CATTLE.

Receipts Lighter All Around Than Expected, Local Market Stronger.

Opening day of the week did not bring out as many cattle as were expected. The run here was about 1,000 less than a week ago and the 39,000 at five points indicated a small falling off compared with a week ago and was 14,000 less than arrived at the same points for the corresponding day last year. The buying trade was evidently disappointed at the small run as it was looking for free marketing as a result of higher prices last week.

Local offerings did not include any large proportion of steers; in fact, hardly sufficient to stimulate competition. Outside markets were all reported as opening strong and higher. Sellers on the local market did not have any trouble in moving all useful or attractive holdings at full steady to 10 cents higher than closing quotations of last week. There were no really high class steers here, although a few loads of fairly good kinds were offered and readily picked up at the full strength of the market. The best here sold at $5.50 with a proportionally fair representation of medium to strong weights going at $5.00 to $5.30. Ordinary to fair light to medium weight steers sold in a range of $4.50 to $5.00 and were free sellers, as the scarcity and high price of the stock has created a better demand for the lighter and cheaper priced steers. Common light killers are selling in a range of $4.00 to $4.50.

COWS, BULLS AND MIXED.

The market for butcher stock was somewhat spotted, but general tendency of prices was upward. A small Monday run was well taken care of and sellers promised a good market. Some sales of cows looked strong to 10c higher than the finish of last week, but bulk sold on a steady to firm basis. Heifers and mixed lots were fairly well represented in the upper classes, sales including several bunches in a range of $4.00 to $5.00. The market for heifers was unevenly steady to 10c higher. There was not a very strong outside inquiry, but supplies were absorbed in good season by regular buyers. Odds and ends of dressed beef cows sold up to $4.65, but not many loads sold above $4.15, while most of the decent butcher cows sold at $3.40 to $4.00. Canners were quiet sale in a range of $2.50 to $3.00.

Trade in bulls was active and steady with the close of last week.

Unit supply was moderate and trade ruled fairly active at steady prices compared with last week's closing level.

Prices Gain Further Strength on Lighter Run Than Expected.

Much against expectations of the trade receipts of hogs for opening day of the week fell short of last Monday's moderate run and at once started speculators as to whether it is close marketing of hogs and a bullish sentiment developing in the country, or whether had roads were responsible for only 68,000 hogs at five points today.

The market was not long in getting started this morning. All outside points reported a higher opening and the local trade was soon got to going at prices strong to 5 cents higher, at which bulk of the supply was moved out of first hands on this basis. However, toward noon outside points were reported as closing weaker and the final finish here was not as good as bulk sales of earlier in the day.

Hogs were quite good in quality; in fact, better than the average of last week, although hardly above the standard of Saturday. Offerings did not include as large proportion of light weights as have recently been coming and there was a good showing of well finished droves in the 300 lb. class and up.

The chances appear rather favorable to a liberal run during middle days of the week.

Prices ranged from $4.40 to $4.75, with the bulk selling at $4.50 to $4.65. The bulk Saturday sold at $4.50 to $4.60 a week ago at $4.35 to $4.45, a month ago at $4.10 to $4.30, a year ago at $6.75 to $6.80, two years ago at $6.35 to $6.50, three years ago at $4.85 to $4.95, four years ago at $2.25 to $2.35.

DAMAGED BY FIRE. Early Blaze of Unknown Origin—Osteopathic Make Escape.

Fire which broke out in the establishment of the Union Mercantile company, 121 South Eighth street, at 1 o'clock this morning, damaged the building and its contents to the extent of several hundred dollars.

The origin of the blaze is unknown. Emil Hildebrandt, a local wall paper dealer, was walking by the store and, noticing the smoke issuing from the building, notified the fire department.

Working for Him. About four miles out of Selma, Ala., I came across a colored man whose mule team and loaded wagon were stuck fast in a mudhole in the road.

AMUSEMENTS. At the Crystal. The Marcellos, two Italians from Milan, who visited only three cities in this country before coming to St. Joseph, showed Crystal audiences yesterday that stamper can be made from curtains, carpets or any old thing.

HER BREAD UPON THE WATERS.

Little Edna Did as Sunday School Teacher Directed.

It was summertime, and Mr. and Mrs. Glivan had established themselves as summer boarders on a large farm, so that their only child, Edna, might have a long-cherished wish realized.

