NOW, WHAT'LL YOU DO?

Now, you old skinflints and tax-dodging goobers who voted down the new capitol proposition last fall, what are you going to do?

THEY ARE LEARNING.

Two weeks ago only eight of the members of the state legislature of Kansas were able to repeat the Lord's prayer—and this, too, in a state that for years has boasted being the God and Morality center of the universe.

Three years ago The Journal advocated the building of a new capitol for the state of Missouri. But the nightwads of the state were content to let the old tinder box down at Jefferson City continue to hold the valuable records of the state.

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION.

At a convention of the commercial club secretaries of Minnesota held last week at St. Paul, among the interesting addresses was one by Dr. J. H. Worst, president of the North Dakota Agricultural college.

There are 17,600,000 children in the schools of the United States, of whom 11,000,000 are in what might be called the one-room schoolhouse—the ungraded rural school.

COULDN'T RAISE CORN.

This Was View of Old Time Texas Farmers.

San Antonio, Texas, Feb. 5.—A few years ago Texas farmers, who by the way have done most of their farming in the saddle chasing steers over the prairie and through the mesquite, said: "We can't raise corn in Texas, the soil is not adapted to it."

A MODEL FARM.

That the state of Missouri is running a model farm partly within the limits of St. Joseph, is not generally known, but is, nevertheless, a fact.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—Patsy and the Puddles.

Patsy was a little Irish boy who lived with his father and his mother and his brothers and sisters in a little cottage, said daddy. "He was a bright, happy-go-lucky little fellow, with a sunny disposition and sunny hair to match it."

COOKIES. Splendid Cookies—One sifter of flour, one teaspoonful of soda, and pinch of salt; sift and then take lard and mix in, as for pie dough.

DESSERT HELPS. Charlotte Basket—Beat yolks of two eggs till thick and colored; add one-half cup of sugar gradually continuing beating; then add one and one-half tablespoons of cold water.

LUNCHEON DISH. Creamed Chicken—Boil until tender four pounds chicken. When cold cut into small pieces for salad. Make a dressing of one pint sweet milk, one-half cup sweet cream, one-third cup butter, juice of one lemon, salt and pepper to taste, small quantity of red pepper on point of knife, scant one-half cup flour mixed smoothly in enough cold milk to be of the consistency of cream.

LITTLE HELPS. Soot Hint—When soot blows all over your best loved rug or carpet, before moving around in the room throw cornmeal on the floor, starting on a spot where there is no soot, and the cornmeal being heavy, lifts the soot and blows it ahead of the broom and can be swept off without leaving a trace.

How to Cook Rice—If you want to know the right way to cook rice read how an old creole mammy taught me. After you have learned to cook rice you will then be able to utilize and serve it in many different ways.

MINING MEN TO BUILD MILL. Boulder, Colo.—At a meeting of the Boulder County Metal Mining Association a plan was adopted for immediate construction by a company composed of directors of the association of a twenty-five-ton mill, to cost $25,000, in the vicinity of Boulder.

for twenty to thirty minutes longer. If cooking on a wood or coal stove, at the end of five minutes place the cooked rice on the back of the stove or in the oven to dry.

PRIZES FOR FARMERS. Texas Industrial Congress Will Donate $10,000 to Encourage Farm Progress.

Dallas, Tex., Feb. 6.—The Texas Industrial Congress will give away $10,000 in prizes to encourage farming progress in this state this year, it is announced by Secretary W. C. Barlickman.

OUR LAKE COMMERCE. Satisfactory Growth Is Shown For Last Fiscal Year.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 6.—Commerce on the Great Lakes during the 1910 season of navigation, as indicated by returns to the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor, showed on the whole a satisfactory development. The quantity of merchandise shipped above ground and between domestic lake ports attained the record total of $6,732,215 short tons, compared with $6,974,695 short tons during the 1909 season, and $5,706,881 short tons in 1908, the largest previous annual total recorded by the bureau. This gain was due in part to unusual conditions, viz, the partial cessation of work in the inland coal fields and the resulting shortage of coal in the territory tributary to that field, necessitating abnormally large shipments to the upper lake region and Ohio, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia, coal.

