State Politics Hits Top Stride in County

HUGHES SETS PACE IN RACE FOR CAPITOL

State politics is making a merry raid on Scurry County these first days of June.

The first gun was fired Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock by Maury Hughes of Dallas, candidate for governor.

Edward K. Russell, bona-fide seeker of the gubernatorial office, spoke Wednesday morning. Joseph W. Bailey Jr. was to have taken the stump last evening, as another step in his whirlwind campaign for the state senator's toga, but was unable to fill the engagement. James V. Allred, a third candidate for the governorship, is slated to speak at 9:00 o'clock this (Thursday) afternoon.

Voters are showing an increasing interest in state politics. Until the deep days of latter-May began, the weather and government regulation were prime topics of the day. Now one hears rumbles of the governor's race on every corner. Sentiment is widely divided. The candidate who would attempt to name the leader of the state ticket, or even the leader in this county, would have argument on his hands from a half dozen directions.

So far, county and district races have not come in for much discussion, but they are to crowd the state campaigns for interest during June; for candidates are combining the by-ways and hedges for votes and influence.

On this page will be found summaries of talks made here by state candidates. Watch this page every week for political news.

Maury Hughes Stresses His Own Law Enforcement Plan; Opposes New Tax

First state candidate to address Scurry County voters, Maury Hughes of Dallas drove home a well-outlined platform Saturday morning on the courthouse lawn. He spoke to about 250 persons over his own public address system. J. W. Scott, a long-time friend of the candidate, was the introducer.

The former state Democratic chairman included a tour of 16 West Texas towns at Abilene Saturday night. He expressed confidence that his straightforward platform will be largely accepted throughout the state, and that he will enter the runoff.

The candidate stressed what has been called the "Hughes law enforcement plan," a system he advocated some months ago. It provides (1) for a state police force—a merger of the ranger units and the highway patrol; (2) revision of the judiciary; and (3) introduction of the federal system of pardons and paroles.

Would Combine Forces.
 "Coordination of our law enforcement agencies would mean more prompt and thorough measures to apprehend the criminals," said Mr. Hughes, "and a centralized state agency would mean greater efficiency." He scored the ranger force as it is now constituted as having members who are appointed for political purposes only.

As for court reform: "A system in which criminal cases can be kept before the courts for four or five years, and in which verdicts can be reversed because of technicalities is wrong, and I favor measures that will speed up justice without jeopardizing the rights of the man who is on trial." Hughes pointed out the advantages of the federal pardon system, by which executive clemency would be fixed by law.

The candidate was vigorous in his opposition to "new taxes of any kind." "I am opposed to a state income tax," he said, "because the federal government has monopolized that field. I am against a sales tax because it is an assessment on poverty and taxes the man least able to pay. Any tax on the necessities of life is a wrong tax."

Opposes Bonds.
 He opposes any issuance of bonds for four years unless "an issue of bond funds is absolutely necessary."

Hughes' school program: "I believe every child is entitled to at least seven months' schooling each year, and nine months if it is possible. I believe the teacher is entitled to a decent wage, and I favor restoration of the $17.50 per capita allotment as soon as it is possible.

JOE BAILEY'S SNYDER TALK IS CANCELLED

Joe Bailey Jr., congressman-at-large and candidate for the United States Senate, was unable to fill his Snyder speaking engagement yesterday evening. A wire from his campaign headquarters at Dallas yesterday indicated that the youthful representative at the national capital flew to Washington early this week to help fight the Texas federal oil control bill.

No subsequent date was set for Mr. Bailey's appearance here. He also cancelled several other speaking engagements when he decided on the trip to Washington.

THE WEEKLY DOZEN

Oh, Why Not Now?

From the West News: An expert predicts that we'll be laughing at women's hats of the present in ten years. Why wait?

Signs of the Rainy Times.

Pessimism sets last week-end's rain was a sure sign of fishing worms, I-told-you-so's, and the variant who complains that "it will probably do more harm than good."

