CATTLE.

Fat Cattle Trade Opens Slow, General Undertone Is Weak.

trade of the week in fat cattle was not very encouraging from sellers' standpoint. Aggregate re-ceipts at the five leading centers was approximately 7500 head in excess of last Monday's figures and around 8000 larger than for the corresponding day last year. The enlargement was sufficient to create a weak feeling in the general trade. Local receipts of 2000 cattle were slightly less than for the opening day last week but 300 greater than for the corresponding day a year ago. Steers formed about two-thirds of the killer offerings.

Reports of slow and weaker openings at outside markets tended to make local buyers rather bearish in their views and it was evident from the start that sellers would be asked to concede a point or two. There was a disposition to operate sparingly during the early part of the session and few lots of steers were sent scaleward as the result of first rounds of buyers. It required some little time for traders to get together and offerings mov-ing freely but it developed that the supply was none too large for de-mands of local packers and eastern shippers and only a few lots were un-sold at the noon hour.

Buyers were unable to put prices on a materially lower basis. Some sales were regarded around a dime lower but for the most part the offerings cleared at steady to weak prices as compared with the closing level of last week. On the whole steer trade was quotable slow and steady to easy, Trade, however, was slow in general tone and the feeling was weak but while 10c declines were quoted here and there sellers were able to cash the bulk of their holdings at prices much the same as prevailed toward the close of last The final clearance was good week. The final clearance was good and business on the afternoon session was limited. Choice to prime heifers were scarce but there was a fair show CATTLE UNDERTONE WEAK ing largely at $5.00 @5.50, with a few mixed lots landing above the latter figure. Strictly choice heavy cows were by no means plentiful and had But Bulk of the Supply Cnanged the call from $5.00 up. Bulk of the desirable killers, however, went at $4.25@5.00, with canners and cutters ranging from $4.00 down.

Bull trade was quiet and quoted steady to weak. Calves met the same broad demand and sold fully up to last week's best level.

Very little improvement if any was recorded in the general market for stockers and feeders this morning and for the most part prices were called about steady with last week's decline. Outside of a better demand there was few new features developed and as a rule trade followed along last week's channels, buyers taking the moderate supply n good season, although none of the regular traders were overly anxious for fresh supplies as they carried over considerable stocks from last week and they were naturally last week and they were naturally more interested in cleaning up their supplies than in enlarging them.

Story — The Humming Bird And the Butterfly

HILDREN," asked daddy one evening, "did you ever see a humming

"Not I," said Jack "Nor I," said Evelyn They are very small birds, hardly bigger than some insects. Their feathers are very brightly colored, and they have long, thin, sharp bills. They live only in warm parts of this country. This is going to be a story about a humming bird which was very proud of its pretty feathers and its bill and its ability to fly very swiftly from flower to flower to catch the tiny insects on which humming birds live.

"One day this humming bird was resting on the branch of a bush. Near by the bird there was a gray caterpillar, a homely thing with funny looking hairs all over its fuzzy body. It was a friendly caterpillar, and it said to the "Good morning. It is a nice, clear, warm day, isn't it?" "But the humming bird only looked at it and sniffed. I am sure that if it had had a nose it would have turned it up at the poor caterpillar. The very idea,' said the bird, 'of a queer looking bug like you daring to speak to a pretty, bright humming bird like me! I don't like your company, so I'm going to fly right away from here to some place where I won't be troubled by creatures like you.' And she flew away to another bush "Of course the poor caterpillar felt hurt. He had not intended to force his company upon the humming bird. He had meant only to be friendly. But he did not say anything. He knew the time was coming when he should be as good as the humming bird.

"Some weeks after that time the humming bird met a large, beautiful butterfly with splendid markings on its wings. That butterfly would make a good friend for me,' said the humming bird. 'It is almost as beautiful as I am.' So it asked the butterfly to be friends. But the butterfly said: I cannot think of it, for you said once that I was only a queer looking bug and not fit to associate with a bright, pretty bird like you." 'Why,' said the humming bird, 'I do not remember saying anything like that to you. Indeed, I do not remember ever seeing you before today. I have always been very fond of such bright looking creatures as you are. 'Perhaps you are,' said the butterfly. 'But at the time when you insulted me I was only a queer looking, fuzzy caterpillar. Let me give you a piece of advice-never insult any creature just because you think you are superior to It. Some day it may become equal to you or better than you."

