CATTLE.

Market in Active and Healthy Condition for the Week.

Show stock constituted the principal arrivals in the cattle line for today. Outside of the feeder division there was but a small clean-up trade and prices were not affected either way.

For the week the supply has been quite liberal both at the local point and in the total at the five leading primary points. However, the run has not been as large as last week, the total at the five points being 216,000 and showing a decrease of 12,000 compared with last week and 29,000 less than a year ago.

SHEEP.

Small Supply On Sale, Market Holds Steady, Week's Run Large. Today's supply of sheep and lambs was limited, nothing being on sale outside of a few holdovers from yesterday's market.

COWS, BILLS AND MIXED.

The week has found the market for all kinds of the stock in pretty good shape. In fact, the packers are wanting more cows and heifers of every grade than have been coming and have been bidding up well for them.

the buyers. It looks safe to have moderately liberal runs of shee stock on the market at any time from now on.

Dry fed heifers are quotable at $4.75@5.50; bulk are selling at $3.75@4.25, and common kinds at about $3.00@3.75.

STOCKERS AND FEEDERS. There has been more activity in the stocker and feeder trade than last week and there are not as many cattle in the stocker division to be carried over Sunday as there were a week ago.

Choice to fancy feeding steers are quotable at about $4.75@5.50; medium to good grades $4.00@4.50; good to fancy stock steers $3.50@4.25.

HOGS.

Small Closing Run Buyers Bearish, Prices Steady to 10 Cents Lower.

Less than 13,000 hogs were reported in sight at the leading market points this morning but this did not stimulate any strength to the trade.

The aggregate at the five markets for the week was 150,000 against 177,100 last week, 201,100 a month ago, 222,400 a year ago, 234,300 two years ago, 240,400 three years ago and 222,900 four years ago.

Prices ranged from $8.40@9.35, with the bulk selling at $8.60@9.10. The bulk yesterday sold at $8.50@9.20.

SPECIAL AGENTS AT WORK

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 24.—An investigation of suspected land frauds in Alaska, which may exceed in scope and startling developments the famous Cunningham cases, is believed to be in progress, guided by federal officials in the Northwest. This investigation, which is stated to involve an entirely new group of claims on charges similar to those brought against the Cunningham entries, is believed to include many men of prominence in Spokane and the inland empire, as well as others of even national importance.

WELL KNOWN IN ST. JOSEPH.

Mr. Bland was well known in St. Joseph, having been an extensive exhibitor in the Interstate Live Stock and Horse show for several years past. He was a constant ripple of laughter that always attracted attention wherever he went. He had often attended Democratic caucuses in St. Joseph and was as well known in local political as in live stock circles.

Nearly every freight train that pulled into the unloading chutes at the stock yards yesterday brought with it more cars of stock consigned to the live stock show which begins next Monday. WE ARE SAUSAGE EATERS.

Live Stock World: Sausage consumption is enormous and the bull population of the country is being drawn on to meet it. Bulls have been realizing prices that formerly looked good to the steer feeder. Diminution of Texas beef supply, on which the canner was formerly able to depend for an abundant supply of raw material at all seasons, have given the native "hattrack" market prestige and such bovine succotash is about the costliest article on the market, figured on quality.

INCREASING THE HOG SUPPLY.

Strenuous efforts are being made all over the corn belt to materially increase the hog supply. A shortage of 1,500,000 at the principal western market points and the sensational prices that have been paid because of this shortage has stimulated extensive breeding where there is anything to breed. In many localities all hogs have been marketed, including the breeding sows, and so there is a small stock left from which to build up the depleted crop. Hogs are prolific, however, and farmers hope to get back to normal conditions before very long.

CORN IN ILLINOIS.

Illinois has raised a big crop of corn this year. The corn knife is already being applied to it as the good weather for the past few weeks has pushed it beyond the possibility of frost. In the central part of the state there are not many fields green enough to be subject to frost damage and another week or two of good weather will fix them up all right. On the whole the corn harvest will be large and many farmers say it will exceed last year 25 per cent. Quality is also good, which will add much to the salability of the product.

CARCASS NOT ALL MEAT.

