A QUICK READ OF THE NEWS

Walking all over Leon

Leon Wurl has become part of the pavement in Erie, Colo., and the former town manager's widow says he wouldn't have wanted it any other way.

"He liked the smell of asphalt, so by God, he can smell it forever," Nancy Jo Wurl after pouring some of her husband's ashes into a black goo that became the new Main Street in Erie.

Wurl, who died last year at age 66, was one of several longtime residents who led a push to pave the seven north-south streets and the seven east-west streets that make up Erie's Old Town.

Erie is a former coal mining town about 20 miles north of Denver. In 1994, a dog named Jake received 34 votes in the mayoral election.

Newspaper article details farmers' uneasiness

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

AUSTIN — A recent article in the Austin American-Statesman underscores the uncertain economic climate that Texas and U.S. farmers face these days.

Although growing conditions have improved in the state when compared to last year's drought conditions, sagging commodity prices have left little hope for an economic rebound for the region's farmers.

"Now, finally the beneficiaries of good growing conditions, cotton farmers seemed poised for their strongest crop in several years. But now it seems they will lose out again, this time the victims of a merciless commodity market that has pushed prices down to their lowest level in six years," Statesman reporter Heather Cocks wrote.

The report quotes Taylor, Texas, cotton farmer Stephen Vorwerk as saying, "Prices are pulling us down. It pays the bills, but there's no profit to live on. How many years can you do that?"

Don Stolte, also of Taylor, says he has been farming for more than 20 years and "I've never seen prices this bad. It's like rubbing salt in our wound. I don't know who's going to survive this."

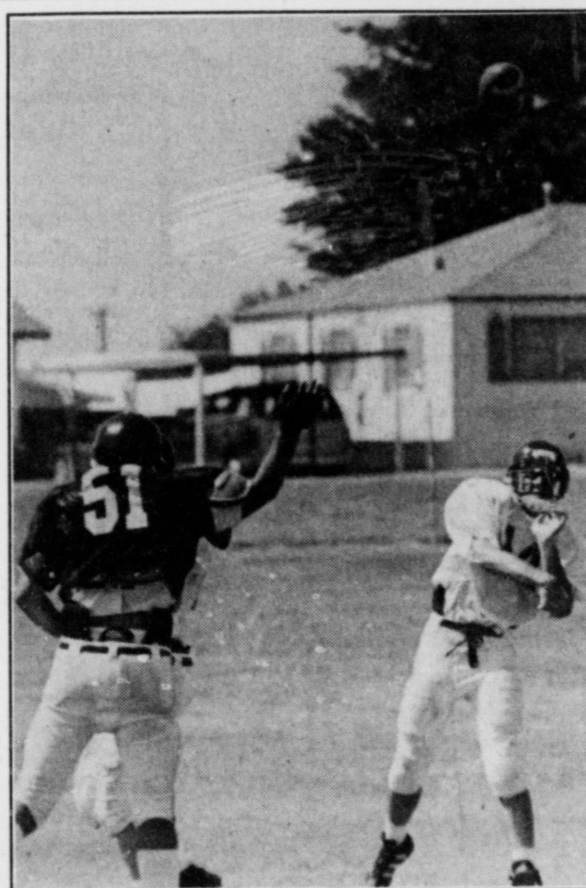

Vorwerk and Stolte, though, have plenty of company because most of their neighbors and their peers across the nation are in the same economic situation.

"There's no margin of profit in these prices," said Texas A&M University economist Carl Anderson.

"With carryover debt from the past years of drought, farmers will have an extremely hard struggle to stay in business. Last year's economic meltdown in Asia drove cotton prices into the cellar because the region's weakened currency stripped it of its buying power, leaving a surplus of American cotton that far outweighed

Getting ready again

State police warning residents about dealing with August heat

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

Although the end to summer heat waves for this year is in sight, the Southwest is still prone to spells of extreme heat for about another month.

The Texas Department of Public Safety is warning Texans to take precautions as temperatures are hitting triple digits in many parts of the state.

"Texans are used to the heat, but now is the time to remind everyone that there are steps you can take to protect yourself and your loved ones," said DPS Director Col. Dudley M. Thomas.

"The bottom line is heat kills if certain common-sense precautions aren't taken — and children and the elderly are at the greatest risk."

