Boss Desperate: To Run Rain Ad

BY LEON GUINN

Scurry County needs a good rain!

This fact is not only borne out by the condition of crop and feed lands over the county, but also by the fact some members of "The Times" have had such a touch of rheumatism the past few days.

The past few days the boss has been hard to get along with, farmers say that some early feed and cotton is beginning to die, and since friend Jupiter Pluvius has withheld the moisture of the heavens to the extent Scurry County doesn't have a bottom season, "The Times" has decided to advertise for rain.

Light showers received over the week-end and Wednesday will tide early crops over for the next few days, but the fact remains we need a good rain—the kind that puts a bottom season in county soil without washing away freshly sprung-up crops of grain stuff and cotton.

So, next week, "The Times" will advertise for rain, the kind that gives a good planting season. Local merchants who advertise in the special spread will pay for their advertising only if one-half inch rain, by government gauge, is received within one week from the time next week's issue is in the mail.

If Jupiter Pluvius doesn't favor the county with as much as a half inch of good rain, the special spread advertising will be on the boss, and the advertiser gets his lineage free!

RELIEF DRIVE OF RED CROSS BEGUN IN CITY

Roll Call Chairman Believes County Will Rally to Raise Quota of $440 for War Refugees

Inaugurated Tuesday morning, the county-wide campaign that is being sponsored by the Scurry County chapter of the American Red Cross to raise $440 for refugee relief in France, Belgium and Holland will be carried to every part of the county.

Mrs. Carrie Line, county Red Cross chairman, states donation blanks have been distributed to local business houses—"The Times" office, the county agent's office and other convenient locations.

Those who desire to contribute funds for civilian relief in Europe's war-torn zones of Belgium, France, or Holland will find blanks for listing their names at almost any business house around the square.

"With several million men locked in mortal combat on French and Belgian soil, relief needs of the Belgian and French people are reaching staggering proportions," Mrs. Line said.

"Surely Scurry County will raise her quota of $440, since the Red Cross has come to our aid many times in the past. Already, 5,000,000 pitiful refugees are clogging every road into Central France trying to escape bombing and strafing from aircraft."

Norman Davis of the St. Louis American Red Cross office stated, "Scurry County people, we feel, will realize the need of prompt action if the Red Cross is to befriend the overseas victims of brutal warfare."

J. V. Robinson, 1939 Red Cross Roll Call chairman for the county, states community Roll Call committee members have been furnished subscription blanks. Donations will be promptly sent to the National Red Cross headquarters office at St. Louis.

ANOTHER REA EXTENSION IN COUNTY SEEN

Good Progress Being Made to Sign Applications in Two Sections Of County for Lines

Rapid progress in obtaining applications for 120 miles of new REA lines that will serve the Ennis Creek, Lloyd Mountain, Ira and Sharon Ridge communities was reported Wednesday by W. O. Moore and Mel Andress, coordinators for rural electric work in the county.

Olen W. Yandell, Rotan superintendent of Midwest Electric Co-operative—under whose sponsorship Scurry County REA work is being done—stated Wednesday morning applications are almost complete for 120 additional miles of REA lines that will be built in Borden, Scurry, Fisher, Jones, Mitchell, Nolan and Stonewall counties.

E. R. Taylor, representing the engineering firm of Midwestern Construction Company, Tulsa, Oklahoma, is here this week mapping the proposed new rural electric lines for Scurry County.

Following completion of mapping work, Yandell states the Rural Electrification Administration at Washington will be asked for a new allocation of construction funds.

Local REA officials should know within the next two months whether or not funds are obtainable for building the 120 miles of new high lines in Scurry County.

"On the new project work we're working on for the Lloyd Mountain, Ennis Creek, Sharon Ridge and Ira communities, we have the assurance the high line will be built during the 1940 if sufficient funds are obtainable," Moore and Andress said.

Open house dates are being observed through Saturday at the WPA recreation project, the Sewing Room, the Commodify Room and the local House Keeping Aide project.

Guides are on hand at each professional or service project to explain to visitors the type of work done, statistics on the project in question and other data concerning federal projects in the city.

Although WPA is furnishing supervisors and virtually all salary funds for keeping professional and service projects going in Snyder, Scurry County and the City of Snyder are co-sponsors of the work being done.

County and city officials are joined by project supervisors in extending the public an invitation to inspect the service projects in operation here before Saturday night, when open house visiting hours will be brought to a close.

School Entered For Second Time Sunday

Vandals who broke into the local school over the week-end and ransacked the office desks of Frances Chensault, secretary to C. Wedgewood, superintendent, and R. G. Dillard, junior high school principal, apparently obtained little or no money, school officials report.

Principal damage was done to office fixtures and furniture. Papers were scattered in a helter-skelter method on desks of Miss Chensault and Dillard, but evidently few things missing, a Wednesday check revealed.

I want to ask that every loyal American citizen assist us in putting a stop to these unjust, untrue and malicious rumors. It will be appreciated.

27% INCREASE REFLECTED IN PAST 10 YEARS

Gain of Exactly 800 Shown For City in First Report—Hermleigh Registers Slight Decrease

Preliminary figures gathered in the 1940 Census shows Snyder, as of April 1, 1940, to have a population of 3,807 people. A. O. Bearden, district census supervisor of Lamesa, reported Tuesday afternoon.

While the above figure on the probable population of the Scurry County seat is preliminary and subject to revision, Bearden states the estimate of 3,807 people is believed to be substantially correct.

Compared with a census checked population of 3,006 people as of April 1, 1930, results of the Sixteenth Census indicate Snyder has gained 799 citizens in the past decade.

Other preliminary figures released by Bearden indicate the population of Hermleigh is 402 people as of April 1, 1940, compared with 544 people as of April 1, 1930. Initial totals, therefore, show a loss of 142 people at Hermleigh since 1930.

Girls Are Advised To Build-Up For Relief

Lack of knowledge causes many a weak, undernourished girl a lot of suffering!

Many others, however, know how the headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain of functional dysmenorrhoea due to malnutrition are helped by the proper use of CARDUI.

Some take it a few days before and during "the time," to help ease periodic distress. But CARDUI's principal use is to help increase appetite; stimulate the flow of gastric juice; so aid digestion, assist in building up physical resistance and thus help reduce periodic distress. Women have used CARDUI for over 50 years.

THE FORD WAY OF DOING BUSINESS

The Ford Motor Company was founded by a working-man for working-men. Its present officers began as employees of the Company. It was the first company to pay a minimum wage, beginning in 1914, at the then astounding figure of $5 a day. That was double the prevailing wage of the time. The Ford minimum is now $6 a day for all employees engaged in production work. And from that, the wages rise to $10.80 a day, with the average wage $7.25, exclusive of salaried employees.

The Ford Motor Company was the first large company to establish the 8-hour day—also in 1914. And the 40-hour week was inaugurated by the Ford Motor Company in 1926, years before any such laws existed.

The Ford Motor Company employs men without regard to race, creed or color. It is common knowledge that working conditions in the Ford shops are the best that science and constant care can make them. A square deal, a just wage and stabilized employment for a large proportion of our employees—and as fully stabilized for all as conditions will permit—enable our men to retain their personal independence.

In consequence of these policies the Ford Motor Company has one of the finest bodies of employees in the world. The larger proportion are mature men of long service with the Company—sober, decent family men. Hundreds of them have been with the Company for more than 25 years—thousands for more than 15 years. Their health record, home ownership and citizenship records are good.

All this is reflected in Ford products, whether cars, trucks or tractors. The work is honestly done. Materials are the best that can be made or procured. Less profit to the Company and more value to the customer is known throughout the motoring world as "Ford's way of doing business."

Ford Motor Company was the first to make a motor car within the means of the average family—quitting the manufacture of what was then the largest selling model in the world to do so. Its chosen field in all the 30 years since that time has been the average American family—for which it has consistently provided car facilities which formerly only the wealthy could buy.

It is the policy of the Ford Motor Company to share the benefits of advanced methods and management with workers and public alike. Increased wages and employment over a period of many years have resulted in

A 300 per cent increase in the built-in value of the Ford car and a 75 per cent reduction in its price.

Henry Ford and Edsel Ford keep daily personal touch with all phases of Ford manufacture. In a conference with his staff, Henry Ford often says: "Go ahead—I'll sit here and represent the public."

Bill Horton Rides To Abilene City Golf Title Sunday

Tall, smooth-playing Bill Horton of Snyder, located here as a junior inspector for the Texas High Department, played his best Sunday golf last week-end, which was two over par for 34 holes, and which carried him to his second consecutive Abilene city golf championship.

His victim was J. P. Bohannon. The score was 3-and-2. It was the same thing for Horton and against Bohannon last year. And this was the fifth time that the hard trying Bohannon had been up to the city final—and back down without winning.

Horton fired three straight nines in par, never slipping a cog until the turn of the afternoon round was passed. Victory was practically in the bag by that time.

Practically all the way the long and slim Bill was outdriving and outputting his opponent. Bohannon's short irons perhaps were a shade better, but they were not enough.

Bo was in the lead only for a brief while in the morning round, winning the ninth and tenth holes to go two up. Bill smashed back before the noon intermission, however. He took the 14th and 15th holes in par, then sank from off the green for a birdie three on the 16th. That placed him one up, and he stayed there the next two holes, sinking a 10-footer to halve the 17th, while Bohannon missed from five feet on the 18th for a half.

Horton lost no time extending his lead as the matinee performance began. On No. 1 he laid his approach within three feet of the pin and was down for a birdie four to win. He took No. 2 in regulation four when J. P. needed two strokes to come out of a trap.

Four up was the score for Bill when he took sixth hole with a par four, and they halved Nos. 7, 8 and 9.

Bohannon rallied to make a struggle of it on the final stretch. His par three knocked off one hole as Bill three-putted the muddy and sloping 10th green. Bo canned a long second putt on the 11th to have it, and dropped another long one for birdie two and another win on the 12th.

When Bohannon needed three holes from the frog hair and a final count of six on the 13th, Bill went three up again. They halved 14, Bohannon won with a par on 15, and Bill did the same on 16 to close the argument. At the last hole each dropped his third shot within six feet of the pin. The balls measured exactly the same distance from the cup and Horton was given first try. He sank it. Bohannon didn't and that was all.

LOCAL SCOUTS WIN PLACINGS AT ROUND-UP

Snyder Troop Takes Part in Area Gathering When Nearly 800 Boys Stage Two-Day Meet

Third place in contests and third place in camping activities was topped by Snyder's Boy Scout Troop No. 36 at the Buffalo Trail Council Round-Up in Big Spring Friday and Saturday.

Headed by Jesse Clements, local scoutmaster, Troop 36 members left for Big Spring early Friday morning. They took an active part Friday afternoon in the scout parade held in connection with the WTCC convention.

Almost 800 Boy Scouts from 35 troops in the Buffalo Trail Council participated in the Round-Up in Big Spring. At 3:00 o'clock Friday afternoon, Oscar Benson, national director of rural scouting, spoke to the scouts and scouters on the blessings of American citizenship.

Friday night scouts and leaders gathered in the amphitheatre at Big Spring for an impressive Council Fire ceremony. Streetwater's troop won the President's award Saturday morning for being the best camping troop. S. P. Gaskin of Sweetwater, Buffalo Trail Council executive, was in general charge of the two-day affair.

A highlight of Saturday's program was a barbecue dinner served Saturday noon to the 800 scouts assembled at the table. Feeding of all attendees was completed in the record time of 17 minutes.

Members of Snyder's Troop No. 36 who attended the Big Spring scout convave listed herewith by Jesse Clements, scoutmaster:

Neel C. Burnett, Doyle Bynum, Charley Boren, John Boren, Aran Bentley, Arel Faver, Ivan Dodson, Charles Langbehn, Alvin Tyson, Tommy Major, Douglas McGlath, El McCombs, Sears Sentell, Richard Taylor, S. A. Taylor, Andy Reynolds and Jimmy Reynolds.

Clements wishes to express the troop's thanks to Roy O. Irvin and Austin Erwin, who took a number of scouts to Big Spring Friday morning, but couldn't stay for the Friday-Saturday program.

Conoco Announces Gas Mileage Tester

Introduction of a device by which motorists of Scurry County and other West Texas counties may quickly and accurately measure their gasoline mileage was announced this week by Continental Oil Company in a nationwide advertising campaign which includes The Times.

The "Mile-Dial" is a simple device which keeps count of the number of gallons of Conoco Bronz-z-2 gasoline purchased and the number of miles traveled during the test, and automatically calculates the miles per gallon by a simple turn of the dial.

The dial, which can be obtained free at service stations selling Continental Oil Company products, can be attached to the dash without marring the surface or can be carried in the glove compartment of the car.

With it the motorist can make frequent checks of the mileage he obtains from Conoco Bronz-z-2 gasoline and can at the same time easily accumulate his purchases and miles traveled, so that an average miles-per-gallon over a long period can also be determined.

