A QUICK READ OF THE NEWS

When I grow up . . .

Like many kids, 9-year-old Sho Yano of Chicago dreams of becoming a doctor.

What distinguishes him from other youngsters is that he plans to be in medical school within five years.

Sho enrolled this fall as a full-time student at Loyola University, becoming the school's youngest student ever.

After being discouraged by schools because of his age, Sho convinced Loyola officials that he was ready to handle college work. He hopes to graduate at age 12 and enter Loyola's medical school by 14.

He scored 1,500 of a possible 1,600 points on the Scholastic Aptitude Test.

Police chase naked man

A bank robbery suspect being held in leg irons in a hospital allegedly grabbed a guard's gun, shot off his chains and fled in the nude, leading police on a car and foot chase that ended with officers shooting him in the buttocks.

The 24-year-old man had been arrested in connection with the robbery of the M&I Bank in Allenton, Wis.

He was taken to a hospital for treatment for heroin withdrawal. While being returned from a bathroom, he used the needle of his intravenous medication to attack the sheriff's deputy guarding him, authorities said.

The deputy wasn't injured.

The man's gown came off as he fought his way out of the hospital, police said.

Professor of airline food?

Adding academic status as the latest in-flight option, the University of Surry, England, is appointing what it says will be the first professor of airline food.

The International Flight Catering Association donated $750,000 to sponsor the professorship, which is intended to promote study of airline catering.

The school already provides courses in the $15-billion-a-year field.

LOCAL WEATHER

Sunday should bring another good chance for showers across the area. In the meantime, partly cloudy conditions should continue, with daily high temperatures in the 70s until Sunday, when mid-60s may be as far as the mercury climbs. Morning low temperatures should not range far above or below about 40.

Mules may have Pirate-d a playoff berth

By DELTON WILHITE
Journal correspondent

Just before the opening kickoff at Woodrow on Friday night, a meteorite or some kind of flaming space junk crossed the sky from the southwest to the northwest — as if a Higher Being were aware of the impending fireworks on the turf.

When the fireworks on the ground were over, Muleshoe had won its first district game of the year, 21-14, and had overcome its toughest challenge of the season so far, Lubbock Cooper.

Before the game, coach David Wood had said the Mules would play very conservatively.

Bringing back memories of Coach Darrell Royal's famous "four-yards-and-a-cloud-of-dust" offense, Wood explained, "If we keep the ball and move the chains, we'll keep Cooper's offense off the field."

The plan proved to be a sound one for three quarters.

The Mules won the toss and deferred to the second half. Cooper chose to receive, and the Mules kicked off east to west.

Cooper returned the ball to the 31, and then strung together three first downs before the Mule defense stopped the Pirates' drive — on the Mule 15-yard line.

Travis Tunnell started as quarterback for the Mules, and on their first play he ran the veer and kept the ball for a 15-yard gain around the left end.

The initial drive then stalled on the Mule 30, and Lincoln Riley was called to punt the ball away.

The punt was good, and the Mule coverage forced Cooper into a fair catch on the Pirate 34.

The Pirates made a first down, then broke a long run to the Mule 23-yard line. The Mule defense came through, though, and the Pirates attempted a 35-yard field goal.

The snap from center skipped back to the holder, and by the time the holder had the ball under control and teed up, the right side of the Mules' defensive line was there also.

The kick was blocked, and the Mules covered the ball to take over on their own 21. The first quarter ended with both sides scoreless.

On the Mules' first play from scrimmage in the second quarter, they fumbled after picking up good yardage; Cooper recovered on the Mule 32.

The Pirates tried to throw the ball on the four plays, but the Mules applied good coverage on the receivers while the line rushed the quarterback.

After four incompletions, the Mules took possession at the same place they lost the ball — their own 32-yard line.

The Mules then strung together five first downs — one achieved by running the "Swinging Gate" play, usually reserved for extra points: T-Bird Cox threw to Joey Tucker for the first down.

That sparked the Mules, and they scored on a four-yard right-side run by Travis Tunnell.

The Mules then used the Swinging Gate, again Cox-to-Tucker, and made it 8-0 with 5:47 remaining in the second quarter.

D.J. Domínguez's kickoff was high, and with almost no return

Women dominate football contest

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

Phyllis Carrion finished alone atop the heap in the sixth weekly football contest sponsored by the Journal.

She won the $25 by missing only two games — Oregon at USC and Cleveland vs. Denver.

Five people missed only three games, with Alma Orozco taking the $15 second prize by being just five points off on the tiebreaker. (She guessed the combined score of the Lazbuddie-Amherst game would be 84 and it ended up 89).

The games she missed were Pampa at Dumas, Lubbock Roosevelt at Dimmitt and Oklahoma at Kansas State.

