

Life is a cruel thing (sometimes). Miko had been faithful to his favorite mail order house for years, yet when his home burned and it was necessary to take a collection to help out, not a cent for the kids more clothes did his mail order house send—no new overalls for Miko, no cooking utensils, blankets or house dresses for Mrs. Miko. Miko learned his lesson.

Vehicle Owners Must Have Titles And 1945 Receipt

The Motor Vehicle Division of the Texas Highway Department this week urges Scurry countians and all Texas motor vehicle owners to see that the titles for vehicles to be registered in 1946 are in order. The law provides that before a vehicle may be registered, the owner must present to the Tax Collector the prior year's registration receipt and must have a title.

Many people do not understand the importance and value of the Title Act, and do not realize that the "Certificate of Title Act" was passed to improve the validity of titles on motor vehicles thereby making such title comparable to an abstract on real estate.

Motor vehicle owners who have acquired used vehicles, and who have received assigned titles from the previous owners, are urged to apply at once for their titles in order that the transactions may be recorded and the new owners shown on the title records of the department. Motor vehicle owners are also urged to register their equipment by purchasing the 1946 license plates as soon as possible. It is a common practice throughout the state for owners to wait until the last week in March, thereby creating congested conditions and long lines of applicants in the various tax collector's offices. The county tax collectors are experiencing difficulty in obtaining temporary help, and you will be helping them and yourselves by obtaining 1946 license plates during February or in the first part of March and not waiting until the last day or days.

There are some persons operating motor vehicles with out-of-state license plates who may legally operate under 1946 out-of-state license plates, and these persons are cautioned to obtain such 1946 plates and apply same on or before the expiration of their present plates.

All artists of Scurry and other counties in WTCO territory are eligible to exhibit works of art in the forthcoming art show. Exhibits will be on display at the Fort Worth Public Library during the stock show week, March 8-17.

All three of the men chose the Army Air Force as their branch of service and the European theater for the overseas service.

J. O. Sheid Jr., New Employee at Times

J. O. (Go) Sheid Jr. began work Friday, February 22, as an apprentice printer for the Scurry County Times under the G. I. Bill of Rights. He has recently received his honorable discharge from the Army after serving overseas for 26 months.

Sheid was a sergeant in the medical detachment of the Infantry and served in Brisbane, Australia, New Guinea, the Philippine Islands and in Japan. He was wounded at Jolo Island in the Philippines while evacuating wounded soldiers to the back line. His job was to pick up wounded soldiers, administer first aid, including blood plasma, and take them to safety behind the line.

Before enlisting in the Army in June 1942, Sheid worked as leadman for Consolidated Aircraft in Fort Worth for about a year. He was in Japan at the time peace was declared and came back to the United States on the same boat with L. A. Sellers and Martin Cochran of Snyder. He plans to make a career of the printing business.

Dr. H. G. Towle Re-elected President Of Texas State Optometry Board

DR. H. G. TOWLE

In their annual electoral meeting held in Ft. Worth last week, optometrists of the state re-elected to the office of president their Snyder representative, Mayor H. G. Towle, conferring on him the honor for his splendid work in the organization the past year.

As president in the past, the downstate dailies report, Mayor Towle's interest in furthering specialized work in the optometry field, and efficiency in guiding the destiny of the group to many progressive advancements, influenced the vote to be heavy for his return to the post. He is recognized in his field as a top-ranker, and gives much of his time not only to its promotion locally but devotes much energy to the state work.

In a short interview just prior to his departure for the Big Bend country, where he has a 125-section ranch, the mayor intimated that he was presently interested in making many improvements on his holdings near the border, chiefly concerned in making a substantial increase in available water on his range for running cattle more efficiently. Definite return date was not given, but probably several days would be spent in looking after the ranch's needs.

In regard to accepting the post as mayor of Snyder for another year, a subject of interest to the entire mature population of the city each year as city election time approaches, Dr. Towle made little comment. Private interests and the responsibilities of his state optometry post may have been energy-consuming, time-demanding work that caused him to have little time or thought for elections or other details that could rest until more opportune moments.

Current comment on local politics appears light, with only a few competitive races to be decided, but the mayor's record of hard work plus the accomplishments made for the city in several projects could be a determining factor on the part of the general public. With a feeling that others here may owe some of their time, energy and thought to the none-remunerative post as mayor, and that any man may be imposed upon and overtaxed with responsibilities to his home town to the extent of over-payment, with a surplus of thanks due from the public for that hard work, may have some bearing in bringing into existence a sentiment of hesitation in asking him to serve again. Many people take the attitude that sacrificing time to this thankless job belongs not to one man, but to any and all eligible and capable of taking over the responsibilities.

Mrs. N. B. Moore Injured In Fall

Mrs. N. B. Moore, well-known Snyder woman in her seventies, sustained a broken right heel and bruises over much of her body Tuesday when she fell down the north steps of the Scurry County courthouse.

Mrs. Moore, who is 77, was taken to a local hospital for treatment. The beloved Snyder woman was reported to be resting well Wednesday. She will have to remain in the hospital for several days.

President Lauds FFA 4-H Club Training as Best

HUGH TAYLOR President of the Scurry County Junior Livestock Association.

(Editor's Note: In response to a request from The Times for a few words pertaining to the Scurry County Second Annual Fat Stock Show, Mr. Hugh Taylor, president of the association, has written to extend an invitation to everyone to attend the show. We wish to thank him for his timely article.)

"It is time for the 4H and FFA show again. You can see the finished products of months of work by these boys and girls when you visit the show next Saturday and then you can decide for yourself if it is a worthwhile project.

"The fundamental principle of the club is to teach them honesty, fairness and loyalty, which is the keynote to anyone's success in life. They also may learn a profession which might become their life work, and at the same time acquire a large circle of friends, not only in the county and community in which they live, but also in other counties and towns several hundred miles away.

"In the 4H and FFA you will find boys and girls just in the teen-age who have their own bank accounts and can take care of business just as if they were grown-up. These clubs also help you eliminate the smart-aleck stage that we have all been guilty of. Besides keeping the boys and girls at home, these organizations produce thousands of pounds of meat for the table.

"So let's all turn out for the show and make it second to none.

Leaders Secured For Cub Scouts Of 1 Pack, 5 Dens

Mr. E. L. Farr announces that his Cub Pack Committee has secured the following Cub leadership to start the reorganization of Cub Pack No. 7.

Rev. Earl Creswell has accepted the position of Cub Master. The following ladies have accepted the positions of Den Mothers: Mrs. Silas Devenport, 2611 Ave. X; Mrs. J. D. Halpain, 2307 Ave. I; Mrs. O. B. Wilson, 1600 27th St.; Mrs. G. P. Fisher, 1511 Ave. S; Mrs. Arthur M. Roberts, 2411 Ave. L.

You will notice that these Den Mothers are scattered in the different sections of Snyder. The idea is for the boys of 9, 10 and 11 years of age who want to be Cubs to see the Den Mothers nearest his own home and ask her about joining her den. Each den should have not more than 8 members and as the dens fill up additional den mothers will be sought by the pack committee.

Mr. Roy Thruston, commissioner of scouting, will segregate the application cards of boys who have turned them in to him and turn the cards of the boys who live in each section of the town over to the den mother in that section, nearest to the boy's home address. Boys who want to be Cubs are invited to call on the den mother nearest to them and let the den mother know that they want to be members of her den.

A. Blackowl, Full Blood Indian Gives Program at School

One of the entertainment treats of recent weeks for Snyder High School students was offered Monday when A. Blackowl gave an unusual program in assembly.

Blackowl, a full-blooded Indian, had with him his wife, Faith Blackowl, and his youngest son, Ollie. Program given Snyder School students included several tribal dances—some of which were the war dance and the post-war dance. Several songs were sung in his tribal tongue and Blackowl told a story using sign language.

Blackowl was born in Oklahoma, where his permanent home is now. He has four children, one girl and three boys. All the children are attending school at Lawton, Okla.

Liquor Fines To Court Action for Week in Snyder

Collection of three fines and court costs for illegal possession of liquor, return of a prisoner here from Wichita Falls on a check forgery charge and filing of two charges each against two negroes for gambling kept the sheriff's department busy this week.

Sheriff Earl Sheriff reports Anderson Davis Jr. paid a fine and court costs Monday for illegal possession of liquor. Tuesday, Anderson Davis Jr. paid a fine and court costs for illegal possession of liquor.

Sheriff Strawn returned here Wednesday afternoon from Wichita Falls with Charley Tennard, who is wanted here on a check forgery charge. Tennard is alleged to have forged checks last fall on J. M. Boothe.

The sheriff also picked up two colored boys, and two charges, each, of gambling, were filed against Floyd Wellington and E. J. Ford.

Two Snyder Horses Will Contest World For Cutting Horse Honors

Two high-favorite cutting horses that will be entered in the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show, March 8 to 18, bred and raised by Dewey Everett of Snyder. Since the Fort Worth Show is now eligible to award world championships, this County apparently will be safely represented in the cutting horse contest, probably against horses from a number of nations.