Little six-year-old Edna had heard people talk of farms and farm life, and she had teased her parents to take her to the "real country," where they have cows, horses, chickens, and where the men dig potatoes.

She said nothing about it on her return home, and her parents had no reason for thinking that their little girl had learned a practical lesson; but on the following day when she was given some bread crumbs to feed the chickens her face simply beamed with delight.

A few days later Edna's father had occasion to go to the city, and when he returned he brought home a handsome lock and chain for his little girl. It being intended as a surprise from her father and mother, but Edna, while plainly showing she was delighted at receiving the gift, showed no surprise whatever, but accepted it in a cool, matter-of-fact manner.

Both her father and mother noticed this with surprise, and were keenly disappointed. Finally her mother said to Edna: "But isn't my little girl surprised to receive so beautiful a gift from papa and mamma?"

"No," little Edna replied, "the golden text of the Sunday school lesson on Sunday was: 'Cast thy bread upon the waters, for thou shalt find it after many days.' And when you sent me to feed the little chickens, every day I did 'cast' the bread on the water, and so I 'expected' something; my teacher 'explained' it that way."

Working for Him. About four miles out of Selma, Ala., I came across a colored man whose mule team and loaded wagon were stuck fast in a mudhole in the road.

BABS AT THE PLAY

By ARMIGER BARCLAY

(Copyright.)

The Lady Barbara Valence leans over the front of the box and regards the stage with an expression of mild disapproval.

"Quite too impossible!" she exclaims. "Hush, Babs!" enjoins Mrs. Fane. "Everybody can hear you."

Babs shrugs her nine-year-old shoulders and points an accusing finger at the actor-manager, who, in the character of a sporting baronet, carries a gun in a manner denoting unfamiliarity with it.

"It's extremely dangerous," she declares. "We haven't an earfly if it goes off!"

A shooting man, sitting close under the stage-box, laughs sardonically in agreement. "I say, young woman, you'll wreck the play if you criticize like that," deprecates the earl of Fulham.

"Oh, do be quiet, Babs," entreates her brother Alured. "I can't hear a word they're saying."

"That's wather an advantage, I fink," returns Babs. Her voice, though not unduly raised, has a penetrating timbre, and the statement is sympathetically received by many within hearing.

"There are titters in the stalls and some nervous glances at the man with the gun, as well. The earl leans forward. "By Jove, so it is!" he exclaims. "Silly ass!"

A moment later the curtain descends on the penultimate act to applause that is genuine but partial. It comes mainly from that section nearest the box, and it is intended for Babs rather than the play.

"That man will pepper the house in a minute," she continues presently. "Surely his gun isn't loaded?" murmurs Mrs. Fane apprehensively.

"I don't know," argues Babs. "Anyhow, the safety-bolt's up." "There are titters in the stalls and some nervous glances at the man with the gun, as well.

"Babs is getting dreadful," she whispers to the earl. "Oh, she'll calm down presently," he assures her with a laugh.

As her father expresses this conviction Babs sees a familiar face in the stalls. "There's the admiral," she says, and then, in a horse whisper that carries as far as the dress circle, "What ho, shipmate!"

Fifty heads turn with amusement to see the admiral leave his seat at her bidding and proceed to the box door. "Well, Babs," he says on entering "what do you think of the piece?"

"I'm doin' my level to be interested, but it's no good," is her answer. "It's the fault of the man wiv the gun. Did you see him?"

"Oh, yes, I saw him," laughs the admiral, "and I heard you!" Babs fixes her serious blue eyes on the elderly sailor. "It always gets on my nerves when I see anyone pretentious," she deliberates. "That man, for instance."

"Quite so," agrees the admiral, wondering what is to follow. "You mean—?"

knew Puggy what's his name—Lady Battloose's son. She would have maw-wed him if he'd had any stuff."

"Stuff! What do you mean?" asks Mrs. Fane, interested in spite of herself.

"Money, of course. The Battlooses, you know, are a family willing! But when the dowager heard about Melanie they stopped Puggy's allowance."

Mrs. Fane begins to express views on the undecorability of French maids, when the overture interrupts her, and for a little after, the curtain rises on the last act, Babs herself is quiescent.

"The play is of the soubser kind and when, towards the end, the report of a gun 'off' tells of a tragic solution to the motive of the plot by the self-inflicted death of the hero a little gust of emotion stirs the audience."

