A QUICK READ OF THE NEWS

'This Bud's for me'

Two commercial fishermen are in deep trouble for what Port O'Connor, Texas, authorities say was their unique interpretation of the slogan, "This Bud's For You."

Daniel Joseph Doiron, 37, of Louisiana, and Robert Charles Johnson, 41, of Port Bolivar, Texas, are accused of stealing a Budweiser beer truck.

"They were laughing when they got to jail," a sheriff said. "And when they sobered up they still thought it was funny, but they won't think it's so funny when the judge sees them."

The men allegedly stole the refrigerated 18-wheeler as its driver was making a delivery inside Clark's Seafood Restaurant. A deputy pulled the truck over a few minutes later.

College party turns wild

It was the perfect setting for a college party — an out-of-the-way house that was about to be turned over to a new owner.

The only trouble was that the new owner was the National Park Service, which didn't take kindly to a bash on its property.

A party last June in the Fredericksburg, Va., house where Nathaniel Haas, Jeremiah Sutton and Robert Henneberg were living cost the three Mary Washington College students $21,000 in restitution to the Park Service, which owns the 60-year-old house.

Assault with a carrot?

An 11-year-old Detroit boy has been charged with felonious assault after he allegedly threw a carrot slice that hit his middle-school teacher in the eye.

The boy was being held in the Wayne County Juvenile Detention Facility, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon. If convicted, he could face a variety of penalties, including time in a boys training school.

The boy was suspended from Murphy Middle School after throwing carrot pieces at classmates, the Detroit Free Press reported. One of the chunks hit teacher Lee Williams in the eye, leaving it red and swollen, police said.

Jury selection complete; Reyes trial under way

By RONN SMITH
Editor

Prosecution and defense attorneys completed jury selection Tuesday in the capital murder trial of Gilberto "Tito" Reyes of Muleshoe, and the trial was scheduled to get under way Wednesday.

Reyes is accused in the October 1998 slaying of Yvette Barraz, then 19 years old.

She died while allegedly being kidnapped by Reyes, her estranged boyfriend.

Barraz disappeared from the parking lot of a Muleshoe restaurant where she worked. Her body was found in her car in Presidio, Texas, on the Mexican border.

The trial is being held before Senior District Judge Jack Young, who has ordered considerable security at the courthouse during the trial, has banned cameras from the courthouse during the same period, and declined to make public the names of those selected to serve on the jury.

Texas suffers third drought in four years

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

AUSTIN—Agriculture Commissioner Susan Combs said recently the Texas agricultural industry is facing a crisis situation as most farmers and ranchers across the state are enduring their third drought in four years.

"Many people are unaware that the state is in a drought," Combs said in a press conference. "1999 was one of the driest years on record. Texas farmers and ranchers are facing a serious situation."

Travis Miller, a soil and crop science specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said much of the wheat crop in western regions of the state is in critical condition.

Texas producers have planted 5.8 million acres of wheat, which is down 6 percent from last year. Ninety-one percent of the state's winter wheat crop is in fair to very poor condition.

"West of Interstate 35, we've got a crop that is in terrible shape," Miller said. "A lot of it is dying, much of it didn't come up at all."

Cattle prices are higher than a year ago, but ranchers will lose money by being forced to sell off herds because of a lack of water and forage.

Livestock show another big success

By SCOT STINNETT
Journal publisher

Lynsie Black called it a career with a career weekend.

In her final appearance in the annual Bailey County Junior Livestock Show last weekend, the daughter of Rex and Brenda Black of Muleshoe won grand champion buckles in both of the species in which she competed.

She also was chosen among the top three senior exhibitors in both the swine and steer showmanship contests.

The Muleshoe High School senior drove her champion crossbred barrow to the grand champion title Friday evening, then led her champion exotic cross steer to top honors on Saturday morning. The steer was one of two class winners for Black in the exotics. She also had the reserve champion American-breed steer.

The wins were part of a huge week—

Varsity boys hogtie Friona to take district win No. 3

By KEVIN WILSON
Staff Writer

When the Mules took the court against Friona, the sky outside was pitch black. The Mules must have liked it that way, because they spent the next 32 minutes shooting the lights out.

