Coke Citizens to Vote In Amendment Election

Qualified voters of Coke County, along with those over the rest of Texas, are eligible to go to the polls Tuesday. Nov. 3, to decide the fate of seven proposed amendments to the state constitution.

Elections will be held in all six of Coke County's voting precincts.

A large turnout is not expected, if the number of absentee votes which have been cast is any index to the interest. No absentee ballots had been cast as of Wednesday morning.

Some local interest has been generated on part of the proposed changes in the constitution, but nobody is beating drums very loudly either for or against the propositions.

The amendments are listed on the ballot in the order given below:

No. 1 would authorize cities, towns, and other taxing units to encourage the improvement, development, or redevelopment or certain areas through property

Winter Weather Brings Frost

Cold weather came in a hurry this week, as it usually does in West Texas, jumping from summer to winter, skipping a long fall altogether. A strong cool front Wednesday a week ago brought temperatures down to the low '40's with another 1.3-inch rain coming down through Thursday. Without much warming trend during the day, the mercury skidded to 37 degrees on Saturday morning, with a heavy coat of frost. High winds kept the frost away Sunday morning but another heavy frost covered everything Monday morning.

Ranchers and farmers had hoped for more growing time after the extensive rains throughout the area, but will have to concentrate now on rye and small grains. Cotton farmers are pleased to see the sun and others will be glad to get into the fields to plant.

Residents who have pecan trees are suffering losses now as pecans have sprouted in the hulls, particularly the Burkett varieties, as Coke County received almost its average annual rainfall in October.

Munoz Enters Two Contests

Lupe Munoz, Robert Lee's star long distance runner, competed in two cross country meets last weekend. Coach Clyde Dukes took her and his two boys in the long distance competition. Garry Palmer and Jim Herring, to Midland last Friday.

Munoz came in 14th out of 100 runners and had time of 13:34. Palmer was 36th among 60 runners and had a time of 20:18, and Herring was 46th out of 60 with 20:59.

Munoz went to the Brownwood Cross Country Meet last Saturday and came in sixth among 61 runners with a time of 12:51 tax relief and the issuance of bonds and notes.

No. 2 would authorize the commissioner of the General Land Office to issue patents for certain public free school fund land held in good faith under color of title for at least 50 years as of November 15, 1981.

No. 3 would allow the legislature to grant a state finance management committee the power to manage the expenditure of certain appropriated funds.

No. 4 would authorize the use of a portion of the excess revenues of the state for water development, water conservation, water quality enhancement, and flood control purposes; authorizing the use of the state's credit, not to exceed five hundred million dollars, to guarantee the bonds of cities, counties, towns, and other units of local government in the financing of projects for such purposes; increasing the interest rate that may be paid on previously approved but unissued state bonds; and authorizing a program to retire state bonds.

No. 5 would provide for the inclusion of livestock and poultry with farm products as exempt from taxation.

No. 6 would authorize a political subdivision to provide property tax relief for owners of residence homesteads and changing certain property tax administrative procedures.

No. 7 would authorize the issuance of additional bonds to finance the veterans' land program and to increase the maximum interest rate allowable on veterans land fund bonds.

Probably the most controversial amendment is No. 4, the one which would allow up to half of the state's surplus revenues to be placed in a water development fund. Dry West Texas seems mainly to be for the proposal, while many East Texans are opposed.

Coke County citizens are also interested in the proposal to exempt livestock and poultry from ad valorem taxes, and to provide tax relieft on residence homesteads.

Absentee voting will end today (Friday) at 5 p.m. when the office of the county clerk closes.

Ring Found After 10 Years

A 1972 RLHS class ring missing for 10 years was turned up by R.L. Flanagan last Wednesday on the school football field. Flanagan, using his new metal detector "toy", located the ring belonging to Burl Davis, at a depth of about 4 inches. It had been lost in the fall of 1971 during a touch football game, before the 1972 senior graduation.

The ring, with a clear stone mounted in antiqued white gold, was in surprisingly good condition. Evelyn and R.L. Flanagan, whose son, Randy, was a junior in high school at the time recognized the ring and the initials inside and returned the ring to Davis' parents. Mr. and Mrs. Add Davis.

Annual Fall Festival Set For Saturday Night

Dogies Lose To Shorthorns 18-6

The Robert Lee Dogies took on the Bronte Shorthorns last Thursday night at the local stadium and came out on the short end of an 18-6 score.

