonstrates its leadership in the petroleum field with the introduction of a vastly superior, new product—a motor oil that lasts longer—that is crack-proof—a motor oil that meets exactly every requirement of the high speed automobile engine of today! This new oil revolutionizes lubrication values as completely as the new and better Texaco Gasoline, the original "dry" gas, revolutionized motor fuels in the Spring of 1926.

combined in any one single lubricant. That motor oil is ready for you today. It is the new Texaco—longer-lasting and crack-proof. Road tests—laboratory tests have proved it.

Available in all our 48 States
Fill your crankcase with this new crack-proof motor oil today. It will more than pay you, not only in greater value for your lubrication dollar but for your car dollar as well. It is manufactured in five grades: C, D, E, F, and G, corresponding in body to Society of Automotive Engineers (S. A. E.) viscosity ratings. 30¢ a quart everywhere (35¢ for grade G).

Back Quit Hurting
"I was in a very weak condition from a serious sickness," writes Mrs. L. Leonard, of 571 Joseph St., New Orleans, La. "I was so weak, I wanted to sleep all the time. I did not have strength to do anything. My back ached nearly all the time. I was just in misery."
"My mother told me I must arouse myself from the sleepiness, and take something to help get my strength back. She had taken Cardui and had been helped, so I decided to take Cardui, too. After my first bottle, I could see that it was helping me. I took four bottles at this time. My strength came back and I gained weight. Pretty soon, I was my old self again. My back quit hurting, and I haven't had any more trouble since I took Cardui."

How a Man Lost His Job

(Reading Time Two Minutes)

Pushing his chair back as he arose from the table where he had just done full duty to a hearty meal, Dick Roberts approached the cashier's desk with check in hand.

"A cigar will certainly finish off a good dinner," he thought. As he motioned to the proprietor behind the counter to bring forth his favorite cigar, his eye glanced at a headline in a magazine:

"BUSINESS WILL SUFFER DULL SPELL FOR SEVERAL MONTHS."

"Nope, I guess I won't take a cigar," he reflected, "I'd better pinch my pennies, now; things are tightening up."

A few moments after Dick left, a crockery salesman entered the restaurant. After some conversation with the manager, he was asked to ship several barrels of cups and plates to replace the supply which had become nicked or slightly damaged. As he was preparing to leave, the manager called him over and requested that the order be held up sixty days.

"Why?" was the surprised rejoinder.

Said the manager, "Well, it looks like things are tightening up and I'll just use what I have until conditions look better."

Downcast, the crockery man left. His next call was three blocks farther, so as he walked along his eyes were attracted to a beautiful display of neckties in a men's wear shop.

"I need some ties," considered he, as on the spur of the thought, he entered the shop. An attentive clerk showed him many attractive patterns, of which he selected several. Price was no object. His purchase was about to be wrapped when the loss of that crockery order entered his mind.

"Hold on," said he. "I'll drop in later and get those ties," and left without paying for them.

This particular store had been contemplating, for a number of weeks, the idea of redecorating their store. At this juncture of our story the decorator who had planned and figured on the job came in. Happy in the thought of a fine big job he was just ready to close, he approached the proprietor.

"Well, we are ready to start the job, the men will be down tomorrow to erect the scaffolding."

"Mr. James, said the proprietor, "I think we will have to hold off on that job about two months. Things look mighty shaky, customers are coming in, but don't buy anything. Many do not even come in now, we'll have to hold off awhile."

A very disheartened decorator returned to his office. In the midst of his despondence entered an old employe, John Simpson. John was the estimator and inspector for this particular contractor.

"Well, John," said our decorator, "I hate to do it, but it looks pretty bad in general. I'll call you up if things liven up."

Dick will never know it, but that cigar was responsible for it all.

Pushing his chair back from the table where his meal remained scarcely touched, Dick Roberts walked disgustedly to the cashier's counter and paid his check.

"H'lo, Roberts, how's the boy?" a friend greeted him.

"Rotten!" he retorted in a voice that sounded just as his frown looked; "—got a headache all the time, no appetite. Business is rotten, too. Just got a wire from the old man telling me to come in Saturday."