Some tips to deal with the heat include:

- Check on the elderly, sick or very young, especially if they don't have air-conditioning;
- Don't leave children or pets alone in vehicles. Temperatures can rise quickly, killing in minutes in extreme temperatures;
- Make sure you get out of the heat and sun at least a few hours each day. A shaded, well-ventilated area will do in a pinch;
- If you don't have air conditioning, consider a trip to your local mall, museum or library to give yourself a break from the heat;

Development expert addresses Muleshoe meeting

By RONN SMITH
Editor

More than a dozen Muleshoe-area residents got a crash course in economic development last Thursday, courtesy of The High Ground of Texas.

Lorie Vincent, executive director of High Ground — a regional marketing organization promoting the High Plains part of Texas — made a presentation at city hall detailing the ways small communities can go about helping local expansion.

She began with an admonition not to forget businesses that already exist, a lesson she said she learned the hard way as economic development director the city of Stratford.

"What good does it do to bring in 10 jobs from outside if you have 15 jobs going out the back door?" she asked.

This may not be what people think of first when they think of economic development, she added, but it's a necessary part of the picture — especially in small towns.

"It's not the Amarillo way of economic development, but they have resources that we don't have," she said.

Vincent said a simplified definition of economic development might be "the process of creating jobs and/or expanding the tax base of a designated area."

She said a primary tool for Texas towns is the sales tax for economic development. Enacting it gives prospective businesses the sense that a community is interested in development,

Cemetery association conducts annual meeting, picks officers

By RONN SMITH
Editor

The Bailey County Cemetery Association elected five new board members during the group's annual meeting Saturday at the Civic Center, as well as conducting other business.

The group first voted to expand its board from five members to seven.

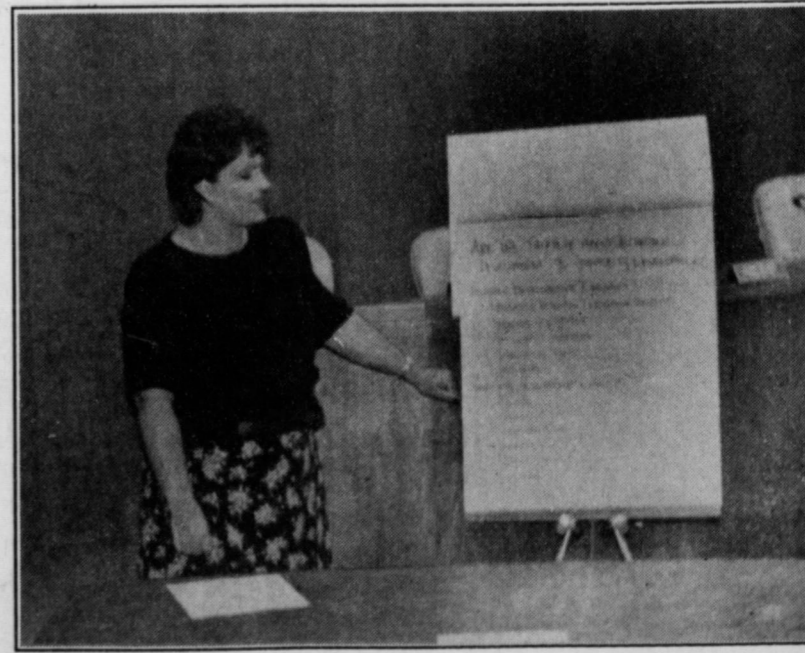

Then, following the recommendation of the group's nominating committee, those attending elected Vivian White, Paul Poynor, David Wyer, Marshall Head and Donna Kirk to the board.

Another change voted in is to have the group's vice president and treasurer elected by the board from among board members.

Head was the nominating committee's recommendation as vice president and Kirk was recommended as treasurer.

The board also heard a financial review from Pat Angeley, who told the members that the group needs to either keep detailed records to allow for an audit or else amend its rules to state that she added.

"It doesn't matter so much how much it is or what you do with it," she said. "If you have it, then at least you're considered one of the players."

Another invaluable tool is a specific plan, she added. In Stratford's case, they decided they needed to attract a shoe store.

"We got 10,000 noes before we we got a yes, and then it was from someone who'd never thought about it," she said.

Then they decided they needed a truck stop. "It took four years, but we're getting a truck stop," she said.

In order to distinguish between the terms economic development and community development, she listed aspects of each type of development:

- Economic — job retention, recruitment, designated incentives and industrial parks; and
- Community — housing, quality of life, infrastructure, tourism (which in some cities would fall under economic development) and beautification.

To demonstrate how the two categories can be inter-related, Vincent told another story from her experience in Stratford.

As the city began to attract some jobs, she said, she began looking for places for the newcomers to live.

