San Souci Club Members and Guests Entertained In Cunningham Home

Mmes. Albert Norred, C. Wedgeworth and R. L. Williams and Misses Opal Wedgeworth and Mattie Ross and Maurine Cunningham entertained the San Souci Club and guests Tuesday evening at the Cunningham home, 3403 Avenue N.

A profusion of cut flowers and bluebonnets made the entertaining rooms unusually attractive.

After enjoyable bridge games, high score prizes were awarded to Mrs. G. B. Clark Jr., guest, and Mrs. Melvin Blackard, member.

A most delicious refreshment plate was passed to the following guests: Mmes. J. C. Stinson, E. E. Wallace, P. W. Cloud, Max Brownfield, W. D. Beggs, Violet McKnight, W. T. Raybon, J. G. Hicks, Wraymond Sims, Herbert Bannister, A. J. Towle, R. S. Sullivan, A. C. Prentiss, G. B. Clark Jr., Misses Mary Markey and Ora Norred; and to out-of-town guests, Mrs. J. H. Anderson and Miss Emma Anderson of Abilene and Mrs. Pearl Shannon of Colorado; and to members: Mmes. James R. Hicks, J. M. Harris, E. J. Anderson, Melvin Blackard, Forest Sears, Misses Hattie and Gertrude Herm, Neoma Strayhorn, Bonnie Gary, Maggie Norred and Blanche Mitchell.

Flower Exchange Is Progressing.

The free flower exchange being sponsored by the Twentieth Century Club is progressing in a fine way, according to Mrs. J. E. LeMond, chairman.

If there are any town or rural women wishing certain flowers or plants, or have a surplus that they would like to share with others, the committee requests that they call Mrs. LeMond, 4933. She will list your flowers or your wants.

The ladies who list their surplus flowers or plants in the paper are anxious to share them and do not expect something in exchange. If one would like to have some violets, she will call the chairman; the committee will locate them for her, and she is not expected to exchange something for them but to share them.

The following are listed this week:

Mrs. H. J. Brice, 2712 Avenue N, canna lilies and saintina to share.

Mrs. C. E. Fish, 2901 Avenue W, elders to share.

Mrs. W. T. Raybon, 1312 Avenue W, violets to share.

Mrs. J. C. Dorward, 1908 Thirtieth Street, daisies and honeysuckle to share.

Mrs. W. C. Hamilton, 1612 Twenty-Seventh Street, leopard's tongue and pot plants to share.

Mrs. W. J. Ely, 2701 Avenue U, canna lilies to share.

Mrs. Ixon Joyce, 1102 Twenty-Sixth Street, lavender perennial phlox to share.

Mrs. J. E. LeMond, 1100 Twenty-Sixth Street, red and yellow canna and Marguerite and shasta daisies to share.

Wanted: Pink or rose perennial phlox.

Mrs. J. T. Whitmore Attends Annual Meeting of District Federated Clubs

Among the 150 delegates expected to be in Canadian Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week for the eleventh annual convention of the Seventh District Federation of Women's Clubs is Mrs. J. T. Whitmore of Snyder, past president of the district. Mrs. Whitmore left Monday for the three-day meet.

A well balanced program has been arranged by Mrs. Tom Rose of Pampa and Mrs. George W. Henderson of Canadian, assisted by various committees.

The convention opened Wednesday noon with a luncheon that honored the district board members. Mrs. J. A. Hill, district president, presided Wednesday afternoon when the formal opening of the convention was held. Other district officers are: Mrs. Q. S. Barrett of Childress, first vice president; Mrs. J. M. Rutherford of Childress, second vice president; Mrs. Clyde Warrick of Canyon, secretary-treasurer; and members of the board are Mrs. J. T. Whitmore of Snyder and Mrs. C. T. Hunkapiller of Pampa.

Mrs. J. W. Fincher of Houston, president of the State Federation, is on the convention program, and among the prominent speakers are Dr. J. A. Hill, president of the West Texas State Teachers College and Mrs. Phoebe K. Warner.

Among the numerous social events that are being given are the All-Club delegates' dinner, international relations luncheon, conservation of natural resources luncheon and the president's dinner.

Three Snyder Women Attend Presbyterian.

Last Friday and Saturday, April 22 and 23, the Abilene Presbyterian met in Lamesa. The annual session was held in the First Presbyterian Church of that city. There were three representatives from Snyder: Mmes. C. R. Buchanan, J. W. McCoach and J. W. Roberts. Mrs. Roberts, former president of the local missionary society, was chosen to represent that organization, and appeared on the Lamesa program.

Towns included in the Abilene Presbyterian are Lamesa, Brownfield, Snyder, Rotan, Post, Albany, Breckenridge, Ranger, Abilene, Strawn, Eastland and Stamford. Almost every town was represented. Mrs. J. M. F. Gill of Abilene was re-elected president of the Presbyterian.

The theme of the meeting was "Christ Indwelling, Christ Outgoing." Our guest during the meeting was Miss Anna Belle Stewart, director of the Patti C. Stockdale School, Concord, West Virginia. She told us of her experiences in the mission field. This school is located in the mountains and, therefore, she has many dealings with the mountaineers. What a wonderful work she and her co-workers are carrying on!

Delegates from the other towns also appeared on the program.

Rev. and Mrs. Eugene H. Surface of Lamesa were our host and hostess during the meeting and they in turn were assisted by the local church ladies. We Snyder ladies certainly appreciate the wonderful courtesies extended by the Lamesa people during our stay in their city. We thoroughly enjoyed the Presbyterian and think our officers have done a wonderful work this year. We are looking forward expectantly to our annual meeting in Ranger next year.—A Delegate.

Senior Class Enjoys Picnic Thursday.

The Senior A class was entertained with a picnic Thursday afternoon at Wolfe Park, with Misses Dorothy Darby, Clarice Blakey, Mozell Jenkins, Morene Lambert, Marcia Holcomb and Revis Chandler as hostesses, and Messrs. Buck Howell, Leslie Browning, Earl White and Byrie Rigby as hosts.

Victory S. S. Class Meets Wednesday.

The Victory Bible Class of the First Methodist Church met Wednesday afternoon of last week in the home of Mrs. W. P. Smith, at which time Mmes. Smith, Allen Warren and Ray McFarland were hostesses.

During the business hour the following report was made: Seventy-two visits to sick and strangers had been made, six bouquet and 25 trays had been carried and 36 gallons of milk and 12 garments had been carried to the needy.

Refreshments were served to Mmes. A. M. Curry, W. H. Cauble, Smith, J. C. Dorward, Trice, E. F. Wicker, Sed A. Harris, Clark, Allen Warren, Charles Lewis, Ray McFarland, W. R. Merrill and D. P. Strayhorn.

Methodist Society Meets Monday.

The Adult Methodist Missionary Society met Monday afternoon at the church, with 11 members present.

After singing the song, "In the Garden," Mrs. Charles Lewis directed the prayer. The devotional, taken from the book of Jonah, was given by Mrs. C. C. Higgins.

After a short business session, the study on "The Teaching of Jesus on Human Relations" was begun. Mrs. D. P. Yoder discussed "Jewish Exclusiveness." Mrs. A. M. Curry also spoke on this subject, after which Mrs. J. C. Dorward spoke on "The Example Part of Christ's 'Christ Cosmopolitan.'" was Mrs. J. C. Stinson's subject. The closing prayer was led by Mrs. D. P. Yoder.

Bridge Club Meets With Bannisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bannister entertained the Thursday Night Bridge Club at their home, 2707 Thirty-Second Street, last week.

After the enjoyable games, Mrs. J. P. Nelson and J. D. Scott, guests, were awarded high score prizes, and Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Hicks, members, also received high score awards.

Refreshments were served to Messrs. and Mmes. J. M. Harris, Ivan Dodson, R. H. Curmutte Jr., Melvin Blackard, G. B. Clark, Albert Norred, J. G. Hicks and Forest Sears, members; and to Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Nelson, Miss Opal Wedgeworth, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Scott and Herman Darby, guests.

Euzelian S. S. Class Is Given Party.