Top picture is Trusky, three-year-old three-quarter thoroughbred and one-quarter quarterhorse, sired by Will Rogers and a grandson of Government-owned General Grant. General Grant set the track record at Washington Park for 5 1/2 furlongs. He has already slipped under a $1500 offer of sale to retain his ownership, Jesse Everett, son of Dewey.

In the lower picture is Warsaw, well known to horse lovers throughout this section of West Texas. He is half thoroughbred and half quarterhorse, and may come in for some honors at the Fort Worth exhibition. Warsaw is also sired by General Grant, and as well as Trusky, has been the subject of some high offers for purchase.

Both horses will be ridden by Milton Bennett in the Fort Worth show.

Annual Red Cross Drive Gets Off To Good Start, 3 Communities Go Over

Annual Scurry County Red Cross Membership Drive got under way here Monday morning, with three rural communities over the top well before the campaign officially got under way.

Orchids for putting rural communities over the top ahead of the drive go to:

Mrs. Owen Miller, chairman and chief collector in the Arth community, who not only accepted the responsibility very graciously but completed her job in grand style. Arth went over the top more than a week ahead of the official Red Cross membership campaign.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Glass of the Turner community were responsible for Turner going over the top before the February opening.

Mrs. J. O. (Bill) Hudnall, Camp Springs-Midway community, who completed campaign for these communities, was well ahead of schedule.

Not only in Snyder, but over the county, Red Cross workers were on the job Monday to take advantage of opening day contributions.

N. T. Underwood, county Red Cross membership drive chief, reports good response to the drive.

NEED A HOUSE YOU MIGHT TRY THIS

If you don't think Snyder's housing situation is critical, witness this incident which happened this week: One enterprising person was so anxious to find a place to live that advance rent money was put up on a house that is yet to be built!

Welcome Mat Out For Show Visitors

With local interest in the Second Annual Junior Fat Stock Show of Scurry County pointing to the probability that many people will already be waiting for entrance early Saturday morning, March 2, officials have taken every precaution to have details arranged so that the exhibition will be in full swing from the moment of opening.

Hugh Taylor, president of the Junior Livestock Association, pointed out to Times representatives that interest in the welfare of all animals and the show in general had been so great this year by the population of this area that an attendance record would likely exceed that which had been hoped for. "I am convinced," Taylor remarked, "that Scurry County people are so pleased with the show's prospects, and appreciative of their boys' and girls' enthusiasm and work that support will not be wanting in any direction you can turn."

Not one detail of the show, Taylor stated further, has been overlooked to mar the event. All prizes money is ready, ribbons have been delivered to officials for the prize

The Times wanted to run pictures of all the officials of the Junior Livestock Association as well as those of FFA and 4-H Club officials, but some of the pictures failed to arrive before press time.

The event's further success is guaranteed to a positive degree by current comment among those who will swarm the auction block to purchase the animals.

Responding as fully to the publicity angles, many of the show people, boosters, interested individuals, club boys, and school departmental instructors have furnished special articles for the Times Show Edition. The Times asked for instructive material from various ones, and owes thanks to them for their fine cooperation.

Prize list for the show, previously printed but reproduced for the convenience of readers and show visitors, follows:

CARD OF THANKS We want to thank our many friends and church people and neighbors who have so generously shown their good deeds of kindness and gifts in many ways since the operation of my wife. May the blessings of Our Lord be showered on each of you, is our prayer. Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Roberts.

CARD OF THANKS We want to express our deepest appreciation to our many kind friends. All good and perfect gifts are from above and we receive them by the hand of love. It is not only just the things that you give, but knowing that among such good people we live, and that when our troubles are pressing hard we find great comfort in knowing you are there. We will always remember, with love in our hearts, the many deeds of kindness you showed and helped us bear our sorrow in the loss of our beloved husband and father, A. P. Gannaway. We pray, now, that the arm of love will encircle you with the great blessings you ever knew and may these blessings never cease.—Mrs. A. P. Gannaway and family.

Sec. Agriculture Advocates Food Subsidy Control

Scurry County's 14,000 people are a little "up in the air" this week over announcement that Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Anderson will advocate, relentlessly, that Congress continue wartime food subsidies and price controls beyond their June 30 expiration date.

Anderson, as Scurry and Borden County stockmen remember, advocated last fall that subsidies should expire on June 30 of this year. He has now changed his mind and switched to a stringent advocacy of food subsidies and price controls.

It is significant for taxpayers to note that food subsidies are costing the government more than $1,700,000 a year.

The cabinet officer outlined his new stand in a speech prepared for a meeting of the National Canners Association.

"We have in the department," Anderson said, "looked for the ending of all price ceilings and subsidies this coming June because it appeared—from prospects last fall—that there might be small declines in the level of food prices and the whole cost of living.

Now, however, the secretary said, it appears that the department "underestimated the tremendous demand for food, and the great buying power in the hands of workers, returning veterans and others."

He added that the danger of inflation has become so great that he feels that it is necessary to maintain both price controls and subsidies.

But he said his department's policy "has been and will continue to be directed toward eliminating

1946 License Plates Prove A Slow Sale

Remember those brand-new 1946 license plates the Scurry County tax assessor-collector's office got in recently?

Well, since they went on sale they have been moving slowly, but with the April 1 deadline not too far away sales on some are slated to pick up sharply during the next two weeks.

To date, the assessor-collector's office has issued only about 100 passenger license plates, and 10 licenses for trucks.

As in the previous year, Edgar Taylor, county tax assessor-collector, reports, each vehicle will carry only one plate.

The 1946 plates are composed of ivory numerals on a black background.

wartime controls just as soon as it can be done without jeopardizing economic balance, without contributing to inflation."

Anderson told the canners, themselves large users of sugar, that the commodity will continue to be a problem throughout 1946. He said it now appears that gradual improvement is in-sight, and he promised that rationing and other controls will be loosened as supplies warrant.

"Brighter sugar days are ahead and we'll begin to see the effect by the time the 1946 fruit pack begins," he said.

Anderson told the canners that if Congress does not provide authority for subsidies on this year's pack of vegetables, their ceilings will be increased by the amount of the subsidy.

O. L. Ward and family of New Mexico were visitors in Snyder over the week-end.

Former VA Teacher Praises Club Work As Builder of Better Quality

By BUFORD BROWNING, Former Vocational Agriculture Teacher in Snyder High School. It is thought by most men that club work is mainly feeding out a few calves, pigs and lambs. The father feels like he is out a lot of money and trouble just to give a boy a club program. He doesn't realize what the real value of a club program is to the boy.

The business man doesn't feel like he is repaid for his $5.00 Junior Livestock Association membership fee or for the money he loses on a club animal purchased on Sales Day.

The business man or farmer who backs the club boy gets far more out of their program than a little advertising he may get by his name appearing in a paper or on the list that a few people might see.

It has been my privilege to work with club boys since the early thirties. From observing the work of boys I can readily realize that the communities, county or state benefits far more from the boy program than the boy does from what has given him in prize money, premium on sale or effort put into the program by men.

Following 1934 there were very few boys left in Scurry County. There were practically no good hogs in the county. Club boys being interested in winning in the show ring got out and purchased good breeding stock. Within a few years many farmers were killing desirable meat instead of fat gobber hogs. Much of the old breeding stock is in the hands of farmers not knowing that they originated from club stock. The club boys of this county are still leading the county in the improvement of hogs.

Boys have improved quality of seed in the county by getting a few good planting seed and selling the seed raised for planting.

The boys of the county have not had enough time to do constructive improvement in cattle. They have only had time to feed out and develop a few cattle raised by the breeders of the county and demonstrate to people of other sections of the country what type of cattle we have here in Scurry County. If the men of the county will continue to back the boys, and I think they will, the boys will give the county more advertising than it has had through its history. Our shows and sales could develop into an excellent breeding animal sales along with the club sales.

A boys program, if properly supervised, is more than just a show program. It should be an improvement breeding program that will make young practical farmers and ranchers.

Pyron HD Club Met In A. O. Seals Home

Fruit trees planted from seed derived from a good variety of fruit make the best trees for starting a new orchard. Mrs. A. O. Seals told members of the Pyron Home Demonstration Club at its meeting at her home Feb. 21. She has recently started an 110-tree orchard in this manner.

Ideas for new homes and the remodeling of old ones were also discussed. Miss Rabel said that the foundation of a new home is one of the chief considerations, as the home is no better than its foundation. It should also have ample ventilation to eliminate the musty smell a house often has after being closed for a time, she said.

Those attending the meeting were: Mesdames O. C. Hess, J. W. Hess, J. C. Stahl, C. H. Stahl, E. M. Grindstaff, and one visitor, Mrs. V. D. Seals of Roscoe.

End For Static Electricity In Scurry County Near, F. E. Lichte Predicts

The end may be in sight for static electricity in gins located in Scurry and other counties of the state. The Times was informed Wednesday by F. E. Lichte cotton gin specialist of Texas A. and M. College Extension Service.