Taking third place (29 points off on the tiebreaker with a guess of 60) was Nathan Crawford, who gets $10 for missing only Roosevelt-Dimmitt, Pampa-Dumas and Muleshoe at Lubbock Cooper.

Others with three misses were Frances Stegall (tiebreaker guess 56), Sarah Rey (52) and Linda Lutz (48), all of Muleshoe.

The most missed games of the week were both high school tilts — Pampa at Dumas, missed by 41 of the 48 entrants, and Roosevelt at Dimmitt, missed by 40.

The college game that tripped up the most entrants was Oklahoma at Kansas State, missed by 35 players. Twenty-six missed Oregon at USC and 25 missed North Carolina State at UNC.

Among professional games, Oakland at Kansas City was the big bugaboo, with 27 misses. Only Carrion (the first-place winner) and Charlotte Holt missed Cleveland at Denver.

The seven smart predictors (all from Muleshoe) who chose Dumas over Pampa were Carrion, Stegall, Lutz, Carl Lee Jacobs, Patrick Orozco, Retha Tighe and Alene Bryant.

On Roosevelt vs. Dimmitt, the eight who picked Roosevelt were Carrion, Stegall, Holt, Sandra Orozco and Kathleen Hayes, all of Muleshoe, plus Nadine Nixon of Sudan and Violet Nicolas and Isaac Nicolas, both of Farwell.

Although women outnumber men in the contest only 26-22, seven of the Top 10 finishers were women, and even then Richard Orozco slipped in as a tie for seventh with Vicki Gonzales.

Clay's Corner wrecks kill two

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

A bizarre chain of events in heavy fog early Monday morning resulted in two people being killed in two separate but related accidents at Clay's Corner.

The first accident occurred at about 5:50 a.m. when a pickup westbound on Farm-to-Market 145 apparently failed to yield the right-of-way to a tractor-trailer rig traveling on Texas 214, state police reported.

The Dodge pickup struck the tractor-trailer, and the driver of the semi swerved to attempt to avoid the collision but ended up rolling the trailer.

Dead in that accident was the driver of the pickup, longtime Sudan resident Richard Williams, 37. Police said the left front of Williams' pickup hit the 1979 Kenworth truck, spinning the pickup into the ditch and ejecting Williams, who was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Vi Hutto of Bovina.

The accident left the semi blocking the southbound lane of 214, and about five minutes later a 1999 Kenworth plowed into the upended tractor trailer, killing the driver of the second truck. He was identified as Bruce Robison, 43, of Hereford, and also was pronounced dead by Hutto.

Robison apparently died when debris from the upended tractor-trailer went through the windshield of his truck.

The driver of the first tractor-trailer, Donald Cobb, was not injured.

Graveside services for Williams were scheduled for Wednesday afternoon at Sudan Cemetery. His survivors included two young daughters.

AROUND MULESHOE

Churches schedule alternative events

New Covenant Church and Muleshoe's First Baptist Church have announced special events for Oct. 31.

New Covenant's third annual Noah's Ark Fling is scheduled for 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Oct. 31 at the Bailey County Coliseum.

There will be games and refreshments for the whole family. There is no admission charge, but attendees are asked to bring at least one can of food to be donated to the Bailey County Food Bank.

More information is available by calling 965-2787.

First Baptist has set its Harvest Fest 2000 for 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. the same night, in the church's activity center at 219 E. Avenue B.

Harvest Fest is scheduled to offer "free food, fun, festivities, booths and prizes."

Halloween events for youth planned

Muleshoe-area young people will be able to attend back-to-back Halloween events before they go out trick or treating on Oct. 31.

The Muleshoe Area Public Library and the Friends of the Muleshoe Library have scheduled a Halloween party from 4:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. in the library's meeting room.

Children are encouraged to come in costume and be read to or watch a movie.

The Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce has scheduled its Halloween costume contest immediately afterward, at 5:30 p.m. on the deck at the Mule Lot.

Prizes will be awarded to winners in the following age categories: zero to 4, 5 to 8 and 9 to 12.

There will be candy for all costumed trick or treaters. The event is billed as "Muleshoe's official trick or treat night."

Safety Glow necklaces will be sold.

Titans even record at 3-3

The Muleshoe Titans sixth-grade football team evened its record at 3-3 Saturday by defeating the Dolphins 8-6 at Jim Hill Field in Clovis.

Dustin Barker sparked the offense with a strong inside running game, and Erik Washington provided the Titans' only touch-down of the game.

The Dolphins scored first, but once the Titans took the lead their ball control eliminated any chance of a comeback for the Dolphins.

Coaches credited the offensive and defensive lines with preserving both the win and the Titans' playoff hopes, with two games remaining in the regular season.

