

FOOD AND FEED RAISING COMES FIRST ON FARM

Regional Crop Production Loan Manager Sends Resume of Credit Group Operations.

"The first essential is that the borrower produce as far as possible all food and feed necessary for his family and livestock."

Such is the statement of Owen W. Sherrill, Dallas regional manager of the crop production loan office, through which Snyder County loans were handled.

Mr. Sherrill points out that "we now enter the second stage in administering these loans, which securing the production of sufficient crops to repay the loans."

A resume of crop production credit to American farmers for the years 1932 and 1933 reveals that in the former year $67,000,000 was loaned, and that the appropriation this year is $90,000,000.

The Dallas office was set up in March, 1932, to handle crop loans for Texas, New Mexico and Arizona. Within 60 days, the office made 40,192 loans to farmers. It maintained throughout a collection period, with the exception of one week, the highest record of collections by any similar office in the United States.

Under special acts of Congress approved May 1, 1933, the Dallas office is making wheat loans in the distressed areas of the Texas Panhandle and Eastern New Mexico for summer fallowing and fall seeding of wheat.

Mr. Sherrill expresses keen appreciation to The Times for the publicity it has given the work of his office.

L. Carrell, Snyder County director.

COUNTY SCHOOLS GET $10,000 OF SPECIAL AID

College and university students attending state institutions will receive approximately $450 per capita for the coming school year, while elementary and high school students will receive no more than $19 from all sources.

This amazing statement concerning school legislation passed by the recent Legislature is made in a letter written to The Times by A. A. Bullock, former Snyder County superintendent, now connected with the State Department of Education. The Times requested Mr. Bullock to summarize legislation passed by the session that will directly affect Snyder County. This letter is his interesting answer to the request:

Per Capita $13 to $15.
Editors, Snyder County Times: As per your request, I will give you a brief outline of the effect of legislation coming out of the forty-third session of the Legislature will have on the schools of Snyder County.

The only major revenue bill passed by the Legislature was the measure placing a tax on oil. This, along with a little raised here on cigarettes and some there on something else will probably give to the children between $13 and $15 per capita for the coming year. This per capita will be set later by the state board.

This, along with the $6,000,000 in rural aid, will give to the schools of the county nearly as much money as they had during the present year.

Compromise Measure.
The Legislature passed the rural aid bill giving to the schools $8,000,000. The House cut it to $6,000,000 and voted to do away with supervision of the inspectors. A free conference committee was appointed and this committee from the two houses agreed on $7,000,000 and agreed that the inspectors should remain on the job.

The House refused to concur in this amendment, and a new free conference committee was appointed. They agreed to $6,000,000 and the inspectors, provided the Legislature should name the number of inspectors to be used. The argument seemed to have been that too many inspectors were going over the state at the expense of the state.

The two houses passed this bill at $6,000,000, limiting the Department of Education to 16 rural school inspectors. As we have only had 12 heretofore, the bill really added four inspectors to the list. I do not know whether the other four will be added or not.

$450 Against $19.
The Legislature appropriated $9,000,000 to state institutions of higher learning, or about $450 per capita for the something like 20,000 students enrolled in these schools. The children of scholastic age in the elementary and high schools of the state, including all state aid, receive not more than $18 or $19 per capita. Some of the members of both houses put up a pretty hard fight on this seeming injustice, but to no avail.

Even though the college boys and girls were given $9,000,000 and the 1,500,000 children of the elementary and high schools were given only $6,000,000, the schools will be in fair condition for an average of six or seven months during the coming year and probably more if local taxes are paid.

Snyder County's Share.
The emergency appropriation of $1,600,000 will give to Snyder County $2,149 for the school year 1933-34 and $7,078 for 1932-33. In other words, the $5,000,000 appropriated by the forty-second Legislature lacked $1,600,000 paying the bill. In reality we got $5,000,000 plus $1,600,000 during the past two years, or $6,600,000 more than has been set aside for the coming biennium.

The Senate bill by DeBerry proposing to cut the six-year-old children from the scholastic roll was killed in the House by a substantial majority after the Senate had passed it. There will, therefore, be no change in the scholastics of the county.

If Snyder County can get a fair price for its products this year, so people can pay their school taxes, the schools will be in fine shape.

Right-of-Way Being Secured For No. 83

Work of securing the right-of-way from Anson to the Fisher County line on highway No. 83 was going forward late last week with 37 out of a total of 68 landowners having signed deeds, it was reported from Anson.

It is understood that as quickly as the fences are moved back the state highway department will begin work on the road bed.

The entire route through Fisher County has already been widened and straightened. No definite information concerning plans for surfacing the route has been given.

