Demonstration Club Notes

Estella Rabel, Agent

Club Meets October 12.

Tri-Community Club met at the home of Mrs. Guy Stoker last Wednesday afternoon for last minute preparations for exhibits at the Products Show Friday and Saturday.

Leaders in the club and members wish to express appreciation for the assistance given by the public and Miss Estella Rabel, agent, in selling their quilt. The group extends congratulations to the winning clubs of the county, hoping for an even better fair next year.

Refreshments were served to the following club members: Mmes. Johnston, Day, Lemons, Breneman, Poppe, Brown, Gladson, Kerley, Leatherwood, Brooks, Armstrong, Parker, Gibson and Robison. Guests were Mrs. H. J. Price of Snyder, Miss Vera Parker and her mother.

Girls Rank High.

In the girls' club work exhibits at the Products Show first place went to Dunn, second to Fluvanna, third to Hermleigh, and fourth to Turner and Crowder, who combined their exhibits. Each club in the county put its work on display. It was judged and the best of it brought in to the fair.

Irene Brown of the Dunn Club was awarded the $10 merchandise prize for the best all-round club girl in the county. Merits and accomplishments of the outstanding girls were judged. Irene has met all the goals in her clothing work. She and her sister have the best farm garden in the county, and she is enthusiastic in working for her club. She holds the office of secretary-treasurer in her club.

Antiques Discussed.

Mrs. Guy Stoker of the Tri-Community Club, superintendent of the Home Counties department at the Scurry County Products Show Friday and Saturday, commented on various old articles exhibited among the antiques at the show. Her comments, in brief, are given in the following paragraphs.

Mrs. H. T. Boothe exhibited a bowl, which was brought originally from England, in daily use for more than 100 years. A 94-year-old counterpane, made by her grandmother, Mrs. Francis Sims Edmondson, before she was 16 years old, was exhibited by Mrs. H. M. Murphy. The seed was picked out of the cotton by hand and the lint woven by Mrs. Edmondson.

Samplers 102 years old were brought to the fair by Mrs. C. F. Landrum. They were made by Rachel Darlington at the age of seven years. Another interesting antique exhibited by Mrs. Landrum was a lovely handpainted china chocolate pot. A piece of embroidery, which received a sack of flour as a prize in a Scurry County show 27 years ago was shown by Mrs. H. J. Brice.

Interesting, all of them, but the most interesting story was told of an antique razor bone, property of M. D. Wilcher Jr. The razor bone was bought in London, England, by John Wilcher and is now in the hands of the third generation since it was purchased 125 years ago. In 1813 John Wilcher came across the waters to America, settling in Nashville, Tennessee, where he used the bone to sharpen his razor every week when he shaved. At the death of the English gentleman, the razor bone was given his son, D. D. Wilcher, who continued using it regularly. Well-cared for all these years, the bone will still sharpen a razor as well as ever, says the present owner, Scurry County resident.

Hallowe'en Theme Used at El Feliz

Hallowe'en motif, one of the first fall party ideas, was used for a decoration theme at El Feliz Club's party Friday afternoon. Mrs. H. T. Setton entertained at the home of Mrs. R. H. Odum.

Mrs. A. J. Cody was elected president to fill the vacancy left by resignation of Mrs. H. J. Brice. Mrs. P. C. Chenault is club secretary.

Following enjoyable games of forty-two, a plate of sandwiches and sweets was passed with tea to the following: Mmes. Cody, Chenault, W. J. Ely, Joe Strayhorn, Lee T. Stinson, Odum, J. E. LeMond, W. E. Doak, I. W. Boren and J. W. Scott. Mrs. Boren will be next hostess.

Acreage Loss and Freight Rates Rank As Major Problems In West Texas Area

"We have inflicted upon us certain penalties, discriminations and barriers under which you in Scurry County and all of West Texas are not and cannot realize upon your full potentialities in your economic life and in your progress and development."

So said D. A. Barden, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, in an address before a number of Scurry County farmers and business men in the courthouse September 16. Following is a full text of the address, printed as the leading article in the October issue of "West Texas Today."

I want to talk to you this evening briefly about some typical West Texas problems, which I believe are appropriate ones for discussion in Scurry County. No county is more representative of and as typical of West Texas problems as is Scurry County. Here you have had a growing agricultural county, having gained 526 farms from 1920 to 1930. Here you have gained in agricultural production and records show you have trebled your cotton production from 1910 to 1930. Here you have a high class population and your citizenship is 94 per cent American-born whites. You have only 3.2 per cent of illiteracy which is the average for West Texas as compared with 6.8 per cent for the rest of the State and 8.8 per cent of the thirteen southern and southwestern states. You also have 20 per cent more of your children in school than do East Texas and South Texas. You have grown in population from 102 persons in 1850 to 12,186 in 1930, a rate of increase 100 times faster than the rate of increase for the United States. In addition, you still have undeveloped land resources and you have opportunities for additional growth and development. All of these factors prevail in varying degrees throughout all of West Texas.