From Our President.

On May 26, President Roosevelt said: "As I have often said, we may in some respects change method while the objective remains the same. Time and experience will determine." This, in contrast to the attitude of the diehards who can see nothing good in Rooseveltian recovery methods.

Frankie's Without Flourish.

Many of those who stopped Saturday morning to hear Maury Hughes, candidate for governor, were intending to hear "just another candidate." Many of them went away with the feeling that they had heard a master speaker and a very capable man. Maury Hughes was so frank that he astonished and won the admiration even of those who differ widely with some of his platform.

Things We Can't Understand.

With better times coming on, look out for bigger and better schemes to get your money. Many perfectly sane people have a habit of letting smooth-tongued strangers sell them on ideas or merchandise that shouldn't get to first base. How any grown man or woman can accept the word of a perfect stranger, when it is so easy to investigate, is a problem too big for an ordinary newspaper.

Everybody's Responsibility.

"After all," remarks B. C. Forbes in a financial editorial in the Hearst newspapers, "the responsibility for bringing about better times rests just as heavily upon business leaders as upon President Roosevelt. It is the duty of every employer, of every responsible citizen, to make the best of unalterable facts and conditions, and to exert every effort to keep the country going in the right direction economically and employment-wise."

Are the Codes Working?

Several local business men have gone so far in recent days as to say that NRA codes have become farces. Is it true? Is the spirit of NRA dying down? Are honest men disregarding its suggestions? The answer is that the codes are not working 100 per cent, by any means, but they are teaching men and businesses that cutthroat competition and the other pre-NRA evils must pass if recovery is to come. The industries that are observing their codes most perfectly are those that are coming back to recovery most quickly.

Does It Pay to Be Deep?

The ancient idea that below-the-surface thoughts ruled the world has not altogether passed away. But State Press of The Dallas News has twice recently passed up purportedly serious editorials in The Times to comment on semi-serious subjects. Once it was ghosts and demons. Now, in the next column, it is horse-flesh, preferably with knickered ladies astride. Whether State Press naturally veers toward fantastic subjects, or whether The Times has no editorials of below-the-surface interest, we leave to a discriminating group of readers.

Tariff Does Not Take a Holiday.

The Texas Weekly sees America's high tariff wall becoming an increasingly impenetrable barrier to recovery. Eventually, Editor Peter Molyneux points out, it will overshadow all other issues, regardless of how many issues may develop in national life. He harks back to the famous debate between Webster and Hayne, in which Hayne utters a tariff prophecy that has become almost axiomatic. Is it possible that Mr. Molyneux, whose keen insight into economic problems has recently arisen from the "voice-crying-in-the-wilderness" class, will prove a greater prophet than Hayne himself?

The Cotton South.

Anderson, Clayton & Company is responsible for a series of articles on "The Story of Cotton" that should thrill the heart of any Southerner. An example of the historical outline woven by the concern is found in this concluding paragraph on cotton in reconstruction days: "The old plantation system has been doomed. Lean crops, low prices and the loss of markets to other growths contributed to its downfall almost as much as the unsettled condition of the country. By the end of the reconstruction period, the cotton farmer was for the most part a tenant, working on 'the halves.' The huge acreages of antebellum days had been broken down into smaller farms, and the landed gentry of the old plantations drifted to the towns to seek new callings in a changed world. The Old South was dead, and in its memory, the sons of the Old South had set themselves to the building of the new."

Hold Your Hosses, Mr. Candidate.

Listen to the curbstone artist for a few minutes. Mr. Candidate, and you will discover that your race is perhaps being run without regard for all the frailties of human nature.

You may be well equipped with a platform. You may have relatives in all corners of the county, and at every crossroad. You may point with heaving bosom (not literally) to a career that sparkles with the diamonds of sacrifice and humility. But unless you heed the suggestions of those who whittle and those who merely sit, you are doomed to travel with that vast perennial horde known as the CC-Conquered Candidates.

