CATTLE

Best Steers Active—Others Met Rather Slowly. A steady and fairly active trade in good corn-fed steers and the better grades of westerns was had this morning.

Receipts, while lighter than on former days of the week, were of larger volume than a week ago. The early estimate called for 2,000 head here but this was later raised to 2,500 head, as compared with arrivals of 1,489 a week ago and 1,470 corresponding day a year ago.

Price of a third of the local offerings of cattle here today consisted of grass westerns from Central and Southern Kansas pastures.

Buyers took hold of the better grades of westerns quite readily on a firm basis and while showing a good appetite for the cheaper kinds were inclined to bear down a little on the price.

HADLEY CONGRATULATES

Governor Says Defeat of Bonds Would Have Been a Step Backward—Victory Hailed as a Splendid Testimonial of What Missourians Can Do When United—Jefferson City Celebrates.

Voters of Missouri yesterday authorized a bond issue of $5,500,000 for the rebuilding of the state capitol at Jefferson City, which was destroyed by fire a little more than six months ago.

Northwest Missouri gave the bond issue a heavy majority. Buchanan county, including St. Joseph, cast about 3,000 votes and favored the issue in the ratio of seven to one.

When the courthouse here closed last night the vote for sixty-four out of eighty-seven precincts was 2,225 for and 124 against. At that time one city and twenty-two country precincts were missing.

St. Louis cast a little more than 20,000 votes, the final count, as reported last night, being 16,320 for and 4,193 against.

Kansas City was reported as favoring the bonds with a majority of 10,927 to 617.

Jefferson City, the most affected in the entire state, had the entire county of Cole voted up for the proposition and it came forward with a record of 5,870 for and 14 against.

Mr. Shoemaker stated that he was well pleased with the way his cattle were handled and sold at St. Joseph, Neb., and that he had a good deal better on them here than he could have done in Chicago.

GROW THE CATTLE FEED.

Cattle feeding is not a hazardous business, provided it is done intelligently and conservatively. The man who feeds what he has raised on his own place, carefully husbanding the manure and puts it back onto the land, is the man who will buy his neighbor's farm in the future.

GRASS CATTLE COMING GOOD.

Pasture cattle in the south are finding dried grass a rather monotonous diet this season, says the Kansas City Times. Old Sol tied the tender grass shoots into dry packages and when the big droves of Texas cattle come into Kansas and Oklahoma pastures, instead of nice, tender, juicy grass blades there was only the sun cured grass to eat.

Bert in His Palms Searching for the Sofa

Daddy's Bedtime Story — Bert's Dream Found His Mother's Diamonds

"Do you believe in dreams, daddy?" asked Evelyn. "Not so very much," said daddy, "because dreams usually go by contraries, don't you know, but I know of one case where a dream came true and where it saved a poor family from being thrown out in the street."

"Please tell us," said the children. "Well," said daddy, "this was where some real nice persons were at the last limit in a money way. The father had died, leaving all his business tangled up, and they had nothing to do but sell everything they had and go to some little place in the country."

"His mother sold the jewels at once, and then they had enough to get them the little country home they wanted." "Didn't Bert get anything for himself?" asked practical Jack. "Sure he did," said daddy. "He got a kiss from his mother. Wasn't that enough?"

IN WOMAN'S REALM

White Loyer Cake—Cream together a half cup of butter and two cups of sifted sugar. Add the white of four eggs, a half cup of sweet milk and a teaspoonful of vanilla. Sift together one heaping teaspoonful of baking powder and one and one-half cups of flour. Stir into the mixture, beat well and bake in layers.

SEASONABLE RECIPES.

Corn Fritters—To a cupful of fresh corn pulp cut from the ear add a half cup cracker crumbs mixed with a half cup of milk. Add two eggs whites and yolks beaten together, and season with salt and pepper. Have ready a good cream gravy to pour over the fritter well greased with butter, and drop in the batter a spoonful at a time.