Of the total domestic lake shipments about 54 per cent, or 41,517,741 short tons, indicating a gain of 25 per cent over the corresponding figures of the preceding year. These shipments proceeded mainly from Lake Erie ports, Ashtabula, Toledo, Sandusky and Sandusky accounting for over 82 per cent of these shipments. Over 50 per cent of the short coal received at all lake ports was unloaded at Duluth, Superior and Milwaukee, the 1910 deliveries at these three cities exceeding those of the previous year by almost 45 per cent.

The lake shipments of soft coal during the year totaled 18,496,449 short tons, indicating a gain of 25 per cent over the corresponding figures of the preceding year. These shipments proceeded mainly from Lake Erie ports, Ashtabula, Toledo, Sandusky and Sandusky accounting for over 82 per cent of these shipments. Over 50 per cent of the short coal received at all lake ports was unloaded at Duluth, Superior and Milwaukee, the 1910 deliveries at these three cities exceeding those of the previous year by almost 45 per cent.

The total shipments above ground exclusive of a bunker coal supplied to vessels in the domestic trade and 281,950 short tons supplied to American and Canadian vessels in the foreign trade. The hard-coal movement for the year, 4,170,813 short tons, mainly from Buffalo, Erie, and Oswego, was about 15 per cent in excess of volume than in 1909. Almost 79 per cent of this coal was unloaded at Duluth, Superior, Chicago, and Milwaukee, Chicago alone taking more than a million tons during the year, and Milwaukee a quantity slightly less.

located on one side of the big field than by itself. The time to give special attention to this sort of a plot is in the fall, at seed corn picking time. The corn in this plot may be harvested before the middle of October and the corn dried and stored in the best possible manner.

A breeding plot takes but little more time and trouble than the ordinary plot, and in a few years produces a crop of seed corn that is superior to any other. The benefit is more from proper harvesting than from any true breeding. In this sort of a plot the character of the stalks may also be taken into consideration.

SEED CORN PLOT. Some Pointers on How to Produce Improved Grain. An Iowa correspondent writes Wallace's Farmer: "I would like some information in regard to a seed corn plot. I have very little time to follow the way the experiment stations give in their bulletins to improve seed corn. I have a small plot I could use. I would like to have your ideas on just how to improve seed corn."

RAISING ELK IN MISSOURI. Attempts to preserve the elk from extinction through domestication has been undertaken by several different places in the United States. Mr. Geo. W. Ross of Eureka Springs, Ark., who recently had a herd of thirty-four, found them valuable in clearing out thickets. In this work they are better than goats, since they browse higher. The two animals get along well together, and are not afraid of the elk. The Spratt family the work is well done. Mr. Ross says: "We find from long experience that cattle, sheep, and goats can be grazed in the same lot with elk, provided the lots or inclosures are not small. The larger the area the better. We know of no more successful attempts at raising attention to the great benefits of a few elk in the same pasture with sheep and goats."

LOUISIANA TIMBER SUPPLY. New Orleans, La.—In a report presented by Chairman Henry E. Hartner of the Louisiana Conservation Commission before the Gulf Coast Lumber Exporters' convention here this total amount of standing timber in Louisiana is estimated at 75,118,000,000 feet, of which 42,553,000,000 feet is pine, 6,214,000,000 feet in cypress, 14,953,488,000 feet in live oak, 8,676,000,000 feet in oak and 6,197,000,000 feet in other species. The annual cut in the woods amounts to a total of 2,914,450,000 feet. This timber, converted into lumber, would yield a revenue of $1,000,000,000.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIALS

Received by Dr. M. L. Kullman 1107 Frederick Ave., St. Joseph, Mo. Guaranteed Cure—Piles, Nervous and Chronic Diseases St. Joseph, Mo., Jan. 14, 1910 Dr. Kullman: I have had the piles for something like 15 years and have tried all kinds of salves and suppositories and doctors that claimed they could cure, but I gradually got worse until I was not able to do any farm work, so rented my farm and moved to town. I took a course of your treatment and today I feel as stout and well in those parts as I ever did and this I owe to your treatment. I have a permanent cure. You certainly understand your business when it comes to curing piles. Barney Leava.

