A SCARCE ARTICLE.
Journal-Stockman: One thing that has high price of feed the past few years has done has been to make gelime, heavy, bees a mighty scarce article. The aim of the feeder has been to get his animals into marketable condition with as little feed as possible. As a consequence there have been very few eight to twelve months fat cattle on the market. People who usually wanted prime beef have been unwilling to pay the price and cattle feeders were not long in seeing the point.

GREAT FEEDING YEAR.
Chicago Record-Herald: Corn is getting a great deal of support from conservative but widely scattered speculators, who believe in it on the theory that this is to be a great feeding year. These traders absorb a great deal of corn in the aggregate, their number increasing as the market declines. Few of them are subject to the ordinary market fears that occasionally disturb the less conservative speculator. The dry weather in the northern latitudes is turning a great deal of live stock to the corn country, and will show in the consumption this winter in the big corn states. The hay shortage is a great problem in the northwest this season, and has already turned much immature cattle southward, which has gone to the farms rather than the packing centers.

SHRINKAGE IN WEIGHT.
The Breeder's Gazette (Chicago): There was a deficiency of close to 100 pounds in the average weight of cattle reaching western markets in July. Chicago's average was but 980 pounds, against 1,074 last year, and this is a good criterion as all markets were flooded with stocker stuff and half-fat killers. The big run at Kansas City carried thousands of thin stock to the short grass region of western Kansas for maturing purposes but which dry weather forced to market. Chicago received a raft of light Minnesota and Wisconsin trash, many of them little 500-600-pounders, but little bigger than calves, but which were enumerated as cattle. It was the heaviest run of light stuff in July on record and receipt of a lot of scrawny westerns merely served to hold down the weight.

WANT FEEDERS NOW.
Stockmen and farmers arriving in South St. Joseph yesterday from the surrounding country were wearing a much different look from that of a week or ten days ago. The rains of last week and the soaking downpour of yesterday morning were regarded as country savers by the farmers and it has put them in humor to come in and want cattle to take to pastures and feed lots for the fall and winter markets.
"Several men who had placed conditional orders with me for cattle have sent in for the cattle and I expect they cannot be bought within a half dollar per hundred of prices prevailing before this rain," said one of the regular dealers and order buyers in the yards yesterday. "This rain insures good fall pasturage, besides saving the corn crop and putting the ground in good condition for fall plowing and these are things that make the farmer feel like taking hold of stock feeding."

THE JULY CROP REPORT.
The July crop report for Missouri, which has just been issued by Secretary Wilson of the Missouri State Board of Agriculture, is most encouraging. The condition of corn, the state over, is reported as $2.2 against 73.9 for the preceding month and $8.2 for the corresponding month of last year. The average condition for the

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Giants and the Elves

"NOW, children," said daddy as he scratched his head to think of a new story, "suppose I tell you this evening about how the giants entertained the elves."
"That'll be fine!" cried Jack and Evelyn.
"You know, some folks are big and some are small. But these giants were two or three times as big as the tallest man you ever saw, and the elves were so small—well, they were hardly as big as Evelyn's doll. Most of the giants you've heard stories about were always eating little boys and girls about your size, and an elf would hardly have made a good meal for one of those big giants. You might have thought the elves would have been afraid to go to an entertainment given by the giants but it would prove a banquet with themselves served up on the table. But the giants had a debt to pay the elves. Once upon a time they had been attacked by people smaller than they, but not so very small as the elves. They had been in great danger of being killed when the elves, who disliked the enemies of the giants, fell upon these people in swarms, tied them up with ropes of wiving they carried and held them captive till the giants could get away. The giants remembered the favor, so they gave a fete in honor of the elves and to prove their good faith sent one of their number bound, so that the elves could kill him easily if the giants did those invited to the fete any harm.
"Then the elves arrived at the castle of the giants the bridge and causeway leading to it were adorned with strange but beautiful plants and flowers. A fountain played in the center, and the water shot up so high that it looked to an elf as if it hit the sky. Colored lanterns were strung from wall to wall, and they looked so far off that some of the elves mistook them for colored stars. When the tallest of the giants came out from the castle his head hid the moon from sight just as if it had been in eclipse. Then he started dancing just to show how light he was on his feet. He almost trod on one of the elves, and if he had done so—But luckily he didn't. Then the giants and giantesses began to sing. The giants' voices rolled through the castle walls like reverberating thunder. The ears of the little elves felt as Jack's did when he heard the cannonading at the fort. The voices of the giantesses sounded to them like the screams of wildcats. After the singing the giants offered them wine in big mugs and glasses, and they were so big that the elves couldn't drink without drowning themselves. At last the elves made up their minds to go home and told the giants they were tired. So the giants loaded them down with enough food and money and jewels and gifts of all kinds to make them all rich for the remainder of their days and sent them home.