"The noise brings Babs to the front of the box, and while the 'tag' is being spoken by a haggard-faced heroine to a house rigid and still she observes in a deliberate voice:

"Missed himself, I'll bet anything." "Even the gallery heard the words. All eyes are turned on Babs. For a second or so the silence is unbroken; then the house rocks with laughter."

The leading lady finishes in dumb show. The curtain falls and rises in the conventional way to allow the actor-manager to bow his acknowledgements. He is a little perplexed by the mirth-moving reception given him, for, owing to his death scene having been snatched out of sight of the audience, he knows nothing of Babs's structures on his shooting powers.

"What are they all laughing at? I don't fink it's at all funny," observes Babs. "Now, if he was weally dead—" "What would you think then, Babs?" filling her pause.

"I should fink what I fink now," she says saptly. "And that is?" "That the featre's all gas and gaiters," yawns Babs.

ERROR OF THE INNOCENT. Two Fluids Possibly Had Same Burning Qualities, But— Col. George Harvey, the famous New York journalist, discussed at a recent dinner his views about the dieting of fat husbands.

"There are too many fat husbands, I maintain it stoutly," he said. "If the weight of these men were brought down to the right standard they and their wives would be happier. Diet's the thing."

"The diet need not be unsavory," he resumed; "and speaking of unsavory things, I recall a certain greenhorn cook. This greenhorn cook lived with one of the leading families of my native Peacham. On Christmas day, as soon as the burning Christmas pudding had been portioned out, a general cry of horror rose from the Christmas feasters, and the cook was summoned from the kitchen."

"Martha," said the mistress sternly, "what on earth have you done to this pudding?" "Martha shook her head in bewildered and hurt innocence. "Why, nothin', mum," said she; "only I split the brandy 'er give me, an' so I poured kerosene over it instead. Won't it burn right?"

A Practical Illustration. It is not possible to conceive of the impressions which children form when they have an opportunity to see and hear those things which can only be understood by older people. These impressions, if expressed in their own way, may be ludicrous, but the very fact that they are ludicrous will make an imprint on the mind of a child, and he or she, as the case may be, will never forget it.

A little girl was taken to hear an evening address, where the hymn "Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus" was commented upon and sung. Some weeks later this same little girl was playing with a candy potato, trying to make it rest on one end, and after a great many unsuccessful attempts she apparently grew exasperated, and said sharply, bringing the potato down on the table with a great deal of force: "Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus."

Burglar's Presence of Mind. While flat robberies were many recently on the upper West Side a collector for a gas company called at a house in One Hundred and Twelfth street. His knock on the door of an apartment was answered by a well-dressed man wearing overcoat and hat.

The collector passed in his bill, which the man inside paid. "That evening when the occupants of the apartment returned they found the place looted. Two days later the housewife met the collector in the street and asked him to bring the gas bill. "Oh, your husband paid it day before yesterday," said the collector. But it was the burglar who had paid the bill.

Worthless Man. Two women peered together on a street car the other day were telling their troubles to each other. "Well," says one in a tone of deep disgust, "your husband can't be any lazier than mine. He stays home all day long and sleeps—just sleeps and sleeps."

Passing Stolen Money Orders. South Bend, Ind., Mar. 9.—One thousand blank money orders stolen from Station No. 129, Chicago, and filled in in amounts varying from $25 to $50, are being passed on merchants in various towns in northern Indiana, southern Michigan and western Illinois.

Advice to Theorist. "What kind of views would you advise me to set forth in my next lecture tour?" inquired the habitual orator.

"Well," answered the coldly practical theorist, "if I were you I'd get some stereopticon views."—Washington Star.

A PECULIAR CASE

Giuseppe Alia, Priest-Killer, Will Be Placed on Trial at Denver.

HIS DEFENSE NOT KNOWN

Conflicting Statements and Apparent Lack of Motive Point to Insanity—But Alienists Say He Is Sane.