The Dogies' single tally came on a 60 yard jaunt by Jim Bob Jacobs. The try for extra point failed

Pete Puentez scored two touchdowns for the Shorthorns and Mike Reyes hit Rob Shields with a pass for the third counter. No extra points were allowed the visitors

Coach Max Anthony credited his team with playing good defense in the second half, shutting down Bronte's scoring. "but they could not handle Bronte's 6 foot, three inch end with their 5 foot boys in the secondary."

The Dogie schedule called for a game here last night (Thursday) with the Buffs from Forsan. The Dogies will travel to Mertzon Thursday. Nov. 5, for their last game of the season with the Irion County Hornets. Game time is 6 p.m.

The Victory Assembly Church will be having revival with the Freddy Weaver Family, starting Nov. 1 and going through Nov. 10. Service time will be 7:30 p.m. each night.

Everyone is invited to attend an evening of worship with this family. "They will bless your hearts with their music and singing which is annointed from God" said the pastor. Larry Anderson. Anderson said.

The Freddy Weaver's make their home in Hamlin, but are on the road most of the time. Evangelist Freddy Weaver is an ordained minister with the Assemblies of God and has been in the ministry for about eight years in which he has pastored a church for four years and has evangelized the other four years. The family consists of wife, Clara, son Mickey, daughter Michelle.

Pastor Anderson gives everyone a special invitation "to come and be with us."

Steers, Sterling City To Meet In District 3-A Tilt

The Robert Lee Steers have an outside chance of claiming a part of the District 3-A title if they can down Sterling City Friday night and if Roby will knock off Roscoe. There are lots of "if's" connected with the Steers' chances to win the district title, but strange things do happen in West Texas football.

Coach Jerold Epperson, right now, is concerned most with how his Steers do Friday night when they travel to Sterling City to take on the Eagles. He wants most of all to win that game.

The coach said. "The Eagles have a a real good defensive team and it's going to be hard for us to run against them."

The Steers have been working hard all this week getting ready for the Eagle defense and they are hoping to find the right holes to run through and the right times to put the ball in the air to overcome the lads of Sterling County. They don't think it's going to be easy, but they do feel like they can do it, if they work together as a team and overcome the Eagle defensive strength.

The Steers do want all their fans present at the game to the west and have issued a special request that everyone make a special effort to be at Sterling City Friday night. They need all the help we can give them, one fan asserted, and we owe them all the backing we can give.

TO'THE GREAT NORTHWEST

by Mrs. Russell T. McBroom

On Sunday morning, Sept. 6, my sistér, Alice Acock, her daughter, Chanda Kellam, and I began a tour of the Northwest. Our first stop was in Tatum, N.M., where we attended church and visited my relatives. We didn't tarry too long, because we wanted to get past the racetrack in Ruidiso before the races were over. (That Traffic!). After a stop in the Hondo Valley for cherry cider, we passed the tracks in the nick of time; then spent an hour and a half within a quarter mile of the house of our nephew, Van Brown, unable to find the right intersection. We finally located a telephone and called for help. After church, Van took us to see his daughter, Jane Hall, and her family. Later that evening, Van's brother Don called from Australia

On Monday we drove through rain to Albuquerque, then in sunshine through Bernalillo and Cuba to Farmington, gawking at interesting volcanic formations all along the way.

West of Farmington, at the foot of Hogback Mountain is a Navajo mission directed by J.D. Wardlow, a Tennessee native. His wife, Aznice, is a naturalized American from Armenia who speaks seven languages. We stayed with them three nights while we toured the country. Across the highway from the mission is an Indian trading post, and nearby is the Turquoise Bar. At all hours of the day, Indians may be seen lying dead drunk in the parking lot or leaning against the walls.

Alice told me that Indian women wouldn't wear bluejeans under any circumstances, so that pregnant Indian I saw at the trading post must have been a man!

Tuesday morning was spent entering Aznice's quilt in the San Juan County Fair. The afternoon lent itself beautifully to taking pictures of Shiprock, the Four Corners area, and Montezuma Creek.

Mesa Verde, our destiny on Wednesday, defies description. The mountains are beautiful, but the ruins themselves are alive with the ghosts of thousands of Indians. Their presence is felt with an eeriness that cannot be explained. Perhaps archeologists feel it often, but it is certainly a strong feeling.

I rode the bus with J.D. to the reservation to pick up Navajos for Bible Study. The little Indians were alive and eager to talk, but were difficult for me to understand.