A party given last Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Roy Strayhorn for members of the Euzelian Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church was the climax of an entertaining attendance contest that had been staged between the class, divided into two groups.

Mmes. Lora Burt and Garland Teter were captains of the groups. Mrs. Burt and her side were winners; therefore, they were entertained by Mrs. Teter's group Wednesday afternoon.

Various jokes and games afforded lots of fun for the guests.

Cream and cake were served to the following: Mmes. Willard Castevens, Emily Nobles, Lucy Mae Imman, Ina Hollingsworth, Rose Harris, Garland Teter, Horace Elland, Willie Jo Henry, Bonnie McCahey, Winnie Boren, Willie Mae Newton, Lora Burt, Vera Miles, Nora Sentell, Della Wilson, Mollie LeMond, Eunice Weatherbee and Nellie Raybon. Out-of-town guests were Mmes. C. F. Ziegler and W. E. Johnston of San Antonio.

Anti-Cant S. S. Class Given Theatre Party.

Miss Margaret Miller entertained the Anti-Cant Sunday School Class of the First Methodist Church with a theatre party Tuesday evening.

Delicious refreshments were placed in paper sacks and given to the guests before leaving for the theatre.

Those complimented were Misses Dossie Mae Caton, Helen Cauble, Evelyn Erwin, Louise Ely, Virginia Wills and Mrs. Hal Yoder. Miss Hortense Ely was a class guest.

Senior Class Enjoys Picnic Thursday.

The Senior A class was entertained with a picnic Thursday afternoon at Wolfe Park, with Misses Dorothy Darby, Clarice Blakey, Mozell Jenkins, Morene Lambert, Marcia Holcomb and Revis Chandler as hostesses, and Messrs. Buck Howell, Leslie Browning, Earl White and Byrie Rigby as hosts.

Those present were Misses: Laura Banks, Frances Chenaunt, Janice Erwin, May Jo Glen, Gwendolyn Gray, Mattie Vina Harrell, Georgia Jones, Pauline Kay, Nana Bess Egerston, Charline Ely, Jeanette Lollar, Pearl Long, Johnnie Matheson, Acie Dell Morton, Ernestine Taylor, Mary Belle Trevey, Imogene Laurence and the sponsor, Miss Maurine Cunningham; Messrs. J. B. Baugh, Adrian Banks, Oscar Brice, S. D. Hays Jr., Ester Jones, Hugh Taylor Jr., Carl Young and Dawson Bridgeman.

Thirty-Five Women Attend Exchange.

About 35 women attended the "better homes exchange" held at Bell's Flower Shop Saturday afternoon from 2:30 until 3:30 o'clock.

Mrs. W. R. Bell, better homes chairman for Scurry County, and her committee are urging all the ladies in the county who would be interested to take part each Saturday.

No charge is being made for the privilege of exchanging, and the parties may exchange anything that they desire. Mrs. C. F. Swann of Dunn will be in charge Saturday.

Twentieth Century Club Gives Play For Alpha Study Club and Visitors

"Marrying Off Father" was the humorous play given by the Twentieth Century Club in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Dorward last Thursday afternoon for the Alpha Study Club and also Thursday evening for the members' husbands and guests.

The play was given under the direction of Mrs. Dorward, with Mmes. Nelson Dunn, O. S. Williamson, Ollie Bruton, W. J. Ely, J. E. LeMond and W. C. Hamilton taking part.

Thursday afternoon the following members of the Alpha Study Club were guests who enjoyed the play and were served refreshments: Mmes. Melvin Blackard, J. C. Smyth, Ixon Joyce, Alfred McGlaun, Albert Norred, Ivan Dodson; Misses Hattie and Gertrude Herm and Neoma Strayhorn. Mrs. George Northcutt also was a guest.

Good-Bye Washday, New Laundry Offer

"Good-bye, washday," is the newest service offered local housewives by the Snyder Laundry, according to Sam LaRue, manager. The service includes damp wash, with flat work ironed, at the rate of five cents per pound.

The laundry will also offer special prices on quilt and blanket cleaning during the entire month of May.

For Beautiful Homes

Through thick and thin the women and girls are hanging on with grim determination in their fight for more beautiful homes. Gladys Hopkins in Harrison county sells buttermilk to buy materials for making over her bedroom.

W. E. Howler in Harris county tears down the picket fence and gives the neighbors the pickets for screening the bare underpinning of their homes.

Harris county home demonstration club women have filled their yards with shrubs from 11,600 cuttings taken from cutting beds. . . . And so it goes.

THE EAGLES

By Lucilester Robinson
A STORY FOR CHILDREN

"Grandfather," said the seven little eagles, as they settled beside him, high up on the mountainside, "we want to go to the rainbow. See how pretty it is—red, green, blue, yellow and violet. And we are strong enough to fly a long way now."

Old grandfather eagle blinked his eyes and wagged his head from side to side, saying, "I never heard of anyone flying to the rainbow. You can see it better from this peak than any other place I know of. You had better just stay where you are."

But the young eagles were not satisfied and begged again and again to be allowed to find the rainbow. Every time it appeared they looked at it longingly. Finally, one day, they persuaded Cousin Bald Eagle to go with them and grandfather consented, since they had some one to look after them. So it was decided they should start next morning at sunrise.

That night the seven little eagles could hardly keep their heads tucked under their wings but bobbed up every few minutes to whisper to each other. This so disturbed their grandfather that his snoring stopped and he sat up to say, "If you boys don't quit that talking and go to sleep you shan't go over."

Then the little eagles became so still that even the dew drops could not have heard them. Soon they were fast asleep, as fast as was grandfather himself.

Next morning, just as the sun showed the tip of his head, Cousin Bald Eagle came darting down from a cloud.

"Wake up!" he cried. "Let's be off. What a glorious day to start on a journey!"

All the little eagles wanted to kiss grandfather at once, to say good-bye, almost knocking him backward from the cliff.

"One at a time! One at a time!" he cried, kissing each in turn. "And mind you, if you reach the rainbow come back and take me, too."

"We will, we will," promised all the little eagles together as they circled up, up into the sky.

All the morning they flew, not even stopping for anything to eat, straight toward the place where they had last seen the rainbow. On and on they flew until the sun was sinking in the west. The little eagles were very tired. They were disappointed, too. They had not seen a sign of the rainbow all day long. Cousin Bald Eagle said, "Here, boys, we will rest on these mountain peaks and try again tomorrow."

Next morning they started early. All day they flew and the next day and the next day, but never a rainbow did they see. One night they decided to try it only one more day.

"If we do not see the rainbow tomorrow we will go back home," said Cousin Bald Eagle. I am sure we

Popular West Texan Running For Place On State Rail Body

Lee Satterwhite, West Texan and resident of Odessa, has officially announced for the position of state railroad commissioner at the incessant plea of friends. For 14 years Mr. Satterwhite has been a member of the Texas Legislature, and was speaker of the House before the Thirty-Ninth Legislature. Many Scurry County people became acquainted with Mr. Satterwhite while he was acting as manager of the Odessa Chamber of Commerce, where his aggressiveness and keen administration of affairs endeared him to all those with whom he came in contact.

A portion of Mr. Satterwhite's initial announcement for the office follows: "My 14 years' service as a member of the Texas Legislature has given me an opportunity to closely observe and study our state government in all its departments, and it is my judgment that membership on the Texas Railroad Commission offers, perhaps, a greater opportunity for a useful and worthwhile service to the people of Texas than any other state official connection. "My experience as a legislator has forcibly brought to my attention the great need of earnest cooperation on the part of heads of governments with the Legislature in reducing governmental expenses, and should I be elected I will give effective aid to the Legislature in reducing the cost in operating this department. "Recognizing that the state government belongs to the people of Texas, I am submitting my candidacy for this high and responsible official position with no other purpose in view than to render a useful public service."

WHY MRS. TINKER Is Asking for Re-Election as COUNTY TREASURER

Due to the fact that so many have entered the county treasurer's race and are making a canvass of the entire county, I desire to state that it will be impossible for me to do so, as I am aware that for an office-holder to be absent from her office invites criticism. I am not wise enough to know just what course to pursue, but fearing I may not be able to see you personally, am making this appeal to you for your vote and influence; however, I mean to see everyone I can. I am grateful more than I can express for the favor and trust the voters of the county have given me in the past, and if re-elected I pledge myself to give even more diligent and efficient service. I think I am better qualified and better understand what the public desires.