Drivers Journal: If all of the carcass of an animal could be converted into food product there would be some license to protest against current prices for meat. But nature didn't build the steer, hog and sheep that way. Certain folk who accuse certain other persons of being responsible for certain conditions should use a certain amount of common sense, and then they would look at certain conditions as not having been brought about by a few men engaged in the packing business and deriving therefrom a moderate income on millions of dollars which they have invested.

TOBACCO FACTORY NEEDED.

A move to secure a tobacco factory for St. Joseph is one of the most important taken up recently in this city. There is no longer any doubt as to the future of the territory surrounding this city, so far as adaptability to growing tobacco is concerned, says the St. Joseph Gazette. Where scores are now growing the product there will be hundreds next year and the yield will be enormously enlarged.

At this time the tobacco is all shipped from this country. It is housed in great storage barns only temporarily. It is made into cigars, plug and smoking tobacco at factories hundreds of miles from here.

There is no reason why St. Joseph should not have a factory and use this product at its very doors. It could be hauled in wagons by thousands of pounds into this city and the finished product made here, keeping in this community the thousands of dollars spent for labor in the factories.

It is factories that make great industrial centers. St. Joseph has all the natural facilities for manufacturing and an opportunity now presented, to make this the great tobacco center of the west should not be neglected. So surely as St. Joseph fails to take advantage of existing conditions so surely will the factory be located in

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Mischievous Old Witch

When She Looked In the Glass It Cracked All to Pieces

"All witches are not bad, my dears," said daddy in beginning the bedtime story. "Indeed, some are very kind and good, while others are just mischievous. I am going to tell you about a witch who dearly loved to play tricks on people. She lived in a dark forest, but when it came 12 o'clock at night she would jump on her broomstick and fly to a village, where she did all sorts of queer things."

"Once she changed a cow into a poodle dog, and when the owner came in the morning to feed his bossy he was so surprised to see only a doggie there that he fell into a pail of water. How the witch did laugh at that! Another time she changed a cat into a bottle of ink, and the bottle mewed just like a kitten. Then, again, she changed a horse into an elephant, and when the man went out to hitch up for a drive and found an elephant in his barn he ran screaming through the village."

"Now, in this village, children, there lived two young girls named Gertrude and Alice. Gertrude was very, very beautiful. She had lovely blue eyes, long curly hair, a sweet face and small hands and feet. People, though, talked so much about her beauty that she finally became vain and silly and nobody liked her. Alice, on the other hand, was not a bit pretty. Her eyes were very small, her hands and feet very large, and her nose turned up dreadfully. But she was always so nice and kind that every one liked her."

"One dark night the old witch came to the village and flew right into the room where Alice and Gertrude were sleeping. She waved her broomstick over them, muttered something and finally flew back home, but not before she had changed a dog into a peanut, which a boy found and ate the next day. He barked like a dog for months afterward and had to take lots of medicine before he got better."

"Well, next morning what a change there was in the looks of the two girls! Alice now was the beautiful one, while Gertrude was so homely that when she looked in the glass it cracked all to pieces. And, besides, right on the end of her nose was a big pickle. My, but how funny she did look, and how the people laughed to see a girl with a pickle growing on the end of her nose! Of course she felt very bad and cried all the time. She would not leave her house even to go to a party, but lay in bed all the time with the clothes over her head so that nobody could see her face."

"After a time the witch felt very sorry for her, and one night she flew back and made her more beautiful than ever. After that Gertrude was never vain, and the two pretty sisters lived happily and had lots of friends."

GARDEN SPOT OF STATE.

Information Concerning Southeastern Missouri, Great Farming Section.

Bloomfield, Mo., Sept. 21.—As this important section of Missouri, is not as well known to other sections of the state, as its worth demands, I write you briefly:

