Three Regional Groups to Confer on "Rights of Property and Business"

W. J. Ely, Snyder's West Texas Chamber of Commerce director, and local chamber officials have been invited by James D. Hamlin, Farwell, president of the regional chamber, to attend a joint meeting of the directors of the West, South, and East Texas chambers in Waco, Friday, October 5.

According to Judge Hamlin the meeting is "for the purpose of throwing the combined strength of the three regional chambers of Texas behind a definite work program which would have for its objective championing the rights of property and business."

Hamlin also notified the local directors that they have been made members of the All-State Council of Texas, which for years has been maintained to enable a working relation between the three chambers. Heretofore the membership of the council has been composed of the presidents and general managers of the three chambers. At a recent meeting the local directors were made members, and the Waco meeting will be the first in which all the directors of the three organizations have been asked to participate.

The following subjects will be on the program at Waco: (1) The Property Owner's Burden, (2) Balancing the Governmental Budget, (3) Government in Business, and (4) Our Constitutional Amendments. Outstanding speakers for each subject are being obtained to be announced later.

Hamlin is scheduled as chairman and will state the purpose and objects of the meeting, according to an announcement made by Manager D. A. Bauden of the regional chamber. C. F. Ashcroft, Sulphur Springs, president of the East Texas chamber, will talk on the value of the regional chambers cooperating, and J. M. Pickering, Victoria, vice president of the South Texas chamber, will discuss the value of the regional chambers to Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred McGlaun went to Abilene Tuesday for a brief visit with Mrs. G. B. Clark Jr. in an Abilene hospital. Mrs. Clark is recovering rapidly, it is reported, and will probably return to Snyder this week-end.

First Baptist Church

The pastor will preach Sunday morning on "Going Back to Bethel." This message will greatly help our people during these stressful times. Read and study Genesis 35. The morning hour is 10:50 o'clock.

Sunday school begins promptly 9:45 a. m. With our new superintendent and a corps of new workers the study hour ought to be profitable and wholesome. We are encouraged by the great attendance last Sunday. More than 500 were in attendance with a well planned program of promotion. That program with the installation of officers and teachers will give impetus and importance to Sunday school work throughout the entire year.

Especially are we anxious that all those promised find their place in their new classes. All of our workers will make it easy, comfortable, and encouraging for you. We express the hope that our workers this year will check the "dispersion" at the close of the Sunday school hour that has heretofore characterized our teaching period. In filling vacancies we have tried to find the combination of efficiency, conservation and faithfulness. Let all of our church family, along with visiting friends, be in attendance Sunday morning at 9:45 o'clock.

The B. T. S. hour is 6:45 p. m. There were 110 present last Sunday evening. The newly organized adult union started off with a good beginning with 13 present. We need the primaries and primary union. The Juniors, Intermediates and seniors need the training the church offers. Adults ought to attend for the sake of example and influence. If for nothing more, they will find a good deal more, however, if they attend.

Baptizing at 8:00 o'clock Sunday evening. The pastor will preach on "The Supper of Our Lord," after which the church will observe this memorial. Surely none of our people will want to be absent on the occasion of this Memorial Supper.

If there are those who want to better understand the Baptist position on the Lord's Supper they will feel free to attend this service. It will be a scriptural discussion without abuse or "criminal attack" upon others who differ with the Baptist view. It will not be a negative message dealing with what others do not believe, but a positive message of what Baptists believe the Bible to teach.

There will be special music at both hours. A male quartet will sing at the evening service.

Last Sunday was a great day. There were two additions in the evening service; the day's offering totaled more than $137 and good attendance here and at the association B. T. S. meeting at Wadella. The outlook is bright. Come on in, Baptist! The water is fine. Let's make it harder on the devil in Snyder this new year.—Lawrence Hays, Pastor.

