A QUICK READ OF THE NEWS

Justice is blind, and topless

The Wisconsin Bar Association has forced sculptor David Wanner to put a shirt on a Madison, Wis., statue of a naked woman symbolizing justice.

One of the association's committees commissioned Wanner to sculpt "Lady Justice," a classical figure of a blindfolded woman holding a scale, for its office.

Even though the committee approved Wanner's clay model of the topless woman, 10 of the association's 80 members complained. They said a half-nude statue belongs in a museum, not an office.

A no-tie affair, please

Ralph Wright of Ada, Ohio, hated wearing neckties at work, and he didn't want anyone wearing one at his funeral.

Wright was to be buried recently — in a suit without a tie — and those attending the service were being told that ties weren't needed. His obituary in the newspaper included the request.

Wright was required to wear a tie when he worked at the post office in Ada. After he retired in 1978, he would wear one only at a funeral.

And in this package . . .

Keith Griffith would have preferred the grilled chicken on a bed of noodles.

Instead, the Healthy Choice entree delivered to his door in Harrah, Okla., held state documents seeking $9,450 in back child support.

The Department of Human Services often uses TV-dinner boxes and shoe boxes to send certified mail to people who owe child support. Deadbeat parents are more likely to sign if it's a package, especially an unusual one, agency spokesman Dustin Pyeatt said.

Griffith had 15 days to pay the back child support or submit to a paternity test. He said he planned to take the test.

Three Muleshoe track stars qualify for state

By DELTON WILHITE
Journal correspondent

Muleshoe High School track records fell like rain Friday and Saturday at the Region I track meet at Ratliff Stadium in Odessa.

Three local athletes are advancing to the May 11-12 state meet, with Kyle Atwood winning both the 800-meter and 1,600-meter at regional.

Others headed for state by virtue of second-place wins are Brennan Broyles in the pole vault (14-6) and Eva Pylant in the 300-meter hurdles (46.4).

All three set school records with their performances, Atwood's in the 1,600-meter with a 4:26. His winning time in the 800-meter was 1:56.65.

Broyles qualified for the state meet with his first jump. Teammate Jeff King joined him at 14-6 in a vault-off for third place against a Lubbock Roosevelt athlete. Only the first two places advance from regional to state.