"We had a big housing problem, or we thought we had a big housing problem. So we began concentrating on getting some new housing; then we found out that our water and sewer lines were inadequate to handle it, so housing suddenly became a secondary consideration," she said.

She also said that in the economic development game, there is no substitute for owning developable property. "You can't control what you have nothing to do with," she said. One point Vincent made that might surprise some people is saying that the High Plains' main competition isn't the rest of Texas.

"In our region, the rest of the state isn't even our competition," she said. "Our competition is usually Oklahoma, New Mexico, Nebraska and Kansas."

She also enumerated 11 "rules" of economic development:

- Take care of your own;
- Whatever incentives are made available should be available to all businesses, old or new;
- Have a plan and use it;
- Know your team;
- Understand the confidentiality factor and don't release information prematurely;

Holocaust survivor to speak

Helene Levi Shiver of Lubbock will speak in Muleshoe at 7 p.m. Aug. 30 about her experiences in a Nazi death camp during World War II.

Shiver says she was the sole survivor out of 108 relatives consigned to Dachau.

United Methodist Women, the event's sponsor, especially invite young people of junior high age and above to hear Shiver's presentation as a Holocaust survivor. The program is not deemed appropriate for children younger than 12.

Shiver was born in Sofia, Bulgaria. She and her relatives were abducted from their home while celebrating her great-great-grandfather's 104th birthday and taken to Dachau. She was liberated by American forces on April 29, 1945.

She says her mother's ancestors survived the Spanish Inquisition in 1492, her father's ancestors survived prosecution by the Russian czar in 1846, and she has survived since her rescue without family, home, country or more than an eighth-grade education.

The event is scheduled for the Fellowship Hall of First United Methodist Church.

Library group selling cookbooks

Members of Friends of the Library are selling cookbooks to benefit the Muleshoe Area Public Library. A choice of two cookbooks is available, priced at $10 each.

The books may be seen and/or purchased at the library or through an member of the group.

All proceeds go to enhance the library facility and make it better for the community.

Chorale announces season's beginning on Clovis campus

The High Plains Chorale, a music ensemble sponsored by Clovis Community College, will begin its third season at 6:45 p.m. (MDT) Aug. 26.

The group is open to anyone who enjoys singing; no audition is required.

A December concert of holiday music is planned.

More information is available by calling (505) 769-4114.

- Economic development doesn't happen behind a desk;
- It also doesn't happen overnight (one project that won an award for Stratford took 2 1/2 years, "and I think that's about standard";
- "Be realistic about your chances";
- Don't put all the community's eggs in one basket;
- There's more than one way to do a deal ("Don't pull yourself out of a deal just because you can't do what the prospect wants the way they want it done"); and
- "Control your own destiny."

Representing the Muleshoe Economic Development Corp. at the meeting were President Mark Morton and board members Shawn Rejino and Arnold Price.

Representing the city were Mayor Robert Montgomery and Councilwoman Sharon Grant, along with City Manager Rick Hanna and his administrative assistant, Susie Pierce.

County government was represented by Judge Marilyn Cox and the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce was represented by its president, Adrian Meador.

Others participating included Kay Mardis, Kay Graves and Alberto Daniel.

demand," Cocks wrote.

According to Steve Verett, executive vice president of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, the surplus will only grow in 1999.

With a national yield on pace to hit 19 million bales — almost 6 million more than in 1998 — supply will still exceed demand, Verett says.

"Most governments, like China, are subsidizing their growers," Verett told the Statesman reporter. "Chinese farmers can get as much as 90 cents a pound, so they keep farming no matter what it sells for (on the world market)."

Stolte said growing unirrigated cotton is especially tricky, "requiring an unpredictable blend of sunshine and showers."

"I'm sick of handouts," Stolte is quoted as saying. "I just want a good price for my commodity." That's a sentiment, no doubt, that his peers across the country share.

Reduce pollution, allergens and cost by mixing cleaners yourself

GALVESTON — There is no new water under the sun, explains Julie Massey, Galveston County marine agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"We're drinking the same water the dinosaurs drank," she said.

And that's why Extension developed the Mix It Yourself brochure. By using materials like baking soda, mineral oil and vinegar to make household cleaners, people can help reduce the amount of pollutants going back into their water supplies via sinks, commodes, tubs and lawns.

"Even though that water will be treated, you want the highest quality water going back into" the water supply, Massey said.

Reducing the number of chemicals used in the home has other benefits.

"One of our county agents counted the number of cleaning products she had in her home — more than 50," Massey said. "By using these alternative cleaners, you cut down on the number of cleaners you have to buy, so it's cheaper, too."