The Wardlows started to go with us to Moab, Utah, and the Arches National Monument, but turned back at Blanding because of rain that appeared to be general. The rains proved to be spotted and intermittent, but the danger of flooding rushed us through some parts of the park. The arches are breathtakingly beautiful. From the park we went to Price, Utah, for a long night's rest. Seven hours of driving time would take us to Idaho Falls, Idaho, and Robert's family. Time for the trip was another story.

Leaving Price just as the school buses were starting their runs, we soon began to climb up and over the mountain. At one point where we seemed to be going downhill, the car began to labor so hard it scared me. Actually we were climbing steadily, as was obvious when we reached the top and started down. The other side of the mountain was obscured by fog so dense we could barely see the opposite side of the highway, and I drove about 20 miles without touching the accelerator, before coming out on the plains where the fog cleared. Stopping in Orem for a coffee break, we met a good looking group of young men--tourists from Germany. While in Orem we visited the Osmond studios.

A 17 mile drive over a causeway took us to Antelope Island in Great Salt Lake for a picnic lunch. I could have stayed a week trying to identify the millions of waterfowl, but time was short. So following a quick run past the Mormon temple, we drove on through Ogden, Utah and Pocatello, Idaho, to Idaho Falls and my grandsons.

We arrived at Robert's house in the midst of an emergency. Robert had sprained his ankle at work, then had to walk home from the bus--about three blocks. When we drove up, Karen was filling a bag with ice for the ankle, so nobody could come to the door. That ankle sort of put a crimp in our activities, but by the next day Robert could walk with the aid of a cane. So we went to see the falls for which the town is named, then spent the afternoon in the park watching two very active little boys play. Of course Grandma was bored with that and didn't take a single picture! Sean, the 4-year-old, jogs a mile with his parents several times a week, and can really run. While there we taught Robert and Karen to play Skip-Bo.

Sunday morning 3-year-old Scott discovered dentures and was so overwhelmed he told everybody at church about them and begged me to "show them".

After lunch, Robert, the boys and I went bird watching at a swamp-bird-sanctuary called Robert's lake. The birds were not so tame as those at Salt Lake, so we had trouble getting close enough to identify any except the most common ones. Still it was fun to watch the boys.

Alice went to church that night with Robert and Karen, but Chanda and I stayed at home with the boys and studied the maps for tomorrow's run. We visited until bedtime.

We left Idaho Falls before sunup, partly to get an early start and partly to make it easier for the McBrooms to get off to school and work. Robert rides a company bus to his job at the nuclear research facilities about 30 miles from town. Karen teaches the trainable retarded group in high school, and the boys attend a nursery-day school facility and we had a long way to go.

Car trouble. Doesn't it always come along? Just about the time we reached the Idaho-Wyoming border, the car began to rattle, so we turned back to the village of Snow Valley. Sure enough there was a garage. The owner-operator went to work for us without delay and replaced the bearings in the universal joint; and we went merrily on our way, rejoicing that it had happened there instead of in the mountains somewhere. The delay was only about two hours.

We were stopped in the Teton Pass by a large flock of sheep. Of course we got busy with the cameras. When the sheepherder rode by leading his pack horse, he grinned and yelled, "Picture time. I'll bet my picture is on more walls than the Post Office

It took me a while to figure out why the mountain ridges were covered with trees, while all the gullies were bare. Then I realized that snow slides kept the gullies raked clean. These mountains were HIGH.

We didn't stop in Jackson, but did stop for pictures at the signs for Jackson Hole and the Tetons. Soon after that we saw our first glacier. We were disappointed by smog in the Tetons, but were able to get some beautiful slides. (Apparently there had been a forest fire nearby.)

In Yellowstone, the first thing we planned to see was the geyser basin. It is easy now to see why people to whom Coulter described it referred to it as Coulter's your help and cooperation.

Hell, with his reference to "boiling water and steam shooting high in the air, the ground smoking, the smell of sulphur and the lurid colors. They probably thought it was the figment of a drunken imagina-

Near the "paint pots" we saw several buffalo.

Swinging across the park past Virginia Cascade, we came to the Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone and the numerous waterfalls. Following the road north, we were surprised to come upon mountain sheep. At Mammoth Hot Spring was a herd of elk. We passed a moose herd somewhere along the way, but were too far off to take pictures.

We'd have liked to stay a couple of days in Yellowstone, but had too settle for seeing the highlights. Maybe in my next reincarnation I can stay longer.