past ten years is 73.9. The condition of corn varies considerably throughout the state. Southeast Missouri suffered during the month from too much rain, while about a dozen counties in the northwestern section suffered from too little moisture. Taken as a whole, however, and the condition is quite satisfactory.
Secretary Wilson does not see any reason to fear a short crop. The river bottoms, he says, will unquestionably have the largest yield in their history this year. Practically none of them have suffered from overflows and, since an unusually large acreage was planted to corn this year, the harvest ought to be bountiful. Wheat conditions are not quite so favorable as last year, although threshing has not advanced sufficiently to make definite estimates as to total yield. The report estimates, however, a total yield of 22,350,000 bushels, an average per acre of 12.8 bushels. The oats crop was the largest on record and will average something like 24 bushels per acre. The acreage planted to oats this year was ten per cent larger than that of last year while the yield per acre is estimated to be 25 per cent heavier. All in all the July report shows encouraging conditions for the Missouri farmer.

MORE LEASED FARMS.
Accuracy of Figures May Account for Fewer Owner-Farmers.
Guthrie, Ok., Aug. 8.—Figures from the state board of agriculture show that the proportion of Oklahoma farmers who own their own farms was smaller in 1909 than in 1908. The number of farms operated by their owners last year is reported at 89,821, compared with 78,216 for the previous year. The proportion of farms operated by owners to the whole number was 53 per cent, while in 1908 the proportion was 57.5 per cent. This would indicate a tendency toward leasing farms, but it is believed by the board that the difference is due largely to the greater accuracy of this year's figures. The number of rented farms reported for 1909 is 72,479, as compared with 55,297 for 1908. The total number of farms reported in the state is 152,400, compared with 132,508 in 1908, an increase of 15.1 per cent. This increase also is believed to be due in some measure to the greater accuracy with which this year's statistics were obtained, but a portion of it undoubtedly is due to the opening of new lands and the building of new rural homes.
The total number of acres in cultivation in 1909 was 19,897,943, compared with 19,182,614 in 1908, an increase of 7 per cent. The number of acres in native meadow was 715,676, compared with 791,693 in 1908, an increase of 2 per cent. The amount reported in cultivation and that in native meadow, when added together, constitute 54.8 per cent of the total amount under farm control, which compares with 54.9 per cent for 1908. There has, therefore, been little change in the proportion of land in use for agricultural purposes, which still is only about one-fourth of the total land area of the state.
The number of acres reported in pasture and waste for 1909 is 9,545,989, compared with 8,928,793 in 1908, an increase of 6.7 per cent. The total amount of land under farm control in 1909 is shown to be 21,194,496 acres, compared with 19,813,109 in 1908, an increase of 10.5 per cent. This increase may be considered in the same light as that referred to in connection with the increase in the number of farms, although the proportion is different.
The average size of the Oklahoma farm in 1909 was 139 acres, while the average amount in actual cultivation per farm was 71.5 acres. In 1908 the average farm was 149.6 acres, and the average amount in cultivation 76.3 acres. This shows a slight decrease in the size of the farms and the amount in cultivation a trend in the right direction.