Bullock Becomes Head Supervisor Of Rural Schools

A. A. (Pat) Bullock, former county superintendent, has been promoted to the place of chief supervisor of the rural school division of the State Department of Education. Appointment to the new place, which succeeded John T. Conn, was made last week.

Since the new superintendent, L. A. Woods, went into office, Pat has been an inspector in the rural school division, as well as a handler of office work at the capital.

The job of disbursing the $1,600,000 deficiency appropriation made by the Legislature is the first major task to face the new rural school chief. Next in order will come the working of all high school tuition applications, so the former Snyder County does not expect to have any leisure time to come.

West Texas friends of Pat feel that he is particularly well fitted for his new place, since he knows and understands the problems of rural education as few other men in the state know and understand them. During his lengthy tenure as superintendent here, he injected several reforms that gave the rural child an equal break with his city cousin.

Another former Snyder resident, Mrs. C. R. Buchanan, is also a chief in the State Department of Education, as head of the supplies department.

Many Teachers Are Going From County Schools To College

A number of the teachers in Snyder County schools plan to spend their vacation days in a search for education at a college, according to the county superintendent, Frank Farmer.

Local teachers who are going to school this summer are listed elsewhere. Those from smaller schools, and the colleges or universities they will attend, are as follows, in part: Sul Ross, Alpine—Robert Taylor of Pyron, Gilbert Mize of Dunn, Pauline Jones of Lloyd Mountain.

East Texas, Commerce—Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Hamrick and Memory Smith of Pyron.

A. C. C. Abilene—Mrs. Lida Rhoades of Martin.

Texas Tech, Lubbock—T. B. Hicks of Turner, Victor Drinkard of Pyron, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Irvin of Plainview, Guy Stark of Dunn, and Tennyne Mae Jeffress of Guinn.

Stephen F. Austin, Nacogdoches—E. O. Wedgeworth, Leo Beavers and E. H. McCarter of Fluvanna.

Simmons, Abilene—Mercedes Robertson of Fluvanna.

DISTRICT DRYS TO CONVENE IN ABILENE RALLY

Warren Dodson of Snyder is Vice Chairman of Organization to Uphold Prohibition.

Plans have just been completed for two regional conferences on organization work for the dry forces in the 24th Senatorial District, one to be held at Breckenridge on June 12 and one at Abilene on June 13.

The morning will be given over to a discussion of methods of organization, methods of campaigning material to be used, and where to find it, under the direction of Dr. Abilene Webb.

The afternoons will be given to organization work under the direction of the district chairman, Judge Otis Miller, and the vice-chairman, Hon. Jesse R. Smith of Breckenridge. Gov. Thos. E. Hayden of Abilene, Hon. Warren Dodson of Snyder, and Judge John Lee Smith of Throckmorton. A large mass meeting will be held at night at both Breckenridge and Abilene.

Dr. J. W. Hunt will be the chief speaker for the Abilene meeting. The speaker for the Breckenridge meeting has not been selected.

"Facing Greatest Battle."
"We are facing," said Dr. Webb in Dallas Tuesday, "the greatest battle for moral righteousness that we have faced in a generation. There is within our reach the greatest victory if we prepare properly, or the most disastrous defeat, if we fail to get ready."

"The situation is so complex and the people are so ignorant and we can not win this fight with old-time methods. We must organize our forces to reach voters who do not attend our mass meetings, and we must reach them with an intelligently planned campaign material."

"It is to accomplish these purposes that this conference is called. We are in serious danger of going into this battle with only a 'paper' organization. It has been 15 years since we have had such a campaign. We have lost the technique of prohibition campaigns. Those who used to lead these fights are now mostly too old to do so. The responsibility rests upon our younger men. We must prepare."

Workers to Be Drilled.
"Those attending will be drilled and thoroughly grounded in these matters so that they can go back home to become effective workers in the fight. Our purpose will be to take the 'paper' organization and whip it into a fighting army."

Letters went out from headquarters Tuesday asking all dry friends upon whom rests the task of saving our dry laws, and who live in the 24th Senatorial District to attend one or both of these meetings.

Those living in Taylor, Nolan, Fisher, Jones, Mitchell and Snyder Counties are asked to attend the Abilene meeting; those living in Haskell, Throckmorton, Shackelford, Stephens, Eastland, and Callahan Counties to attend the Breckenridge meeting.

About 30 such regional conferences will be held in the next few weeks and it is hoped to reach every county in Texas.

Little Business At Meeting of Council

Business failed to pick up very much at the regular City Council meeting Monday night.

