MOSER TO SPEAK ON COOPERATIVE COTTON PLAN

SCURRYLY SPEAKING

WHEN C. O. Moser, who determines where branch offices of the American Cotton Cooperative Association are to be established in Texas, speaks in the city tabernacle June 5, he should be heard by hundreds of farmers and by every business man in Scurry County.

Farmers, bankers and others interested in the cotton marketing problem declare, after considerable investigation of the association, that it is the best solution ever offered for bringing the cotton grower and the consumer closer together. Even those who have been opposed to cooperatives, because of their past failures, declare that this government-sponsored plan is sound in every respect, and that it will start a new era of economic certainty for any community that receives it cordially.

The American Cotton Cooperative Association, sponsored by the Federal Farm Board, is being attacked on all sides by "great, selfish, speculative groups," according to S. H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation. In regard to the Agricultural Marketing Act, under which the cotton association operates and through which it is financed, Mr. Thompson says:

"THE Agricultural Marketing Act which became a law of the land on June 15, 1929, represents the result of seven years of toil, sacrifice and bitter battle on the part of the farm people of the country. It is the first step in the adoption of a national policy that will enable farm people to live and earn on the same basis as the other economic groups of this country.

"This Agricultural Marketing Act declares as the national policy the promotion of: 'effective merchandising of agricultural commodities—so that the industry of agriculture will be placed on a basis of economic equality with other industries and to that end, to protect, control and stabilize the currents of interstate and foreign commerce in the marketing of agricultural commodities and their food products.'

"The Act further declares that the development of producer-owned and controlled cooperative enterprises as a means of carrying out this objective is a further policy of the federal government.

"UNDER this act, the Federal Farm Board has been created and has been functioning for less than a year but already great speculative groups that have, year by year, profited at the expense of agriculture through the fluctuation in the price of the produce of the farm, see the handwriting on the wall. They have openly and definitely declared war on this policy.

"It is up to the organized farmers of the nation whether this policy shall stand or whether it shall be destroyed.

"In the words of the immortal Lincoln: 'Let us have faith that right makes might; and in that faith let us to the end, dare to do our duty as we understand it.'

GRADUATION TO BE HELD TODAY

With practically every small school in the county having its seventh grade graduates on hand, and with several of the independent districts having representatives, the county-wide graduation exercises will be held in the Snyder High School auditorium this (Friday) morning at 10:00. A large crowd of patrons and friends of Scurry County schools are expected to be present, despite the fact that many are busy planting crops.

Judge James P. Stinson of Abilene will deliver the address of the day in his usual clear-cut, forceful style. The professional will be played by Homer Springfield, after which the invocation will be pronounced by Rev. Cal C. Wright. Principal W. N. Corry of Snyder High School will give the welcome address. Special music is promised by the Snyder graduating class, and County Superintendent Pat Bullock will make a few remarks concerning the exercises.

Following the address by Judge Stinson, Principal J. M. Claunch of the Snyder grade school will present the diplomas, and the benediction will be pronounced by Rev. W. M. Speck.

SOIL SURVEYS TO BE MADE IN THIS SECTION

Government Undertaking Will Be Of Lasting Benefit to Farmers Of Entire County.

Every farm in Scurry County will be given a soil survey within the next year, according to plans just announced by the Texas Experiment Stations, through which the survey will be made. W. O. Logan, county agent, together with the county banks and other institutions, will cooperate in the survey.

This project, which has been sought by O. P. Thrane and others for five years, will be cost-free to the county and to individual farmers. Total cost of the survey to the state and government will be several thousand dollars.

Analysis of soil in every part of the county will be of untold benefit to farmers as well as to all others interested in Scurry County real estate. Chemical analyses will be made of every farm, and the results will be posted in the county archives, so that anyone may find the kind of soils on any acre in the county within a few minutes.

A corps of government and state engineers will begin making the survey, which will require about a year's time, within two months.

Through the survey, every farmer in the county will be able to determine for what his farm is best adapted. Support and cooperation of everyone who owns or farms land is asked by the county agent and those backing the survey.

COMPANY G IS REWARDED FOR RECORD MADE

Fifty Steel Lockers to Be Given Local Company After Federal Inspection Is Completed.

A set of steel lockers with the compliments of the regular army of the federal government—that's something to be treasured by any group of army men.

This award will be presented to Company G of the 142nd Infantry, with headquarters at Snyder, according to Captain John E. Sentell, who has just received a communication from Captain Robert J. Kirk of the regular army, who inspected the local company on the occasion of its federal review April 17.

Captain Sentell was advised that Company G will be given the "VS" rating, which is the highest rating that can be given.

The steel lockers will be awarded by the adjutant general of Texas to the unit of the 142nd Infantry making the best showing at this year's inspection. This is no mean honor when it is remembered that there are 18 units in the 142nd Infantry regiment and that Company G had to put 17 of them down for the count before stepping up to the top and qualifying for the set of 50 steel lockers.

Reviews of Company G for the last four years show that the local group led the regiment two of those years and last year, 1929, they were nosed out of first place by only a hair's breadth by Company A of Brownwood.

Company G is a Snyder and Scurry County institution, made up of young men of the city and county. Some of them marched with the stars and stripes during the world war and the others, who were then too young, are of the same type of patriots.

Captain Sentell, who says the boys never complain and never ask for anything, are worthy of the co-operation of the citizens of this county. He urges that those who have members of the company in their employ cooperate with them and allow them to attend drills each Tuesday night, and start now making arrangements for the boys to make camp with their company during the first part of August. Sentell suggests that the boys be allowed their vacations at that time if possible.

Band to Give Three Concerts Before Entering Big Contest

The Snyder Band will play on the square Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of next week in preparation for the contest they will enter at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention May 29, 30 and 31. Bandmaster J. W. Crowley, with the band members, urges that they be given a large audience in these evening concerts. Both classical and popular numbers will be rendered.

New uniforms have been ordered for the convention, and these probably will be worn in the local contests. All members of the band will wear white shirts and trousers and a special band cap. The cap will have a white cravenette top, with stiff bill, made of heavy material that will make the caps last for many months. Gold ribbons, showing when the players came, will be worn about the hats. The regular band jacket, of gold, will also be worn.

Mr. Crowley is expecting his musicians to make a fine showing at the convention. It will be entered in a group of younger bands, and will, therefore, not compete with the more experienced groups.

Besides the band, Snyder and Scurry County are expected to send a large delegation to the three-day meet, according to Secretary Watt Scott of the Chamber of Commerce.

12,193 PEOPLE ARE IN COUNTY

The population of Scurry County is given as 12,193, according to a preliminary report released this week by I. E. Barr, Lubbock, district supervisor.

A report last week gave the population of Snyder as 3,067 and that of Hermleigh as 544.

Fifteen hundred and sixty-two is given as the total number of farms in the county. Thirteen of these are within the Snyder city limits and five are within the Hermleigh city limits.

Justice of the peace precinct No. 1, exclusive of Snyder, shows a population of 4,521, with 839 farms. Precinct No. 2 shows a population of 1,557, with 214 farms. In precinct No. 4, 2,564 people are listed outside Hermleigh. Farms in this precinct total 491.

Tabulated, the census returns for Scurry County are:

	Pop.	Farms
Snyder City	3,067	13
Hermleigh City	544	5
Precinct No. 1	4,521	839
Precinct No. 2	1,557	214
Precinct No. 4	2,564	491

Council to Buy New Fire Hose for Local Crew of Blaze Boys

Further carrying out its policy of giving the greatest possible property protection, the City Council last week authorized the buying of 500 feet of new fire hose. With the new hose will be two 1½-inch play pipes and one siamese, which is graduated from 2 1/2 to 1 1/2 inches.

Three hundred feet of the new hose will be 1½ inches in diameter, and 200 feet will be 2½ inches. The addition of the smaller hose will permit one fireman to handle the nozzle in emergencies whereas at least three men are usually needed for the larger hose. Norman Audy, fire chief, says that newer methods of fire fighting stress water pressure rather than volume. The smaller hose may be dragged to the very seat of a fire and used advantageously without doing so much water damage.

