Man in the house... that was the very first thought of Lucille Greene and Katie Marie Louder Sunday night as they were alone in the John L. Greene house and heard unmistakable sounds of movement in the basement. They immediately locked all doors, jumped in the family car and hurriedly drove to Snyder General Hospital, where Lucille's father was at the bedside of his father, J. W. Greene. The mail carrier brought another man with him to assist in capturing the prowler. One entered by prying open a basement window and the other went through the door. The noise maker was an armadillo. The animal was killed, and peace returned to the household.

Extensive remodeling work on the Church of Christ basement, made necessary by the county's recent flood, is going forward rapidly this week. VOLCANIC ASH FROM COUNTY HAS WIDE SALE

Kelley Products Mine East of City Yields Commercial Product With Varied Uses

Mining of Scurry County's deposit of volcanic ash or pumice, located eight miles east of Snyder, is being actively speeded up this month by Kelley Products, whose headquarters have been established in Snyder.

The product is popularly known as native pumice, and is used for a wide variety of purposes and in a number of industries.

The 274-acre deposit, located west of Mt. Zion Church and several hundred yards south of Highway 15, is being worked by a small crew until satisfactory market channels for the local product are arranged.

Mined in Dickens County. W. R. Kelley, in charge of mining operations, stated Tuesday that the only other deposit of the white powder that is used for hundreds of polishing and cleaning operations is being mined by his firm in Dickens County.

The same machinery used to refine raw gypsum is employed to refine volcanic ash, Kelley said. The Scurry and Dickens County product, however, is extracted in an almost pure form that requires little refining.

Kelley Products is finding a ready market in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and other states for the polishing and cleaning powder under the trade names of Texas Oil Sorb and Miracle Clean-All.

Some of Variety of Uses. Attaches of the Home Dairy at Sweetwater and Borden Milk Company's plant at Amarillo say pumice makes an excellent cleanser for milk vats, cream cans and other dairy equipment.

The local product is being used extensively to clean and polish bath tubs, sinks, windows, pots, pans, monuments, dental plates, chinaware, stoves, glassware, linoleum, marble and numerous other fixtures. In fact, the non-metallic ore is used everywhere a detergent is necessary.

A Kansas City firm has been negotiating with Kelley in regard to purchasing the Scurry County pumice deposit, but due to discriminatory freight rates on interstate shipments have not been made for shipping the product in quantity to points outside the Southwest.

Widely Used Elsewhere. Pumice is widely used for refining vegetable oils, petroleum products, and is finding favor with Texas and Oklahoma service station operators for removing grease, oil and dirt.

It is widely used by art glass companies, photo engravers, electro and metal plate engravers, and by cabinet makers for finishing and polishing woods.

Not only is refined pumice used for treating molasses and in drugs, but it is widely employed in cosmetics, facial creams, mud packs, skin lotions and bleaches, and in lipstick and rouge. It is also used to remove black heads, wrinkles and in reducing enlarged pores.

Formula for Product. An analysis of the local deposit reveals that it contains high percentages of soda, potash and lime, which enable it to be substituted entirely for the usual felspar. A variety of other uses, to be discussed in The Times later, make the local volcanic ash valuable in every-day activities and in many specialized fields.

An analysis of the local deposit follows: Range of Tracyle V. A. is index 1.50, SiO₂ 72.66 per cent, Alumina (Al₂O₃) 12.23 per cent, Iron Oxide (Fe₂O₃) 2.40 per cent, Magnesia (MgO), .36 per cent, Lime (CaO), 1.14 per cent, Potash (K₂O), 6.54 per cent, Soda (Na₂O), 4.45 per cent, Water (110 deg. C), .90 per cent, Loss on ignition, 5.43 per cent.

Dr. Ryan, who will be assisted by Mrs. Ryan in his new location, extends a cordial invitation for old and new friends to inspect his new offices. New and modern equipment has been installed throughout.