The remaining two games will begin at 7 p.m. (Mountain time) at Jim Hill Field, adjacent to Hillcrest Zoo in Clovis.

More information is available by contacting Weldon Smith at 272-3552.

DECA students to offer face-painting

Muleshoe High School DECA students will be at De Shazo and Dillman elementary schools Oct. 20 and Nov. 10 to paint the faces of any student who has returned the parental permission form. The offer may be repeated for playoff games.

The painting will depict the Muleshoe Mules logo in black and white.

A $2 donation is requested for the face painting, but no child will be left out if the consent form has been filled out and returned.

The funds raised through the "Paint Us Winners" project will help pay for DECA students to attend district, state and national competitions.

New library computers to be shown

A grant from the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation has been used to buy two new children's computers and a laser printer for the Muleshoe Area Public Library.

The public can observe trainers from the foundation demonstrating the new computers during an open house from 4:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. Oct. 27 at the library.

The new computers add to the library's growing infrastructure, which includes a computerized card catalog and inventory systems.

Jennyslippers plan special potluck

The Jennyslippers will have a special membership meeting and potluck at 7 p.m. Oct. 23 at the Heritage Depot.

The program will be a production of "Who Moved My Cheese?" featuring Jennyslippers in the cast. The story deals with change in life and in the workplace.

Prospective members are welcome to attend.

Trinity sets women's conference

A two-day conference on the topic of "Beauty for Ashes" has been scheduled for Oct. 20-21 at Trinity Christian Center Church in Muleshoe.

The fee is $25 per person for both days or $15 for either day. Both days will feature Rita Kay Isaacs, an image consultant from Milano, Texas.

Registration or more information can be obtained by calling 272-3877.

Baylor AIDS program expands

HOUSTON — The Baylor International Pediatric AIDS Initiative at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston has received a five-year $1.4 million grant from the National Institutes of Health.

The money will be used to create a new international AIDS training and research program.

The grant will support long-term post-doctoral training for health-care professionals from Romania, Mexico, Botswana, Lesotho, Namibia, South Africa and Swaziland.

"We've been providing health professionals from around the world with short-term training in pediatric HIV/AIDS care and treatment for several years," said Dr. Mark Kline, director of the initiative.

Post-doctoral trainees will declare an interest in either clinical or laboratory-based research. Kline and other Baylor faculty will then assign them to an area of training and research that matches their interests and qualifications. All expenses will be grant-funded.

Wool and mohair program announced

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

Applications must be submitted by Dec. 29 for a one-time wool and mohair program announced this month by the Bailey County Farm Service Agency.

The program was created to help sheep and goat producers endure the low prices they are receiving for their shorn commodities.

Applications for the program must be submitted to the Farm Service Agency office in the county where the producer lives.

The program provides 20 cents per pound for wool and 40 cents per pound for mohair to producers who sheared their livestock during the 1999 marketing year and still produce and market agricultural products.

"Just like the rest of the agricultural economy, wool and mohair prices have been on a continuous slide during the past three years," said Kim Hanlin, the agency's executive director for Bailey County.

"This program will help sheep and mohair producers recover some of their expenses," Hanlin added.

Applicants will be required to certify the amount of shorn wool or shorn mohair they produced from live sheep or live Angora goats and the number of animals shorn.

Greased wool or greased mohair from pelts or hides is not eligible for the payments.

"Farmers are encouraged to provide the office documentation supporting the pounds of wool or mohair they are certifying, because if a spot-check indicates a discrepancy, the producer must refund the difference," Hanlin said.

Since prices have been so low, some producers may still have 1999 wool or mohair stored on the farm. Those fibers are eligible for these payments, but also are subject to spot-checks.

Application forms are available at the Bailey County office or on the Internet at www.fsa.usda.gov/dafp/psd/.

Starting seeds indoors can be a project for kids of any age

By RONN SMITH
Editor

Getting kids interested in taking care of something — whether plant or animal — is a good way to teach them the type of values we want to instill.

While most people don't think of sprouting seeds indoors until spring, there are flowers that can be started now for spring bloom outside, and it's only weeks until the early vegetable-starting period.

I know that garden centers will have a good selection of pansies and other early-spring cool-season bedding plants when it's time to set them outdoors, but if you want to start your own, November is the time.

As I've written before, I think one requirement for starting seeds indoors is a store-bought, sterile potting medium. I use little plugs of peat moss.

If you're going to use real dirt, though, you need to heat it in a medium-hot oven for at least 20 minutes. This is aimed at killing the bacteria in the soil.

If you have ever tried starting seeds indoors only to have the tiny plants keel over at ground level and die while the leaves above might still look healthy, you have experience with "damping off."