The Mile-Dial was invented by Continental Oil Company engineers, and its mathematical accuracy has been certified by F. A. Bergen, chairman, mechanical engineering department, Washington University.

Drug Store Team Holds To Top In Softball League

A strong undefeated Stinson No. 2 team stood alone at the top of the list this week after giving the Lions a sound drumming for the opener Tuesday night, 23-6. Giving them four wins with no losses the pre-season favorites are staging a march to clinch a first-round victory.

Coming in at second place are China Grove, Ira and T. P. Oilers, all with one loss piece and three wins. The scheduled game between China Grove and T. P. Oilers Tuesday night would probably have been one of the best games of the season had not the game been forfeited by the Oilers when a full team and manager failed to appear. Up to this they were undefeated along with Stinson No. 2.

Bad weather last Thursday night also caused two games to be forfeited. Fluvanna forfeited to Ira and Pylon to T. P. Oilers.

The Lions looked good in an early game rally which put them six points in the lead of the strong Stinson No. 2 aggregation. Later they fell behind as the Stinson boys fairly made a race track out of the diamond. Playing for the first time on Stinson No. 2 team was Johnny Boren who returned home Friday from Lon Morris Junior College where he has been attending school for the past two years.

In the second game China Grove played an all-star team after their scheduled opponents failed to appear. The all-stars took the game, 21-8.

Home runs were hit by Jones and Keller for Stinson No. 2 in the first game with Red Hill, also playing for the Stinson team, looping one two-base hit and one three-bagger.

First Aid Pointers For Snake Bite Are Given by Authority

A warning about the dangers of snake bite has just been issued by Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer. A number of cases of snake bite are reported each year in Texas during the summer and early fall; however, few of them result fatally.

Most of the bites occur on the hands or feet, which indicates that stepping or falling in the immediate vicinity of an unseen snake or picking up objects under similar conditions are the hazards of contracting snake bite. The pain following the injection of poison is most intense. Other symptoms are swelling, giddiness, difficult breathing, hemorrhage, weak pulse, and vomiting.

If one is bitten by a poisonous snake, such as the rattlesnake, the following first aid measures should be carried out:

After making proper incisions at the site of the wound, apply suction and continue for at least half an hour.

Apply a tourniquet above the site of the wound, releasing every ten or fifteen minutes for about a minute at a time.

Secure the services of a physician at the earliest possible moment. Do not run or get overheated and do not take any alcoholic stimulants, because circulation increased by alcohol or exercise serves to distribute the poison much more rapidly through the body.

Do not injure the tissues by injecting permanganate of potash, known to be of no value as an antidote.

Do not depend upon home remedies or so-called snake-bite cures, but call a physician immediately.

Gratitude is not only the memory but the homage of the heart—rendered to God for His goodness.—Willis.

Theo Rigsby Made Throckmorton Coach Model Planers Plan For Graham Contest

Theo Rigsby, former Snyder football star who has been assistant coach at Throckmorton high school for the past three years, has been selected as head coach at the school. He succeeds C. A. Morris, resigned.

After playing on a Snyder regional team, Rigsby went to Hardin-Simmons University where he served two years as freshman coach. Later he took the Throckmorton assistant's post.

Prospects are bright for the 1940 Throckmorton squad, eight lettermen and seven squadmen returning from last year's team.

The way family necessities keep rising to equal the breadwinner's income is an inexplicable mystery.

League Football of Texas Shows Large Increase in Teams

By the first kick-off whistle next fall 784 interscholastic league football teams, including the Snyder Tigers—170 more than three years ago—will be scrambling across Texas gridirons, R. J. Kidd, University of Texas League director, has announced.

In 1937 the state grid picture was: A class, 105 teams; B, 388; C, 121, total 614. Following this year's reclassification of teams according to strength parities, the breakdown reads: AA, 104; A, 290; B, 255; and the small school's 6-man football, 135; total 784.

The 30-year old organization has fostered football competition since 1921 when less than 100 schools had organized schedules, when eligibility rules were unheard of and coaches themselves played, Kidd recalls.

Kidd attributed the 170-school League membership pick up in the last three years principally to two factors: Six-man football, the answer to small school prayers for a sport they could support; and the re-classification program which has matched strong teams with strong teams to prevent hogging of championships by large schools.

In Scurry County, Pylon has taken an active part in six-man football since its introduction to the smaller schools.

That a young man was wise beyond his years was proved when he paused before answering a widow who had asked him to guess her age.

"You must have some idea," she said.

"I have several ideas," said the young man, with a smile. "The only trouble is that I hesitate whether to make you ten years younger on account of your looks or 10 years older on account of your intelligence."

If you want to get an idea of the unfulfilled wants of the people of this country, ask your wife to make a list of the things she'd like for herself, the children and the house.

LOOKIN' 'EM OVER

By JAY ROGERS

Another week finds Snyder sports activities limited almost to softball since all high school interscholastic League events have come to a close with the nearing of the end of school. But interest in softball activities seems to be getting into full swing. So much so, in fact, that the scheduled four games a week doesn't satisfy some of the more enthusiastic players. Only last Friday week a group of "outlaws" got up a team to play a group of high-way boys despite the senior play which was then in progress. Tho it was raining Tuesday night, softball went on as per schedule except for the last game which was forfeited by T. P. Oilers to China Grove after the manager and players on the T. P. team failed to show up.

Snyder's contribution to sports—the greatest name in hurdle events today or in years gone by—Freddie Wolcott of Rice, will play football for Coach Jess Neely's eleven next fall. Wolcott has another year of eligibility left in football and he intends to use it. Neely plans to use Wolcott either at a wingback or end position in order to capitalize on his speed. He should be a potent threat as a pass snatcher or an end cirler as he was better known to Snyder fans during his spectacular football career here. While on the Tiger eleven Wolcott averaged better than two touchdowns a game for his senior year and was leading scorer for the district. When he got in the open there wasn't a man anywhere in the district that could come close to catching him. He quit football, however, when he became famous as a trackster. An injured knee or leg might have ruined his career as a hurdler. The Snyder lad winds up his intercollegiate competition on the cinders this summer as defend-

Six Delegates Will Attend Demo Meet

A. A. (Pat) Bullock, Sterling Williams, A. C. Pruitt, H. C. Flournoy, Rev. W. M. Clark and C. F. Sentell compose Scurry County's six Democratic delegates who will be in Waco Tuesday for the State Democratic Convention.

In line with resolutions adopted recently by Scurry County Democrats at their county convention, the six county delegates to the state Democratic conclave will vote only for state delegates to the national convention who favor a continuation of Roosevelt administration policies.

Former Grocery Owner at Snyder Passes Thursday

R. E. Smith, 67, former Scurry County groceryman and father of Mrs. D. V. Merritt of Snyder, succumbed last Thursday morning at his Colorado City residence after a year's period of failing health.

Born at Clarksville, in Red River County, in 1873, Smith moved from the North Texas county to Scurry in 1904. He operated a grocery store at Dunn for a brief period and one at Dermott for several years.

Mr. Smith, who had operated a Colorado City grocery store until two years ago, was well known to early residents of Scurry and Mitchell Counties. His mother's people were killed by Indians when this part of the state was known as the Texas border.

Survivors include his widow, three sons, LeRoy and John of Colorado City and Gordon of Monahan; three daughters, Mrs. D. V. Merritt of Snyder, Mrs. C. C. Long and Mrs. C. E. Aury of Springtown; and seven grandchildren.

Rev. John J. Mueller, Presbyterian pastor of Colorado City, conducted funeral services Friday afternoon, 3:30 o'clock, at the Presbyterian Church in Colorado City.

Snyder attendants included Mr. and Mrs. Merritt, their two sons, Jimmy and D. V. Merritt Jr., Mmes. Clyde Boren and Ernest Taylor, Rev. Ira Harrison and Martha Lou Holms.

The Colorado City Masonic lodge was in charge of Masonic rites at the graveside. Elder Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements, with burial in the Colorado City Cemetery.

RUNS FOR CONGRESS

M. D. Ramsey, 60-year-old Floydada farmer, formally announced this week his candidacy for congressman from the 19th District. Ramsey, who sent his filing fee to A. C. Frenette, county Democratic chairman, says his platform will be built especially around farmer-rancher needs in West Texas.

Ferguson Favors Receipts Tax for Social Security

(Editor's Note—This is another in a series of brief articles by Boyce House analyzing the tax plan of each candidate for governor for paying social security.)

Fifty million dollars of additional revenue through a gross receipts tax is the plan of Miriam A. Ferguson for meeting old age pensions and other social security obligations.

In her opening speech recently at Waco, she described her proposal as "a levy of one-half of one per cent on gross receipts for sales and business, with reasonable exemptions within the constitutional provisions that taxes shall be equal and uniform, which I suggest to be $5,000, and which my best information estimates to yield $50,000,000."

If this tax lacks a little of raising the revenue, then Mrs. Ferguson "will be in favor of a reasonable tax on natural resources," she declared.

Critics declare, however, that the plan of Mrs. Ferguson and former Governor James E. Ferguson, her husband, would mean $50,000,000 in new taxes to be collected from Texas citizens and at the same time assurance is given that oil, gas and sulphur—which are not now paying anything for pensions—will, at the most, have to pay only a small amount for such purpose.

Comment also by those disapproving the gross receipts plan is to the effect that Ferguson has advocated a sales tax and it is contended that a gross receipts tax is a sales tax under a different name and in a somewhat different guise because it would be added by the merchant to the cost of doing business—just as rent, insurance, wages and all other taxes now are—and the selling price would be increased enough to meet this new tax and so it would be passed on to the customer.

Locals to Attend Regional Wheat Sessions Friday

Claude D. Cotten, administrative assistant at the county agent's office, and George J. Brumley, Frank A. Wilson and Roscoe Williams, members of the county committee, composed a group of county agricultural officials who will attend a Triple A wheat program meeting at Plainview Friday.

These county agricultural officials, together with those from other counties in this area, will receive instructions at the Plainview meeting on procedure to follow in obtaining loans on the 1940 wheat crop and insurance on the 1941 grain crop.

These county agricultural officials, together with those from other counties in this area, will receive instructions at the Plainview meeting on procedure to follow in obtaining loans on the 1940 wheat crop and insurance on the 1941 grain crop.

At a regional conference in Oklahoma City Friday and Saturday, state AAA Commodity Credit Corporation and FCIC officials outlined the procedure methods that will be studied at the Plainview gathering.

Although the CCC has not announced whether a wheat loan will be available to producers on the 1940 crop, preliminary studies of procedure are being made so that the county offices will be ready to handle applications if and when the loan is announced.

The crop insurance program for wheat is entering its third year and changes in yields and loss experiences on insured farms will require considerable work in the county offices setting up insurance rates. At the meetings county employees will be instructed in the procedure involved.

State Senator Wilbourne B. Colle of Eastland, shown here, announced this week his candidacy for reelection from the 24th senatorial district, of which Scurry and Fisher Counties are a part. Colle favors meeting social security obligations upon the "Jeffersonian" fundamental that taxes should be borne by those able to pay.

Junior-Senior Fete Friday Highlight of School Social Year

Highlight of activities the past week for juniors and seniors of the local school was the staging Friday night at the First Methodist Church of the local school's junior-senior banquet.

Land Owners Vote Saturday in District Soil Saving Project

Land owners in the southwestern edge of Scurry County who are included in the proposed soil conservation district area of Scurry, Mitchell, Nolan and Sterling counties will vote at Cuthbert Saturday in the first district referendum on the contemplated soil conservation district.

Approximately 832,000 acres of land are included in the four-county territory that land owners will vote on in regard to establishing an SCS district here.

The 35 proposed soil conservation districts that will be voted on Saturday in variously proposed districts comprise approximately 34,257,756 acres in the southern Great Plains region.

The western Gulf region on April 1 had 26 per cent of the 246 organized soil conservation districts of the United States.

Purpose of the proposed soil conservation district land owners will vote on Saturday whether it shall be established or not is to give the watershed areas of southwestern Scurry, Nolan, Mitchell and Sterling counties SCS work that will conserve the soil and farmers better water facilities.

One way to get the most out of life is to look upon it as an adventure.

News Says REA Proves Popular

First issue of the Midwest News Flasher, a publication put out by Midwest Electric Cooperative, Inc., of Rotan, was received by The Times Monday.

The news flashes, recording REA work highlights in Scurry, Borden, Fisher, Jones, Mitchell and Nolan counties, will prove of unusual interest to rural electric line customers of Midwest in this and nearby counties.

"We announce with pleasure," the publication states, "that energizing of the 'B' section was completed in early April. This section of line, 147 miles, serves 285 new members.

"The line was completely constructed, transformers and services installed and all work okayed by our engineer and the officially designated REA inspector gave his final approval to the project, with all lines energized, in a total of 60 working days. We are claiming a national record for work of this type in any REA financed project."

