Iodine Made From Brine.

Commercial utilization of brines found in oil wells in the manufac-ture of iodine is a new industrial possibility in the Texas oil fields. Heretofore the important drug has been supplied largely from the nitrate deposits of Chile, with some of it coming from seaweeds. De-velopment of a satisfactory process for making it from oil well brine has taken the monopoly formerly held by Chile and has brought the price down from $4 to $3 a pound.

Frank Miller of Snyder is a mem ber of the Men's Glee Club of Texas Christian University, which, along approximately 225 students will participate in the annual pageant at T. C. U., Fort Worth, on the evening of May 13. The pagean this year is in the form of a Spanish Fiesta. It is directed, as usual, by Helen Walker Murphy, director of physical education for girls.

Cement Is Big Industry.

One of the major industries of Texas, relatively new, is cement naking. The 1930 census shows hine cement plants in the state. They employed 233 executives and salaried employees and 1,484 wage earners. Total output was valued at $11,762,429, of which "value added by manufacture" was $7,605,536, an unsurable bick procession. an unusually high proportion. Salaries and wages paid totaled $2,-086,460 per annum.

Pessimism Pete suggests that Big Spring would have done well, at the convention last week, to set aside one lobby for the drunks, one for the semidrunks and one for the pseudo-drunks. From the American viewpoint, it would seem that Herr Hitler is committing political suicide. But from the Germanic viewpoint, perhaps his heroic armament notes strike a harmonious chord in the hearts of his countrymen. While watching the world in even a distracted sort of way, it is difficult to believe that peace can be maintained many more years.

* * * A New Tie Today?

A very nice gentleman was selling ties in Snyder early this week. He had some pretty ties, too, and they were probably worth about 23 cents apiece (he was asking two-bits for 'em). But we just can't hanker after the idea of buying ties from even a nice visiting gentleman, while Snyder merchants are selling ties from stores on which they pay taxes, insurance, etc., ad infinitum.

Had you stopped to think how much Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck and the other mail order houses ive contributed toward alleviating these Scurry ounty misfortunes?

They have contributed nothing, as you know. They vill contribute nothing tomorrow, nor the next day, or next year. Neither do they contribute taxes, insurance and other things worth while that make a community happy and prosperous.

The mail order houses are not concerned with misfortune in Scurry County, unless it be that misfortune will deprive them of a few mail order dollars. But there is a group of people in this county that s vitally and intensely and humanly interested in ourned homes, in suffering children, in the death of

That group is composed of the merchants who live in Snyder and the other Scurry County towns. This spring has been unusually hard on their pocketbooks, as far as donations to care for the misfortunes of their neighbors are concerned. But they continue to give and give and give, until it hurts more than they will ever let it be known.

The Weekly Newspaper.

Since the days of Benjamin Franklin no bit of literature has visited so many rural homes as the weekly or home newspaper. For generations it was regarded by its avid readers as the symposium of all the worth while news and its attached role as formerly. A fortnight after Barbara's return to New York, she receives a letter from Pauline that she and Dennis are coming to New York for a little vacation. Upon their arrival a round of gay entertainment gets under regarded by its avid readers as the symposium of all the worth while news, and its editorial page expressed views on current topics that were generally accepted much into each other's company Dennis is in leve with Barbara. Country editors know that in satisfied personal pride and vanity resides much of the popularity of the weekly press.

But the weekly newspaper has and performs a higher mission. Its editors live in close social and intellectual communion with the people they serve. This intimate contact enables them to correctly anticipate and appraise public sentiment and to direct and mould that sentiment in its incipiency in the right direction.

HERE IS ANOTHER CHAPTER IN LIFE OF SCURRY COUNTY MAN

Many Times readers have been of waiting for this third chapter in the life of J. Wright Mooar, pioneer buffalo hunter, as it appears in Holland's Magazine. Dr. J. W. Hunt, Abilene, is the author.

I, how-ever, pressed on, and to McCabe's angry protest said I was going on to Mulberry Creek. Protesting, Mc-Cabe hooked up and followed. We earned later that this decision saved up from a horrible fate. The shoot-ing heard that day had been a battle between a band of some 25 or 30 Indians and a small surveying party led by Captain Short, camped on Orooked Creek. In a running fight, Short and his men were killed and scalped.

Four days later, the hunters on Beaver came to the spring on Stumpy Royer and found a compass and other impedimenta of the surveyors, which the Indians had carried there and thrown aside.

Here the hunters discovered that my companions and I had also camped. Fearing the worst, a party led by Frazier pushed on to Crooked Creek on horseback, and discovered that the Indians had also been there and had ridden around the spe where McCabe had driven out to camp for the night, but after milling around for a time had taken another direction than the road to Mulberry. Nevertheless, not knowing that we had ever reached Mulberry, the hunters became more where they were rejoiced to find us

One other curious incident connected with this event was the finding of a postal card near the com-pass discarded by the Indians at the spring, on which was a crude picture of six human bodies lying in certain postures, and at certain intervals; and on the bodies were dots, which later proved to be exact representations of the positions and postures of Captain Short and his men, the dots marking the wounds they had received as they were shot down. Some Indian artist had thus left a record of the massacre. No eye-witness of the tragedy, save the Indians, lived to give any account of the last struggle of six brave men ror life. The mutilated bodies were found as the artist had drawn them and imagination based on the knowledge of Indian warfare was left to picture the scene. A great thing has occurred amongst us. We have made a complete turn-around, and at last America's face is toward the future.

Three years --- 1929 to 1932 --- we Americans looked backward. All our old financial and political machinery was geared to pull us out of the depression by the same door through which we entered. We thought it simply a case of going back the way we came. It failed. We now realize that the way out is forward---through it.

Thanks for that belongs to President Roosevelt. Inauguration Day he turned the Ship of State around. Having observed the failure of sincere efforts to haul us back the way we came, he designed a new method --- new political and financial machinery --- to pull us out the way we are going --- forward. He is clearing international obstacles out of the way; he does not stand in awe of tariffs. The people begin to feel that he does not take advice from the "interests"; that he has courage and loyalty to work for one supreme interest only --- the welfare of the American people. That is a big achievement for two months in office. And now we all look to what is coming; we grow less and less concerned with what is behind. We are looking for a hand-hold on the haul rope. Every man wants to do what he can, and all he can.

The best thing I can do for the Country is to create industry by building good motor cars. If I knew anything better to do, I would do it. Industry must be my contribution. Motor cars must face ahead to the future, like everything else. They are so much a part of the Nation's daily life that if they lag behind they hold the Country back.