This disease is extremely common, and usually will get most of the seedlings that come up in unsterilized soil. (Some species are more susceptible to it than others, of course.)

Pansies are no problem at all to start from seed, in case you want a specific color or variety.

They do require darkness to sprout, so I cut a piece of cardboard to cover the starting tray. Black plastic or any cover that is impervious to light would work.

Just be sure to keep an eye on the seeds and remove the cover once seedlings start to sprout, so the little plants get light and don't become straggly.

Pansy plants should be ready to set outside 12 to 14 weeks after they come up — in other words, if they sprout by mid-November, they should be ready as bedding plants by late February or early March.

If you don't want to "chance it" by putting them out quite so early, time the germination for the end of November (plant the seeds in mid-November).

And remember, before you set them out into the open ground, they (and any other plant) need to be hardened off for at least a week by putting them outside when temperatures are mild but moving them back in if a really hard freeze threatens.

Think starting snapdragons by the first of December is a good idea, too.

With them, soil sterility is even more important. The experts recommend drenching the sowing medium with Banrot or some other fungicide; I never have, but it couldn't hurt. I have certainly lost a few snapdragon seedlings in my day.

Before planting the snapdragons, you should chill the seed in the refrigerator for a week. Then, when the seeds sprout, the young plants will do best at 45 to 50 degrees — maybe under lights in an unheated (but attached) garage or a basement.

Snapdragon seeds need light in order to germinate, so don't cover them.

There also are two perennials — cardinal flower (Lobelia cardinalis) and Shasta daisy (Chrysanthemum maximum) that are best sown in November if you want to ensure blooms the first summer.

Both of these species also need light to germinate, and the dust-like seeds are a pain to sow.

Petunia and poppy seeds are also small, but those can be spread fairly evenly by mixing them with sand and sowing them from a salt shaker. That helps some with Shasta daisy and cardinal flower, but these seeds are so fine that you probably won't get them spread evenly no matter what.

The easiest way is just to shake or spread them over the pot or starting tray and hope for the best. Once they're big enough to handle, you can prick them out and set them in individual units.

The Shasta daisy should sprout within a couple of weeks, as should the pansies and snapdragons. The cardinal flower is more likely to take four to seven weeks, so it requires patience.

And remember, the spring vegetable season is only weeks away, so it's time to check the seed supply. A first crop of garden peas can be planted the last of January in our area. In fact, with peas you have to plant them before most people are thinking about gardens or the heat will stunt them quicker than you get a full crop.

Happy planting!

JV busts Cooper 28-8

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

A wild second quarter left the Muleshoe junior varsity with a 28-8 win over Lubbock Cooper on Oct. 12 at Benny Douglas Stadium.

Cooper drew first blood and led 8-0 before A.J. Flores went on a three-touchdown rampage (runs of three, 65 and 44 yards) and Fabian Fabela topped off the scoring with a five-yard plunge.

Extra points were added after the first and third Muleshoe touchdowns, with two-point

Brennan Broyles passes connecting first to Flores and then to Brandon Mount.

Flores was easily the game's leading rusher with 213 yards on 19 carries. The Mules' Tad Lutz contributed 23 yards on five tries.

Leading receivers were Fabela, who hauled in one pass for 24 yards, and Mount, who caught a seven-yarder.

The leading tackler was Chance Turney, whose total of seven tackles included four solos. Two were sacks.

First district games label the teams

By DAVID STEVENS
Southwest News Services

The District 2-3A high school football season is just 1 week old, but already the six loop teams have been clearly labeled.

• Muleshoe is the favorite, based on its 6-0 season record and 21-14 district-opening victory over highly regarded Lubbock Cooper last week.

• Cooper and Shallowater are the best bets to earn the remaining playoff spots. Both teams have outscored opponents by an average of more than two touchdowns per game.

• Lubbock Roosevelt and Dimmitt will get heavy underdogs the rest of the way. Neither team has demonstrated it can move the ball.

That leaves Littlefield as the spoiler. The Wildcats have struggled defensively all season; they may have enough offense to get past Roosevelt and Dimmitt, but they could not outscore Shallowater last week. Can they get past Muleshoe or Cooper and sneak into the playoffs?

The 'Cats will get an answer to one side of that question Friday when they travel to Muleshoe for the second weekend of district play. In other games, Shallowater is at Dimmitt and Lubbock Cooper is at Lubbock Roosevelt.

Few expect Littlefield will be able to stop the Mules' unbeaten string.

"I think Littlefield has a decent offense," said Slaton coach Greg Hernández, whose 0-6 team has lost to both the 'Cats and the Mules this year. "But they are having some problems on defense, like we are. Muleshoe, they are a physical football team, and they can do a little of everything. Their defense is good, and offensively they certainly have a lot of different weapons they can use."