The sun was setting as we arrived in Butte, Mont., so after a good steak dinner, we retired. (Continued Next Week)

Pageant Assn. Grateful For Help With Sale

The Coke County Pageant Association officers and directors said this week they want to thank everyone who helped make its rummage and bake sale a success. The sale was held Oct. 9 and 10. They thanked everyone who "contributed, worked and bought" at the sale.

The sale was held in place of the "Big Event" which was called off this year for several reasons: the Recreation Building was not available as a "back-up" place to have the event in case of bad weather; and a large number of fund raising events have been held recently, with more to come, making it difficult to have enough people available to assure success of the event.

Association officers said they regret the "Big Event" had to be cancelled, "as this community event benefited other organizations and individuals as well as the pageant association." However, they added, "Thank you for

TEXAS FARMS INCREASING

While the total number of farms in the United States continues to decline, Texas is bucking the trend. While more farms in West Texas are consolidating to form bigger, more profitable units, farms in eastern areas are being sub-divided into smaller units to be used as weekend retreats by folks who have to live and work in the city during the week. Texas boasted 194,253 farms in 1978 compared to 174,000 in 1974. The U.S. Census Bureau defines a farm as "any place from which $1,000 or more worth of agricultural products were sold or normally would have been sold in the previous year." However, a relatively small portion of the total number of farms produce the lion's share of agricultural products, notes an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. In Texas 2.8 percent of the farms produce 60 percent of the value of farm cash receipts.

BUILD YOUR OWN HOME SAVE AT LEAST HALF

Build your own home and save about half. Many "average" homes now have a $100,000 price tag, but an owner-builder can spend about $50,000 for materials and build a $100,000-$120,000 house. Becoming involved in home-building can avoid some of the labor costs and the contractors' overhead, notes a housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Doing some of the work yourself and arranging for the rest of the building can save about 20 percent. Having a contractor provide the foundation, framing, siding and roof but "finishing" the house yourself can save up to 44

Mrs. Yvonne Conner recently spent Oct. 5-6-7 in Houston at M.D. Anderson Hospital for her regular treatments and will not return until Dec. 15. She declared she "was feeling well and had enjoyed riding around and getting out in the beautiful fall weather this past week.'

IT'S A FACT

It's not a kidding matter. When female (doe) goats give birth to young, it's called "kidding." A demonstration conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service has shown that female goats held in confinement during the kidding period give birth to 46 percent more "kids" than their sisters left to kid out on the range. This new kidding practice can mean greater profits for goat producers. This is another example of "The Extension Way-People Helping People."

Season to End Friday: Dove Quail Season To Open Sunday

Mourning dove season will end Friday, Oct. 30, in the North Zone, of which Coke County is a part. The 60 day season here has been erratic with short periods of good hunting and nice sized birds, but as a whole it did not live up to expectations. Considering the amount of grain and weed crops, it had been predicted as a big year for dove hunters. The extended rains of October apparently have driven the mi-

County Faced With Lawsuit

Coke County is faced with a lawsuit to get Friendship Road re-opened, according to E.C. Bennett, chairman of the Lake Improvement Committee, which has been waging a battle for months to get the Coke County Commissioners' Court to reverse its decision to close the road leading to the lake.

Bennett, chairman of the Lake Improvement Committee, said in a telephone conversation Tuesday night that he was "disappointed in the number of persons who turned out" for a meeting last Saturday night at the Courthouse. Bennett said at first there were 12 to 15 persons present. and then called back to say 18 persons were in attendance.

Bennett said the vote Saturday night was unanimous to sue the county and force re-opening of the road. All those present offered to help pay for the costs involved in the lawsuit, Bennett said. He has retained Lubbock attorney Tom S. Milam, a member of one of Lubbock's most prestigious law firms, Crenshaw, Dupree and Milam, to represent the group who oppose closure of

In a letter to this newspaper last week, Bennett stated he had strong support for his cause with names of 289 names on a petition. In addition, he stated, "Many people have come to me since that time wanting to help get it open, so I am sure I represent more than 300 people in this matter.

