"YOUR HOME COUNTY PAPER"

SNYDER, TEXAS, THURSDAY, APRIL 21, 1932.

NUMBER 45

FORTY-FOURTH YEAR.

MONDAY FINAL DAY TO APPLY FOR U. S. FUND

County Committeeman Explains Hazy Ideas About Eligibility For Farmer Loans.

Monday, April 25, is the last day for acceptance of government loan applications at the local office, according to Harvey Shuler, secretary of the county committee. He was in Dallas, a few days ago, where he conferred with state officials in regard to this and other features of the loan plan.

He points out that April 30 is the last day that applications will be accepted by the Dallas office, and that April 25 is set as the local deadline because it requires some time to complete an application, due to need of waivers and other detailed information. Applications from here must first go to Sweetwater to be checked by the district field agent.

Use of Loan Money.

The money from these loans may be used for feed, work stock, fuel and oil for tractors, seed, repairs for farm implements, and miscellaneous expense necessary for crop production, such as supplies.

Mr. Shuler says: "There may be some who, due to lack of information on this matter, think they are not eligible for a loan. Anyone who farmed in 1931 is eligible for a loan. If a man who has farmed for a number of years and for some reason beyond his control was not able to farm last year, and yet desires to farm this year, he, too, is eligible for a loan."

"In some cases there may be others who, due to the fact that they may have some other income from a source other than farming, think they are not eligible, but it is the size of the income that counts and not the fact that some other income may exist. Where commercial credit is not available regardless of the collateral or land a person may have, the government loan is available."

Other Information.

"Some may have tentative understanding with banks or individuals in regard to credit. Where this condition exists, farmers should have a definite understanding at once and then if they so desire they may make application for a government loan."

Any farmer may secure full information from the county committeemen, Harvey Shuler, Hugh Taylor and Berle Lewis, in regard to these loans, and if he desires to make application for a loan, he should do so at once.

About 100 of the outstanding applications have not received checks, most of them being held up because of failure to obtain second mortgage waivers.

Young People to Be District Hosts At M. E. Church

The Snyder Epworth League will be host to leaguers of the Sweetwater district Saturday and Sunday. Registration will begin at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, at the First Methodist Church, with Ruth Yoder, Carl Young and Mrs. Homer Snyder in charge.

A number of young people are expected from Post, Sweetwater, Big Spring and Colorado. They will be entertained in local homes.

Le Roy Fesmire and Mrs. W. W. Hamilton will give the addresses of welcome Saturday evening after registration. The response will be given by Miss Faye Smith of Post. Screen pictures illustrating Bible stories and sacred songs will be shown from 8:15 until 9 o'clock. An entertainment, including special music, pep songs and stunts, will then be held.

Rev. E. H. Young, host pastor, will have charge of the morning watch, 7:30 to 8:15 o'clock. The business meeting will follow. Union meetings will be held from 9 until 9:45. Dr. Yoder will preach the Sunday school class of leaguers, and Rev. Young will bring the sermon of the day. Lunch will be served at the church at 12:15.

Committee meetings will be held from 1 until 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and a song service will follow. Rev. J. Richard Spann of Big Spring will bring an inspirational address from 2:15 until 2:45. The final business meeting and presentation of cups and the banner, will conclude the program.

Mrs. H. H. Thomas underwent an operation at Lubbock Tuesday. She is said to be improving today. Mr. Thomas has been at her bedside.

OIL NOTES

Reports from the Blackburn well yesterday indicated that the drill was stepping along at 4,565 feet, in a sandy lime formation.

The well was featured by a visit of oil scouts from the Empire and Phillips companies, who have never been actively interested here.

Work on the Pender well in the eastern corner of the county, is continuing, slowly but surely, and the operators have full faith that a pay well can be found at a deeper strata. It is remembered that a large part of the Magnolia leases, by far the leading blocks in the county, are in that area.

Carload of Government Flour Being Distributed to Needy and Distressed

Distribution of a carload of government flour was begun here Tuesday, with the Scurry County Chamber of Commerce in charge. The flour was milled from government-owned wheat, and kindred allotments are being distributed in many parts of the United States, with the National Red Cross as the receiving agent.

The flour is stored in the Chamber of Commerce hall. It was unloaded Saturday. J. W. Scott is official distributor.

Under the Act of Congress which set aside millions of bushels of wheat for this purpose, flour may be had only for "needy and distressed people." As much care must be exercised in this distribution as in the expenditure of Red Cross funds, according to instructions from the Red Cross.

Each applicant for flour is carefully investigated, and detailed information about him and his family is maintained.

SNYDER TRACK SQUAD WINS TOP ABILENE HONORS, DUNN FOURTH

Howell Sets Pace for Dashers as McClintock Breaks District Low Hurdles Mark.

Another trophy was added to the Snyder High School collection Saturday when seven athletes, most of them penny-weights, led more than 100 schools from 13 counties in the district track and field meet at Abilene.

Abilene was beaten out of first place in the scoring this time, taking first in both short dash events, and fourth in the 800 run. He was third high point man in the meet.

Buck Howell shaded Bedford McClintock in the scoring this time, taking first in both short dash events, and fourth in the 800 run. He was third high point man in the meet.

The little McClintock, however, set a new low hurdles mark for the district when he breezed over the timbers in 24.9, clipping one and a half seconds from the record set by Jack Styles of Abilene six years ago.