I do not think I am the only one who can do this work or that the job belongs to me, but I do think that with my knowledge of the financial workings of the county I can render better service than anyone else. My six years' experience in the office means a capable servant to every citizen if you vote for me. The present perfect records of the treasurer's office are open for inspection at all times and are due to experience and executive ability. Experience in county business should not be valued less highly than experience in private business. My three terms in this office are being held against me by some, but this should be in my favor as some of our best officials have held office for long terms. I would not be in the race if I did not need the money the office pays, as I have no one on whom to depend for support and there are not many jobs open during these depressing times.

Trusting the voters of Scurry County will realize my situation and will consider my qualifications carefully and thoughtfully and cast your vote for me, I am, Your servant, (adv.) EDNA B. TINKER.

Democratic Leader Calls For Meeting

A meeting of the county Democratic executive committee will be held in the district court room at 2:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon, according to F. I. Townsend, chairman. He earnestly requests each member to be present.

The purpose of the meeting is to arrange for the holding of presidential precinct conventions at voting boxes May 7, and to fill several precinct vacancies.

Recognition that the state government belongs to the people of Texas, I am submitting my candidacy for this high and responsible official position with no other purpose in view than to render a useful public service."

Mitchell Countians To Hold Convention At Colorado Sunday

The Mitchell County Singing Convention, which has met the first Sunday in May since it was organized in 1911, will convene Sunday in the union tabernacle at Colorado.

W. L. Doss was elected president of the first convention and has served more than half the time since and is the present president. He states that he has received acceptance from several famous quartets, the Stamps quartet being among them. T. H. Westbrook, president of the Sunshine Singing Convention, also will take part. Mr. Doss is expecting 5,000 people to attend the convention.

A business session of the association will be held Saturday night at the Baptist Church and there will be, in addition to the singing, music furnished by the Colorado Municipal Band.

Snyder Bakery Has New Malted Bread

The Snyder Bakery is offering a new malted milk bread that has already proven popular with local patrons, according to Ralph Mathison, owner. It is a made by a patented formula owned by The World's Richest Bread Company, Sherman.

With each wrapper from the new bread a slogan of not more than 10 words may be sent to any of several radio stations broadcasting Malted Milk bread programs, and 40 cash prizes ranging from $50 to $2 will be given winners. The following stations are being used: KRLD, WBAP, KQRS and WDAG.

Many Attend Auction.

The old D. P. Strayhorn location was crowded Saturday afternoon during the auction sale of the Strayhorn stock. Small articles were the principal stock in trade, but Auctioneer Ed A. Noret states that the larger stuff must go next Saturday. He says he will trade.

Former Snyder Man Killed in Car Wreck Near South Plains

J. H. Myers, 52, South Plains farmer, and nephew of Mrs. W. H. Shuler and M. D. L. Myers of Snyder, was killed instantly Tuesday evening, April 12, when a car in which he was riding with Paul Snodgrass did not suffer severe injuries.

The two men were enroute home from a half-section farm owned by Mr. Myers when the accident occurred, about seven miles northeast of South Plains.

Mr. Myers was a former resident of Snyder. He is survived by a large family of children including a daughter at Oton, another in south Texas, and a third at Canyon, and young children at home. Mrs. Myers is manager of the telephone exchange at South Plains.

Tom Weaver Thanks.
Tom Weaver, on whose place the Pyron rabbit drive was held Thursday of last week, asks The Times to thank the ladies who prepared the fine dinner, the Piggy Wiggy grocery for furnishing transportation for hunters, and the good crowd of shooters. At least 800 rabbits were killed, he says.

Athlete Play Wins.
Athlete High School's one-act play, "El Cristo," was awarded first place in a regional intercollegiate League tournament, concluded at Abilene Friday. The cast will go to the state meet at Austin next week. The local one-act play cast won third place in the recent district tourney.

The Times Creed.
For the cause that needs assistance;
For the wrongs that need redress;
For the future in the distance,
And the good that we can do.

THE WEEKLY DOZEN.

Wanted: A Triple Recipe.
If you can tell a fellow how to go fishing, work in the yard and suffer with Spring fever—all in the same evening—the Times force will pay handsomely for the recipe.

Hook, Line and Sink.
The fish are bitin' here and there, followers of Isaac Walton's art are saying. And that reminds us of the old gag about the fellow who joined a fishing party because he wanted to fish.

Two newspapermen are running for congressman-at-large, and another candidate is being boomed by a prominent weekly editor. Maybe they ran short of news, and decided to create some. Even God's chosen people often fall by the wayside.

Music vs. Half Soles.
Pessimism Pete thought of goats in a silk factory when he saw a few heavy-soled hoppers accusing the Russian Chorus of wasting their time. What foreigner has not said that Americans are the rudest and most uncultured of civilized peoples?

Spring Sirens of Smell.
If you want to get a whiff of perfume that will fill your soul to overflowing, pass on the windward side of almost any Snyder residential street. The locust trees are in bloom! The lotus eaters of Greek mythology were surely under a spell no more binding.

Maybe They're Reducin' Already.
Almost every town that's incorporated has organized some sort of a taxpayers' league, and many of them are demanding that candidates state in their platforms exactly what they intend to do about reduction of expenses. We take it that Snyder has not organized because we have full faith in all our fifty odd candidates.

The Call of the Child.
Ed Howe, Amarillo, one of Texas' best-known columnists, wrote an essay last week on the lowly diaper—after he had seen several of the union flags waving from the top of a car of ancient vintage. "Old Tack," as Howe is popularly known to his home folks, is certain that lack of diapers causes many a grouchy old couple, and divorcees, and that we went downhill when rubber panties became the vogue.

"Lungers" Lose the War.
The most recent "Chaser," publication of the state tubercular sanitarium, states that more people are killed by tuberculosis in six and one-half years than perished during the World War. God pity a people who let the weightier matters of exercise, fresh air, diet, cleanliness and ventilation go begging, while they seek the advice of high-priced specialists. Most of us know that carelessness has given us our ills—we just don't have nerve enough or will power enough to correct our habits.

This Is Not About the Bonus.
We have learned just recently that the jimricksha, famous Japanese conveyance, was invented by an American who converted a baby carriage into a carrier for his sick wife; that it's almost impossible to find chop suey in China; that tamales are scarce in Mexico; and that ostriches don't bury their heads in the sand. And Congress would have you believe that some of the fellows who parade Washington halls know more about farming than the Scurry County man who was reared with the soil.

A Tribute to the Tiller.
The American farmer is not a fool nor a laggard, nor unpatriotic; his intelligence, his foresight and his industry have leveled the forests, cultivated the fields and made America what it is today. But for him the Indians would probably be pursuing their favorite sport through what are now our city streets; the sites of our great manufacturing establishments might be still the home of the buffalo, and the scalps of some of his would-be reformers might ornament the waist-line of a squaw.—Melvin A. Traylor.

Town Patriotism.
We are thankful that the price of milk and bread has not been materially reduced in Snyder. Our bakeries and dairies have a hard time making ends meet with prices as they are. Why rob Peter to pay Paul? In other words, why take away the small profit of the dairyman and the bakeryman, when it will only mean that he must defer payment of some of his own bills? Another thing: We are thankful that the outside bakery truck that has been trying to plug in on Snyder lines has hit a brick wall among local grocers.

Will Rogers Reads the News.
"Take my ham away, take away my eggs, even my chili, but leave me my newspaper. Even if it just has such purely local news as 'Jim Jones came home last night unexpectedly and bloodshed ensued' or 'Jesse Bushhead, our local M. D., is having one of the best years of his career practically speaking—but they just won't pay him when they get well'. . . Now all

Appetite Killers.
Just off-hand, I can't think, for the instant, of any practice which leaves me more "re-gusted" with radio than the custom of enumerating all the ills to which the flesh is heir, and the alleged cures for the same, at the hours when I am dining.