Other news excerpts follow: "Ross W. Betha, proprietor of a Fluvanna cafe, reports that on April 25 he had used only 30 kilowatts of electricity after having been connected 15 days.

"B. P. Tinnin of the Nienda community in Jones County is investigating the use of an electric motor to pull a suction at the Nienda gin."

Names Were Omitted

Due to the fact wrong lines were pulled in a story last week on naming of 1904-1941 faculty members at Snyder Schools, name of Katherine Northcutt and Kirk McKinnon of Abilene, grade school coach, were unintentionally omitted from the list of teaching staff members for the next school year.

Next to bow-less, a girl's worst handicap is a sense of responsibility.

Floyd Kiser is listed as the Midwest Electric Cooperative lineman stationed at Hermleigh and C. W. Wilson the lineman with headquarters at Rotan.

Four County People Attend AAA Session

Claude D. Cotten, administrative assistant at the county agent's office, Ross Williams, member of the county committee, Misses Ruth Davis and Dessie Parsons returned Tuesday afternoon, from Sweetwater, where they attended a sub-district Triple A meeting.

Purpose of the Sweetwater gathering was to explain to county agent representatives and county committee members the schools for performance supervisors that starts in counties of this territory Wednesday morning, May 29.

O. K. OF PARITY PLANS WOULD SAVE FARMER

State Commissioner of Agriculture Says Texas Farm Foreclosures Would Be Avoided

"Farmers of Scurry, Borden, Fisher, Kent, Dawson, Nolan, Mitchell, Stonewall and the other counties of Texas will be vitally interested in the fact that millions of dollars in additional revenue will accrue to Texas and many farm mortgage foreclosures will be prevented if the U. S. Senate approves house action on 100 per cent parity payments," J. E. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture, stated Monday.

"These parity payments, if approved 100 per cent for cotton, corn, wheat and rice, will be one solution to the farm problem facing Texas growers," McDonald said further. He has urged full parity payments for the past seven years.

"The difference in the price that the producer has been receiving for his farm products and that which he has been forced to pay for the tariff protected industrial products is too large a hurdle for the grower to clear and consequently he is becoming more deeply mired in the financial morass."

"Texas farmers and business men should wire or write the two Texas senators immediately, urging their support of the house full parity price amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill.

"Successful passage of the legislation will enable thousands of Texas farmers to liquidate their indebtedness and in many cases will enable them to purchase badly needed comforts and necessities for their families and otherwise improve their general living conditions."

"If the senate concurs in the house action providing full parity payments it will make possible the greatest exchange of farm and factory products, resulting in maximum employment throughout America and with this major reduction of our jobless ranks, most of our financial, social and economic troubles will be solved," McDonald pointed out.

Jerry Debenport, general manager of the forthcoming Odessa gathering, states committees are working on several phases of the formal program, while the Odessa Chamber of Commerce is planning a real treat in entertainment features.

County representatives of The Permian Basin Association, who have been conducting a membership drive for the oilmen's group, state a number of Sharon Ridge oil field operators plan to attend the forthcoming Odessa conclave.

County Permian Basin Association representatives are John Spears, G. M. Heimezinan and Maurice Bownfield.

Outstanding men in the oil industry of the nation will make addresses; a great barbecue and program will be a feature of one evening, and a finish occasion for an old-time talk test for the several thousand visitors, representing oil areas of the nation.

The Permian Basin Association is new one of the major oil groups of the nation. Membership is increasing rapidly, according to President Greene, who states that the magnitude of the financial background of the Basin oil interests has been united business men in all types of activities throughout the area in planning for better conservation and development of oil resources. "This he says, insures permanent prosperity for West Texas, and encourages the building of homes and beautiful cities.

Besides Greene, other officers of the association are C. C. Thompson, Colorado City, Ralph Oberholtzer, Seagraves; M. D. Bryant, San Angelo; and George W. Elliott, Odessa, all vice presidents. He recently made executive manager to succeed the late H. B. Spence.

Swarm of Bats Led To Cowboy Finding Of Carlsbad Cavern

Carlsbad Caverns National Park, situated in the foothills of the Guadalupe mountains near Carlsbad, New Mexico, is one of the most amazingly beautiful natural marvels in America.

The caverns, which became a National Park in 1930, were formed in the process of erosion by the gradual solution of underlying beds of limestone, gypsum and rock salt. They are filled with limestone formations of an infinite variety of shapes and sizes, ranging from icicle-like pendant cones of carbonate of lime, called stalactites, to the corresponding mushroom-like deposits of calcareous matter called stalagmites, found on the floors of the caves.

Jim White, a young cowboy, was the first white man to explore the caverns which he found in 1901, when he investigated the source of a dark moving column which appeared to come from the earth.

The column proved to be an out-rushing swarm of bats. Today the bats, numbering 3,000,000, provide a spectacle of their own as they leave the caves at sunset for a night's foray, to return at dawn and disappear into a portion of the caverns not open to visitors.

The growing popularity of the caverns has resulted in the establishment of a new service which enables Santa Fe travelers to make a minimum stop of one day to explore this underground Fairyland which nature has been carving for 60 million years.

A leisurely tour of five hours permits inspection of the great chambers and time to enjoy a delightful luncheon at the halfway mark deep in the Caves.

Never argue with a woman whose shoes are killing her.

FARMERS USE FARM PLAN AID OFFERED THEM

County Agent Reports Assistance From His Office Force Utilized For Future Programs

Approximately 1,300 farmers of Scurry County have used the assistance of AAA committeesmen in working out farm plans to cover their 1940 operations, according to X. B. Cox Jr., county agent.

Farm plans already worked out indicate that small farmers, more than ever before, are taking advantage of the conservation provisions of the Triple A program to carry out practices needed on their farms.

"The Triple A payments made to county farmers to help them carry out conservation practices do not begin to represent the true value of such practices," Cox said. "For every dollar put out for soil-building practices under the AAA program, it is estimated farm income will be increased several dollars."

"Designed especially to aid small farmers, one of the provisions of the 1940 farm program makes it possible for any farmer to earn at least $20 for complying with special crop allotments and for carrying out soil-building practices."

"If the amount the farmer may

APPLICATIONS FOR BOY CAMP BEING SIGNED

Annual Outing Will Be Held This Year in New Mexico Mountains From June 9 to 19

Boy Scouts of Snyder and Scurry County will camp high in the Sacramento Mountains of New Mexico from June 9 to 19. Fifteen scouts from Pryor have already registered for the camp and arrangements are being made in Snyder for an even larger group to attend.

The camp is located near Cloudcroft, New Mexico, at an altitude of 8,500 feet and is in a national forest where deer and other animals can be seen daily. Almost every kind of tree to be found in the forests can be found on the large campsite. One mighty fir tree in the camp is seven feet in diameter.

The boys will camp in cabins, as long as the cabins hold out and the remainder will camp in tents. The camp, one of the best in the country, will take care of 105 boys in cabins. From all indications there will be many more than this at camp each of the two 10-day periods. The periods are June 9-19 and June 19-29.

Some of the activities of the camp will be hiking, pioneering, handicraft, nature work, scoutcraft, games, swimming, horseback, trips, adventure trails, treasure hunts, and eating.

An excellent corps of leaders has been secured in order that there will be one adult for each 10 boys at camp. These adults are all trained scout leaders except the camp doctor, and he was formerly a scout.

Places will be held for those who register early. No registrations will be taken after June 5. Scouts should register for camp immediately through their local scoutmaster, S. P. Caskin of Sweetwater, Buffalo Trail Council executive, states.

Small Payments on Wheat Losses Being Made in Territory

According to information received this week by the county agent's office from the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, indemnity payments on wheat farms suffering total losses on their 1940 crops are now being mailed out to wheat farmers.

Six claims for payment have been received in the office of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, these claims forming the basis upon which farmers are collecting their indemnities. Claims are being filed where crops were destroyed by drought, wind erosion, freezing or other uninsured hazards.

A check-up of crop conditions in Scurry, Borden, Kent, Taylor, Jones and other counties in this immediate territory indicates indemnity payments will be comparatively small.

Territory that is suffering the worst from wheat crop losses includes a large portion of the Texas Panhandle, where wheat did not receive sufficient moisture to get a good start prior to heavy snows which fell the latter part of December.

Colorado Purchasing Highway 101 Rights

Of interest to county motorists this week are negotiations underway by the City Council to purchase right-of-way for Highway 101 in Colorado City for the underpass and Colorado River bridge that will be built to replace the structure washed away last year.

Under terms specified by the State Highway Department, Colorado City is to supply the right-of-way for the two structures on Highway 101 that are within the city limits. Total cost of the bridge and underpass, to be built as separate structures, will be $160,000.

The Highway 101 bridge is expected to cost about $85,000. Of this amount, Mitchell County is to pay $22,500 of the cost, while the city is to pay $7,500, plus right-of-way costs.

Three-Day Course for Performance Leaders Will Be Held Next Week at Courthouse

Beginning Wednesday morning, May 29, at 9:00 o'clock, a three-day school for performance supervisors will be held at the courthouse, Claude D. Cotten, administrative assistant at the county agent's office, announces.

The three-day school, which includes instruction on the Texas Handbook and different Triple A farm forms, will be held preparatory to beginning 1940 AAA compliance work in Scurry County. One day's field work will be included in the instruction course.

"It will be necessary," Cotten states, "for all applicants for performance supervisors' jobs to take examinations after the school, regardless of previous experience."

On May 31, Cornelius of the state AAA office will be in charge of final work of the three-day school. He will give detailed instructions to applicants for compliance work jobs in the county.

MAHON URGES MORE AID FOR HOME BUYERS

Congressman Supports Move For More Appropriations to Help Farmers Buy Places

Declaring that a more comprehensive farm home-ownership program is immediately needed, Congressman George Mahon last week urged the Congress to pass legislation at this session which would more adequately deal with the problem of farm tenancy. He spoke in support of two approaches to the problem. The first was a plan which would authorize the RFS to make loans up to $50,000,000 to continue the farm tenant purchase program which has been in operation since 1937. The House approved the plan as a part of the agricultural appropriation bill.

He said that he felt a better approach to the problem would be through the so-called farm tenant-mortgage insurance bill which passed the Senate last year and which has been approved by the House committee for farm home purchases to the extent of a total of $350,000,000 at three per cent interest rate. Large appropriations by Congress would not be necessary as the money would be loaned by private capital, the government supervising and guaranteeing the loans as is now the case in loans made by the Federal Housing Administration.

Mahon stated, "I have been cooperating with Marvin Jones, chairman of the house agriculture committee, since the introduction of the bill last year, and I shall continue to work for the improvement and passage of the measure."

"We have been married a year and never quarrel. If a difference of opinion arises, and I am right, my husband gives in."

"But what if he is right?"

"That has not yet occurred."

TURNER CLUB MEETS

The Turner Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. Everett Clarkson Monday, May 20.

"Yeast rolls are made by the same method as loaf bread. They contain more sugar, fat and sometimes eggs. Milk is used for the liquid. The following recipe was recommended:

- 1 cup milk
 - 1 cake yeast
 - 1 tablespoon sugar
 - 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
 - 1 1/2 tablespoons butter
 - 3/4 to 1 cups flour.
- "The dough should double in size and then be made into rolls or may be allowed to rise the second time," Miss Rabel said.

Clover leaf and parker house rolls were made. "Always be sure your milk is lukewarm and do not add too much flour. Using canvas on your board and a white stocking on your rolling pin will keep you from adding too much flour and prevent streaks of flour in your bread."

Mrs. Clarkson served tea and fruit to cookies to the following women: Mmes. Harry Clarkson, J. N. Bates, Billy McHane, A. V. Wright of Lubbock, Joe Clinkenbeard, J. M. Glass, Everett Clarkson and Misses Beryl Lockhart, Ruby Lockhart and Estella Rabel, county home demonstration agent.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Joe Clinkenbeard, June 3.

Social Security Man Visits City Monthly

Russell D. Patterson, of the Abilene Social Security Board, field office, will visit Snyder on two different days in each month, and will be available at the Post Office for interviews.

The main purpose of these visits, according to Mr. Patterson, is to assist claimants for old-age and survivors insurance in preparing their claims and to contact employers in connection with completing certain wage records on which information is now lacking.

Patterson stated that he would be glad to furnish information to anyone interested about the monthly insurance payments provided for retired wage earners over 65, their dependents, and dependents of deceased wage earners, in the amended Social Security Act. He will also be glad to discuss the old-age and survivors insurance provisions of the law with any employers who wish information about their responsibilities under these provisions.

BIGGER CROPS FOR HOME ARE URGED BY FSA

Supplying of Individual Needs of Families Cited as Purpose of New Administration Plan

"Probably one of the most interesting plans that has been announced in recent weeks to help the farmer without a lot of additional cost is the 'Bigger Acres Plan' Farm Security Administration officials have been talking about," Horace D. Seely, local FSA supervisor, stated Tuesday.