LARGE CROWDS HEAR MAYFIELD

Earle B. Mayfield, first gubernatorial candidate to visit Snyder this year, spoke in the district court room Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 to a large crowd that included several from Hermleigh, Plevanna and other nearby sections.

Mr. Mayfield also addressed the Snyder school students, from both grade and high schools, Wednesday morning.

Long a leading light in Texas politics, the ex-senator was his usual oratorical self. He was the same Mayfield who ran so strong in the United States Senate race two years ago, the same one who has become known as one of the masters of the Lone Star political pot. He referred briefly to his opponents, but stressed primarily his past record and his ability to render service to the state.

ALLOW BUSES PARKING RIGHT

Two adjoining spaces, in the center of the north side of the square and fronting the Montgomery Cafe, have been provided solely for motor busses, according to terms of an ordinance passed by the City Council in session Thursday evening, May 15.

Heavy markers, designating the spaces, have been in use for several days, the ordinance going into effect immediately after its passage and publication. A penalty is attached to the parking of vehicles other than busses in the two reserved spaces.

The council believed the ordinance necessary in view of the fact that no parking space was provided for the busses on the Snyder square or on any Snyder street. The busses are not allowed to park elsewhere on any local street. The ordinance will be found in another portion of the paper.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Grantham and children and Miss Eupha Bertram visited with Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bertram and children in Sweetwater Sunday.

SENIOR WEEK CLIMAX COMES AT 8 TONIGHT

Col. Bill Easterwood Will Deliver Address; No More School After This Week.

Commencement exercises of the senior class of Snyder high school, tonight, will be the climax of an eventful Senior Week for 27 spring graduates.

The exercises will be at 8:00 o'clock in the high school auditorium, beginning with the class march. The Rev. E. C. Lambert will pronounce the invocation, followed by a vocal solo, sung by Miss Maurine Stinson.

Col. Bill Easterwood of Dallas will deliver the commencement address. Presentation of diplomas and other honors will be made by Superintendent C. Wedgeworth, after which there will be music by the Snyder Choral Club. The benediction will be said by the Rev. Cal C. Wright.

Maxey Chenault, with an average of 95.83, is valedictorian of the 1930 class and Miss Gladys Lewis, with an average of 95.43, is salutatorian. Other honor students are Misses Ila Bee Perriman, Meva Doak and Dorothy Egerton.

The baccalaureate sermon, preached by the Rev. Philip C. McGahey, was well attended Sunday evening, with all churches of the city cooperating in the services.

"The Goose Hags High," senior play staged on last Friday evening, proved to be a success typical of Springfield-directed affairs.

Memories of the chapel program given by the class on last Friday morning will always remain with its members. The history of the class, humorous prophecy, class will and poem were read on this occasion.

Following are names of the 27 graduates: Misses Kenneth Alexander, Lucille Brown, Floye Brownfield, Meva Doak, Dorothy Egerton, Mildred Harless, Audra Jenkins, Gladys Lewis, Mary Ellen Martin, Ethel Morris, Ila Bee Perriman, Evelyn Pratt, Enid Sears, Lillian Walton, Mavis Webb, Opal Miller and Evelyn Morley; Messrs. Lee Francis York, Mardel Winter, Anthem Wade, Ted Pitner, Earl Parker, Travis Lartue, J. T. Jenkins, G. L. Huestis, J. W. Green and Maxey Chenault.

Mrs. E. E. Holley Is Said to Be Improved

Physicians at the Sweetwater Hospital have announced that Mrs. E. E. Holley, 72-year-old resident of Snyder, is out of danger, following an automobile accident one mile west of Sweetwater at noon on Tuesday, May 13. The elderly woman sustained a broken left arm, fractured collar bone, and many cuts which required more than 30 stitches to close. The left ear was almost severed.

Four others were injured in the mishap. The driver lost control of the machine it was said, and it plunged into a ditch, overturning several times.

TEACHERS GIVE SUMMER PLANS

With the closing of a very successful school year, the teachers of the Snyder City Schools will scatter and take up various sources of amusement as well as study during the summer months.

Some will leave Snyder not to return, others will make trips to different cities or states, and some will remain in Snyder and rest for another year's work.

C. Wedgeworth, superintendent of Snyder schools, will remain in Snyder, and thinks that perhaps Mrs. Wedgeworth will be able to leave Temple and spend the summer here. In Snyder High School the teachers have stated the following intentions for the summer:

W. N. Corry, high school principal, is undecided concerning his vacation plans. Miss Effie McLeod will attend State University, Austin, or Southern Methodist University, Dallas; she will also visit at her home in Clyde. Mrs. J. P. Nelson has indefinite plans as she and Mr. Nelson have not decided where they will spend their vacation. Miss Mattie Clark will visit with her parents in Hico, and in September will start teaching in the Lubbock High School. She will visit in various Texas points. Miss Sallie Evelyn Boone is undecided. Miss Jo Bailey will attend school in Boulder, Colorado. Miss Loyce Clark will visit at her home in Post, also points in North Texas and Arkansas. Mrs. Josie Lemley will attend Sul Ross State Teachers College, Alpine. Misses Hattie and Gertrude Herm have not decided definitely but think that they will make a trip to Colorado. Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Claunch will remain in Snyder, and while Mr. Claunch is shaking hands with voters, Mrs. Claunch will make a short visit with friends in Canyon. Misses Stella and Laura Clyde Cole will visit in Brownwood for a week, after which they will attend school in Denton. Miss Nona Carr will attend summer school at Simmons University, Abilene. Mr. and Mrs. Odelle Ryan will take summer courses at the State Teachers College at Canyon, and will also visit with friends and relatives in Fort Worth and Weatherford. Mrs. Melvin Blackard and Miss Elva Lemons are undecided in their plans. Miss Blanche Mitchell will leave for Las Vegas, New Mexico, where she will attend the university.

Football Game with Sweetwater Matched For Thanksgiving

Sweetwater, which sought Class A company last year, will again play Snyder on the gridiron next fall, as the result of a conference between Coach Otis M. (Red) Moore and Principal W. N. Corry with Sweetwater officials Tuesday. Coach Lowe, Principal E. F. Neinst and Superintendent B. H. McLain were the Nolan County conferees.

The game will be Thanksgiving Day, November 27. It will be the fourth consecutive yearly meeting of the eleven. An opening game with the Class A Big Spring boys and a later game with Post has been almost certainly arranged also.

Under direction of A. D. Erwin, the Tiger Field is rapidly being made into a first class gridiron. After several unsuccessful attempts, the Bermuda grass is at last getting a good start, and bids fair to completely cover the field by the time the first home game is to be played.

Coach Moore plans to spend some time in the S. M. U. coaching school at Dallas in July, and will probably return to Snyder early in August on official business. The football training camp will probably start not later than the middle of August.

Agitation for a new Snyder gymnasium is expected to take on new life with the opening of the season next fall. Sweetwater is setting a fast pace in this direction by building two gymnasiums this summer, one for the high school and one for the junior high school.

NEW PUMP FOR WELL ORDERED

A turbine pump, with U. S. electric motor and water level control, was purchased Thursday evening last week by the City Council, to be used on the new city well located on Avenue S, north of P. M. Bolin's. Out of several bids submitted, that of $1,251.65, from the Wells Work Manufacturing Company of Garden City, Kansas, was accepted.

The new well was completed about three weeks ago. It was drilled to a depth of 150 feet, and will pump 150 gallons to the minute. The nearest main will be tapped from the 18-inch hole. The new machinery is entirely automatic, being governed entirely by water pressure; it pumps only when the pressure runs low.

Each of the other city wells, located behind the city offices, pumps about 600 gallons to the minute. They are well able to care for ordinary needs of the city, but the other well was drilled to care for emergencies.

The new equipment will probably be installed within three weeks, according to city officials.

Snyder has been known as the city with the cheapest water rate in Texas since installation of the present system, and her water supply is also one of the purest and largest of any smaller city in the state. Addition of a 150-gallon well will only add to the city's prestige in this respect.

Miniature Links to Be Opened in Town During Next Week

Snyder is falling in line with the newest sport fad. By the middle of next week the Green Flag Golf Course, with miniature nine-hole greens and fairways, will be ready for aspiring golfers.