Imagine the fond diner about to bend elbows over an excellent meal, only to hear something like, "Ladies and gentlemen, with each and every purchase of Doctor Gohookus' little wonder pills, we're offering for this week only, a handsome, nickel-plated, adult-size stomach pump."
Well, it's no tax upon anyone's imagination, because the equivalent of such dissertation is being perpetrated day after day at hours when lucky folk are eating.—Los Angeles Examiner.

Poor Man's Prayer.

Lord, I am only a Scurry County laborer. Thou knowest that when cotton was 20 cents a pound and I had flour and sugar in the house, cake and pie and everything I wanted then, I was not satisfied, and voted for a change. Thou knowest I wore Hoover's badge, and was faithful in all things to the G. O. P. Even so thou knowest that I believe in the dawn of a day that farmers would get $3.00 for wheat and $5.00 a day for my work. Lord, two years have gone by never to return, and I am too poor to buy the necessary Rockefeller for my Henry, but still wear Hoover's badge. But it's on the seat of my overalls. Lord, I'm thankful for one thing, and that is that Hoover is able to make common rabbits taste good in the summer time. I pray thee that thou wilt keep them replenished so that I shall not want. I am sorry, oh, Lord, that the corn would not pay the expenses of gathering, and I pray that thou wilt continue to uphold Mellon that he may be able to collect four years interest on funds of his own bank for righteousness. Teach me to pray: Our father who art in Washington, Hoover is his name. His kingdom come, his will be done, even to setting the soldiers' bonus. Give us this day our daily corn-bread that Cookidge tried to make us eat for four years and Hoover had us eating it in three months. And lead us not into another Republican presidency, for Hoover has all the power, Mellon the money, Rockefeller all the oil, and we have patches on our pants.—Exchange.

EDITORIAL OF THE WEEK.

THE AUTOMOBILE—A BLESSING AND A CURSE.

Below you will find a few paragraphs clipped from a sales letter that came to the Times office. If you don't find them interesting and thoughtful . . . but you will.
An automobile is like a railroad ticket—it isn't worth a dime unless you go somewhere and it is the added expense of going that costs the money, and our observation is that a farmer WILL keep his automobile going.
The American Road Builders Association just turned loose a mighty interesting report after a survey covering the whole country. "It costs an average of .06 a mile to operate a light four cylinder automobile, and .045 a mile to operate a six cylinder automobile, and more in proportion for the larger and more cylinder cars. On this basis at least three persons must travel together in a light car to make motoring as cheap as a railway ride." The Association estimates that motor vehicles of this country covered 225 million miles last year. Rather interesting data.
The cause of our over production is the fact that only 46 per cent of our Kansas farms are owned by the farmers who farm them—54 per cent are owned by "land owners," bankers and speculators who spend their winters in California, Florida, and their summers in Minnesota and Canada, and come to Kansas twice a year to see the crop and then harvest it. Gosh, but they are sure sure to have their revenue interfered with. They are going to have to travel in "F" (Ford), "C" (Chevie) and "P" (Packard) cars instead of "P & P" (Packards and Pierce Arrows) this year. Maybe some of them will have to "stay put."

A farmer must keep his feet on the ground to keep mortgages off of it. A farmer was telling me the other day that many of his neighbors drive 25 miles to some town to see a picture show, then go to some ice cream parlor and spend a dollar on refreshments, and these trips cost five or six dollars, if not more, and that would buy two or three pigs, a calf, or 50 baby chicks to furnish the family with something to eat. In the good old days a farmer who cleared a thousand dollars a year on his farm above all expenses, was "doing well." Now he will buy a thousand dollar car which means the entire profit on his crop and by the time his crop is harvested and the car paid for, all he has for his year's work is a second hand car that he could not sell for a hundred dollars.
The business and professional man. Altogether too large a percentage of them are driving large, expensive automobiles who can not more afford to buy a new car every new design and operate them, than the farmer or the laborer. If you don't believe that statement, just ask the grocer, the butcher, and the dry goods merchant and the "stationer and printer" who are carrying their account. Now, of course, there are exceptions, and thank God for that—but there sure are a bunch of 'em "flyin' high" while their creditors are "flyin' low."

You will say the above is depressing and pessimistic. "Mebbe" so. We have been listening to "Pollyanna" stories for so long that I have been hammering for the past couple of years on some of the "unpleasant subjects." You know we naturally just LOVE to read the things we LIKE to read. Knowing this, the successful newspaper and the periodicals have been satisfying the demand. Isn't it about time that we "Stop! look! and listen!" I don't see anything in the business "crystal ball" which shows any very material change for the better for at least a couple of years.

The spreading of the information of the real facts will help mightily to avert "tail spins" and "nose dives." We Americans absolutely WILL face the situation if we know the facts. We always have and always will. What we want and need is REAL FACTS.
A sharp tongue and a dull brain are usually found in the same head.
Men and rivers grow crooked by following the paths of least resistance.

It will be worth all it costs if it teaches people that Easy and Wall are not the same streets.
With railroad fare at $1.75 a mile in Texas it might pay Santa Claus to come by train.

That don't seem much news to you. But it is news especially when you know the people, and they are your own folks. So no matter how punk you might think your local paper is getting, why just take it away from you and see how you feel. . . So let's all read and be merry, for tomorrow the paper may not have enough ads in it to come out.—Will Rogers.

THE WANDERING JEWS TELL OF VISIT MADE INTO OLD MEXICO

(Note.—Although the Two Wandering Jews from Snyder, Abe Rogers and Willard Jones, have been home for a week, and most of the local population has heard their fish yams, The Times is printing their last letter, written at Del Rio, which gives some interesting relations of experiences after they left their Grand Canyon. Some highlights of their visit to Villa Acuna, Old Mexico, are related. The letter was omitted from last week's issue because of lack of space.)
Del Rio, Texas, Sunday Night.
Best folks in the World!
The Two Wandering Jews from Snyder have wandered off again, this time into a new clime and a new set of surroundings. Almost three weeks we spent on the Rio Grande south of Dryden, where the main rest and recreation trip was spent. And on a roundabout, easy-going return to the good old town of Snyder, a schedule was tentatively arranged to make a southeasterly swing from the Terrell County camp to the Rio Grande drive leisurely to the north and west to home, sweet home.

Camp that brought the tailor and publisher many pleasant experiences was broken up Friday evening by day and night moonlight during the stay were difficult to leave—they had given us the desired results; the diminutive clothes man declares he has felt better recently than he has during the past 15 years, and some four pounds have been added to his waistline or some other well known portion of his Ghandi-like physique. The lead poisoning and anemia that sent the paper fellow away has been forgotten and he too has added to his girth by putting on around eight pounds of avoidipnois. You sick and decrepit, the Rio Grande region is a remarkable curing plant!

They Left 'Em All Behind.
Rock-strewn hillsides, cactus and torny pastures, death-like quietness of the wilds, soft cooling breezes from mountains, broiling sunshine by day and romantic moonlight nights, piercing howls from Mexican coyotes across the Rio, great swarms of mud-martins that cling to the rocky cliffs of the river, fish and to spare during our stay—all these wild and weird sights and sounds by the Jews for years to come; they were familiar sights and sounds; they had become a part of our being. . . they are gone now. It was with heavy hearts that we left them behind and went on our way to our little-traveled goat and sheep trails.
There are several little experiences which we enjoyed at our river camp that had been overlooked in previous comments. Pleasantly surprised two supposed business men, both past the quarter century milestone of life, down on the Rio Grande in a little canvas boat three feet wide and 10 feet long, with improvised main mast standing on the foot-board of the boat bottom, one of Mrs. Rogers' bed sheets stretched across two cross meams of cane, literally making at least a tenth of a knot per day upstream. Captain Abe is a typically salty of the briny deep; he yells to Second-Mate Jones to steer to the star board or some other board. The S-M steers, the boat leers; splash—Abe fell out and broke his neck, and Bill came tumbling after (Shakesworth). Running the rapids in a little canvas boat is a good thriller; the two Jews became very adept at the art. . . If you've never eaten any bread made by the wandering Jew pair, you're lucky—we buried a dog near our camp!