COUNTY FARM MEASUREMENT GETS STARTED

Compliance Reporters Begin Work After Training; Full Pay on Flooded Croplands

AAA compliance work on the county's 1,519 farms is getting well under way this week, reports Edward S. Hyman, administrative assistant. The work, started late last week, will cover every farm in the county.

Allotments and marketing quotas for the 1939 crop year are being established as soon as possible, in order that farmers may determine whether planted acres for 1939 tally with AAA farm work sheets.

Farmers whose cotton was swept away in the county's recent flood and storm disaster will get their full AAA farm benefit payments, Hyman said. Some farmers in the southwest part of the county are replanting inundated cottonlands in late feed.

The 20 performance reporters checking farm compliance under the supervision of W. C. Hooks, performance supervisor, are:

Camp Springs—Guy E. Casey, Hernleigh—I. S. Cross and M. A. Murdoch, Pylon—J. M. Glass and C. P. Gilmore, Dunn—Francis Johnston, Jack A. Johnson and Ben W. Newhouse, China Grove—W. A. Halstrom, Ira—J. E. Falls and R. A. Hardee, Bison, Knapp and Canyon—H. B. Patterson Jr., Union—Holly Shuler, Fuvanna—W. F. Mathis and Gilbert Mize.

Ennis Creek—Woodrow Smith and Clarence A. Wade, Snyder—Weldon Kincaid and W. H. Hill, Dermott—Garland Parks.

Temperature in County Jumps to High for Season

A heat wave that struck Scurry County last Wednesday wound up by giving us the hottest day of the year Saturday—a day that saw the official thermometer shoot up to 105 degrees.

Last week's heat wave over the nation claimed 38 lives. Maximum temperature here last Wednesday was 101 degrees, according to Mrs. B. G. Johnson, official weather gauger.

Maximum temperature reached Thursday and Friday was 100 degrees each day, with Saturday as the hottest—105 and last day of the heat wave.

Gradually lowering temperatures over the week-end, plus cool breezes Monday and Tuesday, gave a welcome breathing spell here. Tuesday's highest temperature was 94 degrees.

The D. & R. Oil Corporation's No. 1 R. O. McClure claimed chief interest in the Sharon Ridge pool this week, as it pumped 216 barrels of oil during a 24-hour Railroad Commission test that ended early Wednesday morning.

Flood Stains Rapidly Erased From County

CAR DRIVERS' LICENSES MAY GET RENEWAL

Free Service Offered by Assessor-Collector; All Drivers Should Renew Old Licenses

Automobile drivers' licenses will be renewed without charge at the office of the county assessor-collector, at any regular office time. This announcement was made by Herman Darby, who is offering this service to the people in order that they may not encounter trouble in case of accident, out-of-state travel, or other occasions where drivers' licenses would be required.

Examiners of the drivers' license division of the Department of Public Safety are in Snyder only on Tuesdays, 1:00 to 3:00 p. m., and Darby stated that it is inconvenient for most out-of-town motorists to come in at that time. Thus, he decided to offer the service at his office daily.

Drivers should bring their old licenses, which expired April 1, 1939, and have them stamped: "Renewed—Expires April 1, 1942."

In a letter of instructions from Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Department of Public Safety, it was stated:

"The only stipulation we would make is that your deputies be instructed not to endorse any license from which two conviction coupons have been removed. Such licenses should be referred to the examiners of the department for license renewal. We would also ask that care is taken to stamp the license in such a manner that none of the reading matter will be made illegible."

"Please bear in mind that chauffeurs' licenses may not be renewed by the rubber stamp endorsement."

"We appreciate your cooperation in this matter and sincerely trust that you will not hesitate to call upon the department at any time we can be of service to you."

Lone Star Gas, 30 Years Old, Goes To 299 Localities

Thirty years ago at Austin, the secretary of state authorized incorporation of Lone Star Gas Company for the purpose of producing and transporting natural gas from distant fields to towns and cities miles away.

Snyder is served by Community Natural Gas Company, which secures its gas through the Lone Star Gas Company.

The charter for Lone Star was obtained by L. B. Denning, now president of the company, and his associates. They built the first long distance pipe line in Texas, from Petrolia in Clay County to Ft. Worth and Dallas.