CHICKEN A LA BALTIMORE

Prepare as for broiling; then cut into joints, wipe dry, season well with salt and pepper, dip into beaten egg, then roll in fine bread crumbs. Place in a well buttered pan; pour olive oil or melted butter over it and bake in a steady oven for twenty-five minutes. When tender remove to a hot dish. Make a good cream gravy to pour over the chicken and serve with corn fritters and thin slices of crisped bacon.

SEASONABLE PEACH PUDDING

Cut into small pieces a pint of ripe peaches. Mix with one cup of milk, one pint of flour, a half teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, two tablespoonfuls of butter, the yolks of two eggs and a half cup of sugar. When mixed to a smooth batter add the beaten yolks of the eggs and bake seven to ten minutes. This cake should be eaten the same it is baked, as the cream soaks into the pastry and the bananas do not stay fresh.

THE DRAFT HORSE

The Logical Type of Horse for Farm Conditions in the Corn Belt. PROMINENT BREEDER TALKS

W. S. Corsa's Address on Drafters Before the Illinois Farmers' Institute.

At the Illinois State Farmers' Institute held at Champaign, last month, W. S. Corsa, of White Hall, Ill., one of the prominent figures in breeding circles of the country, delivered an address on the subject, "Breeding of Draft Horses by the Corn Belt Farmer." Mr. Corsa spoke as follows:

"The draft horse is the logical horse for corn belt conditions. The proper tillage of the soil, and the scarcity of farm labor, require power for the large and larger machinery devised to perform the most work at the least expense for manual labor of any kind."

"The custom and training of the corn belt farmer is to handle stock in bunches. The kindly disposition of the draft horse, his quiet bearing, his peaceable ways, and his gentleness of temper, make him a most acceptable with the prevailing methods and equipment on a corn belt stock farm."

SQUAW IN LARGE LAND SUIT

Goldendale, Wash., Aug. 1.—Because Emma Dave cannot talk the Chinook language, the speech of Northwest Indians, but was forced to make herself understood through an interpreter of her tribal dialect when she signed away water rights on her property a mile above Lyle, she has contended in the case just ended in the Supreme Court here that she was tricked by the leases of the property.

BIG FIRE AT DUBUQUE

Dubuque, Iowa, Aug. 1.—Fire of incalculable value Sunday evening destroyed property valued at $250,000, as follows: Spahn & Rose Lumber Company, $50,000; Wincke Hoerl Canning Company, $50,000; Kraft's Manufacturing company, manufacturers of plumbers' supplies, buildings and stock, $100,000.

POSTAL BANKS TO LARGE CITIES

Washington, Aug. 1.—Encouraged by the success of the postal savings system in the hundreds of cities where it is already in operation, Postmaster General Hitchcock today signed an order extending the system to ten large cities of the first class: Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Cleveland, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Louisville, Jersey City, Wilmington, Del., and Long Island City, will have postal saving banks in operation on Sept. 1.

breeding pure bred is incomparably greater. The pure bred drafter on the corn belt farm spells better farming, better fencing, practical elimination of the barb wire, and the barbarian scrub, and the maintenance of our heritage unimpaired as the seed bed of the draft horse industry.

"Other lands are casting eyes toward the United States for breeding stock of the best breeds of cattle. Breeders of dairy cattle are at this very time anticipating the production in America of the choicest specimens of their favorite breeds. Already we have distanced foreign lands in the production of great types of swine. It is possible, that having drawn to this country for years the highest type and best individuals of draft horses that the day will not come when the draft horse in the splendor of his massive form, graceful carriage and symmetrical outline, will not be sought for in our own country by our own breeders and the breeders of foreign countries. It could be an indictment against the intelligence and perseverance of our people to deny it, and when that day arrives, the drafter of our ideals and our dreams will be found on the land of the Corn Belt Farmer."