Abe Lands a Nice Baby.
Being of the lazy disposition, we spent little time in actual fishing. We let our trout-lines keep us well supplied. But Thursday morning when the two Jews were out fishing, Abe snagg'd an eight-pound channel catfish on a line meant for a one-pound crappie, and you should have seen that tailor give the kitten a day cleaning for several minutes. The big fish was landed in the boat only after the second son of Abraham hooked a real fish-size hook tied on a pole into the mouth of the fighting bait-cater. Several duckbill gaspers were caught on hand lines as well as a couple of nice size gasser cool. Not a turtle or snake was seen in the river.
Friday night was spent in the Morris ranch home in Morris. He had been our hosts during the Rio Grande visit and it was like leaving kinfolks when we pulled out of their gates Saturday morning. Two catfish weighing 25 and 12 pounds, were left in the Morris boat down a natural cistern in the bed of a nearby canyon as our parting expression of gratitude for their numerous acts of hospitality and kindness.

Saturday's driving carried us to Del Rio, 108 miles southeast of Dryden, over probably the most unique stretch of country in Southwest Texas. Hard-surfaced highway No. passed over the hundred catfish guards at section lines of ranches, little fenced right-of-way being seen anywhere. Forty miles from our start we came to the town of Langtry, one of the oldest little burgs of the borderland. In the old days, it was known as the home of Judge Roy Bean, "law west of the Pecos." The old magistrate's office, with saloon in connection, still stands (the saloon having gone prohibition, of course) records of old cases tried before him, and other relics of the pioneer remain intact in the little town of 50 souls.
What a Bridge!
One of the wonders of Texas was visited by the troopers eight miles east of Langtry. It is the high bridge of the Southern Pacific Railway that spans the Pecos River, reputed to be the second highest railroad bridge in the world—the highest being in Switzerland. We dared to pass the warning at the west head of the great steel trestle, and walked a quarter of a mile to the center. Some idea of the dazzling height of the train carrier may be visualized when we state that a rock dropped from the top struck the crystal-like waters straight down after 18 seconds of falling. The pump-house and residence of the pumper for the railroad tanks, resting on the first bank of the river, looked like play-houses to our eyes from our hundreds-of-feet high gazing point. We then went below to the crest of the river can-thought safe, ran her into a nearby lot and took our pedal extremities to the international bridge. The federal officers at the entrance gave us a few passing glances, took our dime-a-head fee and allowed us to pass on. A Del Rio man, operating a saloon in the Villa, saved us a mile walk over the bridge. Mexican officials quizzed us casually, with words and eyes, and let us by the censor without demerits.

For the First Time.
The newspaper guy's first legal entry into Old Mexico held many thrills—Abe was just an old Mexican going back home for a visit, he said. Words fall an old country boy when he tries to tell others of what he saw, heard and did for the next eight hours—but here's a smattering idea.
Lazy Mexicans by twos, threes and tens, lolling in the Sunday morning sun before crudely built adobe houses, were our first sights. Being among the first to cross the bridge for the day, the brown-skinned folks of the land of sunshine and revolutions outnumbered us and the few other Americans on one—business just hadn't started much for Villa Acuna. We dashed say Saturday night's business had not been closed many hours. Narrow unpaved streets were lined by flat-topped stores, recreation halls and saloons, most of which were built of mud adobe. Every body had his place open and had something to sell. All places were doing a fair Sunday morning business. Mexican boys with shoe-shining equipment were seen soliciting trade from passersby, and other street vendors called out in broken English sales talks for their trinkets, candy and other wares.

Mexico by the Pen.
Little Old Mexican women wearing black veils or scarfs over their heads, occasional high-seated two-wheeled carts drawn by from two to four burros or poorly matched horses, women washing their clothes along the irrigation canals, loud colors worn by most of the younger generation in the streets were some of the highlights of observation as we strolled down several of the streets of the Old Mexico village. The city plaza, three blocks away from the main street of the town, was attractive with its street light standards of peculiar design, made from good-sized tree trunks some eight or 10 feet high; shade trees and pretty flowers set off the speaker's stand in the center of the square. The hot sun glared on the sidewalks and granite-like seats that completely surrounded the plaza. The city police station and jail, the governor's home and other prominent buildings faced the plaza. One of the town's schools bordered the north side of the court-ground. Basketball goals on the school grounds proved that American ideas are popular in our neighbor country to the south.
Store and shop gazing revealed many interesting views to the Jew Musketees. Vegetables and fruits never before seen by the publisher were cause of many questions. Noticed a Mexican barber used a razor with a blade fully two inches across on a victim; we were informed that no towel and little or no lather furnished an experience for the American getting a shave in Villa

Acuna—we didn't try one for fear our three-week-old moustaches would be endangered.
What—No Tamales Today?
About lunch time we agreed that we would eat tamales since we were in Mexico, reputed home of the lowly red pepper delicacy. Calls in at least half a dozen eating places proved that tamales are as difficult to find in Mexico as we've heard chop-suey is in China. Finally we were informed that the only place in Villa Acuna where we could get tamales was in Mrs. Crosby's cabaret. The eating, drinking and dancing headquarters for hundreds of Americans every day, this cabaret is said to be the finest place of its kind on the border. Elaborately built and finely furnished, the cabaret was erected by Mrs. Crosby (Spanish woman who married a Del Rio rancher a number of years ago, whose husband died recently) at a cost of $150,000. A talented Mexican orchestra mingled tantalizing music with one's eats and drinks. Imagine the Jew's surprise when we were seated not 20 feet away from three Scurry County men who were enjoying the eats and spirits of Calles' own land. They were the first folks we had seen from home in exactly three weeks. We learned that the only paved street in Villa Acuna, some eight blocks long, was paved by Mrs. Crosby personally. But judging by the patronage the lady had, and the prices she received the street building was a minor matter for her. The eats were good, and the drinks well, you'll have to ask some other pair for this information. The news butch reluctantly consented to sing in the cabaret, accompanied by the Mexican orchestra—and Abe says he was given a good hand.

Here's a Garner Story.
While in the Crosby place we heard an interesting little story about John Garner, speaker of the national House of Representatives, and congressman from this district to Washington. Three fellows from near Hermleigh, on their way to Del Rio and other nearby points, ran out of gasoline for their south-bound car not more than two years ago some 10 or 12 miles north of this stop. The president-boomed southerner from Texas offered a helping hand as he chanced to pass on the same highway. To the statement from one of the three West Texas men that they were in such a hurry to get across the Mexican border that night before the bridge closed they had fallen to buy gas when they should have, Mr. Garner reminded them that during his 40 years residence in the country adjacent to Mexico he had never crossed over the Rio—and had no reason to believe that he ever should. Guess this shouldn't lose any votes for the Texan who is now so in the limelight of the political spotlight as a possible candidate for the Democratic nomination or president of the United States.
The world's largest commercial radio broadcasting station, XER, is located at Villa Acuna. Dr. Brinkley, who was ruined off the air in Kansas, established and is operating the famous station. Judging by the tremendous aerial towers and the imposing studio and transmission house here, it is no wonder that the station is one of the strongest in the western hemisphere. A drive to XER station is worthwhile to every visitor to Villa Acuna, take it from the Jews.

Reminiscent of the revolutionary days that have for many generations existed in Old Mexico, on the western outskirts of Villa Acuna, atop a high hill, is a military fort of the federal government. Loyal troops of the land may be seen at the bastle at all hours of day and night, we were told. Even adobe was used in the construction of this national protective agency.
Our visit to Villa Acuna probably will have been the climax of the Puny Pair's health-rest trip. We left for our tourist camp quarters in Del Rio long before night, as all good little boys should do!
The next 10 days will find us resuming our sharking operations in the best little city in West Texas—the capital of Scurry County, providing all the connecting rods and other necessary parts remain in our chatter box intact.
Sincere greetings come direct to our friends in our home county from
THE TWO WANDERING JEWS,
Abe and Willard.