You are proud of your past achievements and, like all of West Texas, you have hopes for additional progress. Your hopes for future progress and achievement you do not want stifled or restrained, for we all still believe in the doctrine of self-determination. Self-determination, as I understand it, is the doctrine of permitting a people to live, to produce and to achieve in accordance with that people's characteristics, ability and economic advantages. For centuries no one has ever questioned this principle of government and of society. The only times it is ever questioned is when a people treads upon the rights of others and crushes others in making for themselves a place in the sun. Surely, in modern times and most of all in the United States, it is a violation of this doctrine to surround the people of any section with penalties, barriers and discriminations, making it impossible for the people of that section to live, to produce and to achieve in accordance with their basic economic conditions, ability and character.

Growth Stagnated. Yet, this is just what is happening to you in Scurry County and to all of West Texas. We have inflicted upon us certain penalties, discriminations and barriers under which you in Scurry County and all of West Texas are not and cannot realize upon your full potentialities in your economic life and in your progress to others in order to maintain our present economic condition and that these penalties to others in order to maintain our present economic condition and that these penalties and discriminations have wholly stagnated our future growth and development.

As an example of this, I refer you first to our freight rates. On cotton, you in Scurry County pay a freight rate of 47 cents per hundred for a haul of 447 miles to the Texas Gulf. The cotton producers from Newport, Arkansas, pay 31 cents per hundred for a haul of 457 miles. Here you are in Scurry County with a distance to market 10 miles less, but paying a 50 per cent higher freight rate than the producers of Arkansas. In fact, Texas as a whole pays a 49 per cent higher freight rate than Arkansas and a 72 per cent higher rate on cotton than Missouri. Thirteen principal West Texas shipping points pay 150 per cent higher cotton freight rate than thirteen principal shipping points in Louisiana. Even when comparing West Texas with East Texas freight rates again penalize us. Clarksville in East Texas and Ballinger in West Texas are each 365 miles from Houston, but Clarksville pays 34 cents per hundred freight against 41 cents per hundred for Ballinger, and our entire West Texas freight rate structure is approximately 20 per cent higher than East Texas for equal haul.

The study of grain rates likewise shows a discrimination against West Texas. I refer to all whole grains, namely—grains from our grain sorghums, as well as wheat, oats and feed. I assert that no producer anywhere in the United States pays as high rates as do our producers. Our average grain rate is around 35 cents per hundred, while the Omaha, Nebraska, farmer has a rate of around 25 cents per hundred and the railroads have recently sought to decrease rates from Chicago to the eastern seaport to around 12 cents per hundred. It is over 800 miles from Chicago to the Atlantic seaboard and it is over 1,000 miles from Omaha to our Texas Gulf ports, and yet, these shipping centers let grain rates much less than ours. Chicago, with a distance to the Atlantic seaboard one-half greater than Snyder to the Texas Gulf, gets a rate two-thirds less than you have to pay. This is a serious problem this year in West Texas due to our bumper grain sorghum crops. Due to the freight discriminations, other shipping points command the markets and our farmers are being deprived of WEST TEXAS—GAL TWO

A market. At the request of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, the Secretary of Agriculture has acted in our behalf, to ask the railroads to give us a better grain rate and we have requested the Secretary to request for us a rate no greater than from 10 cents to 15 cents per hundred. It would take such a drastic cut in our rates to put us on a parity with other producers.

Two Discriminations. You can go on and on about these freight rates. To ship first-class freight from El Paso to Springfield, Illinois, 1,228 miles, requires a rate of $3.30 per hundred. A shipment from Springfield to Lewiston, Maine, 1,216 miles, requires a rate of $1.73 per hundred. It costs about twice as much to ship 100 pounds of corn from Texas to Kansas City as to ship that corn from Kansas City to Texas. Not only are our farmers penalized, but our industrial development is stagnated. Our high freight rate structure and tariff are keeping us from developing our tremendous gypsum and potash deposits.