The main ingredients for Mix It Yourself include baking soda, liquid detergent, mineral oil, white vinegar, salt and lemon juice.

"I think these work really well in the home, especially if you have small children or pets," she adds.

According to Massey, response to Mix It Yourself has been very high in the Galveston area — and for a reason she never expected: "What was amazing to us was that people were having allergic reactions to over-the-counter cleansers," she said.

And Massey says Mix It Yourself cleansers are easy to make.

To make an all-purpose household cleanser, dissolve 4 tablespoons of baking soda into 1 quart of warm water and pour into a spray bottle.

Spray surface, wipe with a sponge and rinse with clean water. Solution strength can be increased by adding more baking soda.

"Use this to clean and deodorize kitchen surfaces, chrome-plated fixtures and faucets, refrigerators and freezers," Massey suggested.

Use 1/4 cup of white vinegar, 1/4 cup of baking soda and 1 gallon of warm water as a floor cleaner. Mop, rinse and dry.

To clean a commode, sprinkle baking soda into the bowl, drizzle with vinegar and scrub with a toilet brush.

"Combine 1 quart of water with 1/4 cup of white vinegar to make a glass cleaner," Massey advised. "Spray on and wipe off with newspaper."

A mixture of 1/2 cup of baking soda and 1/2 cup of vinegar can be used to unclog drains. Put the baking soda and vinegar in the drain, cover tightly and let it sit for 15 minutes. Pour 2 quarts of boiling water down the drain. If the clog is severe, follow with a plunger.

There are other uses for baking soda in the home, Massey added. Make a paste by mixing equal parts of baking soda with warm water to polish silverware and to clean lawn furniture, fiberglass tubs, car trim, bumpers and hub caps.

When sprinkled directly onto a damp sponge or surface, baking soda also cleans stainless-steel sinks and clothes hampers, and removes scuff marks on floors and crayon marks on walls.

Other Mix It Yourself ideas include mixing 3 tablespoons of mineral oil with 1 tablespoon of olive oil and a drop of lemon juice to make furniture polish.

Lime and mineral deposits can be removed by soaking a cloth in vinegar and leaving the cloth on the stain for about an hour. The deposits will soften and can be removed easily, Massey says.

Metal polish can be made by mixing 1/2 teaspoon salt with 1/2 cup vinegar and enough flour to make a paste. Apply the paste and leave on for 15 to 30 minutes. Rinse well and dry.

If something needs to be sanitized, Massey recommends that 1 part bleach be mixed with 100 parts water.

Panel addresses EPA attitude on food act

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL
WASHINGTON, D.C. — The House subcommittee on department operations, oversight, nutrition and forestry, led by Chairman Bob Goodlatte, R-Va., has reviewed the potential effects on public health that will result from the Environmental Protection Agency's process for implementing the Food Quality Protection Act.

The subcommittee also reviewed last week's announcement by EPA Administrator Carol Browner that the agency is restricting two commonly used crop protectants, methyl parathion and azinphos methyl.

disease-carrying insects as well as the farmers relying on a myriad of diverse pesticides for crop production," Goodlatte said.

"Many of the same pesticides are used for both public health control programs as well as agriculture," he added.

The hearing was the third to review the USDA and EPA implementation of the food act.

After the recent testimony and throughout previous hearings, pesticide advocates said it is apparent that the EPA is failing to use real-world studies and the "best available data" as required by law in making decisions regarding pesticide tolerances.

Instead, the critics say it has relied on assumptions and politically tainted assessments that threaten not only the livelihoods of farmers but also the health of the general public.

"Anyone who has followed FQPA implementation can't help but be disappointed by the irresponsible scare tactics demonstrated by special-interest groups, and the lack of leadership we have seen in recent days on the part of policy makers," said subcommittee member Charlie Stenholm of Texas.

"We would all do well to keep in mind that our nation continues to have the safest, most abundant, highest quality food, at the lowest cost to the consumer, of any nation in the world," Goodlatte said.

only an annual review would be performed rather than an audit.

Angeley also mentioned to the group that accountants generally discourage the type of situation that has developed in the association because of Kirk's election as Bailey County treasurer.

Angeley emphasized that this is no reflection on Kirk, but just happened because of her new position, and "I'm not suggesting that you find a new treasurer."

She said Kirk would be above reproach in the two jobs. "I've always said I'd have Donna Kirk working for me if I could afford her. I'd also like to have her in charge of my bank accounts. She keeps an impeccable set of books."

Wyer, the association's president, said the group had made a change in deference to Kirk's situation would require a countersignature by another officer on all association checks.