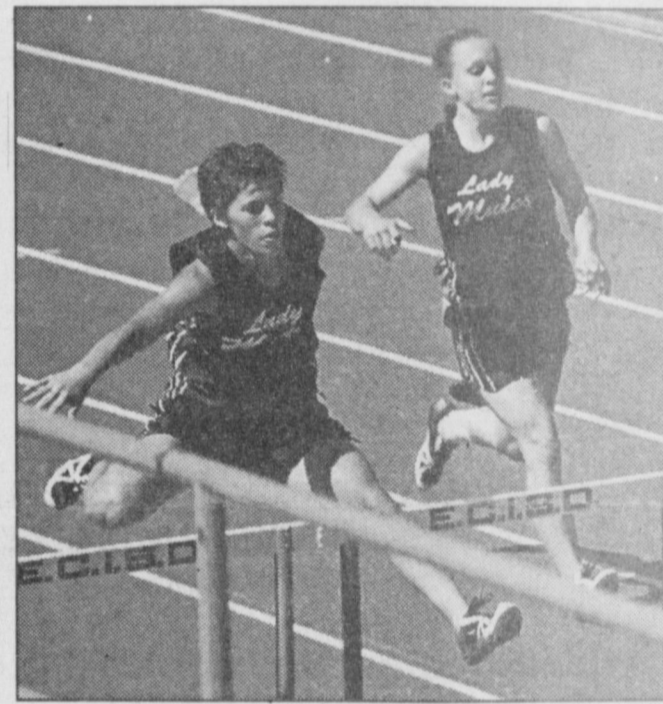

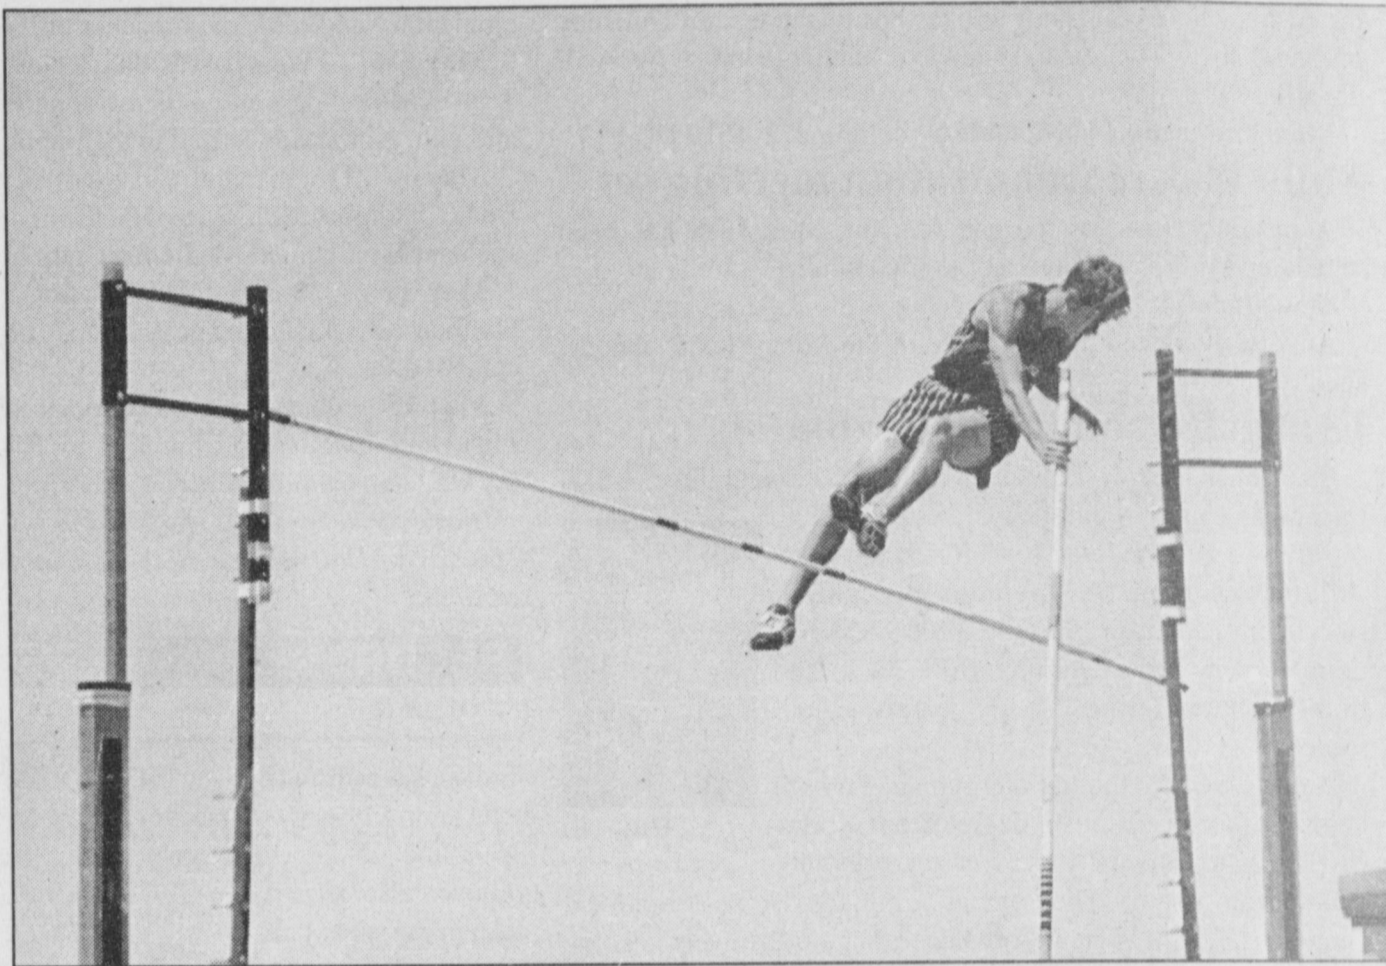

Close behind Pylant in the 300-meter hurdles was Annie Cox, with a fifth-place (but personal best) time of 47.5. Cox and Pylant also ran times of 16.8 and 17.2, respectively, in the 100-meter hurdles.

Darrell Lewis also had his personal best with the shot put, throwing 50-4 for fifth place.

Other personal marks were set by:

- Sara Benham with a leap of 34-1 1/2 for eighth place in the triple jump (she also placed seventh in the high jump with 5-0);
- Mindy Locker with an eighth-place 61.1 in the 400-meter dash;
- Jessica Carpenter and Kayla

Muleshoe's state qualifiers shine at the regional track meet: Brennan Broyles (top) pole vaulted to second place; Kyle Atwood leads toward the end of his winning 1,600-meter run; and Eva Pylant (shadowed by Muleshoe's Annie Cox in a preliminary heat) aims for second in the 300-meter hurdles.

No local elections set for May 5

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

The proposed May 5 elections have been canceled by the city of Muleshoe; Muleshoe, Lazbuddie and Three Way school districts; and the Muleshoe Area Hospital District.

Governing bodies of these entities are allowed to cancel the election when the slate of candidates produces no opposed races. The unopposed candidates are simply declared elected.

In the case of the Muleshoe City Council, this means that incumbent councilmen Juan Chávez and Cliff Black return.

On the Muleshoe School Board, incumbents David Tipps and Bruce Barrett return.

On the Lazbuddie School Board, Robert Smith and Terry Parham replace Tommy St. Clair and Rick Seaton.

On the Three Way School Board, incumbents Murray Davis and Dan Simpson return.

On the Muleshoe Area Hospital District Board, incumbents Arline Phelps and Tim "Buck" Campbell return.

Muleshoe city clerk LeAnn Gallman noted at a recent city council meeting that this was the first time the city has been able to cancel an election under the lack-of-competition state provision.