For a long time it appeared that the West Texas Chamber of Commerce was a lone voice in the wilderness howling about our high freight rates, but just recently our statements have been given great prominence and very substantial backing. A report on the economic condition of the South emphatically points out that we in West Texas are living under two great discriminations, namely—freight rates and tariff. On freight rates, the report said that if a manufacturer in our State tried to compete with a manufacturer in the North, he would be penalized by a 75 per cent differential in freight rates. Under these differentials, there can be no such thing as parity conditions for our farmers, there can be no additional development of our resources, and there can be attaining of our maximum potentialities in West Texas.

The above statements result from studies being made by a fact-finding committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce directors authorized by the Wichita Falls convention to report on the differentials. They are not intended to be a criticism of railroads as an institution. On the contrary, we believe that railroads should continue as our major means of transportation and we believe that the railroads should have adequate revenues to maintain themselves and to pay adequate returns and operating costs. These revenues and rates are secured under and are authorized by laws and regulations which govern the operations of railroads. We do blame, however, a system of laws and regulations that causes great producing sections such as ours to pay more proportionately in rates and to the needed revenues of the railroads than other sections.

As another example of restricting and stagnating our natural economic advantages, I refer to our present policy of scarcity and of acreage control. In making this observation in behalf of the Agricultural Committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, permit me first to explain that we are for our agricultural producers receiving a subsidy that will put them on a parity with the subsidy granted industry and we wholeheartedly support and commend this basic objective of the Federal Government. It is not the subsidy, but the method of granting the subsidy, namely—acreage reduction—to which we object and I assert to you that West Texas cannot fulfill its mission in life, cannot do what she is best equipped to do, cannot prosper, grow and develop under the present policy of scarcity and acreage control.

Let us analyze a few of the basic West Texas facts relative to, principally, our wheat and cotton production. In wheat, we produce normally over one-half of the high quality wheat of the United States. This wheat is used by bakers in the East and North in mixing with softer wheats and is needed in the markets of the United States and of the world. If there is a surplus of this high quality wheat, we have never heard of it.

Land Available. On cotton, we normally produce around 15 per cent of the nation's supply and practically all of our cotton, since we have no mills here, is for foreign export. In addition, in accordance with authentic reports, West Texas is the banner cotton producing area of the United States and can and does produce cotton at less cost than any other section of the United States or of the entire world. The United States Department of Agriculture reports our cotton production cost at less than one-third of production cost in Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi. In addition to this, West Texas has over 25 million acres of undeveloped wheat and cotton lands and is the only section of the United States that has available such raw land. If it is true—and it is—that West Texas can produce cotton and wheat better than any other section of the country; if it is true—and it is—that West Texas is the only remaining undeveloped section for cotton and wheat production in the country, then I ask, as a long range policy, should West Texas approve as a permanent policy a program keeping us from doing what we are best qualified to do?

Under this policy of curtailment, what has happened to West Texas during these several past years of plowing-up, acreage reduction control, etc.? The first thing that happened was on the floor of the House of Representatives in Washington when an old Southern States representative, in arguing for the Bankhead Bill, said that what we needed to do in this country was to keep West Texas from growing these long rows of cotton. That is just the very way the whole proposition worked out. West Texas, during the operation of the Bankhead Bill, cut its cotton production by over 45 per cent, while states east of the Mississippi River actually produced more cotton under the Bankhead Bill than before its enactment.

During the last several years of control, the figures show that we have in the United States 14 million acres less cotton while foreign countries, at the same time, are now planting around 15 million more acres of cotton. Of course, a great many of these acres have come out of West Texas.

After the 1930 census, many economic writers, on analyzing the census, pronounced West Texas as the fastest growing agricultural region in the history of America. Between 1920 and 1930, we were gaining new farms at the rate of 3,200 farms per year. Since 1932, instead of gaining new farms, we have been losing farms. We have lost these farms for our own sons and daughters and have given them to foreigners. We have lost these acres to give employment to our own unemployed and have given the employment to foreigners. The question arises, in view of the gentleman's remark before Congress, is it better for Americans to have farms, have employment, or should we by legislation give these farms and this employment to foreigners?

Markets Lost. Acreage control likewise is resulting in losing for us our foreign markets. With 95 per cent of our West Texas cotton being raised for export, we in West Texas should give serious consideration to any policy contributing to the loss of our foreign market. The facts are that our domestic exports of cotton in 1932 were 9,193,000 as compared with 5,431,000 in 1937. Last year, the world consumed one million bales more cotton than previously, while the world bought four million bales less of our cotton. The question is—if the acreage policy continues and the loss of export market increases—what is going to happen to our West Texas cotton grower?