Denver, Col., Mar. 9.—Giuseppe Alia, the priest-killer, will be placed on trial in the criminal branch of the district court at ten o'clock Monday morning. The shocking nature of his crime—the shooting down of Father Leo Heighearts at the altar in St. Elizabeth's Catholic church on Sunday morning, February 23, when he was giving the sacrament, aroused thinking people throughout the country and caused them to speculate as to the origin and purpose of the plot, if any existed, that made Father Leo a marked man. Alia's conflicting statements regarding the shooting have led many people to believe he must be insane. However, four of the most expert brain specialists in this city have given it as their opinion that Alia is perfectly sane and this after observing him since his return to this city from Colorado Springs, whither he was taken to avoid possible mob violence. Alia had practically recovered from the fear of summary vengeance and was in fair condition to be studied by men skilled in detection of mental faults. Notwithstanding public announcement of the observations of the specialists appointed by the district attorney, the defense has engaged three alienists to be present during the trial. They will sit in the court room and observe the defendant for the purpose of detecting any sign of insanity. Should they be successful, no doubt the defense will be quick to grasp that as a means of saving the life of Alia.

On the other hand the prosecution has summoned eight alienists to be present, whose expert knowledge will be used to offset any claim of insanity that might be raised by Alia's attorney. With the question of insanity aside, people wonder what excuse or reason Alia could have had for wanting the life of the priest. In this connection his first confession, in which he admitted that he was an anarchist comes to mind. Alia said he hated the priesthood; that they kept the people poor because of exactions they made, while they themselves lived in luxury. He killed Father Leo because he was a priest, he declared. Another statement made by the murderer was to the effect that he sought vengeance upon an Italian member of the Catholic clergy who had been instrumental in putting down the anti-clerical riots in Alia's old home and had incurred his hatred therefore. He thought he recognized a sworn enemy in Father Leo. Alia, when told that he had murdered a German whom he had never seen or heard of before, professed to be very remorseful and fell on his knees and wept.

A few days later the much wrought-up murderer told another story in which he declared that the death of Father Leo was a matter for which he was in no wise responsible; that the priest fell dead while carrying out a ceremony of the church, and that he had fled in fear of the power that had suddenly struck down the priest. And this in spite of the fact that two men battled fiercely with Alia in the entrance way of the church before he was finally subdued and the pistol with which he had killed the priest in cold blood was wrested from him.

Doubtless the feature of the case of world-wide importance is that involving a plan for a general anarchistic uprising or wholesale murder of priests of the Catholic church. No definite proof has been unearthed in Alia's case that he is an anarchist or that he belonged to any anti-clerical society. His first declaration that he was an anarchist, made in the spirit of the bragging, was quickly repudiated and he has ever since persistently asserted that he had no connection with this revolutionary work.

To Consider Wage Reduction. Boston, Mar. 9.—A meeting of the representatives of the various brotherhoods of railroad trainmen and lodges of railway conductors of every section of the Boston & Maine railroad system was held in Ford's hall Sunday to discuss the proposition of President Lucius Tuttle, of the railroad, that the men agree to a reduction of 5 per cent in their wages, until July 1. The meeting was secret and nothing was given out about the proceedings, except that no vote was taken.

Jerome Prepares His Answer. New York, Mar. 9.—District Attorney Jerome will leave for Albany Monday to tender to Gov. Hughes his answer to the charges filed with the governor by W. F. King, former president of the Merchants' association. Mr. Jerome was in his office Sunday working on the answer which he said will make a book containing 25,000 words.

Founded Historical Society. Harris, Pa., Mar. 9.—Charles Aldrich, curator and founder of the state historical department of Iowa, died Sunday of a grippe and kidney trouble. He was born in 1828 in New York state. His body will lie in state at the capitol Des Moines, on Wednesday.

CHINA HOLDS OUT.

No Agreement With Japan Concerning the Seized Steamer Tatsu Maru and Its Cargo.

Peking, Mar. 9.—The Japanese and Chinese governments have not as yet come to an understanding in the matter of the seizure of the Tatsu Maru and the Chinese board of foreign affairs maintains that the case cannot be settled without a thorough inquiry into the facts. China has successfully terrorized for two days, and Sunday a member of the board of foreign affairs and the Japanese minister, Baron Iwashiki, had a lengthy conference with regard to the disposition of the cargo of the steamer if it were released.

China has proposed that the shipment of arms and ammunition on the Tatsu Maru be recalled and that the permit for such shipment be cancelled and she further asks for pledges from Japan looking to the suppression of the traffic in arms and ammunition to the mainland through Japanese sources. The Japanese government has intimated its willingness to consider the matter.