BANKHEAD ACT SUPPORTED BY ALLOTMENT BOARD MEMBERS

R. M. Hubbard Thinks Suspension of Legislation Would Mean Heavy Loss to Farmer.

"We come to the concluding days of issuing the 90 per cent of tax exemption certificates in the midst of a good deal of talk about suspending the operation of the Bankhead Act, when even the author of the act is quoted, or misquoted, as being opposed to the operation of the law he sponsored," R. M. Hubbard, member of the Cotton Allotment Board from New Boston, said in a statement issued Monday from the board's headquarters at College Station.

"Speaking for myself and my fellow Board members, in spite of the enormous task with which we have labored all summer and in spite of all the difficulties which lie in the way of administering this piece of legislation, we think its suspension would be a mistake resulting in loss of faith and money by thousands of cotton farmers who cooperated with the government in the cotton control program."

"The cotton surplus is by no means down to normal. The emergency which brought the legislation into existence is not past. Upon the welfare of the cotton producer depends the business welfare of the whole South and in a measure of the whole nation. The really critical period in the cotton control program will be reached next year. Without acreage control our surplus will again pile up. Perhaps the Bankhead Act should be modified, we who have administered it in the largest cotton state in the Union could easily suggest ways to iron out some rough places, but if it is taken away altogether the benefits already in sight will be lost and the forward steps to place the cotton growing section of the country on a level with the rest of the nation will be nullified."

"Cotton acreage should be held to a safe figure until world conditions again become normal and world power is restored. The Interstate Commerce Commission, the Federal Trade Commission and the Tariff Commission are set up and functioning to aid and control business and industry in the solution of their problems and difficulties. Why may not agriculture have the aid of government agencies in the solution of agricultural problems and difficulties?"

"In the opinion of most well-informed people, we will have government control and supervision of industry for many years to come. Unless that cotton control plan is continued, industry and labor may reap temporary benefits, many of which will be at the expense of agriculture, but then all will lose in the long run. Recent history establishes that and it is now generally conceded that unless agriculture prospers, industry languishes in proportion, and labor suffers correspondingly."

"The major objective of the AAA was to place prices of farm products on a parity with the things farmers have to buy. We must not lose sight of the important fact that there is still a wide gap between the two sets of prices. Drouth and the devaluation of the dollar, it is true, account for some of the increase in prices of farm products, but the AAA, undoubtedly, is responsible for a major part of the gains."

"No one can deny that so far agriculture has been materially benefited. It has been lifted out of the depths of despair. Can it afford to run the risk of again becoming the submerged part of our nation?"

Five-Pointed Star Used as Emblem of Texas Back in '35

"Think-Talk-Write Centennial."

The first use of a five-pointed star as the emblem of Texas was in 1835 when a brass button, cut from an overcoat, was used as a seal. The large button came from the overcoat of Henry Smith, provisional governor, elected by the Texans when events were shaping themselves for independence, but at a time when the main issue was as to whether the Mexican constitution of 1824 would be observed.

Smith was named governor at a meeting at San Felipe (Austin County). Needing some kind of a seal for official documents, he cut off one of the decorative buttons on his overcoat and it was used as the seal. The present seal of the State features a five-pointed star, and the star also is used in the Texas flag.

This historic button may or may not be in existence today. It would be a most interesting relic for exhibition in 1936, when the Centennial of Texas independence is to be celebrated at San Antonio, Dallas, Houston, Goliad, Beaumont, Nacogdoches, Huntsville, and other cities of the State identified with the early history of the Lone Star State.

From the Editor of The American Boy

During the coming year, the boys of America will get a half-fare rate to adventure and fun! The American Boy—Youth's Companion, the nation's leading magazine for boys, formerly $2 a year, now costs $1. A three-year subscription, previously $3.50, costs only $2.

Griffith Oden Ellis, editor of The American Boy, brings boys the hearty assurance that the new prices will in no way effect the editorial contents of the magazine. It will be as large, as beautifully printed, as full of high-spirited adventure as ever.

"The American Boy's leadership has been no accident," Mr. Ellis states. "We publish the magazine on the firm belief that boys deserve a magazine as good as any publication for grown-ups. So we use the best illustrators obtainable—well-known artists who work for the biggest magazines. We send our staff writers all over the country digging up the interesting facts of science, interviewing world-famous explorers, talking to coaches and athletes.

