STORIES ABOUT MULES.

"The Missouri mule," said the western man, "is a creature full of character and temperament. Missouri is the great breeding state for the big work mules used throughout the southwest, and a team of them costs from $500 to $500. They are more valuable work animals than horses, for they are larger, stronger and will live on hay where a horse requires grain.

"The rubbering is a characteristic of the mule. If any one passes near his stall while he is eating he will stop long enough to look around. A mule never does that. A mule will look around in order to aim his kicks correctly. The boys in camp used to have fun with one old mule who was an expert at this. They would annoy him from the rear, and he would look around, locate the offender and aim a kick like lightning in his direction.

"When Billy reached an age which entitled him to a pension, he was honorably retired. The contractor, for some reason or other, took him to camp on every fresh job, though he never put him to work any more.

"After the reservoir was finished we went up in the high hills to build a railroad. The contractor was absent while supplies were being hauled by pack trains to a point far away from the road, and the men put Billy to work although they knew they had no right to do it.

"In making fruit pies, when they boil over, sprinkle salt in oven, and it will not smother."

STERNBERG DEAD

GERMAN AMBASSADOR TO THE UNITED STATES PASSES AWAY AT HEIDELBERG.

WAS ROOSEVELT'S FRIEND

The President Deeply Grieved When the News Was Brought to Him—Popular in Washington.

Heidelberg, Germany, Aug. 25.—Baron Speck von Sternburg, the German ambassador to the United States, died in the Hotel Victoria in this city about midnight Sunday. The baron, who was Miss Lillian May Langham of Louisville, Ky., was with her husband at the end. They had been visiting in Germany since May.

The baron and baroness came here from Hamburg the end of last month to consult with Prof. Vincenz Czerny, a skin specialist, concerning a malady from which the ambassador had been suffering for some time. After a prolonged examination of the diseased part on the left side of Baron von Sternburg's head the professor affirmed that the trouble was a lupus and that he could cure it. Both the ambassador and his wife were immensely cheered at this opinion.

Baron von Sternburg is described as having said that his long agony was nearly over and that soon he would be a well man again. His wife also shared that hope.

It had been arranged that Baron von Sternburg should go to Berlin the middle of September to be received in audience by Emperor William previous to his return to Washington. It was believed desirable that the ambassador be at his post during the concluding weeks of the presidential campaign.

No arrangements yet have been made for the funeral of the ambassador. The baron's father, who is 80 years old, lives on the family estate near Dresden and it is possible that the burial will take place there.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 25.—When President Roosevelt learned Monday of the death of Ambassador Sternburg at Heidelberg, Germany, he sent the following message to the German charge d'affaires at Beverly Farms, Mass.:

"Am shocked and grieved at the news of the death of the ambassador. He was not only my intimate personal friend and one of the most fearless, sincere and loyal men I ever met, but also a diplomat of signal ability, who served Germany with fervent patriotism and yet who showed such intelligent good will for America that it would be difficult to over estimate the value of what he did in strengthening and bringing closer the ties of friendship and good will between the two countries."

"I mourn his loss for my own sake and I deeply regret it for the sake of the people of the United States."

Berlin, Aug. 25.—Prince von Buelow, the Imperial chancellor, has sent to the Associated Press from Norderney the following dispatch on the death of Baron von Sternburg:

"I deeply regret the death of Baron von Sternburg, whom I always considered as one of the ablest amongst our statesmen, a man of great energies who, notwithstanding a terrible suffering fulfilled his duty up to the last moment. I am sure that all prominent Americans feel, like myself, the loss of this man who succeeded in getting the two great nations constantly more closely together. The true friendship of President Roosevelt was of great support to him in his life's work, but I trust that the friendship and good feeling between the United States and Germany will survive him."

Warning to Government Employees. Washington, Aug. 25.—An anti-election warning against political assessments was Monday issued to employees of the treasury department by Acting Secretary Beckman Winthrop. The Moroccan Situation.

Paris, Aug. 25.—Official circles view the situation in Morocco with a calm spirit. It is pointed out that the change in rulers does not change the problems presented. The act of Algerias was devised to meet these problems and is equally applicable to the new as to the old regime. Therefore, it is considered unlikely that it will become necessary to summon a new conference of the powers, for there appears to be no reason why an agreement as to concerted action cannot be arranged through the usual diplomatic channels.

UPHOLDS THE LAW

GOVERNMENT WINS SAFETY APPLIANCE CASE IN FEDERAL COURT OF APPEALS.

LOWER COURTS REVERSED

Railroads Must Maintain the Prescribed Coupling Appliances in Operative Condition—A New Rule of Law.

St. Louis, Aug. 25.—Two sweeping opinions, noteworthy in that the decisions of the lower courts were reversed in full in each instance, were handed down by the United States court of appeals here Monday sustaining the position of the government against the railroads in the matter of the safety appliance law of congress. The cases decided were those of the government against the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad and of the government against the Denver & Rio Grande Railway company.

By these decisions the court of appeals abrogates the common law rules of "reasonable care" that have heretofore governed and behind which the railroads sought shelter and upholds in full the acts of congress, which the opinions hold, now totally supplant the common law rules.

In the two cases decided different grounds of defense were tried, that the railroads might contest against the safety appliance acts from every possible point. The Denver & Rio Grande case was argued before the lower court on demurrers, while the Santa Fe case was tried by a jury. The railroads won both decisions in the lower courts.

The syllabus in the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe case lays down the new rule of law under the acts of congress as follows:

"The safety appliance law of congress imposes upon a railway company in the situations in which it is applicable an absolute duty to maintain the prescribed coupling appliances in operative condition and is not satisfied by reasonable care to that end."

It is believed the decisions will have a wide effect on railroad suits at law in the future.

JEROME'S COURSE UPHOLD

CHARGES AGAINST DISTRICT ATTORNEY ARE DISPROVED.

Special Commissioner Hand Recommends Their Dismissal by Gov. Hughes.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Richard L. Hand of Elizabethtown, who was appointed by Gov. Hughes to take testimony and report his findings upon the charges filed against District Attorney William Travers Jerome of New York county by a minority stockholders' committee of the Metropolitan Street Railway company, in a report submitted to the governor Monday, finds that not one of the series of charges is proved, but that all are disproved upon the evidence. He recommends the dismissal of the charges. A request was made for Mr. Jerome's removal.

"My conviction upon the whole case," says Mr. Hand in his report, "is that the respondent has been shown to have discharged the onerous duties of his office with zeal and ability having the public good as his motive end that no incapacity indifference or neglect of duty has been shown in any case."

Twenty-three charges were filed against District Attorney Jerome on April 16 last, and three additional charges on June 16. Later ten of the charges were withdrawn.

The commissioner sustains the contentions of District Attorney Jerome in every charge, stating at the conclusion of many of them that he could find no neglect on the part of the district attorney or any good reason for other or further action than that which was taken by him. The charges in the main accused the district attorney of alleged neglect of duty in not sufficiently prosecuting alleged fraudulent acts of the Metropolitan Street and other railway companies of New York, and also of the insurance companies as developed by the so-called Armstrong legislative insurance investigation.

New York, Aug. 25.—President Roosevelt Monday advised the local committee in charge of the reception to the American team of Olympic athletes that he would be glad to have the members of the team visit him at Sagamore Hill on Monday next, August 31.
