a single bale, has not an iota of influence upon the price of the staple, as any reasonable man knows full well, yet there are some people, and who raise cotton, make a practice of under-estimating the crop be-fore it is gathered because they are afraid the bullish report will send the ice down a glimmering. Others mselves believe the crop will b y short so that they may have thrill of a pleasant surprise when better crop is gathered. Then, course there are a few natural born pesimists to whom everything looks dark and dreary and they prophesy a short crop and hope it turns out short so they can say "I told

Last year Scurry county produced nearly forty thousand bales of cotton and the most optimistic of farmers on the first of September would not hat there never has been a year in the history of cotton production in September.

But at this time,

But among these estimators there is a range of difference in opinion to the extent of ten thousand

The present condition, according to investigators who may be considered as reliable, is reported as spotted Some farms are also spotted to the extent that there are some times parts of fields that will make half a bale to the acre and spots in the same field that will make less than a fourth of a bale. And in the examination of different farms as a whole the same condition is found, in some instances due to lack of moisture and in others due to the ravages of the boll worms. The worms, however, are now about all gone, according to investigators, and where there moisture cotton has been making in great volume for some days.

The most conservative of those who have examined present conditions estimate the present crop for Scurry county at twenty thousand bales, but that considerable more cotton could be produced under favorable onditions. Ant the investigators o are inclined to be liberal, or con-

r that favorable conditions will ain, estimate the county's crop at thirty thousand bales, while others place the total yield at twenty-five

But even accepting the lowest estiate the amount of money the crop ill bring to Scurry county farmers vill be about two million dollars, and that's some money.

F. M. Brownfield and Maurice Brownfield went to Idalou Sunday. They report the prospects for cotton extremly good. F. M. Brownfield thinks he'll get a basle to the acre on his farm up there, provided the worms do not bother it. Only a few worms are to be found rot.

Lee casings and Lee tubes are still the task of checking the Assessor's 25 per cent off, at Joe Strayhorn's.

The New WHIPPET SIX!

YEARS of engineering progress are now crystallized in the new Whippet Six—the realization of Willis-Overland's program to build a modern six-cylinder poppetvalve motor car which is beyond question the outstanding value at the price. Here is a car in which no concession has been made to quality either in any detail of construction or feature of modern design. It's performances under official tests have far exceeded the most optimistic expectations...

HOLDS WORLD'S RECORD

In a 24-hour run at the Indianapolis speedway, the world's severest testing ground for endurance performance, the Whippet Six, under observation by the Hoosier Motor Club, averaged 56.52 miles per hour, the world's record for cars costing less than $1000. In numerous other tests conducted in various parts of the country it has shown remarkable fuel economy, amazing flexibility, flashing pickup and the ability to come to a dead stop from 35 miles per hour in 49 feet 71/2 inches.

You will find the Whippet Six a measure of value never before possible at so little cost. It's price actually is as low as that which buyers have been accustomed to payher for some four-cylinder cars of antiquated design and capabilities. vasty inferor performa