Hongkong, Mar. 9.—The Government association has called a meeting for an early date to discuss the questions pending over the seizure of the Tatsu Maru. It is understood here that the Chinese board of foreign affairs has ordered the witnesses to the seizure of the steamer to proceed to Peking. It is also understood that the board favored the release of the vessel and the confiscation of her cargo of arms, but that the viceroy of Kwang Tung objected to this. The commissioner of Lappa, a treaty port of China, at the mouth of the Canton river, near Macao, states that the seizures of the Tatsu Maru was legal.

Tokyo, Mar. 9.—There were no developments throughout Sunday in connection with the Tatsu affair. In the meanwhile Japan is undoubtedly preparing for eventualities. The entire decision in the matter rests with Premier Saionji and Foreign Minister Hayashi.

Names Suggestive of Labor.

The names on the little vestibule plates in a Yorkshire apartment house are the subject of a letter from New York in a Vienna paper. "I had to stand in the little space," the writer says, "waiting for someone five flights up to pull a string which opens the entrance door. This took a long time, and I had opportunity to study the names of the people in the house. These were some of the names: Becker, Schneider, Schuster, Kerner, Lehner, Fuhrman and Drucker. At first I thought that the various apartments were occupied by persons engaged in the trade named on the name signs, but this was not so. Becker (baker) was 2 clerk; Schneider (tailor) was a railroad employe; Schuster (shoemaker) was a cigar maker; Kerner (waiter) was an electrician; Schneider (carpenter) was a woman—a dressmaker; Fuhrman (teamster) was a barber, and Drucker (printer) was a painter. The person whom I visited escorted me to the door and called my attention to one little sign which I had overlooked. It was inscribed 'Baker.' That," he said, "is the only American family in the house, and they have a boarder whose name is Carpenter; both men are iron workers." It all made me think I had been at a labor union convention."

Butterflies at a Ball. Philadelphia Help Make Debut of Philadelphia Girl Notable Affair.

Philadelphia.—Five hundred beautiful butterflies, gathered in Peru, Brazil and even in India, were turned loose the other night over the heads of half that many gorgeously dressed women at the ball given by James W. Paul, Jr., to mark the $100,000 debut of his daughter, Mary Astor Paul, into society. The insects fluttered about helplessly, rested upon the shoulders of the women, perched on the flowers and incidentally fell into the plates. This was the star feature of an affair in which Mr. Paul, who is a member of the Drexel banking firm, eclipsed the famous ball which he gave to his elder daughter, Mrs. Paul Dencia Mills, four years ago.

The bill for the flowers alone was $35,000, one of the features being a new rose, a cross between the American beauty and another, which it took nine years to develop. It is called the Wynnemore, and 8,000 were used in the decorations.

The ballroom of the horticultural hall had been transformed into an exact replica of a French garden of the Louis XVI. period. Sixteen magnificent boxes were built on the sides. A waterfall was arranged at one end and splashed down into a mass of verdure. Collectors, it is said, spent months getting the butterflies, many of which died on their way to this country. Scores dropped to the floor during the dancing and were crushed under the dancers' feet.

Yoder's Swarm in Ohio. Bellefontaine, O.—In one township in the southern part of Logan county there are nearly 200 persons by the name of Yoder, all thrifty farmers of the Amish sect, and so thickly do they inhabit that section of the county that those of the same Christian name have to have some other appellation to distinguish one from the other.

For instance, there are numerous Johns, and in order to specify one from the other, three have been given nicknames of colors of the rainbow that correspond to the hue of their whiskers—"Red John," "Black John," and "White John." There are more peculiar names than these, however, some being known as "One-Eyed Davy," "Hog Ears," "Bull-Neck-Ears," "Buck-Kneed Sam," "Strawberry Sam," etc.

WILL AID MARRIAGE

PACIFIC COAST BACHELORS FORM AFFINITY CLUB.

Scarcity of Maids Results in Society, Which Plans to Import Women—Organization to Pay Wedding Expenses.

Spokane, Wash.—Designed to solve the problem of the scarcity of marriageable young women in the island empire, the Spokane Affinity club has been organized in this city by 25 bachelors under 30 years of age. The society proposes to bring 5,000 young women into the Spokane country from the eastern states, find employment for them, and act as general sponsor. When any of the imported young women is convinced that she has found her soul-mate all marriage expenses will be borne by the club, including the license, the minister's fee, a wedding dinner and flowers.