As the friend offered polite sympathy and strolled away, Dick Roberts once more passed the news stand and glanced down at a magazine headline:

"PERIOD OF DULL BUSINESS REMAINING LONGER THAN ANTICIPATED," he read; Decorators Report Forces Cut Due to Cancelled Orders for Spring Remodeling. Buying Down."

MORAL: Hard times are the result of rumor; never of hard work. Business is good for those who are going after it. Too many people during the past few months have been THINKING HARD TIMES; and their influence has widened just as ripples on a pond. In other words, THE BUYING OF THAT CIGAR HAS JUST BEEN POSTPONED TOO MANY TIMES, LATELY, BY TOO MANY PEOPLE! ARE YOU ONE OF THE GUILTY ONES?

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

THE STATE OF TEXAS, COUNTY OF SCURRY.

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Scurry County, Greeting:
 YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to summon H. J. Sims by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in the nearest County where a newspaper is published, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Scurry County, to be held at the Court House thereof, in Snyder, Texas, on the First Monday in July, A. D. 1930, the same being the 7th day of July A. D. 1930, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 10th day of June, A. D. 1930, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court as No. 2591, wherein Eloise Sims is Plaintiff, and H. J. Sims is Defendant, and said petition alleging that Plaintiff has been an actual bonafide inhabitant of the State of Texas for twelve months, and has resided in the County of Scurry for six months next preceding the filing of this petition.

That Plaintiff and Defendant were married December 27, 1927; that Defendant was for many years prior to this marriage afflicted with epilepsy which fact he kept unknown to Plaintiff, and after this marriage this condition grew worse. That Defendant failed to provide Plaintiff and her children with even the bare necessities of life, and on August 17, 1928, deserted her, leaving her destitute and pregnant. All of which was cruel to Plaintiff and has rendered their living together further impossible and insupportable. That they had a girl, now 20 months old.

Plaintiff prays for judgment divorcing her from Defendant and granting her the care and custody of the child.

Herin said Not, and have you before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

GIVEN UNDER MY HAND and the Seal of said Court, at office in Snyder, Texas, this 10th day of June A. D. 1930.
 (Seal) Louise E. Darby, Clerk, District Court, Scurry County. 52-4tc

Dealer (rushing into the newspaper office): See here, you've published an announcement of my death by mistake. That's got to be fixed somehow.
 Editor: Well, we never contradict anything we have published, but I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll put you in the birth column tomorrow and give you a fresh start.

A group of traveling men were swapping lies about their radios in a Smith Center drug store. An old man had been listening silently.
 "Got a radio, old man?" asked one of the drummers.
 "Yeah," replied the old fellow, "I got a little two-tube affair. It's a pretty good one, though."
 "Can you tune out these little stations with it?"
 "Well, I was listening to a quartet the other night, and I didn't like the tenor, so I tuned him out and listened to the three of them."

Teacher: Conjugate the verb "to swim."
 Pupil: Swim, swam, swum.
 Teacher: Now conjugate the word "dim."
 Pupil: Pats, are you trying to kid me?

John Peters: Judge, I wasn't going fifty miles an hour; not even ten; in fact, when the officer came up, I was almost at a standstill.
 The Judge: I must stop this or you'll be backing into something. Ten dollars and costs.

A city man crawled over a fence only to find himself in a pasture with a vicious looking bull.
 "Hey, there," he called to the farmer. "Is that bull safe?"
 "Wal," returned the farmer, "he's a darn sight safer than you are."

Red Hot or Red Cold

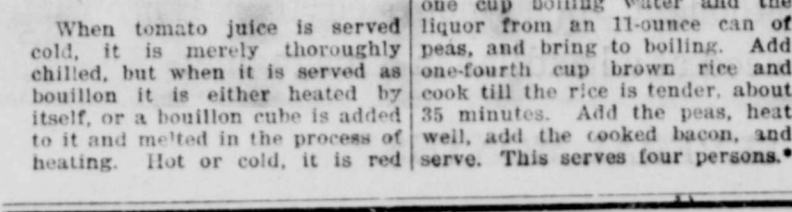

TOMATO juice is a tasty drink which has won its way to popular favor through its succulence and flavor as well as because of its health-giving qualities. But did you know that you can have it either hot or cold, served as either a cocktail or as bouillon, and that it is making its appearance in these forms at many formal luncheons and dinners as well as being widely used for a breakfast drink?