Tax Collector Walter Camp reported that $75 had been collected in his department during the month. Two "wet" fires were reported by the fire department, making a drain of $65 for fireman's equipment.

It is expected that a special called meeting will be held before the month has passed.

Swimming Pool Opens.
It was a merry crowd that gathered at the old Keller swimming pool for the season's official opening Tuesday evening. With "Red" Moore and Clyde Rowe, new operators, in charge, a clean, well-lighted and well-kept pool was pleasing to the first-night group.

BOAZ TO LEAD METHODISTS IN TEN-DAY MEET

Houston Bishop Will Begin Series Of Evangelistic Services At 8:30 Friday Evening.

Under the leadership of Dr. H. A. Boaz of Houston, presiding bishop of the Northwest Texas Annual Conference, Snyder Methodists will have a 10-day revival campaign Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

Rev. S. H. Young, local pastor, considers the church extremely fortunate in securing the services of such an outstanding denominational leader as Bishop Boaz. The Houston man is noted for his quiet, yet forceful platform style, for his keen knowledge of the Bible, and for his inspiring evangelistic messages.

Outstanding Record.
The bishop's coming will be particularly pleasant to Bro. Young, who attended Polytechnic College, Fort Worth (now Texas Woman's College), while Dr. Boaz was president of that institution.

The churchman was president of Southern Methodist University, Dallas, when he was called to Houston as bishop.

In addition to his pastorates, his college pastorates, and his service as bishop in Texas, Dr. Boaz served for four years as presiding officer of a Methodist conference in the Orient.

Abilene Man Coming.
Dan Gibson of Abilene, a graduate of McMurry College, will be in charge of the young people's services during the meeting. He is well known here as a worker among the younger church members.

Bro. Young announces that services will be held daily at 10:00 a. m. and 8:30 p. m. in the Cottage Baptist church, under direction of women of the church, are being held every day at 4:00 p. m. Much will be made of the song service, under direction of E. D. Curry.

"We trust that this evangelistic campaign will reach into every Snyder home and into many other Snyder County homes," the pastor said yesterday. "A cordial invitation is extended to people of all faiths, and especially to those without Christ, to attend these special services."

The difference in the time of year and relative range of this particular in the high school auditorium which is experienced by the farmers of your general locality, lower plains and Central West Texas area," the government report revealed.

Students Returning To Their Homes Here Add Life to Snyder Community

A number of college students have arrived home to spend the summer with their parents. Reasons why they returned to the "old home town" include the following: Some of them received their degrees and concluded that were smart enough; some came home to rest, but most of them came home because they were run out of money.

Miss Saxton West and Russell Slater returned home the latter part of last week from Baylor University, Waco, declaring it to be the "only" school.

Miss Jeanette Lollar and Johnnie Mathison arrived some time during the night Monday from C. I. A. Denton. At any rate, they were seen on the streets of this fair city Tuesday morning.

Miss Charles Ella Hamlet, Rodney Glascock and Ester Jones came home last week from Randolph College, Cisco, and with them came reports of their excellent scholastic records.

Frank Miller from Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, will be home this week.

James McKennon returns this week bearing his degree from Rice Institute, Houston.

Austin Erwin, who has been a student at State University, Austin, is at home for the summer.

Dorothy Darby came home this week from Texas Tech, Lubbock.

Charles Ely has returned from McMurry College, Austin, to spend the summer.

Following are the youthful graduates who were recognized, in addition to those from Snyder, whose names were given last week: Dermot-Laurie Greenfield, Ralph Bates; Strayhorn—Floissie M. Wall, Evan Hamilton, Billie Sumrall, Vera Cranley, Cullen Robinson; Fryon—Mabel Light, John Miller, Aral Chisney, Myrtle Vernon, Joe Winburn, Bertha Young, Ruth Garrett; Bethel—Vivian Walls, Luidene Woolver, Curtis Jeffress, Lavelle Wilson, Kenneth Mull; Ennis—Raymond Rainwater, Alberta Morrison, Leola Jones, Myrtle Vernon, Leatherwood; Cottonwood—Buddy Hudnall; Plainview—Hoyt Smith, Muriel Woodard, Orea Ryan, Katherine Payne, Vera Martin;

Z. Morgan, Roland White; Guinn—Thomas Dixon, Grady Moore, Calde De Shazo, Elene Dixon; Camp Springs—L. H. Reep; Independence—Hazel Jones—Leon Eacker, Floyd Fulton Strickland; Martin—Patty Williams.

