WHEAT HARVEST DRAWS TO CLOSE THIS WEEK

A wheat harvest estimated have reaped one and one-half million bushels of wheat in Sherman County will with favorable weather conditions draw to a close this week. Although still hindered by lack of railroad cars for disposal of the wheat, the harvest was completed in perhaps the best organized manner of any which has been conducted on the plains in recent years.

Although much wheat still remains on the ground, most of the crop has been placed in some type of storage facilities.

Combines started operating widely scattered sections June 7 but harvest as a whole did not commence until about the 15th of the month

Organized direction of trucks and combines to the sections of the territory in which they were needed is credited with much of the success in which the wheat harvest was conducted.

They expect a small rise in the cost of merchandise until mass production is reached once more, when prices are expected to decline as competition reduces the price of merchandise produced on a large scale as it has in the past.

There is little objection to rise in the cost of commodities.

69th Judicial District

Should the Distrtict Judge be selected by the Governor or elected by the people?

So far in the history of the 69th Judicial District the Judges have been only those who were originally appointed by the Governor to fill a temporary vacancy. These vacancies resulted from the original creation of the district, and the death or resignation of a former judge.

It seems sound reasoning that prompted the framers of our State Constitution to provide by Section 12 of Article 4 that * * * * * * Appointments to vacancies in offices elected by the people shall continue until the first general election."

Equal wisdom seems to have prompted the inclusion in Section 27 of Article 5 of our State Constitution the provision that the first general election "* * * * * * shall be to fill the unexpired term only."

The good fortune of securing the appointment has always given the incumbent a great advantage over any other aspirants to this office. This has resulted in only those who the Governor appointed to fill out the term of a vacancy having an opportunity of serving in that office.

It is a well known fact that in Texas the public officers are usually selected in the July primaries, and it is at that time that most of the people vote, rather than in the November general election. The former District Judge did not resign until after the primary election in July 1944. In the general election in November 1944 only a small per cent of the voters of the District voted for either of the candidates for District Judge.

When the last appointment of District Judge was made I was serving with the 2d Infantry Division on the Normandy beachhead. Consequently I did not have a chance at the appointment, nor to run for the office in November 1944.

If you believe me to be qualified, or worthy of a chance to show whether I am qualified for that office, I will be grateful for your support and vote to give me a chance to serve you as District Judge. If elected, I will have no commercial or other interests that will conflict with my duties, and I promise to devote my entire time to the prompt dispatch of the business of the office.

COURT FEUDS OLD STORY

WASHINGTON. - Some people seem to be laboring under the impression that wrangles are new in the Supreme court. Actually, wran-gling began soon after the court was formed, with the attempted im-peachment of Justice Samuel Chase, continued vigorously under John Marshall and has flared-up intermittently ever since.

Latest wrangle, prior to the Jackson blow-up, was between ami-able Chief Justice Harlan Fiske Stone and austere Justice Owen J. Roberts. Although Republicans and Hoover appointees, they did not get along well in recent years, and there was one hot, though private argument between them over the question of sitting on a case involving Stone's former law firm.

Before that, however, the most virulent feud on the Supreme court revolved around cranky, crusty Justice James C. McReynolds, the only justice credited with driving an associate off the court. For six years Justice John H. Clarke sat beside him, and for six years Mc-Reynolds never spoke. Finally Clarke resigned.

McReynolds also tried to drive the late Justice Louis D. Brandeis off the bench. He would rattle his papers or even leave the bench when Brandeis rendered an opinion. And, when the jurists adjourned for their customary sandwich or soup and crackers at the noon recess, McReynolds turned up his nose at lunching at a table with Brandeis. Intead, he duffed his robe, drove downtown and lunched by himself. * * *

ROW DURING GRANT'S REGIME Another bitter battle inside the Supreme court took place during the Grant administration over the legal tender act. Justice Robert C. Grier, then senile, was induced by Chief Justice Salmon P. Chase to change his vote, thereby helping to make the legal tender, act unconstitutional. This was a great embarrassment to the Republicans, who needed the legal tender act to support their fiscal policies during and after the civil war.