The Mules hit 11 three-pointers, including nine in the first half, to blow out the Friona Chieftains 65-38 on Friday night.

James Barrett led all scorers with 17, all coming in the first half — which saw the Mules build a 42-17 lead. Barrett hit two threes during a 13-0 run in the first quarter and two more during a 10-0 run to end the half.

Although the early threes sealed the victory, they weren't a big part of the gameplan according to Mule head coach Ralph Mason.

"We never go into a game thinking we're going to shoot threes," Mason said. "I hope this is a sign of things to come."

Mason said that although the players were shooting well from the arc during practice, the game plan was to run down a small Friona squad. The Chieftains were playing with only six men and were led by Nathan Haile, who had nine points off the bench.

Muleshoe took a 23-10 lead into the second quarter and used stifling defense to increase the lead. Friona was held to only one field goal in the second quarter, a three-pointer by Cason White. The other shots were either missed or blocked

Geography bee winner has chance to see world

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

Timothy Conner, a fifth-grader at DeShazo Elementary School in Muleshoe, has won the first round (school-level) of the 12th annual National Geographic Bee and a chance at a $25,000 scholarship.

He now will take a written test, which will qualify up to 100 of the top scorers to participate in the state bee on April 7. The event is sponsored by the National Geographic Society.

State winners, along with their teacher-escorts, will receive an expense-paid trip to Washington, D.C., for the national championship, scheduled for May 23-24.

Alex Trebek, host of television's Jeopardy!, will serve as moderator of the national finals on May 24.

The nationals will be broadcast on the Public Broadcasting System.

Fifth-grader Timothy Conner, who won the local National Geographic Bee earlier this month, checks out some of his favorite places as he explains his interest in geography, among many subjects. The son of Stacy and Debbie Conner, he is in David Keller's class. He will take a written test to see if he will be among about 100 students going to the state competition in April. This marks the event's 12th year.

There are easy ways to learn food choices

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL COLLEGE STATION — It's the start of a new year, and many people have resolved to lose weight.

The keys to healthy weight loss include a realistic weight goal and adopting lifelong commitments to regular physical activity and a nutritious diet.

The physical activity part is simple — 30 minutes of moderate exercise most days.

What are some ways people can make better food choices and still feel satisfied?

"One of the easiest ways for people to begin making healthy food choices is by planning their meals and snacks," said Jenna Anding, a registered dietitian with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"If you know what foods you're going to prepare or consume ahead of time, then you can control what you eat," she said.

First, make sure your daily diet includes plenty of fruits, vegetables and whole grains.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture and U.S. Department of Health and Human Services advise people to follow the Food Guide Pyramid.

Choose most foods from the grain group (six to 11 servings), the vegetable group (three to five servings) and the fruit group (two to four servings).

Eat moderate amounts from the milk group (two to three servings) and meat and beans group (two to three servings).

"For many consumers, the Food Guide Pyramid sounds like a lot of food and people wonder how they could ever eat that much," Anding said. "But it is not that difficult. For example, most of us who eat pasta consume at least one cup during a meal. That's a minimum of two servings from the grain group."

Piñons are a good choice for High Plains

By RONN SMITH
Editor

Carl Bamert of Muleshoe has inquired about whether piñon pines make a good tree for planting on the High Plains.

The answer is yes, whether you're talking about a specimen for the landscape or a tough tree for a windbreak. Of course, if you're planting them for a windbreak and won't be irrigating, it would be good to plant them while you're young.

They are reasonably fast-growing with a little moisture, but very slow without it.

Of course, everybody sees vendors selling piñons along the streets in some towns. I don't want to be disrespectful of the initiative being shown by the people doing the selling, but I have never seen one of those with trees I would buy.

The reason is simple: If you have a pine tree 4- or 5-foot tall with a root ball 8 or 10 inches in diameter, you're going to have problems — possibly more than you'll want to deal with even if the tree survives.

Without its root system to feed the top, it's going to be completely dependent on you to keep moisture available right up to the trunk and provide all the nutrients it needs within that 8- or 10-inch circle.