Dunn Takes Fourth.

Morris Ashley of Dunn went in third in the 100 yard dash, probably because he won his events with such ease at the county meet—and returned wagging fourth place before the eyes of his bewildered Scurry County friends. He did it single-handed, taking first in the 120 yard high hurdles, first in the pole vault, and tying for third in the high jump.

Ashley's leap of 11 feet 5 inches with the pole set a new district record, bettered by one inch the mark set by T. Little of Putnam in 1930. He was next to high point man in the meet with his 11 1/2 tallies. Tack Dennis of Big Spring taking first honors with 13 points.

Elvynna's relay team jumped into the scoring column when it took third in the piece-meals race. McGuire, Moore, Lemons and Prigent compose the squad.

How Snyder Won It.

Snyder's full scoring was accounted for like this:

Howell—First in 100 yard dash; 10.2 seconds. Fourth in 800 yard dash. First in 200-yard dash; 22.7 seconds.

McClintock—First in low hurdles; 26.4 seconds. Second in high hurdles. Second in 100 yard dash.

Fesmire—Second in 800 yard run. White—Third in low hurdles. Pitner—Fourth in mile run.

They say McClintock was a beauty in the low hurdles race, and Red Moore, coach, thinks the youngster will take the state meet the first week-end in May. He struck the tape just about the time his closest rival cleared the last hurdle, relates Prexy Anderson.

Big Spring entered the relay with a mathematical chance to beat out Snyder for the championship. A fine effort by the Steers, however, got them nothing better than second place, Abilene winning.

Snyder took more first places—three—than any other team entered. Big Spring and Dunn were next with two each.

Hostess to Daughters.

Mrs. J. H. Henderson was week-end hostess at a gathering of her three daughters, Mrs. Hugh Cathey and children of Portales, New Mexico; Mrs. Walter Westers and children of Knapox and Mr. and Mrs. D. Allen of Sweetwater.

Galileans Return From Texas Wilds After Health Trip

You won't know those wandering Galileans by the mountains they keep. There's a possibility that you might have known 'em when they wheeled into town from a 25-day stay on the Rio Grande—for health's sweet sake—Wednesday afternoon. But there were wives to consider.

Even today you'd hardly recognize them; Abe Rogers and Willard Jones, you know. They have the music of running waters in their eyes, the blood of many suns in their faces, and the fat of many fishes in their belt hangers.

Or maybe you'll know 'em by the fish and Ford stories they tell.

DERMOTT BEST RURAL SCHOOL

Dermott was given the highest ranking in any Scurry County school, according to the official score card just issued by A. A. Bullock, county superintendent.

Bison was a close second, with 1625 points to Dermott's 1035. No other schools rated as high as 1000 points.

Other schools are in the following order:

Emis Creek	961
Woodard	929
China Grove	902
Strayhorn	890
Turner	885
Plainview	883
Canyon	880
Guinn	875
Loyal Mountain	866
Getman	855
Bethel	840
Sulphur	837
Crowder	830
Arah	830
Camp Springs	828
Independence	815
Lone Wolf	805
Gannaway	794
Cotton Wood	705

Eight graded points are required for a standard school. For the plant—grounds, buildings, and school house and equipment—500 points are possible. The teachers, pupils and community are graded a possible 500 points. Additional credits are given for "Special Points of Merit."

Dermott and Bison have been among the leaders on the score card for some time.

The program, clinic and many special features will make the 1932 session one of the best in years, think Dr. and Mrs. Towle.

BUSINESS MEN JOIN HEARTILY IN CITY DRIVE

Beauty as Well as Material Gain Seen in Yard and Garden Contest for Snyder.

Interest in the Snyder Yard and Garden contest reached a high peak yesterday when the prize committee announced that almost 30 merchants have agreed to give cash and merchandise for prizes.

Mrs. C. R. Buchanan, chairman of the prize committee, with her assistants, Mrs. O. P. Thrane and Mrs. R. D. English, say they were given remarkable encouragement by the business men, who see in the contest an opportunity not only to beautify their own, but to increase property values and increase town prestige and pride.

The committee chairman, meeting yesterday, set May 7 as the closing date for entries, and July 15 as the closing date for the contest. Mrs. C. F. Sentell is in charge of entries. She reports a city-wide interest in the contest.

Plants to Each Entry.

The prize list was materially increased yesterday by Mrs. Roland Bell, chairman of the education committee, who stated that Bell's Flower Shop will give a small pot plant to each entry, regardless of whether a prize is won by the entry. Mrs. Bell has offered her services without cost as advisor concerning planting and planning for all contestants.

It should be remembered that contestants are classified according to how work is done on their yards and gardens, thus giving the small contestant an equal chance with those having large grounds and plenty of help.

In Class 1 are those who do all their work. Class 2 includes those who hire some of their work done, but who do most of the work themselves. Class 3 is for those who have the services of a gardener.

A BIG-TIME BIOGRAPHY OF A HOME GIRL.

It is the custom of magazines and daily newspapers to give biographical sketches of their new writers. The Times is adopting the plan this week because it wants its readers to know about Miss Lancaster Robinson who is writing a series of stories for West Texas children. The first story appeared two weeks ago. The second story, "Grain 'o Sand," appears this week, and you may expect another each week, with few exceptions, hereafter.