"The chief justice," charged Justice Samuel F. Miller, "re-sorted to all sorts of strategems of the lowest trickery."

LINCOLN SPANKED JUSTICE

Another period of near-civil war took place in the court after the last war, when the nine justices were called upon to pass on the espionage cases. The court was so split, that a committee, including Justices Willis Van Devanter and William R. Day called on Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes to ask that he not write one of his usual vigorous dissenting opinions.

HERE was a pleasant period of L existence during which one could turn to the sporting page with the prospect of reading about sports.

"On the sports page," as the late William Lyon Phelps once told me,

"you read about competitive achievement — a round of golf in 67, a home run with two on, a three-hit game, a long run, a thrilling horse race, a story to lift you above the humdrum of dull days.' Those features

still exist — but lately they have Grantland Rice

been clogged with strikes, unions at work, Mexican lawsuits, football players being haled before the courts for contract troubles, lawyers' pleas, judges' decisions. The gaunt shadow of Blackstone has fallen rather drearily across the scene. The courts are becoming en-meshed in football, baseball and racing cases, with lawyers, judges, union leaders and politicians hornng in on what once were tests of skill, courage and stamina. It all is part of the badly befogged times.

There isn't any questioning the fact that many things have been out of line. Neither football nor base-ball contracts can be held legally valid when the employer can hold a man for life, but also fire him on 10 days' notice. That, of course, is not a contract. It may be a neces-sary way to handle certain intricate situations, but there is nothing legal about it. Club owners in baseball ong before this should have set up a minimum big league wage and also should have made some provisions for division, with the player in question of the price for which the player was sold or traded. Many baseball club owners are extremely iberal, others are not-strictly to the contrary. The ballplayer deserves better protection than he has received in too many cases hereofore.

In professional football we read where most of the clubs in the two leagues sign up from 50 to 60 play-ers apiece—but their league rules say they can keep only 33 of these players. What about the contracts the others have signed — those who will be released on short notice? If a player can be fired on quick no-lice, why shouldn't he jump on quick notice for better pay?

It is a tough problem, since base-ball and football are strictly competitive games wherein certain ball parks, because of their size, such as the Yankee stadium, will draw more paid admissions by mid-June than smaller parks in cities such as St. Louis will draw over the course of the season. It isn't often that a Fom Yawkey comes along who has little interest in the financial side of his team and who is willing to spend millions to get a winner.

THE LAW IN JESUS' DAY

LESSON TEXT-Deuteronomy 6:4-9; Mat-thew 5:17-19; Mark 10:17-22. MEMORY SELECTION-Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets: I come not to destroy, but to fulfill.-Matthew 5:17.

Jesus Christ is the believer's final authority. He is both our Saviour and our Lord. He is our teacher, our guide, our pattern in all things. It is therefore of the highest importance that we know his attitude toward the Old Testament laws, and that is just what we are to consider in the lessons of the next three months under the general title, "Jesus Interprets Old Testament Laws."

Our introductory lesson tells us of the origin, interpretation and application of the law, then we go in later lessons to consider the Ten Commandments in the light of the teachings of Jesus.

It is appropriate to point out that, far from being outmoded, the Ten Commandments are really the basis of all moral law. They need a diligent restudy and re-emphasis in our day of disregard of moral standards.

I. The Law-Given by God (Deut. 6:4-9).

Our God is the one true God who is to have the complete and con-stant devotion of all. The fact that so many men have ignored him explains the awful depth to which the world has fallen.

This one and only true God has given through his servant, Moses, the fundamental moral law for the government of man, and he is to give diligent attention to it at all times.

Religion in the household (v. 7) should include the teaching of the Word, and the easy natural discussion of spiritual things in all the varying circumstances of home life. Blessed are the parents who make it easy for children to talk about the things of God as naturally and unaffectedly as they discuss the oth-er phases of life which interest them

The law of God should go with his people into their daily occupations (v. 8), not in any formal or stilted way but as the normal expression of their love for him. It should be evident to all who enter the home that the Lord is loved and honored (v. 9).