St. Joseph, Mo., March 30, 1907 To whom it may concern: After suffering for 15 years with bilious and protruding piles I commenced treating with Dr. M. L. Kullman on Oct. 3, 1905 and was pronounced cured Oct. 30, 1905. I have had no ache or pain in my rectum since. His treatment is mild and easy as I did not lose a day's work while taking treatment although my work requires me to be on my feet from 8 to 9 hours each day. Thos. H. Robie, Jr. Mailing Clerk, St. Joseph, Mo. Post Office.

St. Joseph, Mo., Oct. 17, 1910 To whom it may concern: This is to certify that I have had the piles for the past ten years and have tried almost every remedy that I could get up to the first of this year, at which time I commenced to take treatment of Dr. M. L. Kullman and I am glad to state that after a few months treatment I am as well as I ever was in my life. W. J. Meek, 1419 Olive

St. Joseph, Mo., March 2, 1909 To whom it may concern: This is to certify that I was afflicted with a very severe case of constipation and piles. I had been afflicted with piles for years, and constipation almost from childhood. I had become so nervous I could hardly get any sleep. In fact life was thoroughly miserable. I took Dr. Kullman's treatment last summer and am completely cured of both ailments, a thing that I thought impossible in my case. I can truthfully recommend Dr. Kullman to any one afflicted as I was. The German American Sanitarium is fortunate indeed in securing Dr. Kullman's services, as he is a very pains-taking and conscientious physician. Mrs. C. L. Zeiler, 1608 Holman Street. The Healing of a Breach

By Marian C. Walton

(Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.)

"If I were only a man," Ellen exclaimed, her eyes dark with tears. Clayton's eyes twinkled despite their open admiration. "No doubt it is possible to improve on the ways of providence," he said. "Still—in this case, I don't see any mist."

"Of course not—you believe. What ever is, is right," Ellen flung at him in a tone meant to be crushing. Clayton took her hands in his, looked carefully at the pink palms, so soft as a baby's, at the fibert nails, the tapering tips and went on: "It really seems to me the powers that do know their business. What could you do with those hands? Besides—men are not allowed to cry merely for getting vexed—nothing short of losing a fortune or a wife excuses them for being lachrymose."

"Hush! You are too hateful for anything! Anything!" Ellen burst out. "Of course, if I were a man I shouldn't be the ridiculous nuisance I am—I should have reach and strength of body to match my strength of mind—"

"Dear me! Where do you keep it? I always thought you adorably feminine—not the least bit strong minded," Clayton interrupted, teasingly. "It alarms me—dreadfully—to find myself mistaken. You know I've quite made up my mind to marry you."

"Indeed!" The monosyllabic spoke volumes—of scorn, of anger, of smothered satisfaction. Clayton caught the smothered note and smiled covertly. Ellen saw the smile, read it aright, and grew angrier than ever. "Maybe I am ungrateful," she went on, choking slightly, "but really, it seems to me I have some rights in the case."

appears—without a special providence. Please send one—quick—kind Fate. Life without Nell is duller than ditch-water."

Ellen had not meant to go to the rally, but now a sense that going was imperative fell upon her. So she was there, very fine, very gay, with Johnny Gould at her elbow. He had begged to fetch her, but she had come alone in the family carriage, save for Mummy Nance.

Johnny's tender mercies were over-tender—he had been mad about Nell ever since they met. He was not bad-looking, nor bad-hearted, only lax and coarse of fiber, also easily beset with a craving for liquor. Ellen had never seen him save strictly sober—she was pardonable for failing to understand his high color, his glib speech, his all-embracing affection for the universe. He was gallant to every petticoat, but he never got far away from Ellen.

Long before the speaking ended, though she had not fully sensed his condition, she had begun to be uneasy. Judged as she was, uneasy as she was, she had had to admit that General Peabody was worth hearing; not so well worth it as Frank Clayton, to be sure—but still he was eloquent, and had sense no less than sound to what he said. Deep down she began to wonder—she had been regretting it ever since the day of the quarrel. If only she had left a loophole—but she knew how futile it was to think Frank would ever come back.

"You're going to dine, not at this measly barbecue—but with me—at the club," Johnny said, strenuously, clasping her hand, tucking it over his arm and striding toward his big motor car. "We'll get there in no time—I hate crowds like this," he ran on, half carrying Ellen as he strode along.