Regarding the group's favorable financial review, he added, "I'm glad everything is going the way it should — I didn't have any concerns that it wasn't."

Wyer also told the group that in replacing a lawn mower, the association had learned from the state that it has to pay sales taxes on purchases, though it still does not have to charge the tax on lots it sells.

- Drink plenty of water and avoid caffeine and alcohol during prolonged outdoor exposure. Start consuming water before you head outdoors. You may not realize you're dehydrated until it's too late;

- The higher the humidity, the greater the danger of heat-related illness;
- Pay attention to your body: Heat exhaustion and heat stroke can develop quickly. If you start feeling ill, immediately find a shaded area and slowly drink fluids. Seek medical attention if necessary;

- Light-colored, loose-fitting clothing and a hat are recommended during outdoor exposure; and

- If possible, cut back on strenuous outdoor activity during the hottest part of the day.

The Bailey County Commissioners Court will hold a public hearing on a proposal to increase total tax revenues from properties on the tax roll by 13.9 percent. Your individual taxes may increase or decrease, depending on the changes in the taxable value of your property in relation to the change in taxable value of all other property and the tax rate that is adopted.

The public hearing will be held on August 30, 1999 at 10:00 a.m. at Commissioners Court Room, Bailey County Courthouse, 300 S. 1st, Muleshoe, TX .

FOR the proposal: Butch Vandiver, Prec. #1; C.E. Grant, Prec. #2; Joey Kindle, Prec. #3; Jerry Damron, Prec. #4; Judge Cox, County Judge

AGAINST the proposal:
PRESENT and not voting:
ABSENT:

The following table compares taxes on an average home in this taxing unit last year to taxes proposed on the average home this year. Again, your individual taxes may be higher or lower, depending on the taxable value of your property.

	Last Year	This Year
Average residence homestead value	$ 50,000	$ 50,000
General exemptions available (amount available on the average homestead, not including senior citizen's or disabled person's exemptions)	$ -0-	$ -0-
Average taxable value	$ 50,000	$ 50,000
Tax rate — General Fund	.3785/100	.4250/100
Tax — General Fund	$ 189.25	$ 212.50

Under this proposal, taxes on the average homestead would increase by $23.25 or 12.2 percent compared with last year's taxes. Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the tax rate would increase by $.0465 per $100 of taxable value or 12.2 percent compared to last year's tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.

Puckett, Thomas married July 10

Brett Ryon Thomas and Laurie DeAnn Puckett were married July 10 at the First Baptist Church in Muleshoe with Dr. Stacy Conner officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Donald and Judy Puckett of Muleshoe; the groom is the son of Randy and Terry Thomas of Lazbuddie.

Music was provided by Suzanne Thompson, a friend of the bride. Rex Thomas, uncle of the groom, sang.

Serving as maid of honor was Donna Puckett, sister of the bride from Lubbock. The best man was Jason Thomas, brother of the groom from Lazbuddie.

The guests were registered by Holly Hutton, a friend of the bride from Abilene. Ushers were Heath Hodges of Slaton and Shawn Thomas of Lubbock, both cousins of the groom.

The ringbearer was Dee Oles, son of Jim and Reagan Oles of Claude, a cousin of the groom. He carried the rings on a satin pillow made by the bride's mother. The flower girl was Kayla Wills, daughter of Jeff and Tara Wills of Lubbock, a cousin of the bride. She carried a white satin basket that contained white Love Knots which was fashioned by the bride's mother.

The bride entered the church wearing a formal gown of white delustered Italian satin featuring a Sabrina neckline on the snugly-fit bodice. The empire set-in waist was detailed with a small bow, and flowed into a princess style A-line skirt. The cutout Venice-lace back was detailed with an elegant bow and covered buttons that extended the length of the detachable chapel train.

The fingertip length veil of silk illusion was attached to a headband adorned with flowers and pearls.

The groom wore a black peak-lapel tuxedo with a black vest and tie.

The bride's bouquet was white bridal roses, stephanotis and million-star gypsophila. She wore pennies in her shoes minted in the years of the bride's and groom's births.

In the tradition of something old, the bride carried her maternal grandparents' wedding rings in her bouquet. Something new was her dress; something borrowed was jewelry from her sister, Donna; and something blue was the ribbons on her garter, made by her mother.

The reception was held at the First Baptist Fellowship Hall. The servers were Jennifer Barnes, cousin of the bride from Muleshoe, and Reagan Oles, cousin of the groom from Claude.

Members of the houseparty

Laurie Puckett-Thomas poses at her July 10 wedding