The election sparked intense interest in some neighboring towns, notably Bovina, where six candidates are vying for three council seats and another six seek three school board posts.

In Friona, the city election was canceled and only three candidates are running for two school board seats.

Soil stewardship week is observed

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

The Blackwater Valley Soil and Water Conservation District is observing this week as Soil and Water Stewardship Week.

County Judge Marilyn Cox recently signed a proclamation to that effect.

The observance is to increase community awareness of the need to care for natural resources that make the habitat sustaining humanity.

The focus of this year's national observance — whose theme is "Habitat for Life" — is on the personal responsibility each citizen has to be a good steward of the land, water, wildlife and other natural resources that enhance the quality of life.

The concept of habitat, which most people think of in terms of wildlife, has been expanded to include human and other living things in the surrounding environment.

The basic elements of habitat are food, water and shelter.

"As living creatures with an appetite for control over our domain, humankind has a special responsibility to sustain a healthy balance of all living elements that make up our surroundings," said John F. Furgeson Jr., chairman of the district.

"Our local conservation district would like to help take the leadership to bring all interested groups and individuals together to discuss how to improve the

Baseball playoffs start Friday

The Muleshoe Mules baseball team is scheduled to begin its playoff march against Amarillo River Road on Friday at 5 p.m. on the Wayland Baptist University field at Plainview.

A Saturday game is scheduled for 1 p.m., also at Wayland. The Mules are in the playoffs despite lopsided losses to two Lubbock-area schools in their final two games of the regular season.

A weak Roosevelt Eagles team slipped past the Mukles 8-6, while the tough-as-anticipated Cooper Pirates were able to trounce the Mules 11-1 in the season finale.