The curbstone artist has not consciously formulated a political cure-all. But the wisdom that flows from his lazy mouth in spits and jerks may well be written into the candidate's almanac.

Because it realized that candidates are always with us, even as the fly in the ointment, The Times has attempted to formulate the philosophy of the curbstone broker into a sort of code of ethics for those who run. For convenience and easy reading, the code is numbered and neatly paraphrased, thus:

- 1. Never give up the lip. In other words, talk to Mr. and Mrs. Voter until they are blue in the face. Then they'll promise to vote for you... just to get rid of you. Of course they may forget about the promise when the next candidate comes around, but you won't have to worry about that... until election day.
2. Smile, candidate, smile! Even when your diet gets down to cornbread and red beans... even when you eat with the folks out in a God-forsaken shack and your stomach bulks like a flea-bitten mule... even when you have to brag on babies that are as dirty as pigs and as mean as Pluto... even when you have to wade across plowed fields and shinnery to get to a voter... ya, even when you are told that you have no more chance to win than an Easter egg... smile, candidate, smile!

3. Try missing a voter once in a while, especially when you are weary and worn with the plodding of the day. In this way you can assure yourself of at least one blackball, thus giving your opponent half a chance.

4. Specialize in secret sessions. Call a community leader over to one side (especially if he has been sort of veering toward your opponent), and ask him confidential-like how the race looks out his way. Before he has time to frame up a polite answer, tell him that so-and-so-and-so told you that Mr. Opponent was losing out on the nether side of Geose Creek because the cotton reduction plan didn't suit him to a T-Y-turkey. Secret sessions have a way of arousing curiosity, of making folks feel that you're a pretty good politician, and of singling you out as a man who believes in building bridges before you cross 'em.

5. Learn to love the ladies. Not too personally, of course. Just learn to love them as voters, for in their biucose pockets they carry your destiny, in the main. The candidate who rules the ladies rules the election roost.

6. Commit yourself on nothing. The only exception to this rule is that you must brag on everything that the voter owns, admires or believes. Even the weather is a touchy subject these June days. Talk of simple things like squashes and cream, technocracy and high governmental graft, Barrow and Henne. But lay off the brain food unless you want to commit not yourself but political suicide.

As the campaign waxes warmer, and the Times listeners hear more socratic words from the lowly curb, your candidates may expect still further advice in this column. Until this second release of confidences, may your feet never grow calloused and your nerve never grow dim. If they do, only the curbstone political artist will prove your solace in time of anguish.

Horse Talk.

From State Press in The Dallas News. Scurry County Times: The Earth. Santa Fe publication says "there are signs that the horse is returning. From 1930 the horse count of the United States decreased from 20,000,000 to 13,500,000, but by March 1, 1933, it had increased to 15,250,000. Having plenty of hay and grass many farmers took on a few horses at low cost. Now the price of horses is going up, particularly in the East, where sleigh riding is coming back. It is not probable that the horse will come all the way back, but it appears to be doing pretty well."

One thing that is bringing the horse back is the young lady astride of him. Horseback riding has become a nation-wide fad, or exercise, and is particularly with debs, subdebs, matrons and submatrons. There is no denying that a graceful woman on a graceful horse makes a graceful combination. Motoring is a novelty is not nearly so novel as it used to be. More and more automobiles are being made and sold and used, but a beautiful woman tucked away in the tonneau of a limousine gets little advertising. Her car attracts more attention than she does. Beauty has begun to sense this, hence the horse and the canter on suburban roads. In the carriage days, milady could lean back languorously in her luncheon and be seen of all when she passed where people congregated. There was the comparatively leisurely gait of the equipage, in contrast to the speed of the motor car. To go for a ride in her carriage was very different to the lady, in its social aspect, from going for a spin in an automobile. She could be seen and admired in her horse-drawn vehicle. She can only be glimpsed in her car. On a horse, madame of mam'zelle can be surveyed and evaluated by all who appear along the route. If her tout ensemble is gratifying to the eye, she experiences a gratitude of soul.