Located on the lots just north of the Woodrow Hotel, the new course is equipped with hazards and other features that will make it as near like golfing as possible for a small links. It will be operated by Charley Kelley, Maurice and Max Brownfield. A cold drink stand will be operated in connection.

Miniature courses have been built in practically all West Texas cities. Abilene and Lubbock have four or five each. Sweetwater has two. Lamesa has one, and other towns are also ready for those who wish to improve their game and have some recreation. Balls and clubs are furnished.

Two Undergo Operations. Joe Stinson and Ixon Joyce underwent operations at the West Texas Baptist Sanitarium, Abilene, during the past few days. Both are reported to be recovering nicely. Mr. Stinson will be confined for several days.

BRANCH HERE WILL BE AIDED BY BIG CROWD

Backers Believe Branch Office of Cotton Association Certain To Come to Snyder.

C. O. Moser of Dallas, vice president of the American Cotton Cooperative Association, will speak at the Snyder city tabernacle Thursday afternoon, June 5, and will probably start establishment of a branch of the association at that time, it was learned early this week.

Snyder is prepared to meet requirements of an associational branch office, which includes a guarantee of $7,500 for first-year operating expenses, according to A. D. Erwin, who was chosen as chairman of the steering committee at a county-wide gathering in Snyder Tuesday.

A branch office of the association, which is sponsored by the Federal Farm Bureau, will give Scurry County a federal grader and stapler, together with an office force necessary to carry out the clerical end of the work. Distribution will be made directly from the Snyder office, and money for cotton sold through the association will be available at once.

Both Snyder banks are cooperating with the permanent committee representing the association, in seeing that the people are thoroughly acquainted with the workings of what they declare to be the best marketing plan ever devised for cotton growers. Detailed information concerning the association's benefits and internal workings will be found on pages six and seven of this paper.

Stabilization of the cotton market and, as a result, obtaining a better price for the product, is assured through the association, which is backed by the government, according to local bankers and others interested in seeing the plan succeed.

"Snyder is virtually assured of this branch office if farmers, merchants and everyone else interested in the future of Scurry County will turn out in large numbers to hear Mr. Moser's discussion of the association on June 5," according to a member of the committee that conferred with the Dallas man last week.

"A new era of solving farm marketing problems will result from establishment of and cooperation with the branch office here, every member of the steering and permanent committees believe. We expect and urge every farmer to be present, since it is probably the biggest opportunity that has been presented here in years."

The permanent committee representing the association in this county is composed of J. L. Carroll, M. W. Bayousett, W. O. Moore and E. J. Anderson.

The steering committee, appointed Tuesday to carry the association's message to all parts of the county, is composed of representatives of the banks, the Lions Club, Chamber of Commerce, and various other community enterprises, with Mr. Erwin as chairman.

SUMMER TERM TO OPEN JUNE 9

R. S. Sullivan and W. F. Cox will conduct a nine-weeks summer school here, beginning June 9, according to Superintendent C. Wedgeworth. Any qualified student may take one to three courses, one hour each.

While only nine weeks will be used for the hot weather school, the required 10 weeks of work will be done, Saturdays to be used for class work when necessary. The usual amount of work will be done, in all courses, and the same high standard that is used during the regular session will be attained.

Prices for summer school work are: One course $8; two courses, $15; three courses, $20. Mr. Wedgeworth is expecting a number of students to take the courses, some to make up back work and some to advance nearer graduation day.

Miss Clark Is Honoree at Party.

On Thursday evening of last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Grantham the ladies of the First Presbyterian Church were delightfully entertained, with Mrs. S. T. Elza and Mrs. J. A. Farmer assisting Mrs. Grantham in the hostess duties. It was in honor of Miss Mattie E. Clark, teacher of the women's class in the Sunday school, that the party was given.

Among the pleasurable features of the entertainment was the advertising guessing contest in which each one discovered her name cleverly implied. During the art session, when each was asked to portray in drawing a designated animal or bird, Mrs. McPherson was given a prize for superior ability, her sketch being, supposedly, that of a quail.

In the latest simplified spelling contest Mrs. Elza was forced to adjourn the class on a tie, she being unable to think of another word the spellers could not spell.

Grateful words of appreciation were expressed for the faithful, loyal service to the church and Sunday school given by Miss Clark, and Miss Clark, in turn, gave a message of encouragement.

Mrs. F. C. Mellard of Marfa, Mrs. Joe Strayhorn and Miss Neoma Strayhorn were appreciated guests. Members of the class or church present were: Mmes. E. C. Lambert, George McDowell, A. M. McPherson, John Abercrombie, J. W. McCouch, T. S. Egerton, W. F. Bertram, J. W. Roberts, J. W. Hendryx, C. R. Buchanan, Miss Mattie E. Clark, Miss Eupha Bertram and the hostesses.

The white and green color scheme of the evening was carried out in the pretty ice course which was served.

Mrs. C. J. Yoder Is Club Hostess.

Mrs. C. J. Yoder was hostess to the Altrurian Club Thursday afternoon, May 15, at her home.

Leader for the lesson on "Minor Writers" was Mrs. C. R. Buchanan; response to roll call, "wherein lies the charm of a western story?" Mrs. Joe Caton gave a very interesting talk, and a better English drill was led by Mrs. J. W. Leftwich.

Mrs. Yoder served a dainty salad course to the following members: Mmes. Roland Bell, H. P. Brown, C. R. Buchanan, Joe Caton, R. D. English, W. W. Hamilton, G. A. Hagan, Fritz R. Smith, J. W. Leftwich, L. T. Stinson, Hugh Taylor, O. P. Thrane and J. T. Whitnord. Guests were Mmes. W. W. Smith, D. P. Yoder and Porter King.

Refreshments were passed to Misses Elva Lemons, May McClinton, Blanche Mitchell, Jessyle Stinson, Gladys Mitchell and Alma Nell Morris; Mmes. Joe Caton and C. R. Buchanan.

The next meeting will be held next Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Alma Nell Morris.

Alpha Study Club Meets Tuesday.

Mrs. Albert Norred was hostess to the Alpha Study Club Tuesday afternoon at her home.

Members answered to roll call by telling of the program that they had enjoyed most during the club year. An article from the National Geographic magazine was read by Mrs. G. B. Clark Jr.; Mrs. R. H. Odum told the story of the opera; "Art" was discussed by Mrs. Melvin Blackard, and "What the Year's Study Has Meant to Us" was the leader's subject.

Spiz B. Y. P. U. Enjoys Picnic Tuesday.

Green Springs was the scene of a picnic for the Spiz B. Y. P. U. of the First Baptist Church Tuesday evening. Four carloads of picnickers arrived at the beautiful spot an hour before eating time, explored the creek to the springs, and then ate a tantalizing supper that included five gallons of iced tea and all the trimmings. Games were played in the light of the cars, and the homeward trip was made only after the entire crowd had played long and strenuously.

These enjoyed the cats and the fun: Misses Lela Isaacs, Mable Isaacs, Pauline Jones, Ollie Mae and Charice Irvin, Lila Mae Williamson, Sadie Tell Jenkins; Messrs. Arthur Duff, Forest Wade, Melvin Newton, Hershel Rucker, J. C. Smyth, Roy Irvin and Melvin Newton Jr.; Mrs. Melvin Newton.

Girls Scouts Present Play at School.

The Girl Scouts of Snyder gave a very clever play in the high school auditorium Tuesday afternoon. It was a May Day play in three acts, entitled "Crowning the May Queen." Netha Lynn Rogers had been elected queen by the student body of the grammar school and made a very charming one. Beverly Chambers played the part of her partner, Prince Charming, and proved to be a very courteous gentleman and crowned the queen with a crown of roses.