Signing with Lubbock Christian

Lazbuddie's Laura Jo Via signs her letter of intent to play basketball at Lubbock Christian University. Watching last Thursday's signing are her parents (left) Guy and Jan Via, and Lubbock Christian coach Jimmy Moore. Moore said he is glad to have Via on his team and described her as "a dominant player with a bright future." Lubbock Christian's Lady Chaparrals finished this past season tied for sixth in the Sooner Athletic Conference, which includes three-time national champion Oklahoma City University.

Dry conditions helping hay

Low humidity and good drying conditions have made it possible for Texas producers to begin baling hay, according to the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"When cut, rye grass is very high in moisture content — a lot higher than summer grasses, — and therefore it takes a lot of good drying conditions to get it dry enough to bale," said Dr. David Bade, Extension forage specialist.

Bade said rye is a high-quality hay, even better than some of the summer hays.

"With the growth we've had now, summer grasses such as Bermuda, Klein and Bahia are growing well and will be ready to cut in a couple of weeks," he added.

Each type of grass is used to feed beef cattle, dairy cattle and horses in Texas.

Applications being taken for cottonseed program

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL
WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture is collecting applications from cotton gins through May 18 for the 2000-crop cottonseed payment program.

The program will pay gins up to $100 million to offset low prices on last year's crop.

The USDA will base individual payments on the estimated quantity of cottonseed produced and the lint weight reported on the application.

Payments are being made to gins because they usually retain proceeds from the sale of cottonseed. However, they may be required to share payments with farmers in cases where farmers have been affected by low cottonseed prices.

The USDA mailed applications to 1,004 cotton gins. Any that did not receive applications may call (202) 720-9069 for one to be faxed or mailed.

Companies that operated more than one gin for the 2000 crop should submit one application for all gin locations.

Ginners who have submitted an original signature to the Farm Service Agency's Price Support Division in Washington may fax their application to (202) 720-9069.

About two weeks after receipt of the last application, the USDA's Commodity Credit Corp. will make payments by direct-deposit and mail-deposit notification to gins.

health and well-being of our neighborhood habitats."

It is common to think that people losing their homes and the quality of their living environment is something that happens to someone else or in some other place. That may not always be the case.

Watching urban sprawl take valuable farmland, reading about a town's drinking water being polluted by a chemical spill or watching helplessly as a flood wipes out farms and towns is witnessing a steady loss of the habitat needed by all people and other living things.

"When an animal or plant species becomes extinct, we are all a little less because of that loss," Ferguson said.

"If that extinction occurs because we, as humans, were careless or thoughtless, we bear the responsibility," he added.

Regionals eliminate Muleshoe tennis players

By DELTON WILHITE
Journal correspondent

The Muleshoe doubles teams of Laura Wood/Summer Daniel and Josh Hall/Jason Riggs lost in the Region I Tennis Tournament held at the Odessa College Tennis Center on Oct. 18-19.

Both teams were defeated in the first round, with Hall and Riggs losing to eventual semifinal qualifiers Ryan Seal and J.J. Hernández of Lamesa 6-0, 6-1. The team of Cari Hubbard-Margot Bradle of Aledo defeated Wood and Daniel 6-3, 6-1.

"None of our kids that qualified for the regional tournament had ever been past district," said Muleshoe coach Shanna Simms. "We had a lot of jitters and were very nervous — not knowing the atmosphere or the level of the competition that is there. The tournament is big-time tennis, and you play (against) kids that have had individual instruction since age 3 or 4 and they play year round."

"Josh, Jason and Laura are juniors and Summer is a sophomore, so these kids should get back to the tournament next year. With the experience they gained this year and with hard work in the summer and fall, they will be stronger players. All four of them wanted to play singles, but after we talked about them having a better chance of getting out of district as doubles teams, they agreed to try."