Miss Robinson has written a short life history of herself at our request. We know you will enjoy it.—The Editors.

I was born at Abilene, Texas, where we lived until I was past eight. Then we homesteaded in New Mexico. That was a great adventure. About sixty families, including ours and my uncle's, moved into the "Six Shooter" pasture about the same time. We children had a great time, getting acquainted and exploring, always looking out for rattlesnakes, however, for they were everywhere. No one had ever lived there before, you see, to disturb their slumber. There were no roads and no school house, of course. My two cousins, boys of about our own ages, and my little sister and myself had lessons at home, with Mother as teacher, for awhile. Then we went into Fortales for the spring term. The second year, we had to ride five miles but that was only fun to us children, however our parents may have felt about it.

After the three years' residence required for homesteading, we moved to Clovis, New Mexico, where I finished high school. Four years later, I graduated from Daniel Baker College, at Brownwood. Since my father moved to Snyder, so this is my home, now.

As to my writing: I have not done much. I edited the school paper and did a lot of writing for it, in high school. Also, I was editor of the high school annual, my senior year. At the urgent request of my teacher, I wrote an article for a magazine and was shocked when it was promptly accepted. But, so far, my story telling has been verbal.

Ever since I can remember, almost, I have liked to sit down and "spin off" stories. Always without previous consideration. Children listen to them in wide-eyed interest. So mother has been urging me to write some of them and, see if children do not enjoy them that way quite as much. She wants me to try the home paper and Mr. Snyder has been kind enough to let me try. So, if your children do enjoy them, will you not tell me so. I should so much like to know.

GRAIN 'O SAND

By Lancaster Robinson

A STORY FOR CHILDREN

Grain 'O Sand was holding tight to the ground where he lay at the foot of a grass root, for Mr. West Wind was beginning to blow. Only the day before Grain 'O Sand had seen nearly all the other little grains he had been playing with, blown clear across the prairie. All that saved Grain 'O Sand was the tall grass above him, and he had been so glad it was there.

But now the grass was gone. Last night he had been trying to count the tallest stars in the sky, for he had counted the large ones—long ago, as you might, too, if you slept under them every night. But, just as he was pointing three fingers at once to keep them separated, he had to grab with both hands to keep his hair from blowing clear off his head! He and all the other sand grains whirled and danced about each other, bumped heads and bounced around. Then when Grain 'O Sand's breath was almost squeezed out of him by all the grains falling on top of him, something said in a loud voice, "Moo-oo-oo!"

"A cow," cried all the little grains together.

Sure enough it was, and she had bitten off the big bunch of grass, and almost blown them away with her breath as she did it. Grain 'O Sand knew that Mr. West Wind would have no trouble getting him now. That's why he was holding to the ground with all his might.

"Whee-ee-ee, whee-ee-ee, whee-uu-uu," began Mr. West Wind. Then "Whee-uu-uu, whuff, whuff!" and louder and louder until Grain 'O Sand began to see many of his cousins blowing over his head. He rolled up nearer the grass root for protection. Soon the whole sky became filled with sand, and Mr. West Wind howled and puffed, swelling his cheeks away to blow still harder and drive all the grains of sand away from home.

"Stop that, stop that, I say! Let me come!" cried a squeaky voice coming toward Grain 'O Sand. He looked up to see Aunt Nancy Pebble tugging at her skirts, with her spectacles shaken clear down over her nose. Grain 'O Sand suddenly

PAINS QUIT COMING

"When I was a girl, I suffered periodically with terrible pains in my back and sides. Often I would bend almost double with the intense pain. This would last for hours and I could get no relief.

"I tried almost everything that was recommended to me, but found nothing that would help until I began taking Cardui. My mother thought it would be good for me, so she got a bottle of Cardui and started me taking it. I soon improved. The bad spells quit coming. I was soon in normal health."

Veterans Appeal To Business Men For Bonus Help

By BROWN and DODSON

Do the business men and citizens of Scurry County want the ex-service men of this county and state to receive the balance of their "bonus" now? Do you want to see approximately $100,000 cash brought into this county? Do you believe that this sum at this time would benefit the people of Scurry County and help chase "old man gloom" from our midst?

Those interested in the affairs of the local Legion Post are strong for the payment of the bonus at this time and are firm in their opinion that it can be paid without interfering in any way with the finances of our federal government and without increasing taxes one cent. They say that a sinking fund was provided at the time the "bonus" bill was passed by Congress in 1924 to retire this obligation when it matured in 1945. This tax to provide this sinking fund, which at this time amounts to $200,000,000 per year, will continue to be collected whether the bonus is paid or not. If the bonus is not paid or is permitted to run until maturity, the present rate on interest charged the ex-service men on their own money will entirely eat up 80 per cent of the certificates and the ex-service men will be left "holding the sack."

If you are in sympathy with the payment of the bonus movement, show your colors by writing to our United States Senators, Morris Sheppard and Tom Connally, and our representative from this district, Marvin Jones, and tell them that you want this money put into circulation. Tell them that you are not ex-service men nor members of the American Legion as this information will have much influence on the way they vote on the bill. The united cooperation of the business men and citizens of Scurry County will be appreciated by every ex-service man in this territory.

This bill may come up for a vote in the House of Representatives and at any time and you should write your letter without any loss of time.