Hernández said Littlefield's best hope for an upset might rest in its passing game.

"If I were Littlefield, I would feel better about throwing the ball than running it," he said. "If they (the Mules) have a weakness, it's probably in their secondary. Even though it's a good secondary, they do leave you open underneath."

But while Hernández expects Muleshoe to win the game, he said he would not be surprised if Littlefield makes it interesting.

"Littlefield has some good offensive linemen," he said. "They're young, but they stay after you. They don't give up on their blocks very easily. It wouldn't surprise me if Littlefield does play with them. I know statistics show they probably shouldn't, but coach (Lewis) Boomer will do a good job of getting his kids ready. He always does."

DISTRICT NOTES

Aside from Muleshoe's six-game winning streak, the district squad with the longest current winning streak is — surprise! — Lubbock Roosevelt, which has won two straight. After an 0-4 start in which opponents outscored them 116-19, the Eagles have rebounded and snagged a share of the district lead. Both Roosevelt victories were against winless teams, but the Eagles have a chance to open a lot of eyes this week when they host Lubbock Cooper. Muleshoe withstood a late Cooper rally and snapped the Pirates' four-game winning streak last Friday. ... Dimmitt is 0-6, but four of its setbacks were by 14 points or less. Only Denver City (36-0) has outscored the Bobcats by more than 17 points this year.

Cooper started on its own 30-yard line.

The Pirates gained a first down and then broke a long run to the Mule 27 before Kyle Atwood caught up and made the stop.

The Muleshoe defense held Cooper to seven yards on the next four plays, so the Mules took over and pushed to the 50-yard line before the half ended.

The second-half opening kickoff was deep, but the Mules returned the ball to their own 30-yard line. After four first downs, Tunnell made a short pitch to Danny Ramirez, who scored on a four-yard run.

The "gate" came out again, but a decision was made to kick the extra point. Domínguez put the ball between the uprights, making the scoring Muleshoe 15-0 with 5:11 left in the third quarter. Cooper had not had a second-half offensive down at this point.

Domínguez squibbed the kickoff, but the Mules forced Cooper to start operating on the Pirate 34-yard line. The Muleshoe defense allowed the Pirates only one first down before forcing them to punt from the 50-yard line. The kick went out of bounds; the Mules took over on their own 18-yard line.

At this point, Muleshoe took a break from its conservative game plan, with the result that Ramirez broke for a 78-yard touchdown run.

The play was executed perfectly, every block was made, and Ramirez was free to run.

The kick attempt was wide, but with 1:14 left in the third quarter, Muleshoe was out front 21-0.

Cooper returned the ensuing kickoff to its own 32, and a flag moved it another 15 yards to the 47. The Pirates then throw deep into the end zone.

The Mules' Lindy Piñeda had seen the Cooper receiver blow by him and knew the ball was in the air. Piñeda used his speed to get there while the receiver was still in the air; he literally rose to the occasion, ripping the ball from the Pirates' grip and holding on for an interception and touchback.

Muleshoe got the ball on its own 20 as the quarter ended.

As the Mules picked up another first down, it looked as if they might be able to eat away the clock and keep the Cooper offense on the sidelines.

Then Muleshoe fumbled on the 41, Cooper's Josh Shepard grabbed it and rumbled into the end zone, and a kick changed the score to 21-7 with 10:08 left in the game.

Tucker returned the kickoff to the Mules' 37 and Tunnell added back-to-back runs of nine and 14 yards for a quick first down. But the drive stalled on the next series of plays and the Mules failed to convert on a fourth and five situation. Cooper took over on its own 40.

Pirate quarterback Stan Finch completed a 35-yard pass and then connected to Brad Wuensche in the left corner of the end zone for Cooper's second touchdown in less than six minutes. Another good kick narrowed the score to 21-14.

Cooper faked an on-side kick and sent the ball deep into Mule territory. In fact, the ball sailed well over the Mules' "hand team," which had pulled up in anticipation of the short kick.

Ramírez forgot he was dealing with a live ball, and Cooper covered the ball at the Muleshoe nine-yard line to begin a first-and-goal drive.

On first down, the Mules threw Cooper for a two-yard loss. Two incomplete passes follow.

On fourth and goal from the 11-yard line, the Mule secondary covered the Pirate receivers like a wet November snow, so the quarterback tucked the ball and headed for the goal line.

His blocking looked good for a moment, but the hole closed and the Muleshoe defense held for the sixth time in the game. Muleshoe got the ball on its own six-yard line with 3:49 left.

The Mule offense used the play clock well and forced Cooper to use all its remaining time-outs.

It appeared the Mules would face a fourth and short with a few seconds left on the clock, but the officials did not get the ball set and the play clock started before the remaining seconds ticked to below 25.