J. C. Power Brown, secretary of the Spokane mining brokers' exchange, is president of the new society. The secretary and treasurer is Wallace A. McBurney, vice president and manager of the Falls City Lumber company, and the manager of the society is Cadwallader Jones, manager of the United States Steel and Equipment company.

The membership is drawn from the best circles of Spokane society. As a member must have property of value greater than $1,000, they are all eligible young men and entirely liable in case they find their affinity among the importations. Branches are to be instituted in every city and town of more than 500 inhabitants throughout the inland empire.

Shortly after the organization of the club President Brown gave out the following statement:

"The purpose of the club is to induce young women to come into this district. There is a scarcity of young women in the northwest, and the inland empire is no exception. I am not overestimating the fact when I say that 5,000 women between the ages of 20 and 30 years could find good husbands and comfortable homes in Spokane alone. This may seem an extravagant statement in a city of nearly 100,000 population, but the fact is that many more men than women have come into the city during the last 18 months.

"The first step in the campaign to bring young women into the country will be to write to our friends and acquaintances in the old homes in the middle, western, eastern, southern and New England states and eastern Canada, urging them to come to the northwest, and then prevail upon them to write to their girl acquaintances. In that way a chain system will be established and the problem finally solved. "Any man between the ages of 25 and 40, industrious and of good character, and possessed of at least $1,000, or its equivalent in realty, is eligible to membership in the club."

IN LEAGUE WITH THE DEVIL.

Balloon Ascent in London in 1784 Was Made a Holiday.

Tremendous excitement was caused when London's first balloon went up nearly a century and a quarter ago. The balloon, manned by a young Italian named Vincent Lunardi, ascended from Moorfields, then an open space of ground, on September 15, 1784, in the presence of more than 100,000 spectators.

All business was suspended, the king himself setting the example by adjourning a cabinet council that happened to be sitting. Vast crowds followed the balloon's course, some on horseback, in carriages, in chaises, but mostly on foot.

Many were hurt in the crush, but the only fatality recorded was the death from fright of an old country woman, who, coming out of her cottage to see what the excitement was about, beheld the balloon just above her head.

On the other hand Lunardi undoubtedly saved one man's life, a jury bringing in a verdict of "not guilty" on a notorious highwayman in order that they, the prisoner and the judge who was trying, might rush out of court to see the balloon.

The aeronaut descended eventually near Ware, in Hertfordshire, where his sudden drop from the clouds was the cause of more astonishment and excitement.

Many of the spectators swooned with fear, while others urged the putting of Lunardi to death there and then on the ground that he must needs be a sorcerer and in league with the evil one.—Chicago Daily News.

FEATHER BED IS INSANITARY.

Doctor Explains Why It Should Not Be Used.

"Everybody tells me," said a Washington business man to a doctor friend on the car, according to a Star reporter, "that you medical men condemn feather beds. I want to know the answer."

"Well," said the physician, "it's because the feather beds are highly hygroscopic."

"And who is he?" "That means," laughed the doctor, "that feathers readily absorb and condense moisture. The body is constantly throwing off waste matter through the skin and lungs. The feathers in the bed will absorb this waste matter as readily as they will simple atmospheric moisture. The feathers retain the waste matter during the day when the bed is cold—even when it is aired, unless also warmed by sunshine during the time it is exposed to the air."

"At night, when the body of the sleeper warms the bed the feathers renew their hygroscopic action and throw off the waste matter absorbed the night before. The susceptible body of the sleeper is soon surrounded by a dense and highly poisonous atmosphere, the accumulative effect of which cannot help but be very injurious."

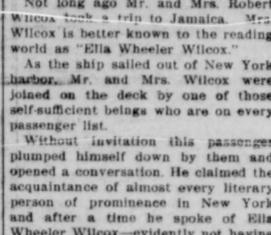

"The skin, like the lungs, is continually breathing, and is very sensitive to external influences. Hence arises the need for air baths as well as for water baths. The entire body should be exposed to fresh air every day for as long a time as you can make possible, and all beds should be thoroughly ventilated."

Costly Government.