Denning, however, can still recall the struggles of the little company during its early years. He remembers particularly the dark days of the World War, when new sources of supply were unobtainable and customers complained each winter about the lack of pressure in their stoves.

After staring at the man a long while, Wilde spoke his voice stern: "If you had told me that you had a bed to sleep in, but wouldn't dream of sleeping in it; that you had work to do, yet no idea of doing it; bread to eat, but declined it for trifles; then I should have given you a five-pound note. As it is, you are depressingly normal. Here is a shilling."

Coronado, leading a bedraggled army of Spanish grandees in 1541, came as far east across the Texas frontier as Salt Lake in Kent and Double Mountains in Stoneval County, musty records of the trip show in search of the supposedly golden city of Quivera.

Well meaning Indian guides from the Quivera and Cibola countries east of the Plains made an honest attempt to lead Coronado to their straw hut towns on the Colorado and Arkansas Rivers, but the Spanish explorer's vision could evidently go no further than the glittering acres of Salt Lake and the purple-draped Double Mountains.

Since a winding and circuitous road places Salt Lake 24 miles from the Jayton railroad terminal, no attempt is made to ship the salt mined from the lake. Yesterday's wagon roads across the lake bed are being replaced today with car roads made by pick-ups and trucks.

One of the most attractive and isolated beauty spots in the state, Salt Lake continues to yield through the years salt to all who will mine it. It is today the undisputed capital of uncommercialized surface mining in West Texas.

SALT LAKE IN KENT COUNTY IS BEAUTY SPOT OF WEST TEXAS

By LEON GUINN, Times Staff Writer.

Editors' Note: The following article on Kent County's justly-famous Salt Lake—one of the most unusual beauty spots in West Texas—appeared in a recent issue of the Ft. Worth Star-Telegram.

Approximately 100 tons of almost pure salt are being surface mined annually from Kent County's famed 540-acre Salt Lake, located eight miles northeast of Jayton.

The lake, fed by salt springs, has been the undisputed source of salt supplies for a wide area for over 800 years, Indian inscriptions say.

Located in the half-mile-deep sanctuary of Croton Breaks, Salt Lake was first used by buffalo hunters from 1874 to 1878 as a salt supply source, and later by pioneer settlers of Kent, Stoneval, Fisher and Scurry Counties.

Pioneers Remember It. Men like "Uncle" Aleck Shipp of Harmony, Judge Allen, Roby, Orvil Lowrance of Jayton and W. V. Jones of Camp Springs recall vividly how early settlers in the four-county area used to take several days off when work was slack to load up with supplies from Salt Lake for stock, meat curing and household use.

Kent County ranchers continue to mine about 100 tons of the snow-clustered crystals annually from the lake's glittering acres. The lake, 1.2 miles across, is estimated to contain 10,000 tons of salt equal to any commercial ingredient sold.

Game Trails Lead to It. Oldest game trails in the Kent area lead to Salt Lake. The trails, etched deeper by Red Men who years ago bowed in the sunset of their glory, became wagon roads when that vast caravan of settlers began to follow the Old MacKenzie Trail in the 1880's and 1890's.

Settlers going to the Plains stocked up with wagon beds full of the earth god's gift before winding to the unfenced borderland of Texas on the Staked Plains.

Character is higher than intellect. A great soul will be strong to live, as well as to think—Emerson.

ASK WALLACE TO GIVE STATE LABORATORY

Cotton Ginning and Fiber Research Would Be Object, Mahon Tells Secretary

Request for a cotton ginning and fiber laboratory for West Texas was brought directly to Secretary Wallace of the Department of Agriculture last Saturday by a committee of Texas congressmen.

Those conferring with the secretary were Representatives George Mahon of Colorado City, whose 19th District includes Scurry and Borden Counties, Ed Gossett of Wichita Falls and Bob Poage of Waco, composing a committee appointed by the Texas delegation several weeks ago to cooperate with the state-wide cotton committee of Texas in sponsoring the laboratory for the western cotton area.