"We encourage and assist our writers to go everywhere for material—to Haiti, Africa, the South Seas, China—and bring back adventure for American boys. We hire experts on hobbies and boy problems to advise boys and young men. These steps account for our position as the quality magazine for boys, and we shall continue to take them."

Twelve issues of fun and excitement for $1! Three years for $2! Spread the news among your friends—and send your own subscription direct to The American Boy, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Michigan. Service on your subscription will start with the issue you specify. Adv.

Free acts and a big free fireworks show will be among the daily features offered at the 1934 State Fair of Texas, which opens Saturday, October 6, at Dallas, it has been announced by Otto Herold, president of the State Exposition. In addition to the free acts there will be numerous free band concerts.

Two of the free acts which are expected to prove sensational at the coming exposition will be the Peerless Pottery, an aerial casting act, which works 35 feet in the air, and one of this act's big features is casting a human being 36 feet through the air, and the Peerless American Eagles, a high wire act.

The Peerless Pottery and the fireworks display will be presented on the west end of the stadium, where two shows will be held each day of the fair, with special shows for special occasions. The high wire act will work on the midway twice each day. The free band concerts will be presented at all hours of the day on the plaza in front of the Main Exhibit Building.

Plan for Getting Repair Loans on Homes and Stores Given in Nutshell

Here, in a nutshell, is the plan for borrowing modernization funds under the Federal Housing Program.

All local lumber yards and the Snyder National Bank are cooperating to make the program effective.

1. A modernization loan is solely for the purpose of repairing, altering or improving your home, shop, farmhouse, store or other building. Diversion of the money to any other purpose is strictly prohibited.
2. It cannot be for less than $100 or for more than $2,000. The borrower must have a bona fide source of income equal to at least five times the annual payments.
3. Maximum charges, including interest and fees, cannot exceed an amount equivalent to $5 discount per year per $100 original face amount of the note.
4. To get a modernization loan, the property owner must present to the bank a precise estimate of the cost of the improvements and should be able to prove that they are necessary or advisable.
5. In addition, the property owner must file a Property Owner's Credit Statement, showing his financial condition, sources and amount of income and other information necessary to determine his ability to repay the loan.

If the bank considers the improvements advisable, and the property owner able to meet the payments when due, it can advance the money on the personal note of the property owner. The note must be signed by both husband and wife, if the property owner is married. No mortgage or collateral security is necessary, unless state law or the financial institution's officials demand it.

Mr. and Mrs. Abe Rogers and children were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Thorpe in Fisher County.

Lawrence Jones went to an Abilene clinic for examination last week, but his condition was not found to be serious. He was able to return to work this week.

Snyder, Texas, Thursday, October 4, 1934

THE WEEKLY DOZEN

The Shortest Distance.
Talkative Tillie says the shortest distance between two joints depends on whether you drive a 1934 model or take a drink from every spigot.

If Pete Could Change.
Pessimism Pete says if he were to change from cynic to moralist he would find plenty to talk about in regard to the disgusting performances less than a block from the Snyder square that go under the name of "dances."

A Blessing in Disguise.
"The surplus is really a blessing in disguise," opines Henry Ford. "It places pressure on the ingenuity of man to discover new uses for the commodity." Nevertheless, we don't like to have our blessings disguised as haymakers.

Little Flaps and Big Ones.
A national magazine has this succinct editorial opinion of the New Deal: "There are many minor flaps and some rather big ones but the things as a whole goes on from stage to stage as the genius of the resident Mr. Roosevelt finds ways to give new direction to recovery efforts."

Greens, Greens, Everywhere.
The city garden, on which all hands and the cook spent many hours of free time and quite a speck of money, is furnishing so many turnip greens that folks can't take 'em away. If that experiment does not give sub-irrigation a huge boost up the ladder of general acceptance, pray heaven what would it take?