EDITORIAL OF THE WEEK

Recently a new code was sent to publishers, large and small, asking them to subscribe, and fix prices on a basis of fair competition. But there should be premiums offered country editors for withholding the truth. If General Johnson will approve of our schedule, we'll all get rich. Here are some suggestions: For telling the public that a man is a successful citizen when everyone knows he's as lazy as a government mule—$2.70. Referring to a deceased citizen as one mourned by the entire community, when we know he is missed only by the poker circle—$10.13. Referring to some galling scandal monger as an estimable old lady, when every business man in town would rather see the devil coming—$8.10. Sending some hypocritical old reprobate to heaven when we know that hell is too good for him—$5.00. Referring to a bride as a charming, dutiful daughter, when she's ugly as a mud-rail fence, and lounges about the house all day while her mother is working her fingers to the bone—$3.75. Referring to merchants as "progressive citizens," when they never advertised in their life to help draw trade to town—$10.—San-derson Times.

When Scoutmasters Shell and Jones were in Sweetwater Thursday afternoon of last week they were given official numbers for their two troops of Boy Scouts. Jones' troop will be known as Troop 35 and Shell's group is to be Troop 36. The figure three in each instance signifies the district No. 3 of the Buffalo Trails Area of which Snyder is the focal point. The district is composed of three counties—Fisher, Stone-wall and Scurry. Troops are already organized at Roby, Rotan and Dunn, according to area officials at Sweetwater.

First regular meeting of Troop 36 was held Monday afternoon when Scoutmaster Charlie Ben Shell and Assistant N. R. Clements met with six of their charter members. The other two boys were absent because of illness, the leaders report. Three of the boys have passed their Tenderfoot tests, and others are scheduled to make the grade this week. Application for charter will be made as soon as eight boys shall have taken their tests.

Troop 35 leaders report that three more boys have passed Tenderfoot muster during the past week, and two others will take tests this weekend. Several of the boys are at work on their Second Class tests at this time also. One month's service as a soft-footer is required before final tests may be given. It is explained by the leaders.

Application for charter for the first troop was made last week-end and Area Executive A. C. Williamson writes that the charter will be issued from national offices within the next few days. The Lions Club is sponsoring this troop, while the American Legion is backing Troop 36. Lions Club councilmen are Dr. Charles B. Reed, Charles Harless and Abe Rogers. Councilmen from the American Legion are J. E. Shipp, E. E. Weatherbee and Clyde Boren.

A big 24-sheet poster will be put up in Snyder within a few days on one of the Paxton Poster Service billboards, it is announced, which will inform passers-by of the work that is being done in the Boy Scout program. Lithographed in several colors, it is a beautiful piece of art. Scout officials and the boys are indebted to Guy Paxton of Abilene for donating free use of a billboard and having the poster erected. It is gratifying for the leaders to know that there is such a responsive cooperation to this great work among the youth of the land.

Several jobs have been passed to Boy Scouts during the past week, through their leaders. Other opportunities for the boys to earn funds for their annual summer camp will be appreciated. The scoutmasters can get boys who are anxious to work on short notice.

Boys of Troop 35 report a tramping, playing and camping good time for Monday afternoon and evening. It was their first hike as a local troop. Ten Scouts, a mascot and

Acie Deli Morton's Marriage to Vance Man Is Solemnized

The marriage of Miss Acie Deli Morton to Alvin McManus of near Vance took place at the First Methodist Church here Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Rev. S. H. Young, pastor of the Methodist Church, in the presence of the bride's brother and his wife, Mr and Mrs. Owen Morton.

Mrs. McManus is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Morton, who reside four miles northeast of Snyder. She was born and reared here. Snyder, having been graduated from the Snyder High School with the class of 1932. For the wedding the bride wore a lovely powder blue ensemble trimmed with gray fur and worn with gray accessories. Mrs. Morton, the bride's only attendant, was attired in a pink ermine frock and wore white accessories.