"Instead of growing crops on more acres, the Farm Security Administration plans for its clients to pile the crop higher on the acres already rented. Quite a few will think this statement odd, in view of the fact we've been piling up too much cotton and wheat and corn."

"But instead of urging farmers to grow more cash crops for sale," Seely stated, "the FSA is highly desirous of clients piling up crops to eat right on the farm. Doubtless there will be a surplus for sale, but when a farmer's real living is taken care of, there'll be a very small surplus of edible foods to worry with."

"Not only do we, as representatives of a government agency in Scurry County, want our borrowers to grow more cotton, wheat and corn to the acre, but the same acres should take care of more cattle, hogs and poultry. Farmers also need cows that will produce more milk and chickens that lay more eggs per hen."

"Some people," Seely stated, "say this 'Bigger Acres' idea is one county agents have been telling them about for years. But a lot of people don't practice everything the county agent tells them, and farmers are so filled, in many cases, with the idea of a bigger farm they don't think they can make a living from a small one."

"It always has, and will continue to mean more to towns and cities if they have a lot of little farms around them, each with a family making a living on it, than if they had a few big farms, a few people on them, and the rest in town on relief."

Cotton Week Being Observed in Snyder

Cotton goods are on parade this week! Local dry goods stores and other institutions handling cotton products of any kind are cooperating 100 per cent to observe National Cotton Week in Snyder.

A survey of business houses around the square reveals many special prices on cotton materials are being offered at prices that should greatly stimulate consumption.

The special week, which ends Saturday is being observed on a nationwide basis. "It is only by events of this kind," Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture states, "that we can emphasize the consistent popularity of cotton prints, sheets, and pillow cases, cotton content fabrics and the many other things that go to make King Cotton a vital part of the South and Southwest."

"It's scandalous to charge us $10 for towing the car only three or four miles," protested the motorist's wife.

THE TIMES

"Within the past two or three years, I have noticed a changing attitude among high school graduates in West Texas that is encouraging," Dr. Thomas Taylor, president of Howard-Payne College, Brownwood, stated at Hobbs School Friday night. "Most youngsters want a college education if possible, but the majority of them are waking up to the fact they will have to come back to their home county or town to make a living. Even so, they have many challenging opportunities awaiting them."

"One of the things that impressed farmers most of all about the AAA farm program," C. H. Day of Plainview, field man for the Triple A stated while here last Thursday, "is the striving for a system which provides ample raw products for domestic and foreign demands, with enough goods in reserve to assure the consumer against scarcity and resultant high prices. We believe agriculture, like any other business, must have an equitable distribution system."

"Aside from the fact the people of Scurry and all other counties of Texas are making a dent in cotton surpluses with their participation in the cotton mattress making program," R. T. Price, state Triple A field man, said Tuesday, "the fact is brought home as forcefully as ever cotton's a mighty popular product. National Cotton Week would indeed mean a lot if low income groups just had the purchasing power."

In addition to cotton and cattle, oil is looming just now as an industry that will bring additional hundreds of thousands of dollars to Scurry County. But when one royalty holder in the Sharon Ridge oil field had $60,000 interest in 160 acres of royalty in proven territory, it set tax assessor-collector's office to wondering this week if they might not have to requisition a new type adding machine that can compute such intricate fractions as the one mentioned above.

The public is evidencing a considerable amount of interest in a new type of water cooling system Jim Baze, inventor, has installed at a local wash house. Instead of conventional cooling, Baze's cold air unit employs a fine jet of water that strikes the center of a whirling fan. Result is a mist of moisture that cools the top of a building to the extent summer weather is just another spring breeze, so far as temperature is concerned.

Hobby of Martin Murphy of Hermleigh is raising full-blooded Collie pups, which make excellent pets or watch dogs. One of the few raisers of Collie dogs in the county, Murphy says, "Early training of a pup, whatever his breed, determines just what kind of an animal one will have when the pup grows up. Kind treatment to our dumb animal friends always pays good dividends."

"Since we will start a school for performance supervisors here Wednesday morning, it looks like we will be able to get Triple A compliance work in Scurry County completed at an early date," Ross Williams, member of the county committee, stated Tuesday. "Aside from the business side of the 1940 farm program, it is encouraging to note how much interest the government is taking in the farmer getting a just share of the national income."

F. V. Swain of the state Triple A office related while here last Thursday morning the ever humorous incident of the county agent help. Meeting the county agent at the pasture gate, the farmer said, "Now, I don't want suggestions on how to farm. Us old cusses are not farming now half as good as we know how!"

Earthquakes that occurred over the week-end at Brawley, Hopeville and El Centro, California, caused Mrs. Ted Moore of Snyder considerable amount of worry over the safety of her sister, Mrs. Hubert Ridgeway of Brawley. In a communication to Mrs. Moser Wednesday morning, Mrs. Ridgeway stated their home was damaged, but she and her husband and small child were uninjured. Mr. and Mrs. Willis Rodgers and Mr. and Mrs. Chalk Brown, former Snyder residents who live at El Centro, California, were said to have escaped injury in the earthquake that took a toll of eight lives in the state.

"I think scouting in Scurry County will advance several steps in the next few weeks as a result of Snyder's Troop 36 coping third place in contests and third in camping at the Buffalo Trail Council Round-Up in Big Spring Friday and Saturday," E. G. Dillard, Chamber of Commerce manager states. "Scurry County Boy Scouts brought home a good share of honors, and that is a good recommendation of the training they have received."

Local Church of Christ attendants are promised a treat this (Thursday) evening, when Otis Gatewood of Salt Lake City, Utah, gives a talk at 8:00 p. m. on the Mormon religion and his efforts to establish a Church of Christ in the Mormon capital.

A graduate of ACC, Abilene, Gatewood was employed as a missionary until recently by the Broadway Church of Christ at Lubbock. He was sent to Las Vegas, New Mexico, after which the Lubbock church sent him to Salt Lake City.

LeMoine G. Lewis, local Church of Christ minister, urges the public to hear Mr. Gatewood this evening.

240 FAMILIES TO USE MATTRESS MAKING PLAN

Utilizing of Surplus Cotton in Plan Would Help to Relieve Huge Reserves in Country

"We are glad to say that Scurry County families, numbering 240, are included in the 48,000 Texas families who have already been certified as eligible to receive mattress making materials under the government's cotton mattress program," R. T. Price, field man for the state AAA office, stated Monday.

Altogether, 116 Texas counties have been approved to date for participation in the program, which was inaugurated three months ago. The program was started to aid low income farm families in obtaining new cotton goods.

Thus far, 4,800 bales of cotton and 480,000 yards of cotton ticking have been ordered through the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation to price bona-fide farm families with a normal annual cash income not in excess of $400 are certified as to eligibility by county agricultural conservation committees.

Outstanding in the mattress program in Texas is Lavaca County which had processed 870 mattresses by the middle of May. In a report to Mae Belle Smith, district extension agent in charge of home demonstration work, the Lavaca County home demonstration agent, Elizabeth Pfeiffer, states that 138 bales of cotton had been ordered for use in the county's 17 centers. A total of 1900 applications have been approved by the county's AAA committee, she said.

Texas-made oil tools and equipment are shipped to every oil-producing country in the world.

IRA HARRISON TALKS SUNDAY TO BIG CROWD

High School Auditorium Packed to Capacity When Baccalaureate Services Are Conducted

"We're living in some truly wonderful days," Rev. Ira Harrison, local Baptist minister, told Snyder High School senior class members in his baccalaureate address to them Sunday night in the school auditorium.

"In building castles, we realize success is not making a living, but building life. We can't build a life on conceit, money, vanity, fame, or in the lowlands of lust, but we've got to leave the subway and go on top."

"Those going out from our high schools," Rev. Harrison continued, "must give careful attention to their plan for life. One has to work on the foundation before a roof can be put in place. One of the most important things in education is the impact of life's forces on our destinies—in which God and the church occupy a key position."

Hundreds of people from Snyder and nearby communities crowded into the auditorium for baccalaureate services for the largest senior graduating class in the local school's history.

Processional for the occasion was given by Miss Polly Harpole. Following doxology by the congregation, LeMoine G. Lewis, Church of Christ minister, gave the invocation.

"Faith of Our Fathers" was given by the choir under direction of Willard Jones, as was "Praise Him, Praise Him." Rev. I. A. Smith, Methodist pastor, read the scripture.

Announcements by Superintendent C. Wedgeworth preceded Rev. Harrison's address. "Building Castles," Rev. I. A. Smith pronounced the benediction, after which Miss Harpole gave the recessional.

Lorraine Cheese Plant Offers Market For Milk to Scurry County Farmers

Milk truck routes that serve about 70 per cent of Scurry County communities are not only contributing, in a large measure, to the success of Lorraine's new cheese plant, but are also building up a thriving "sell from home" dairy business.

The farmers of Lorraine and Mitchell County have gone into the cheese production business with their new plant to the tune of $20,000, and early returns indicate a successful future.

Harry Holt, Abilene Reporter-News staff writer, gives in the following paragraphs some information on the new cheese plant and frozen food locker at Lorraine that will be of interest to all Times readers:

Put into operation February 28, the cheese plant already is running near capacity, according to J. W. King, newspaperman who retired to become secretary and effect the organization. The plant is receiving 17,000 pounds of milk daily and the capacity is 20,000 pounds.

Milk is delivered here from Mitchell, Scurry, Nolan and Fisher county points by trucks and pick-ups on 15 routes. The trucks run every morning, rain or shine.

Farmers receive pay checks on the fifth and 20th of each month. On the first pay day, 495 checks totaling $3,000 were mailed. The payroll is expected to increase as more customers are lined up.

American cheese is the only product made from the milk. The whey is returned to producers by the truck, and they utilize it in the feeding of hogs and chickens. The plant operates on a one-year contract with Armour & Co., made in advance. A quarter-cent premium above market quotation is paid for the cheese.

A recent quotation showed butterfat at 32 cents a pound which would amount to about 13 cents per gallon for milk of 4.5 percent butterfat. Producers pay 20 cents per hundred pounds for hauling cheese and one cent per pound of butterfat is deducted from the pay check to go in on the stock.

All producers are stockholders in the co-op. The plant, one of the most modern in Texas, furnishes employment for 10 persons. C. T. Marsh is manager of the plant.

Plans are underway to organize a dairy herd improvement association and form a bull circle whereby all dairymen will have access to a purebred bull.

Through a neat bit of arranging, stockholders are able to "kill two birds with one stone." They have installed a cooperative cold storage locker unit in the new plant and have 300 lockers.

Larders of many families in this section are being placed in "safety deposit" boxes of the lockers.

And whether it's fresh pork or green beans, the food is as safe in a temperature of 10 degrees above zero as the family valuables in a steel vault.

King says patrons of the locker system are beginning to realize more and more how useful the equipment can be in the year-round meat programs, taking advantage of the cold storage to have fresh meats throughout the year. Beef, pork, poultry and mutton are the meats usually stored, but it is not unusual for patrons to store fish in their lockers. It is perfectly safe for fish to be placed in with other foods.

The locker has a 300-pound capacity and the yearly rent is $12. About half the lockers have been rented and by summer all are expected to be taken.

The plant provides cutting and wrapping of meats to suit customers. When a farmer butchers an animal, he brings the carcass to the locker plant and roasts, sausage or whatever cuts desired are carved up. After being wrapped, the cuts are placed in a chilling room and kept at 30 degrees above zero for a minimum of five days. Then they are placed in the patron's locker where the temperature is kept at 10 degrees above.

King says that both meats and vegetables may be kept indefinitely, and that loss of flavor and weight is noticeable after a six-month period.

The service has been excellent for customers selling cream because they can have meals delivered to their house by the trucker who picks up cream. In other words, they have to order today the meats they want tomorrow.

This affords a combination unique to West Texas. Some points have cheese plants and others cold storage lockers, but none has a combination like the one at Lorraine.

Fearsome Weapons Produced When Man Seeks to Destroy

Man's inventive genius can also be destructive. Turned to producing weapons of war, it can devise instruments that deal death swiftly, unmercifully. Here are a few of them:

Above: Two versions of the dangerous mine. Drawing shows how Germany's fearsome magnetic mine may be built so that it can be dropped from a low-flying airplane. When attracted to a passing ship, it explodes.

President Asks Billion Dollars For National Defense Program; Nazis Smash at Maginot Line

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

The above map graphically reveals how close German bombing wings are to England's coast should the Nazi machine continue to hold The Hague, capital of the Netherlands. As indicated, it is only 125 airline miles from this point to Harwich, England, and London is only 100 miles southwest of Harwich. Lower arrow points to Sedan, where Germans launched their first attack on France's famed Maginot line.

THE WAR: On Schedule

Since the outbreak of war last year, the prediction that with the coming of spring fighting would "open up," has been on the lips of observers everywhere. As Adolf Hitler's military machine thrust itself across The Netherlands, into Belgium and France, these predictions were at last coming true. For the world was witnessing what was hailed as "the greatest battle in history."