Over and Over Again.
Pardon us, Heart O' Texas News, for stealing your thunder: "... Old Man Winter is just around the corner. Brady (Snyder) merchants have met the issue fairly and squarely. They have for your inspection large stocks of seasonable merchandise, the latest in workmanship and style, and at prices you can afford to pay."

George Gets a Suit.
George Mahon, congressman-elect from this district, now ranks alongside President Roosevelt, Vice President John N. Garner, and other celebrities... he received a Texas Tech home-made suit; so did they. The gift was presented by the Lubbock school during the Panhandle-Plains fair last week. They say George had a fit about it all.

Human Nature Up to Date.
A Scurry County farmer took a chance last week. He spent a quarter for a classified ad in an effort to find $30 in cash that he lost uptown. Human nature, brought up to date, is the same as it was in the time of Noah and Caesar. Most of us, no doubt, could find that $30, stick it low into our pockets, and spend it freely, without a pang of conscience. The Scurry County farmer has not heard from his $30.

Snyder's Parkless Complex.
Snyder's dream for a park or two or three has so far faded into nothingness, with the exception of the place of beauty that has been created on the school grounds. When the leading citizens, whoever they may be, become aroused to the fact that prosperity and peace and contentment lie as much in the proper use of leisure time as in the use of work time, we may expect more provision to be made for the idle hours.

Rulers Every Day.
Personalities rule the day's news. They rule the world. They are not only masters of our every-days of judgment—they are victims of every-day circumstances. Babe Ruth, with his spindly legs and barrel paunch, Lindbergh, with his boyish face and space-appearing stride. Red Grange, Dollfus, Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin. Even President Roosevelt, the foremost personality of the day, rules or is ruled as a personality, not simply as the president of these United States.

The Deans Have It Now.
You don't find many exceedingly brilliant or exceedingly handsome men in the mind's eye of humanity. Usually it's the "typical" fellow who has made particularly good in a particular field who is worshiped by human interest. Just now the Dean brothers, not long removed from the bushes, are standing the baseball world on its head. Yesterday it was Lindbergh, of course. Tomorrow it may be a farmer from Texas, a lawyer from Peoria, a lemon raiser from California.

Our Team Goes Forth.
The Snyder football team goes forth tomorrow afternoon to its first game that "really counts." Football has become more than a hobby with the genus Americanus. It has become a passion and a dream and an aspiration, rolled into one. If you are a football cynic, you can not see the tremendous benefits that are embodied in the game. If you are

'We Must Continue Crop Control.'

Under that positive title, this month's "Nation's Business," publication of the United States Chamber of Commerce, carries an article written by M. L. Wilson, assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

"Crop adjustment programs will be continued through 1935. But a new set of facts and problems has moved onto the American agricultural scene and although the direction of these efforts will remain the same, the course of the programs during the next year—and possibly two years—must be marked by changes made in the light of the new facts of the farm situation."

"Already the wheat program has taken form and it reflects the change in our supplies resulting largely from two years of extremely low production. It calls for an increase of five per cent in the acreage to be planted by cooperating farmers over the acreage sown for harvest this past season."

"Emphasis on reduction of hog numbers, one of the most important features of the program this year, may be relaxed during 1935 because the potential supply of pork has been brought more nearly in line with effective market requirements than it has been for a long time."

"More than three and a half million cattle have been purchased and turned over for relief purposes. This has proven to be an outstanding achievement in salvaging, because, if the desperate feed shortage had not been met with quick action, it would have led to a wastage of beef unrivaled in the nation's history. Prompt action conserved the supplies of feed for the cattle which remained, especially for foundation herds."

"Continuation of adjustment efforts will be desirable in the case of cotton. The surplus has been reduced and we have 12-cent cotton instead of 5-cent cotton but the nation still has excessive supplies for which there is no apparent outlet."

"Why is it necessary to continue adjustment efforts? Many of my friends who have observed the tragedy of this year's unprecedented drought and its effect in cutting down surpluses, ask me this question. They have watched the response of farm prices to the influence of the drought and the adjustment program and wonder if the time hasn't come to drop these efforts and go back to where we were before Congress declared that agriculture constituted a national emergency."