Coke County's quail season will open Sunday, October 31 and extend to January 31, 1982. Shooting hours are set for 1/2 hour before sunrise to 1/2 hour after sunset. The decision on bag limits for quail was deferred until surveys were completed in the annual late summer production tally. Bird numbers for this area are indicated by the raising of the bag limit to 20 birds by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Dept., the most ever allowed here. Game Warden Lt. R. L. Flanagan predicted "the upcoming quail season should be a bumper crop year. In my work and travels around my district, I've observed the most birds I've ever seen here'

Bird hunters are cautioned this time of year to watch for rattlesnakes for their own safety and the safety of their bird dogs. Snakes traveling to their dens in the fall are known to be badtempered and often do not rattle before striking.

Services Held For Mrs. Brown

In cities and towns all across Texas, local water problems are threatening to erupt into one enormous statewide crisis. Countless communities are facing growing water supply, water treatment, sewage treatment and flood control problems estimated to cost a staggering $50 billion over the next 25 years. To make matters worse, federal funds for water projects have recently been slashed.

But on November 3, Texans have the opportunity to adopt a plan, already passed by two-thirds of the Legislature, which would harness a portion of our state's budget surplus to help shoulder that heavy local burden.

The plan is proposed Constitutional Amendment No. 4

Passage of Amendment No. 4 would:

- Make possible the sale of more than $200 million in authorized and urgently needed state bonds to address a backlog of needed projects.
- Create a loan guaranty program to enable local communities to save millions of dollars in issuing future bonds.
- Begin to build a "nest egg" for the future from a part of the state's budget surplus to assist local governments in financing future water and sewage

Texas' water needs must be met, either now or in the future. We can act now, and save money ... or pay the higher price later for our neglect, with possible increased taxes. Sensible action now makes much more sense for Texas.

Larry Shaw To Support Amendment 5

State Representative Larry Don Shaw today announced his support for proposed Constitutional Amendment Five, saying that passage of Proposition Five would be a positive step toward helping hold down rising food

Proposition Five proposes to include livestock and poultry with other farm products already exempt from property (ad valorem) taxes, and is one of seven proposed Constitutional Amendments to be considered by Texas voters on November 3. Those products are currently taxed inconsistently across the state because of a 1976 Attorney General's opinion that livestock and poultry are not "farm products." Texas is the only state among the large cattle-feeding states which allows such a tax.

"Any producer of any product must recover the cost of production, including taxes, and show some profit, if he is to stay in business." Representative Shaw said, "Without passage of Proposition Five which would remove property taxes on livestock and poultry, some producers may conclude that they cannot afford to remain in that business. Then, we'll see a drop in production, meaning eventual increases in consumer prices.

"On the other hand," Shaw continued. "passage of Proposition Five will be of significant help in holding down the cost of livestock and poultry production in Texas, meaning this is one step we can take to help hold down rising food costs."

Representative Shaw pointed out that no other food products are taxed in Texas. And, he noted that the present system of taxing meat is "inequitable and unfair"

"Many school districts and most counties do not tax livestock or poultry at all, while others do. With Proposition Five, we could assure fair, uniform tax treatment for all food producers."

Representative Shaw said that total revenues generated by livestock and poultry taxes accounts for less than one-fourth of one percent of all Texas property tax receipts each year.

Addressing the effect of the amendment on school districts. Shaw said that schools' revenue losses will be partially offset by increased state aid when livestock and poultry are removed from each school district's state aid formula. "Statewide, this increased state money will average one-half of the lost revenues and some school districts will actually receive more aid than the revenue they will lose," he said.

"In addition to helping consumers and producers alike, encouraging a healthy livestock and poultry industry in Texas will contribute to the vitality of the state's overall economy, thus increasing overall tax revenues from many other sources," Representative Shaw concluded.

The "Vote for 5 Committee" is chaired by State Rep. Susan McBee (D-Del Rio) and consists of representatives from nine agricultural groups who have united to support passage of the amend-

Social Security: Is It Worth The Red Tape?

Social Security Retirement. Is it really worth all that "government red tape"? If you are nearing retirement age, this may be a question you have asked. The answer is yes; because a social security retirement application requires very little documentation.

You, as the retiree, are asked to turnish proof of your age and proof of your earnings for the last two years. You will also complete a retirement application. Proof of age normally consists of a public record of birth (Birth certificate) made before the age of five. If you have attempted to obtain a public record of your birth and find that no such record exists. you will be asked to furnish other proof of your age. Other proofs consist of but are not limited to: Baptismal records made before the age of five; school records; marriage records: census records; and military records.

Proof of earnings normally consist of W-2 forms and/or self-employment income tax returns.

As previously stated, you will also complete a retirement application. A social security representative will assist you with completing the application. Some of the questions you will be asked concern military service, work for the railroad industry, and marital history.