If the tree is to be used for landscaping, my advice is to go to a nursery and find one in a container. You may only be able to afford one that's considerably smaller than 4 or 5 feet, but with reasonable attention for a year or two the container-grown tree should be fine. In most cases, I would say, a 2- or 3-foot containerized plant probably will get re-established and grow fast enough to catch up with a 4- or 5-foot tree that came with almost no roots.

And the death rate will be considerably lower with the containerized tree, not to mention the number of hours you'll spend to succeed with it.

If you are looking for some piñons to go in a windbreak, you probably will be looking at seedlings or transplants only a few inches high, and possibly bare-root. It's a little different when the trees are very small — they recover quickly from many experiences that might kill them once they're bigger.

I know of one piñon near West Camp that's 60-plus years old, so they will do fine here once they're established. And getting them established pretty much consists of providing a little moisture when they get dry during the first year or two.

Piñons are not easy to find in mail-order catalogs; they're not especially well-known outside the Southwest (except for their product, "pine nuts") and in much of the country they suffer from the wetness.

As for the tree's landscape quality, no less an authority than Michael A. Dirr praises the piñon in his Manual of Woody Landscape Plants, describing it as having a good dark green color and attractive growth habit.

Dirr, long a professor at the University of Georgia, is an unquestioned authority on landscape plants.

Happy planting!

- The feed store, the barber shop and the coffee shop act as the disseminators of early breaking local news.
- You are missed when you don't make it to church.
- The mayor and city officials control the real estate in town, but they are kept in line by the local watchdogs who contribute a steady stream of letters to the editor regarding fishy political activities.

LADIES GOLF ASSOCIATION

The Ladies Golf Association hosted its monthly luncheon Jan. 19 at the Muleshoe Country Club. Members were served salad, baked potatoes, stew with cornbread and chocolate cake.

President Darlene Henry called the meeting to order by welcoming a new member, Pamela Miller.

Henry then thanked the other new officers for accepting their positions: Vice President Tammy Black, Secretary Jana St. Clair, Treasurer Pat Kirk, Reporter Deborah Noble, Play Day Chairperson Cheryl Engelking, Tournament Chairperson Anita Allgood and High Plains Chairperson Linda Elder.

Neets Foster won the door prize.

Thank-you cards from Ruby Hart and from Engelking were read to the association.

Henry encouraged members to remember their secret pals and keep Hart in their prayers.

St. Clair read roll call. Members present were Engelking, Allgood, Black, Miller, Foster, Kirk, Henry, Noble, Cookie Bamert, Analita Haley, Yolanda Phillips, Claudine Elliot, Elinor Yerby, Jana St. Clair, Dorothy St. Clair, LeVern Winn, Ronda Box, Helen Templeton and Judy Wilbanks.

The association's Christmas project for last year was a food drive. Engelking gathered the food and took it to the local food bank. The association would like to express appreciation to all who helped make this campaign a success.

This year the association had its first Play Day this year, with three teams of four playing a scramble for best score.

The winning team, with a score of 77, was Phillips, Elliot, Yerby and Noble. On the regular Wednesday Play Days, tee-off time for 18 holes is 1 p.m. Anyone who gets a three-putt has to feed the piggy a quarter. At the end of the year, a drawing determines who gets their quarters back.

German chocolate cake was served after 18 holes of golf. This was to celebrate our January birthdays — Dorothy St. Clair, Winn and Noble.

The next meeting will be Feb. 16 at noon in the Muleshoe Country Club dining room.

Lady Mules lose close one to Friona

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

The Lady Mules were upset by the Friona Squaws 44-41 on Friday night. Friona just held off a frantic comeback by Muleshoe, which trailed 28-15 at the half.

Friona guard Crystal Morton scored 15 points in the first half and added two clutch free throws in the fourth to give the Lady Mules their first district loss of the season.

Most of Morton's damage came in the final 2:32 of the first half. She hit a three-pointer and a jumper during a 10-2 run. Kayla Smiley add four during the run and finished with 12 points for Friona.