In 1932, when the West Texas Chamber of Commerce administered relief for the 130 counties of West Texas, the reports submitted to the State and to the Federal Government showed less than 3 per cent of those on the relief rolls to be farmers. A recent report made by the State Relief Commission shows that 123,419 farmers are on the relief rolls in the State of Texas. This is 31 per cent of the entire relief rolls and the great increase has been due to acreage reduction resulting in loss of farms, loss of acres and loss of employment on the farm. There can be no doubt that the acreage reduction agriculture policy has resulted in our West Texas farmer losing his foreign market, in losing his cotton acres, in losing his farms and in causing unemployment for farmers. These conditions have resulted even though West Texas can produce cotton and wheat better and cheaper than any other section of the United States. With West Texas being a more or less one cash crop country, acreage control has put us in the same straight jacket as other sections which have opportunities of raising more than one cash crop. If the acreage control plan is continued, West Texas never can realize upon its fullest potentialities in producing agricultural products in accordance with its own economic advantages.

Remedy Advocated. The remedy for these ills, as seen by the Agricultural Committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, is the enactment of the Domestic Allotment Plan, which plan provides for giving the farmer parity price on that portion of his crop which is domestically consumed, leaving him free to restore his lost acres and produce for the foreign market. The regional organization has for four years endorsed and advocated this plan as being best for the West Texas farmer. The organization is for the plan because it will enable orderly benefit payments to the farmer commensurate to the subsidy granted industry; it will tend to restore our foreign market; it will put back under the plow our lost agricultural acres; it will restore employment on the farm; and it will enable us to continue our agricultural development in West Texas. The plan has been continuously and vigorously advocated by our own Commissioner of Agriculture, J. E. McDonald. In addition, it was endorsed by Marvin Jones when he said, "Provisions should be made to pay the premiums on that portion of production of cotton which goes into the domestic market, thus leaving the farmer free to make his own adjustment and to produce for the foreign market." Finally, and most important, the plan surely enables carrying out all the splendid objectives of President Roosevelt and meets with his approval when he said we should "segregate that portion of the crop to be sold on the domestic market for American use from the portion that is to be moved onto the world market."

Our past and future welfare in West Texas is dependent upon the producer. Freight rates far above rates in other areas and acreage reduction are two major items which we believe are mitigating against the welfare of the producers from doing the things we are best qualified and equipped to do. Let us give to others the right to do the things they are best equipped to do, but let us also insist that others do not impose upon us restrictions, differentials and barriers prohibiting us from doing the things we can best do.

A blazing football game that at times would have matched any average Class A mix-up was unrelentingly fought Friday night by the Buffaloes and the Fluvanna boys.

COMMENTS About Scurry County Products Show

ARTHUR TOWNSEND: "Dairy cattle exhibits showed the beginning of a great county dairy industry. A great community spirit was shown, and we want another Fall Products Show just like it."

$20,000 Livestock Show.
HARRIE WINSTON: "The community spirit of the whole thing evidenced a thing worth while—everyone got together and worked up some fine exhibits. Cattlemen and ranchers gave a conservative estimate of $20,000 for white faced Hereford exhibit alone. Let's have it over next fall."

J. C. BEAKLEY, Dunn, home industries committee: "One of the best shows of its kind we've ever had in this county. It was both educational and enjoyable (especially entertainment). It should become an annual festival of products."

MRS. I. E. STINSON, flower exhibit committee: "It was a wonderful show, and we must, by all means, make it a better show each year. Everyone connected with the Free Products Show deserves most honorable mention, for all worked together in harmony to insure Products Show success."

CLYDE THOMAS, sheriff: "Best county show we ever had, and need another one next autumn. An award community spirit proved the guiding light of the entire products parade."

Poultry Show "Tops."
C. F. SENTELL, poultry committee: "Folks should wake up to the fact we can have a Products parade second to none. I was certainly surprised at the enthusiasm and general good feeling that existed."

DR. I. A. GRIFFIN: "The best county show we've ever had. I, too, was surprised at the excellent displays. Let's have it again."

MRS. H. M. MURPHY, superintendent, antiques and heirlooms: "This is only a starter. We displayed bedspreads, Bibles, quilts, and all sorts of handiwork over a hundred years old. The show was 'tops' in anyone's county. We need another one next year."

J. J. AND JESSE KOONSMAN, beef cattle committee: "Each person connected with the show deserves an honorable mention—it was a great thing. All worked together to make the Products Show a success, and the fine cattle exhibited was worth anyone's time to look them over. All livestock were well taken care of and were displayed to advantage. Of course we need another show next year."

