My studies lead me to believe that the pulling power of radio advertising is over-estimated. Personally, I had rather invest in top levels this year, the department duction, as compared with last year, the stock of almost any newspaper says in conclusion. than in the stock of most broadcasting companies. In order to compare the amount of time an ad is available to the public in the two fields we might take as an example a weekly newspaper with a circulation of 5,000. Multiply the number of minutes which the advertising is available to its readers (say 10 hours a day for a seven-day week) by the 5,000 circulation and you get 21,000,000 minutes. Along the same line of reasoning, a oneminute radio commercial would need to have a possible audience of 21,000,000 people to equal the pullign power of the little weekly of only 5,000 circulation. Yet a good sized radio network may claim no more than a maximum potential listening audience of 10,000,000.

Conclusion.

Visual teaching is more effective than auditory. At least, this seems to be a movie industry claim. Newspapers have the visual appeal. They are especially good for presenting "name" trademark products. One suggestion I would make is that advertisers use larger type and fewer words. The use of color is especially promising. Almost 400 newspapers are now printing two-color advertisements. Over 150 are printing three-color ads. Color ads in newspapers "stop" the reader many advertising experts think.

For the past three months a "buyers' market" has been developing. More advertising and better advertising are again becoming necessary to niterest the eustomer. But, with a U. S. population increase amounting to over 9,000,000 since 1940, business also has an enormous new market to sell. It should be able to meet the challenge of good old American competition with bounce and with pleasure provided the newspapers, both large and small, are fully utilized.

$1-a-Dozen Eggs In Sight as Drop In Supply Looms

With eggs bringing from 82 to 92 cents a dozen over the weekend on the New York market, Scurry County poultry flock owners believe $1 a dozen eggs are in sight.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture enters the egg picture to say consumers can expect higher prices for eggs reminder of this year. To Scurry County poultrymen tempted to sell 50 or 100 laying hens, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics says:

Egg prices may well skyrocket to igures exceeding all other years except 1919 and 1920-boom years which followed World War I.

Reason for price hike in eggs include strong demand by consumers, high support prices and expected short supplies. High meat prices are also a factor.

Many consumers in Scurry and nearby counties, not wanting to buy meat at present levels, are buying eggs to take the place of meat products.

In spite of the rising prices for eggs, the farmer's share of the dollar the consumer spends for eggs is ecreasing. In June, for instance, Scurry

"T THOUGHT my husband was a man of honor, and would keep the solemn promises he made before we were married," writes Norma Elson from South Carolina. "Frank was absolutely honest with me. He told me he had a bad record, when we first met. Or rather, he didn't have to tell me, as everyone knew about it. He was a great figure in our town, a good deal older than my crowd of soph-

"Well, of course, once we were married he completely gave up all efforts to reform. He hadn't gotten very far with them, and he never tried again. At the slightest suggestion of improvement or self-control he grew furious, and I soon learned to avoid occasions of criticism. He came and went, gambled, drank, wasted money as he pleased. From my expectation of excitement, drama, change I sank to a quiet. long-suffering wifehood that asked only for peace. Frank was jailed for house-breaking when our boy was two years old, and served

He usually isn't working stuck to my bargain, from sheer hard, he has no plans. He is spendpride, and perhaps because it was the line of least resistance, but my heart was broken over and over again. My only comfort is that during the long years of keeping boarders I have now and then come across girls who were on the brink of making the mistake I did, and whom I have been able to influence. Some times girls will listen to a stranger when their own mothers cannot guide them; if I have saved hate to look back across these thirty wasted years, and remember the confidence and ignorance with which I threw my life away."

The free-spending, high-flying type of man is attractive to many women. His stylish clothes, dashing manner and general charm blind her to his faults and vices.

Miss Norris quotes a letter from a woman who married one of these handsome menabout-town. He was more than twice ber age, but she laughed that off. He freely told ber about his past, although most of it was common knowledge. But be swore that be would reform; quit drinking, gambling and traveling with the town's underworld characters.

This unfortunate woman tells Miss Norris that her only bappiness during those sad years was that occasionally she bas been able to save some beadstrong girl from making the mistake that she made.