The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. McManus, prominent ranch people of the Valley. After spending the week-end with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. McManus left Monday morning for their ranch seven miles from Vance, where they will make their home.

Three leaders made the trip. One of the features of the hike was the trailing plan. The leaders backtracked their way from the hike site Monday morning, using Scout signs and markers, and the boys made their way to the undesignated spot by following the marked trail. The Bob White Patrol placed first in the trailing competition.

Following about three hours of trailing and games, the boys cooked their suppers on their camp site—located on the Thompson place two miles south of town. (It is appropriate to say here that the Scouts have been given permission to use the Thompson site for their hikes free of charge. And the boys and their leaders want to express their hearty thanks for this appreciated privilege. We accept Owen Thompson's hospitality as an unusual "good turn.")

At least half a dozen Snyder men interested in Boy Scout work plan to attend the first of two 24-hour Scout camps this week-end near Sweetwater. The school opens late Saturday and closes at the same time Sunday afternoon. A second such school will be held next week-end. Actual experiences in camp life, as well as program planning and other things for camps will be studied by men of four counties in these school. Executive Williamson says he expects to have about 40 men present for the camps.

BLACK-DRAUGHT

"Such a Good Laxative," Says Nurse Writing from her home in Festus, Mo., Mrs. Anna LaFollette says: "I am a practical nurse and I recommend to some of my patients that they take Black-Draught, for it is such a good laxative. I took it for constipation, headache and a dull feeling that I had so much. A few doses of Black-Draught—and I felt just fine." Because so many people know from experience that Black-Draught is a good, purely vegetable laxative, millions of packages of it are sold every year.

Texas Expecting Good Harvest as May Brings Rain

The Santa Fe Railway agricultural report for May follows: Generally favorable weather prevailed over practically all sections of Texas during May, and as a result, general agricultural conditions are from fair to good with some sections excellent.

The cotton outlook is favorable with plantings throughout the state nearing completion, except in northwestern areas. Chopping is complete in southern sections and progressing rapidly in central and northern Texas. Some areas in central Texas report a deficiency in moisture; in other sections the moisture is ample for present needs. As compared with last year the cotton crop over most of Texas ranges from one to three weeks late. Worm and insect damage is reported in Southern and Central and Western sections. Damage thus far is light, but infestations are increasing.

Potato digging still is under way in the Eagle Lake-Glen Flora territory, and quality is high. Unit production is above that of last year, and total production will be about double that of 1933. Tomato movement has started in East Texas, and will reach peak production during the first half of June. Quality is good and the estimated yield will show an increase of about 50 per cent.

Progress of onions in North Texas is good and shipment will begin during the early part of June. Cantaloupes and watermelons in Central Texas are developing satisfactorily with movement expected to start during early June. Outcome of wheat in Northwest Texas will be determined by rainfall in the next three weeks. With a little more rain wheat would make a fair crop. Harvest in the area described will start about June 15. Moisture conditions are extremely favorable for growth of range feed. Recent rains should further improve the situation. Condition of cattle is good. Cattle losses during the winter were light with cattle now in good flesh and should improve under normal conditions.

Summer School Opens. Summer school opened Monday morning with a good attendance of high school and grade school students. R. S. Sullivan, W. P. Cox and W. W. Hill are the teachers in charge.

WOMAN LOSES 41 LBS. OF FAT

Blood Pressure Down, Too
"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for my health, and for high blood pressure and rheumatism, and it helped both. My blood pressure was as high as 200 when I started to take Kruschen. I weighed 235 and now I weigh 214—that is losing 41 pounds in about nine months, and I feel fine." Mrs. W. Eckoff.

A half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of warm water every morning safely takes off unhealthy fat by helping to re-establish proper functioning of body organs—at the same time it energizes and helps build up robust health. Feel years younger and look it. One bottle lasts four weeks. You can get Kruschen salts at any drug store in the world.
