SAN ANGELOAN CONTRACTS TO START SCHOOL

First Work of Demolishing Flame-Gutted Structure Begun by O'Connell Wednesday

A San Angelo contractor, Will O'Connell, has signed a contract with PWA and the local school board for first work on giving the community a new school building.

O'Connell, whose low bid of $11,-480 gave him the contract out of a field of eight bidders, started actual demolishing of the fire-gutted building yesterday (Wednesday). Thanksgiving Day was the starting deadline indicated in the contract

This first contract looking toward a modern school plant for Snyder calls for completely demolishing the burned structure and cleaning up the grounds: resurrecting the bricks; and putting in the foundation for the new building.

EDUCATION BY SIGHT PUSHED

J. F. McDonald, director of the Texas Tech visual education library, stated this week that Snyder is one of the schools in the Lubbock district where a keen interest has been shown in visual education.

The graphic education extension service offered by Texas Tech was explained here recently by McDonald, who showed some of the fillm: before county teachers. Other schools where films have been shown include Plainview,, Sweetwater, Crosbyton, Ralls, Graham

Lubbock and Navasota. The extension service library has films on agriculture, history, and social sciences, Mrs. R. L. McDonald, secretary, said Tuesday. J. H Millikin is technician.

Fluvanna and Hermleigh have motion pictures for school use, but McDonald's graphic educational extension service includes a broader field than is contained in most high school film libraries at present.