SAYS THE GROUCH.
"Doesn't make any difference, girly, how you figure in the form sheets. The hat-pin jabbed through the score card may pick you to win; your breeding and the pedigree of your ancestors may point to you as the only can't-lose good thing on the card, and on past performances you may figure to win in a walk; but if you blow up in the home stretch and let some three-legged skate booked at about 29 to 1 poke his nose under the wire first and cop the coin, you will never get any bonnets from the bunch in the grandstand. It's to the discard for you.
"Take it from me that playing about a third choice across the board, straight and show, as I have heard in places that are no relation to Sunday school, is the best way to bet the game. It gives you a chance to break even if you don't land an increase to your bank roll.
"Smokes and dreams don't make any hit with me. Hunches, visions, hallucinations and nightmares all look alike to me and I ain't picking any of them as favorites. But every time I take a peek at the Diamondiferous doings of this Drummer bunch here of late, I do the pale-baby-blue-halo-in-the-heavens stunt and it makes me shiver. I see a dead one fitting around and fading into the mist. Every time I toddle down to take a free look at one of these form sheets from the diamond I get one of these shivery smokes, and it is always of a fellow who regularly blew up in the home stretch and let some pliker finish where the bundle of long green was hanging. This particular bliper was a four-time winner for fair; he was a regular evolver from the tallest knob of Evoltortville when it came to evolving schemes for getting in next to the big bundles. He had that famous old character, 'Colonel Sellers' looking like a tin statue anchored in a kindergarten playground when it came to evolving schemes for annexing millions. Talk about your Derby winners. As a starter he had them all looking like skates with wooden legs. But that fellow was a hoodoo to himself and he invariably blew up in the home stretch. And that is what made the whole bunch sore on him.
"Make any difference how you prance around and make the grandstand sit up and gasp at the start."

"SPECIAL NINE"

$10,000 In Brand New One Dollar Bills Just Received from the United States Treasury to Be Given Away During the Next Thirty Days to Buyers of EVERGLADE LANDS

The walls of my office will be covered with this money and will be open for the inspection of the public from 10 A. M. to 12 M. and 2 P. M. to 4 P. M. each day on and after Aug. 19th. At 4 P. M. each day this money will be placed in the Burglar Proof Vault of the Burnes National Bank, the strongest and Safest Vaults in the West, for Safe Keeping until 10 A. M. the following day. My Unparalleled Proposition was first presented to the Public in a Full Page Advertisement in the St. Joseph Sunday Gazette of August 7, 1910.

I will also, for a small service, furnish you with Free Round Trip Transportation to Miami and Fort Lauderdale and return, on BOWEN, THE LAND MAN'S SPECIAL FULL VESTIBULED TRAIN. It will be made up of solid Bowenman Observation Coaches and Dining Palaces—No Sleepers on the train—Anyone caught sleeping will be thrown off between stations. This is a Bowenman, not a Pullman train—No man will be pulled on this train—Refreshments and Amusements will be included—Arrange early for Reservations for yourself, your wife and children—This will not be a "Stag Excursion"—I want the children to come with me for they will tell on their return without hesitation or mutilation just what they honestly think about it—

A FREE TRIP TO FLORIDA

INVESTIGATE—OPPORTUNITY—INVESTIGATE

I am not attempting to communicate with the Dead, and I assert that I do not want to confiscate any man's estate, unless he does at least intimate that he wants to separate himself from a part of his aggregate wealth, for some of this Everglade Real Estate. My message is,

"A MESSAGE TO GARCIA"

My Appeal is to Live Men, Who Can See, Hear, Taste, Smell, Feel, or otherwise recognize an Opportunity when it is encountered— My Evidence is for men and women who can be affected by Evidence—it is not intended for the man who could have bought Kansas for $1.25 per acre and turned it down as a dry proposition; nor for the man who could have owned the site of Chicago for a Thousand Dollars, and would not buy because it was Swamp Land— This Land will Advance in price $19.00 per acre before November 1— I am selling it for $50.00 per acre, $1.00 per acre per month until paid in full—No Interest—No Taxes—No Trimmings—The Land is all good, but the quicker you buy the closer you get to the Big Canals, the Railroad, and the Deep Water Harbors on the Sea Coast— I honestly believe this Land is worth ten times the price I am selling it for; but Florida Needs MEN, and I make my living Selling Land—Mail orders will have my best attention.

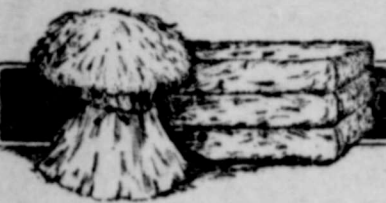

MY GUARANTEE

If for any reason, at any time, before May 1, 1911, the buyer should want his money back, I guarantee to at once cancel his Contract, return to him all the money he has paid, and six per cent interest on the same for good measure. The State of Florida has just let a TWO MILLION DOLLAR CONTRACT to forever protect this Land from overflow. DREAM OF WEALTH

Some New Chapters in History of Celebrated Le Roi Mine.