Delicious and Beneficial

When tomato juice is served cold, it is merely thoroughly chilled, but when it is served as bouillon it is either heated or cooked till the rice is tender, add itself, or a bouillon cube is added to it and melted in the process of heating. Hot or cold, it is red and appetizing, both delicious and beneficial.

Tomato juice is easy to serve since it is simply poured from the cans of tomatoes, and it has the additional advantage that the remaining solid portions can be combined in all sorts of dishes. Try, for instance, this:

Peas and Rice Goulash: Dice two slices of bacon, and fry crisp. Remove bacon. Chop one onion and add to the bacon fat, cooking gently until pale yellow. Add a 10-ounce can of strained tomatoes, one cup boiling water and the liquor from an 11-ounce can of peas, and bring to boiling. Add one-fourth cup brown rice, and cook till the rice is tender, about 35 minutes. Add the peas, heat well, add the cooked bacon, and serve. This serves four persons.

ARTICLE VIII EVEN COWS ENJOY A HOME SWEET HOME

Profits From a Dairy Herd Will Be Greatly Increased When Proper Housing is Provided

Editor's Note—This is another story in a series of articles written by the well-known national dairy and poultry authority, Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., of St. Louis, Mo. The entire series will appear in this paper. Our readers are urged to read them carefully and clip them out for future reference.

Perhaps the commonest type is the plain two-story building with a stable on the first floor and hayloft and storage space above. Sometimes the first story walls are made of stone. If built according to approved principles, this is a very satisfactory type. Good lighting and ventilation can be secured. One common fault in such a barn is that the ceiling, or the floor above the live stock, may not be tight. Dust filters through, and the odor from the stables goes all through the upstairs.

Dairymen generally favor the one story barn because of the better sanitation it affords. Usually it is made wide enough for two rows of cows. The roof is well constructed so as to provide plenty of warmth. In moderate climates cupolas can be built to provide ventilation, providing they can be closed up in case of storms and severe cold spells.

In the case of a one-story barn, the hay and feed will have to be stored elsewhere. Sometimes one end is raised two stories to provide space for hay. Some farmers keep their cattle open sheds all year around, using a stable for milking and feeding only. This makes for rugged, healthy animals.

The round barn is advocated by a number of experts. Friends of the round barn say it is far cheaper, requiring 25 per cent less wall to enclose a similar space than does a rectangular building.

From independent articles on the same page of a New York daily, we learn that the population of the city is 6,746,563 and that deaths due to auto accidents on a single Sunday reduced that figure by ten. The sum-total of anguish resulting from the fatalities was precisely what it would have been if the deaths had occurred in a hamlet having a population of 50. The ratio of the dead to the living does not conceal the fact that the motor car has created problems which are a long way from solution.

FORMER SNYDER MAN GETS FINE BOOST IN HOUSTON PRESS

CHARLEY LOCKHART

Sixteen years, Hon. Charley Lockhart served as treasurer of Scurry County and today he is seeking the office of state treasurer and at every point in the state, he is making friends.

Through the courtesy of Lee Stinson who attended the State Druggists Association at Houston last week, we are privileged to print an interview which the Houston Press carried on their front page under a heading "Has Big Ideas. Little Texan Asks Big Job. Charley Lockhart, 45 Inches Tall, Here in Race for State Treasurer."

"Carrying on a full-sized political campaign in a full-sized way, Charley Lockhart of Austin, 45-inch, 125-pound candidate for state treasurer, was in Houston Wednesday erecting parts of a political structure that he believes will carry him into the office by a sizeable majority.

Mr. Lockhart received a Press reporter while he was "cooling off" after attending sessions of the State Pharmaceutical Association, where he went about the business of getting his personality before druggists from all parts of the state.