Equal to the Best.
MRS. GUY STOKER, vice chairman central committee: "The show as a whole was a success from every angle, and proves the people of Scurry County can put on a products show equal to any in the state. Why not another one next fall?"

CARLTON DAUGHERTY, 13-year-old Fluvanna exhibitor: "My three Rambouillet sheep took blue, red and white ribbons, and I'm sure proud of my efforts to show prize winners. This was my second year to exhibit animals, and I'll be right at the next show."

BEN BROOKS, chairman, dairy cattle committee: "I was amazed that we had the products show we did on such short notice. Certainly we want a bigger and better one next year. Both city and county deserve a bouquet of praise for making possible the show. Livestock exhibits, for instance, couldn't be beaten."

W. L. VOSS: "This Scurry County show is as good as any I've ever seen. Count me in on wanting another one next year."

J. M. GLASS, school teacher: "As good a show as I ever attended. Was glad to have a part in it, and want it to be an annual affair."

State Fair "Skinned."
CLEMENS VON ROEDER, Von Roeder Seed Farms, Knapp: "The show was remarkable—so much better than anyone expected. If we make as much progress with the show next year, we'll have the Dallas Fair 'skinned' a city block."

CLYDE BOREN, Winston & Clements: "A grand display on every hand. Especially were the livestock exhibits fine. Bring on another products show."

E. H. LILLY, secretary Chamber of Commerce: "The Chamber of Commerce secretary should be SEEN and not HEARD."

Ginning Reports Prior to October Add Up to 7,390

Figures released by the Department of Commerce, census bureau, through October indicate that Scurry County has one of the biggest crop proportions—1937 and 1938—of any West Texas county.

Present indications are that Scurry County may gin more cotton this year than Mitchell County, with 7,390 bales turned out up to October 1. October 1 figures for Scurry County last year touched the 9,704 mark. Mitchell ginnings totaled 11,919 bales this October 1; whereas, last October 1 they stood at the 11,615 mark.

Dawson County, where ginnings totaled 9,319 bales October 1, 1937, had ginned 8,128 bales through October 1 this year. Fisher County ginnings totaled 13,265 bales through October 1; whereas, ginnings last October 1 numbered 14,459.

Mitchell and Kent were the only two West Texas counties to show October 1 gains, but cotton buyers state most of the crop is doubtless out in these two counties. Kent ginnings stood at 2,618 bales this October 1, with 1,913 bales at the same time last year.

Other counties, with respective totals for October 1 this year and October 1, last year, follow: Taylor, 6,580-17,507; Nolan, 3,491-11,273; Jones, 17,436-20,583; Howard, 1,191-5,404; Lubbock, 2,968-5,285; Dickens, 5,225-3,943; Garza, 1,866-3,354; and Haskell, 12,613-13,331.

LEAVE MONDAY.
Mrs. A. R. Crowder and youngest daughter, Rubinel, left Monday to make their home in Fort Worth. They will join other members of the family there, and Mr. Crowder will follow them within the next month Mrs. Jimmie Stanton of Fort Worth, the Crowder's eldest daughter, came for the two, visiting briefly with local friends.

JIM SORRELLS, finance committee: "I'm another person astonished at the remarkable exhibits shown Friday and Saturday. The 4-H boys and girls have taken so much interest in the show, it will call for another one next autumn."

J. E. WEIR, who exhibited registered Jerseys: "I'm proud of the show, too, and insist on the same thing next fall."

Winter Poultry Show.
MRS. D. V. MERRITT, poultry division official: "The Products Poultry Show will be a live incentive for a mid-winter poultry show. Our younger people are becoming interested in poultry, and we already have a list of over 100 people who want a mid-winter poultry show."

MARGARET DELL PRIM, who accompanied for 44 free entertainment numbers, besides fill-ins: "The Products Show was simply grand from every viewpoint."

CLEVELAND LITTLEPAGE, Hobbs V. A. teacher: "Of all the fairs and shows I've seen, the Products Show beat them all. Better livestock were exhibited than I've seen at state fairs."

E. B. MCLEROY, Borden County Agent: "After we attended the Dawson County Fair at Lamesa, we dropped down to Snyder to find a 100 per cent better show awaiting us. The Products Shows was 'tops.'"

ESTIELLA RABEL, Home Demonstration Agent: "Why, the entire show was marvelous. I was certainly proud of our county club women."

LUKE BALLARD AND T. H. ROENSCHE, county agents of Scurry and Fisher Counties: "Take the boys and girls club exhibits, community booths or livestock exhibits, the Products Show was second to none anywhere."