TENDERS MONEY TO IMPROVE

"Pawnee Bill" Helps Finances of His Home Town. Pawnee, Okla., Aug. 1.—Whenever the municipality of Pawnee gets pinched for money for improvements, Major Gordon Lillie ("Pawnee Bill") comes to the rescue.

Major Lillie has lived at Pawnee since pioneer days, and owns a large tract of land in the town on the south. For several years Pawnee has been trying to raise money to get better fire protection by extending the water mains through the residence district. The city will have full control of the main, selling water to Major Lillie, and will pay for the improvement from time to time as the funds become available.

"It will take $18,000," said the members of the council. "Well, here's your money," said Major Lillie, writing his check for the full amount. He charged a low rate of interest, and told his townsmen that they could take just as much time as they wished in paying the indebtedness.

SILO TRUTHS.

By Prof. W. A. Henry. A silo and an up-to-date dairy farm usually together. The silo is a life saver in a severe drought, when pastures become parched and green feed stops growing.

The silo enables the farmer to increase his herd and thereby he builds up the fertility of his soil. This means success. Corn loses less of its feeding value when silaged than when dry cured.

With an abundant supply of good corn chaffage and clover or alfalfa hay, and some home-grown grains, the dairyman is independent. Some grains can be bought for specially balanced rations at a small cost.

Day by day, as the weather grows warmer, take a bit more pains in having everything about the dairy in the very pink of cleanliness. It does take some time to spray cows, but it is time well expended. Saying nothing about the comfort of the cows, there will be a real money return for the work you lay out.

The Details Lacking.
How well the architect employed to build this house has imitated an old-fashioned kitchen!

as an old maid.

"You'll never marry now," she said. No, she never would. The girls would go, but she would stay. Her father and she would be old together. For her it would be a case of "crusts and left-overs" to the end.

Behind the trees came the silver flash of moonrise. She watched it pathetically while she thought of what the day had brought forth. Blackberry preserving for one thing. And for tomorrow a basket of early peaches waited.

It is a pity that you have had to neglect your must when you love it so," he said, "but I am sure that with a few good lessons you could pick it up again easily."

Who would not raise his hand to the morning air and be content in the loveliness tendered by this beautiful month for our delight? And seeing, feel in his heart the wisdom of that poet who also loved rosetime and because he loved it well, asked a question we may vainly seek an answer for: "What is so rare as a day in June!"—Haberdsasher.

INFERIOR TO WOMAN

Man Not Equal to Wife in Business World.

Race Betterment League Debaters Place Masculinity in Spendthrift Class—Can't Use Money Intelligently.

Chicago.—Woman as compared with man in the business world is not only his equal, but vastly his superior. Women can and do succeed where men fail. Give woman a business education, and she will displace man in any line of business which she chooses to follow.

These were the sentiments expressed at the regular weekly meeting of the Race Betterment league.

The subject under discussion was, "Are Women Capable of Handling Money in Lump Sums?"

Mrs. Minona S. Jones, president of the league, said: "It is an insult to women that they should be questioned as to their ability to handle money to a good advantage. The laws are wrong when man is given superior power and control through the privilege of the ballot and men show that they despise women as a class when they deprive them of the privilege and opportunity to invest their own money. Much domestic discord is caused because women have money in the home and won't give it to the husband to squander foolishly, when he himself has demonstrated that he is not fit to take care of it."

Mrs. Mary I. Engler, vice-president of the organization, was asked for her opinion on the subject and spoke sharply and to the point.

"Are women capable of handling large sums? Well," she asked and continued: "I should say they are. Take for example Mrs. Hettie Green, Helen Gould and Mrs. Mollie Netcher. It is a fact that most of the palatial homes that we have in this country today are built through women's frugality and ability to handle money with discretion."

Rev. Mrs. H. M. Mullenbaux of Ravenswood, demonstrated man's inferiority to women by instances of poor men marrying wealthy women. "Is it not a fact," she asked, "that when a man marries an heiress, as soon as he has gained control of her fortune he will run through it as soon as possible and leave her practically penniless?"