"To do this would be to open the way to a new cycle of surpluses, falling prices and the dangers which go with an unbalanced agriculture."

"Abandonment of the adjustment programs at this time would be a step toward national bankruptcy. It would be counter not only to the best interests of agriculture but to the best interests of business and industry. It would be a step back in the drive for national recovery which has led to unity and understanding between agriculture and industry as only the common misfortunes of two groups as closely related as these can simulate."

"Business men often wonder at the spectacle of farmers continuing to produce in the face of low prices. With a greater rigidity in prices business men cut down production of their goods and trim costs when prices begin to slide."

"But farmers cannot reduce costs so rapidly. Their fixed overhead is larger in proportion to total operating costs than is the case with most industries. Generally they are not large employers of labor so they cannot meet reduced income by cutting payrolls. Interest charges and taxes—bugaboos of industry in difficult straits—figure even more importantly in the financial picture of the farmer on the basis of their relationship to overhead."

"On the farm front I believe, with the sympathetic cooperation of industry, we shall be able to solve the immediate problems and achieve more nearly the ideal of 'balanced harvests' to replace the chaos of the past."

"There is evidence of the farmer's willingness to do his part. More than three million of them signed contracts with the AAA in the past 18 months. More than one million others are working cooperatively under marketing agreements and licenses. They have laid the foundation for a day when they need not look forward with a desperate fear to the tragedy of drought, of ruthless competition among themselves, to empty purses and piles of unsold produce."

"And the business man will be able to look at them knowing that they are stable customers who have left jungle economics for a system with better order."

The trouble with committees is that they are always wondering what others will think; they seem to have slight confidence in their own judgment.

Before you begin insisting this is the driest year in a generation, just remember the drought of 1925. Just nine years ago it was worse than it is now.

West Texas Educator Says Struggle At Alamo Was Clash Between Ideals

Taking the view that the tragedy of the Alamo represented mainly a determined clash between two ideal philosophies of life, J. A. Hill, president of the West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon, expressed his belief Saturday that proper observance of Texas' Centennial of independence would tend to turn forcibly the attention of Americans to fundamental values. In connection with the proposed celebrations in 1936 at San Antonio, Hill said:

CURRENT COMMENT

By LEON GUINN

The American Bar Association at last is getting to the point of doing something about shyster lawyers. In the ABA convention in Milwaukee the retiring president of the association, Earle W. Evans, started the remove of the shyster affair by exploding about the need of purging the bar of hirelings over-tempted by dollars. The new association president, Scott Loflin, also told the 3,000 delegates the rank and file of lawyers must be honest lawyers if confidence were to be restored in the legal profession. The public has refused to accept the lawyer as 100 per cent pure, or 50 per cent wicked, and it is this attitude the American Bar Association says must be overhauled. On file for future reference in ABA offices are civil and criminal case records containing shady work by smart legal minds, eager to gain freedom for clients.

The legal profession, like many another, has its share of shyster members, ready to jump a client through one of a thousand loopholes. But lawyers handling civil and criminal cases are spotlighted for their brilliance, cross examining ability, or if nothing else their stupidity, thus giving the public a glance at proceedings. In the first place the laws of America are not perfect, giving the criminal a 70 per cent chance of freedom. In the second place a smart lawyer is after money, and not honest justice. It has been said justice is blind, yet this accusation is unfounded. It is true a person can not be a successful lawyer without relying on certain clever angles of technique, considered shrewd, but the uproar concerns only lawyers aiding or abetting criminals, bank robbers, and racketeers. One reason the Southwestern Reporter is fat with court doings concerns legalities arguing, not law but evidence.