Government Reports On Crow's Leg Band

The crow that carried a government leg band, killed last month northwest of town by J. E. Daniel, was banded at Spur on November 7, 1931, by E. R. Kalmbach. This report came to The Times office Saturday, following sending of the irrefutable evidence to the Department of Agriculture at Washington. The bird is called a white-necked raven.

"The difference in the time of year and relative range of this particular in the high school auditorium which is experienced by the farmers of your general locality, lower plains and Central West Texas area," the government report revealed.

JURY RETURNS INDICTMENTS IN SPECIAL COURT

Damage Suit Against County May Be Postponed As Lawyers Fail to Appear.

Five indictments were returned late Tuesday by a grand jury summoned for the special term of district court that began Monday under Judge James T. Brooks of Big Spring.

Two colored men, Howard Williams and O. W. Lewis, who have been residing in jail for some time, are charged with burglarizing the Drennan garage at Hermleigh. Pete, Max and Bud Shipley were indicted for alleged burglary of the W. O. Linecum home, near Dunn, in March. Pete and Max have been in jail for some time, while Bud will be returned from the Siering City jail, where he was recently placed after receiving a penitentiary sentence for theft of a saddle.

The criminal docket is set for the beginning of the fourth week of the term—Monday, June 26. The grand jury has recessed until the third week of court.

The breach of contract suit of the Sylvan Sanders Company, Lubbock, against Snyder County, probably will be postponed, since the plaintiff lawyers have not appeared on the scene. The county has filed motion for postponement.

Judge Brooks heard a few minor cases Monday and Tuesday. Since George Mahon, district attorney, must be in Colorado for the "Slim" Davis murder trial, which opens next week, there will probably be no more court here until the third week of the special session.

L. B. Worley Going To Colorado Canyon

L. B. Worley left Snyder yesterday for the Grand Canyon, Colorado, where he will enter the government park service for the fifth consecutive summer. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Worley, and he taught at the Ira school during the year just closed.

For three summers, L. B. was with the ranger service at Yellowstone National Park. Last year, he transferred to the Grand Canyon, where one of nature's most remarkable outbursts is just all in the day's work with him.

Summer School Will Open Here Monday

Summer school is scheduled to open at the local schools Monday under the principalship of R. S. Sullivan. The faculty has not been definitely announced, since it will be determined to some extent on enrollment.

Two More Schools to Close Terms Friday

Two more Snyder County schools are making plans for closing Friday of this week. They are Independence and Ennis Creek.

Sulphur, Plainview and Crowder closed Friday of last week. The only two schools to remain open after this week are German and Guinn, which will close Friday of next week.

Teachers in Snyder Schools Plan To Spend Summer Days In Varied Ways

The vacations planned by the Snyder Public School teachers vary almost as much as the plans of a millionaire and of a peasant vendor.

Some of them plan to go to the World's Fair, and others must go fishing.

Midland Back to "B."
Midland High School returned to Class B football by vote of the school board last week, after a year's fling in higher circles. The board held that necessity of playing crippled, impossible population odds, added expense and a known lack of abundant prospects for this year justified the change.

The district of which Wink won the championship last year, Wink defeating Snyder in bi-district play.

Theodore Yoder Visits Here.
Theodore Yoder arrived in Snyder this morning for an extended visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Yoder. He has been attending Columbia University, New York, during the term just closed. He was accompanied to Texas by Mr. and Mrs. McJimmey, teachers in the university. Mrs. McJimmey is a daughter of Mrs. C. R. Buchanan.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED IN THE FORTY-THIRD LEGISLATURE

By Ben F. Smith.

Through the kindness of the editors of The Scurry County Times, inviting an outline of the work of the forty-third Legislature, which closed last Thursday—the longest session in the history of Texas law-making bodies—we contribute to our friends and Times readers a brief summary of what took place; what laws were passed and the history of some legislation which failed to get the sanction of our law makers. For nearly five long months we sat through practically every session of the forty-third Legislature, and witnessed much and sundry discussion, and the final passage of some important legislation and also witnessed the killing of proposed measures that we thought ought to have passed.

On being asked since our return home last Friday morning, "What did the Legislature accomplish?" we answered that apparently the forty-third Legislature did not accomplish much; that is, this would ap-

Mrs. J. A. McKinney, Correspondent

We are having some hot wind most of the farmers have completed their planting, but are afraid the ground has dried out too much to get a stand.

Our school closed Friday. Most of the children made their grades. The play was presented Monday night. We have had a good school this year.

W. B. Hhels and family of the Bison community visited in the C. H. Adams home Sunday.

Whit Farmer and family visited in the E. A. Black home at Snyder Sunday.