When both cotton and air are very dry static electricity is generated by the movement of cotton through the gin. In many West Texas points Lichte says static is often so bad as to force gins to stop work for several days at a time. Even if the gins can operate the line cotton is often so fluffy and resilient when it goes into the press that it is impossible to put out a bale of standard weight. Such cotton is penalized by the buyer.

The problem has been investigated by the U. S. Cotton Ginning Laboratory at Stoneville Miss., and preliminary tests indicate that a fine mist of water and sulphurated oil may be the answer. The mist, when sprayed on the cotton as it goes through the gin, has permitted both continuous operation and compression of bales to standard weight. Lichte, who helped install the equipment for tests in several gins in Arizona New Mexico and Texas, believes the mist will also result in an improved job of ginning. Further tests are being conducted under supervision of the Stoneville Laboratory.

RED CROSS ASKS KNITTING AND SEWING ASSISTANCE

Women who can assist the local Red Cross in knitting or sewing are badly needed, according to Mrs. Farr, production chairman of the local chapter, who reports that a large quota of sweaters remains unknitted at the present time and 120 children's unlined capes must be completed by March 31.

The production room at the Red Cross building is open every weekday through Friday from 9 to 5 o'clock and Saturdays until 12 o'clock. All women who can help with this work will be welcome, Mrs. Farr says.

Rare Species Of Cattle at El Paso Fat Stock Show

EL PASO—A rare species of cattle, the Brahma blended breed, has been entered in the Southwestern Livestock Show, it was announced today by E. Jay Dittmer, general manager. The Brahma blended breed is half Brahma, quarter Durham and quarter Hereford. The animal is characterized chiefly by its rapid increase in weight. Another characteristic is its color, which is of a crazy-quilt variety.

John H. Laxson, of Van Horn, Texas, is the exhibitor. He is a newcomer to the southwest, and he is trying to interest southwestern ranchers in this breed.

The Southwestern Livestock Show will open March 26 in the Coliseum buildings in El Paso and continue through March 31. About 2,000 entries are expected, and total premiums have been increased to about $12,000. Last year there were 704 entries, with $2,200 in premiums.

The Southwestern Livestock Show comes of age this year. For the first time, national cattle-breeding organizations will participate, and space is being provided for 540 major beef breed exhibits. George W. Barnes, of College Station, Texas, will be superintendent of the breeding cattle divisions.

About 400 entries are expected in the junior divisions, which will comprise fat calves, breeding sheep, fat lambs and swine. Members of the Future Farmers of America and 4-H club boys from all over the Southwest will participate. A feature of the junior division will be the immediate payment of premiums after the judging. J. W. (Tex) Condon of Los Angeles will be the auctioneer at the sale of 4-H and FFA prize-winning animals.

In addition there will be exhibits of registered Quarter Horses, Palominos, rabbits and poultry. The Southwestern Championship Rodeo will be held in conjunction with the livestock show.

10,000 Acres Land Ready for Planting In Scurry County

Gardening time for Scurry County has arrived to a considerable extent and farming operations are getting into "high gear" this week as sunshine causes farmers to be going early and late with bedding and flat-breaking operations.

At least 10,000 acres of county farmland has been put in shape for the 1946 planting season and a nice amount of acreage has been turned by mold board and disc plows.

Farming operations will get into "high gear" more so than ever during the next 30 days, for some land is yet described as "full wet" to put up. Winter wheat, oats and barley is reported to be making rapid headway, and livestock has been run on such pasturage for several weeks. Scurry County's moisture supply is said to be the best in any winter since 1932, and range land, with few exceptions in western Scurry, is in good condition.

DESSERT NEWS! DECORATIVE "OPEN-FACE" PEAR PIE!

Here's a dessert that's new, festive, delicious! A dessert that brings high praise for surprisingly little work! A party dessert that takes only one cup sugar!

To make it, first of all you need luscious big Anjou or Comice pears. You'll find these varieties in most markets now. Both have green to creamy-yellow skins. Both are semi-heart shaped, although Comice are usually somewhat larger than Anjou. Both, when ripe, are wonderfully juicy, full-flavored and tender.

For this pie and other cooked desserts, slightly under-ripe fruit may be used, since heat completes the ripening cycle. But for salads and all fresh eating, pears must be ripe. The only way to judge ripeness is to feel a pear gently. If it yields, it's ripe, regardless of skin color. If under-ripe, simply hold pears in room temperature (60 to 70° F.) until they respond to the "touch test." Keep only ripe pears in the refrigerator.

This party dessert is only one of many delectable kinds of pear pie. You can use fresh winter pears the same as apples, you know—in regular two-crust pie, deep-dish pie, or French crust pie. Only, you can use a little less sugar for pear pies, because pears are rich in levulose, a sugar that tastes extra sweet.

Now, try this easy taste-tested recipe.

OPEN-FACE PEAR PIE

4 large Anjou or Comice pears
1 tsp lemon juice
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup cornstarch
1/2 tsp salt
1 egg
2 tbsps. butter

or fortified margarine
1 tsp lemon extract
1/2 cup shredded coconut, if available
8 maraschino cherries
1 nine-inch baked pie shell
1/2 whipping cream

Peel, core and halve pears. Simmer with lemon, sugar and water, about 10 minutes, until pears are tender. Drain off 3 cups syrup. Stir hot syrup into cornstarch and salt. Add cherry juice and cook over direct heat, stirring constantly, about 10 minutes, or until sauce begins to thicken. Cook over boiling water about 15 minutes longer, stirring frequently, until very thick and clear. Remove from heat and add butter and lemon extract. Cool slightly. Add coconut, if used. Pour into cooled baked pie shell. Arrange drained pear halves, round side down, on top of filling. Place one pear half in center of pie and arrange others in circle around edges. Fill each pear half with cherry. Chill. Serve with sweetened whipped cream. Serves 6 to 8.

28th Annual Bible Lectureship OF ACC Ends Thursday With Plans for Future

Drawing to a close this afternoon after five days of what reports term the most successful meeting held since the organization in 1918, the 28th annual Bible Lectureship of Abilene Christian College has had down plans for future achievements and a schedule that would lead to advancement in the nationwide work coming under the body's direction.

The five-day program opened Sunday morning with some of the most prominent lecturers and speakers in the nation on the list of the three-program daily series. R. C. Bell, a member of the Bible faculty for ACC for the past 25 years, opened the Sunday program series, speaking on the general theme, "Things That Cannot Be Shaken."

In viewing a report relayed to The Times from Abilene, giving also the names of hundreds of visitors from the entire nation and Canada, the country has been well represented, with a heavy attendance from this section of Texas.

The annual general meeting of the college trustees, so an Abilene news source says, will be held during the five-day gathering, with J. B. Collins, chairman of the board, on hand to take part in the session.

Rev. and Mrs. Clifton Rogers left here Monday morning to attend the remainder of the sessions, probably returning to Snyder today.

Monday at noon Rev. and Mrs. Raymond Keley, of Lubbock, were through Snyder en route to Abilene for the meeting. Rev. Keley was for three years pastor of the local Church of Christ, and is well known to most Snyder people.

Since organization, the Lectureship has missed meeting only one time—the year 1945. Some plans were made during this meet for the 1947 gathering of the church group.

Location of the new Birdwell plant is given as one-half block west of the Sweetwater Livestock Auction Co. Distribution of products for this territory is now being planned.

Mrs. Opal Stephens Announces for Clerk Of Borden County

Mrs. Opal Stephens, of Gail, informed a representative of The Times the first of the week that she would enter the race in Borden County for county and district clerk.

In discussing her candidacy, Mrs. Stephens says she will have a formal announcement in all Borden County voters at a later date, placing before the people her qualifications and experience with reference to handling the duties of the office she is seeking.

Silver Star

"For gallantry in action near Steinfeld, Germany, on 22 March, 1945. When he and his squad were suddenly pinned down in open terrain supplying scant cover, Sergeant Barron, realizing the intensity of their position and fully cognizant of the danger to himself, rose and ran diagonally away from his unit drawing the enemy machine gun fire to himself. In so doing he was fatally wounded, yet the members of his squad were able to use the interval to secure more protected positions. Sergeant Barron's gallant and heroic sacrifice reflect credit on himself and is in keeping with the highest military traditions."

"The decoration will be forwarded to the commanding general, Eighth Service Command, Dallas, Texas, who will present it to you.

"My deepest sympathy is extended to you in your bereavement."

Sincerely yours,
"Edward F. Nissell,
"Major General,
"Acting for Adjutant General."

Annual Scholastic Census Time Here

Attention of every Scurry County citizen is directed this week to the fact that Friday, March 1, will mark the beginning of the country's annual scholastic census enumeration.

Mrs. Gaston Brock, county superintendent, urges Scurry citizens to show census enumerators wholehearted co-operation in listing all boys and girls within the scholastic census age.

People, especially, who have children that will be six years of age by September 1, are urgently requested to see that no children are missed.