Equip women with a business education and there is no question but that in the long run she will outstrip man in the conservative handling of finances."

Mrs. Jean Butler Wallace asserted that with small capital a woman can do more than a man, and that many successful women of today have started with practically nothing and have built up fortunes.

BABIES PUT IN NEW DANGER

New York Charitable Societies Fight Practice of Dressing Them in Tight Swaddling Clothes.

New York.—In an attempt to end the practice of binding very young children in tight swaddling clothes, prevalent among women in the foreign settlements here, one of the prominent New York charitable organizations has placed nurses in various parts of the east side to start a campaign of education among the mothers.

The swaddling clothes, a sort of long bandage, is wrapped tightly about a child's lower limbs and is often allowed to remain for six months at a time. The mothers believe the treatment prevents the child from growing "bow legged," and have opposed attempts to check the practice.

Investigations have convinced the association that instead of preventing malformation of the limbs, the swaddling clothes increase it.

MANY KINDS OF MOSQUITOES

Experts in New Haven Report Twenty-Two Varieties, But All Are Engaged in Same Business.

New Haven, Conn.—The annual "mosquito census" of the New Haven board of health shows that there are this year 22 varieties of mosquitoes in this section. The number of the pests is steadily decreasing, and the present plan of oiling the city streets is held largely responsible. Oil from the streets washed into the sewers, whence it finds its way into the harbor and eventually is deposited by the tides upon the marshes where the mosquitoes breed.

Snakes Rule World.

Cambridge, Mass.—Professor Maynard, educator, in a rather startling statement here declared that as a result of a study of snakes he is convinced that had they been able to develop hands and feet instead of being obliged to crawl their brains would have enabled them to dominate the world. In that event, he asserts, man would probably have remained in a primitive, savage state, or possibly even as an ape.

Finishes Her Last Voyage.

New York.—One of the last of the famous American clipper ships, which once showed their heels to the merchantmen of the world, sailed into port the other day after a voyage from the Pacific coast that lasted 293 days. She is the Alexander Gibson, and was built in 1877. This was her last voyage under sail, for she comes here to be converted into a coal barge.

RAT CHASE QUITE EXCITING

Woman Shrieks, Porter Flees and Passer-by Hunt Rodent in Vain—It Finally Escapes.

Chicago.—A big gray rat raised all sorts of commotion in West Madison street early the other day. It scared a woman pedestrian, made a colored porter "turn white" with fear and caused half a dozen pedestrians who kicked at it to bark their shins. Then it escaped.

It was about 6 a. m. An early morning pedestrian—the woman—was passing a building between West Dearborn and South Clark streets, when the rat jumped from behind a sidewalk signboard. The woman gave one shriek—a shrill and a loud one—and ran to the middle of the street. A colored porter at work cleaning the sidewalk heard the woman's cries, but did not know what was the cause of them. He and several pedestrians rushed to where the woman stood.

"Under there! Under there!" the woman shouted, as she pointed to the signboard, under which the rat had run again.

The porter advanced bravely and thrust his long handled brush under the sign. The rat gave a bound and jumped directly at the porter.

"Wow!" he yelled, and took to his heels.

The rat ran east a few yards, with at least six full grown men in hot pursuit. One, who had dashed ahead of the animal, stood prepared to deliver a death dealing kick. He made a mighty swing, but missed the rat and his shin struck heavily against an iron hitching post. The man yelled in pain and the crowd in laughter.

Others tried hard to kick the rat, but none succeeded, although the toes of half a dozen boots were scuffed where they had come in contact with the curbing. Then a citizen with a cane came along and prepared to take a mighty swipe. He apparently had the creature cornered in the entrance of one of the West Madison street nickel theaters. His club was uplifted and it looked bad for the rat, when the creature suddenly dropped out of sight behind some refuse paper.

Carefully the crumpled sheet was removed, the man with the cane standing to deal his blow, when it was discovered that under the paper was a hole, and into this the rat had gone and escaped.