HAS PRODUCED MILLIONS

Initial Cost of $10.00 Brought $30,000 to One Man, Fortune to Others.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 9.—"Seen" in a trance in 1884 by an itinerant clairvoyant then at Colville, Wash., and abandoned by prospectors after six weeks' work; discovered in 1899 by a French-Canadian trapper named Joe Bourgeois, who drove the first stake; located shortly afterward by E. S. Topping, deputy mining recorder of Nelson, B. C., whose initial expenditure was $10; developed by former United States Senator George Turner and his Spokane associates, who bought the property of Topping for $30,000, and sold it to the British-American corporation, organized in London by Whitaker Wright for $4,000,000 in 1894; later acquired by the Le Roi Mining Company, Limited, since which time it has yielded more than $41,000,000 in gold. That in brief is the history of the famous bonanza mine called the Le Roi in the Rossland district, British Columbia, where diamond drillers in the employ of the company have found there is no more pay ore in sight.

The story goes that the first discovery was the result of advice given by a clairvoyant at Colville. The party of four, including the woman's husband and son, induced the clairvoyant to go into a trance and give them instructions. On coming out of the trance the woman made a rude chart, showing the trail to the Columbia river, thence to the mouth of Red Creek, and finally to Red Mountain. "There," she said, "is a mountain of gold."

Followed the Dream Trail. The prospectors followed the woman's instruction, but after pecking at the ground failed to find pay dirt, and left in disgust. What followed is thus told by E. S. Topping, who was on the ground:

"Joe Morris and Olive Bourdeau went from Nelson to the Lily May property, located by the latter and Newlin Hootch in 1888, to do some assessment work in June, 1888. With them was Joe Bourgeois, whose object was to look up a chance for marten trapping and incidentally to prospect. While Morris and Bourdeau worked, Bourgeois tramped around and by accident he found the large croppings on Red Mountain, at what is now the City of Rossland. He induced Morris to go over, and they located four claims, the War Eagle, the Center Star, the Idaho and the Virginia.

"Bourgeois and Morris put one stake on a claim to the west of the Center Star—an initial post—and called it the Louise. Bourgeois proposed to me that if I would pay for recording the claim they located he and Morris would allow me to stake the other. I, of course, accepted and paid to Mr. Griffin, the recorder at that time, the required sum of $10. A few days later I visited the new camp and named the claim the Le Roi, and even then considered I had the best claim in the district."

Topping returned to Nelson, sold his belongings and moved to the mouth of Trail Creek, where he located 343 acres, now the City of Trail. His next step was to secure capital to develop the Le Roi. A company was formed at Spokane, including Col. Isaac N. Peyton, W. W. D. Turner, Oliver Durrant, W. M. Riddpath and Alexander Tarebt, who finally paid Mr. Topping $30,000 for the mine.

Sold in London. When Whitaker Wright broke into London he introduced American methods. He formed the British-American corporation and offered $4,000,000 for the Le Roi mine. The sale was made after much difficulty in getting hold of the seal. The British promoters organized the Le Roi Mining Company, Limited, capitalization $5,000,000, divided into 200,000 shares, having a par value of $25 each. The stock was subscribed for abroad as high as $140 a share. An enormous amount of money was invested in the installation of machinery and of a smelter at Northport, Wash., and high salaries were paid to occupants of the London offices.

A SIX YEAR GROWTH. From Crude Affairs Miller Brothers Show Has Expanded.

Six years ago this summer there appeared, as one of the summer attractions at Lake Contrary, an aggregation of cowboys and Indians known as the Miller Brothers 101 Ranch show. It was the first venture of the proprietors of the famous 101 Ranch or in 1888, to do some assessment work in June, 1888. With them was Joe Bourgeois, whose object was to look up a chance for marten trapping and incidentally to prospect. While Morris and Bourdeau worked, Bourgeois tramped around and by accident he found the large croppings on Red Mountain, at what is now the City of Rossland. He induced Morris to go over, and they located four claims, the War Eagle, the Center Star, the Idaho and the Virginia.