The Mules did not have to attempt a final play, and fans happily counted down the seconds to the first district win of the season.

Kara Beasley marries Chad Parker

Kara Beasley and Chad Parker were married July 22 at Trinity Christian Center in Muleshoe. Reydon Stafford officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Jeria Free of Clovis and Larry Free of Arlington. The groom is the son of Larry and Kristi Parker and Sid and Beverly Felán, all of Muleshoe.

Recorded music was provided for the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Allen Beasley.

Serving as maid of honor was Miranda Free wearing a goldensand dress made of silk. Bridesmaids included Amy Angeley, Rebecca Robertson and JennaLee Free, all wearing lavender silk floor-length dresses.

Serving as best man was Kyle McDaniel; groomsmen were Joseph Quintana, Josh Pyle and Blake Mount.

Ringbearers were Tanner Beasley and Jason Flores, and the flower girl was Haley Beasley.

The bride's dress featured embroidered daisy and simulated pearls on the bodice flowing into a full skirt of satin with daisy lace at the hem.

The bodice was defined by a scooped neckline and princess seams with fitted Basque waist, scoop back and a semi-cathedral train.

Something old was a gold button from her great grandmother's wedding dress;

Mr. and Mrs. Chad Parker

something new was her dress; something borrowed were her great-aunt's pearl earrings; something blue was a garter.

The groom wore a black San Dominico tuxedo with a black tuxedo shirt and a purple vest with Euro tie.

A dinner/dance reception was held at the church. CDs served as musical entertainment and a video showing the couple growing up and then together after their meeting also was provided.

Barbara Haley, Michelle Parker, Jennifer Wilson and Janae Pyle served at the table.

The bride is 2000 graduate of Muleshoe High School. The groom is a 1999 graduate of Muleshoe High School and is a parts salesman at NewTex Truck Parts and Service in Muleshoe.

They honeymooned in Lubbock and are living in Muleshoe.

E GAGEMENT

Powell-McCulley

Former Muleshoe residents Rick and Glenda Powell of Fort Morgan, Colo., announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Leslie Powell of Lubbock, to Jim McCulley, son of David and Connie McCulley, also of Lubbock.

The bride-elect is a senior at Texas Tech majoring in multidisciplinary science. She is an environmental technician at V-tech Environmental Services.

The prospective groom is a senior at Wayland Baptist University who will graduate in December with a degree in management information systems. He is employed at Full Moon Interactive specializing in web design and motion graphics.

The wedding is scheduled for Dec. 15 in Lubbock.

Positional vertigo upsets balance of life

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL
HOUSTON — A common form of vertigo can completely upset the balance of a person's life, making simple tasks such as walking, climbing stairs or performing household chores all but impossible. But help is on the way.

Dr. Helen Cohen, associate director of the Center for Balance Disorders at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, is in the middle of a five-year study sponsored by the National Institutes of Health to evaluate physical maneuvers and exercises used to treat benign paroxysmal positional vertigo.

This form of vertigo is the illusion of motion caused by the abnormal reaction of the inner-ear balance system to certain head movements. People with the condition experience dizziness, or vertigo, when they bend down, look up or roll over in bed.

"We know about the disease, we know what causes it, but currently there are no data available on the exercises used to treat it," Cohen said. "What I'm trying to determine is which exercises work the best, how long they are effective and which people get the most out of them."

Two types of exercises are commonly used, each of which lasts about 15 minutes. One involves having patients lie down and move their body from one side to the other. The other procedure requires movement of the head into four different positions.

"People are better off not trying these exercises on their own," Cohen said. "They need a clinician to show them how to do them properly. If done incorrectly, they can hurt themselves."

Benign paroxysmal positional vertigo, which affects 64 people per 100,000 annually, is the most common disorder of the vestibular system, the sensory organs in the inner ear that detect head movement. The system contains three semicircular canals, two small sacs called otoliths, hair follicles and crystals of calcium carbonate.

This type of vertigo, which can result from a blow to the head, a viral infection or age-related causes, occurs when the crystals fall out of their sack and slide into the circular canals, upsetting a person's sense of balance. The purpose of the maneuvers and exercises is to return the crystals to their original place, Cohen said.

Although not life-threatening, Cohen considers benign paroxysmal positional vertigo a serious health concern that shouldn't be ignored.

"BPPV isn't disabling, but it can prevent a person from doing simple tasks like getting out of the bathtub safely," Cohen said. "In more severe cases, it can interfere with a person's ability to do their job or take care of their family."

"If someone has BPPV or feels dizzy as if they are spinning, I recommend they see a physician as soon as possible," Cohen added. "This is something that should — and can be — corrected."

Elbow ailment not limited to tennis court

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

HOUSTON — Tennis elbow is often thought to be an on-court injury, but it can happen in other sports or while performing basic tasks.