She was wildly angry, still more frightened. Pull as she might, she could not free her hand. To "scream" meant a scene—and anything was better than that. Desperately she hung back, casting appealing glances toward the place where Clayton had been standing a minute earlier. He had vanished, but tall old General Peabody was in evidence—he caught Ellen's anguished eye. In three strides he was beside her, saying as he laid a heavy hand on Johnny's shoulder:

"Pardon me, my young friend, but I must speak to Allan Burton's daughter. Your father and I, my dear young lady, were, I regret to say, lifelong enemies. And all over a trifle—a trifle moreover in which lately, I have found that I was wrong. So I offer him through you my sincere apology, and beg pardon. Will you grant it?"

YOUTH SHOULD BE TOLERANT

Must Practice Self-Denial and Pay to Old Age the Attention It Deserves to It.

Young people are happier together without the constraint of elderly company still they should not openly avoid that company, or make their elders feel out in the cold.

There is a certain type of girl to whom an elderly person is always a frump or fog, an object of ridicule, and to be avoided or ignored as much as possible. Self-denial is necessary to make youth tolerant of age, but the attentions of youth are so welcome to the elder that this is a virtue which may be said to bring its own reward.

The young girl should listen patiently to the old man's story, though it may possibly be a little prosy, and she should be ready to play or sing or do anything in her power, with sweet willingness, immediately when asked.

She does not realize how wonderful and beautiful it seems to her elders that here is a bright being with the world at her feet and all the pleasant years before her. A glad heart and a bright young face mean much in a gathering of people where there are sure to be some heavy hearts, some sorrow-lined countenances.

The young men always gravitate toward the pretty girls, yet it is a question whether their admiration of them is more spontaneous and more sincere than that of the older ones, who look wistfully at them, recalling happy days that are no more, and humming under the breath some such song as "O, Don't You Remember Sweet Alice, Ben Bolt?"

FIND NEW USE FOR ALCOHOL

Prof. Hill of London Invents Apparatus for Use in Treatment of Pneumonia Cases.

London.—Prof. Leonard Erskine Hill of the London hospital has invented an apparatus for use in the treatment of pneumonia which is expected to prove of great service. "For some time," says Prof. Hill, "it has been recognized that the best way to supply alcoholic stimulant to the laboring heart in pneumonia is by way of the lungs in the form of vapor. My apparatus arranges for a mixed vapor of oxygen, water and alcohol, to be carried directly to the lungs, whence it reaches the heart from the pulmonary veins. Thence the stimulant is carried directly to the heart muscle itself by the coronary arteries."

Because there is not sufficient undiseased lung tissue left to breathe with, and because the heart thereby fails, the judicious administration of heart stimulants, so as to tide this organ over until the lung symptoms subside is the chief point in the treatment. By using Prof. Hill's apparatus the heart can be reached by a stimulant much more accurately and quickly than if the alcohol were given in the ordinary way.

Stokers Lead in Suicides. London.—Suicides of stoke hold hands are about five times more numerous than those of engine room hands and three times more than among other seamen, according to a board of trade report. One British seaman in every 1,500 loses his life from drink, but only one Lascar in every 21,000.

One Way to Create Peers. Peersages have sometimes been acquired in curious ways. When the head of a well-known west country family was raised to the upper house a good deal of surprise was expressed at such a distinction being conferred upon him, for he had not rendered any particular service to his party, having lost practically every election he had contested. Lord Beaconsfield furnished me with the key to this enigma. "Well," said he, "we really did not know what to do with him, for he was positively doing us harm. Wherever he stood he was beaten, so at last we thought the best way to get rid of him would be to send him to the upper house."—From "Under Five Reigns."

The Son's Future. Bonaventura de Fourcroy, a clever society poet of the seventeenth century, a splendid orator, an eminent advocate, and an intimate friend of Moliere to boot, on being asked one day by a magistrate what he meant to do with his son, replied: "If there is anything in him I'll make him a barrister; if not, I'll make him a judge."

A Student of the Drama. It was at a recent performance of "Macbeth" and the three weird sisters had just made their first appearance and chanted their uncanny incantations, when a handsomely dressed, intelligent-looking woman in the third row turned to her escort and inquired: "What's the idea in having those witches?"