There were 10 other children taking part in the May Day fun. Those who played the girls' parts were Irene Wolcott, Martho Jo Jenkins, Genevieve Parrott, Frances Northcutt and Cecil Travis Smith. The boys' parts were played by Irene Spear, Geneva Glascock, Grace Elizabeth Caskey, Elizabeth Blakey and Nell Carleton. There were four elves in the play, those parts being played by Frances Stinson, Estine Worwood, Juanita Sentell and La Frances Hamilton. Miss Inez Caskey, lieutenant of the troop, very cleverly played the part of the old gypsy woman who told the children's fortunes and later enticed them off to an enchanted forest.

One of the prettiest parts of the play was the winding and braiding of the May-pole. The play was coached by the captain of the troop, Miss Elva Lemons.

Between acts a group of cowboy songs and gypsy songs were sung by Dolly Trice, Geneva White, Alma Alice Caskey, Maurine Martin and Mary Ruth Pierce, dressed in appropriate costumes. H. F. Springfield accompanied them at the piano.

Proceeds from the play and from the candy sale on the same day are to be used for Girl Scout activities during the summer.

Picnic for Double-Six Girls' Club Given.

Miss Irene Spear, assisted by her mother, Mrs. John Spear, entertained members of the Double-Six Club with a picnic Saturday at Wolf Park.

Picnic Held for Seventh Graders.

An all-day outing at Dripping Springs was enjoyed by members of the high seventh grade of Snyder grammar school Saturday, May 17.

There were about 35 class members in the party, accompanied by Miss Jo Hailey, Mmes. Will Crowder, J. J. Reynolds, J. M. Claunch and their sponsor, Miss Elva Lemons.

An ice course was served to Mmes. T. L. Lollar, Hugh Boren, Fritz R. Smith, W. R. Johnson, L. O. Smith, H. G. Towle, W. D. Beggs, Dixie Smith, Tom McMillan and Orene Buhl of Fort Worth.

Boys and girls present were: Misses Irene Taylor, Doris Wilson, Lucille Hardin, Ella Eugenia Lambert, Sterling Taylor, Irene Wolcott and Mary Bess Abercrombie; Messrs. Carroll Taylor, Jack Wolcott, Jack McAdoo, F. A. Taylor Jr. and Buster McDowell.

San Souci Club Is Entertained.

Miss Blanche Mitchell was hostess to members and guests of the San Souci Club Wednesday evening at her home.

After the club business session, games of bridge were enjoyed, high scores being won by Miss Neoma Strayhorn and Mrs. George Oldham.

A delectable salad course was served to the following members: Mmes. Forest Sears, Ralph Hicks, J. P. Nelson, Dan Gibson, Albert Norred, Melvin Blackard and J. M. Harris; Misses Hattie and Gertrude Herm, Neoma Strayhorn and Sallie Evelyn Boone. Other guests were Mmes. Wayne Williams, George Oldham, G. B. Clark Jr., J. M. Claunch, Amos Joyce, Warren Dodson, Lewis Blackard; Misses Nona Carr Loyce Clark, Elva Lemons, Alma Nell Morris, Gladys Mitchell and Eloise Scott.

 drug store sheiks won't be striking you for so many drinks.

The next question, says Pessimism Pete, is whether Johnny, who graduates this year, will want to go to college or make a success in life.

We have been wondering what would happen to one of those Ford triplex windshields if it were struck by a volley from Frank Norris' Fundamentalist.

It's funny how a lot of folks never read the editorial page. Snyder News editorials are written for everybody—not simply for the business man or the educated person. We invite you to read them.

A few suggestions: Have your car dry cleaned; have your suit pressed; go to church Sunday; take your wife out to a cafe dinner on Sunday; talk more about good times next fall and less about your neighbor.

What will folks have to gripe about after the washouts are filled in, crops are planted, and the fish are biting good? There's the governor's race, and the fact that there are too darn many automobiles for the income of the country.

It does us good, sometimes, to check the advantages of living in Snyder. One of those advantages is the abundant water supply. We have water enough to supply several thousand more people, at a rate cheap enough to satisfy the tightest Scotchman, and a purity 100 per cent enough to satisfy the most painstaking scientist.

A fellow was hunting a fence fixer on Snyder street Saturday morning, and wasn't having much luck. Maybe he just didn't know where to look, or maybe some of the birds who have been hollering hard times are too proud to dirty their hands with barbed wire.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station is making a special study of taxation in various counties. The station believes "that under our system of taxation, characterized very largely by the general property tax, real estate, and particularly farm real estate, is bearing more than its proportional share of the tax burden."
 That's pretty good belief. Here's hoping the investigators come as far west as Scurry County.

The Colorado City Council has ordered that a delinquent tax list be published in the near future.
 Pleasing as the prospect of publishing such a list would be to either Snyder newspaper, for revenue's sake, it is a pleasure to announce that city taxes here have been collected remarkably well this year. City Secretary A.
 C. Prentiss recently announced that collections were far above what they are in most municipalities.

Have you noticed the variety of "Letters From the People" in The News recently? First there was the well known, discussed pro and con by County Agent W. O.
 Logan and James A. Autry. Then there was J. L. Carroll's interesting article, Charles Hill's recommendation of C. O. Moser, Uncle Charley Dodson's interpretation of forgiveness, and E. J. Anderson's appeal for Snyder co-operation. We welcome "Letters From the People."
 Next!

Census figures are funny things. The more you talk about them the more you are convinced that they are far below par. Personally, we think a 38 per cent gain for Snyder during a ten-year period is proof enough that it is one of the most substantial little cities in West Texas. Down at Herleigh a lot of the folks were thinking that they wouldn't have more than 450 or 500 in the city limits, and the enumerator gave them almost 500.

The Journalist's Creed.

It was with new pleasure and appreciation that this editor read a reproduction of Walter Williams' creed for journalists in the Scurry County Times-Signal last week. For more than two years that creed hung on the wall of a class room in which we worked; we saw it every day; we had it ground into our systems. The election of Walter Williams as president of the University of Missouri the other day makes the creed more applicable to every walk of life, since it has been proven that the former dean is a man of the world of men.

We join heartily with the Times-Signal in its tribute to the man who wrote it, and in its renewed pledge to live up to its ideals.

Sandstorms and Publicity.

The sandstorm that struck Scurry County a trio of Tuesdays ago received publicity far beyond the portals of this county, as the above editorial from the Anson Western Enterprise reveals:

Page Mr. Walthall, or the author of the dispatch mentioned in the hereinbelow!

The Nolan County News last week said editorially that an Austin dispatch quotes R. B. Walthall, member of the State Board of Control, as saying that the terror to the merciless sandstorms have been curbed. Credit for this achievement was given by the state official to the State Experiment Station at Lubbock and its successful work in handling trees suitable to the Plains and introducing them to residents.

Perhaps the Board of Control has done all that is claimed for it on the Plains, but evidently that large territory this side of that plateau does not belong to the board's bailiwick. At least, since Tuesday's aerial and earthy mix-up.

Excuse the third expression—but that sandstorm of Tuesday beggars description—something like the Caris-bad Caverns, or an electrical storm, or a cyclone, which it very closely resembled in action as in appearance.

Ask Bill Blanton for the figure he used in describing it—this was a Miltonic depiction, except that it was a little plainer and easier understood.

A traveling man (that used to be his title—lately he says he parted with the selling function), says that he came two miles in one stretch from Snyder without the use of gas. Had he had sails he could have navigated the entire distance with no gas or very little, he avers.

Coming from the west, newspaper folks hereabout thought that Jimmy Smith had stalked another big story concerning the fertility of Scurry County or the progress of Snyder, the furor accompanying the story en route to the daily press producing the ethereal commotion.

Compound Interest.

I have observed that successful savers commonly resort to almost childish methods to avoid the temptation of spending all they earn.

One man finds that he gets ahead faster if he puts his surplus in unimproved real estate, not because he is a shrewd buyer, but because the investment can not be easily drawn upon, and no dividends can be collected until the property is finally sold. He draws his initial principal and the increment in one lump sum which he quickly ties up in another property.

Another diverts his surplus into insurance. He is aware that insurance is not primarily designed for investment, but he has found from experience that the persistency of the insurance companies in collecting premiums has compelled him to set aside about four times what he did when he left his savings to chance.