The Lady Mules entered the fourth trailing 36-23, but Lindsey Field led a furious comeback. With 4:55 left in the game, Field hit two free throws to make the score 38-29. Only 26 seconds later, Field hit two more the cut the Squaw lead to seven.

After Crystal Dow hit a layup for Friona, the game looked to be in the books, but Field kept at it. Two straight baskets cut the lead to three. Morton then hit two free throws to put the game at 44-39. Field hit another shot and Britni Gartin, who scored 12 points, forced a jump ball with 5.3 seconds remaining.

While trying to open up a teammate, however, Field was called for an offensive foul. After V'Laura Wilcox missed the free throw, Muleshoe had a final chance, but a long pass went out of bounds.

Three Way Eagles take district opener from Ropesville

MAPLE — Rallying in the final quarter, the Three Way Eagles beat Ropes 51-49 here Jan. 21 in the district opener for both teams.

Jimmy James scored 14 points — including eight in the final period — to lead a balanced Three Way attack. He also had 10 rebounds.

Daniel Reeves added eight, while Alberto Valderas, Marvin McCaul and Michael Soliz each had six. Eight of 10 Eagles contributed to the scoring.

John Escobedo scored 21 and Jeff McCrummen 15 for Ropes, now 15-7 and 0-1.

Ropes led 38-33 going into the final period, but the Eagles battled back with an 18-11 run for the win.

The Eagle JV also won, 57-26.

Three Way (14-7, 1-0) was scheduled to play a district contest Tuesday at Meadow — a rematch of the Jan. 8 championship game of the Meadow Tournament, won 54-52 by Meadow.

Since then, the Eagles have been riding a four-game winning streak.

After the game at Meadow, the Eagles will host Whitharral in a district game Friday.

EAGLES 82, FAITH TEMPLE 54

Four Three Way players scored in double figures and the entire team contributed to the scoring as the Eagles pounded Portales Faith Temple 82-54 on Jan. 18 in Portales.

James scored 18, McCaul 14, Reeves 11 and Valderas 10 for the Eagles. Anthony Furgeson and Monty Kirby added eight apiece.

Koby Smith led the Conquerors with 33 points.

EAGLES 67, LAZBUDDIE 59

Valderas poured in 25 points and McCaul added 15 as the Eagles held off Lazbuddie 67-59 Jan. 14 at Three Way.

Bryce Ronek paced the Longhorns with 23 points, while Jeffery Seaton had 13 and Tyler Gartin scored 11.

Three Way took a 19-13 lead after one quarter and extended it to 37-23 at the half. The Longhorns (3-18) pulled within 47-39 after three, but could not catch the Eagles.

In the JV contest, Lazbuddie came away with a 34-21 win.

EAGLES 79, COTTON CENTER 70

Balanced scoring was the key as Three Way stopped Cotton Center 79-70 Jan. 11 at TWHS.

Nine of 10 Eagles scored, including four in double figures and four more with at least six points. Valderas had 14 to lead Three Way, while Furgeson had 12 and Robert Rodríguez and McCaul scored 10 each. Kirby had nine; Soliz and James eight each and Scott Pollard had six.

The balance off set a 32-point effort by Jeremy McFerrin of Cotton Center.

In the JV contest, Cotton Center escaped with a 57-55 win.

MEADOW TOURNAMENT Championship MEADOW 54, EAGLES 52
Meadow rallied from behind in the final period to top Three Way 54-52 in the tournament championship game Jan. 8.

Meadow improved to 18-1 with the win.

Shawn Ingram led Meadow with 17, while Jason Pérez had 13 and Michael Méndez added 11.

Reeves had 12, Valderas 11 and Furgeson 10 for the Eagles.

Both Valderas and Furgeson were named to the all-tournament team.

Three Way built a 32-24 lead at the half and held the same margin at 41-33 going into the fourth quarter.

Three Way got to the title game by beating the Meadow JV 82-29 in the first round and Wellman-Union 56-53 in the semifinals.

SPC annual math/science event slated

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

Area high school students will get a head start on University Interscholastic League competition at a Jan. 29 contest planned at South Plains College in Levelland.

This the 16th year for SPC's annual High School Math and Science Contest, which helps to prepare students for the UIL meets.