We have state and national congressmen and representatives eternally making new laws, sometimes eternally finding ways out for a sum. One evil today concerns the high cost of trials, shunning fees for cases appealed. No man can be denied the right of trial by jury, but the right to carry on for days can be questioned. The day will come when civil cases will be presented, prosecution and defense through, and the jury instructed within a period of hours, not days. County or district court costs amount to $300 to $500 per week, rather stiff for the taxpayer. The honest lawyer has been, and is, a part of American life and he is glad the profession will be given a dose of salts. And consider the value of uncounted juries affecting Blackstone devotees.

PROSPECT NOT GOOD FOR HEAVY INCREASE OF COTTON IN EGYPT

Foreign Cotton Competition Is Not New to America, Declares Agriculture Department.

(Note to Readers: The effect of the AAA cotton programs on the foreign cotton situation is one of the liveliest questions in Texas today. Before returning to temperate cotton production, Texans should examine this logy of foreign competition. This is one of a series of articles prepared by the AAA on the basis of reliable statistics gathered by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Foreign cotton competition is not a threat new to America since the AAA cotton programs started. For more than 40 years foreign countries have been increasing their share in the world's production. Big American cotton crops during that time did not stop the growth of foreign cotton competition, but they did periodically depress the South. Will this foreign competition grow by leaps and bounds now that America has gone in for temperance in cotton production? Are there other factors which will finally limit the extent to which these countries may expand cotton acreage?

It has been seen in previous articles in this series prepared by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration that India is limited in future big expansion by her need of land for food crops. Egypt is another great competitor worth studying.

Limit to Egypt's Cotton.
Egypt has grown cotton since the time of the Pharaohs, yet the largest acreage in any one year was 2,160,000 acres. This is probably just about the limit to the cotton acreage because the country still depends to a large degree upon its local food supply. The acreage in 1933 was 1,873,000 acres, or nearly one-third of Egypt's farm land. The cotton acreage this year is reported less than last.

Egyptian cotton is irrigated and yields an average of 400 pounds per acre. As in India, there is a food supply problem in Egypt. Population averages more than 1000 persons per mile, or as Americans would say, per section of land. Population is growing at the rate of 200,000 to 300,000 persons per year. This increase will in the long run require for food all the additional land which may be reclaimed.

Egyptian Prices Low.
The price of cotton in 1933-34 in Egypt in terms of Egyptian money (and that is what influences farmers) was from two per cent to 21 per cent below the prices of 1932 during the picking season. As in India, it is again seen that high cotton prices in America does not always mean high prices to foreign producers in terms of their own money. There is little incentive to the Egyptian farmer to increase cotton acreage at present. The decline in 1934 plantings bears this out.

Any permanent increase in Egyptian cotton acreage above the all-time high of 2,160,000 acres must involve reclaiming a part of the two million acres of waste land in the country. This reclamation is essential.

Changes in Grid Rules for Texas High School-ers

The 10-game rule has been altered in Texas high school football circles this year, giving a slightly different angle to last year's ruling on the game limit.

In the past, no team could play more than 10 games before the Saturday after Thanksgiving. This year, a team may play more than 10 games but no individual player may take part in more than that number. In other words, a team may play 11 or 12 games, but must hold some players out of some of them so that they do not play in more than 10. This rule may turn out to help teams which finish their districts in ties and need playoffs, especially if they have large squads.

Another rule says that no boy shall play more than one game a week except Armistice Day week. If no game has been played the week before, a boy may take part in a game on Monday, November 12, and again the same week-end, November 16 or 17.

A total of 450 public school teams grouped in three divisions are competing this season throughout the state, and these teams are composed of some 12,000 youngsters. Of the three divisions, Class A will see 90 teams entered in the state race; Class B division is composed of 328 teams, while Class C clubs number 72. Class A is divided into 16 districts, Class B into 36 and Class C into eight.

Class A high school teams compete for state championship in elimination contest with the final game being staged on New Year's Day. Class B teams contest for region honors and the C teams for district crowns.

The local high school, competing in Class B division, won region honors (one-eighth of the state) in 1930 and 1931, and took district honors in 1932.

Mrs. Lawrence Jones, who has been seriously ill, is reported recovering.