Exposing the Piano Combine in Missouri

Members Retail Merchants' Association.

were about to open a factory branch store in St. Joseph, which eliminates the middle men, the piano combine and their sub-agents started a mud-slinging sampaign and tried to discredit us in the eyes of the music-loving public. Why? So they could keep on selling planes at their usual heavily inflated prices. We announced that in the marketing of our pianos they would be priced so as to entirely eliminate every profit-taker. Not only that, but we share our advertising funds with our cutsomers through the contest method, lic undertook to cry Fraud and Fake, because you know some people are so crooked themselves that they cannot conceive of anyone being on the square, but we promised to expose the plano combine, and believe our position in Missouri is too well known to need any further explanations here. The sub-agents cried Fraud, and said we could not give out a purchase check for $50 or $75.00, or even $100 without raising the prices on our pianos. Let us see. Let us take our competitor's prices, which he claims are so low. They are advertising the Steinway Piano Vertegrand for $550 in an ebony case. It is not really an ebony case, but a plano painted black. We will forfeit $500 to any charitable institution in St. Joseph to show the actual manufacturing cost of that piano. We claim the actual manufacturing cost is less, than $150. The rest is divided between the manufacturer and the sub-agents, or, in other words, a profit of approximately $400 is as-

The sub-agents demand $360 for the Vose Piano. We will forfeit the above $500 on the same conditions to show the manufacturing cost of this plane. We claim the actual manufacturing cost is less than $140. Here the manufactuar and the sub-agents assess the music loving public, a profit between them of approximately $200 and, of course, they can not afford to pay commissions or allow the public to share in any of these profits.

as it was conducted in Missouri before we entered the field, but so long as the combine and their sub-agents desire to carry on a mudslinging bolley we will expose them, and their outlandish profits which they have exacted from the plano-buying public in Missouri. HANDED DOWN FROM EVE

Dread of Snakes Is Almost Universal and Must Date Back to the Cradle of the Race.

Not for five and probably not for 10,000 years has any ancestor of ours lived in a country or zone which was inhabited by a single dangerous, venemous serpent or a snake of any kind big enough to kill a jack-rabbit, yet the dread of serpents is as vivid as ft was in the days of the Garden of Eden, says Dr. Woods Hutchinson, in an article on the dread of cats, snakes and mice in Success Magazine. Their baleful, unwinking eyes, their strangling coils, the ghastly sinuousness of their movements, the noiselessness of their approach, the agony and deadliness of their sting, throb and echo like a Wagnerian leit-motif through all literature and legend; are bitten and branded into our deepest consciousness as if by fire. An imitation of their hiss has become the expression of our deepest contempt and eathing. A hiss is understood in every language under heaven, and every three-year-old, to express derision and dislike, thrusts out his little pink tongue and with it imitates the flickering movements of the serpent's tongue.

The aversion to snakes has no appreciable present utility, for the risk of any modern American or European being killed by snake-bite, even in the most rattlesnake-infested and prohibition-ridden community, is about one-thirty-fifth that of death by lightning stroke. It must date back to at least the cradle of the race in the tropics, but even here its distribution is a singular one. Of all animals above the size of a squirrel, one two display it in any vivid or paralyzing form. It is an echo of the days when our common ancestor, "tailed, covered with hair and probably arboreal in its habits," swung and rollicked in the

HORSES AND MELES.

At the big shows last fall, including the State Fair at Sedalia, the Interstate Fair at St. Joseph, and the Great American Royal at Kansas City, I exhibited 2 head of Percherons, consisting of the great PHENIX No. 42215, 4 of his get and 4 other mares and fillies. PHENIX and his get (shown together) were NEVER DEFEATED, a fact which proves him one of the GREATEST LIVING SIRES. In the open classes my 2-year-old filly was never defeated: my yearing filly was also the first prize winner at all tases shows. I also won the Percheron Sciety Championship at St. Joseph for BEST STALLION, any age, bred and owned by exhibitor. We also won the Percheron Society Championship for mare any age at St. Joseph and at Kansas City. These championships were won by sons and daughters of PHENIX. Sof the 9 exhibited at these shows wen prizes, and I have many more equally as good, any of which are for sale, except the herd stallions. Any one in need of a good mare, filly, or young stallice will do well to visit my barns. Will state that I have also some excellent young Standard horses, including two well bred sons of CONSTANTINE 2:12/2, any or all of which will be priced right.
