ASKS FARMER TO HELP WITH BANKHEAD ACT

Representative of AAA Explains Details of Bankhead Act and Other Farm Programs.

Urging farmers to do their part in putting across the Bankhead Act and other features of the government's AAA program, a representative of Uncle Sam made a lasting impression on more than 200 men, mostly farmers and farm agents, who gathered in the district court room Thursday from six counties. E. D. White, the AAA man, explained simply and clearly how every phase of the government's giant program for agriculture is designed to help the producer get a fairer price for his products. He showed that Uncle Sam is merely the helping hand in perfecting nation-wide cooperative organiza-tion the success of which is largely in the hands of the producers them-

A BUSINESS MAN FOR CONGRESS.

Fred C. Huile, candidate for Congress from the 19th congression-al district, is a very efficient business man, being the secretary of the Spur Mutual Life Insurance Association. Through his keen business ability he has made his busess one of the best in Texas, and is so recognized by the State De-partment of Insurance. Mr. Haile 13. Stock exchanges should be partment of Insurance. Mr. Haile rtgulated by law. Gambling on farm was born in Dickens County, Texas and educated in Texas and California. He spent three years in the United States Navy and has an honorable discharge from the army and the navy.

Mr. Haile does business in 13 counties of the 19th district, therefore he has more in common than any other man in the race for Congress with the citizens of this dis His business is a service to humanity and he touches many homes personally.

Mr. Haile has a constructive platform. He feels that the present condition is largely due to the of the international banker, the lack of insight of the lawyer legislator, and the great ex-tended speculation in cattle and and the common people (who pay the bills) millions in hard-earned Mr. Haile advocates the mediate payment of the soldier's so-called "bonus," an old age enand industries of America as well

ABILITY vs. POLITICS

An East Texas Vacancy-Hunter Vies With Able, Trained Official For Land Commissioner's Post

(From Autin Statesman)

J. H. WALKER, seeking re-election, as Texas land commissioner, has a third of a century's experience and training in the land office. He is author of many of Texas' land laws. He knows more about the land laws and the state's land policies than any

He has as his opponent, in this week's primary, Walter E. Jones of Gregg county.

Mr. Jones' public service has been as county surveyor. Besides holding that local office, he has been connected with an engineering firm concerned with land surveys. He has been connected with many vacancy-hunting surveys in East Texas.

He has made many surveys, asserting the existence of vacancles, on which the land office during the next two years would normally have to pass. His reputation here, is largely identified with his work as county surveyor.

Land Commr. Walker has stated the issue of his race this way: "The opposition to me in this campaign grows out of my refusal to sell to applicants for vacancies land which rightfully belongs to the people, or which Texas people had a preference to buy. I wrote the land law giving the people of Texas that preference right. The land commissioner does not give authority to sell land claimed by another until the attorney general recovers it.

"The question before you is whether you wish to start a "recovery" program in the land office that will disturb every home in Texas. Under my administration, with the assistance of the attorney general's department, the state has acquired 110 oil wells in East Texas for the school fund, and no citizen has been harmed." The voters' choice is between Commr. Walker, an able official of long experience, and Mr. Jones, a minor county office-holder. The choice is easy. (Political Advertising)