People in the county's various school districts can see their teachers, or school superintendent's, to make sure proper enumeration is made.

Scurry County's scholastic census must be completed by March 31.

started forward with his gun and vehicle; upon reaching a forward position he found his advance blocked. He ordered his men to dismount and took them to a covered position. When it seemed safe enough, he and his men returned and prepared to leave. Upon checking the men he realized two were missing and returned to find them. He was leading them back to safety when he was fired upon by an enemy rifle man. He was seriously wounded and before any aid could be given him he died. He gave his own life to save two of his men and for that was awarded the Silver Star.

"Our unit had been called upon to perform a very important mission. I believe the whole nation was waiting for the news—we were to "crack" the famed "Seigfried Line."

Eisenhower To Be Guest at A. & M. College on Easter

General Dwight D. Eisenhower will be honor guest of the Texas A. and M. College Victory Homecoming and Muster on Easter Sunday, April 21, barring any "unexpected interruptions of schedule," he wrote President Gilchrist this week.

The chief of staff's acceptance was the result of a personal invitation to General Eisenhower delivered by President Gilchrist on a recent visit to Washington. After his return to the college, President Gilchrist wrote confirming the invitation, and General Eisenhower's reply was: "I will certainly do my best to get there," and he authorized announcement of his intentions.

The Victory Homecoming celebration will begin April 19 and will be climaxed by the annual Aggie San Jacinto Day muster at a sunrise service in Kyle Field stadium.

Points On Last Year and This Year FFA Show

By DONNIE EVERETT, Student Snyder High School

Saturday will be a great day for the FFA boys and the 4-H Club boys and girls throughout Scurry County. Saturday will be the day for the second annual Scurry County 4-H Club and FFA Livestock Show. Last year's show included breeding animals, as well as fat stock; however, this year's show will include fat stock only as the breeding show was held back in October.

There were 78 fat stock entered at last year's show, with a great deal of keen competition. There are approximately 100 fat stock entries for this year's show. This year's show will be composed of fat calves, sheep and barrows.

Last year there was much difficulty in selling all the animals at the show, because of the weather and also the system that the animals were sold. But this year the system of auctioning of the animals has been worked out as follows:

Grand champion calf will be sold first.
Grand champion lamb next.
Grand champion hog next.
Reserve grand champion calf.
Reserve grand champion lamb.
Reserve grand champion barrow.

Then first place animals and so on down the line until all animals are auctioned off.

A swell show is expected and a keen interest has been stirred up by previous shows. With the much appreciated help of the Scurry County Junior Livestock Association, Chamber of Commerce, and of the business men of Snyder this will be an affair that will not soon be forgotten. Boys and girls will come from all sections of Scurry County down here with their fat animals to show. They have worked hard to fix their animals for the show.

Other guests were: Mesdames Bessie Ramage, Zed Randolph, F. C. Houston and Misses Bobbie Jean White and Syble Ramage.

Local Methodists To Be Host for District Conference

Attendance at the Sweetwater District Conference of the Methodist Church will be held with Snyder's Methodist Church April 24, is expected to reach from 200 to 300 persons.

So reports Rev. O. B. Herring, pastor of Snyder's Methodist Church, in a message to Snyder congregation members. Dr. C. A. Long of Sweetwater is district superintendent.

Specials on the day's program have not yet been worked out, but reports of more than 30 pastors will be made at the convocate. Applicants for license to preach and recommendation to the annual conference for admission will be on the agenda.

Thirty pastoral charges will each send a lay delegate, as well as Sunday School superintendents, presidents of missionary societies and young people's workers.

A sermon by a minister yet to be named will be the highlight of the inspirational messages during the conference sessions.

LEONARD STEPHENS, S/2, HERE ON FURLOUGH
In the U. S. Navy 13 months, S-2e Leonard Stephens, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Stephens, is scheduled to have a mighty interesting experience when he sails with the Fleet again, for he doubtless will be "in" on the forthcoming 100,000,000 atomic bomb experiment in May.

Leonard is here on an eight-day furlough, and will report back to Bremerton, Wash., on March 3.

Leonard is attached to the U. S. S. Pennsylvania, and the first scheduled stop of this ship will be in the Pacific, at a group of islands in which fighting was bitter during the war years.

Browning Gives Credit For Show's Success to Adult Leaders and Boys

BY J. L. BROWNING
Vocational Agriculture Teacher,
Snyder Public School, To Whom
The Success of Our FFA and 4-H Club Show Must Go.

As the boiling point of the Scurry County Junior Fat Stock Show nears I feel it my duty to express my appreciation to the Junior Live Stock Association, business men of Snyder, farmers, ranchers, and all who are helping put the show over in such a big way. I know this is only the second annual show but one, at a glance, can see that there is county-wide support. That is what it takes to have a good show.

The boys of the county have worked hard with their animals and are showing lots of ability as feeders. These boys are certainly entitled to their part of the credit for making this a big show. However, without the help of the ranchers of Scurry county, the boys would not have had the fine calves and lambs to feed. Nor would they have had the benefit of some very good advice. Certainly the boys would not have had the good interest shown by the ranchers who have visited the boys and given them encouragement from time to time. Without encouragement we find ourselves letting down when the going gets tough. The going gets tough for these boys often when they have to get up early or work late at night feeding their animals and giving them the care they have received.

The farmers of the county, too, have contributed their part to the show. They have produced feed for the animals. They have also produced some of the hogs that will be shown Saturday. A large part of our sheep were produced on farms of this county. To a large extent the animals that are being fed are fed by farm boys. Certainly the boys would not have accomplished these things if they had not their father's and mother's backing.

A large amount of the success of the show should go to the business men. They are the men who are behind the men who produce agricultural products. They are the men who dig down in their pockets to furnish premium money and buy the animals that will be exhibited. To the business men I say, "stay behind the boys and they will be the men of tomorrow" who will make Scurry County more productive.

To the Junior Livestock Association I take a bow. An organization like yours is what makes shows and anything which you back go over in grand style. So I say, give young Americans backing like you are giving and they will go far.

Mexican Officials Disfavor States Request for Labor

Scurry County's 1,350 farmers were quite disturbed today (Thursday) when the Mexican Government announced that it looks with disfavor upon reported U. S. requests for more laborers from points south of the border.

Each fall, Scurry county depends upon a minimum of 2,000 Mexican harvest hands to help gather the county's cotton crop. Destiny of the farmer is so interwoven with availability of Latin-American harvest help that no immediate substitute to such aid is in sight.

Labor department sources in Mexico City mentioned these objections to continuation of the war-time workers' exodus to the north:

Mexico needs the workers here for her industrialization program. Recently the "sports city" under construction here was unable to hire sufficient workers at $2 daily.

In past years many farmers abandoned their fields to go to the United States, thus accentuating a food shortage here.

Returning workers have complained of discrimination against Mexicans and of "bad treatment" in the United States.

During the strike wave in the United States, Mexicans might be considered strike breakers.

Tested Seed Is Good Investment Says Aggie Commissioner

This spring farmers will plant in Texas soil seed valued at several million dollars, J. E. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture, said in a statement warning farmers to select their 1946 seed stocks with caution.

"Don't buy seed because it's cheap or 'just as good,'" he said, buy seed that has been tested by a recognized seed testing laboratory or a reputable seedman and tagged with a Texas germination tag.

To see a poor stand of cotton, corn, peas, or other crops because the planter "saved money" buying seed of unknown quality is a pathetic sight, declared the commissioner. The farmer has lost his seed money, his time, and a full year's income because someone tried to save a dollar on seed stocks. Good seed, he continued, means increased income for our farm families, merchants, and the community in which we live.

Mr. McDonald pointed out that a good portion of the state's two hundred and nineteen million pounds of planting seed, samples of which were tested in the state seed laboratories last season, produced for Texas farmers in 1945 an agricultural income of approximately nine hundred million dollars.

Twenty-nine million acres of Texas farm lands were planted to more than fifty cash crops, Mr. McDonald said.

MOVE OVER BROTHER

With spring, officially, just around the corner, and some of these "lazy days" arriving, one enterprising citizen wanted to know this week what a cure for "fishing fever" was under this condition.

When a person gets to dreaming during a noon nap, of a shady spot along a creek bank, with three or four lines baited, a slab of bacon, fresh coffee and "Dutch Oven" biscuits in reserve, what cure could be permanent?

Answer: Just a little more room, partner, for some friends!

Humble To Award Prizes For Texas Art of Oil Scenes

Snyder and Scurry County artists will be considerably interested in announcement from Loren Mosley, president, Texas Fine Arts Exhibit, that Humble Oil and Refining Company established two $500 purchase prizes—one to be awarded for a work of art to be shown at the state exhibit in the Spring and the other to be awarded at the Texas General Exhibit in the fall.

Establishment of the prizes, according to the Humble Company, has as its purpose the encouragement of artistic talent and the reward of merit. Works purchased under the awards may be reproduced in "The Humble Way," a magazine with approximately 25,000 readers.