"The little man with the big ideas" was perfectly willing to break his rest and talk for several minutes, apparently with a great deal of purpose, but when the interview was over, the reporter discovered that the candidate had said only two things beside reiterating his brief platform of faithful and efficient service in every public trust.

"These two things were: 'I am bone dry,' and 'I am not interested in any other political races except as a private citizen.'"

"The latter answer came to a question concerning the probable effect of the recent stormy session of the state democratic executive committee on the spirit of harmony and cooperation in democratic ranks.

"No, sir," said Mr. Lockhart, "personal differences of other men in public life won't have any bearing in getting me the office of state treasurer and I would be foolish to say that that is not my chief interest now."

 "I'm dry because I was raised that way and because my nature thinking has convinced me that this country should be that way. My father was a pioneer Baptist preacher in Texas for 70 years and I have found in after life that his teachings were never very far wrong," he said.
 "Mr. Lockhart believes that Houston will give him 'a fair proportion' of the votes cast in the state treasurer's race.

"I find friends here just as I have found them in every Texas city during 26 years of political life," he said. "No, I wouldn't want to say how many I expect. The vote count will tell that in due time."
 "Mr. Lockhart swung into the present campaign after 10 years of service as depository manager in the state treasury department. He resigned his post in January to begin his race for office, no novelty, by the way, to the man who will undoubtedly be dubbed the Texas Little Giant if he meets with success in the state campaign.

Prior to his connection with the state, Mr. Lockhart was for 16 years treasurer of Scurry county, winning the race each term through the same short platform that he is offering the voters of the entire state.
 "And why not?" he said. "When a man renders faithful and efficient service in every public trust he has done all that a good public servant can do."

"In personal appearance Mr. Lockhart is striking for reasons that go far beyond his dwarfed body. A massive head is held erect and steady grey eyes regard the world with a calm glance from a rugged, square cut face.

Don't Want Sympathy
 "No lines that show bitterness over the fact that he has had to face life under a terrific handicap mar his face. His perceptions are keen and he detects and disapproves an air of sympathy as quickly as it is displayed.

"I want you to make it perfectly clear that I am fighting this battle on manhood alone," he said. "I don't want the votes that are given me through a feeling that life has not handed me a square deal. Life has been good to me. I have filled public office, earned the confidence and friendship of my fellows and educated my children."

"Mr. Lockhart's summary of his qualifications for the office he seeks is as brief as his platform and equally to the point.
 "I regard the treasury department of the state of Texas as a great clearing house. More than 26 years of active duty in this particular line has fitted me for the work. I know its every detail," he said.

"He said he knew very well that he was a little man. That hasn't anything to do with the brains in my head," he said. "I'm simply a little man with big ideas and sufficient experience and ability to carry my ideas out."

The Odd Fellow Association of Scurry county will meet at Pylon July 11, 1930, at 10 o'clock a. m. All members and families are requested to be present.
 T. J. Weaver, President.

 Lord's Supper, 11:30 a. m.
 Christian Endeavors, 5:00 and 6:00 p. m.
 Evening Worship, 8:30 p. m.

Our Church Plea:
 One Hope: The Christianization of the world.
 One Aim: Christian Unity, the Paramount Prerequisite of Christianization.
 One Method: The Bible Its Own Interpreter.
 One Theme: The Self-Will in all Things Subordinated to the Christ-Will.

Our Purpose in Plea:
 To condemn all error wheresoever found, but to love the erring.

To preach the Gospel of Love in the Bonds of Love, exalting Truth with Christian Unity by Dethroning Human Opinion and Crowning Christ as King in every life.

Christian Education
 Our Christian Education instructor, Miss Tillie Smith, is now here, and the work is in progress. Classes opened Monday evening and will continue through the week for adults. Every parent should avail himself or herself of this opportunity. Too many look upon such courses as for teachers of Sunday School classes only. Who should be a better teacher than a mother, or a father? The work which is being given this week is in foundation principles that will apply in many walks of life, salesmanship, teaching, preaching, child training in home or elsewhere. And Miss Smith is an expert in this training.

Officer of the church, do you expect to be efficient as a steward in the position of your appointed task in the kingdom of the Master? Then come and sit in on this work. A hearty welcome is extended to all.