Commencing at Cape Girardeau, on the Mississippi river, the southern boundary of the Ozark Range extends in a southwesterly direction, crossing the Arkansas line about Thayer in Oregon county. Between the Mississippi river and the Ozarks, lie the counties of Stoddard, Scott, Mississippi, New Madrid, Dunklin and Pemiscot, commonly known as southeast Missouri, and among the richest agricultural counties in the great valley, about one-third of the lands are rolling or table lands of excellent quality, where wheat orchards flourish, and where great wheat fields dot the landscape, on every hand, all other grains flourish here, this is peculiarly the home section of this division of the state, being longer inhabited than the bottom lands but of which I wish to speak in chief, is the hundreds of thousands of acres of black alluvial bottom lands, that are now being opened in these counties. Several hundred miles of big dredge ditches, have been constructed in the last ten years, in the lands not subject to river overflow, and levees constructed along the Mississippi, so that now, this whole vast body of rich lands are ready for the axe man, and the home maker, the bulk of the once heavy forests have been cut over and timber converted into lumber, and the land turned over to the home maker or the investor, here is the future corn, cotton and alfalfa fields of Missouri, the seasons always good, there will never be any doubt of the finest of crops annually. It seems strange why men will leave this great state of Missouri, and seek homes in the arid west, when the opportunity to secure the richest lands in the world cheaply invites them right here within the borders of the state, this is no inaccessible wilderness, we have fine railroad facilities, scores of thriving cities, towns and villages, the best of schools, and last though not least a splendid citizenship, that well-some nearby city. Practically all the growers in this section prefer St. Joseph as a factory city to any other place, because it is nearer the center of production.

An excellent fabric made from spruce wood pulp has been produced by a French inventor, and the first samples were exhibited at the recent meeting of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers. Cloth woven from the fiber is said to stand bleaching, dyeing and finishing as well as cotton and to have a more brilliant luster. It can be produced for much less cost than the market price of cotton, and arrangements are said to have been made for its manufacture on a large scale abroad.

LOWEST DEATH RATE.

Only 15 Deaths Per 1,000 Population in Registration in 1909.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—The death rate in the death registration cities and states of the United States dropped to 15 per thousand of provisionally estimated population last year, according to the forthcoming United States Census Bureau's bulletin on mortality statistics for 1909, which has been submitted to Director Durand by Dr. Cressy L. Wilbur, chief statistician for vital statistics.

In 1908 the death rate in the Census Bureau's registration area was 15.4 per thousand and in the bureau's annual report for that year, issued last spring, it was stated that it is evident an era of low mortality has begun.

The death rate for 1909 is, the bulletin states, lower than that for any previous year of registration and probably is the lowest that ever occurred in the history of the United States.

It is stated that the mortality was distributed with more than ordinary uniformity throughout the year 1909 and no epidemics of other than a very local extent were found to have occurred.

It is a fact of much interest, the bulletin states, as showing the general prevalence in 1909 of extremely favorable conditions for human life, that the death rate of England and Wales for that year was 14.5 per thousand, which was also the lowest on record for that country, while the rate of 14 for the city of London was even lower and demonstrates the fallacy of the belief that high death rates are necessarily found in large cities.

The total number of deaths returned from the registration area for 1909 was 722,538, an increase of 40,984 over the number, 681,554, returned for 1908.

Of the total number in 1909, there were 398,597 deaths, or 54.4 per cent, among males, as compared with 54.3 in 1908.

The largest number of deaths returned for any month in 1909 was 70,993 for March. With the great majority of the registration states and cities it is the month having the largest number of deaths, while June is the month of lowest mortality.

The provisionally estimated aggregate population of the registration area of the United States in 1909 is 48,778,893 or 55.3 per cent of the total estimated population of continental United States.

The official death registration area is composed of those states and cities which require the registration of a death before the issuance of a burial permit and which have complied with other requirements imposed by the census bureau as conditions precedent to inclusion in this area whose death returns are annually collected, tabulated, analyzed, and presented in bulletin and report form by the census bureau.

In 1909 the death registration area included the following states: California, Colorado, Connecticut, Indiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont, Washington, and Wisconsin.

In addition to these, returns of deaths were received from 54 cities in non-registration states, in which the registration under local ordinances is considered satisfactory. The District of Columbia, which is coterminal with the city of Washington, is not included in the list of separate registration cities. For most purposes it is treated as a city, but in the table showing groups of registration states the District of Columbia is included as a state area.

ROYAL RANGEBRED FEEDERS

Kansas City Stock Yards Specials, and Their Popularity.

Range-bred cattle have again this year at the American Royal their own classes, apart from the classes for native feeders provided for in each division of the cattle department.

They are to be shown in carlots of 20 head, each carload all steers or all heifers, not mixed.

These range cattle are shown by districts, that each part of the range country may get all the glory there is in it.

These range bred cattle make fine feeders, and are in strong demand. They will be sold at auction this year after the prizes have been awarded.