All works of art admitted to the exhibits, Mosley said, are eligible to compete for the awards except sculpture and ceramics. He pointed out that the Humble Company has allowed artists wide leeway in the selection of subject matter, specifying only that pictures must deal with some aspect of "oil country" scenes or life. The awards, he explained, may be made for single paintings, or for groups of paintings or prints, as determined by a selection committee, which may withhold either award if, in its judgment, no works of adequate merit are presented for consideration.

A farmer's poultry show will be held at Roby, Texas, February 28, it is reported.

How's Business?

SPRING OUTLOOK

By Roger W. Babson

Nineteen forty-six may be the gateway to the biggest business boom in the history of the United States. The total bank deposits of our country are $138,000,000,000; money in circulation is $28,000,000,000, and, in addition, our banks hold $120,000,000,000 worth of government bonds. This totals to the astronomical figure of $286,000,000,000 of liquid funds. What would happen if flood gates of this vast reservoir of purchasing power were thrown open? Staggering one's imagination. In addition to our accumulated pent-up domestic demand, there is a heavy foreign demand for American goods.

On the supply side, there is a scarcity of consumer goods due to four years of war production, and now reconversion is being delayed by strikes and other labor troubles. The scarcity of goods, plus an abundance of money, is fanning the flames of inflation. The Administration policy of holding the line is weakening under the strain of wage demands. If control over prices are wholly removed we could have an inflationary period equal to the one we had in the late 20's; but they will not be wholly removed. We now face the first full year of peace for four years. Fundamentally peace is bullish. Peace is constructive; war is destructive. Nominally what our present difficulties may be, 1946 is flashing the green light to business.

Texas Electric's $8,000,000 Construction Program Gives Snyder-Enlarged Power Plant Insuring Better Service

Announcement of an $8,000,000 program of power plant and power line construction by Texas Electric Service Company has been made by J. B. Thomas, president and general manager. Snyder comes in for its share of this construction program with an additional engine at the Snyder Power Plant, enlargement of the power plant and switchboard, and other construction work already under way which will increase the capacity of the local plant and result in improved electric service. C. T. Couch has been employed as full-time operator of the power plant and is now on the job. He lives at 2904 Avenue U. Wayne Thomas, serviceman, recently joined the organization, and lives at 1408 25th Street.

Other construction which will add to the dependability of electric service in Snyder will be the installation of an automatic re-closing switch at the substation west of Sweetwater which feeds power into the transmission line between Sweetwater and Snyder. This automatic switch is of the latest type, and will reduce interruptions to electric service and shorten their duration when they occur.

"Additions and improvements will be made throughout the company's power system," Mr. Thomas said. "One project in the two-year construction budget is the installation of a 40,000 kilowatt turbine and generator at the company's power plant at Handley, order for which was placed last year. This unit, one of the largest in use by any public utility in Texas, will be in operation by the middle of 1947, and will greatly increase the power available to West Texas cities and towns supplied with power from the company's transmission line system. Along with the expansion of the Handley Plant will be the construction of fifty miles of 60,000-volt power line which will complete an industrial power loop around Ft. Worth, greatly enlarging the area in which large industries may receive power direct from high voltage lines."

Other projects include a 66,000-volt power line to serve Andrews and the Fullerton Oil Field. This line will connect with the company's high voltage transmission system at Odessa and also will supply power to the North Cowden Oil Field. Power service for Andrews and the Fullerton Oil Field is now supplied from Diesel engine power plants until this new power line can be completed.

A 66,000-volt power line is planned from Wink north into the Keystone Oil Field to supply power to oil companies and others in that area. Approximately eighty miles of 12,500-volt power line will be built to extend service in oil fields of West Texas. Much of the line will be built in Ector, Winkler and Andrews counties.

"More than 350 miles of rural power line were constructed in 1946," Mr. Thomas said, "and more will be constructed as a part of the two-year construction program. Many of these lines will be extensions of present rural lines, to reach additional farm and ranch homes, and other lines will be built into new areas to extend the benefits of electric service as widely as possible."

Extensions to the Texas Electric Service Company's power transmission system will be made to provide ample channels for marketing the incidental power output of government.

Rotin has launched a program involving $20,000 for a new veterans' home.

mentally financed flood control and reclamation dams, wherever suitable contractual arrangements can be made, and any savings therefrom will be passed on to the public by the company.

"One of the interesting developments planned for the coming year and years immediately following is the application of the new mercury vapor street lighting equipment for aerial highway lighting. The new light source has revolutionized lighting possibilities on heavily traveled highways in and near cities. The company plans substantial extensions of this type of lighting and the replacement of older equipment where used for this purpose.

"This two-year construction program to extend and improve electric service is a part of a long-time program of the company planned a number of years before the war. It was such a policy of making substantial investments to build and extend utilities in the state and in the nation to serve the tremendous war loads when they came on, without stint, delay, rationing, or any increase in price. The progress and culmination of the war was greatly aided."

It's Quality that Counts

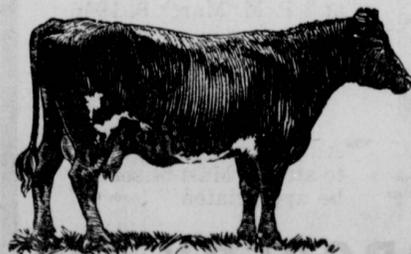

in BREAD--

OR IN LIVESTOCK!

We've got a lot of faith in one of our loaves of bread. That's because we really put our hearts into our work of making it the best that money can buy . . . for purity, taste, health-giving vitamins, and sheer richness. Better milk stock in our territory furnishes better milk and butter to make that bread, so we say blooded animals.

THE SECOND ANNUAL FAT STOCK SHOW WILL BE A GREAT SUCCESS

—because our 4-H and FFA boys, Aggie teachers, ranchers and farmers and the citizens of the county are putting their hearts into the success of this show.

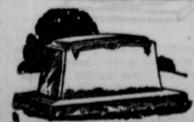

APPRECIATION

We really appreciate the support our boys have given, the support President Hugh Taylor received in getting ready for the show, and the many others that have helped to get ready to show the public a fine exhibition.

Be with us at the show

Legion To Sponsor Dance for Members

R. L. McKinney, Snyder American Legion Post commander, and J. V. Robinson, post adjutant, reported Wednesday that a "full house" is expected next Thursday evening, February 28, at the Legion Dance for Members Only.

The February 28 dance will get underway at 8:30 o'clock. The social staged February 14 was one of the nicest affairs of its kind staged here in recent years.

SNYDER VISITORS THURSDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Ocie Maule, former Scurry County residents, were here late Thursday afternoon, following the A. P. Gamaway funeral at Hemphill visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Maule are well known in this area. They lived east of Midway, in the edge of Fisher County, before they moved to Dawson County. They live on Route 4, Lamesa.

Dr. R. A. Thrun of Elgin, Ill., is now associated with Dr. R. D. English of this city.

Goldbiscuit, registered 4-year-old Palomino stallion of Mr. G. M. Brown, is the horse he considers his favorite after 25 years of breeding and raising horses. He also has a Palomino mare and colt.

Permanent Camp Is Objective Of Boy Scout Heads

James K. Polk, field executive, and H. L. Wren, Snyder District chairman, will head a delegation of Snyder District Boy Scout officials who will attend a Buffalo Trail Council-wide meeting in Big Spring March 15, it was announced this week.

The event will be held at Big Spring's city park with a likely attendance of 150 persons.

At the meeting a council lodge will be organized for the year, an ordeal and brotherhood degrees put on. It is believed twelve will be in the ordeal and 30 to 40 in the brotherhood classes.

Two objectives have been set: to secure a permanent council camp, and to build up scouting membership and activities.

Money is in sight for the permanent camp and a committee is prosecuting the campaign under leadership of Carl Blomshield. Several inspection tours have been made, but no decision has been rendered. Another exploratory trip will be made soon. Favored are locations near San Saba and in the Sacramento Mountains of New Mexico. The Scouts now have a small cabin on Lake Sweetwater.

Growth in numbers is shown among the Cubs, with a small increase in the Scouts. Total enrollment now is about 2,300 Scouts and 1,200 Cubs. During wartime it was difficult to secure proper assistance over the area. Recently Jim Polk was appointed a field representative at Snyder, where activities had been hampered.

Norris said the council will have a big roundup April 26-27 at the Scout camp south of Big Spring.

Last year 800 members were entertained with an anticipated 1,000 this year, Henry D. Norris believes. Last year contests were held in camp activities, cooking, archery and other lines.

Likewise last year Scouts were taken to Philmont National Scout headquarters, 35 miles west of Raton, New Mexico. Due to inadequate transportation, boys were conveyed in cattle trucks. Three groups made the trip, successfully. Total out of the area was 348. Date usually is in July.

Williams Jewelry To Occupy West Side Site After Repair

Major building repair work is being done on the square's west side, former Ben Franklin Store location, preparatory to occupancy by Williams Jewelry Company.