More than 200 students from as many as 25 area high schools are expected to be on hand for the competition, scheduled for 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the Math and Engineering Building on campus.

Categories include math, science, number sense and calculator.

"Schools that do well at this practice meet generally do well at UIL," said Pat Foard, a director of the meet and assistant professor of mathematics.

Sweepstakes will be awarded to the best overall team in large school (4A-5A) and small school (1A-2A-3A) divisions. Trophies will go to first-, second- and third-place winners and in each grade level for first through tenth.

the right to compete for the title by winning the showmanship title in one of the four species. Each then showed head-to-head in a one-hour test of skill and stamina. Bill Morrison, a long-time vocational agriculture instructor from Texico, judged Altman's performance the best of the talented field. The Jimmy Dale Black Award can be won only once by any competitor.

Despite a large number of seniors lost to graduation last year, the show's overall numbers were about the same as the 1999 event. The 2000 show saw 48 steers and heifers, 28 goats, 38 lambs and 155 hogs, while the '99 event had 40 steers and heifers, 24 goats, 27 lambs and 182 hogs.

New faces among the top winners included Brett Bamert, who had the reserve grand champion steer in his first year in the cattle show; Zimmerman in the goat and sheep show; and Gunner Kerby, who had the reserve grand champion swine.

The Junior Livestock Sale continued to post strong numbers with excellent support from the community, according to stock show board members.

end for the Black family. Lysie's younger brother Brady had the champion British-breed steer, the reserve grand champion beef heifer and had a class winner in the exotics. Marlie, the youngest of four Black children, had the champion Hampshire barrow, the champion Spot barrow and the champion American-breed steer.

It was by far the most successful run for the Blacks, who have had their share of notable wins in more than 10 years of competition at the Bailey County Show.

The Junior Market Lamb Show title went to Andi Black, who unseated the four-time defending champion — her older brother Landon — with a powerful finewool cross.

But she got an assist from her brother, who showed the 153-pound grand champion. But Andi exhibited her lamb-showing abilities well enough to earn the junior showmanship crown.

Andi and Landon are the children of Kim Black and Sheila Black, both of Muleshoe.

The Junior Meat Goat Show title went to Kris Zimmerman, the son of Howard and Starla Zimmerman of Muleshoe. In his first year as a stock-show participant, Zimmerman also showed the reserve grand champion lamb.

The coveted Jimmy Dale Black Showmanship Award went to Lindsey Altman, daughter of Ronnie and Sheryl Altman of Muleshoe. Chosen as the top show person from the cattle show, Altman faced CamiJo Vandiver (goats), Bradley Thomason (swine) and Toby Kitchens (sheep) in the ultimate test of showmanship. The four competitors earned

Tax changes aim to help American citizens' bottom line

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is a column written by U.S. Rep. Larry Combest, R-Texas.)

We are finally celebrating the new millennium and, thankfully, no major complication from the dreaded Y2K bug occurred. The traffic lights are still working, your money is still secure at the bank and commercial airlines are still flying.

Some important changes did take place, although most Americans probably didn't realize it while they were bringing in the New Year.

Due to several pieces of legislation that Congress has passed, a host of new tax benefits went into effect on Jan. 1 that go a long way to provide more money for hard-working Americans to save, invest and use to raise their children.

These tax changes affected everything from pensions to education to estate taxes, and will benefit millions of Americans.

One effect will allow seniors to earn $1,500 more annually without losing any Social Security benefits.

Seniors between the ages of 65 and 69 will be able to earn up to $17,000 each year, up from $15,500 in 1999, with a further increase to $30,000 in 2002, without losing their Social Security benefits.

About 800,000 seniors will be aided by the increase in the earnings limit. This is a good step in the right direction, but I believe that seniors should be able to earn as much as they are able to, and ultimately I would like to see a complete repeal of the earnings limit.

In addition to certain benefits, workers can also increase their 401(k) plan contributions.

The limit on the amount that an individual can contribute on a salary reduction basis to a 401(k) plan increased $10,500 this year because of cost-of-living adjustments that Congress built into the tax code.