A short season on the road gave the Miller boys a taste for the show business and with the close of that first season they began operations looking to the putting on the road of a wild west show that would rival anything of its kind that has ever been seen in this country. They had money, they had ambition, and they called in some of the best of managerial talent for the assembling of the best there is and organizing it into a show that would thrill and amaze. For the last year and over the Miller Brothers' organization has been considered the peer of all shows of the kind in the whole country. Last fall they were the sensation of Chicago for two weeks when they appeared in the Coliseum in that city. This season they have been in the east and have been a sensation wherever they have appeared. The Miller Brothers with their famous congress of cowboys, Indians and cowgirls will be seen for five performances during the week of the Interstate Live Stock show. They will put on the night show on the Interstate grounds and will be encamped on the grounds during the week. Each day of their stay the Millers will give an hour long parade in the morning and this parade is said by those who have seen it to be a most spectacular and bewildering affair.

BEAUTIFUL CITY OF BAALBEC

It Has a Romantic Glory of Color Rare in Unpainted Stone—Should Be Visited in Spring.

The town of Baalbec contains some 5,000 inhabitants, about a quarter of whom are Christians, writes Robert Wichens in the Century. It has a garden; it is the seat of a bishop of the Greek Catholic church; it owns four mosques, three churches, six schools, four monasteries, three hotels and a Turkish bath; but all these glories lie far enough apart from the ruins to leave their almost matchless dignity and beauty unimpaired. One thinks of them only for a moment, realises them not unpleasantly when one sees two soldiers strolling hand in hand down the staircase of the Temple of Jupiter or comes upon a group of serious Arabs among the pillars of the Temple of Bacchus or surprises a group of women in shining black beneath the Arab tower to the southwest of the temple or upon the projecting platform which is thrust out toward the orchards not far from the columns of the sun finds a bevy of brown and bright-eyed Syrian children smiling down at the fairy revels of the white blossoms in the breeze.

Never had I understood how exquisite white can look with gold, fragility with strength, that which the peculiar loveliness that passes with that which has the peculiar splendor that endures, till I saw the piled golden stones, columns and mighty walls of Baalbec rising into the sunshine among the white flowers of Baalbec's orchards. Baalbec must be seen, if possible, in spring, and seen at least once not only in the full glory of day, but also when the sun is declining. Then the columns of the sun are alive, so it seems, with changing and almost mysterious glories: walls, architraves, door posts, capitals and tangled heaps of broken fragments add a romantic beauty of color such as I have not seen elsewhere on unpainted stone.

HERE'S NEW FORM OF DIVORCE

One-Armed Justice Who Furnished Colored Couple Home-Made Article for $2.

The following story is told by Harris Dickson in an article in Success:

"Yas suh," said Uncle Mose, "dat one-armed justice o' the peace sho do know his bizness. Me an' Maria went in 'sulted him 'bout a divorce. He says: 'Co'se I kin make you a divorce. I reckon I can't tie no knot what I can't untie. It'll be kinder rough, but you'll git unitched, an' dat's what you want. 'Tain't no use givin' a lawyer $25 an' payin' a lot o' cote costs on top o' that when I kin fix you up wid a home-made divorce what'll last jes' as long.' Dat justice o' de peace talked so sensible dat we give him de job den an' dere. Bless you' soul, it didn't take long. 'Jine yo' lef' hands,' he said, an' commenced to readin' fust out o' one book, den out o' another. I couldn't make heads or tails o' what 'twas about until he hit de same readin' what he married us by—only he read dat part o' it backwards. When he got through he jerked our hands apart. 'New!' he say, reel brief, we comes out de same gate we went in at. I turn you loose in de big road, right where I found you.' He charged as one dollar for marryin' us an' two dollars for unmarryin' us. It was more trouble to untie a knot than 'twas to tie it."

If this kind of divorce suited Uncle Mose and Aunt Maria it was their own affair. Certainly there was no one to object.

SELF-DENIAL OFTEN WRONG

Parents May Make Mistake in Carrying Effacement Beyond Limits of Common Sense.

Selfishness to a certain point is not only allowable but commendable. The mother who, meaning to be unselfish, allows her husband and children to ride over her rough-shoulder is not only preparing trouble for herself but, still worse, trouble for those whom she is spoiling day by day. She would be doing her duty more truly by her family if she remembered that she, as well as they, had certain rights which must be respected and preferences which must be honored.