Mrs. W. R. Merrill had guests Sunday, her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Davidson of Ladonia, Mrs. Merrill's uncle, D. Brown of Anson, and Mrs. Ida Ghes and son, Fulton, of Ladonia.

Plant Exchange Saturday Proves Helpful Success

The exchange held Saturday afternoon at the Bell's Flower Shop sponsored by the Better Homes Committee of Snyder proved to be a decided success.

Birds, yard and pot plants, canned goods and domestic sacks were the articles exchanged. The Bell's Flower Shop presented Mrs. C. C. Head with a beautiful fern for exchanging the most Saturday, and have stated that they will also give a prize to the lady who exchanges the most this Saturday.

Mrs. Boss Stavelly of Fluvanna will be in charge this week. She, with the chairman, Mrs. W. R. Bell, and helpers, Mrs. C. P. Swan of Dunn, Mrs. Davidson of Camp Springs and Miss Minnie Lee Williams of Hernalleigh, are urging both rural and town women to attend the exchanges from 2:30 until 3:30 o'clock each Saturday at the Bell's Flower Shop.

No charge is being made for the privilege of exchanging surplus articles of any kind.

Students Presented In Palace Program

The high school band, choral club and one-act play cast were presented at the Palace Theatre Friday evening by Homer F. Springfield, director of the three groups.

Following several well received numbers by the band, the choral club of 30 girls, all dressed in flowing frocks, was presented in two numbers.

Dawson Bridgeman, Ida Sue Williams and Charles W. were presented by the one-act play "The Story of Othello" which they won third prize in the recent district tournament. They were given a hearty applause. The brief tragedy was written by E. J. Anderson of Snyder.

That the soldier bonus should be paid immediately, and in full, was the substance of Mr. Chilton's telegram.

Two well known Sweetwater citizens were signally honored during the meeting, with Judge A. S. Mauzey and Lon Geer being brought into their applications by National Commander George Lunn, former Lieutenant Governor of New York state, and by Department Commander Henry F. Geyer of San Antonio.

A quantity of fruit and other merchandise was taken Tuesday night, but the prowlers were scared away Friday night before much damage was done.

No trace of the raiders has been found by officers.

J'EVER STOP TO THINK?
 By EDSON R. WAITE

Now is the time that we should try to be optimistic and look forward with courage, individual and collective, in the hopes that the near future will bring better things. If the cause of the world crisis were a deficiency in production, it would be a more serious matter than it is, since the task of curing it would be extremely difficult. Fortunately, it is not a crisis of production for, on account of the increasing application of science the productivity of the land and of the workshop has grown rapidly especially in recent years.

Here we have the fact of extending output, bringing misery in its train, a result of human endeavor not designed by Providence and which should not be tolerated by man. It is not human desire that set the limit to consumption, but purchasing capacity.

The science of the money merchant has not progressed in the same ratio as the production of world commodities, and as a result there is an inadequate supply of currency and credit. To secure stability in the general level of prices the quantity of money must increase as fast as production adds to the quantity of goods coming to market.

We want economic progress to move forward. It is appalling to read day by day of the distress existent and at the same time note that the so-called cause is "over-production."

The possibility of existing circumstances being changed should kindle the inborn optimism of mankind to burst forth once again and to turn from the present close study of obstacles, probabilities of failure and kindred thoughts which provoke pessimistic predictions and breed pessimism. Optimism, a boundless Optimism, forms the basis of all human ideas and progress; so let us in this year before us divest ourselves of the mantle of pessimism and don that of OPTIMISM.

Snyder, Texas, Thursday, April 21, 1932

The Times Creed.

For the cause that needs assistance;
For the wrongs that need resistance;
For the future in the distance,
And the good that we can do.

THE WEEKLY DOZEN.

Before and After the Campaign.
Candidates make a race, but it takes a man of ability and integrity to hold an office in a manner that will serve the people and their pocketbooks.

Cotton May Make the Woman.
Feminism Pete opines that if the style show did no more than prove that cotton really can make the woman, it would have accomplished its purpose, since some of our matrons and misses have had it in their heads that silk is the only handmaiden of fashion.

It's All in the Way You Look.
It's not what you see, but how you see it, that counts. Take the case of the Two Wandering Jews from Snyder, for instance. They found beauty in the vastness of solitudes on the Rio Grande, and health beneath the back-scorching rays of the Southwest Texas sun.

Another Scurry County Writer.
Have you read the story by Miss Roberson on another page of The Times? It is written by a Scurry County girl who has a knack and a training and an experience for stories that are truly West Texas in spirit and environment.

The Contest Shows Promise.
With several entries already accounted for, the Yard and Garden contest promises to bring forth some real effort on the part of Snyder people. The appealing feature of this contest is that it requires nothing to join and little outlay of money to win a prize.

Weather and the Depression.
The extremes in West Texas weather are just one of the reasons why the depression doesn't seem so bad out here. Over in East Texas, where an occasional cyclone is about the only unusual thing between rain and heat and dampness, the folks think they have had a depression after one year of short prices and short crops.

The Golden Rule Backfires.
Every person who has expressed an opinion to us recently concerning the government has expressed a thorough desire to see some tax-paying necks broken—as long as one of them doesn't belong to him.