J. F. Adams and wife spent Sunday afternoon in the Walker home at Snyder. W. A. McKinney spent Sunday in the home of G. C. Robinson.

order to combat the depression. Those well informed, even the president himself, says the depression is not over, nor the end is not in sight, and the plans adopted and being put into force are, in use President Roosevelt's words, "only experimental." The way for Texas to share in the present distribution for relief is to issue these bonds and raise a fund of $20,000,000 to be matched by the federal government. So it is important that we discuss this proposed bond issue and know the facts confronting us. From the present crop outlook in West Texas, we folks of the West may become the main beneficiaries of this bond issue.

tax, and these facts lead to the opposition to that measure. While the schools were favored in every way possible, especially the common schools, there is a chance and a good one that the next two years school terms will be cut exceedingly short. There were some in the House who claimed that the apportionment will be from $13 to $15. The higher schools of learning received attention in the raise of tuition, placing future entrance fees of inter-state pupils at $40 for the nine-month term, and a rider placed in the bill where these fees can not be used to increase salaries. This will not help the common schools, but seems to be a wise piece of legislation nevertheless.

Task Before Lawmakers.

The forty-third Legislature had a hard task before it. Its primary object was to reduce the cost of government, and save the people from new tax burdens, and they followed this course all the way through the session. On practically every measure of importance coming before the Legislature there was wide divergence of opinion. The people at home were divided themselves, and a bombardment of representatives by letters and telegrams was carried on constantly. So, after all, we feel that the Legislature did the very best it could under the circumstances, and to carry out their pledges to the people in reducing the tax burden and reducing the cost of government. Future Legislatures will have to take up these issues where the forty-third left off and endeavor to find some other solutions to raise revenue and pay the state's debts.

One important matter to which we wish to call attention is the pending bond issue of $20,000,000 to be voted on in August. The federal government is now carrying on a large program of distribution in

The Times Creed.
For the cause that needs assistance;
For the wrongs that need resistance;
For the future in the distance,
And the good that we can do.

THE WEEKLY DOZEN.

County Government.
Now that several courthouse offices have been combined, baby kissing and handshaking will be reduced at least 18 1/2 per cent.

Morgan and the Mite.
Talkative Tillie suggests that the tiny circus mite (female) who was perched on J. P. Morgan's lap as a publicity stunt may have been a reflection of the nation's opinion of the money baron.

The Day of the Coming.
Pessimism Pete is of the opinion that the seeds that speak the loudest and longest in regard to the second coming of Christ would be the first to seek a mountain top or a hole in the ground if they sensed the approach of doom's day.

Sombreros Against Hats.
"Look at your hat, everyone else does." Nope, this is not a hat advertisement. Just a gentle hint that the man who wears a 39-cent straw sombrero is much more stylish these days than the hard-collared fellow who pulls his feet over blistered ears.

The Legislature Goes Home.
Dad-grat it! Just when we were ready to introduce a measure making it a penitentiary offense to mention any 100 per cent cooperative effort among merchants in towns of less than 4,000 population, the Legislature had to drop its knitting and go home.

Men of Valor.
The World War veteran who was disabled in action, and has been stricken off the pay list by Rooseveltian edicts, is more courageous when he says, "I'm with the president, right or wrong," than he was when he rushed across No Man's Land in the face of a Hun barrage.

Just Plain Folks.
It is doubtful that any spontaneous action of President Roosevelt has caused more grins among his fellow countrymen than the sidwist in his speech to Annapolis graduates that bid the young men get their heads out of the clouds and mingle with the other ordinary folks.

That Postage Deal.
Strange as it may seem, James A. Farley, postmaster general, thinks two-cent postage will bring more money into U. S. coffers than three-cent postage is bringing. The postage cut bill will be signed by Roosevelt within a few days, Farley believes. Welcome back, you bold red sticker, for you are another emblem of pre-depression days.

The Signs May Fail.
Most of the weather signs have failed this year. Not many folks expected the good rain that fell late last month. Not many of the budding prophets expect it to rain in time to save the majority of the cotton and feed crop. But the signs may fail, you know, just as they did when half the country failed to starve last year, as some would have had you believe.

Out-of-Town Dollars.
The steady increase in national advertising schedules is just another reason for believing that prosperity has been glimpsed by our industrialists. At least 90 per cent of all the advertising carried in recent issues of The Times by the following companies is paid for with out-of-town money, and in most cases the entire amount comes from New York, Chicago or other money marks: Conoco, Gulf, Ford, Chevrolet, Good-year, United States, Kelly-Springfield.