The work sought for West Texas would be done in cooperation with the Department of Agriculture's cotton ginning and fiber laboratory now existing at Stoneville, Mississippi, Congressman Mahon advises The Times. The laboratory there was established in 1920 and has done considerable valuable work in the improvement of cotton fiber and ginning methods in areas characterized by damp atmospheric conditions. It was pointed out to Secretary Wallace that an altogether different situation exists in the western cotton area where atmospheric conditions are dry and often result in static electricity, which is a serious handicap in the operation of gins and at the same time is a serious fire hazard.

The Extension Service has estimated that gins in the West Texas area lose an average of four days per month during the ginning season from this cause, and also that 59 out of 3,498 gins in Texas burned last year.

The greater benefit from experimentation under such a project would be expected from the improvement in the cotton fiber, thus enabling the individual farmer to benefit directly from the higher price value of better staples. Importance of improved ginning methods was stressed as a necessary part of the cotton improvement campaign sponsored by the Department of Agriculture through one variety cotton communities, and so forth. The department has estimated that cotton staple last year was increased 1-32 of an inch, which added approximately three million dollars to the cotton farmers' income through increased staple value.

The committee urged Secretary Wallace to give special consideration to the proposed laboratory as a means of bringing greater benefits of the cotton improvement campaign to the farmers of the western cotton area.

Several weeks ago various conferences were held with Department of Agriculture officials by members of the Texas delegation committee and the state-wide cotton committee of Texas, including Burris Jackson of Hillsboro, chairman, and Earl Heard, head of the textile engineering department of Texas Technological College, Lubbock. The meeting with Secretary Wallace Saturday was for the purpose of emphasizing directly to him the need for the project and urging his recommendation of the project in the department's budget for the next fiscal year.

Representative Mahon, chairman of the Texas delegation committee, explained that no new legislation would be necessary since the act establishing the Stoneville laboratory authorized establishment of branch laboratories when their need was evident.

He also pointed out that availability of facilities at Texas Tech for cooperation with the Stoneville laboratory would enable the department to conduct the project without extensive allotment of funds. The department estimates that approximately $75,000 would be required for the first year's work.

No Transfers After August 1 Says Irvin

August 1 has been set as deadline for accepting transfers of students, announces Roy O. Irvin, superintendent of county schools.

High school students whose grades are not taught in their home districts must be transferred just as other students, said Irvin. "This is very important, and should be attended to as soon as possible."

Transferring alone is not all to be considered, since transportation and tuition can be paid by the state only under specified conditions since passage of the new rural aid law.

Margaret Davis, Ira; Lois Martin, Turner; Virginia Martin, Canyon; Robbie Jo Brown, Dunn; Mary Brown Roberson, Hermleigh; and Sybil Cummings, Pyron. Mattie Beth Payne, Pyron sponsor, also attended.

The following club women attended the annual event: Mmes. Guy Stoker, chairman of the County Home Demonstration Council; Roy Hargrove of Ennis Creek; Virgil Jones of Union; Nathan Wade of Tri-Community; Jim Merket of China Grove; and C. H. Stahl of Pyron.

Members present were: Mmes. W. E. Boss, Gibson, Theon Scribner, M. A. Davis, A. P. Smith, G. W. Flippin, Albert Hobbs and the hostess, Mrs. Irby Weaver of Hamlin and Doris Davis of Dermott were guests.

AS we reach our thirtieth birthday, we are mindful of the responsibility that goes with our job. We renew our pledge to the policy that has guided us through the years—"First, find out what is the right thing to do . . . then, what is the right way to do it."

We know that homes must have heat and that many depend entirely upon our service. If we should fall down on the job, there would be inconvenience, discomfort, suffering in many homes. We realize that, even though our customers seldom think about it, they have confidence in our ability to render dependable service and rely on it being available instantly and without interruption day or night, throughout the years, regardless of the weather. We know it is the responsibility of each of us of Lone Star never to fail that trust.