More Americans will qualify for IRAs thanks to a provision raising by $1,000 the income thresholds that limit participation in IRAs.

In 1999, joint filers qualified for IRAs if their adjusted gross income was below $61,000. Effective on New Year's Day this year, the phase-out range increased to $62,000 for joint filers. The old $41,000 phase-out range for single filers increased to $42,000.

Taxpayers earning less than these limits are permitted a deductible contribution of up to $2,000 for these traditional IRAs, which are different from a Roth IRA. The phase-out range for joint filers will increase to $100,000 in Y2K tax changes this year as well.

Student loan interest deductions went up to $2,000, with a higher portion of interest on qualified education loans to be deductible this year.

Qualified loans for higher education expenses are generally limited to tuition, fees, room and board and related expenses.

In 1999, the maximum deduction was $1,500. Now, the maximum deduction is $2,000 and will increase to $2,500 in 2001, with an estimated 3 million taxpayers claiming this deduction.

This year, there also will be continued deductions for employer-provided education assistance.

Close to 845,000 American workers will benefit from this type of educational assistance in 2000.

Congress extended a provision in the tax code that was set to expire this May that provides an exclusion of $5,250 annually for employer-provided undergraduate educational assistance that can be used for tuition, fees, books and supplies.

As for small businesses, their expensing rate has increased this year. Roughly 700,000 small businesses will now be able to deduct up to $20,000 in expenses for tangible personal property that is purchased for business-related use.

This deduction is up from $19,000 in 1999 and will be phased up to $25,000 in 2003.

More importantly, the current $650,000 exemption from death taxes increased to $675,000 on Jan. 1, on its way to $1 million in 2006, and standard deductions will go up $100 for single individuals (to $4,400) and $150 for married couples filing jointly (to $7,350).

Recently, the National Taxpayer Advocate released a report supporting a complete phase-out of the alternative minimum tax on individuals as a good way to reduce the complexity of the U.S. tax code, the most serious problem facing taxpayers right now.

Last year, Congress passed legislation that would have eliminated the individual alternative minimum tax, but the president vetoed the bill. However, last month, the president signed into law a plan that provides temporary relief from the tax.

That means the tax will not limit 1 million Americans from fully using personal non-refundable tax credits to offset their regular tax liability.

Previously, these filers could only use these credits, allowing for the payment of less taxes.

These are just some of the positive tax changes taking place this year.

Other items, such as the $500 child tax credit for education savings, have already gone into effect, and I will be working toward allowing even more savings for education this year.

Congress also passed monumental tax legislation in 1999 which, if the president had signed the bill, would have provided $792 billion in tax relief, including a 10 percent across-the-board tax cut for all income brackets.

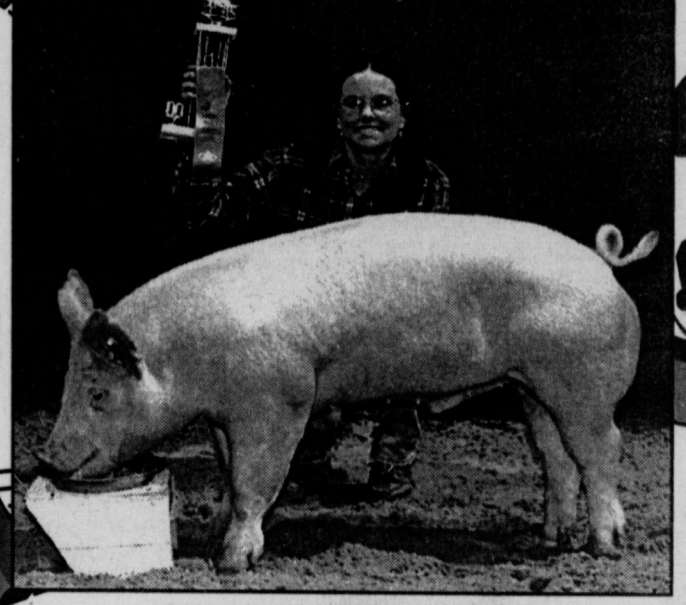

As Congress sets its agenda for the year, I remain committed to lowering taxes for every American taxpayer, saving Social Security, paying down the public debt and returning any non-Social Security surplus funds back to the taxpayer.