The Seriousness of the Oil.
The oil news printed in this paper last week has evidently proven of interest to many men and women. Once, when farm products were at their peak and farmers could buy new automobiles when they wanted them, oil speculation and leasing and wildcatting was considered something of a lark.

A new Brand of Philosophy.
Robert Quillen, that gifted philosopher who writes in The Dallas News each day, said the other day that the best thing for the United States to do is to learn that Santa Claus is not coming, and to buckle down to meet situations as they present themselves.

Truly a West Texan.
Tom Hunter of Wichita Falls is making a decided ripple on the gubernatorial waters. Even the little news letters from the utilities of the state are admitting it, whereas they almost scoffed when he first announced.

Brain vs. Brawn Again.

Something must be wrong with Scurry County schools when they can take only one first place in district interscholastic League literary events.

About 50 literary placings were made from the 13 counties composing the Abilene district. We won only two of them—a first and a third.

Scurry County schools are not accustomed to being left behind. They sent a handful of athletes who won almost as many points as any other two counties combined.

Yet they allow smaller schools, as a rule, to steal most of the League honors in literary events.

Perhaps it is unjust to say that athletics is being over-emphasized. But certainly it is true that literary events are not being emphasized enough.

In the first place some of our counties will finally collect less than 90 per cent of taxes assessed against the current fiscal year, which ends June 30.

We should keep in mind that a year ago farmers were paying taxes with what money they had left from wheat at 50 to 70 cents a bushel, cotton at 8 to 9 cents a pound, hogs at 6 to 7 cents a pound and cattle at 6 to 8 cents.

Consider for a moment that farm prices the last winter have been just about one-half of what they were a year before. In other words, farmers in total will have only half as much money with which to pay taxes and other expenses.

Another reason why certain counties are going to face deficit is that the miscellaneous income for the current year will be below the estimate.

The estimate of this miscellaneous income for the current year is that amount which was received from the year previous.

Business of all kinds is dropping down, including business done in our various county offices. The county which estimates a miscellaneous revenue of $30,000 for the current year will do well to get $25,000.

The estimated highway fund available to each county for the current year is the exact amount received last year. No county will receive its expected fund.

The first job of every taxpayers' association now organized, or to be organized, should be (1) a study of expenditures to date against the different items in the different funds; (2) a study of miscellaneous revenues to date in relation to the expected income; and (3) an special study of expenditures in the highway fund.

Drastic economy in every department of county government during the remainder of this fiscal year may yet prevent a deficit.

The taxpayers' association of the county should place the responsibility squarely on officers to prevent this thing from happening.—Clarence Roberts in the Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman.

Saying It In Rhyme.

DO NOT JUDGE TOO HARD.
Pray don't find fault with the man who limps
Or stumbles along the road.
Unless you have worn the shoes he wears
Or struggled beneath his load.
There may be ticks in his shoes that hurt,
The hidden away from view,
Or the burden he bears, placed on your back.
Might cause you to stumble too.
Don't sneer at the man who's down today,
Unless you have felt the blow
That caused his fall, or felt the same
That only the fallen know.
You may be strong, but still the blows
That were his, if dealt to you
In the self-same way at the self-same time,
Might cause you to stagger too.
Don't be too harsh with the man who sins
Or pelt him with words or stones,
Unless you are sure, yes, doubly sure,
That you have no sins of your own.
For you know, perhaps, if the tempter's voice
Should whisper as soft to you
As it did to him when he went astray,
'Twould cause you to falter too.

Cooperation for Oil Activities Is Attorney's Idea

C. F. Sentell, local attorney, has written the following article on Scurry County oil development, at the request of The Times:

Many of us have lived long enough to learn that it does not pay and does not go to knock and kick, but that it does pay to work for what we want, and to co-operate with the fellow who is driving that way, so let's all join in with the movement for the development of an oil field in Scurry County.

In the last issue of the Scurry County Times, M. Z. Dibble is quoted as saying, "I came to Scurry County in 1925, believing there was an oil field here. I still think so more than ever, and I'm going to keep on drilling here. Oil in the ground, undiscovered, will not do anybody any good, but discovered and opened up will do the whole county a great deal of good."

I once knew an old man who walked five miles and sat on the floor to hear a smart man make a great speech, and when some attention was paid to him, he answered, "If that man can afford to put in so much time to get up such a speech and come here to deliver it, I can afford to walk five miles and sit on the floor long enough to get what he says."

Local Men Planning To Attend Feeders' Day for West Texas

Several Snyder men plan to attend the All-West Texas Feeders' Day program at the Spur Experiment Station next Friday, according to C. F. Sentell, who will be one of the group.

For the past fifteen years the Spur station has been active in improving the feed crops of West Texas and in determining the value of grains when fed to cattle and sheep. It has been determined through a long series of experiments that the sorghum grains have approximately the feeding value of shelled corn.

This test will close on April 22, at which time a General West Texas Feeders' Meeting will be held at the Spur Station. Cattle feeders, county agents, and newspaper men throughout West Texas have already expressed their intention of being present.

SYNOPSIS

Six people, Horace Johnson (who tells the story), his wife, old Mrs. Dane, Herbert Robinson and his wife, Alice, and Dr. Sperry, friends and neighbors, are in the habit of holding weekly meetings. At one of them, Mrs. Dane, who is hostess, varies the program by unexpectedly arranging a spiritualistic seance with Miss Jeremy, a friend of Dr. Sperry and not a professional, as the medium.