In 1909 Lone Star Gas Company pioneered the development of natural gas in Texas. The first natural gas pipeline, 126 miles long, from Petrolia, Texas, to Fort Worth and Dallas, was an epochal event in Southwestern progress and indicative of a greater growth and development to come.

Americanism—and the American Legion

America with its form of government constitutes a crowning accomplishment in the century-old struggle of the Anglo-Saxon races for the establishment of the rights of men. While these rights are the inalienable rights of man given to him inherently by his Creator, they have only been won and preserved by the sacrifice of the blood of men in arms. Vigilance eternal is necessary to their perpetuation. The American Legion is an institution thoroughly aware of this truth. We are an organization of men and women who know that we live because others died for us. Our greatest endeavor is to impress the truths we have learned upon the generation which has come after us to the end that they may not have to learn the lessons we have learned in the same cruel school of experience in which we have learned them.

That paragraph, titled "Americanism," expresses the patriotic philosophy of Stephen F. Chadwick, national commander of the American Legion. Commenting on the work of this all-American Seattle, Washington, lawyer, The Pathfinder says: "In an era when the old-fashioned patriotism is presumed by many observers to have lost its popularity with the American people, while new fangled 'isms' are flouted on every hand, the American Legion has reached its high point in membership and for the first time musters 1,000,000 regularly paid-up members. This achievement in growth and power of the Legion has been accomplished under the leadership of a national commander whose voice has been heard the length and breadth of the land preaching one basic and essential principle—the old-fashioned patriotism."

Mahon's Cotton Minded

A special committee of Texas congressmen, led by Representative George Mahon, renewed efforts this week to have the U. S. Department of Agriculture establish a cotton ginning and fiber laboratory in West Texas to supplement work being done by the Stoneville, Mississippi, laboratory. His continuous work to have this laboratory established at Texas Technological College, said by most unprejudiced observers to be the logical place for such a venture, has proven anew that the George Mahon who came out of Loring cotton fields is still cotton minded.

Anyone familiar with West Texas staples realizes a Mississippi laboratory cannot successfully conduct research work for cotton fibers in this area, since atmospheric conditions and late ginning seasons give various cotton grades peculiar to West Texas and other low-moisture territories.

A cotton laboratory at Texas Tech would be useful, also, in finding new uses for cotton and cotton by-products. This problem, most close observers of the West Texas farm scene agree, is the most vital issue that faces cotton-growing areas. Foreign markets are ripped apart. Home markets are finding a myriad of substitutes for cotton.

It is a bit aside from the subject . . . but have you been making an effort to buy products made of cotton these last few months? Buy cotton—or you will buy West Texas short!

Practical Schooling

All Scurry County will join in congratulating Ira and Pyron for their addition of vocational agriculture to their high school programs. Experience in other schools has shown that V. A. work is highly beneficial not only to the future of the boys who take it, but that it puts a new zest into community and school life.

The verbal and sometimes highly prejudiced war between those who believe in formal education against those who believe in practical education will continue through the years, with each school of thought having its advocates. But it would be a brave educator, indeed, who would question the wisdom of progressive agricultural courses for almost strictly rural schools.

Air-Conditioned Westex

Pessimism Pete says the folks who complain loudest in the spring about West Texas sandstorms belong to the same tribe that shouts the loudest about the cool summer-time breezes.

Our Alibi No. 2,759,022

Times readers who pounce upon Times errors with avidity born of long practice will perhaps suffer a few pangs of remorse when they read this quotation from the Kingston Standard: "There are 10,000 pieces of type in a single newspaper column; there are seven possible wrong positions for each letter; there are 70,000 chances to make errors and millions of possible transpositions. In the sentence, 'To be or not to be,' 2,759,022 errors can be made by transpositions alone." Commenting, Type-Talks of Akron, Ohio, says: "Add to the millions of chances of making a mistake, the nature's cussedness of the compositor, and the fact that the human eye has a strong tendency to see what the mind expects it to see rather than what is actually in front of it, and you have the explanation of the fact that there is rarely a piece of printing of any size in which at least one error cannot be found."