As in 1914 the German forces were making the most impressive showing in the first few days of the fighting. This time fortifications are believed to be stronger and less open to attack by the Nazi army and air force has developed offensive war to the point where no defense appears to be impregnable. In The Netherlands, the Dutch army was ordered to cease firing, thus ending resistance to Germany's swarms of bombing planes and motorized troops.

Scope

This intensive fighting along the 200-mile front from the North sea to Saarbrücken was of utmost importance to the allies and Germany alike. This was indicated by the staggering amount of force each side whipped into the fray. Some experts claimed that this first great battle might be the most decisive of the war. It appeared that Adolf Hitler firmly believing that "the Hour" had come, or forced through Germany's internal situation, had decided to stake all in one gigantic gamble.

As thousands of Nazi planes raised bombs upon military objectives and communication lines, England's royal air force flung back the challenge by losing ton after ton of high explosives in areas near important munitions plants along the Rhine and upon large German troop concentrations.

Objectives

What the aims of the German high command in the great land offensive actually are, of course remain a closely guarded military secret. But in general it appeared that Adolf Hitler firmly believing that "the Hour" had come, or forced through Germany's internal situation, had decided to stake all in one gigantic gamble.

QUOTATIONS

... on the war

Robert Ley, Nazi Labor Front leader, speaking of Adolf Hitler said that he is waging war, "in God-given natural mission" to "bring Europe and the world to reason and thereby make Europe and the world happy."

Viscount Gort, commander of the British expeditionary forces in France, "We are now at the eve of one of the great moments in the history of our empire. The struggle will be hard and long but we can be confident of final victory."

Paul Van Zeeland, former Belgian premier, speaking in Des Moines, Iowa, said the small nations of Europe hope "that the might of the United States will sooner or later be felt in favor of right."

Sen. Arthur Capper (R., Kan.), while discussing possibility of war developments shutting off U. S. access to staple stocks such as rubber and tin from the Dutch East Indies, stated that "we would be better off if we were getting our rubber from Brazil."

Right Rev. William T. Manning, nationally known bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York, declared it the duty of the United States to give "immediately our utmost material assistance" to the allies. "What further may be required of us, no man can now say."

Secretary of State Hull, "We are supremely fortunate that in this hemisphere thought is still free, and science untrammelled. It is for us to see that they remain so—for our sakes and for the sake of all humanity."

TREND

... How the wind is blowing
NYLON—Heralded for several months as the answer to milady's plea for a superior stocking, hose made of Nylon, a synthetic fabric developed by duPont chemists, went on sale throughout the country. Nylon, a tough yet sheer product, is spun from air, water and coal.

POLITICS—In Atlantic City, supporters of a woman candidate for city commissioner, armed themselves with 200 candid cameras in efforts to keep "repeating" voters from the polls. "Every person" whose right to vote was in doubt was due for a snapshot and subsequent check-up.

BUILDING—In the 37 states east of the Rocky mountains, residential building contracts, last month, were highest since 1929. Eighty-eight per cent of the total, $135,420,000 in contracts so awarded, was in private ownership construction as distinct from projects financed from public funds.

BUSINESS: Confusion

"When business is good with us, it indicates an upswing in business conditions throughout the country." So said none other than Postmaster General James A. Farley as he announced that postal revenues reached an all-time high at the close of the last fiscal year. He also ventured the prediction that the current year would see an even larger increase in postal returns. If such increased revenue he observed a general improvement in business conditions.

James A. Farley

For some time business analysts have been in accord with Mr. Farley in his thought that business was fairly good and getting better. Now the pattern of war is beginning to stamp itself in the industrial and agricultural fields and these impressions are sure to be felt.

Foreign markets for farm goods will probably be lost for the time being at least, but there will be a shift in the demand for manufactured goods from the warring nations. In particular the allies will no doubt be forced to speed up their purchases of war supplies, mainly fighting planes and equipment.

Whether the ultimate result will be a loss or gain for industry in this country is still uncertain. One thing was certain, however, confusion was the byword on the stock market. Up went some stocks, down went others.

Best guess was that the war would tend to accelerate U. S. trade with our neighbors in the Western hemisphere. And if demands for large U. S. home-defense supplies materialize, war equipment manufacturing firms should register neat gains.

POLITICS: Inside Track

For a long time New Dealers have been claiming that their champion, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, could have the Democratic nomination for the presidency for the third time if he wanted it. Fact now is that with 499 delegates solidly pledged for him and New York's 94, practically his for the asking, he will have enough votes to be nominated on the first ballot come convention time.

And the third term tide was rising with the war. Many Washington politicians have felt for months that the President's decision to become a candidate hinged largely upon the development of Europe's conflict. With the outbreak of the "big battle" it appeared to them that he would decide to make the race. Other observers felt he would withhold accepting or rejecting the nomination until it has actually been tendered.

Cordell Hull, secretary of state, appears to have the inside track for the nomination if President Roosevelt refuses it. Montana's Sen. Burton K. Wheeler seems to be running second only to Mr. Hull in the Democratic "if-he-doesn't-want-it" club.

MISCELLANY:

Fire destroyed $1,500,000 in war goods stored in the National Guard arsenal at Montgomery, Ala. An investigation was ordered by Adj. Gen. Ben M. Smith reported he saw flames break out at the front and near the back of the building at about the same time.

Back to the United States from the Antarctic came Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd. He said he was back because he had been ordered to return, being under navy orders. His expedition has already charted about 900 miles of unknown coastline in Little America, according to Byrd.

"Daughters of the American Depression," some several hundred strong, assembled in Washington for a conference on unemployment. Claiming to be a cross section of 3,000,000 unemployed women of America, they planned public meetings and hoped to obtain restoration of a last year's WPA wage reduction for women workers.

A contract for continuing Italy's exhibit in the New York World's fair was signed with the provision that "if future international events render it advisable" the exhibit may be withdrawn.

Forty-three states, aided by the federal government have undertaken wild-life restoration projects in the past 21 months, according to a report issued in Washington by the interior department's biological survey bureau. Costing $2,776,628, these 196 projects are paid for by a 75 per cent contribution from the federal government and 25 per cent out of state funds. Research into wild-life problems, restoration of land and water areas to provide additional benefits for wild-life, and acquisition of wild-life feeding areas are among projects undertaken.

Hawaiian Plebiscite to Focus Attention On Forty-Year Struggle for Statehood

By ROBERT McSHANE

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THOUGH the 48-starred flag of the United States has remained unchanged since Arizona and New Mexico were admitted to the Union in 1912, a determined attempt is being made to add another star to its constellation. Hawaii—as at least part of its population claims—wants to become the forty-ninth state.

Culminating more than forty years of effort to secure full rights as an integral part of the nation, the Territory of Hawaii will hold a plebiscite next November to record by popular vote the aspiration of her people for statehood.

The plebiscite will be included in the general elections in the territory November 5. It will have no direct bearing on the granting of statehood, other than to focus national attention on the issue. Its sponsors hope to expedite action by congress on a bill providing for statehood now pending before the house committee on territories.

To many people of the islands, the issue is crucial. Statehood to them represents the fulfillment of a hope that was born nearly a hundred years ago and has been ardently cherished since Hawaii was annexed in 1898. Activated by a group of American colonists in the islands, a move for the annexation of the then Kingdom of Hawaii was almost completed in 1854. The death of King Kamehameha III put an end to treaty negotiations that were almost completed.

Nearly a half century passed before the matter again arose with sufficient decisiveness to bring it to an issue. But sentiment for annexation was kept alive by the growing number of Americans settling in the islands and by the constantly greater integration of American institutions into the body politic.

When annexation finally came, Hawaii would have much preferred that it be as a state. Those who worked for annexation, however, were of the opinion that the United States would follow its established policy and advance her to statehood when she had demonstrated her fitness. Present day advocates of Hawaiian statehood insist that it was upon this understanding that she surrendered her sovereignty and became a United States territory.

Now, Hawaii feels, she has been kept waiting overlong; it is just 40

Hopeful citizens of Hawaii have added a forty-ninth star to the United States flag in anticipation of the day when that country will be admitted to statehood. However, the extra star is just an experiment, and the flag won't be used until the issue has been decided.

Japanese residents, 148,972. Within the territory, the civil and political structure closely parallels that of a state. The governor, secretary of state, and the higher judiciary are appointed by the President of the United States. The legislature and major local officers are elective. The territory is divided into counties which have the same home rule as those of a state.

As a territory, however, the parallel ends there. Her people cannot vote in national elections for the President and vice president, and they have no senators or representatives in congress, but are represented at Washington only by a single delegate who has no vote.

This, to the people of Hawaii, is contrary to American tradition. To them it means taxation for representation. They point out that up to the middle of 1937 a total of $155,858,707 had been contributed by Hawaii in federal internal revenue.

The people of Hawaii pay the same federal taxes as the people of the states. Tax figures show that Hawaii has consistently paid more into the federal treasury than have 14 to 19 of the states.

Carries State Responsibilities. She is subject to the same laws. She would be included in compulsory military service in case of another draft, as she was during the first World War. In short, she carries the same responsibilities in every respect as those of a state.

As a state, Hawaii would be entitled to two senators and one years this year that formalities were completed which established her as a territory.

Although Hawaii is better known to the layman as an ideal vacation spot, it is known to military experts as one of the most closely guarded island groups in the world. This lone guard, standing beneath tropical palms, is symbolic of the U. S. Army's heavily fortified Hawaiian area.

Racial Problem Overdrawn. Hawaii claims that the one frequent argument used against statehood—her racial problem—is one that has been greatly misunderstood. According to census figures she has a lower percentage of alien population than the city of New York, and it is declining yearly. Many who have visited the islands declare that nowhere have citizens two or three generations removed from immigrant ancestry developed a more united loyalty or a stronger feeling of Americanism.

Based upon 1935 calculations (and Hawaii's population has increased considerably since that time) the distribution of population by race was estimated to be as follows: Hawaiian, 21,710; Caucasian-Hawaiian, 18,742; Asiatic-Hawaiian, 17,236; Chinese, 27,264; Korean, 6,668; Filipino, 14,668; Portuguese, 20,550; Spanish, 1,267; Puerto Rican, 7,369; other Caucasian, 50,258; and

'Joe College'? He Doesn't Exist!

STATE COLLEGE, PA.—Hollywood to the contrary, there is no such typical student as "Joe College" or "Betty Co-ed," says Pauline Locklin, assistant professor of English literature at the Pennsylvania State college.

"There is no more a student type," she asserts, "than there is a student nose."

The college man drinks what he is thirsty for and can pay for, she declares. "It may be benedictine, buttermilk or lemon coke." As to dress, the student often is purposely indifferent just to preserve his individual personality.

"The so-called collegiate type of humor is another myth," she said. "Most of such humor is imitative and is copied as much in towns and cities as on a college campus."

representative in congress, with a second representative upon the addition of less than 40,000 people to her present population. (Hawaii claims a 1940 population of 414,000, which either exceeds or compares with the population of nine states.)

Hawaii's gross assessed valuation is more than $425,000,000, surpassing that of nine of the states. This figure, records show, exceeds the gross valuation in any state at the time of its advancement from the status of a territory.

Sugar production is the biggest industry of the islands, accounting for 80 per cent of the world's supply. Vacationists and travelers annually spend upwards of $20,000,000 on her shores. With completely modern public utilities, large financial and commercial institutions, splendid highway system, inter-island transportation by water and air, her progress puts her on a par with other sections of the United States.

Plebiscite Is Non-Partisan. Now, as a dramatic way of registering her claim for statehood,

No Forecasts Sent. "For manifest reasons the belligerents did not want to make known to the enemy the position of any ship, and so weather forecasts from them were not sent out."

"It was then that the Norwegians began studying cloud and air formations and by the application of mathematics were able to make shrewd weather forecasts."

"At present we are able to make up what might be called a 'topographical' map of air layers, except that the air is always in motion."

Ships Are Important Aid. While the Norwegians made it possible to do weather forecasting without the aid of ships, Mitchell, however, emphasized the importance of having the latter for forecasting purposes.

"There are 27 different kinds of clouds and 99 different kinds of precipitation that can be reported from ships and stations," he stated.

Since the effective work of the Norwegians in weather forecasting during the World War, America itself has made great contributions to the science, he declared.

Hawaii has chosen the plebiscite to be held next November. The matter is non-partisan; both the Republican and Democratic parties in the islands are sponsoring the plebiscite and urging the people to vote. So general and wholehearted is the support being given to it in the islands that it is freely predicted the affirmative votes will be virtually unanimous.

Other fears for Hawaii's chances of eventual statehood center around the islands' military importance. Hawaii is America's first line of defense in the Pacific ocean—the bulwark which stands between the states of Oregon and Washington, with their totally inadequate facilities for warding off an enemy, and invasion by the fleet and air armada of a foreign belligerent.