When the new jewelry store location is completed, Williams Jewelry will be well suited to care for the needs of people from this immense trade area, and a larger display of jewelry, cutlery, dishes, etc., will be possible.

Williams Jewelry operator, Sam Williams, is a former Dallas Jewelry salesman.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. McMullan and Kenney of Hobbs, N. M., spent the week-end with Mrs. Gladys McMullan of Snyder.

PULLMAN SERVICE ON SANTA FE TO BE PUT IN OPERATION FOR PUBLIC

Messrs. Robertson and Brooks, representing the Santa Fe Railroad were in the Chamber of Commerce office Tuesday and made the following suggestions relative to this type of transportation.

Due to the fact that the Santa Fe had not been given back all the pullmans confiscated by the government, a program of service will be worked out according to the use made of such accommodations.

Just now and for the next 30 days or longer if necessary, people wishing pullman accommodations to Fort Worth or Dallas, may have same reserved by calling Mr. Green at the Santa Fe Station, who in turn will call the Lubbock office (over the newly installed telephone lines of this company) and make reservations for you within a period of minutes.

After this system has been employed for some thirty days, the company will allot sections of the Pullman to various towns. This will be on the basis of use made of same.

Our Fat Stock Show

People of this entire trade zone who are interested not only in fine blooded livestock, but who are interested in the future of Scurry County should make it a point to attend, without fail, Saturday's Second Annual FFA and 4-H Club Stock Show here Saturday.

With this show, sponsored by Scurry County's Junior Livestock Association, now having the status of being a county-wide, non-profit institution, not only the officers but all FFA and 4-H Club boys deserve the whole-hearted support of Snyder and Scurry County in making Saturday's exposition one of the outstanding for the area.

A permanent agriculture for Scurry and neighboring counties of West Texas can only be based on fine blooded livestock. . . . If we had retained the Long Horn Steer, for example, as a tradition of the Old West we still would have no market for beef animals; but with the advent of the White Face we changed ranching and stock farming to a profitable and intriguing profession.

Quality of entries in this year's stock show are away above average for West Texas, and this fact, in itself, should encourage a heavy attendance from stockmen and all others who have the future of this great area at heart.

A new one-watt fluorescent night bulb, guard ing dad against stubbing his toe after he bounces out of bed to warm baby's bottle, has been developed by engineers. The walnut-size lamp, which burns a month for 2 cents worth of electricity, produces enough light so objects can be seen readily yet its soft glow will not disturb the most sensitive sleeper. The bulb also is useful on stairsteps and to provide convenient lighting in hallways and kitchens.

Editorial of the Week

PUBLIC AWAKENING

Former Mayor La Guardia in a recent broadcast gave merited emphasis to the pressing necessity for a popular awakening toward the danger of ruinous inflation, forces for which are too prevalent today. He proposed a campaign of education by the Treasury Department along the lines of war bond drives, in which the people were advised that buying bonds aided the war effort and at the same time stabilized prices through the diversion of spending power into investment.

Whether a campaign of education falls to the Treasury Department or not, there is clearly a need that the people keenly realize the dangers of inflation and its aftermath. Among the factors for runaway prices today are the lack of production to raise supply toward demand, wage increases before production, too much speculation, spreading "black markets" and public patronage of them, the vast amount of purchasing power on a scarcity market and many other serious forces against "holding the line."

Even the new-wage policy of the administration admits of two serious possibilities: one in starting off the inflationary spiral through a mad race between wages and prices, and the other the interference with production through inequitable price adjustments that do not meet higher costs. Organized labor has seemingly been pursuing the specious theory that a friendly government would pave the way for wage increases before production but at the same time would be able "to hold the line" on prices. Strikes, rising "black markets" and the administration's new wage-price policy are a repudiation of that economic fallacy.—The Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

BY LEON GUINN

Due to the fact the War department has extended the deadline until April 30 to encourage return of experienced soldiers for reenlistment in grade of former rated army men, a little more information on this phase of hie recruitment program will be of general interest. . . . Former service men, it is stated, can now reenlist in the Regular Army in the grade held at time of discharge, and not later than June 30 this year.

Enlisted men who have enlisted on or after June 1, 1945, and within three months of their discharge, will be promoted to grade held at time of discharge, states an Army Service Forces communique. . . . All promotions made under these provisions and the grades in which former service men are enlisted become permanent and warrants will be issued by commanding officers of posts camps and stations of first assignment, Colonel Robert L. Hardy states.

Furthermore a choice of assignment in Europe, China, Alaska, the Caribbean and the Pacific is given to men who enlist for the three-year period, and recently the Mediterranean Theatre has opened for reenlistments. . . . Now liberalized is the travel of dependents of service men at government expense to the overseas stations to which the soldiers are assigned. . . . A recent announcement policy of the War Department will limit the overseas tour of duty to two and one-half years maximum.

Home food supply needs printed in convenient outline form recently have been published in the Texas A & M College Extension Service circular, C-230, "Our Family's Food—How We Plan to Get It." . . . The folder was assembled by Miss Jennie Camp, acting assistant state home demonstration agent, and with help of Miss Gwendolyn Jones and Miss Myrtle Murray. . . . A suggested food preservation plan groups vegetables, fruits, meats and preserves into specific types and states the nutritional requirement for each type per person.

A production guide in "Our Family's Food—How We Plan to Get It," lists the amount of fruits and vegetables that should be produced for each person. . . . It also is a guide for the quantity of home meat production. . . . Persons of this area who would like a copy of the circular should send a request to Texas A & M College Extension Service.

Those who think the bottom will fall out of everything during the next 60 days should find a great deal of reassurance in the statement that good times will continue for at least five or six more years. . . . So predicts Ewan Clague, national director of the Bureau of Employment Security. . . . Clague warns that history foretells a major depression in the 1950's, perhaps by 1951, but holds that while such a prospect lies ahead it is quite possible that it will be forestalled or greatly eased. . . . He bases his prediction of a depression in 1951, or soon thereafter, on belief that pent-up war demands will have been satisfied by that time.

Unemployment compensation, at the present, stands at slightly over 3,000,000, and of this number 1,000,000 claimants are veterans. . . . Clague's argument is that unemployment has reached its peak, and that the nation will face a tight labor market next fall. . . . He minimizes the seriousness of the strikes waves rocking the country and says, however, that a combination of strikes and general unrest over wage-price adjustment has set production back by a "quarter of a year."

It is widely believed, Clague continues, that the nation will likely avoid "recessional years" similar to 1921 because of the government's price control program which has kept inflation below that of the last world war. . . . There is no reason, if all Americans use good, common sense, why we cannot detour around lean years that pinch the average family until they, virtually, are bankrupt. . . . Avoiding extremes, either way, is always the course of just common "horse sense" and not a policy of "accidental happenings."

With the state becoming enmeshed in the grip of a crime wave, citizens in Snyder's trade territory may well become alarmed at the social consequences that could follow. . . . Not only will we have to curb crime tendencies among juveniles over Texas but we will, as a state, have to take more drastic action against adults who often let their "violent inhibitions" run away with them.

There is no reason why Texas should experience such an unusual volume of crime, and criminal tendencies among our people must be curbed or the Lone Star State will get an exceptionally bad reputation as compared with the rest of the nation. . . . Crime, unbridled, will ruin any nation or state and since the vast majority of our people have always been law abiding citizens, there is no excuse to let everybody and everything run "hog wild."

We're Investing $8,000,000 to provide more and better Electric Service for West Texas
We're proud of West Texas' past growth and steady development and solidly sold on its future. That's why we're convinced that an additional $8,000,000 investment in new and modern equipment to improve and extend electric service facilities for this area is sound business.
Our policy is to look ahead—to see that there is always an ample, dependable supply of electricity for West Texas industries, stores, offices and homes—to do whatever is necessary to maintain and encourage prosperity in the territory we serve.
It was such a policy of planning and building ahead that enabled this Company and other privately-owned, business-managed electric utilities in the State and nation to serve the tremendous war loads when they came on, without stint, delay, rationing or any increase in price.
Looking ahead at the expected increased demands for electric power from industrial development in this part of Texas and planning to provide ample electric service to operate new electrical equipment soon to be available for homes has encouraged us to set a two-year construction budget of $8,000,000.
Every penny of this money has been earmarked for some specific addition to or improvement in our electric generating facilities, transmission and distribution system, farm electric service and oil field electric power supply.
It is our peace-time hope and promise that the ever-expanding business and home life of the people we serve will find good electric service always available at the least possible cost.