Current Comment

By LEON GUINN

That Scurry County will one day be recognized as one of the mineral and raw materials capitals of West Texas is evidenced this week by the interest being shown by southwestern manufacturers and mining engineers in the county's 274-acre deposit—one of two such deposits yet discovered in West Texas—of volcanic ash eight miles east of Snyder on the right-of-way fringe of Highway 15.

The volcanic ash or pumicite deposit, value of which has only recently been recognized as a cleaning and polishing agent without peer, is acknowledged by scientists in Texas and other states to be one of the most versatile minerals found in the Southwest. . . . Very little expense is involved in refining the local deposit for commercial use, since it was laid down in the geologically important Cretaceous period in almost a pure form.

Although pumicite is volcanic in source, it is found in a variety of types, such as infusorial earth, Benonite and Fuller's Earth. . . . Only white pumicite, of which the local deposit is composed, is commercially very valuable, since off-color pumicite such as that found in the Lynn County deposit near Tahoka requires too many refining processes to make it viable for household and industrial uses.

Volcanic ash was produced during the close of the Cretaceous period, scientists say, by the extrusion of water vapor at a high temperature as lava came to the surface. . . . The Cretaceous period, which opened with most of West Texas being covered by a vast inland sea, ended with widespread mountain-forming disturbances and with igneous eruptions, especially in the western parts of America. . . . Nearly all U. S. coal deposits west of the Great Plains area are of the Cretaceous Age. . . . Mountain-forming disturbances marked the transition from Mesozoic to Cenozoic geological age.

Recognized markets of the Cretaceous Age in Scurry County include our abundant supply of calcite, which is an impure form of limestone, volcanic pumicite, common sorts of sedimentary rocks, coal deposits in the central and eastern parts of the county and fossilized remains of the sub-tropical flora that once flourished here. . . . Fossilized bits of marine life found in conglomerate and other rocks in the county, plus scattered chunks of lava in nearly every section of the county, indicate that the Cenozoic Age changed the face of the entire county on surface formations as an eternal monument to the enduring work of Nature.

One of the first mining companies to be affected by the recently passed Silver Purchase bill this week was the American Metal Company of Shafter, where officials put 600 miners back to work in our only Texas silver mine as a result of the new domestic price posted for silver. . . . Just how important silver mining is to Texas may be gleaned from the fact 1,326 fine ounces, valued at $1,025, were produced at Shafter in 1937. . . . This amount in itself is not important, but it indicates more silver is lying untouched in the Chinati Mountain range.

Diabetics who have disliked the idea of having insulin injected with hypodermic needles will be interested in the research work done by Dr. Paul J. Hanzlik of Stanford's School of Medicine, who reported this week some success with insulin in pill form. . . . Using quinine as a carrier agent, Dr. Hanzlik has been able to give insulin in pills to different test animals, but has not been able so far to infuse insulin with a carrier drug that would not be too objectionable to the human system.

A grayish horizon of war clouds over Europe in recent weeks has resulted in foreign governments building up a "war chest" of slightly over $1,500,000,000 in American banks to buy supplies with in time of emergency. . . . European statesmen, who have taken some pretty dirty digs at America in the past few years, are in complete agreement that U. S. currency is, and will continue to be, the world's safest money. . . . Now, if we could accumulate a "peace chest" of the sums owed us by foreign countries for World War loans of over $11,000,000,000, the federal government's public debt would be whacked down considerably.

Welcome news to housewives is contained in an announcement from the Quaker Chemical Products Corporation that a new crystalline compound will soon be available that makes fabrics flameproof, and will protect rugs and upholstery against cigarette and cigar burns. . . . Another interesting new product, known as Zein, has been developed by Corn Products Refining Company to make paper and food containers grease resisting. . . . The Zein plastic is made from a protein extracted from corn, and is slated to offer some competition for paraffin as a grease resistant paper coating.