LEGION SEEKS NEW MEMBERS

An intensive drive for memberships will be launched this month by the Will Layne Post of the American Legion, it was decided at the regular monthly meeting Tuesday night. Reports of the drive will be made at the next meeting, second Tuesday night in October, when a "feed" will be staged for Legionnaires and Auxiliary members.

The new commander, Walla Fish, says that a heavy enrollment is necessary in order that the bonus campaign may be helped next year, and to assist in restoring compensation for veterans in need. Clyde Boren also took his place as adjutant for the first time Tuesday night. Meetings will henceforth be held over Winston & Clements feed store, it was decided.

Lee T. Stinson, retiring commander, and A. C. Preult, retiring adjutant, have been awarded appreciation cards by the national commander, Edward A. Hayes, because the local post, under their leadership, enrolled more members than the previous four-year average.

Furnace heat for homes without a basement

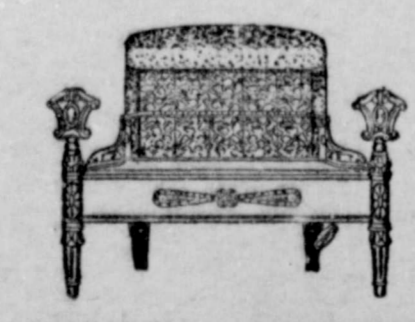

Natural Gas FLOOR FURNACES

When you add the comfort of circulating heat to your home you are adding value to the home you live in. It makes no difference whether it has a basement or not, you can have circulated heat from easily installed, low-cost natural gas floor furnace.

This unit splendidly exemplifies the comfort of a gas-heated home as it provides for one or two rooms the same luxurious warmth of central heating plant—but without the expense of furnace and piping installations. It's installed beneath floor and nothing shows except smart grill. It's vented to eliminate wall sweating, and the flame never touches the air it circulates. When equipped with thermostat desired room temperature is automatically maintained.

Look over the new gas heating equipment now. Besides the floor furnace there are other heaters which circulate warm air and are vented to eliminate wall sweating. They're available this month at attractive discounts and unusually low monthly terms. (National Housing Act takes in gas floor furnaces.)

Natural Gas will maintain this "Comfort Zone" at low cost

Extra!
This month is an opportune time to bring your heating up-to-date. In addition to above "special" an unusually attractive saving can be effected by buying two or more radiant-type furnaces. Investigate, and be ready for winter comfort.

REPEAL BANKHEAD LAW, LOWER TARIFF BARRIER SAYS LETTER

Scurry County Farmer Takes Issue With von Roeder Letter and Newspaper Editorial.

Editors Scurry County Times:

I read your editorial in the September 20 issue of your paper, in regard to the Bankhead Law, and also read Mr. von Roeder's letter on the same subject, and in order to keep the "record straight" I desire to briefly reply to your editorial and to Mr. von Roeder's letter.

You say in your editorial: "We challenge any unprejudiced observer to envision what would be the plight of the cotton farmer right now if President Roosevelt and Secretary Wallace had not stepped in with some control measures." It was evidently your purpose to lead the farmers to believe that the Bankhead Act law is an administration measure, when as a matter of fact President Roosevelt and Secretary Wallace both stated that they were not in favor of it, but accepted it, because the farmer asked for it.

The truth is that the measure was forced on the administration by Senator Bankhead of Alabama, and questionable methods were used in making it appear to Secretary Wallace that the farmers of the South wanted the Bankhead Bill enacted.

It is now clearly evident that Senator Bankhead was actuated by ulterior motives in proposing the enactment of the Bankhead Bill. In plain English, it was aimed specifically at Texas and the cotton states lying west of the Mississippi River. Even now when it is definitely known that the drought has cut the Texas crop far below the quota allowed the state under the Bankhead Law, and Alabama is endeavoring to have the law suspended. And this in the face of the fact that in a large portion of Texas the drought has reduced the crop to such an extent that about the only hope the farmers have of realizing any money from the crop is from the sale of their tax exemption certificates. And Senator Bankhead would take that away from us, in order that his constituents in Alabama could sell their cotton tax free and pocket the money.