Another has an investment fund into which goes every dollar of income except his salary. He is resolved not to disturb this fund under any circumstances.
 When the need of money was urgent, he mortgaged his house rather than borrow or draw on this fund. The upshot is that he has always been able to scrape through.
 Meantime, compound interest has had an opportunity to swell his investment fund to sizable proportions.

We all know that if we never received a dollar more of income than we are getting today, we should manage to struggle along. A wise move then, if we are ambitions to acquire a competency is to compel ourselves to get along for a few years on just what we are earning and spending now, putting everything else into safe and sane investment channels. Five or ten years of this rigorous self-denial will produce an amazing result.

Most people lose the benefit of the most productivyears of their lives by postponing saving until conditions are "favorable." They plan to take the proceeds of a "lucky strike" and salt it away. Usually the "lucky strike" is never made, or if it is, the proceeds are needed to liquidate indebtedness.

If you really wish to save, be as childish as you please. Get your savings out of the way of temptation.
 Be less concerned about a high return than about safety.
 Put your savings where you do not have to watch them frequently. Don't spend interest or dividends. Plough them back. Under this plan even a four per cent investment will make you independent if you are blessed with resolution and patience.

"Women weep, as women should, because they're so misunderstood." As far as we can see, the new long skirts are worn by the girls with whom it isn't a matter of necessity.

No matter how short-handed the factories are, you'll always find three men after every political job.

PINKY DINKY : By Terry Gilkison

Bedouin Love Song.

From the desert I come to thee
 On a stallion shod with fire;
 And the winds are left behind
 In the speed of my desire.
 Under thy window I stand,
 And the midnight hears my cry:
 I love thee, I love but thee,
 With a love that shall not die
 Till the sun grows cold,
 And the stars are old,
 And the leaves of the judgment
 book unfold!

Look from thy window and see
 My passion and my pain;
 I lie on the sand below,
 And I fight in thy disdain.
 Let the night winds touch thy brow
 With the heat of my burning sigh,
 And melt thee to hear the vow
 Of a love that shall not die
 Till the sun grows cold,
 And the stars are old,
 And the leaves of the judgment
 book unfold!

My steps are nightly driven,
 By the fever in my breast,

To hear from thy lattice breathed
 The words that shall give me rest.
 Open the door of thy heart,
 And open thy chamber door,
 And my kisses shall touch thy lips
 The love that shall fade no more
 Till the sun grows cold,
 And the stars are old,
 And the leaves of the judgment
 book unfold!

Wheels and the Horse.

In this day of rapid transportation, tractors and tramways, the horse is sometimes forgotten. He is the mainstay on thousands of farms, and, as the following masterpiece from the pen of Lanfer, in "Brushing Up on Sports" reveals, an ever-interesting figure in the world of sports.

"Down into the Blue Grass come trains of ponderous trucks, great black forms with glaring white eyes, pounding through the night . . . Overhead, now and then, sounds the doleful drone of powerful man-made night birds—airplanes bound south with passengers, mail and express. Under them speed passenger trains, shrieking as they click on spinning wheels past long freight trains on the sidings, racing the dark monsters along the road, sweep buses loaded with human cargo, creaking, pounding, careening, chasing the narrow shaft of brightness the headlights throw . . . passenger cars, gleaming royally, the simmer of quiet motors beneath their polished hoods; others chugging along patiently, to the right of the road, ancient and uncertain barouches of an earlier day . . . but all of these, the roaring mechanical bird in the sky above, the thousands of tireless, whirling wheels on the road below, the whole marvel of mechanical motion . . . on the road to Louisville through the night . . . and all this vast array of man-created machinery churning forward, carrying human beings going to see—the horse!"

"I've change my mind."
 "Well, does it work any better?"

If a Man Die—

"If a man die, shall he live again?"
 It is the age-old question, asked at the side of every bier. And what can one say in answer to it?

Every one of us is taught in childhood to believe in God and an after life.

"The world just happened," say some men. "It created itself through the operation of natural laws." But who or what established the natural laws and set them to operating?

When you can dump a load of bricks on a corner lot, and let me watch them arrange themselves into a house—when you can empty a handful of springs and wheels and screws on my desk, and let me see them gather themselves together into a watch—it will be easier for me to believe that all these thousands of worlds could have been created, balanced and set to moving in their separate orbits, all without any directing intelligence at all.

Moreover, if there is no intelligence in the universe, then the universe has created something greater than itself —for it has created you and me.

It is easy to believe that a universe without personality could have created us who have personality? Isn't it easier to believe that our personality is a little part of the great pervading Personality that has created and now permeates the universe? And if there be a Personality in the universe—a God—what kind of a God is He? He must be at least as good as you or I. He could not have made us better than Himself. The worse can not create the better.

Go where you will, from the most savage race to the most cultured, and you will find that same instinctive assurance that death is not the end.
 Would a good God plant that assurance in his creatures merely to mock them?

Without immortality the world is an answerless riddle. We are born; we struggle up through slow years of development; and just as we have reached our highest point of usefulness—we are cut off. It is hard for me to believe in a universe that made itself, and that ruthlessly casts away its most precious possession—human personality.

It is easier for me to believe that behind the universe is a guiding Intelligence, of whose personality my own is a tiny spark that shall not go out while He lives.

If I can not prove that this is so, neither can anyone prove to me that it is not so. And, until some one can disprove it, I find it easier, more helpful, more efficient, to believe,—

Miss Nobody from Nowhere

BY ELIZABETH JORDAN

Third Installment

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE—

A beautiful young woman finds herself on the sidewalk in a strange city. She can not remember her name or where she came from. She has nothing in her purse to tell herself who she is. A young man who has seen her in the hotel where she is stopping notices her and takes her to the hotel in a cab. There they find that she registered, in French, as "Miss Nobody of Nowhere." The clerk has been calling her "Miss Parsons." The young man tells her she is in New York City. His name is Eric Hamilton. He is terrified at her loss of memory. He asks his friend, Dr. Carrick, a nerve specialist, to call at the hotel. Dr. Carrick talks encouragingly, but says he will send a nurse to stay with the mysterious "Miss Parsons" that night.

Now go on with the story—
"Will you tell me exactly what the doctor said, and all he said?" she asked at last.
"Of course." He came and stood beside her. "He thinks that you have had some sort of shock, which made you decide to get away from the scene of it, whatever it was. He thinks you came to the decision very hastily, for you started with no luggage. Yet when you got here you clearly expected to stay some time, for you went out the next day and bought some things which you had delivered here at the hotel."

"When I came up here to my rooms before dinner I went through everything," she confirmed, "but there was nothing to help me, except some money. It's not much, but I hope it will see me through. Anyway, it's probably all I have in the world, for my clothes show I'm not rich. They are 'good but not gorgeous,'" she grimly paraphrased.

His heart leaped over the small jet but before he could speak her face darkened and she went on.

"The money won't carry me very far in a New York hotel if I have a long siege—with a trained nurse at night and a psychiatrist coming every morning," she pointed out. "Suppose this attack lasts longer than my money does?"

"It won't." He spoke with such conviction that she brightened again. "The Garland's summer rates" are still in effect, and they're very reasonable," he went on. "Carrick is too good a chap to send you a big bill."

He was talking against time, to keep her panic at bay till the nurse came.

"Oh, what a devilish situation this is!" She turned back to the window, bringing her hands together with an effect of desperation that alarmed him.

"Come now," he urged, "just keep steady! A whole lot depends on that. The more quietly you take this, the sooner you will get over it. He agrees that the thing to do is to sit tight, just as you're doing, and let inquiries come from the other end. If your family and friends don't know where you are, they'll have started an investigation by this time, but they're probably doing it very carefully."

She stood still and stared into the darkness. Suddenly she turned back to the room with a little laugh that broke through their seriousness like a gush of a fountain.

"We may discover that I have run away from a husband and six children," she said lightly, but giving him a definite effect of breathlessness and tension. "My innocent babes may be crying for me this minute."

"What a ghastly idea!" he began, and stopped abruptly. As if she had caught his thought she looked at him with sudden intentness; but he was on his guard again and his disarming smile banished any suspicion she might have had. However, the little episode seemed to harden some half-formed purpose, for she went toward the inner door with an air of resolution he recalled later.