"The condition was first identified in tennis players, but the majority of people diagnosed with it have never picked up a racquet," said Dr. Evan Collins, an assistant professor of orthopedic surgery at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

"Golfers can get it, but many people are injured lifting a briefcase or luggage the wrong way," he added.

Tennis elbow is an inflammation of the extensor muscles in the forearm, the ones used to extend the wrist and fingers.

When the muscles are overused or fatigued, there is pain in the elbow, forearm and hand.

"In tennis players, tennis elbow is usually the result of equipment problems such as using a racquet with the wrong grip size or one that's too light or too heavy," Collins said. "But in the general public, it can be attributed to a number of activities that put stress on the elbow."

Collins said the best initial treatment for tennis elbow is rest and ice. If that fails, patients may try a counterforce brace such as an elbow strap, steroid injections or a physical therapy program featuring stretching. Surgery is the final option.

in Hobart, Okla., on March 24, 1934. He died Jan. 4, 1990.

She was a homemaker and a member of the Muleshoe Church of Christ. She also was a member of the Order of Eastern Star and the Progress Home Demonstration Club. She had served as the mother adviser for the Muleshoe Rainbow Girls.

Mrs. Goodwin is survived by three sons, Bobby Goodwin of Larkspur, Colo., Richard Goodwin of Overland Park, Kan., and Bill Goodwin of Celina, Texas; a daughter, Jana Floyd of Amarillo; 11 grandchildren; and 11 great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the Children's Home of Lubbock (4404 Idalou Highway, Lubbock 79403).

HOROSCOPES

OCTOBER 22-28

For entertainment purposes only

Aries — March 21/April 20

Think before you speak when talking with a loved one early in the week, Aries. Making a flippant comment really will hurt this person — and you don't want to do that. Consider his or her feelings before you open your mouth. That special someone turns to you for advice. Be honest with him or her. Virgo plays a key role.

Taurus — April 21/May 21

Don't let an acquaintance take advantage of you this week, Taurus. Stand up for yourself, and don't agree to do anything that you don't want to do. If you are firm now, this person won't ever try this again. A loved one calls you out of the blue with good news. Be happy for him or her.

Gemini — May 22/June 21

Don't let a run-in with a former friend upset you on Wednesday. This person has always been callous; that's why you're not friends with him or her anymore. Just forget about the entire incident. The person whom you've been seeing wants to take you out late in the week. Say yes, because it's sure to be a fun time.

Cancer — June 22/July 22

Don't beat yourself up about not inviting a close friend out with you late in the week. You know that this person doesn't enjoy what you have planned. So, let it go. A loved one needs your help with a family matter. Do what you can for him or her. Scorpio plays an important role.

Leo — July 23/August 23

A close friend tells you about a personal problem in confidence. Listen to what this person has to say, and offer your honest opinion on the matter. However, keep the conversation to yourself. It's no one else's business. That special someone has a surprise for you on Friday. Enjoy!

Virgo — Aug 24/Sept 22

While you really just want to be alone this week, you're not going to get your wish. Several loved ones turn to you for help with a family matter, and they monopolize a lot of your time. Don't be upset with them. They really need your help. So, do what you can. Your efforts will be appreciated. Cancer plays a key role.

Libra — Sept 23/Oct 23

You meet someone interesting when out with friends on Tuesday, Libra. Get to know this person better, because he or she could be the one. Just be yourself, and you're sure to make a good impression. Don't worry — your feelings will be reciprocated.

Scorpio — Oct 24/Nov 22

That special someone has a lot to do this week and really needs your help. While you're busy too, do what you can to make things easier for him or her. Your efforts will be appreciated. A business associate offers you an interesting proposition. Look at all of the pros and cons before making a decision. This could be a great opportunity.

Sagittarius — Nov 23/Dec 21

Keep your temper in check when that special someone goes against your wishes. This person really thinks that he or she is doing what is best for you — even though you disagree. Listen to his or her explanation, and try to understand. A close friend needs a shoulder to cry on. Be there for him or her. Pisces plays a key role.

Capricorn — Dec 22/Jan 20

Take a new business associate under your wing. This person needs guidance, and you're just the person to provide it. Your efforts will be rewarded by the higher-ups. A close friend reveals his or her true feelings for you. Let him or her down gently. Gemini plays an important role.

Aquarius — Jan 21/Feb 18

Don't defend a close friend who is caught in a lie. This person gets into this mess on his or her own; he or she can get out of it alone too. Getting involved only will make you look like the bad guy. A loved one offers you some romantic advice. Take it, because it's sure to help.