The government of New York city will spend more than twice as much in the coming year as the government of the United States spent in the year before the civil war. As late as 1877, only 30 years ago, the expenditures of the national government, aside from interest on public debt, were less than those of New York city now. That included the whole cost of the army and navy, pensions, public buildings, river and harbor improvements, the diplomatic service, the care of the Indians, the support of the president, congress and the entire civil service, and all the incidental expenses of a nation of nearly fifty million people. At the present time the whole empire of Japan runs its government, aside from interest on its war debt, for a little over two-thirds the cost of running the municipal government of the city of New York. That navy which some European observers think is going to swallow our own costs less than $15,000,000 a year for ordinary expenses, with an extra allowance last year of a little over $5,000,000 more. That army which won the greatest three battles of modern times costs about $25,000,000. New York pays more for public schools alone than Japan for her army.

GOSSIP OF FLEET

Wireless Communication Came Sooner Than Was Expected on the Pacific Coast.

CHANGE AT MAGDALENA BAY

Three Cities Will Give the Officers and Men the Most Enthusiastic Welcome They Can Arrange.

San Diego, Cal., Mar. 9.—Point Loma wireless station at an early hour Sunday morning was in communication with the battleship Connecticut, flagship of Admiral Evans' fleet.

Point Loma station expected to get first communication with the fleet through the armored cruiser South Dakota which left San Francisco last Thursday morning to have a fling with her turret guns at the Magdalena targets before the "big sixteen" in Admiral Evans' command get a chance to blow the checkerboard bits of canvas out of the water.

The naval authorities here do not look for the battleships at Magdalena bay before next Sunday, the 15th, as the fleet was one day behind its scheduled time in leaving Callao and there is no occasion to crowd the engines on the run through the torrid zone.

From reports that have reached here the men of the fleet are likely to find an unexpected welcome waiting them at Magdalena where it is said the Mexican traders have established tent bazaars of all descriptions.

Amusement managers also have seized the opportunity that the deserted shore line offers. When the ships left Hampton Roads, Magdalena was looked forward to as an anticipated waste of sand dunes with an occasional Indian hut far inland as the only sign of human habitation.

The three convicts were brought to the office of the penitentiary in the courtyard Sunday morning at eight o'clock by Deputy Warden Robinson, to be tried for some trivial infraction of the prison rules, and Conley was waiting to sit in judgment.

Capt. Ainsworth a Suicide. Seattle, Wash., Mar. 9.—Daniel J. Ainsworth, commander of the revenue cutter Rush, committed suicide at an early hour Sunday morning.

A Fisheries Agreement. Ottawa, Ont., Mar. 9.—The recent visit of the British ambassador, Bryce, to Ottawa is bearing fruit.

Torpedo Flotilla Sails. Lima, Mar. 9.—Rear Admiral Raigada gave a banquet Sunday night on the Peruvian cruiser Almirante Grau to the officers of the American torpedo boat flotilla.

THREATS FOR OFFICERS

Chief of Police of St. Joseph, Mo., Received Warning Letters.

Told Not to Attempt to Deport Any Italians—Suspect Arrested in Kansas City.

St. Joseph, Mo., Mar. 9.—Threatening them with death if they harmed any Italians in St. Joseph, and warning them for love of their wives and children not to try to deport any Italians from here, letters, identical in meaning, but varying slightly in wording, were received last Thursday morning by Chief of Police William H. Frans and Inspector of Detectives Charles H. Kelly.

The letter to Chief Frans ends with the words "remember Shippy." Both are signed "Cincho Centavo." Frans strongly denies authorship for the letter. He was in St. Joseph only a short time he says.

He was arrested in Kansas City Sunday partly upon information secured from an Italian priest, from whom he tried to get money.

ATTACKED BY CONVICTS.

Montana Penitentiary Warden Wounded and Assistant Killed—Two Prisoners Shot by Warden.

Deer Lodge, Mont., Mar. 9.—Warden Frank Conley of the Montana state penitentiary, was dangerously wounded Sunday morning and his first assistant warden, John Robinson, was killed when three life convicts, George Rock, W. H. Hayes and another whose name is not given, made a dash for liberty.

The attack on the prison authorities and the attempted escape, according to the prison authorities, had been long planned by Rock and Hayes, who were cellmates. Both were armed with pen knives, the blades of which were sharpened like razors.

Capt. Ainsworth a Suicide. Seattle, Wash., Mar. 9.—Daniel J. Ainsworth, commander of the revenue cutter Rush, committed suicide at an early hour Sunday morning.

A Fisheries Agreement. Ottawa, Ont., Mar. 9.—The recent visit of the British ambassador, Bryce, to Ottawa is bearing fruit.