"If you will excuse me," she said, "I'll make some preparations for the nurse. I suppose since she is coming she must be made comfortable. No, please don't go," she added as he turned to take up his hat. "I'd rather you were here when she comes. There is some light literature on the table that may interest you."

She made a hospitable gesture toward the light literature, and disappeared through the door leading into her bedroom.

He selected a magazine, drew an easy chair to the reading lamp, and contentedly sat down. She was only a few feet away, on the other side of the door, and there was something satisfactory in being her sentinel. It wasn't strange that he was immensely interested in her, he mused. Anyone would be interested in a girl in that tragic plight. For a few minutes more he casually thought about her while he turned the pages of the magazine, glancing at pictures and titles.

A title on a page of the magazine he held caught his eye and he began to read, with frequent glances at the closed door and an ear alert for any sounds in the inner room. As he had already demonstrated, it was not his habit to do anything by halves. He became attentive to the article he was reading, then interested, and finally absorbed.

"Is this Miss Parsons' room?" she inquired. "I'm Miss Adams, the nurse. Doctor Carrick sent me."

"Yes, of course. We have been expecting you."

"Doctor Carrick told me all about the case and gave me full instructions," the nurse went on. "It took some time. Otherwise I could have been here sooner. I suppose she's in her room," she suggested. "Haven't I better go right in and report?"

He found his voice. "You're perfectly sure she isn't these rooms?" he asked. "Quite sure," Miss Adams smiled austerely.

Miss Adams gave the door panel a soft but decided tap, and when she received no reply she repeated it without emphasis, calling clearly: "The nurse, Miss Parsons. May I come in?" But when there was no response to this, she turned and cast a questioning glance at the young man.

"Go in," he managed to bring out, and strengthened the order with an imperative gesture.

Plainly Miss Adams was not the type of nurse who accepted orders from everyone who chose to give them. She hesitated, and rapped a third time. Still receiving no reply, she turned the knob and entered the bedroom, leaving the door ajar behind her. Hamilton remained close to the open door, but he did not look into the room beyond it. Instead he wheeled and started hard at the opposite wall, telling himself there were a half dozen reasons why the girl in the inner room might not have heard those three decided taps.

Miss Adams re-appeared, and now she was obviously disturbed.

"We mustn't assume too much," she said kindly, with an understanding glance at his agitated face. "You said she was frightened, and in such conditions patients do strange things. I've looked out of the window," she added calmly; and again he felt his scalp prick. "There's nothing wrong in the street. Of course, she may be somewhere else in the hotel."

He found his voice.

"You're perfectly sure she isn't in these rooms?" he asked.

"Quite sure," Miss Adams smiled

austerely. "I've looked in the closet and even under the bed."

"May I look?"

"Of course, if you like."

Her manner nicely combined with its professional courtesy an intimation that he would be wasting his time, but he pushed past her even before she could move to one side.

The room had the look of having been unoccupied for days.

The words of the nurse made him swing around toward her.

"Here's the way she left," she said. He had noticed another door with a bolts on the inside. It led from the bedroom and he had taken for granted that it was part of the adjoining suite and was locked. Now he saw that the bolt had not been shot. The nurse held the door ajar, revealing a glimpse of a side corridor past its threshold.

"Easiest thing in the world," he conceded. "She packed, stole out through that door and along that back corridor to a rear staircase, and probably got away without being seen by anyone. But how about her hotel bill? Do you think she'd forget it?"

Miss Adams looked thoughtful.

"She might. They do all sorts of queer things when they're not normal."

He had been staring down unseeingly at a little writing stand, but now he caught a faint suggestion of penciling on the top envelope of the pile of hotel paper.

"Here's something," he cried, and picked up the envelope. Then his expression changed. It was addressed to Doctor Carrick.

"Where did you find that?" the nurse demanded. She had been standing on the threshold, looking down the hall, but turned back into the room at the sound of his voice.

"On the table, on top of this little heap of stationery. It looked like all the other envelopes, but the name is written on it very faintly, with a hard pencil. I didn't notice it till now."

He felt the envelope.

"Lord! I wish I dared to open it," he muttered.

Hamilton hurried from the room. At the hotel office desk he asked for a match and lit his cigaret with careful casualness.

"Has Miss Parsons gone?" he asked as he drew in the first mouthful of smoke.

"Yes; she checked out 'most an hour ago," the clerk told him, and added without rancor: "Women make me tired."

Hamilton rested an elbow on the desk.

"Why?"

"Oh, because they're always changing their minds. That girl said when she came that she was only staying one night. She stayed three days. That was all right—the longer the better. But tonight she had a cot put in her room for a woman friend who was to visit her, and after I'd stirred up a chambermaid and a porter and got everything fixed, she changed her mind again and cleared out. She left a dollar for the chambermaid and the porter, though," he added forgivingly, and ended, on another afterthought, "Nice girl."

Hamilton put on the hat he had been carrying and descended the hotel's front steps to the street.

"Cab, sir?" asked the doorman, who knew him.

"Not yet. . . See here, Saunders—" Hamilton put a dollar into the man's hand—"did you happen to hear the address Miss Parsons gave her cabman tonight when she left?"

"She didn't take no cab here, sir," he reported. "It was funny, too, for she usually does. Besides, tonight she was carryin' a little hand-bag and a big bundle. But when I started to get a taxi for her she walked off, shakin' her head."

"Which way did she go?"

"That way," Saunders indicated the side street. His voice sank to a confidential note, for his was an honest nature and he desired to earn his dollar—in part, at least.

"I got the feelin', sir," he said, "that she walked off because she didn't want to give no address here. If that hadn't been it, why should she carry them things? She give me my quarter jest the same, and I'd bet that quarter she took a cab at the next corner."

Hamilton returned to the waiting nurse. It was easy now to piece together the bits of the puzzle. Miss Parsons had experienced another panic, had decided that she was becoming "a case," and had fled to avoid that horror. Of course, she would pick up a cab farther along the street or take one of the scores of cabs plying up and down the next avenue, only a block away. By this time she might be in Harlem or on a train bound west or south. In any case, she was definitely gone. She was out there somewhere in the darkness. What would become of her? Anything, everything, might happen to her.

He must find her, of course. That went without saying. Even if his interest had been less than it was, he couldn't let her, in her condition, vanish into the unknown. He had not been responsible at first, but now—

He made his report to the nurse. "She paid her bill and checked out an hour ago."

Miss Adams nodded. "She would," she confirmed. "Hamilton's strained nerves snapped."

"If it was so certain that she would why the devil didn't Carrick warn me?" he broke out, and immediately apologized again. "Come on, we'll go uptown and talk to Carrick. You don't suppose he has gone to bed, do you?" he asked irritably.

Miss Adams expressed her theory that Doctor Carrick could not have done anything so inconsiderate. It was much more likely, she thought, that the physician might have dropped in at his club on his way home, to have a rubber of bridges with some friends. As a nurse who attended many of his patients, she knew something of his habits. She even knew the name of his club, and mentioned it.

Cooperative Cotton Marketing Movement Being Agitated

QUESTION AND ANSWER TABLE EXPLAINS PLAN

Co-Operation with National Headquarters Will Assure Best of Marketing Facilities.

Efforts are being made to secure the location of a branch of the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association for Snyder by the business men and interested growers of cotton of Scurry County. Because of The News' great concern in seeing the project carried through, it has endeavored to secure a full and complete outline of the association, its workings and purposes.

Below is given a question box conducted in an exchange which gives some good information about the association. Everyone interested in the growing of cotton and its marketing at reasonable prices should read and study these provisions:

Q.—How can the Texas cotton farmer receive aid from the Federal Farm Board. A.—The only way the Texas farmer or any other farmer may receive aid from the farm board is through a cooperative association.

Q.—Has the farm board named an association in Texas for the cotton farmer to join? A.—Yes. The board has helped to create the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association, and is carrying on its Texas work through that association.

Q.—What is the chief reason that the cotton farmer should join the association? A.—The cotton market is controlled by world-wide conditions, and the cotton farmer can know little about such conditions, or if he knew, could do little about them without being organized. All big businesses are organized in order to know how much goods to produce, what kind, and when and where to sell it.