"Josh and Jason really do complement one another well. Jason has really good ground strokes and Josh has the quickness to play the net. Laura and Summer worked out singles as to where the girl on the net was going to play so there would not be any gaps. Considering they probably only played five matches together, including the district tournament, they really did play well together."

Pampered Chef promotion to help fight cancer

The Pampered Chef has announced a promotion campaign starting this month that will help raise funds for the American Cancer Society to fight breast cancer.

For each purchase of the company's adjustable measuring spoons "twin set," $2 will be donated to the American Cancer Society, according to a press release from the company. For each pink Twixit! Clip Combo Pak purchased, $1 will go to the cancer group.

Both the measuring spoons and the clips come in a twin pack that includes information about the importance of early detection of breast cancer.

A percentage of total sales is donated to the cancer group's early detection and education programs. Last year, according to the company, The Pampered Chef donated more than $400,000 to the Cancer Society through the Help Whip Cancer campaign.

More information on Pampered Chef or the anti-cancer campaign is available by calling Ann Williams at 272-3715.

Elder Abuse Prevention Month proclaimed

Among the other special declarations in April, the month has also been proclaimed Elder Abuse Prevention Month in Bailey County.

The proclamation, signed by County Judge Marilyn Cox, states that more than 35,000 elderly or disabled Texans were affected by abuse last year.

The document also states that elder abuse happens to both men and women at all income levels and is grossly under-reported because the people who are being abused find it difficult to tell anyone about their experiences. They usually are ashamed and sometimes afraid of further abuse.

Actions while awaiting emergency help can be critical

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL
Lights flashing. Sirens blaring. Emergency crews on the run. Comforting sights and sounds to those needing help.

But the time between the call to 911 and the arrival of an emergency team can seem like an eternity of fear and indecision when someone is ill or injured.

Minutes count in an emergency, and what people do before EMS arrives makes a significant difference to an injured or ill person, according to Kathy Perkins, chief of the Bureau of Emergency Management at the Texas Department of Health.

When you call 911, Perkins said, "You access the emergency car system and its personnel, available by telephone everywhere in Texas 24 hours a day. But until a trained team arrives, there are things people can do to help."

Recognizing an emergency is the first step in getting assistance. Most people know that auto crashes, severe chest pains, obvious broken bones and serious burns are emergencies, but not all emergency situations are so apparent.

Call 911 immediately if any of these conditions are present:

- Serious bleeding;
- Unconsciousness;
- Neck and spine injuries;
- Signs of a heart attack including uncomfortable pressure or fullness in the chest or chest discomfort with light-headedness, fainting, sweating or shortness of breath;
- Unexplained paralysis;
- Burns;
- No indication of breathing;
- Choking;
- Broken bones; or

• Head, chest or abdominal injuries.

Common sense and knowing the victim also are important to assessing an emergency. "Factors such as stressful events, a pre-existing medical condition or abnormal behavior may signal that a person is in an emergency situation," Perkins said.

How the 911 call is made also is important. Stay calm or have someone else make the call. Give the 911 dispatcher any information requested. This information usually includes the address for location of the emergency, the caller's name and the telephone number at the emergency location, name of the injured or ill person and information about the illness or injury.

April 25 — Don Bruns, Nima M. Bryant, Cynthia Coberley,

Stay on the phone with the dispatcher until told to hang up. Send someone to wait near the street or the parking lot to direct the ambulance to the victim.

Do not move the injured or ill person unless they are in immediate danger. Do not allow the person to eat or drink anything or to smoke. Keep the person calm and still.

"While we can be proud of the emergency medical services in Texas," Perkins said, "prevention is still the best way to avoid needing help." Safe, healthy lifestyle habits include:

- Wearing seat belts and buckling children into child safety seats;
- Being sure that all children 12 and under ride in the back seat;

Lulu J. Crown, Elizabeth M. Galván, Charles G. Lewis, C. Mahaney, Gloria Olveda and Frances M. Saiz.