Many a sensible-seeming marriage goes on the rocks, and many an apparently reckless venture succeeds. But in all my years of study of matrimony I have never known a drunkard, a gambler, a wastrel really to reform. If he is capable of reform, he will manage it without the promise of help from a lovely, trusting girl. How many men would marry weak immoral intemperate women on their tearful promises of improvement? No sane man would

An Englishman Talks

Unhappiest newsmen in Washington are the British correspondents who covered negotiations over easing of the U. S loan. The Englishmen took the proceedings very hard; as if they were an indignity on them per sonally.

Illustrative of their viewpoint was the outburst one gave vent to following Treasury Secretary John Snyder's press conference, in which he explaind the U. S plan to bail Britain out of its latest fiscal difficulty. Snyder was tactful and courteous. But as the newsmen left his office, a British correspondent turned to an American and said bitterly:

"The more I learn about my country's plight, the more I wonder what we got out of victory in the war. The Germans at least enjoyed the plunder of all Europe before being defeated and now they are living off the fat of America and whatever we can, scrape together to send them. Today, the Americas are making preparations for hemispheric defense in advance of any menace or invasion of their rights. The mutual defense treaty embodies three main points:

1. In the case of armed attack from outside the hemisphere, all nations have the automatle right to meet the attack with military measures.

2. If military attack occurs inside the hemisphere, American nations may go voluntarily to the aid of the victim, with consultations to follow.

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

LIGHT THE WAY TO BETTER GRADES

 Now that students are starting another school term, it is vitally important that they have enough of the right kind of light for easy seeing.

All lamps used by children for home study should have at least a 100-watt bulb-150-watts in many cases-to provide good light to make their homework easier and to prevent undue eyestrain. Lamp shades, too, are important - they should be wide enough to spread the light evenly and keep glaring, unshaded light from striking the eyes.

Doctor Caswell received the information with his usual professional calm. He had done some constructive thinking since his last visit. This was no ordinary case. The old gentleman was in pretty good shape for a man of seventy-six. But he had to be kept from buying things. He had suffered his last heart attack after his disastrous purchase of that jerkwater railroad out in Iowa. The one before that came from the excitement engendered by the disintegration of the Happy Package chain of grocery stores which he had acquired at a fabulous price. All of his purchases of recent years had to be liquidated at a great sacrifice both to his health and his pocketbook.

Collis P. Ellsworth sat in a huge over-upholstered chair by the window. He looked around as Doctor Caswell inquired, "Well, how's the young man today?"

What Price Peace?

We paid a tremendous price for the war. We invested so many billions in cash and so much in flesh and blood, for Okinawa, for the Aleutians, for Italy and the sector called the bulge that it is high time America ascertain what it can afford to pay for peace. We already have a hint from top officials that the cost of peace will be tremendous, with the shadows of the years ahead as the only distance marker we can even draw a bead on-however, much under the "range."

Are we willing to pay now, in shells and atomic bombs for an all-out drive to get Russia out of the way and make firm the cornerstone that can be laid at the feet of a lasting peace? Sooner or later we must decide what we can afford to pay for peace, just as events soon determined how much we could afford living. to pay for the war.

We should, it seems, be first willing to pay the insignificant cost of universal military training to make our youth healthy and capable of maintaining a peace-time Army. Since we cannot raise all boys on sour buttermilk, pot "likker," turnip greens and corn bread-the solid foods which produced mighty men in years gone by-we must now go to building up a stockpile of health lest our national softness and flabbiness cause us a victory for peace just when the minutes of the twenty-fifth hour count the most!

ELECTRIC SERVICE--The Great Equalizer

The West Texan of yesterday had a name for the formidable six-gun which played such an important role in the taming of the wild and wooly frontiers of the 1800's. He called it "The Great Equalizer" on the theory that whether a man was big or small, old or young, rich or poor didn't make much difference when he had a Colt 44 in his hand-his "shootin' iron" put him on equal footing with any adversary he might face.

"The Great Equalizer" of modern times is electric

Electric service brings to the folks in the cottage in the middle of the block the same comforts and conveniences enjoyed by those who live in the mansion on the hill.

The homemaker in the cottage has the same time and work saving electrical appliances at her service day in and day out as does her wealthy neighbor. The coffeemaker, the toaster, the radio, the vacuum cleaner, the electric refrigerator, the clothes washer, the room coolers and the many other electrical appliances in the big house are identical with those in the cottage down the street.

The biggest bargain in any home today-large or small-is the efficient, low-cost electric service which provides so many conveniences equally to all.