Q.—Haven't the cotton farmers been organized before, to do this? A.—Only three bales out of each 100 were handled by the cooperative associations in Texas under the old Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association.

Q.—How is the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association different from the old Farm Bureau Cotton Association? A.—First, all cotton is sold by the new association through the American Cotton Cooperative Association, under supervision and with the aid of the farm board. Second, the new membership contract may be cancelled by the member any year after the first two years. Third, under the new contract, the member is not required to deliver all his cotton to the association. He is required to deliver every other bale until he has delivered 10 bales. After that, he is free to deliver or not. The man who grows two bales must deliver one, an may sell the other as he pleases; the man who grows 20 bales must deliver 10. After that, there are no more compulsory deliveries. The member may sell all the rest of his cotton in any manner he pleases. Fourth, the new contract provides that the cost of handling cotton shall not be more than three per cent, with a maximum of $2.50 a bale. Fifth, it provides for audit and supervision by the farm board. Sixth, the new plan provides for branches offices in the larger cotton points in Texas. They will be in charge of federally licensed cotton classifiers, who will grade and staple members' cotton free, tell them what the price is that day according to grade and staple, give them general market and crop information, and render general service. Seventh, the new plan provides for separating Texas into six or more districts, each to become independent as soon as possible, and in the meanwhile, each to have an advisory committee to represent it on the state board. Eighth, receiving agents will be appointed at points where branch offices are not located, to help members in shipping cotton, having samples graded and stapled, making advances and rendering other service. Ninth, members will be allowed to place their cotton in "optional" pools, and to order it sold at any time, as well as in the "seasonal pools" formerly used.

Q.—Is there any other reason why the new association will prove more satisfactory to the farmer than the old association has? A.—Yes. The biggest thing of all is that the government of the United States is now backing the cooperatives with hundreds of millions of dollars, and with the leadership of men, selected by President Hoover and Congress, who are considered the best informed and most able men in the nation in regard to agricultural affairs. They will supervise and audit the affairs of the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association.

Q.—How is the cotton farmer represented on the Federal Farm Board? A.—Carl Williams, editor of the Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman, and a leader in cooperative marketing for many years, was appointed at the request of thousands of business men and farmers of the south to represent the cotton growers on the farm board. There are eight other members, representing each of the important farm crops.

Q.—What is the farm board doing now for the cotton farmer? A.—The farm board has helped to create the American Cotton Cooperative Association, through which all cotton farmers of the south may sell cotton and receive information from the farm board, and join in all the movements which the farm board puts forward from time to time to aid the cotton grower.

Q.—Why can the American Cotton Cooperative Association sell cotton better than the individual farmer or small cotton merchant? A.—The American Cotton Cooperative Association is supplied with information by the farm board from all over the world. It finds out, as nearly as anyone can, how much cotton is needed in all parts of the world, how much is being raised in foreign countries, what is being paid for it everywhere, how much difference in price there is for different grades and staples, and so, by knowing these things which the individual farmer or cotton man can not know, it is able to sell cotton at the time and place that it will bring most money. It also has practically unlimited funds to finance its operations.

Q.—How does the Texas farmer's cotton get to the American Cotton Cooperative Association? A.—The farmer who is a member of the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association delivers his cotton to the receiving agent nearest him, who will be his ginner or some other local representative; or to the federal classifier at the nearest branch or district office of the association; and these agents will ship the cotton according to directions received from the American Cotton Cooperative Association.

Q.—How does the member receive payment for his cotton? A.—If he sells it in the optional pool, he receives payment for practically the full amount as soon as he orders the cotton sold. He can order it sold and receive this payment at any time. If he puts his cotton in the seasonal pool, the cotton is sold from time to time, as the American Cotton Cooperative Association sees fit, and final payment is made at the end of the cotton season. The member receives a substantial advance of cash as soon as he delivers the cotton, and other payments from time to time, the last payment being soon after July 31.

Q.—When the member sells in the optional pool, how much will be held out until the end of the season? A.—On the better grades of cotton, there will be practically nothing held out, but on lower grades, some final adjustments on basis will have to be made, which may amount to several dollars a bale.

Q.—How much will the handling charges be? A.—Not more than three per cent of the resale price, or $2.50 a bale if three per cent is more than that.

Q.—Has the optional pool plan been used before in Texas? A.—Yes. It was used extensively at Corpus Christi last year by the Farm Bureau Cotton Association, and resulted very successfully.

Q.—Does the new association recommend the optional pool as better than the seasonal pool? A.—No. The optional pool is provided so that the members who want to use their own judgment as to time for selling may do so, and still be able to sell through the farm board plan.

Q.—How much is the membership fee in the association? A.—Ten dollars.

Q.—How often does it have to be paid? A.—Only once, when the member joins.

Q.—How long a contract does the member sign? A.—Ten years. He can withdraw any year after the second year.

Q.—Is selling cotton the chief object of the association? A.—Growing more and better cotton at lower cost must go hand in hand with the marketing program.

Q.—How will the association help the farmer do this? A.—First, by giving him service of federally licensed classifiers, who will get the true value of his good staple cotton.

Q.—Doesn't the farmer who grows good staple now get more money for it than for short staple? A.—As a rule, no. The usual custom is to buy cotton at "hog round" or "point" prices. The average staple of all the cotton bought determines the price.

Q.—Doesn't the farmer get as much this way as he would selling each bale on its individual merits? A.—He gets more for inferior cotton and less for good cotton.

Q.—How does growing short staple hurt the cotton farmer? A.—It puts him down on a level with the cheap laborer in other countries, who can also grow short staple, but most of whom can not grow good staple.

Q.—What is the remedy? A.—To sell each bale on its value, from a staple standpoint, and so discourage the man who grows inferior staple and encourage the man who grows good staple.

Q.—How will the association help encourage growing of good staple, besides helping get a better price? A.—Good staple can be obtained by improving the land, by planting better seed, and by better ginning. The association will work with other agencies to encourage community pure seed projects; and to work for better ginning. All these can be done much better through united, organized effort than by individuals acting alone.

Q.—Who will do this work for the association? A.—The association will have a field staff which will work with the association members in each community, and will aid the agricultural workers who are already employed by the various state and national departments.

Q.—Will there be an important improvement in the condition of the cotton grower at once, as a result of this movement? A.—That depends upon the promptness with which the cotton growers join it. The farm board is starting a movement which will take many years to its full usefulness, and will grow fast or slow in proportion to the manner in which the farmers fall in line. Mr. Legge, chairman of the farm board, says that when the farmers unite, the government will be for them a "stone wall from which they need never retreat."

NEW PREACHER GIVES ADDRESS

"Life's Greatest Choice" was the subject used by Rev. Philip C. McGahey, newly elected Baptist pastor, in addressing the 1930 graduating class of Snyder High School Sunday evening in the school auditorium. The Book of Ruth was the background for the baccalaureate sermon. Before a crowd that filled every available seat, the 28-year-old preacher was at ease as he discussed God, parents and service as life's greatest choices.

A prelude by Homer Springfield preceded the processional, which was led by Willard Jones, who directed the high school Choral Club in singing "Holy, Holy, Holy." Behind the pastors of the city and Superintendent C. Wedgeworth, the graduating class, gray-robed, marched to their places in the front of the auditorium.

After the invocation was pronounced by Rev. Cal C. Wright, "Recessional" was sung by the choral club. Rev. T. M. Broadfoot gave the scripture reading of the evening, and Rev. W. M. Speck led in prayer. Willard Jones gave a vocal solo, and announcements concerning other exercises of the week were made by the superintendent.

Following the sermon by Rev. McGahey, the congregation sang "Come, Thou Almighty King," and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. E. O. Lambert.

F. I. Townsend, with White Leghorns, and Charlie W. Morton, with Anconas, were leading the demonstrations, with approximately 34 cents

MOST SCHOOLS END THIS WEEK

Only two schools in Scurry County, Pyron and Arab, will remain open after this week, according to County Superintendent A. A. Bullock. All others are being closed this week, most of them with appropriate exercises and excursions.

