THE CHAIN MENACE

Despite the fact that a lot of the noise has subsided, chain stores remain one of the great economic problems of the day.

The campaign of four or five nonths ago fell into the hands of Repair Man months ago fell into the hands of the promoters-men who sought personal gain rather than a genuine solution for a real problem.

With a great deal of thunder, these "champions" of the independent merchant fell upon the chain stores and every other interest which would not pay tribute to their advertising schemes.

They said about the chain stores a great many things which were not true, but they did the cause its greatest hurt by attacking legitimate institutions which had no more connection with the chain store for raising more tax money, but they Seifert, 213 1-3 acres in W 1-2 of

In consequence, the public lost all confidence in the battle "waged" by these men and women who exacted heavy tribute from the merchants they were presumed to serve. And today, despite the fact that thousands of dollars have been expended, the position of the independent merchant has not been improved in the least.

It is significant, however, that Miss Vera Nell Grantham, Aug. 16 many of the men who will compose the 42nd Texas Legislature are doing some constructive thinking along the lines of remedial chain Thomas, 1-2 interest in lots 7, 8 and store legislation, and the introduc- 9 in block 39 in Wilmeth Addition. tion of several such bills may be

TALK BUSINESS UP AND IT WILL PICK UP

In the past few years there has been a new competition for the old-time storekeeper. To say it is a new competition is incorrect, for it its resources and all the infinate has been in existence for seventy years; but only recently has it been an variety of facts that interest those

Everywhere you care to go you can hear that "all over" merchants | there? are being forced out of business by this competition. Every four-corners storekeeper who for any of a dozen sufficient reasons closes his doors, fortunate enough to have such lays the blame for it on either this new competition or "business depression." The truth of the matter is that there are no more people going out of business than there ever was. It could be said here that a man cannot go out of something that he never was in; and as for going out of business, by far the majority of these were never in "business. It was because they did not get into "business" that they failed. A man house of the state, which also pubcan "run" a store without being IN business,

To prove further that this "depression" is more a mental hazard than fact, let us consider the selling of a class or particular group. Take News, and owns and operates Radio the farmer for an example.

Not long ago I stood in a first-class retail store in a very good and research facilities of this comtown of average size, when a farmer entered. The owner of the store pany make it the ideal sponsor of called the man by name and said: "Well, Jake, how's things?"

And right away Jake started telling just how things were with intermittently ever since 1857. So him—everything wrong from A to Z. The merchant stood there and heard ably and efficiently is the book the tale of woe-a tale that he knew by heart-and after many minutes of it the farmer said: "Well, guess I'd better be getting," and out he went,

I said to the merchant, "Why didn't you sell him something?" to which he replied. "Oh, he didn't want anything. These farmers, you know, are in a bad way." Without explanation to the merchant, I immediately The farmer was walking down the street and I followed. He went is not here. Thousands of statistics into another store—a different store—and just as I entered I heard a man say to Jake, "How's things by you?" Again the same tale of woe. While the narration was going on another farmer came with his wife, and the mercial bodies and their work:

Dallas. "Neuritis became so severe in my legs that I could scarcely walk. There was a constant aching four of them-the three farmers and the merchant-had a ten-minute talk on how terrible things were. At the conclusion the merchant said to one of the men: "You folks going to need a new stove this year?" "No' was the answer. And what I followed Mr. Jake into three other stores in that town, and in each case the merchant gave him an open invitation to tell how tough things were; and in all but one case he left the store without a single purchase. The purchase, made in the last store, was an item carried by the first store he entered. It is a ten-to-one shot that he went into that first store to buy that item, but after telling of his troubles went out

But, "Jake thought he was in a bad way, he thought times were hard, and the merchant not only agreed with him, but encouraged him to believe it by prompting him to talk about it. Therefore, he WAS in a bad way, and times WERE hard, whether they were or not. Let enough people think a thing is so and it will be so. If you leave your home some bright morning and say to the first five men you meet Isn't this a fine day?" and each one says: "Yes, but I think it will rain before night," by the time you reach your store or office it IS going to rain-for you-and you'll see black clouds on a perfectly clear horizon.