At the first sitting the medium tells the details of a murder as it is occurring. Later that night Sperry learns that a neighbor, Arthur Wells, has been shot mysteriously. With Johnson he goes to the Wells residence and they find confirmation of the medium's account. Mrs. Wells tells them her husband shot himself in a fit of depression.

The French maid admits she was out at the time Wells was shot, telephoning from a nearby drug store. Johnson goes to the drug store where the clerk tells him the maid phoned to the Ellingham house, telling someone there "not to call that night."

At a second seance, Miss Jeremy adds details about a summer resort where Charles Ellingham was known to have been at the same time that Mrs. Wells was there. She also speaks of a pocketbook being lost which contained some important cards and letters. Mrs. Dane, alone of the women, seems thrilled by the investigation.

Johnson goes alone and investigates the deserted house. He is frightened by strange noises, as of an intruder in the house, but completes his investigation.

He visits Mrs. Dane and tells her how he had carried off the fire-tongs and left behind his overcoat. His excitement. She then tells him she had advertised for the finder of the pocketbook and turns over to Johnson an answer she had received from one having guilty knowledge of the crime. Dr. Sperry announces he is to be married to Miss Jeremy when the club meets again.

Hawkins, the butler, is identified as being the person who answered Mrs. Dane's advertisement. Johnson's missing overcoat is mailed to him, but the letters contained in a pocket are missing. Sperry accompanied by Johnson, makes another search in Wells' house for the letters written by the slayer.

Our inspection of the curtains was hurried, but finally we found what we were looking for. In the lining of one of the curtains, near the bottom, a long, ragged cut had been made.

"Cut in a hurry, with curved scissors," was Sperry's comment. "Probably manœuvre scissors."

The result was a sort of pocket in the curtain, concealed on the chintz side, which was the side which would hang toward the room.

"Probably," he said, "the curtain would have been better. It would have stayed anyhow. Whereas the bag—" He was flushed with triumph. "How in the world would Hawkins know that?" he demanded. "You can talk all you like. She's told us things that no one ever told her."

"We'll have a go at the floors under the carpets now," he said. The dressing-room had a large rug, like the nursery above it, turning back the carpet was a simple matter.

There had been a stain beneath where the dead man's head had lain, but it had been scrubbed and scraped away. The boards were white for an area of a square foot or so.

Sperry eyed the spot with indifference. "Not essential," he said. "Shows good housekeeping. That's all. The point is, are there other spots?"

And, after a time, we found what we were after. The upper wall was scraped, and my penknife came into requisition to lift the tacks. They came up rather easily, as if but recently put in. That, indeed, proved to be the case.

Just outside the dressing-room door the boards for an area of two square feet or more beneath the carpet had been scraped and scrubbed. With the lifting of the carpet came, too, a strong odor, as of ammonia. But the stain of blood had absolutely disappeared.

Sperry, kneeling on the floor with the candle held close, examined the wood. "Not only scrubbed," he said, "but scraped down, probably with a floor-scraper. It's pretty clear, Horace. The poor devil fell here. There was a struggle, and he went down. He lay here for a while, too, until some plan was thought out. A man does not usually kill himself in a hallway. It's a sort of solitary deed. He fell here, and was dragged into the room. The angle of the bullet in the ceiling would probably show it came from here, too, and went through the doorway."

It was sitting on, so I suggested we give up further searching. We reached Mrs. Dane's, to find that Miss Jeremy had already arrived, looking rather pale, as I had noticed she always did before a seance. Her color had faded, and her eyes seemed sunken in her head.

"Not ill, are you?" Sperry asked her, as he took her hand. "Not at all. But I am anxious, I always am. These things do not come for the calling."

"This is the last time. You have promised."

"Yes. The last time."

For our last seance, Herbert Robinson, who had been reading up psychic literature, said he had arranged things to convince us all of the genuineness of any phenomena that might appear.

Herbert placed Miss Jeremy in her chair, and proceeded to wrap her, chair and all, in a strong network of fine threads, drawn sufficiently taut to snap with any movement.

He was finished by placing her feet on the sheet of paper, and outlining their position there with a pencil line.

The proceedings were saved from absurdity by what we all felt was the extreme gravity of the situation. There was present in the room Mrs.

Dane, the Robinsons, Sperry, my wife and myself. Clara, Mrs. Dane's secretary, had begged off on the plea of nervousness from the earlier and physical portion of the seance, and was to remain outside in the hall until the trance commenced.

Sperry objected to this, as movement in the circle during the trance had, in the first seance, induced treful uneasiness in the medium. But Clara, appealed to, begged to be allowed to remain outside until she was required, and showed such unmistakable nervousness that we finally agreed.

"Would a slight noise disturb her?" Mrs. Dane asked. "Miss Jeremy thought not, if the circle remained unbroken, and Mrs. Dane considered."

"Bring me my stick from the hall, Horace," she said. "And tell Clara I'll rap on the floor with it when I want her."

I found a stick in the rack outside and brought it in. The lights were still on in the chandelier overhead, and as I gave the stick to Mrs. Dane I heard Sperry speaking sharply behind me.