No Extended Argument!

I am not going to make an extended argument regarding the Bankhead Law in this communication, but I can assure the Editor of the Times and Mr. von Roeder that the Bankhead Law is not going to be strengthened by misstating the facts, appealing to prejudices and attacking men who oppose the law.

In your editorial you state that Senator Holbrook of Galveston, whom you characterize as the tool of the shipping interests and the interests of Galveston, was the only member of the legislature whose name was mentioned in the papers as sponsoring the resolution asking the repeal of the Bankhead Law, when as a matter of fact Representative T. H. McGregor introduced the resolution in the House of Representatives and was far more prominent in the matter than Senator Holbrook. But what bearing have such matters as that on the merits and benefits of the Bankhead Law? This matter is going to be fought out to a finish and so far as I am concerned I am not going to be diverted from the main issue by such extraneous and irrelevant matter as is contained in your editorial and Mr. von Roeder's letter. In my opinion the ultimate effect of the Bankhead Law will be the permanent loss of our export cotton trade, our production of cotton will ultimately be reduced until it will merely supply the domestic demand, if the Bankhead Law continues in force.

Acreage Reduced.

Under the plow-up cotton program in 1933 there were 30,036,000 acres of cotton harvested in the United States as compared with 35,939,000 the previous year, a reduction of 5,903,000 acres. In 1933 the average planted to cotton in foreign countries was 44,500,000, as compared with 40,500,000 acres in 1932, showing an increase of 4,000,000 acres, in foreign countries, leaving a net world reduction of only 1,903,000 acres, notwithstanding the destruction of 10,000,000 acres of growing cotton in the United States. Cotton is not an exclusively American commodity, but is a world commodity, and therefore beyond the control of the United States. As shown by the figures above, as we decrease our production in America, the world production increases. I could give additional statistics proving this fact, but space forbids.

"Is there no relief?" you may ask. Yes, but relief can only be secured by increased demand and consumption. Before the World War we

The First Christian Church will have a new minister in its pulpit at both services Sunday.

He is Rev. Guy E. McPherson, graduate of Phillips University at Enid, Oklahoma.

The church leader has A. B. and M. A. degrees from the Oklahoma school. He is 33 years of age. He is scheduled to arrive in Snyder today with his wife and two children. The family will reside in the church parsonage on 30th Street.

Rev. McPherson visited the local church in August, bringing several sermons at that time.

Merkel, Stamford Win Initial Games In Class B Series

Merkel and Stamford took long jumps in their quest of Class B honors in District 13 Friday. The Badgers were fairly easy winners over Anson, 19 to 0, to repeat their early 1933 early-season spurt.

Stamford showed surprising strength against last year's conference leaders, taking Rotan to a cleaning, 19 to 6.

Roscoe barely won a non-conference affair from Sylvester, while Roby was revealing some of last year's strength in winning from the Class A Colorado team.

Haskell is generally considered as the leading contender for conference honors, based on weight, experience and early showings. Last week-end, playing under her new lights, she won from Rule, 19 to 0.

The schedule for October 5 is: Snyder at Hamlin, Anson at Rotan, Haskell at Roby, Stamford at Merkel. Roscoe opens her conference schedule at Stamford October 12.

COTTON LOANS BY UNCLE SAM

The federal government is making plans to loan farmers $7.60 per bale, net, on 1933 option pool cotton, according to information in daily newspapers. Two dollars and forty cents per bale is deducted from the gross amount to take care of carrying charges at 30 cents per month, it is understood.

Furns for making the loans are expected at the local cotton office soon. Farmers will receive notices when they arrive.

The county agent's office urges farmers not to sacrifice their options on a speculator's market.

Mrs. La Eula Bralton, of Long Beach, California, arrived today and will be the guest of Mrs. W. W. Hamilton for a few days.

Mrs. M. H. Fox of Decatur is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Willard Jones, and family.