Pisces — Feb 19/March 20

A loved one reveals a personal problem to you late in the week. Try not to be shocked by it. Instead, be supportive, and try to help this person with the situation. Your efforts will be appreciated. Leo plays a key role.

Forage research points to grazing alternatives for producers

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL
MUNDAY, Texas — Forage research by scientists at the Texas A&M Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Vernon is pointing out new grazing and forage management options for Rolling Plains livestock producers — and could lead to applications in other regions.

"Winter wheat is a dual-purpose forage and grain crop for most Rolling Plains producers, but we are still looking for ways to make the best use of this crop," said Dariusz Malinowski, A&M forage-crop associate at the Vernon center.

"We are also evaluating cool-season grasses that could supplement wheat and extend the grazing season. We need to know more about how fertility affects wheat forage and grain production and which cool-season grasses are adapted to our climate and growing conditions," he said.

In 1999, Malinowski and Bill Pinchak, a Texas Agricultural Experiment Station ruminant nutritionist, began a collaborative project with other scientists to find answers to some of these questions.

They established a wheat fertility trial designed to investigate how placement of phosphorus fertilizer can affect forage, beef and grain production from dual-purpose wheat; study grazing termination dates and their effect on yield and animal performance; and identify the economic benefits of phosphorus fertilizer and different grazing periods.

"Our preliminary results indicate fertilizing dual-purpose wheat with shallow- or deep-placed phosphorus can increase total forage production by as much as 25 percent," Malinowski said. "We also noted a difference in animal performance with phosphorus fertilizer. Average daily gains were 12 percent higher on wheat fertilized with deep-placed phosphorus and 7 percent higher with shallow-placed phosphorus than on wheat pastures receiving no phosphorus.

"This is encouraging, even though severe winter drought limited grain yield and any yield response to phosphorus," Malinowski said. "We plan to repeat this experiment next year, hopefully under better moisture conditions."

Malinowski and Pinchak are also evaluating the performance of less expensive, drought-resistant cool-season forages — such as short and tall wheatgrasses. This project began in 1998.

"We grew five types of wheatgrasses in different management regimes and measured their nutritional quality at different clipping heights and times," Malinowski said.

"Clipping simulates the grazing behavior of cattle. During the first year, frequent clippings increased vegetative growth at all clipping heights. At the same time, plants that were clipped 3 inches above ground produced more tillers than plants clipped 6 inches above ground. This shows that close grazing of these forages can boost regrowth and survival even following a summer drought.

"During the second growing season, however, vegetative regrowth was better when the clipping (grazing) was more widely distributed. All the wheatgrasses in this trial survived the summer drought and produced forage yields comparable to winter wheat," he added.

In 1999, the scientists established more wheatgrass plots and obtained similar results.

"These results indicate wheatgrasses can survive summer heat and drought, and produced enough forage to complement a winter-wheat grazing operation," Malinowski said. "Their remarkable response to a range of clipping times (frequencies) could help producers extend their forage supplies from March (when wheat grazing typically ends) well into early June."

"We hope these results will help us select wheatgrasses well-suited to Rolling Plains growing conditions — perennial cool-season grasses that can contribute to the long-term profitability and sustainability of livestock production. The key to their usefulness will be their ability to survive this year's intense summer drought," he said.

Malinowski shared his forage research findings with more than 130 producers attending a Sept. 28 field day hosted by the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Vernon. The center has satellite research farms at Munday and Chillicothe, Texas.

Excuses are off-limits when it comes to mammograms

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is a column by Jennifer Hays of the Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.)

It's been my experience that most of us don't like to get mammograms. We can come up with lots of reasons to avoid them, but when we get right down to it, most of the reasons are excuses.

Some of my friends complain about the discomfort, the inconvenience, or the cost. But I suspect that what makes us reluctant is the deeper fear of "finding something."

I know this fear. My mother died of breast cancer when I was a teen-ager, so breast cancer has always occupied a spot on my list of worries and concerns.

I used to believe that the only good thing about mammograms was the relief when I got the "all-clear" results. I'm never as worry-free as right after the phone call.

But recently, a friend of mine was called back for more tests after her annual mammogram, and I began to wonder what I would feel if it were me.

I recognized that hearing such news would be both the realization of my worst fear and the beginning of the rest of my life, since every statistic shows that finding cancer early saves lives.

And the best way to find breast cancer early? Right now, it's a mammogram. Monthly breast self-exams and an annual physical exam are also important.

Every woman older than 40 should have a mammogram at least every other year. If you're in a high-risk category, as I am, you should have a mammogram every year.

If your physician doesn't urge you to have mammograms on schedule, re-think your choice of doctors. My doctor keeps yellow post-it notes on my chart to remind both of us of my yearly screening. I find it helpful to tie this in with another annual event — my birthday. It's the healthiest present I can give myself.