SYNOPSIS

Six people, Horace Johnson (who tells the story), his wife, old Mrs. Dane, Herbert Robinson and his sister, Alice, and Dr. Sperry, friends and neighbors, are in the habit of holding weekly meetings. At one of them, Mrs. Dane who is hostess, varies the program by unexpectedly arranging a spiritualistic seance with Miss Jeremy a friend of Dr. Sperry and not a professional, as the medium.

At the first sitting the medium tells the details of a murder as it is occurring. Later that night Sperry learns that a neighbor, Arthur Wells, has been shot mysteriously. With Johnson he goes to the Wells residence and they find confirmation of the medium's account. Mrs. Wells tells them her husband shot himself in a fit of depression.

The French maid admits she was out at the time Wells was shot, telephoning from a nearby drug store, Johnson goes to the drug store where the clerk tells him the maid phoned to the Ellingham house, telling something there not "to call that night."

At a second seance, Miss Jeremy tells details about a summer resort where Charles Ellingham was known to have been at the same time that Mrs. Wells was there. She also speaks of a pocketbook being lost which contained some important car tickets and letters. Mrs. Dane, alone of the women, seems thrilled by the investigation.

Johnson goes alone and investigates the deserted house. He is frightened by strange noises, as of an intruder in the house, but completes his investigation.

He visits Mrs. Dane and tells her how he had carried off the fire-works and left behind his overcoat at his excitement. She then tells him she had advertised for the finder of the pocketbook and turns over to Johnson an answer she had received from one charging guilty knowledge of the crime. Dr. Sperry announces he is to be married to Mrs. Jeremy when the club meets again.

Hawkins the butler, is identified as being the person who answered Mrs. Dane's advertisement. Johnson's missing overcoat is mailed to him, but the letters contained in a pocket are missing. Sperry accompanied by Johnson, makes another search in Wells' house for the letters written by the slayer.

Johnson and Sperry do some detective work and uncover the fact that somebody with guilty knowledge has made away with some letters. Hawkins the butler, is suspected as well as Ellingham, a friend of Mrs. Wells, of knowing who the slayer is. The investigation has reached its final stages.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

There was, on the contrary, a definite place beyond which the medium could not go.

She did not know who had killed Arthur Wells.

To my surprise, Sperry and Herbert Robinson came together to see me that morning at my office. Sperry, like myself, was pale and tired, but Herbert was restless and talkative, for all the world like a terrier on the scent of a rat.

"Hawkins will be here soon," Sperry said, rather casually, after I had read the clippings.

"Yes. It is bringing a letter from Miss Jeremy. The letter is merely a blind. We want to see him."

Herbert was examining the door of my office. He set the spring lock. "He may try to bolt," he explained. "We're in this pretty deep, you know."

"How about a record of what he says?" Sperry asked.

I pressed a button, and Miss Joyce came in. "Take the testimony of the man who is coming in, Miss Joyce," I directed. "Take everything we say, any of us. Can you tell the different voices?"

"She thought she could, and took up her position in the next room, with the door partly open."

I can still see Hawkins as Sperry let him in—a tall, cadaverous man of good manners, and an English accent, a superior servant. He was cool but rather resentful. I judged that he considered carrying letters as in no way a part of his work, and that he was careful of his dignity.

"You wrote this, I think?" I said. He was genuinely startled. More than that, indeed, for his face twitched. "Suppose I did?" he said. "I'm not admitting it."

"Will you tell us for whom was it written?"

"You know a great deal already, gentlemen. Why not find out from where you learned the letter?"

"You know then, where we learned what we know?" he said bitterly. "She told you enough, I daresay. She doesn't know it all, of course. Any more than I do," he added.

"Will you give us the letters?" "I haven't seen I have them. I haven't admitted I wrote that one on the desk. Suppose I have them. I'll not give them up except to the District Attorney."

"By 'she' do you refer to Miss Jeremy?" I asked. He stared, and smiled faintly. "You know who I mean."

"We tried to assure him that we were not, in a sense, seeking to involve him in the situation, and I even went so far as to state our position, briefly."

"I'd better explain, Hawkins. We are not doing police work. But, owing to a chain of circumstances, we recovered and destroy some letters he had written her.

She was looking crushed and ill, and she told her story nervously. Reduced to its elements, it was as follows: On the night of Arthur Wells' death they were dressing for a ball. She had made a private arrangement with Ellingham to plead a headache at the last moment and let Arthur go alone. But he had been so insistent that she had been forced to go, after all. She had sent the governess, Suzanne Gautier, out to telephone Ellingham not to come but he was not at his house, and the message was left with his valet. As it turned out, he had already started.

Ellnor was dressed, all but her ball-gown and she had put on a negligee, to wait for the governess to return and help her. Arthur was in his dressing-room, and she heard him grumbling about having no blades for his safety razor.

He got out a case of razors and searched for the strap. When she remembered where the strap was, it was too late. The letters had been beside it, and he was coming toward her, with them in his hand.

She was terrified. He had read only one, but that was enough. He maftered something and turned away. She saw his face as he went toward where the revolver had been hidden from the children, and she screamed.

Charlie Ellingham heard her. The door had been left unlocked by the governess, and he was in the lower hall. He ran up and the two men grappled. The first shot was fired by Arthur. It struck the ceiling.

The second shot was doubtful about. She thought the revolver was still in Arthur's hand. It was all horrible. He went down like a stone, in the hallway outside the door.

They were nearly mad, the two of them. They had dragged the body in, and then faced each other. Ellingham was for calling the police at once and surrendering, but she had kept him away from the telephone. She maintained, and I think it very possible, that her whole thought was for the children, and the effect on their lives of such a scandal. And, after all, nothing could help the man on the floor.

It was while they were trying to formulate some concerted plan that they heard footsteps below, and, thinking it was Mademoiselle Gautier, she drove Ellingham into the rear of the house, from which later he managed to escape. But it was Clara who was coming up the steps.

(Concluded Next Week)

Hawkins half rose from his chair.

End of Spring Planting Season Near At Hand; Plan for Yard and Garden

It is April, gentle reader, and the spring planting season consists of April and May, the most desirable period being from about April 15 to May 15. If you have been dreaming of the wonderful things you would do in the spring, with trees and shrubs and vines and flowers, it is high time to get busy. If you haven't prepared a definite plan of procedure, don't wait another minute. The folks that can help you in making a plan or an outline of plants to use are going to be pulling through a swamp of rush activity pretty soon, for it's a short season and there is a lot to be done. The earlier you get started the earlier your plant orders are booked, and you get delivery just so much earlier in the season, before growth is started enough to involve a setback for the season's development.

Watch for These Shrubs.

Do you realize that there are several plants that will be in bloom this month? The Forsythia or golden bell is the most notable of these. Ever notice that cheerful shrub covered with glowing golden flowers, even before the leaves are out? Do you remember that it blooms in April? And do you know that it will grow in shady places. If they can be seen in your neighborhood, find out where they are and look for the flowers.

Aside from flowers, we can't overlook the plants that wear cheerful clothes in the winter, like the red and golden dogwoods. They glow with increasing warmth of color as the sun starts to rise.

It's Not Too Late to Plan.

If you haven't planted anything on your grounds up to this time, give a little time to reasoning out a scheme of planting which is restful, quiet and dignified throughout. Do not fill up your front lawn unless you dislike having people seeing your house. A neat border or hedge along the front property line is all right. The main idea is to keep low plants like shrubs out of the center, and use trees only to frame the house. Big trees like elms or maples are used to soften the sharp lines of the architecture, and also to give shade from the hot summer sun.

Give Thought to Properties.

Shrubs are used next to the house walls to obtain transition between perpendicular house lines and the horizontal ground line. Curves are more pleasing than right angles in this instance.

If you want a garden, try to lay it out where you will see it best from the part of the house where you spend the most time. Make the paths and features of interest such as seats, statues, sundials, etc., "line up" with the doors or windows that pierce the shell of your house. The result will be that your private living room will extend to the boundary of your property instead of the house walls.

pay "so much" per square foot for fear of the house, from which later he managed to escape. But it was Clara who was coming up the steps.