Army, Navy Oppose. Hawaii is a Gibraltar-like element in the nation's national defense scheme, and because of that a barrier to its statehood arises. Both the army and navy departments of the United States have expressed strong opposition to any change in the islands' form of government.

Uncle Sam has spent millions for the fortification of the islands, and indirectly to protect the mainland of the United States. California, with extensive fortifications, is considerably better equipped to fight off an enemy invasion than either of the two states to the north.

Pearl Harbor, United States naval base situated in the island of Oahu, eight or ten miles from Honolulu, is the center of the elaborate network of defense. It is the snug and secure anchorage where the whole fighting fleet of the nation can lie at anchor; on its shores are a navy yard, a submarine base, a powerful radio station, fuel tanks, dry docks, barracks and other military necessities.

Because of this, army and navy executives are hesitant to approve of any measure which would change the islands' form of government. They fear that a change might, by the greater independence of statehood, interfere with future development of the United States' mid-Pacific stronghold.

Norwegians Given Credit for Weather Forecasting System

SAN FRANCISCO.—To Norway belongs the credit for having originated the system of mass analysis in making weather forecasts, according to Charles L. Mitchell, senior forecaster of the United States weather bureau. That system is now used in the United States.

"While there has been something of a revolution in weather forecasting since the World War," he said, "nevertheless it was the Norwegians who, during the World War, originated the system of mass analysis now in use."

Schools Maintained. "This is now so much part of the work that we maintain schools in both Chicago and Washington, where weather forecasters can take a three-month course in this part of the work."

"Before the war forecasting was largely by reckoning from high and low depressions as shown on the weather map."

"During the war, however, weather forecasters were unable to get reports from ships on weather conditions, for the reason that these reports are valueless unless the precise positions of the vessels are known."

"For manifest reasons the belligerents did not want to make known to the enemy the position of any ship, and so weather forecasts from them were not sent out."

"It was then that the Norwegians began studying cloud and air formations and by the application of mathematics were able to make shrewd weather forecasts."

"At present we are able to make up what might be called a 'topographical' map of air layers, except that the air is always in motion."

Ships Are Important Aid. While the Norwegians made it possible to do weather forecasting without the aid of ships, Mitchell, however, emphasized the importance of having the latter for forecasting purposes.

AMERICAN POSITION

Washington, D. C. Behind the President's speech to the American Scientific conference was a very genuine worry over the protection of the Western hemisphere.

The President threw aside a speech which had been prepared for several days before, and during the tense hours just after Holland and Belgium were invaded he dictated a new draft which emphasized the importance of Pan-American unity, plus force, to protect these continents. He even raised the question whether the American nations could stand idly by while dictators conquer the rest of the world.

Behind all this were some very careful studies which the President and his naval and military strategists have been making of Western hemisphere defense.

It may sound like scare headlines, but it is no exaggeration to say that to the strategists who take out pencil and pencil to figure on protecting the U. S. A., Nazi activities in Norway, Denmark, Holland and Belgium have meant the very definite scrapping (for the first time in our 164-year history) of George Washington's Farewell Address on American isolation.

Here is how the strategists figure it out. The keystone of American defense has been:

1. A big navy in the Pacific.
2. Friendship with Great Britain, which rules the waves of the Atlantic.

Assuming that the British fleet should disappear from the Atlantic, the United States would then have to maintain two fleets—one for the Pacific and one for the Atlantic. And it would take at least ten years to build a new fleet for the Atlantic.

RIGHT ON FOREIGN FORECAST No matter what they may think of Roosevelt's domestic policies or politics, some of his severest critics give him credit for being absolutely right on foreign strategy.

Exactly two years ago the President told his cabinet in categorical terms that he was convinced war was inescapable in Europe, and that the results would be serious in the extreme for the democracies.

Last summer, also, he informed congressional leaders that war was inevitable in the autumn—and got scooped at for his warning.

In view of the President's consistent record for accuracy on things international, his present views are very much worth recording.

By nature, Roosevelt is an optimist. But regarding the present allied position he is not optimistic. In fact, he is inclined to think that the allies are in for a defeat, that their situation is much more serious than the American public realizes.

Naturally, the President is not expressing these views publicly. Also they are subject to change. But the close study he is giving to the Monroe Doctrine, the defense of the American continent, and especially to the possibility of enemy air bases in Iceland, Mexico, and around Panama, all indicate that he is figuring on the distinct possibility of a crushing allied defeat.

RED HERRING One of the weapons of modern war is the red herring. Honor has departed from warfare. The Nazis used subterfuge to get into Norway, German aviators dressed in Dutch uniforms to land in Holland. Italy maneuvered in the Mediterranean to keep the British from sending too many ships to Scandinavia. Mussolini was the red herring.

"Therefore, it is not unreasonable to figure that if Germany ever wanted to land troops in the Western hemisphere, Japan would be the red herring, would send her fleet toward Hawaii. Probably she would land in Hawaii, but merely maneuver enough to keep the U. S. fleet in the Pacific, prevent it from protecting the Atlantic coast."

At present only four cruisers, plus one small airplane carrier and some decrepit destroyers, guard the Atlantic. Before the Pacific fleet could return through Panama to the Atlantic, Germany could land all the troops she wanted in Trinidad, or Puerto Rico, or the northern tip of South America.

Military minds calculate that German troops even could be landed in Newfoundland, which has, at Botwood, one of the best airports in the world. And from Botwood, they could land in Maine about as fast as U. S. forces could concentrate against them.

Germany, however, is not likely to bother with New England. Far wealthier, far more important are the oil fields of Venezuela, the tropical plantations of Brazil, the wheat fields of Argentina. Here there are large groups of German and Italian settlers.

Important fact: The Low Countries now invaded by Hitler are among the most densely populated in the world, have no raw materials. Outside of Africa, the wealthiest raw material area in the world, also the least populated, lies under the Monroe Doctrine.

PLACID POLITICIANS "I've got a lot of big shots in my precinct," says Police Captain Clarence Tally of Georgetown, on the western edge of Washington. "I've got Justice Roberts and Justice Frankfurter and Miss Perkins and Mr. Hopkins and there's Senator Lodge of Massachusetts and Senator Wadsworth of New York."

You Can Make Your Own Summer Shade

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

MR. AND MRS. NEWHOUSE looked out over their backyard and were in no mood to plant an acorn and wait for it to grow up to give them summer shade. Mr. Newhouse bought some second-hand pipe for a frame and made a sketch for the frame of a shelter like the one I have shown at the upper right. He had a plumber cut and thread the pipe so it could be put together easily.

Mrs. Newhouse wanted the shelter to be as cool as a dell, so she avoided all the hot red and orange colorings. The pipe frame was painted bright blue. Then she selected green and white striped awning material for the top. This material was 30 inches wide and 12 yards was needed. About 15 yards of bright blue bias binding were used for the scalloped edge.

The method of fastening the awning to the frame is illustrated. The fabric loops were made of the awning material stitched in place through heavy woven tape.

Whether you have a new home or an old one, 10 cents to cover cost and mailing charges on Mrs. Spears' Sewing Book No. 1 can save you many dollars. In it are complete directions for slip covers, curtains, bedspreads, dressing tables and many clever and original things that may require the aid of Friend Husband to drive a nail or two. Strange Facts

! 'Realistic' Paintings!
 Suicide Excursion!
 Fire Ruins Granite!

Many medieval Russian artists, when painting a holy personage on an icon, used an odd method to make each figure "realistic." They would first paint the skeleton, then the body organs, then the flesh and, lastly, add the clothes.

During Japan's last suicide wave, which occurred between 1933 and 1935, 313 persons succeeded in jumping into the volcano on the island of Oshima. Of the 1,208 others who were fooled by the guards at the crater's edge, 29 managed to jump off the boats on the way back to the mainland.

Although granite, like marble, is noted for its hardness and durability, granite buildings have been known to crumble and fall in devastating fires that have only scratched marble surfaces.—Collier's.

Loan Dollars Should Travel "Round Trip"

Banks like to send dollars out on little "business trips" to promote prosperous activity in their communities, wherever responsible borrowers invite them to come. But they insist that these dollars must travel only on "round trip" tickets.

In other words, the bank wishes to assure beforehand the safe return of these dollars. This does not indicate upon the part of the bank unwillingness to lend, but rather unwillingness to lose any of the money entrusted to it by depositors.

A Product of the Danzon Coffee Company

GENERAL HUGH S. JOHNSON Says:

DANGERS PARADED

Washington, D. C.

A digest of those "thousands of telegrams" drawn by the President's Pan-American speech on Hitler's latest blarney would be valuable.

Ninety per cent of them were reported by Secretary Early to approve and the other 10 per cent to be from "peace-at-any-priceers." An analysis would be valuable because I can't see how you can approve a speech when you don't know what it means. I have discussed this speech with several informed people. They don't know what it means—and I don't.

From its condemnation of treacherous brutality of Hitler the approval should have been 100 per cent and also for its plea for pan-American unity in defense. This unity the President tried to put into effect. But then he said: "Is this solution—our solution—permanent or safe if it is solved for us alone? . . . I think not!"

What does that mean? It may seem a slight phrase to be quibbling about, but no utterance by a President of the United States on our future course in a world at war is a "slight" phrase. This one wasn't intended to be slight. It was coupled with an assertion that too many of us have been deceived by the "false teaching of geography" into feeling safe, "physically, economically and socially," from the impacts of attacks on civilization elsewhere. Then followed statements that, from the point of view of conquest, Santiago, Chile, is closer to Europe than Alexander found Macedonia to be from Persia or from the distance Caesar traveled from Rome to Spain—that is, four or five hours from Africa to South America as compared with four or five weeks it took the armies of Napoleon to go from Paris to Rome or Poland.

I don't know what that means but it sounds like "our frontier is in France." The statement identifying airplane timetables with the pace of conquering armies or from the point of view of conquest is utterly misleading—almost as misleading as it would be to say that the speed of a race horse compares with that of a telegram. An airplane can go from Africa to South America in a few hours. But an army can't. It can't get at all if our navy and air force are efficient and aloof and not chasing boogey-men in the east Pacific. This aspect of the speech was cryptic obscuration coupled with sensational and misleading terrorism.

It creates an occasion to repeat the quotation from Lloyd George's speech that upsets Chamberlain: "The nation is ready as long as its leadership is right, as long as you say clearly what you are aiming at, as long as you give confidence to them that their leaders are doing their best for them."

The President does the deliberate reverse of "saying clearly what he is aiming at." His carefully guarded exterior seems to be full to the bursting point with some kind of incoherent content he doesn't often reveal but every time a new pressure comes, a little of it squirts out—like "frontiers in France" and "quarantine the aggressors." The whole country is behind him at any cost of effort to prepare this country for defense of this continent. It is 90 per cent against any attempt at "defending" America by attacking in Europe or Asia—with either men, money or materials. It would be a political—as well as naval and military—catastrophe.

For, even for the relative strategic ease of continental defense, Mr. Roosevelt has not prepared the military and naval weapons to make good his position and the whole of recent history proves that bluffing on a boatload is suicide.

FAT'S IN THE FIRE

The fat's in the fire and our navy is in Hawaii. Our miniature army is relatively equipped with bows and arrows. It is a pitiful Balafrastian insufficiency. We are quibbling about the design of a rifle already adopted and in production after years of experiment. It appears now that the navy has known the facts of its weakness against bombs from above, mines from below and secret foreign building programs for some time—without admission before the crisis.

Surely there was no ignorance in this government about the absolutely inefficient equipment of our army in almost everything essential for modern war and its own grotesque inadequacy.

Everybody is now squawking about our lack of tin and rubber and our failure of action in motorizing and mechanizing our army. This column has been squawking about it for five years. Seven years ago this writer had written into the Recovery act ample authority and appropriations to do all these things as a combination measure of re-employment, recovery and defense. That was the year Hitler started. It was the year that the administration gave most of that $3,300,000,000 to Hopkins for raking leaves.

Who is responsible for our pitiful preparedness for kicking up hill-will in the Pacific and sending our feet there against a non-existent if not manufactured danger?

There is certainly no support in this record for the silly slogan that if the war flares closer we must perpetuate the Fourth New Deal. This administration should promptly get better or get out—sacrifice its seals of office. It is better to say this now than later when we may be staring full into the fire that England faces.

"You broke the rules," said John. "It's like a labor union. Only instead of skill in a trade you must have wealth to be admitted. Money, you must inherit it or marry it. I—" "Don't speak that way of money," Gay said, her voice sharpened by weariness, by a consciousness of the distance widening between them. "We've all lost a great deal and are likely to lose more."

"I've learned that. Your friend, Connie Belmont, told me that her family are 'practically paupers.'" "It seems so in comparison with what they've had. Mother, Robert, Dad—they feel that their world is changing, that in their life-time, perhaps, things will never be as they have been. Oh, why do we talk of it? They, my friends, who were here tonight, aren't important." She moved close to him and put her hand in his. "We're here together, it's Christmas Eve. Let's forget them."