Weeds and Mosquitoes

Eays Mr. Mosquito No. 1: "Where are we going, Bill, now that Snyder is cutting the high weeds, hauling off the water-holding tincans and otherwise making our lives miserable?" Replies Mr. Mosquito No. 2: "Oh, never mind. By the time our 10,000,000 children are grown, the folks in Snyder will have forgotten all about their resolution to cut down weeds and haul off stray cans. These sanitary-city speeds usually die down after a few weeks."

Fluvanna Man Will Be Judge at Lamesa

Bud Arnett of Fluvanna, Keete Dunn of Post and Jess Slaughter of Big Spring were selected this week to act as contest judges for Lamesa's two-day rodeo July 20 and 21. Milt Good of Dickens has been appointed show announcer.

Guy Weekes, managing director of the annual Lamesa rodeo, said Tuesday two shows will be given daily and that the largest prize money ever offered at a Dawson County rodeo will be paid this year. Highlights of the two-day event will include parades through the business district depicting cowboy days and frontier activities.

The tomato, say food specialists of the Texas A. & M. Extension Service, is a fair source of vitamin C, the pellagra preventing factor. Texas has around 600 deaths from pellagra annually.

THE TIMES TABLE

RAY DICKSON, new secretary of the Scurry County Chamber of Commerce, sums up one of his chief philosophies with "I like people." Judging from initial introductions, Snyder and Scurry County people like young Dickson, too. A hard worker all his life, Ray peddled peas in a donkey cart at the age of six. Four years later his business sense asserted itself when he started in the chicken business with one rooster and five hens when eggs were 60 cents a dozen. He is intensely interested in helping improve West Texas far ranging by cultivating better markets and more diversified farm practices.

JIMMIE SMITH, former editor of The Times, is making a name for himself in the ranks of Texas feature producers. His latest production is a three-column picture-word description of John Nance Garner under a "Texans of Today" heading. The feature is appearing in a number of Texas newspapers because Jimmie's company, Texas Newspaper Features, sold the idea to those who are most interested in seeing "Cactus Jack" become the president of these United States.

J. F. WOODSON, our favorite maker of verses, submits a Mother Goose rhyme that might contain a lesson for those who complain so verbosely of flood and hail, drouth and bugs:

Little Miss Muffet sat on a tuffet,
Laughing and taking her ease.
A big bug bit her, but she said, "I'm no quitter—
I'll sit here as long as I please!"

W. W. REID, who lives at 1200 29th Street, Southeast Snyder, found small cucumbers, squash and cantaloupes on his vines July 9—just a month, to a day, after he had planted them. The veteran Stamford carpenter and bricklayer, who retired from that business and came to Snyder after suffering blood poisoning in his hand, says he hopes to prove that fine vegetables can be raised on local soil with some extra elbow grease.

Cooper Reunion, 45 Strong, Staged Locally July 4th

The old Birdwell home, 12 miles southwest of Snyder, was the scene of another happy family reunion July 4. The time the reunion was of the A. B. Coopers, their children, grandchildren and other relatives. The 18 children, 17 grandchildren, in-laws and other relatives made a total of 45 attendants—the oldest 82 years of age and the youngest 10 months old.

Visiting, kodaking, swimming, horseback riding and eating formed diversion for the day. The group parted late in the afternoon, looking forward with interest to their next meeting, in 1943, when they will celebrate the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Cooper.

Present besides the father and mother were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Birdwell and three children, Merton, Christine, and Alma Lee Cooper, all of Snyder; Rev. and Mrs. R. B. Cooper and two sons, Dallas; Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Cooper and three children, Brownwood; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Cooper and son, Tulsa; Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Church of Christ Is Crowded for Singing

Singers from all corners of Scurry County and from Sweetwater, Roscoe, Rotan and Lubbock filled the Church of Christ to capacity Sunday afternoon for the regular monthly singing of Scurry County Churches of Christ.

Program highlights included specialties by the Sweetwater chorus, led by Bro. Crenshaw, numbers by the women's and men's quartets, and the Harding and Woody Sisters quartet.

Hermleigh will be host to the next monthly singing, slated for the second Sunday in August.