Hargrove Endures Prison Hardships, Re-enlists In Army

Master Sgt. Carl S. Hargrove, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Hargrove of North Snyder, who was a Japanese prisoner for three and a half years after MacArthur's headquarters fell at Corregidor, is now at Brooke General Hospital in San Antonio for a medical checkup. Hargrove, who was taken prisoner along with General Wainwright, wrote to his parents saying, "Yesterday afternoon General Wainwright made a short speech to all of us L. P. W.'s. It was the first time that I had seen him since the day after we surrendered. He has changed a little, but he looks much better than the pictures I have seen of him. He shook hands with all of us and said that he was very glad to see us back." Sergeant Hargrove was with General MacArthur's headquarters at Corregidor and was taken prisoner by the Japanese May 7, 1942. He was in prison at Osaka, Japan, for three and a half years. He was forced to help dig a Japanese dry dock for two and a half years. Then he was taken to another prison camp and made to work in a Jap carbon plant for a month. After that he was moved again to another place where he had to load and unload 200-pound bags from Japanese ships. He was there when peace was declared.

An IDEA that pays profit--

Fat Stock Show Pioneering

By N. T. UNDERWOOD, Manager of Chamber of Commerce.

The Scurry County Chamber of Commerce for some years past, the business, harassed the merchants—and even the visitors who chanced to come our way—for prize money to pay the premiums on the club calves, hogs and sheep grown and fed by the 4-H and FFA boys and girls.

Due to the fine organization set up by County Agent Raymond King and Mr. Buford Browning, we now have one of the best working set-ups of its kind in this part of the state. Memberships are sold each year and the money thus received defers the expenses and provides the necessary funds for conducting two shows each year. The breeders' show in the fall, and the club calves or fat stock, in the spring.

Every citizen of Scurry County who has a desire to contribute to the development of Scurry County citizenship should join this organization. Boys and girls—we do have some girls—who participate in this work are not only learning a profession but are experiencing something which many people apparently never accept and consequently make poor citizens in this or any community.

When your boy or your neighbor's boy wins a premium, it should have a particular significance to him. First, he has accomplished a purpose, certainly his intentions had been to produce a champion, and championships are not to be had accidentally. Good planning with much concerted effort is necessary. Second, the knowledge gained in producing one winner should be a challenge in future years for him to work for the best.

The Scurry County Chamber of Commerce is strong for the champion, but all entries in the show will not be in first place. We are calling just as hard for the boy in last place, who, knows, that boy may be as inspired that he will bring the top calf, hog or lamb to the show next year.

The efforts put forth by these boys and girls will not only pay dividends for them, but for the community in which they live. Such training makes more alert and aggressive citizens, hence a better Scurry County.

Private Randolph McMullan, who is stationed at Camp Fannin, is here visiting his mother, Mrs. Gladys McMullan.

Esquire Magazine Gives Recognition To Texas People

Esquire, nationally known men's magazine, must be going "Texas," for besides giving Snyder's own Billie Lou Thompson a deserved "plug," the publication says this of J. Frank Dobie, No. 1 Texan who has many personal friends in Snyder:

"Thousand of Texans would agree with this simple statement from Stanley Walker's March ESQUIRE article, PORTRAIT OF A TEXAN. 'For here is a man,' says Walker, 'who finds no contradiction in being an aristocrat in tastes and a thorough going democrat in manner and action. He looks Texan—that is, like the best of Texans. His eyes are blue, and disarmingly honest. His wind-tanned skin is clear and firm. He is a short man, stocky, and he walks with a rolling gait, as do so many men who have been in the saddle. He smokes a pipe. His humor is dry, innocent of pretense, he would be at home in any spot on earth, given a little time.'

Eastern critics refer to Dobie's writings as literature. And in England Dobie's success as a professor was outstanding. Yet his soundest accomplishment, according to the ESQUIRE piece, is that he, more than any other man discovered Texas for the Texans.

He taught that the coyote to the Southwest, may have an importance as great as that which Reynard the Fox had to English life. The nine-banded armadillo would repay study. Even the jackrabbit might have its charm. Texas flowers and shrubs were another absorbing field. Old stories, worn thread-bare by retelling around the fireside, were often good enough to preserve.

Dobie appreciates the cold fact, the tall tale, the preposterous lie, for what they are, comments Walker. If he did not enrich the lives of a few of his students, then their lives were not worth enriching.

An historian, naturalist, teacher and critic, J. Frank Dobie demonstrates the finest qualities of the Lone Star State. He is a sort of symbol a bridge between the old Texas and the new.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Sanders of Colorado City, formerly residents of Union community but changing their residence to the farm area south of Colorado City since the first of the year, were here Wednesday seeing friends and attending to business.

HOW SANITATION HELPS MAKE HEALTHIER CATTLE AND HOGS

By DR. R. J. KIDD, Graduate and Licensed Veterinarian

In writing this article on health and sanitation I will also cover the common diseases and prophylactic or preventive measures associated with the raising of calves, lambs, and pigs to show age.

First of all, we should define health and sanitation. Health is the absence of disease. It is that condition or state of being in which the mind and body function in harmony. Sanitation is the employment of measures designed to promote health and to prevent disease. From these definitions it is readily seen that health and sanitation are closely bound together.

Before animals are put on feed you should have a suitable place for the animals to stay. One that can be easily cleaned, drained well, furnishes warmth in the winter, and is cool in the summer. When a suitable place is located you should then begin to prepare it for your animal. Rags, sacks, rotten boards, etc., should be raked, carried and burned and then the shed and ground should be thoroughly disinfected. For disinfecting sheds, pens, etc., and at the same time improving their appearance, whitewash, prepared as follows is very good: Quiklime (not air-slaked lime) is slaked (chemically added to water) at the ratio of one pint of water to one part of the prepared mixture. Mix thoroughly. Water may now be added to this mixture until suitable density is obtained for painting.

For disinfection of the soil, one pound of concentrated lye to five and one-half gallons of water is sprayed or distributed so as to wet the ground thoroughly. Animals should not be allowed on this ground for 5-6 days. Caution should be observed in handling the lye as it is a caustic poison and you should avoid getting it in your eyes or breathing in the fine dust. Empty containers and any solution left should be disposed of so livestock will not injure themselves by the caustic poison. Other disinfectants in use are Kresol dip, saponified cresol, and other cresol preparations as tricresol, cresylic acid, and liquid carbolic acid. Cresol preparations are more expensive and frequently leave an objectionable odor.

SHEEP
No animal has less resistance to disease when once infected than his sheep. No animal repays hygiene care and surroundings with greater profit than does the sheep. When lambs are put in the feed lot they should be checked over carefully to see that they are free of internal and external parasites. By looking at the color of the membranes lining the eyes and the gums one can tell fairly easily if the lamb is in the peak of condition. A white color tells us that worms are present and are draining the blood from the animal's body while a pink color shows us the animal is in good health. Internal parasites also give a dull lifeless color to the wool. Common and efficient remedies for these internal parasites are piperazine or copper sulfate. Phenothiazine is preferred. External parasites can easily be recognized by close examination. Sheep scab (mange) is recognized by the loss of wool in patches. Lice and sheep ticks may also be found on close examination. Flies also give frequent trouble. The screw worm fly which is of particular importance during the summer and also the sheep gadfly which lays its eggs around the sheep's nostrils. These eggs hatch into larvae which migrate up the nostril of the sheep into the sinuses of the head and cause the common condition "grub in the head."

Internal parasites harm the animal in that they obtain the nutrients from the food instead of the body and external parasites are harmful in that they keep the animal from eating, etc., by their constant irritation.

Blackleg is not so important in sheep as it is in cattle but sheep are affected. Immunization is the safest method.

White scours is contagious and is usually encountered in young lambs. Lambs so affected should be isolated until the condition is cured, usually with sulfa drugs or other medicines, before putting them back with the other lambs.

Lambs frequently suffer with digestive disturbances. They may overeat when the barn door is left open at night or from other causes and as a result may cause death. Laxatives such as linseed oil, mineral oil, Epsom salts, etc., may be given or it may be necessary to pump out the stomach if laxatives do not move the mass on through the digestive tract. Moldy or spoiled feed may cause bloating due to fermentation. Drugs such as turpentine, aromatic spirits of ammonia, or other anti-ferments may be used to check the formation of gas followed by a laxative to remove the fermenting material from the stomach. It may be necessary in certain cases to puncture the rumen (stomach) with a trocar or a knife if it is seen that it will be necessary to save the animal's life. Puncturing should be done on the left side usually at the point of greatest distention which will usually be in the middle of a triangle formed by the last rib, the hip bone, and the vertebrae of the loin. Instruments should be disinfected if time will allow. Do not allow the air to come out too fast or shock and death may occur. Placing the finger over the trocar or hole made by the knife will check the excessive release of gas.

Pneumonia is of frequent occurrence in lambs but as long as the lamb is healthy and is not exposed to rain, snow, sudden changes of weather, etc., there should be no danger. Lambs so affected should be isolated from the others until completely well.

Medicines may be administered in various ways to sheep. The handiest article is a two-ounce dose syringe. For drenching introduce the nozzle between the lips and hold the sheep's mouth shut and give the animal plenty of time to swallow. It is best to keep the animal on its feet as this will lessen the chances of getting any into the lungs, thus causing mechanical pneumonia.