Cotton Replaces Jute.
Texans owe a vote of thanks to Senator Tom Connally, who has seen his friend, Silliman Evans, fourth assistant postmaster general, order substitution of cotton twine for jute twine in the post office department. The first two cotton twine orders consumed more than 100 bales of cotton. In itself, that doesn't mean much, but broadly speaking, it means that Uncle Sam is more and more coming to his farmer's relief. Senator Connally has been agitating his cotton twine movement for a number of years.

Where Clothes Ruin the Man.
In Russia, clothes would ruin a man if he were allowed to wear the kind his pride always dictated. It is said that on street cars in Moscow and other large cities in Russia, one can not pick out bankers and manufacturers from mill hands and clerks, for the simple reason that they dress almost exactly alike. Neither do clothes make the women over in Russia. Silk stockings are just so much excess baggage in the minds of Soviet officials, and those creepy underthings are horrible creations. Maybe Russia's right and we're wrong, after all. "A man's a man, for a' that."

Brotherhood In Snyder.

"If the world of business contained one-half as much tolerance and respect for the rights of others as the world of the church contains, we would have fewer problems to solve and fewer mistakes to rectify."
Most Times readers will be surprised to learn that the statement just quoted comes from a fairly large daily newspaper; in fact, it comes from the leading editorial in a recent issue of that newspaper.

Re-read that statement, if you will, and apply it to Snyder.
The minor frictions that sometimes arise between local churches are usually multiplied into mountains by a few hotheads and religious fanatics. The street-corner controversies, waged principally by men who are much better versed in gossip mongering than they are in church going, are evaluated, oftentimes, as the profound thoughts of a majority of the town's church members.

If the majority of our churches were not broad-minded in censorship and argument, they would not be accepted by an ever increasing number of members. The modern world does not accept narrow creeds for long. Recent statistics reveal that the majority of Protestant churches have grown at least 150 per cent in recent years, whereas population increases have not been nearly so rapid. It is a striking commentary on the theme that is being enlarged here that those churches based on narrowness and sectionalism and lack of brotherhood have been going down hill rather than upward.

Business men would do well to study the methods of church progress and fellowship. They would do well to apply the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Savior's teachings on love and brotherhood, if they would build their businesses into new places of community pride and benefit.

The Wind's Reply
To Common Complains.

(Rev. James H. Tate, that former Scurry County preacher who now resides in Mentone, California, "presents the other side of the subject" in the following reply to a poem presented in The Times May 11. "I do not mean to criticize the poem, but, just for the fun of it, I have undertaken to make reply," writes the lovable pioneer.)

You say I "Blow and blow and blow
Around the corners with a sigh,
And moan and groan, both loud and low,"
And cut my capers both far and nigh.

The charge is true, I must confess;
So now I come, with humble zest,
Apologizing for the awful thing
And explain to you just what I mean.

My mission is to bless mankind
Although, perchance, I raise some sand.
I push and pull the best I can
To make for you a fruitful land.

Without my labor yours would fail
And you'd go home with an empty pail.
No clouds—no rain—we all confess,
But I bring these from the ocean's breast.

If I did not "Blow and blow and blow,"
You'd have neither rain nor ice nor snow.
Pastures would fail—your farms be waste,
If I did not blow, blow and fill my place.

Not a mill would turn in Scurry land,
If I didn't blow and stir up the sand.
Your wells would be nil—your tanks all dry,
If I didn't turn the wheel with the usual sigh.

Then Old Sol gets hot, you will remember—
Especially from June until September.
Then who can come and fill my place,
With stirring breeze, cool your face—
Hauling the rain-clouds out to their place,
Doing all these things as free as grace?

Men must expect to work and sacrifice for their work if they are to accumulate enough of this world's goods to live with any degree of comfort.

CURRENT COMMENT
BY LEON GUINN

The recent investigation into affairs of J. P. Morgan and associates in Washington has clarified much concerning the ethics of private investment bankers. . . . So interesting were the questions fired at the coddled soldiers of fortune by Ferdinand Pecora, who has an uncanny sense of ferreting out things, that six tables were required to accommodate press representatives, the largest press representative group for a committee hearing in the history of Washington. . . . Chief snipers: Pecora, Senators Couzens and Glass. . . . In 1912 the snooty House of Morgan was called on the carpet, like this investigation revealed no open fraud in stock market juggling.