Get sold on the idea that you can sell more; sell the customer on the idea that you ARE selling more; and give that customer a reason why he should and CAN buy more, and this "business depression' hazard problem than George Washington are very, very few who advance a plan for reducing taxes.

That greater stability of the subject oil during these tests was shown by records of examination of drained oils being nearer the viscosity of the original or fresh oil and by chemical tests of drained oils with the fresh oils;

That frictional temperatures occurring during the use of the subject oil were lower than temperatures occurring during the use of the comparables;

That using the subject oil and during each test, greater gasoline mileage for economy was obtained than during the use of the comparables;

That with the use of the subject oil there occurred less deviation from cycle to cycle in compression pressure at starting speeds (as shown by the records) would indicate that improved compression at higher speeds might have occurred during these tests;

That the reduction in the rate of wear occurring during these tests with the use of the subject oil as shown by the records would indicate a longer motor life;

That while there is no reason to suppose that results similar to those of this test would not show under other conditions, it is important that references to these findings be accompanied by the statement that, in so far as the report is concerned, they cannot, as conclusions, be extended generally. However, the inference that they might be so is reasonable and rational, although not conclusive.

We Don't Want "Ma"

The following original poem comes from the prolific pen of Miss Ila Martin, editorial writer on the Heart O' Texas News at Brady, and who at present is the guest of Miss Alma Nell Morris. Miss Martin was formerly on the Times-Signal where she said "howdy" to everybody. The poem appeared in her paper last week and runs as follows:

> Oh, tell us, please, just what is wrong With Texas politics? And why do people strive to get Themselves in such a fix? We may not fully just agree With Sterling and his law, But after all this much we know-We don't want "Ma" and "Pa'.

Some folks, it seems, are out for "Jim"-And knowing he's a fake They'll put him where he'll score again Another prison break. Tis up to folks to use their heads And also work their jaw-Stand up for state and country, then-

One time impeached he was not fit To battle Texas' strife; And once again he tries to force Upon our state, his wife. So Texans, if you love at all Your state—uphold its law—
"Be Sterling" in your vote, I say—Rise up and "Scratch Out 'Ma' !!!

For heaven's sake, scratch "Ma"!

And-scratch her good, this time-and show Her truly as she stands-Unwanted and unsought for, as A servant on our hands. Just cast aside what you don't know-Give someone else a chance— Let Sterling wear the Cloak of State, And kick "Pa" in the pants.

W. W. ROGERS AND FAMILY NARROWLY ESCAPE INJURY

Helpy-Selfy Grocery returned last | * Friday from Eliasville and other points where they have been attending a family reunion.

Mr. Rodgers reports having narrowly escaped from what almost proved a fatal accident. A few miles from Eliasville he was forced to drive his car into a ditch in order to avert a collision with a Wichita Falls & Southern passenger train. He approached the crossing which was hidden by a sharp curve and heavy timber without seeing or hearing the approaching train and shaken up, but no one was seriously injured

WHO OWNS THE CITY TABERNACLE?

Recent rumors have come up that concern the ownership of the City Tabernacle. Built in 1915, the older citizenship of Snyder know that it belongs to five churches, namely, the two Christian churches, Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian bodies. Newcomers are confused with the title. "City Tabernacle" and if the matter is not explained to them, they readily believe that the building is owned by the city.

The only connection that the city has had with the building. has been with taking care of the tabernacle from a pure civic standpoint, watering the lawn at various times and years ago it was agreed by a church committee that whoever was city secretary, would have charge of keeping the bookings as to whatever organization was go-

So as the matter stands, the City of Snyder does NOT OWN the tabernacle but the five churches as named, and which was built through personal subscriptions that was first started here by the late C. C. Higgins, E. J. Anderson was another heavy contributor in planning many of the improvements that have been made to the building and grounds while Howard G. Tow was the heav iest single contributor to the fund when it was first started.