Vacation Bible School
 Hooray for the kiddies! Vacation Bible School begins next Monday at 8:30. A season of play in the cool of the day and special training in handwork of many interesting kinds. Mother, would you have your son or daughter receive special training at the hands of a specialist in a work that will make them, not only better boys and girls, but also better men and women? Then enroll them now in this Vacation Bible School for just nine short lessons.

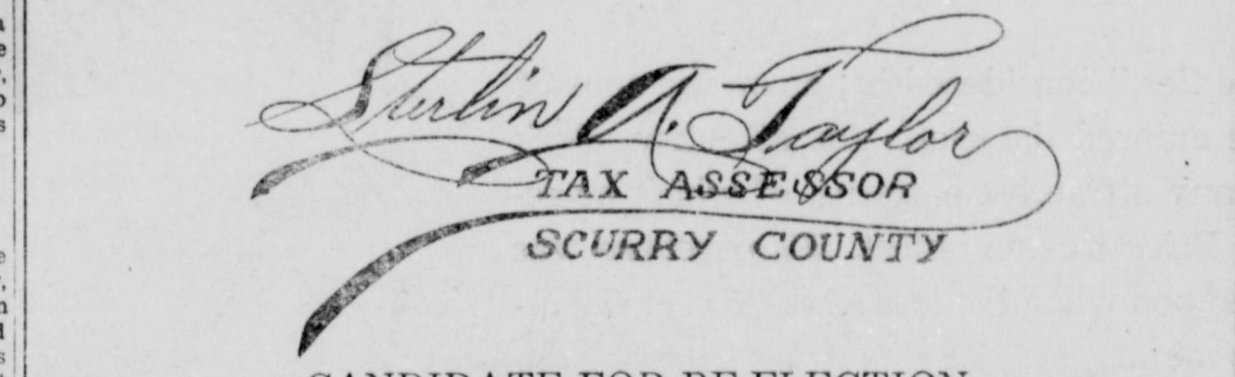

The Lindbergh home differs from the average house into which a son and heir has newly found his way. It is thought that no one in the family has expressed the wish that the boy may not turn out to be a high-flyer.

A young Scotchman was taking a young lady home from the dance when she remarked: "Did you read in the papers wher two people were poisoned by having lunch after a dance?"

"Yes, I read it, but why do you ask?" inquired he.

"Oh, I was just thinking how safe I was," replied the flapper.

YOUR VOTE AND INFLUENCE APPRECIATED

CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION To The Voters of Scurry Co.

I desire at this time to call to your attention the fact that I am not out mixing with you people and personally soliciting your support for Tax Assessor and my reasons for not being are these:
 First, I want to say that I made an effort to see as many folks as I could when I was making the assessments in the spring for the reason that my busy time in the Tax Assessors office is June, July and August.

The people of Scurry County have entrusted me with the responsibility of properly taking care of the duties of this office and I consider this my first duty of which I am now engaged. I hope to be with you at times when I can be out of the office, and will try and see as many of you folks as possible, but in case I do not see you I trust you will say, "Well, Taylor is on the job." There is a lot of work connected with my office of Tax Assessor. I have done the greater part of this work the four years I have been your assessor, only using a stenographer about two weeks of each year to copy the tax roll.

I will be more than glad and do insist that you investigate my work and inquire of any one who comes in contact with same.

I claim to be only an ordinary man, coming from the ranks of the working class, but have considerable experience in clerical work, both as a civilian and in the service of Uncle Sam, and especially in the field of tax matters. I think I have worked my way from the bottom to my present position, starting in 1921 as assessor for the City of Snyder at a contract price of $150.00 for the job. I have done tax work every year since 1921 either for the City, Schools or County. The greater part of this work before my election to office was for only a small salary. I have tried to inform myself on tax problems and believe that I have made some progress along this line. You will find me subject to mistakes, but I have always tried to be anxious and willing to correct any mistake that has been called to my attention.

Earnestly soliciting your support on the facts set forth in this article, I remain,

At your service,

Sterlin A. Taylor