Under the constant fire of Questioner Pecora it was revealed numerous influential Americans were tipped to purchase preferred stocks, repay Morgan with favors necessary to insure profits. . . . Mr. Pecora excavated, among other things, the fact that private bankers practice manipulations that would be illicit in other lines of trade. . . . Question: How far can a shady wire-pulling job in finance go without being unlawful? . . . The Morgan records show stocks were purchased previous to upping the stocks by pools, later collapsed to loss margins. . . . I ask you, gentle reader, how can American business be fair when private investment bankers manipulate stocks, close the incident with extravagant profits? . . . Just because the arrogant Morgan associates lost a few millions is no reason why they should not pay income taxes, and Pecora should be voted for a congressional medal. . . . If any of us farmers made a living half as crooked as the Morganites, the jail door would welcome us, and there is no excuse to uphold a stock "fixer," be his handle Morgan or Mitchell.

June perhaps some day will be designated as the month for graduations and weddings, each day being a legal holiday, if this here 30-hour week is ever adopted widely. . . . It should be designated in this 29th part of Texas as official picnic month, for it is then picnicking assumes its gayest aspect. . . . Scurry County has scenery that rivals the Grand Canyon (in miniature), water that tests 98 per cent pure, and physicians say, one of the most healthful altitudes in our Lone Star domain. . . . For the history prober rare prehistoric dinosaur and mammoth bones are embedded in its virgin soil layers, and for the outdoor lover its winding streams and trees provide space to use up energy. . . . But, best sales point is that its people are the finest friends one can number among one's assets!

Fourteenth Chapter

SYNOPSIS—Pauline, sentimental, trusting, sincere and loving love, becomes engaged and marries Dennis O'Connell. The latter, through a series of unfortunate events, loses his fortune and is forced to leave Pauline. Pauline, in a fit of pique, marries a man who is not the man she thought he was. She is abandoned and returns to Pauline. Pauline, in a fit of pique, marries a man who is not the man she thought he was. She is abandoned and returns to Pauline. Pauline, in a fit of pique, marries a man who is not the man she thought he was. She is abandoned and returns to Pauline.

Barbara broke a way from her sobbing. "Tomorrow never come," she wept. "Tomorrow never comes."
She read Pauline's letter sitting up in bed long after Mrs. Mellish had gone comfortably away, believing that Barbara slept.
Pauline began in her extravagant fashion:
Darling, Darling, Darling:
I don't know why I am writing to tell you my wonderful secret even before I tell Dennis, something seems to tell me I must. I think somehow I've known it for a long time in the way that people know things—subconsciously, don't you call it?—and that I've been afraid to admit it even to myself. But now I'm sure, and I'm so wonderfully, wonderfully happy that I want to share my happiness with you, because you are my best friend and I love you. Barbara darling, I am going to have a baby.

undisturbed as ever. "Mr. O'Hara. He says he will wait. I told him you were still sleeping."
For a moment she could not answer; then she said with an effort: "Oh, yes."
"I'll get up. Please get my bath ready."
Barbara got out of bed and looked at herself in the glass. She did not look her best in the early morning, and she knew it.
"I look old," she thought with a pang, and hurriedly turned away. Barbara had never dressed so quickly before.
Why had he come so early? What was he doing now?
She looked in the mirror a hundred times, and at last she went to him without paint or powder on her face.
"You are an early bird," she said, trying to speak lightly, and Dennis turned.
"He has heard from Pauline—he knows about Pauline," Barbara told herself, and her hand went to her heart.

charge of organization work, and is starting immediately into organization of county directing boards. Meetings for this purpose have already been scheduled at Abilene for Taylor County, and at Anson for Jones County.

County Unit Objective.

"Object of the county unit," said T. E. Alvis, county president, "is to furnish a close contact between the cooperative marketing association and all its members. A county board will consist of one farmer-member elected from each commissioner's precinct; and the chairman of this group in turn will represent his county on the district council. The district council will act in an advisory capacity in the administration of the association's business."

Alvis has announced that the WTCGA's operating policies will be worked out at a territorial membership conference to be held in Abilene about the middle of June, when representatives of ACCA, the sales agency, and of the state cooperative will discuss the revised set-up. The president also said an officer of the new Farm Credit Association from Washington will be asked to attend.

The Merits of Dumbness . . .

W. F. McCallum is dumb. The Times does not call him that, but the fellow himself declares that he is—we just repeat his assertion. He writes to this effect, and because the article is unusual we give it space in our columns.

W. F. son of Mrs. Eloie Basham of Camp Springs, is a junior this year in Baylor University, Waco.

His article follows:

The Merits of Dumbness.

I knew I was dumb before I knew anything else. Ever since I can remember my friends told me, so I am sure of it. For many years I have gone through life trying to find something which would be a recompense to me, something which would counterbalance whatever loss my dumbness might have brought about. So far I have not found anything. But the funny part is that I am beginning to think that I may have been wrong, doing my best, and when things go wrong I do not develop a nervous breakdown. I worry perhaps, but I always have the consolation of knowing that I could not have done better.