II. The Law Fulfilled by Jesus (Matt. 5:17-19).

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infec-tion—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are some-times burning, scanty or too frequent winstion

"You know what my ideas of the law are, and I will not change them," he replied. And for some months following this, the justices stopped speaking to each other.

Probably the most vitriolic criticism ever leveled against the court by anyone in high places came from Abraham Lincoln, when Chief Justice Roger B. Taney called upon the commanding officer at Fort Mc-Henry in Baltimore to relinquish a prisoner during the Civil war. This the commanding general refused to do.

"The judicial machinery," remarked Lincoln at the time, "seems as if it had been designed not to sustain the government but to embarrass and betray it."

FEUD OVER JUSTICE FIELD There was also the court feud over Justice Stephen J. Field at the time the Supreme court declared the income tax law unconstitutional in 1895. Field, then nearly 80 years old, led the attack against the income tax. Senile, and frequently asleep in court, a committee of his colleagues suggested his retirement but he only flew into a tantrum. His vote against the income tax made it necessary to pass a constitutional amendment to make the income tax legal.

What the Future Holds

All this happens during the best season baseball ever has dreamed of in the way of crowds and public interest; and to what looked to be the best season professional football ever has known.

Just how the sports public will react to all these complications still is a guess. It may be that the public has taken such a beating from so many wrecking strikes that it has become numb and no longer feels any pain. Every side has been pro-tected and defended except that of the public, which happens to represent more than 100 million of our population. These 100 million appar-ently don't count. They are only around to be shoved aside. Just how the keyed-up fanatics who pay the toll will react to all this outside trouble is anybody's guess. The odds are that most of them won't bother. The public always has been a glutton for a beating, and habit is hard to change.

There are many tangles and tough breaks to beset the athlete. Those drafted or sold to tail-end teams get all the worst of it. A college player can pick his own campus and most of the better high school players like to be enrolled with winning teams. It's better to win than to

It may be that a union could help in professional baseball and football, but it would have been a better way if the leading players had arranged their own organizations to deal with club owners. An outsider stepping into the working clubhouse of a ball club or a football team to harangue the players is something out of line.

It wouldn't have been a bad idea if baseball and football players fol-Despite all the confusing furore lowed the lead of the golfers, who

Christ himself, although we might properly say that he was in reality the lawgiver and thus had power and authority over the law, indicated his purpose in coming to be that of giving the law its full meaning, not of destroying it.

One could wish that those who profess to be his servants might have the same measure of regard for God's law. If they did, they obviously would not be so ready to ignore it, so quick to change it or ready to accept with their Master every "jot and tittle"; that is, even the minutest detail of his Word.

It is a mark of greatness "to do and teach" the law of God (v. 19), and of pathetic smallness to break his commandments and to teach others to disobey God. Some of the supposed great men of this world are mighty small when they are measured by God's yardstick.

The one who recognizes Christ as the fulfillment of the law will go on in consistent living. In his strength and by his grace we are to obey every moral precept.

III. The Law-Applied to Man (Mark 10:17-22).

The moral law, which is God's law, is good and in its keeping man finds guidance for his life. Apart from Christ, however, he finds himself unable to keep the law.

The gospel of the grace of God in Christ Jesus takes us a step beyond the law, and it is a great step for here we meet and follow the one who is greater than the law, the giver of eternal life.

Obedience to the commandments brings a man up to the very en-trance upon that life, but to enter in he must have more than the "things" of the law; he must have the person who is "the door" to eternal life.

The young man who came to Christ was rich. His mind was obsessed with things. He had made it his business to observe the law, and had done well (v. 20), but his soul was not satisfied. He thought one more "thing" that he could do would accomplish his purpose. The general attitude of the man was commendable. He sensed his lack of the vital something which would remake his life. He came to the right one-the Lord Jesus-with his question.

His failure to go beyond the things of the law to a faith in Christ, however, showed that he loved his possessions more than he desired to follow the Lord.