A family is a little kingdom, in which the mother and father are sovereigns, who must rule wisely, rendering justice to all—themselves among the number—if the kingdom is to remain happy and prosperous. Mother, as queen, must fit herself to stand comparison with other queens, so that her growing sons and daughters may think proudly and fondly that "no other chap's—or girl's—mother is fit to hold a candle to ours."

Our duty to ourselves begins when we first realize that the world contains an interesting person called "I," and continues as long as that person remains in this troublesome world.

Various Jewish Projects.

As long ago as 1666 Sabati Zevi set the Jews of Europe preparing for a return to Palestine. Not only the poorer brethren but even the rich merchants of Venice and Leghorn were seized by the excitement, and for a whole century, the great bulk of the people refused to be disillusioned. It was not until the appearance of George Eliot's "Daniel Deronda" that the Jewish nationalist movement received another stimulus so strong as this; but in the meantime many schemes were propounded, including an attempt in 1854 to float a company "to enable the descendants of Israel to obtain and cultivate the land of promise." Various famous people have been interested in the idea of establishing an independent Jewish kingdom, not necessarily in Palestine. The Dutch West India Company tried the experiment in Curacao, and Oliver Cromwell did the same in Surinam. Marshal Saxe proposed such a kingdom in South America with himself as king, and, in 1860, Judge Noah purchased Grand Island in the River Niagara with a view to founding a Jewish state.

Goos as Missionary to Lepers.

Capt. Annie Beckley of the Salvation Army is about to sail to Java to do missionary and nursing service in a leper colony. She is just 23 and in perfect health, but she is glad to give her life to this work of helping the lepers and is not afraid that she will get the disease.

"I am going for life," she told an interviewer, "if the army will let me stay so long, and at any rate it will be for years. I shall live as much as the laws permit among the lepers.

"I have never been out of England and I have never seen a leper, but a few years ago I was much interested by an account of work among the lepers and when a few weeks ago the army called for volunteers to go abroad I offered to go to Java."

MAIDEN AUNTS RULE FAMILY

Peculiar Custom That Prevails Among the People Who Inhabit the Banks Islands.

In at least one portion of the world the paternal aunt of a family of children is of much consequence in the scheme of family organization. That is in the Banks Islands, a part of the Melanesian islands in the South seas, where the natives hold her in unusual esteem and give her an exalted position.

Among the inhabitants of the Banks Islands the father's sister must never be addressed by her own name by her nephew or niece, but by some special title of respect adopted by her. A visitor to the islands tells of an instance in which a woman had been reduced to tears because this mark of respect had been withheld. The mother might be spoken to strongly, emphatically, with assurance; but a man would never even take the initiative in addressing his maternal aunt, but would always wait until he had first been spoken to. It was her function to choose the man's wife, and to a very considerable extent community of goods prevailed between aunt and nephew.

In these islands there is also a unique method of determining the parentage of a child. It is determined ceremonially by the act of payment to the woman selected to look after the mother. This woman is selected by the father's sister. In the ordinary course, the actual father pays the money, but if another is more anxious than himself to own the child he may be forestalled in this payment, and lose his right to his own child. The father's sister is entitled to some of the child's nail parings, and she keeps these hidden in a leaf and hung about her neck. The possession of them has to be acknowledged by the child, who can be called upon to give a feast in his aunt's honor. After the birth of the first-born child in the island of Motlay all the women of the village come to the house with their mats and sleep there for 20 days, feasting on a different kind of food every day, which they are privileged to take from the gardens of any one, indicating an early practice of communal property.—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

TALLOW, PELTS, WOOL, FURS and HIDES

There is nothing very encouraging to say about market conditions this issue, as tanners seem to be pretty well filled up with hides and are again inclined to hold back. We have advanced our prices 1-4c on good short haired hides and hope to be favored with nice shipments the coming week, as we have been the past. We will treat you right and shall expect you to ship us all your green salt hides this week. Do not ship green hides without salting, as they will spoil in ten hours. Salt your hides well before shipping, leaving them in salt from four days to two weeks if well salted. Then clean off salt, weigh them, make two pounds each allowance for shrinkage in transit and you can figure on below prices less freight.