Why, I am so dumb that when I am asked a question I always have to tell the truth, because I am not shrewd enough to do otherwise. Sometimes I envy people who can talk for a full hour on a thought which they were not so sure of in the first place. They go about preaching a principle or advocating a theory which in sound is a gift from the gods, but which in reality is nothing but the pathetic effort of some ambitious mind to talk about something.

I am so pathetically and eternally dumb that I do not know what it is to be lonely. I have no craving to talk just for the sake of conversation or to be with someone just for association. No matter where I am, I feel about me the presence of the people who are a part of my soul, and so I am never alone. When I take a trip I do not live in nervous excitement, waiting for the train. I am not in the least disturbed if I have to sit by a lady who is carrying a dog home to her little boy. I am so dumb that I can look out of the window and imagine myself walking among the trees there in the distance, or fancy perhaps that the face of a friend watches me from the window.

At school I am so dumb that I do not know how to fool others into thinking that I am nonchalant and independent. Instead, I just act myself, and no one thinks to notice.

The life of a dumb person is an interesting one. It is exciting in that it reaps huge profits from small investments; it is exhilarating in that it offers a back-stage interview with everyone. Sometimes I wonder how it happened that I should be so unfortunate as to be classed among the unenlightened dumb, but when I hear some people's explanation of their opinions about others I think someone must have once seen me try to talk into the wrong end of a French telephone or use the wrong fork at a dinner party. And the penalty for such errors is a sacrifice to all who claim knowledge or understanding.

There are more than 300,000 uneducated people in Texas who can not read or write satisfactorily, but this is not the type of dumbness I am discussing. Only about two per cent of our population get college degrees. Out of this two per cent 70 per cent of our responsible positions are filled. Over 85 per cent of those in these positions were C and B students. It is admirable to make good grades, but I think a student develops a better personality and is better fitted for life who combines into his or her curriculum something besides study. I admire those who do not let studying interfere with their education.

Such a life has its miseries and its losses, but the nicest thing about it is its simplicity and purity. For the greatest happiness that life has given me is the joy of facing the world honestly and being able to say: "This is the best I can do, and you may take it or leave it."

The World War Veterans.

During my lonely hours I have pondered and meditated with the highest emotions the sublimity of the roaring thunder, the desolating tornado and withering simoom of the desert, but neither of these nor all of them have aroused my enthusiasm like the courage, fidelity and patriotism of the American soldier, fighting a foreign enemy in a foreign land for the security and safety of the American home, the principles of national liberty and for a greater democracy.

During the Revolutionary War, in the fall of 1768, England sent two regiments of soldiers to Boston to overawe the community.

Sam Adams was the first political boss. He organized committees and town meetings. He has been called the wedge that split England and America.

The American army turned defeat into victory. It is the wedge that split Germany and America, removed autocracy and established democracy.

The majority of the plutocrats who opposed the payment of the soldiers' bonus are also opposed to the soldiers' pension, regardless of their services or their destitute circumstances.

Many of these plutocrats who were never nearer than 2,000 miles of the firing line, were at home pilfering, plundering, perverting and prostituting by means of stealth, fraud, forgery and a falsehood—in short, using all the insidious schemes of a free-booter, in order to pave their way to the throne of predatory wealth.

Gray hairs, desolate homes, widowed and orphaned is the price of victory!

Some of our soldiers died upon the battlefield; others died upon the operating table; there are some whose names appeared missing in the newspapers, nor will they hear from them until the great judgment day, for they dragged themselves to die beneath the shade of a tree where the birds of the air plucked out their eyes and the vultures of the air ate their flesh and their bones have moulded into dust.

Add this to the ghastly picture. The American soldier loved self government, was ready for freedom, and was willing to fight or die, if need be, for the principles of national liberty.

During the turmoil of the period one incident deserves special attention. Germany told England: "It is not for you to prate about liberty; crush that false ambition and put your influence behind you."

On the 11th of November, 1918, Germany found herself with a depleted army, a bankrupt government, and her influence and power disappeared like the sun-kissed dew upon the flowers of early morn.

The World War veterans appeal to the fairness of the minds of men, the generosity of their hearts and the sympathy of their nature; and ask them are they going to allow the champions of national liberty and the father of a great democracy to beg the bitter bread of charity? If so, I say openly, fearlessly, peerlessly and defiantly, if need be, that their hearts are as cold as the green waters that run beneath the iceberg.

ED C. RALSTON,
Snyder, June 1, 1933.