Experts Say Big Oil Boom Certain For This Section

The next big oil boom in the United States will be in West Texas, oil experts predict, which will culminate in that area becoming the center of American petroleum production, a recent United Press dispatch from Fort Worth says.

Vast deposits, experts believe, are hidden beneath the earth's surface in this immense territory, covering an area equal in size to North Dakota and larger than Oklahoma, the nation's third ranking crude oil producer.

CHEVROLET LEADING CHOICE IN NATION-WIDE CONTEST

In a nation-wide contest recently conducted by a cigar manufacturer, winners were given their choice of Plymouth, Ford or Chevrolet cars. The winners chose 136 Chevrolets, 89 Plymouths and 15 Fords.

"These figures are particularly impressive," declares D. P. Yoder, local Chevrolet dealer, "because they show a clear choice not influenced by price or personal friend—they picked the Chevrolet because they believed it best suited them."

CORRESPONDENCE FROM RURAL COMMUNITIES IN SCURRY COUNTY

County Line News

Mrs. Dick Hardee, Correspondent

Our community was visited by a rain Friday night. All the farmers are busy this week planting. Quite a few had planted lots of feed before the rain, but are planting it over this week. Our rain averaged about three-fourths of an inch. Following the rain we witnessed an old time sandy Saturday and another one Sunday. This rain won't last long if these high winds continue to come.

Barney Autry and Russell Burrus were business visitors at Stanton Friday.

Two hogs were killed and canned at Raymond Burrus' Tuesday and Wednesday. The County Agent, Mr. Forrester, and the Demonstration Agent, Miss Sevier (Mitchell county) were present, besides the many visitors. This demonstration was something you never see here. You people who have never seen Amner Lewis, our Woodard correspondent play the part of a negro have missed something. I really thought she looked better than I'd ever seen her (Paradise me, Amner). No, she really can't be beat.

Leland Autry and Billy Vaughn of Snyder were out in our community Tuesday night hunting someone who could beat them playing "22." They won't tell you about it so I will.

The children in my community are certainly enjoying the children stories written to our paper by Miss Robertson of Snyder. Hope she continues to write.

Lawrence Brown is visiting in Mexico this week.

Doris Lewis visited with Shirley Thompson of Sharon, Sunday night.

Ina Lee Bryce of Ira, was a week-end guest of her brother, Leslie Bryce, of our community.

Lloyd Brown, Mrs. McCarty and two children visited their aunt, Mrs. Edna Riggsfield, at Itan, Sunday.

Floora Veda Hill of Sharon was a guest of Jeanette Allen, Sunday.

Doris Wade of Sharon, Margaret Duke of Ira, were visitors with Geraldine Hardee Monday night.

Was sorry to learn of the illness of Minnie Lee Williams and her mother. Hope they are better by now.

Margaret Shepherd, of Dorn, was a week-end visitor with Miss Charlie Ritchey.

Mr. and Mrs. Tink Thompson entertained the young folks with an entertainment in their home Saturday night.

Albert Ervin was a business visitor at Big Springs, Friday.

Miss Sevier, the Mitchell County Home Demonstration Agent, urges the women of our community and others who feel interested, to meet her at Mrs. Homer Lewis, Monday afternoon, May 2nd, to organize a Demonstration Club. She has agreed to meet with us each meeting and I'm sure we will get lots of good from such meetings. We hope a large crowd will be present.

In the ball game Sunday with Knapp, the score was 17 and 12 in favor of Comby Line.

Addie Brown had several visitors with her Sunday from Dorn.

Friday night, May 6, the seniors of Ira school will stage their play at Ira school auditorium. "The Mispaced Decimal." Admission 10 and 15 cents. Will give characters names in next week's paper.

The man/friends in our community of Aunt Ann Woolver, are wishing for her a speedy recovery.

W. R. Mize and family of Conaway were visitors in the home of Frank Dunn, Sunday.

Russell Burrus and family were week-end visitors with Melvin Burrus of Lamesa.

B. L. Autry and family visited with J. B. Autry and wife of Snyder, Sunday.

We want to explain why our lights were no better for singing Sunday night. One of our Coleman lights was taken from our church last week, leaving us only one lamp, and the generator wouldn't work on it, so we sang by two coal oil lamps. We wish whoever got the light would return it as we want to keep our singing going. We hope to have better lights next Sunday night.

Leland Autry, wife and little daughter, were Sunday guests of Homer Lewis and wife.

Our Sunday school is growing each Sunday and we hope it will continue so. The Juniors elected Mrs. Homer Lewis as their sub teacher last Sunday.

Round Top News

Mrs. J. W. Brown, Correspondent

This community received half an inch of rain Friday night and on this Monday morning farmers are seen each direction running planters, some planting feed and some planting cotton.

Autrey Bolding and Rodger Vanbroumer from Jal, N. M., are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Durham.

Frank Brooks went to Lubbock Sunday.

Mrs. Frank Brooks' grandmother, Mrs. Thompson, isn't doing so well the past two weeks. We hope she will soon be up again.

This writer's little girl, Bobbie Jo, is suffering with an infection on her left lower limb and has been out of school several days.

I hope Minnie Lee and mother are improving by this time.

A three-cent rain fell Friday night at Round Top. W. A. Dunn high school are practicing on their final play, "Here Comes Patricia," and will put it on Friday night the 29th. This is a fine play and the class is doing their best to prove their talent to the Bethel community.

I hope we will see them Friday night and enjoy what they have prepared for you.

Minnie Lee Williams, Correspondent

Mrs. J. B. Williams and son, Dan Hamil, and Mrs. George Hamil Jr., all of Fort Worth, and Mrs. Burnie Hamil of the Gannaway community and Mrs. Neal Farr called to see Mrs. M. E. Williams and daughter, Minnie Lee, Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. H. B. Coston is visiting her son, J. F. Coston, and family at Stanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sturdivant and J. L. Fargason went to Colorado Wednesday of last week and brought Mrs. Fargason home from the C. L. Root hospital.

Superintendent B. M. Grambling of Robert Lee visited Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lynde Sunday. He formerly taught school here.

W. H. Powers of Eastland visited his sister, Mrs. A. A. McMillan, the first of this week.

Miss Vera Barfoot of McMurtry College, Abilene, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Barfoot.

A. W. Mobley has been on the sick list the past several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Voyt Williams and son Voyt Jr., spent Sunday night with their mother and grandmother, Mrs. M. E. Williams. They are en route to San Diego, California, where they will spend several weeks.

A building hit Miss Vera Barfoot on the right wrist Saturday morning, tearing the flesh to the leaders and bruised her arm pretty badly. He was killed later.

Everybody is rejoicing over the nice rain which fell Friday night. Some hail fell, too, but did no damage. It was accompanied by a high wind, thunder and lightning.

Mr. and Mrs. Rosie Williams and children went to the cellar Friday night the rest of the family going in next ahead of Mr. Williams. Just as he started to close the cellar door a high wind struck an outbuilding, 12 by 20 feet, lifted it into the air, blew it to pieces and landed it several feet away. A Maytag washer, a tub of soap, several containers of lard and other things, including meat which was hanging on the walls, were in the building, but nothing was harmed except that the meat was piled in a heap with the lumber.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Cox and little daughter of Big Spring spent Saturday night with Mrs. Cox's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kimzey and children and Mrs. A. F. Shaw visited relatives in Sweetwater, Sunday.

Herbert Ward of San Diego, California, is visiting his parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Ward. He has been in the U. S. Navy.

J. W. Harkins' meat market and grocery was broken in to Saturday night and a $200 sausage mill was taken.

E. J. Ely Jr., who is teaching school near High Rolls, New Mexico, is expected home this week.

Mrs. J. W. Brown made us quite fish hungry last week when we read her fish story.

The sand and wind waged quite a bit here Saturday and Sunday, and has dried out a lot of the moisture, but the little rain is making things grow nicely.

Misses Ida and Pearl Vernon visited the former's parents, Henry Vernon, and family at Pylon, Sunday.

Mrs. J. A. Sterne, Ruby and Buster Starnes and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Houston, all of Stanton, visited their parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Fargason, Sunday and Sunday night.