Drenching with a bottle is another method of administering medicine. Keep the animal on its feet and back it into a corner if necessary. Place the left hand on the lower jaw between the front teeth and the jaw teeth. Place the neck of the bottle on the tongue or near it and pour in slowly, allowing plenty of time for the sheep to swallow. Do not raise the sheep's head much higher than horizontal for drenching. In hypodermic injections the axillary space is usually preferred but the neck may be used.

CATTLE
Young calves seem to be more susceptible to disease than any other animal. In young calves white scours or diarrhea is very common. Since this is a contagious and infectious disease caused by the invasion of the intestinal tract by bacteria we should first isolate the infected animal and return it only after it is completely well. The favorite drug now in use is sulfaguanidine or sulfa-hialidine. The bacteria enter either by the mouth, by the nasal orifice, or by both. Calves may be infected in various ways during birth, by sucking a contaminated udder, exposure to contaminated stable litter, or by contact with sick calves in nearby pens.

Blackleg occurs in animals from six months to two years of age. The vaccination of young calves is very effective and gives lifetime immunity.

Warts are of common occurrence in calves. They are frequently seen around the head, necks, and shoulders. Warts lower the value of the hide and also detract from the appearance of the animal. It should be kept in mind that warts are contagious and may be caught by other animals. Tying off the warts with thread and then touching up the stumps with glacial acetic acid or tincture of iodine is usually sufficient. By clipping off with scissors there is more danger from bleeding. Small warts will sometimes disappear if kept soft by daily applications of castor oil. Warts occasionally disappear without any treatment as animals become older. A wart vaccine is now available for warts and is very useful but it should be used with caution.

Pneumonia is of common occurrence in calves. It usually follows chilling caused by exposure to cold winds, rain, damp quarters, drafts, etc. Vaccination of young calves is of benefit in controlling this disease. Animals so affected should be kept in a warm place and the proper medicine should be administered.

Coccidiosis (bloody diarrhea) is frequently encountered in calves. This is essentially intestinal malaria. Infected animals should be removed from the non-infected as this is a contagious disease. This disease is usually caught from another infected animal. Manure, muddy ground around hayrack, feed troughs, watering troughs, etc., harbor the germs. Such places should be filled in and proper drainage maintained so as to permit the ground to dry out from time to time plus keeping the coccidial or germ-killed out.

External and internal parasites present a common problem to showmen. A good feeder should keep on his toes to make sure that his animals are not affected. External parasites cause much irritation and rubbing. Chief among these are lice and grubs, commonly called "warbles" or "wolves." Lousy animals make a poor showing. They do not eat well, make poor gains, and are generally unthrifty in condition. Louiness brings about rubbing which results in a loss of hair in patches, sores, and bleeding wounds. Lice can easily be controlled by dipping or dusting with sulfur and water with the addition of derris or cube containing five per cent rotenone. A suitable dip is:

1 lb. derris or cube containing 5% rotenone.
10 lb. sulfur (wettable).
100 gallons water.

This may be increased or decreased to the amount desired as long as the same ratio is kept. Thoroughly wet the animal. Dusting, which should be used in cold weather, should be done in the proportion of:

1 lb. derris or cube (5 per cent rotenone)
9 lbs. wettable or non-wettable sulfur.

1) Rub well into the skin all over the animal. After the first application is made a period of 12-14 days should elapse before a second treatment. This treatment will get all the lice that have hatched from the eggs which were not killed by the first treatment. This second treatment should be followed in 5-7 days by a third treatment. DDT is now being used quite successfully in the control of lice.

Cattle grubs have an interesting life history. During the spring, heel flies deposit eggs on the hair of the animals, usually on the legs or lower extremities of the body. Larvae hatching from these eggs force their way through the skin into the deeper tissues. Working around in the tissues, eating and growing and moving about. After approximately nine months the larvae have worked through the tissues from the leg to the back of the animal and here they make a small hole through the skin. A pocket or cyst now forms about them and the larvae remain in this cyst for five weeks or longer during which time it moults and changes from a white larvae to a black one, at which time it is ready to leave the animal. Working out of the animal's back it drops to the ground and in six to ten weeks pupates and develops into a fly. The most effective way of handling the grubs are at the time when they are in the back and are accessible through the holes they have cut through the skin. Dipping, washing, spraying or dusting with derris or cube containing 5 per cent rotenone is specific for this condition. A good wash is 12 ounces of derris or cube containing 5 per cent rotenone; 4 ounces of granular soap; one gallon of water. This should be sprinkled on the back and rubbed in with a brush. For dusting use one part by weight of the rotenone to two parts by weight of tripool earth, volcanic ash, or pyrophyllite.

Internal parasites such as the stomach worms, tapeworms, roundworms, etc., are of importance and will usually lead to an unthrifty condition. Proper medicinal treatment should be used. As in sheep phenothiazine is efficient and should be used only if necessary. Cattle frequently develop digestive disturbances as do sheep. Overeating and bloating are most common. Antiferments and laxatives should be used and puncturing of the stomach resorted to if necessary. The location is the same as for sheep.

Medicines may be given to calves by drenching or in capsule form with the aid of a special capsule or balling gun. Hypodermic injections are usually made in the region of the neck and just under the skin. All needles, syringes, etc., should be boiled for 15 minutes or immersed in a suitable disinfectant before use.

SWINE
"Anything is good enough for swine." is a common saying and it is too frequently followed. Domesticated swine have been kept in filth for so many generations that many pressure that unsanitary surroundings are required for swine. The prime sanitary requisites for successful swine breeding and feeding are:

1. Housing.
2. Properly drained lots.
3. Equipment that can be easily cleaned.
4. Feed and water.
5. Quarantine.

A provision for shelter for swine is necessary because nature did not provide them with a coat of hair sufficient to protect them against extreme weather conditions. In construction of a hog house consideration should be given to location, adaptability for the purpose desired, ventilation, light, and conveniences. Lumber hog houses are preferred because they are easier to keep clean and are more economical. The hog house should be so placed as to insure good drainage. Floor walkways serve no good purpose but do provide a ready means for the propagation of a variety of infective agents and to maintain animal parasites on the premises.

Equipment such as water troughs, feed troughs, chutes, vats, etc., should be so constructed that they can be easily cleaned. Clean wholesome water promotes health. Stagnant pools and ponds promote disease. All sick animals should be quarantined from the rest of the animals until the existing conditions diagnosed and if infective should be quarantined for three weeks after the sick animals have recovered. New animals brought in should be quarantined for a period of time before putting in with the home stock. Medicines are not as easily given to swine as to other livestock. It is best if possible to mix the medicine in the food or water. Drugs may be administered also in the forms of capsules with forceps or with a balling gun. Hypodermic injections are usually made into the axillary space.

Young suckling pigs frequently suffer from nutritional anemia which is a principal cause of unthriftness and death. This condition usually occurs in pigs one to six weeks of age which due to bad weather or for some other reason are kept confined to floored pens without access to soil or vegetation. The milk of all animals lack in iron and copper and since young swine are born with only a limited store of these minerals a regular supply is needed shortly after birth to meet the needs of the growing body and for the formation of blood. This condition may be corrected by putting a spoonful of soil or iron in the pen. A solution of ferrous sulfate (copperas) 1 pound to a gallon of water and drenching the pigs once a week until they are four to six weeks of age is curative. One-third of a teaspoonful is sufficient for pigs under one week of age and a teaspoonful is sufficient for pigs under one week of age and increased to 1 teaspoonful by 3-4 weeks of age. Discontinue the treatment when the pigs are turned out to pasture.

Hog cholera is the most contagious disease of hogs. This disease is caused by a virus. Young animals are more susceptible to cholera than older animals. Hog cholera is a year-around disease but is more frequently encountered in the spring and fall. The disease may be spread from infected hogs to non-infected hogs by ravens, chickens, garbage, water, vehicles of transportation, dogs, buzzards, pigeons, and other scavengers. Infected hogs should be quarantined and treated with hog cholera serum. Immunization is the cheapest means of protection. Young hogs should be immunized with serum and virus which gives a lifelong protection.

Pneumonia in swine usually occurs following or associated with some other disease. Diseases of the skin are not as common in swine as in the other domesticated animals. Swine are not as susceptible to wound infections and small cuts, etc., heal promptly.

Lice are the most common parasitic disease of swine. Hand treatment with some standard dip or with equal parts of fly spray and some neutral oil is usually sufficient. Thoroughly wet the animals on the back and sides. Mange occurs frequently in swine and causes wrinkling of the skin and scabby lesions. Lime and sulfur dip or nicotine dip repeated every ten days for three treatments is usually sufficient to cure the disease.

Nearly all hogs harbor internal parasites due to their method of eating or habits. Prevention is far more satisfactory than treatment. Keeping the quarters clean will limit the degree of infestation. Treatment with worm capsules containing santonin, oil of chenopodium or other anthelmintics are usually reliable. Swine should be starved 12 to 24 hours preparatory to worming.

I have covered only the common disease and hope that those who have read this may obtain some benefit from it. R. J. Kidd.