Pyron, which has recently completed one of the county's 10 teacherages, will have graduating exercises Thursday evening. At a special program Tuesday evening, J. M. Claunch and Mr. Bullock will speak. A school picnic has been scheduled for Thursday evening.

Arab will probably be closed with similar exercises, on a smaller scale. Mr. Bullock states that the efficiency and financial standing of the schools in all parts of the county have held up remarkably well in face of the condition of this section.

Practically all schools that graduate seventh grade students took part in the seventh grade county-wide exercises Thursday of this week.

Mrs. A. J. Riley is in Clovis, New Mexico, visiting with her daughter, Mrs. Frank Aueutt. Mr. Aueutt recently underwent an appendicitis operation.

Within the next few days you will be hearing a lot about the Government's Cotton Marketing Plan

—Our Banks feel that we should inform ourselves on every plan and program that has for its purpose the bettering of farm conditions—for when the farmer prospers, we prosper; and when he suffers, we are likewise affected. After a careful investigation, which included a trip to Dallas, we do not hesitate to recommend the new Government Farm Board Plan to our customers.

Scurry County is to have the privilege of hearing---
MR. C. O. MOSER

Vice President of the American Cotton Cooperative Association, which is the Government's Cotton Sales Agency. He will speak in Snyder, Thursday afternoon June 5.

We earnestly urge every farmer to hear his message.

—Scurry County is attempting to get a Branch Office, so that our farmers may have the same advantages of price and marketing facilities as are afforded the larger cotton centers of the South. The cotton producer has the assurance that if he will co-operate in this movement, the Government will stand squarely behind him and help him to get the best possible price for his cotton.

Myrtle Casey is valedictorian of the class and Bill Hairston is salutatorian. They will be given special recognition at the commencement exercises.

An Ordinance.

An Ordinance setting apart on the public square of the City of Snyder, Texas, a parking space for motor busses operated for hire; declaring the taking on or letting off of passengers at any place on any street or on the public square, other than at the parking space herein provided, a violation of this ordinance; providing for the marking of this space; prohibiting parking or stopping in this space by any vehicle except motor busses operated for hire; declaring the operation of motor busses and the parking and stopping of vehicles in violation of this ordinance to be unlawful; fixing a penalty, and declaring an emergency.

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Snyder, Texas:

Sec. 1.—Parking spaces numbers nine (9) and ten (10) counting from the east end of the row of parking spaces in the middle of the north side of the public square of the City of Snyder, Texas, are hereby set apart for the use of motor busses operated for hire, in parking, letting off and taking on passengers.

Sec. 2.—It shall be unlawful for any motor bus operating for hire to use any parking space on any street or on the public square of the City of Snyder, other than the parking space above set out, for the purpose of parking, letting off or taking on passengers.

Sec. 3.—The parking space set out in Sec. 1 shall at all times be set off by well defined markers showing for what said space is reserved.

Sec. 4.—It shall be unlawful for any person to park or stop any motor or other vehicle, except a motor bus operated for hire, between the markers herein provided for, and on the parking space set out in Sec. 1 for the use of motor busses.

Sec. 5.—Any person violating any provision of this ordinance shall, upon conviction, be fined not exceeding one hundred ($100.00) dollars.

Sec. 6.—All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict with this ordinance are hereby repealed and this ordinance shall be in full force and effect immediately upon its adoption and publication as by law provided.

Sec. 7.—The fact that there is no adequate parking space provided in the City of Snyder for motor busses operated for hire, and the fact that such a parking space is necessary for the proper regulation of traffic on the public square of Snyder, creates an emergency requiring that the rule requiring ordinances to be read on three separate meetings be suspended, and that this ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication and it is so enacted.

Passed and approved this the 15th day of May, 1930.

George Mahon; presentation of diplomas, Superintendent W. C. Hooks; presentation of scholarships and awards; benediction, Rev. J. D. Farmer.

At the annual junior-senior banquet Friday evening of last week, "The Garden" motif was carried throughout the program and menu. Jack Johnson was toastmaster.

Closing exercises for the seventh graders were scheduled to be held Thursday evening, with J. M. Claunch of Snyder delivering the principal address. Sixteen boys and girls will receive awards for graduation from the seventh grade to high school. Guy Stark Jr. will present the diplomas.

Superintendent Hooks states that one of the most successful school years in Dunn history is coming to a close. Affiliation was granted last year, and notice of an additional half unit, in advanced arithmetic, was received from the state department recently. With four and one-half more credits, which the school seems certain of receiving next year on the basis of good work this year, the total will be raised to 15.

Fort Worth Editor Visits.

James R. Record, managing editor of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and president of the Texas Managing Editors Association, was a Snyder visitor late last week. He was accompanied by his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Record were on a tour of West Texas.

Practice on contests to be entered by the local Boy Scout troops at the Buffalo Trails district rally to be held at Sweetwater next Tuesday, have started, according to the two Snyder scoutmasters.

Arrangements are being made for practically all of Troop No. 48, the Baptist church group, to attend the annual rally. All members of the Baptist troop are asked to meet at the church Saturday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock to carry out plans for the session at Sweetwater. First aid, tug of war, string burning, signaling, knot tying, and other contests will be included.

Council Executive A. C. Williamson of Sweetwater will be present to discuss future plans of the organization with the local men interested in the Boy Scout movement.

Dal-Paso Group to Meet With Carlsbad

Carlsbad, New Mexico, has been definitely selected as the scene of the annual meeting of the Dal-Paso Cavers Highway Association, to be held June 12, according to O. P. Thrane, Snyder, president. Placing of the meeting at the west end of the highway that cuts through Scurry County on an airline route to Carlsbad Caverns was made in order that more definite plans might be worked out, between representatives of both Texas and New Mexico, for federalization of the entire route.

Several delegates from Scurry County are expected to be present at the Carlsbad meeting, according to Mr. Thrane, who believes that federalization, which has been sought for some time, will be obtained.

It is estimated that more than 50 per cent of American families live in rented homes.

15 GRADUATES GET DIPLOMAS

Fifteen graduates received their diplomas from the hands of County Superintendent A. A. Bullock in the closing exercises held Friday morning of last week. Rev. M. L. Moody delivered the class address. A large crowd saw this final program of the school for the Hermleigh High School this year.

Odell Blackard Has Charge of New T-P Station Near Square

Under the management of Odell Blackard, the new T-P filling station, one block east of the square on Twenty-Fifth Street, opened for business Tuesday.

The new station is easily among the most attractive in Snyder. It is built of red brick, and has a red corrugated roof and unique trimmings. A large driveway, with a chat base, provides plenty of room without the interference of gasoline pumps in the center. Four pumps are filled with T-P gasoline, and T-P aero motor oil is provided for every car need. A supply of accessories will probably be installed later.

Mr. Blackard invites his friends to inspect the new station.

Play of Senior Class Was Well Presented

"The Goose Hangs High," as interpreted by the graduating class of Snyder High School Friday evening of last week, revealed several bits of histrionic ability that four full years in high school had never before revealed. Mary Ellen Martin as Mrs. Bradley, the old-fashioned grandmother, was effective in her role, while the others interpreted their roles, for the most part, in pleasing fashion.

Maxey Chenault as the sacrificial father, and Ha B. Perciman as the mother, were given much credit for the success of the play, while Mildred Harless as the flapper daughter was clever in her 1930 role. Earl Parker, making his first public appearance, played two roles effectively, while Dodson Smith as the villain in the case and Grady Wallace as Noel Derby were good. Enid Sears, Dorothy Egerton, G. L. Huestis as the grown-up son, La Frances York as the new-fashioned college boy, and Meva Doak, were the other characters.

Don't forget the cotton rally at the city tabernacle June 5.

Mrs. Mary E. Banks Will Present Pupils in Recital Monday

Mrs. Mary E. Banks will present the following pupils in a piano recital at the Methodist church Tuesday evening, May 27:

SAME PRESCRIPTION HE WROTE IN 1892

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as today. People lived normal lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe bowel stimulant.

This prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative. It has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds, fevers. At your druggist, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. B. B. Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.