His fingers closed around her hand but the pressure was negligent. "They are important. You defend them. You were afraid they wouldn't accept me."

"I was afraid for you, not for myself."

"Is that true? Would you be content to go away with me and never see any of them again?"

"Yes, oh, yes!"

"You think so now. But in a little while, when being with me isn't a novelty any longer, when I'd be at work and you'd have nothing to amuse you—"

"You have no confidence in me. You still resent me. How can I convince you?"

"Forgive me, Gay. I'm sorry." His arms went around her, drew her close to him. His lips followed the curve of her cheek to her lips. She clung to him, conscious of a sort of desperation in the embrace, more of fear than of passion or tenderness.

Gay laid down her crumpled square of heavy damask as Burton, at a signal from Aunt Flora, stepped behind her aunt's chair.

The gentlemen rose as the ladies left the table. Gay glanced at John, standing very stiffly beside his chair at Aunt Flora's right. She smiled and his face brightened. She felt him watching her a little furtively as she, with her aunts and cousins, followed Aunt Flora's measured steps out of the dining-room, as studied as when, wearing the traditional train and three feathers, she had walked along a strip of carpet which led to a throne.

Aunt Flora sat on the love-seat before the fire and Ernest, the footman, set a tray with the coffee service on a table before her. Aunt Lucy, Uncle James' wife, her fading prettiness extinguished by wine-colored satin and the jewels she wore, sat in a chair at the opposite side of the marble hearth. The younger women, Elsa Lancaster, Aunt Flora's daughter, Muriel Von Steedham, her daughter-in-law; Margaret Newland, Aunt Lucy's married daughter, and Janet Graham, her unmarried daughter, grouped themselves, respectfully or resentfully, around the room. Gay stood in the curve of the small piano, resigning herself to the half hour of boredom which was Aunt Flora's tribute to tradition.

"Millicent and Grace were unable to be with us today," Aunt Flora's diamonds flashed as she poured coffee into porcelain cups set in cases of filigree silver. "Grace has a touch of neuritis."

"The weather has been so changeable," Aunt Lucy contributed brightly.

Gay glanced at Kate, seated in a chair a little removed from the group about the fire. Kate's eyebrow lifted and her glance, meeting Gay's, twinkled with derisive humor. Aunt Flora had not invited Cousin Millicent and Cousin Grace, two elderly and impoverished spinsters who were, ordinarily, present at family gatherings.

She hadn't leag to wait.

"Well, Gay," Aunt Flora said, as Ernest left the room. "I suppose you won't mind telling us your plans."

Gay felt the sudden hush that fell upon the room, felt her aunts and cousins watching her, though no one, except Aunt Flora, who had asked the question and young Janet, who amused her, looked at her directly. She felt a familiar resentment, an emotion which extended far back through adolescence to her turbulent childhood. She felt exactly as she had felt then, but she was too old for tantrums now.

"I have no definite plans," she said quietly.

Aunt Flora looked at her in silence. Then, "You mean that you prefer not to discuss them with us," she said with dignity which prickled irritation, though irritation prickled in her voice.

"Why should she?" Janet asked warmly. She was fifteen, tall and with the same awkward grace that Gay herself had had at that age. Janet was going to be the Graham beauty of her decade, Gay thought, amused and touched by her young cousin's eager partisanship. She had bright brown curls that framed over her head, peach-colored skin, eyes as green and translucent as emeralds fringed with brown lashes tipped with gold. "Why should Gay hash over everything, if she doesn't want to? I mean, it's her business. Good heavens!"

"Really, Mother—" Margaret's flower blue eyes were reproachful. "Janet, dear," Aunt Lucy said imploringly.

Aunt Flora's glance moved from Janet to Gay. There, see what an influence you have, the glance said, but the words she spoke were more conciliating. "We're only trying to help you," she said. "I won't pretend that it all hasn't been very painful and embarrassing, but the thing to do now is to help you all we can. There's no doubt, of course, that we can do a great deal to establish Dr. Houghton in New York. If you people know that your father's family is—"

"Excuse me, Aunt Flora," Gay's voice was steady, a little remote. "I'm sorry to interrupt but you have been misinformed. John has no intention of locating here."

"Where, then?" Aunt Flora asked. "Certainly he doesn't intend to remain in Maine. Any practice that he might establish there would, necessarily, be limited. And frankly, Gabriella, I can't see you living in Maine."

"John is a scientist," Gay said patiently. "That is, he hopes to be. He has no intention of establishing a private practice anywhere."

"But I thought—" "Yes, he is assisting A. Dr. Sargeant in general practice now, but that is a temporary arrangement."

"And after that?"

"I really don't know, Aunt Flora."

"But what are we to tell people?" A flush suffused Mrs. Von Steedham's handsome features and irritation sharpened her voice.

"Must you tell them anything?"

"That's what I say," young Janet broke in. "Why must you explain what's purely and simply Gay's business, to a lot of old moss-backs who think Victoria is still the Queen of England. What does it matter who Gay marries as long as it suits her, that's what I'd like to know?"

"Janet!" Aunt Lucy wailed helplessly.

"I can hardly expect you not to be obstinate, Gabriella," Aunt Flora said.

"Sit down, John," he said.

John sat in the chair at the opposite side of the hearth. He had felt fairly confident while the others were there, but now that he was alone with Gabriella, a certain constraint locked his jaws and made a vacuum of his mind.

The butler closed the door. David Graham cleared his throat.

"Gay tells me that you must return to Maine tomorrow night," he said.

"Yes, sir."

"You're located in Portland?"

"In Portland. Yes, sir. At present," John glanced at David Graham and was surprised, almost shocked, to discover that he, too, felt a certain amount of constraint. His blue-gray eyes regarded him, John, kindly but with diffidence through the lenses of Oxford glasses which sat with scholarly dignity upon the bridge of his salient nose.

"I suppose I owe you an apology, sir," John said hesitantly, wanting for David Graham's sake, as well as his own, to get on with the interview and have it over. The older man appeared to be as embarrassed as John, felt. He sat forward in his chair, his tall well-groomed figure fixed in an uneasy attitude.

"For falling in love with my daughter?" A twinkle of humor shone through the lenses of the Oxford glasses. "I should have expected you to apologize if you hadn't."

The twinkle in the gray-blue eyes was reassuring. John realized, gratefully, that Gay's father, whatever embarrassment he suffered, bore no resentment against him. The constraint lessened a little. David Graham leaned back in his chair. John lit a cigarette.

"I meant an apology for my share in the great deal of unpleasantness," he said, smiling.

"It's a pleasure to meet someone who employs the use of understatement," Gay's father returned the smile. "The only apology you owe me, personally," he went on, "is for making me rush home from London before I'd had a chance to bid on a painting I very much wanted."

"I'm sorry about that, sir," John was beginning to understand the life-long friendship between this man and his Uncle John. He even felt that he understood why Kitty Schuyler, at eighteen, had married him.

"Perhaps it is I who owe you an apology," David Graham said, presently. "Gay calls my attention to the fact that I originally, with you at fault, I invited John Lawrence to be her god-father. Of course I had no idea that the nephew he spoke of so often was going to grow up into a menace, or I should have made other arrangements."

"Gay has told you," John said, "that our meeting at the cabin was not pre-arranged?"

"But it was pre-arranged, wasn't it? Yes, Gay has told me. I refer to the arrangement John Lawrence made. No one ever suspected him of his genius for pulling strings. He had it, though, to a remarkable degree. I remember when we were in college—"

He went on to speak of John's uncle who had been his friend, quietly, appreciatively, in a pleasant, un-hurried voice. The anecdote he told was familiar to John. Though he gave the appearance of listening intently, his mind was occupied with the task of fitting together from what he had heard of him, from what he had observed, a clear understanding of Gay's father.

As he thought of her, he heard her voice.

"Are you getting along, you two?"

"Splendidly," her father said. "Have you been telling John disgraceful episodes in my past?"

She came toward them, walking quickly and lightly through a shaft of sunlight, touched John's arm in passing, went to sit on the arm of her father's chair.

"The young are self-centered," David Graham said. "No, my dear. I've been talking about the days when I was young and not so hand-trying to help you."

"I appreciate your intentions," Gay said. "I know that it seems impudent to you to whitewash a scandal. But John and I aren't having any, thank you."

"You have no sense of responsibility toward your family. It's only to be expected, I suppose. Your mother—"

"Leave Mother out of this, if you please. She, at least, has some respect for personal independence."

"But have you never heard of conduct?"

"I think I'm conducting myself very well." Gay made an effort to control her temper, rising now, flushing her cheeks, giving warmth to her voice, quickening her breathing. "I brought John here today because I—we want to show you all deference and consideration. But you aren't going to arrange our lives for us. John will make his own decisions and I will accept them."

She made a half-turn toward the door. "And now if you will excuse me—"

Mrs. Von Steedham stayed her with a peremptory gesture. "Something must be decided," she said, insistently. "We can't go on like this. We must explain, trying to explain—"

She waited a moment, then, abandoning high-handed methods, "What are we to tell people?" she cried despairingly.

"That's what I am trying to tell you, that I am my mother's daughter," Gay said, and holding her head very high, she went out of the room.

John stood beside the chair in which he had been seated while Gay's Uncle James, his two sons, James and Andrew, handsome Dirk Von Steedham and Reginald Lancaster, filed out of the study. The door closed. David Graham seated himself in his chair beside the hearth.

"Sit down, John," he said.

John sat in the chair at the opposite side of the hearth. He had felt fairly confident while the others were there, but now that he was alone with Gabriella, a certain constraint locked his jaws and made a vacuum of his mind.

The butler closed the door. David Graham cleared his throat.

"Gay tells me that you must return to Maine tomorrow night," he said.

"Yes, sir."

"You're located in Portland?"

"In Portland. Yes, sir. At present," John glanced at David Graham and was surprised, almost shocked, to discover that he, too, felt a certain amount of constraint. His blue-gray eyes regarded him, John, kindly but with diffidence through the lenses of Oxford glasses which sat with scholarly dignity upon the bridge of his salient nose.

"I suppose I owe you an apology, sir," John said hesitantly, wanting for David Graham's sake, as well as his own, to get on with the interview and have it over. The older man appeared to be as embarrassed as John, felt. He sat forward in his chair, his tall well-groomed figure fixed in an uneasy attitude.

"For falling in love with my daughter?" A twinkle of humor shone through the lenses of the Oxford glasses. "I should have expected you to apologize if you hadn't."

The twinkle in the gray-blue eyes was reassuring. John realized, gratefully, that Gay's father, whatever embarrassment he suffered, bore no resentment against him. The constraint lessened a little. David Graham leaned back in his chair. John lit a cigarette.

"I meant an apology for my share in the great deal of unpleasantness," he said, smiling.

"It's a pleasure to meet someone who employs the use of understatement," Gay's father returned the smile. "The only apology you owe me, personally," he went on, "is for making me rush home from London before I'd had a chance to bid on a painting I very much wanted."

"I'm sorry about that, sir," John was beginning to understand the life-long friendship between this man and his Uncle John. He even felt that he understood why Kitty Schuyler, at eighteen, had married him.

"Perhaps it is I who owe you an apology," David Graham said, presently. "Gay calls my attention to the fact that I originally, with you at fault, I invited John Lawrence to be her god-father. Of course I had no idea that the nephew he spoke of so often was going to grow up into a menace, or I should have made other arrangements."

"Gay has told you," John said, "that our meeting at the cabin was not pre-arranged?"

"But it was pre-arranged, wasn't it? Yes, Gay has told me. I refer to the arrangement John Lawrence made. No one ever suspected him of his genius for pulling strings. He had it, though, to a remarkable degree. I remember when we were in college—"

HIGH-GRADE HAY SAVES FEED COST

Fertility Value of Legumes Is Also Beneficial.

By W. G. NEVENS
(Professor of Dairy Cattle Feeding, Illinois College of Agriculture.)

Producing and feeding high quality hay is one of the best ways to lower live stock feeding costs.

To make the present conservation program of growing more acres of soil-building legumes and fewer acres of soil-depleting cash crops more effective, high-quality hay for live stock feed and the poorer grades for bedding, which can be returned to the soil in the form of manure, should be used. On most farms material savings in the cost of producing live stock and live stock products result from feeding more high-quality hay and less grain for each animal unit.

Then too only high-quality legume hay sells for more than the value of the phosphorus, nitrogen and potassium it contains. The fertility value of alfalfa, clover and soybean hay is $8 to $9 a ton. This means that a profit is possible only on the highest grades when one is raising hay for market.

Quality in hay really means feed value. The factors which affect quality include maturity or ripeness, percentage of leaves, color, foreign material such as weeds mixed with the hay, soundness or condition, size and pliability of the stems, and the aroma.

From the standpoint of the chemist who analyzes hay samples, quality in hay refers mainly to its protein, carbohydrate, mineral and vitamin content. From the feeder's standpoint, the extent to which these nutritive elements are present is represented by the quality factors, such as maturity, leafiness, and green color that can be judged by examining the hay.