It all of the above proofs and information is available at the time of hing, a retirement application may be processed in six weeks or less. Therefore, it is advisable to file your application about one, and one-half, but not more than three months, before the month you want your benefits to begin.

Remember the Boy Scout motto "Be Prepared". If you have questions about social security, contact your nearest Social Security Office at 2214 Sherwood Way, San Angelo, Texas, or Telephone 949-4608. Remember too, your claim may be completed via telephone and mail.

Are you a morning 'jetsetter''. complete with instant everything--and bitter coffee?

Here's a prevent-bitter-coffee idea -- for instant-coffee, microwave users only: Add the hot water to the coffee granules, instead of adding coffee to the hot water.

When you add coffee granules to boiling water, the rapid flavor release from the granules can cause bitter coffee.

In most cases, coffee and tea have a better flavor if the water used is never boiled but heated to a point just before boiling.

Boiling water causes the release of salts and minerals from the water. This can change the taste and often causes bitterness.

Recommended Deer Harvest Officials of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is making the following harvest recom-

Officials of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department have announced deer harvest regulations for Coke County. Some changes have been made in the regulations and hunters are urged to observe the new rules.

Maps showing the three areas of Coke County which have different recommendations on harvesting are posted in the Courthouse at Robert Lee and at The Bronte Enterprise office in Bronte.

Either-sex deer harvest regulations adopted by the department provide for the taking of antlerless deer in Coke Co. during the 1981 hunting season without use of antlerless permits. Hunters will still be required to attach an appropriate carcass tag from a valid Texas hunting license to both buck and antlerless deer immediately upon kill.

Under the either-sex regulations, the landowner is given the responsibility of regulating the deer harvest by designating the number of antlerless and buck deer to be harvested from each tract of land under his/her control. Hunters must have permission from the landowner before harvesting any deer.

Deer numbers in most areas have recovered significantly from population losses incurred during the drought of 1980; however, mature bucks will still be rather limited in number during the 1981 hunting season.

Based upon recent surveys of the deer population, the Parks and Wildlife Department is making the following harvest recommendations for the various designated portions of the county. These recommendations are not compulsory and are intended for use as guidelines for the landowner and hunter.

325 acres per buck and 120 acres per antlerless deer in the Northeast portion of the county or north and east of Robert Lee and northwest of Bronte.

220 acres per buck and 215 acres per antlerless deer in the west and southern portion of the county.

240 acres per buck and 140 acres per antlerless deer in the extreme southwest corner of the county or the corner of the county southwest of Highway 87.

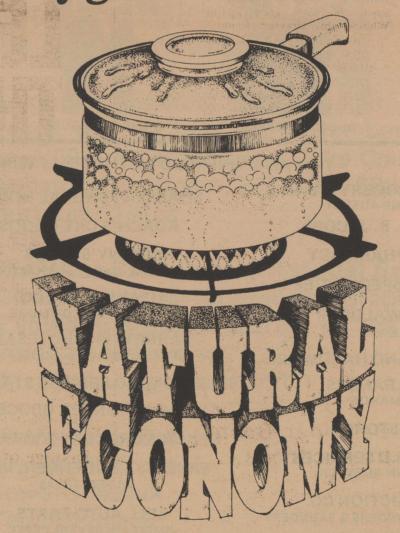

Antlerless deer permits are still required for the western part of Runnels County and will be issued Nov. 6 at the Courthouse in Ballinger.

A number of inquiries have been received on what to do if a deer is run over on a highway or roadway. Officials said the proper procedure is to call Game Warden Sparks Burdett at 453-2887 in Robert Lee. He will see that the carcass is legally and properly removed.

Steers Fall To Roscoe In District Game, 20-7

By Stan Ray

The Steers' hardest and most important game of season was lost Friday night, to the Roscoe Plowboys. The score was 20-7.

The Steers had a total of 152 yards, compared to Roscoe's 318 total yards. The first half was a low scoring, defensive game. It looked as though it would be a close game when no one had scored through the first quarter. The Steers did score midway through the second quarter on a pass to Sanchez (the PAT was good).

The Plowboys came out the second half and scored two touchdowns, one right after the other. The first drive was started with a 44 yard sprint down the field (the PAT was blocked by Anthony), and the second score resulted from a Steer fumble (the PAT was no good). The third quarter ended with the Roscoe Plowboys ahead, 12-7.