LOOK LIKE INDIANS

Modern Life Molding Faces Into Hawk Type.

Facial Resemblance of Race and Heredity Will Become as Nothing Compared to That Made by Social Conditions.

Los Angeles, Cal.—There is an entirely new type of face being created through the mode of present-day American life, according to Major Paul von Kautenberg Gerozynski, well known writer on the manners and customs of the countries of the world.

Irrespective of race origin and other hereditary mediums of facial resemblance, the faces of Americans are becoming more and more alike, says the major. His knowledge is gleaned from frequent tours of the globe, years spent among different races to study their characteristics and a thorough grounding of medical knowledge and anatomy.

"The facial resemblance of race and heredity will become as nothing compared to that made by remarkable social conditions," said the major. "In a few centuries the American man and woman will have the features of the American Indian, with a few subtle changes brought about by higher mental development."

"The hawklike face of the first Americans was developed by constant anxiety over the uncertainties of existence. The visage was characterized by a tension—a rigidity which not only affected the muscles but molded the bone. That tension—that hawklike appearance—is once more becoming a characteristic of the faces of American men and women."

"After other races came to America faces of all types and formations were found. There was no similarity. Every nationality brought some distinctive feature to America. Those distinctive features are blending more and more every year."

"The blended features of nearly all of the races are now being molded by the conditions of living and earning in America. The high strung expression caused by a constant rush and endeavor is sinking deep beneath the flesh."

"The American Indian was characterized by a high cheek bone, a prominent brow, a narrow, solid chin. These marks were the result of centuries of scanning vast areas with eyes half-closed, brows puckered, jaws firmly set."

"Once more the American lives his life with the same half-closed eyes, constantly scanning the future; the same worry-puckered brows and the same firmly set jaw. The Indian looked into the distance literally. The American of today looks into the distance figuratively, but with the same facial result."

"The American woman, also, who is constantly fighting for social recognition, wears the mark of her combat. The placid face of the housewife is fast disappearing. The cry of America is attainment, and upon the face of the American is found the imprint of that cry."

The major has been retired from active military service in the German army for many years. Since then he has traveled around the world many times to gather material for his books and magazine articles. Some of his works have been taken up by historical societies in Germany as valuable to posterity.

PINE SNAKES AS HOUSE PETS

Missouri Promoter Insists Reptiles Are Better Than Cats—Reptiles Harmless and Inoffensive.

Kansas City, Mo.—Will Kansas City families take kindly to pine snakes and yellow bull snakes, nonpoisonous, as pets?

By way of testing out the willingness of Kansas City people to substitute the domesticated snake for cats in the extermination of rats and mice, J. S. Edwards of the Edwards animal show has placed an order for 300 bull snakes with a reptile firm in San Antonio, Tex.

As soon as the snakes arrive they will be distributed free of charge to those applying for the strange pets, who will agree to report the result of the snake-instead-of-a-cat substitution in their homes.

The yellow bull is the largest snake native to the United States, sometimes growing to nine feet in length. Edwards declares the snakes to be harmless and inoffensive and mildly disposed towards nearly everything but rats and mice. He professed to believe that many Kansas City people would be glad to permit the glossy yellow snakes to coil into the best parlor chair, completely usurping the place of the family cat.

LAKE TROUT CALLED SHARK

Buffalo Man Inaugurates War of Extermination on Species That He Says Preys on Others.

Buffalo, N. Y.—A campaign for the extermination of lake trout has been begun by Charles Bullimore, president of the Erie County Society for the Protection of Birds, Fish and Game. He declares that the trout, which he calls "miniature sharks," are a menace to all other lake fish.

Speaking of carp, Mr. Bullimore says in his annual report that in his opinion the present law regulating the use of nets to within one-half mile of the shore should be modified, allowing carp to be caught with nets at any distance from the shore.

These fish, he explains, are enemies to all others that spawn near the shore.

Plays Piano 36 Hours.