I support a budget that works to eliminate the public debt while providing significant tax cuts, and

I want to put an end to the marriage penalty and death taxes. I look forward to working hard this Congress to make Y2K another monumental year.

AMERICAN EXPERIENCE
NIXON'S CHINA GAME

In January 1969, just a week into his presidency, Richard Nixon set in motion a secret plan that would reverberate throughout the world. After two decades of stony silence between the United States and China — broken only by harsh insults and acrimonious accusations — Nixon wanted to end what he called China's "angry isolation." Together with his national security adviser, Henry Kissinger, the president developed an elaborate scheme to open diplomatic relations between the two nations. The covert operation would culminate in a series of events Nixon would later call "the week that changed the world."

Now, as Beijing celebrates a half-century of communist rule, and relations between China and the United States remain tense, The American Experience presents "Nixon's China Game," the story of an operation so secret that it managed to elude the international press, the members of Nixon's cabinet, and even the U.S. State Department.

The documentary features never-before-seen footage of Kissinger's secret mission to China, newly released transcripts of the negotiations, private diaries, Nixon's own handwritten notes, and interviews with American and Chinese officials — including those who were in on the covert plan and those who were kept in the dark.

"Nixon's China Game" on The American Experience airs Monday, January 31st at 9:00 p.m. It repeats Sunday, February 6th at 2:00 p.m.

Scientific American Frontiers
"Never Say Die"

Scientific American Frontiers "Never Say Die" explores the progress being made in understanding aging and dying. As scientists unravel the biological mysteries of aging, they're coming up with dramatic ideas for halting or — even reversing — the aging process. At the same time, scientists are already making tremendous advances in tissue engineering. The possibility that people could soon be living healthy lives for 150 years or beyond is very real. Alan Alda hosts.

At the Geron Corporation near San Francisco, scientists are working on a breakthrough in biotechnology that may make it possible for the body's cells to divide indefinitely and remain healthy well beyond their programmed life spans.

At Advanced Cell Technology in Worcester, Massachusetts, scientists are on the verge of being able to create any kind of human cell, in any quantity. The goal is to take a human skin cell, extract its contents, and insert it into a donor egg to create various kinds of cells that are genetically identical to the person who needs them. If scientists learn how to coax these cells to differentiate into a wide range of cells, they will have an endless supply of cells from which to create new tissue.

Scientific American Frontiers "Never Say Die" airs Monday, January 31st at 10:00 p.m.

Ag Expo to feature farm antiques auction

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL PORTALES—The New Mexico Ag Expo, presented by Allsup's, will be held Feb. 22-23 at the Roosevelt County Fairground in Portales, and will feature an antique auction by J&J Auctioneers.

The auction will be held Feb. 22 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Show Arena.

Joe and Jenny Boulware of Roy, N.M., are the owners and operators of J&J Auctioneers. This will be their first Ag Expo auction. The Boulwares opened J&J in 1996, but they've been involved with auctioneering since 1992.

"We'll be auctioning farm-type antiques," Joe Boulware said. "It'll be things like old implements, rural house-type fixtures, corn shellers, feed grinders, tools and old plows."

"We sell the smaller things first," he added. "We sell those items of the highest value in the middle part of the sale and closer to the end of the sale."

"The auction is a lot of entertainment for people," he continued. "It's fun. You don't have to buy anything at an auction. It's just a good place to visit and socialize."

The New Mexico Ag Expo is New Mexico's premier agricultural trade show featuring more than 300 exhibitors and 5,000 spectators.

Visitors can enjoy educational seminars, demonstrations on equine behavior modification and blacksmithing and horseshoeing, a chuck wagon lunch, Red Angus Futurity Heifer Sale, a sanctioned working ranch horse competition and more.

Spectators who are age 18 and older shouldn't miss the chance to register to win a 16' stock trailer sponsored by Plateau Wireless.

More information is available by calling (505) 356-8541 or 800-635-8036, or e-mailing chamber@portales.com.