"Where did you get that stick?" he demanded. "In the hall. I—" "I never saw it before," said Mrs. Dane. "Perhaps it is Herbert's."

But I caught Sperry's eye. We had both recognized it. It was Arthur Wells's, the one which Sperry had taken from his room and which in turn, had been taken from Sperry's library.

Sperry was watching me with a sort of cynical amusement. "You're an absent-minded beggar, Horace," he said. "You didn't, by any chance, stop here on your way back from my place the other night, did you?"

"I did. But I didn't bring that thing."

"Now," he continued, turning to the medium, "the man is dead, and the revolver is beside him. Did he kill himself?"

"No. He attacked her when he found the letters."

"And she shot him?" "I can't tell you that."

"Try very hard; it is important."

"I don't know," was the fretful reply. "She may have. She says she did."

"She says she killed him?" "But there was no reply to this, although Herbert repeated it several times."

Instead, the voice of the "control" began to recite a verse of poetry—a cheap, sentimental bit of trash. It was maddening, under the circumstances.

"You know where the letters are?" "Hawkins has them."

"They were not hidden in the curtain." This was Sperry. "No. The trap might have searched the room."

"Where were these letters?" "There was no direct reply to this, but instead:

"He found them when he was looking for his razorstrap. They were in the top of a closet. His revolver was there, too. He went back and got it. It was terrible."

"There was a profound silence, followed by a slight exclamation from Sperry as he leaped to his feet. The screen at the end of the room, which cut off the light from Clara's candle, was toppling. The next instant it fell, and we saw Clara sprawled over her table, in a death faint."

In this, the final chapter of the record of these seances, I shall give as briefly as possible, the events of the day following the third sitting.

On Tuesday morning I awakened after an uneasy night. I knew certain things, knew them definitely in the clear light of morning. Hawkins had the letters that Arthur Wells had found; that was one thing. I had not taken Ellingham's stick to Mrs. Dane's house; that was another. I had not done it. I had placed it on the table and had not touched it again.

"Do those were immaterial, compared with one outstanding fact. Any supernatural would imply full knowledge by whatever power had controlled the medium. And there was not full knowledge. (To Be Continued.)"

Robinson bound the medium to her chair and traced her feet on a sheet of white paper.

THE 1932 YEAR BOOK OUR HISTORY OF 1931

In many lines of industry the largest companies reduced their output in 1931. Those who furnished them with raw materials had, at best, restricted markets.

Swift & Company's 1932 Year Book, now ready, tells how this nation-wide, diversified marketing organization met conditions in a better way.

1. It kept its doors open and handled more pounds of products than in 1930.
2. It continued to pay cash for all its bought.
3. In more than a hundred produce stations it held to the policy of purchasing all the poultry, eggs and dairy products offered by farmers.
4. Still more important, Swift & Company cut its own costs.

Thirty years of experience have proved that the most economical way to market produce is through the same channels that handle meats. The same salesmen sell, the same refrigerator cars transport, the same branch houses sell and deliver the whole Swift & Company line of fine foods, such as Swift's Premium Hams and Bacon, Swift's Premium Milk-Fed Chicken, Golden West Fowl, Swift's Brookfield Butter, Eggs, Cheese and many other products.

Read the 1932 Year Book. It explains how a rounded line makes Swift & Company operations stable and how diversification lessens the costs of handling, both meat and produce. It takes the mystery out of the factors that go to make price levels. And it tells in detail the steps this Company has taken to make itself still more efficient in covering the gap between hundreds of thousands of producers and millions of consumers.

Your copy awaits you. Ask your local Swift Produce Plant or use the coupon below.

Reporter Rides in New Ford V-8 and Has a Talk About It With Mr. Henry

By a Times Reporter.
Monday morning I rode in the new Ford V-8.

I was all set for a thrill—and Horace Eiland gave it to me. Mayor H. G. Towle, Cashier A. C. Alexander and Hotelkeeper E. M. Deakins were passengers on that V-8's first official trip about Snyder, too.

Most of the thrills came while the mayor was driving, for I had plenty of chance to figure out the escapement conveniences of the 1932 creation.

When I took my first airplane ride, the first thrill of the event was soon swallowed by the thought that man is a conqueror of metal and leather and wood and electricity and beauty.

That thought returned Monday. I somehow imagined that Henry Ford's personality was riding along with me in this wise, and why this design was considered better than that design, and how the new car was superior to its fellows.

In reality, the Ford features outlined below were discussed by Ed Phillips, Dallas representative of the Ford Motor Company, and C. C. Harrison of Dallas, zone manager, as hundreds of people visited the car at the Scurry County Motor Company show rooms Monday and Tuesday.

But it was easy for me to imagine, as I lounged between Towle and Deakins on that pioneering ride, that the Henry Ford who is a pioneer in his own right was telling us, from his everlasting abiding place between swanky radiator cap and graceful rear fender:

"Notice that the new Ford is large, long, roomy, fast, powerful and alert. Its V-8 engine develops 65 horsepower and it is capable of 75 miles an hour.

"Fourteen body styles of modern streamline design are offered. A four-cylinder engine developing 50 horsepower also can be supplied at a lower price with any of these body types.

"Numerous mechanical advances are incorporated in the new car. These embrace a synchronized silent gear shift and silent second gear, rubber engine mountings, automatic spark control, down-draft carburetor and carburetor silencer, fuel pump and rear fuel tank.