Richmond, Ind.—Sherman White, a local piano player, has broken the world's record for endurance piano playing. White played without a stop for 36 hours and declared afterward that had it been necessary he could have played for 50. During all that time White played distinct tunes and not merely chords. The record heretofore has been 37 hours and 36 minutes, made by Roy Harding of Hamilton, Ohio.

Find Kin Missing 25 Years.

Lenox, Mass.—Twenty-five years ago Charles Wheeler left Lenox, and as no word ever came from him his relatives supposed him dead.

Three months ago his brother, Ellsworth Wheeler, drifted down to Panama and got work on an engine, and been doing similar work not more than one hundred feet away for six months.

Limita Racing in Bombay.

Bombay.—The governor of Bombay has notified the turf club that no horse racing will be allowed at Bombay or Poona, unless the meetings are limited to ten days and bookmaking abolished.

HOODOO IN A SCHOOL ROOM

Pennsylvania Town Has One Ceiling That Keeps on Falling—Several People Hurt So Far.

Easton, Pa.—Room 1, in the Easton high school building, appears to be hoodooed. Two years ago, when an addition was being built to the high school, a water pipe burst, and room 1 was flooded, valuable books and fixtures being badly damaged by the water.

Early last term, when a number of the high school instructors were enjoying their luncheon during noon hour, a section of the ceiling fell and Professor Sayre P. Usher was so badly injured that he was laid up for some time.

Several months later another section of the ceiling fell, but this time no one was injured. The same thing occurred and two students were injured. The ceiling had been inspected several times by contractors and disinterested parties and pronounced safe, but the school controllers, rather than run further chances, ordered a new ceiling to be placed.

The contract was awarded to Thomas J. Heller, who visited the building the other day. He had been there a short time, when a piece of plaster fell and cut open his nose.

Today Heller was supervising the erection of a scaffold in the room when it collapsed and he and two workmen were thrown to the floor. Heller injured one of his ankles to such an extent that he will be laid up several weeks. His two employees were badly shaken up, but escaped with minor hurts.

HIS FACE WAS HIS FORTUNE

New Jersey Man Presented With $10,000 in Stock, $170 in Currency and a Bank Book—is Nervous.

New York.—Saying he liked the looks of his face, a man, who called himself "Colonel Watson," presented $170 in cash, a bank book and $10,000 worth of stock to Arthur J. Mitchell, while both were in a Chicago hotel recently.

Mr. Mitchell, who is a salesman for the Leo Mitchell company of Bayonne, N. J., and who lives at 229 Avenue A, that city, met "Colonel Watson" at the hotel and had a long conversation with him one evening. Next morning when he asked for his mail the clerk handed him an envelope which, besides the property mentioned above, contained a note, which read:

"You have a nice face, so I am leaving this for you. Do not try to find me. The whole world is my home."

"COLONEL WATSON."

Mr. Mitchell left the money and the bank book at the office of the hotel and asked to have the hotel detective try to find the stranger. The stock he kept until he reached New York, when he found it was negotiable and worth $10,000. It consists of ten shares of a tobacco company stock.

"I'm nervous with all that property around Bayonne," said Mr. Mitchell. "I want to find this Colonel Watson before my hair turns gray."

SURE CURE FOR WEAK LUNGS

London Specialist Declares Playing Mournful Instrument Will Assist Materially as Remedy.

London.—The London physician is usually a grave, sedate person, for whom one has great respect—but now some of them have declared that the flute is a medical as well as a musical instrument.

One of these physicians, who is said to be a lung specialist, announces that where there is a weak spot in the lungs flute-playing ought to be beneficial, as the inspirations necessary for playing the mournful instrument make numerous little lung cells work which otherwise would be unemployed.

This specialist, however, has consideration enough to say that he would not recommend playing the flute indoors, but if a man has the courage to sit in the parks and play it will help him. The flute, he contends, should not prove objectionable to the neighbors if a man plays it in his back garden.