Special Notice To Our Rural Writers

During the past two weeks, several news items have been omitted from practically all of our rural news letters. This was made imperative because of an unusual supply of advertising for those two weeks.

As for this matter, a number of Snyder news items were omitted also. The publishers did their best to "cut" the news that seemed of least importance, but of course that is sometimes impossible.

Except in rare instances, such omissions will not be necessary. We sincerely hope that our correspondents and readers who were disappointed because a few items did not appear will bear with us on these rare occasions, as we are doing our very best to furnish full news of all the county.—The Publishers.

P. S.—Correspondents, watch for The Toddlers Times Monday.

Says Shorthand Reporting Is Little Understood Profession to the Public

That shorthand reporting is a little understood profession is made evident to a Times reporter last week while interviewing Thomas H. Chilton, district court reporter for the 32nd Judicial District and a resident of Snyder. He had returned here to spend the week-end after his court duties at Big Spring, which are now in session.

According to Mr. Chilton, who has been in the shorthand field for more than 30 years, 11 of which have been in court work, "three thousand men and women in the United States are engaged in the practice of a profession, shorthand reporting, which is little known or appreciated by the general public."

Personally, he has set in to listen and witness the workings of some criminal case. We have noted the lady or gentleman seated close to the witness stand, never appreciating what part the shorthand reporter had to the successful summation of the case in question. It is a well understood fact that even lawyers and judges with whom the shorthand reporter comes closely in contact with do not realize or appreciate the education and training necessary for this work, or the exacting duties performed, the difficulties encountered and the long hours and concentration required.

Continuing the interview, Mr. Chilton brought out that "shorthand is a method of brief writing by substituting symbols or signs for letters, words or phrases. It has been in existence in some form since the time of Julius Caesar. Pepps wrote his famous diary by means of abbreviated characters, Charles Dickens in "David Copperfield" tells of his struggles to master the art. In this

Program of Unusual Interest Mapped By WTCC Dads for May

A program of unusual but timely interest to all West Texas is being arranged for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention, which will convene at Sweetwater May 12, 13 and 14, according to Maury Hopkins, assistant manager, writing from his new Sweetwater headquarters.

Group conferences are being organized as follows: Three conferences on public expenditures and taxation, one on budget making, one on county government re-organization, and the third on state government re-organization; beautification program for West Texas; and the livestock and agricultural conference.

Over 50 entries are expected for the "My Home Town" speaking contest again this year under the chairmanship of C. M. Caldwell of Abilene. Snyder school has received entry blanks and a set of the rules, together with an invitation to send entrants.

Methodist Church

Next Sunday is our regular communion day. It is expected that a large number will be present to participate in this sacred service. We hope to have the newly organized orchestra at the Sunday evening service. The orchestra has practiced together only a few times but they are able to render a number of old hymns in a very pleasing manner.

A workers' training school is scheduled to begin Sunday afternoon, May 8, and continue through each evening of that week, closing with the lesson Friday evening, May 13. Three courses are being offered.

Special Train Host To 125,000 Persons

More than 125,000 people, from the farm and ranch for the most part, visited the Santa Fe Texas A. & M. College farm and home special train on its recently ended tour of nearly eight weeks, final checks on attendance figures show, Snyder, the last stop on the route, furnished more than 700 of this number. One hundred fifty-one other stops were made.

Mr. Soap Man Says. Newspaper advertising is far more effective in promoting retail sales than is magazine advertising. Carter D. Poland, soap manufacturer of Anniston, Alabama, told merchants at a convention of the American Retailers' Association in St. Louis, Poland said that advertising in the newspapers generally is read by the public, while magazines seldom get more than a glance. "Use advertising generously," he advised. "Make it newy and put the truth in it. Your own advertising can be worth far more to you than any form of national advertising."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

by REV. SAMUEL D. PRICE D.D.

International Sunday School Lesson For Sunday, May 1 ISAAC AND HIS WELLS Genesis 26:12-25

Isaac, the son of Abraham and father of Jacob, is just an average man in comparison. There is, however, much that is interesting in this patriarch. He was the son of promise and was born when Abram was close to the century mark. The tragic event in his life is when he was about to be offered as a sacrifice by the father on Mount Moriah, in Jerusalem, which later became the site of the temple (Genesis 22:3-14). A fine love story is developed when a proxy is sent back to the old home country to get a wife for Isaac. Rebekah is the fair maid who was found by the side of the well. It is interesting to note the likeness of the love of Isaac and Rebekah is mentioned in the marriage service of today.

Great herds of cattle and flocks of sheep were in possession of this progenitor of the Hebrew race. These animals needed water and prolonged strife developed over this with the Philistines, who were the earlier inhabitants in the land. Abraham had dug numerous wells in his day but the Philistines, out of pure contrivance, filled up these sources of water supply. Thereby they endangered their own cattle. Now read through the lesson text and see how Isaac departed from Abimelech rather than create trouble by insisting on his rights at the water supplies. Then, in turn, three wells were dug as he migrated but in two cases the rival enemy managed to fill up the holes. A name is given to each well which describes the trouble that took place there. Finally a well was dug at Rehoboth and the gentle patience of Isaac was rewarded, for trouble ceased at that point.

The golden text is rich in its meaning and declares: "A soft answer turneth away wrath; but a grievous word stirreth up anger." Proverbs 15:1.

County Athletes To Enter State Events

Three Scurry County athletes will probably journey to Austin May 6 and 7 to enter the state interscholastic league track events.

Ashley of Dunn, who captured fourth place for his school single-handed in the recent district meet, and topped the pole vaulters by an easy margin, is considered a strong bet to place in the state pole vault.

McClinton and Howell of Snyder, dash and hurdles stars, whose performance at Abilene largely accounted for Snyder's first placement in the district, will be the other men to go. Howell won third high point honors at Abilene. McClinton is given an even chance to place first in the low hurdles event, in which he was third last year.

Miss Annie Long Taught In Local Schools In 1918

Miss Annie Long, 59, who was buried here Thursday of last week after her death in Brownfield, was principal of the local high school in 1918. Her service as a teacher includes not only many years in Texas, but 12 years in the mission schools of Old Mexico.

Born in Clifton, Bosque County, and reared to womanhood at Lampasas, she began her teaching career at the age of 17, after receiving her A. B. degree at Baylor College, Belton. She taught one year at Buckner Orphan's Home, Dallas, and later taught Spanish in Baylor University while taking her M. A. degree. She majored in languages. Seven years of her life were spent in the Baptist Mission School at Toluca, Old Mexico, and she later taught in the Morrell Mission School for five years. In all, she was a college student and teacher for 43 years.

For some time she had been giving a portion of her salary—she taught in the Brownfield schools at the time of her death—to foreign missions. The outstanding feature of her entire life of service was in the fact that she left $3,000 in insurance for the Baptist Foreign Mission Board.

Services were held at Brownfield Thursday, with Rev. C. A. Hale, her pastor, officiating. Members of her Sunday School class and of the young women's mission circle had charge of the flowers, and pallbearers were her fellow high school teachers. Rev. Philip C. McGahey officiated here, and Odum Funeral Home was in charge.

Three sisters survive: Mrs. A. J. Akers of Brownfield, Mrs. J. W. Burrows of Sageron, and Mrs. J. A. Woodfin of Snyder. All of them attended the services here. Other visitors were: Miss Myrtle Woodfin of Dismitt, Mr. and Mrs. William Martin of Sageron, Mr. and Mrs. Jot Akers and Glen Akers of Brownfield, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Lewis of Brownfield, and many other Brownfield friends.

On Radio Copyrights. We can see it no other way than that owners of copyrights are ashamed of the discordant and hideous productions their copyrights cover which are heard nightly on the radio, else there would be no necessity for the broadcasting companies to announce that kind permission had been given to scatter their vile rot out through the ether for poor suffering humanity to worry and swear about.

Worth Remembering. If we work marble, it will perish; if we work upon brass, time will efface; if we rear temples, they will crumble into dust; but if we work upon immortal minds and instill into them just principles, we are then engraving that upon tablets which no time can efface but will brighten and brighten to all eternity.—Webster.