"The new Ford V-8 engine is remarkably free from vibration. Frequent and overlapping impulses deliver the power in a smooth, constant flow.

"The rugged new double-drop frame is formed to the shape of the body and, with the new low rear spring, provides a low center of gravity, with consequent increase in roadability.

"The riding comfort of the cars is due to many factors, but particularly to the new flexible transverse cantilever springs, larger tires, rubber insulation and the newly designed shock absorbers."

I shall not forget that ride. Nor do I want to forget, "You'll like the new Ford, for a' that, even if you haven't been lucky enough to ride in it yet."

Methodist Church

S. H. Young, Pastor

We are delighted to report the new activities in the church which are doing fine work and promise of greater service in the future. The "Cub" Scout organization under Le Roy Fesmire and Hal Yoder has enrolled eighteen boys. These are boys under the Scout age. The junior choir, which meets each Sunday afternoon led by Mrs. Carl Yoder, Mrs. W. W. Smith and others; an orchestra under the management of Mrs. Hardy and Mrs. Davidson will be a great addition to the program of the Young People's Department of the church. The pastor is especially delighted with the fine response on the part of many to carry forward the good work of the church. Next Saturday and Sunday the Young People's Department of the church in the Sweetwater district will meet with the Snyder church. Homes are being secured for about one hundred and fifty visitors, rooms Saturday night and breakfast Sunday morning. There has been a fine response on the part of the folks at home, but a few more homes are needed. Quite a number of the women of the church attended the Conference meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society at Abilene last week. A play, "The Pledge Dollar," written by Mrs. D. P. Yoder and given at the Abilene meeting by Mrs. Yoder and Mrs. Gray, received many favorable comments. A supply of printed copies of the play was sold and the proceeds went to buy a typewriter for one of the missionaries in China. We are looking for you at Sunday School and Church next Sunday.

NEW TEXACO FIRE CHIEF GAS IS INTRODUCED TO COUNTY USERS

Production for the commercial market of government specification gasoline first refined in 1931 for fire engines, ambulances, military vehicles and other emergency equipment, has been announced here by the Texas Company.

The company announcement said the new fuel, to be known as "Fire-Chief" gasoline, would replace the original "dry gasoline" introduced in 1926. No extra cost to the consumer will be involved in the change.

No specifications of the new product were given out, although Kenneth G. Mackenzie, consulting chemist for the company, was quoted as saying that the octane number of the new gas has been materially improved and the highest government specifications for distillation range and vapor pressure have been surpassed.

It's A New Product.

The announcement said: "Texaco Fire-Chief, a new gasoline, has been made available in the retail market of the United States. This new motor fuel replaces the company's original 'dry gasoline,' itself an outstanding product among gasolines. When 'dry gasoline' was introduced in 1926 it was a revolutionary step forward in the development of motor fuels, providing as it did easy starting, quick acceleration, maintenance of power, freedom from crankcase dilution, complete combustion, greater mileage and high anti-knock rating. In warm weather when the engine became heated, the fuel continued to burn evenly and completely, with entire absence of so-called vapor lock. "The Texas Company, however, continued its efforts to develop an even better fuel, a fuel which under the adverse conditions could be relied upon. Meanwhile, the U. S. government, some little time ago, specified a gasoline known as 'Motor Fuel V' for use in emergency equipment, such as fire-engines, ambulances and military vehicles. This type of fuel naturally had to provide quick starts and speed without sacrifice of power.

Quickly Goes Up.

"The Texas Company proceeded to manufacture a gasoline that would meet or surpass these rigid specifications. At first this fuel was manufactured in limited quantities, but its extraordinary value soon became apparent. Then, recognizing the value to motorists of a fuel of this type, our refining engineers equipped all Texaco plants to manufacture fuel of this grade. Moreover, millions of gallons of gasoline made according to the former standard were brought back to the Port Arthur refinery to be brought up to the new Fire-Chief quality.

"This new product will be sold at no extra price, an advantage made possible by our large scale produc-

"Cub" Scout Troop Being Formed Here

Eighteen youngsters of the First Methodist Church, led by Le Roy Fesmire and Hal Yoder, met at the church house Monday evening to organize a "Cub" Boy Scout troop. Interest ran so high in the new organization that the leaders expect at least 25 or 30 boys when the next meeting is held Monday night at 7:30 o'clock.

Boys between 9 and 12 years of age are eligible for membership.

specialized engineering developments and distribution in the forty-eight states."

The news of this super-power gasoline is being broadcast throughout the country by one of the most exciting, dramatic advertising campaigns ever put behind any gasoline.

Gay McGlaun, Scurry County Texaco agent, advises that Fire-Chief gasoline is available at Texaco dealer stations throughout the county.

RABBIT DRIVES ARE PLENTIFUL

Scurry County's champion rabbit drive season is hitting a high stride this week.

On the heels of six or eight previous drives, good-sized slaughter was recorded in the Gannaway community Wednesday. Plenty of barbecue and other eats were served at noon.

Hunters are invading the Pyron country today, where the long-eared animals are said to be more than plentiful.

It is reported that a drive will also be staged in the Arach country today.

The W. M. Scott ranch, south of town, will be the scene of a drive Friday, with barbecue, beans and other West Texas delicacies being promised for lunch.