New Cheap Treatment Preserves Fence Posts

Farmers in the past have been forced to shy away from pine, poplar and some of the common hardwoods when they selected trees for fence posts, but Parker O. Anderson, extension forester, Minnesota university farm, says that a new "tire tube" method of treatment is used to change all that.

It has been known for many years that if preservatives were used, posts would last much longer. Former methods of treatment were slow, awkward and expensive, however, and never received popular approval.

The new plan involves the use of a cheap preservative, zinc chloride, which is applied to green posts through inner tubes tightly stretched around the large ends of the posts. The preservative is measured and poured into the tubes while the posts lie at an inclined angle. Eight to 24 hours are needed for the chloride to seep into the wood and replace the sap.

Cheap, practical and efficient—the new method is bound to prove a big source of savings to farmers, says Anderson. By using it, abundant, fast-growing trees may be converted into posts that will last about as long as cedar. Cost of the materials used will vary with the variety of wood, also the size and condition that it is in, but for ordinary posts it averages about six cents each.

Wild Game on Farm Can Be a 'Pay' Crop

Farmers who support game on their farms are just as much justified in expecting some return from it as those who raise crops of corn, says Donald Hatfield of the University of Minnesota. He suggests farmer-sportsman cooperatives to help the farmer against trespass abuse and to give the hunter more land to shoot over.

Michigan, Ohio and Iowa are some of the states where cooperatives have been set up. By this plan, the farmer furnishes the land and grain and the sportsman contributes cash either directly to the farmer or toward increasing the game supply.

The best plan, says Hatfield, is for several farmers to form an association aggregating not more than 4,000 acres in a solid block. Post the area and make rules regarding the number of hunters per unit of area. From one to three hunters for each 50 acres probably is the best number to start with. Keep the price low but high enough to support improvements.

Farm Notes

One ton of grain to each cow each year is a good general formula for dairy cattle.

Last year bankruptcies among farmers dropped to the lowest point in almost two decades.

If a cold chisel becomes mushroom-headed, reduce the turned edges with a grinder until the driving end is slightly smaller than the haft of the tool.

Losing the pin that fastens the windmill pump rod to the pump may be avoided by attaching one end of a small chain to the pin and the other end to the pump.

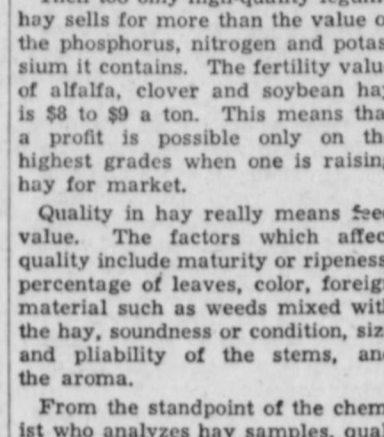

Farmers have been hearing about dwarf apple, peach and other fruit trees, and some fairly good ones have been developed. Some of them bear fairly well and are beautiful when in bloom, but they are more for ornamental rather than for practical purposes. They have been developed more for the backlot farmer than for the general farmer.

The most efficient source of light in the world is the glow-worm. Chemical changes on the sugar absorbed by the insect produce the light from which it gets its name.

Patternless Americanism

The commonest complaint about the way things are done in America, voiced by numerous well-meaning people who feel the urge to make other people over, is that we have no system or pattern to which everybody has to conform. So many of them set about trying to make a plan or pattern to govern the lives of everybody.

Those earnest folks, usually young and not very well versed in the peculiarities of human nature, often call themselves "liberals" or "radicals." As a matter of fact, they are really conservatives. They want to set up a completely ordered world in which nothing will ever be changed, once it is established.

The changes they propose in the American system are, indeed, radical departures from conditions to which we are accustomed, but they are not radical in the true sense of going to the roots of whatever is wrong with things as they are. And they certainly are not liberal, for the essence of liberalism is the fullest tolerance of everybody's liberty to think as he pleases, act as he pleases and vote as he pleases without compulsion from any source.

The true spirit of Americanism is that sort of liberalism. It is disorderly, in the sense that there is no fixed and unchanging plan about it. But the absence of a fixed program or of any unchangeable plan or program is Americanism itself. Once the idea takes hold, which it is not likely to do, that human affairs can or ought to be regulated and made to conform to a design for living laid out in advance for everybody, the end of democracy is approaching.

No single individual ever conducted his life according to a determined plan. No group of individuals has ever succeeded in agreeing upon and following a pattern of common action and conduct. Only a dictator backed by armed force has ever succeeded in molding a whole people to a common standard or compelling them to live by orderly rules.

What Is a Diploma?

Tomorrow marks the closing of all schools in Scurry County for the 1930-'31 session, when some three score and ten will receive their diplomas from Snyder High School, two dozen will graduate from Hermleigh High School and about a dozen will finish at Fluvanna, Byron, Dunn and Ira schools had large senior classes for the closing term.

Completing the course of study in anybody's high school is one of the highlights in the life of any young person. Finishing the prescribed course of study in this day and age is particularly important, because more and more education is almost a necessity for an abundant life.

But a diploma will not do miracles unless there is something to give it moving force; an electric motor will not budge until electric energy is supplied to its wire coils. It takes more than a diploma and a wishbone to whip the world with all its problems and difficulties.

We trust that Scurry County's high schools have instilled into the minds and inners of her graduates the necessary motive power that, when applied to the knowledge the young people have stored away in their craniums, will give them unbeatable zeal, unstinted courage, undaunted determination.

It has been said that the formula for becoming a success in life is: Pay the price. Patience, hard work, long hours, perseverance—these are the price of success.

Editorial of the Week

POWER AND DURABILITY

The power of the Nazi war machine, which conquered Poland in 18 days, is again being demonstrated on the Western Front, so that even London admits the situation is of "extreme gravity." The durability of the machine is another matter.

Speculation over the outcome of the war is premature, and it is impossible to say at this point that the Allies, and likewise the American people, have indulged in wishful thinking in discounting Nazi might rather than face the realities. So far as the American people are concerned, the answer is that their universal desire to avoid involvement in the European war prevented the President or any one else from informing them upon facts of a disagreeable nature. Any true picture of the German military power as a threat to American security would have been branded as Allied propaganda.

The American people have retreated deeply into the determination to keep out of another foreign war and to remain aloof in their supposed isolation. If that sentiment should prove to have been the consequence of wishful thinking, then no one can be blamed except the people themselves. The unanimous support accorded the President's emergency defense program from all sides indicate that popular sentiment is vacillating in this country. The opposition to American intervention is still strong. This country relied firmly upon neutrality and isolation, and it must find its future upon that guess.

But the American people should not exalt their motives in high sounding phrases about peace. The national defense is inspired by fear, and the same emotion has figured largely in the isolationist policy.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

A right act strikes a chord that extends through the whole universe, touches all moral intelligence, visits every world, vibrates along its whole extent, and conveys its vibrations to the very bosom of God!—Binney.

THE TIMES MARCHES ON . . .

THIRTY-NINE YEARS AGO
From The Coming West,
May 23, 1901

Will Lockwood is on his way to Amarillo with a herd of cattle, and will return to this place about June 1.

Miss West and Miss Vernon Judkins, two of Dunn's most estimable young ladies, were in Snyder Friday.

The Masonic lodge is making preparations to lay the corner stone of the new school building on the eighth, according to Masonic rites.

Monroe Barnett, the young man who sustained such serious injuries during the storm of last week, is doing remarkably well. Dr. A. O. Scarborough removed the pieces of the scantling that penetrated the abdominal cavity and passed through the diaphragm.

Professor Frank Judkins closed his school at Riverdale in Kent County and passed through Monday en route to his home at Dunn. Mr. Judkins is well and favorably known to most of our people.

W. L. Barwell of Bethel was here Saturday and when asked regarding the outlook of his part of the county said everything was doing fairly well.

Organization of a county board of health was completed by the commissioners court at its last regular session and Drs. A. G. Pearson and A. C. Leslie named to act as members of the county health board.

Dr. Pearson was elected president and F. A. Grayum secretary. The court delegated this board authority to order the town cleaned up. Failure to comply with the order of the board, as regulated by law, is classed as a misdemeanor.

Tom Pruitt is touring East Texas this week on business. He will visit Jefferson and other large lumber centers and the interest of Snyder Lumber Company.

Rev. S. D. Waldrop of Comanche will begin a protracted meeting at the Presbyterian Church on Friday night before the second Sunday in June. Everybody is cordially invited.

Professor A. W. Weatherford of Gibbtown, Jack County, is visiting in Snyder this week.

Albert Tucker and Misses Edna Byrd and Nellie Buchanan were among those who attended league conference at Sweetwater this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Beze, in company with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Dawson, went to Roscoe yesterday and will return Friday.

According to reports received here, Bro. Randolph Clark, president of Lancaster College, will begin a protracted meeting here at the Christian Church July 24.

A much needed rain fell in the Ira community last Saturday night.

TWENTY-SEVEN YEARS AGO
From The Snyder Signal,
May 23, 1913

The city equalization board began work Monday on the city tax rolls and in a few days the property owners will be telling why their renditions have been made high enough—without any additions.

The equalizers are F. J. Grayum, D. Nation and T. J. Brosson with Assessor Pat Johnston present to point out the relative values and Secretary C. L. Ezell to keep this record straight.

Commissioners court has been working the past week on the tax rolls, after having turned out a big batch of miscellaneous business last week.

Smith Brock was authorized to repair the bridge at Camp Springs and Brown to have the Camp

Springs road put in shape. Letcher was instructed to build a bridge at Dermott.

Snyder now has a well organized fire department and they are all good, active men and better prepared than ever before to fight fires.

The department was thoroughly organized Tuesday night with 20 active members.

H. Higginbotham was elected chief; Walker Wilks, assistant chief; Bibb Alexander, foreman of Hose Company No. 1; O. P. Thane, assistant No. 2; Walker Wilks, secretary-treasurer.

A heavy rain fell Sunday in the east part of the county and there was lots of hail with it. In that part of the county, beginning north of Hermleigh and extending to Camp Springs and Plainview School, the rain was quite heavy.

Hail was very destructive at Plainview. Gardens and fruit were badly damaged and feed stuff and cotton suffered. These may come out, but cotton will have to be replanted.

During the past month, the Jeffersonian Literary Society's work has been very successful. Several new members have been added and have energetically started in with good work.

Officers have been named as follows: Forest Sears, president; Earl Hicks, vice president; and Grayum Baker, secretary-treasurer.

The question naturally arises, is it worth while?

We might refer to many things that are worth a good deal of our time, but we have reference to the things pertaining to the protracted meeting that will begin at the Baptist Church June 11.

Answered from any angle you look at, the protracted meeting will be worth while. If one mislead, unguided sinner hears a sermon that goes with him through the year, the meeting will have accomplished a great good.

Two adjoining spaces, in the center of the north side of the square and fronting the Montgomery Cafe, have been reserved solely for motor busses, according to terms of an ordinance passed by the city council.

QUALITY MERCHANDISE

1-MINUTE SAFETY TALKS

By Don Herold

Don't Be A Statistic

We can read that 36,800 people have been killed by an earthquake in Japan, and it doesn't make as much of an impression on us as mashing our own finger in a screen door.

We read that 36,800 people were killed, and 967,840 injured in automobile accidents last year, and it isn't so very impressive or depressing, because they are fairly well scattered and remote. Just a lot of people we don't care about.

There is nothing much in such figures to stir us emotionally to fear or caution or to a resolution to drive with exceeding care, ourselves.

Nature, darn her, blesses and curses us with a feeling that WE are going to be exceptions. It takes an unusually intelligent man to read statistics and say: "I'm just as liable to trouble as one of these 967,840. I'd better watch out, or I'll be a statistic, myself, someday."

I mean to make you cringe. I mean to make you hurt a little when you read these automobile accident figures issued by The Travelers Insurance Company. I mean to make you subject yourself momentarily to the painful process of imagining one of those 36,800 or 967,840 to be your own child.

Then multiply that wave of anguish by 36,800 or 967,840. Every one of those bleak human units was a precious bit of life to someone. What a major national calamity our automobile toll is when we consider it in this light!

Why try to get home a half hour sooner on Sunday night, why attempt to add 25 miles to your day's trip, why go 70 or 80 miles an hour, just for the fun of it, when you should be doing 50 or 40—when the gamble is with life as precious as the life of that youngster in your own back seat or that somebody else's youngster chasing a rubber ball into the street, or even the life of a fairly cheap adult?

When you read these accident statistics, remember you are not reading of toothpicks or matches; you're reading of 36,800 times your own little Bill or Mary or John or Anna.

Entertainment numbers in the form of piano solos were given by Nell Verna LeMond. Lions were extended a cordial invitation to visit the local government professional and service projects, on which open house dates are being held this week.
