A QUICK READ OF THE NEWS

Pig worth a pretty penny

Penny the Inside Out Pig is worth a pretty penny.

The fiberglass hog, covered from snout to tail in shiny copper pennies, fetched $21,000 at a charity auction in Seattle.

About 170 plastic pigs put up for bid at a public auction Saturday and on the Internet auction site eBay brought in nearly $500,000. The pigs had been decorated by local artists and put on display on city streets as part of the Pigs on Parade project.

The money went to the 15-year-old Pike Place Market Foundation, which runs a medical clinic, food bank, senior center and preschool.

Pigs on Parade was inspired by a cow exhibit in Switzerland, which sparked similar events in America.

Ellsworth Alvord of Windermere, Wash., paid the second-highest price for a pig, $17,000 for Ruby, a sparkling red pig made by glass artist Dale Chihuly and students from T.T. Minor Elementary School.

"I thought it would look nice out in the garden," Alvord said.

Cheap planes get their day

Thousands of really cheap airplanes took off from an Oshkosh, Wis., aircraft hangar over the weekend. Few remained in the air for long.

Nine-year-old Caitlyn Phillips was among the pilots, tossing her hand-made paper airplane in the Eagle Hangar at the Experimental Aircraft Association AirVenture Museum.

In three tries Sunday, her best effort had a hang time of 3.68 seconds — far short of the record 27.6-second flight achieved by Ken Blackburn, an aeronautical engineer from St. Louis who was on hand for the event.

"I like how the airplanes are made and how they stay up in the air," Caitlyn said. "They don't fall downright away."

Shallowater game should reveal champ

By DELTON WILHITE
Journal correspondent

"This is the game for the gold ball," Mule coach David Wood said in reference to Friday night's game with the Shallowater Mustangs.

"This game will decide whether the Mules win the district championship outright or share it with Littlefield and Shallowater."

The Mule pep rally is scheduled for 3 p.m. Friday in the high school gymnasium.

Last week's games saw Muleshoe defeat Littlefield 40-21, Shallowater down Dimmitt 48-8 and Lubbock Cooper hold off Lubbock Roosevelt 21-0.

The Mules are undefeated in district with a 2-0 record, while Littlefield, Shallowater, Cooper and Roosevelt share second place with 1-1 district records and Dimmitt has two losses.

Littlefield should get back on track this week as it faces Roosevelt; Cooper can go to 2-1 by defeating Dimmitt. The Mules square off with Shallowater's Mustangs in Benny Douglas Stadium.

"This week decides everything, large school/small school, first and second seed in the small-school division. There is also a pivotal game in District 1-3A between Childress and Sanford-Fritch to determine the seeding of the small schools in that district (and thus the first round of playoff foes for District 2 teams).

"By late Friday night, the playoff picture will begin to see WINNER on page 2

Texas 214 to be redone in Muleshoe

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

The state is planning a major face lift for Texas 214 (South First Street) through Muleshoe, and it will involve some temporary inconvenience for drivers.

Also on tap is removal of the stoplight at First and Avenue D. Ramón Sánchez of the city's public works department said the light is expected to be removed about Nov. 15.

That is based on the state's installation of stop signs on Avenue D at the intersection on Oct. 15 for "about 30 days" before the light is taken down, he said.

A four-lane highway was discussed, but that would have taken all the parking in front of the hospital, said

Chewing up the field

A.J. Flores plows his 5-foot-6 1/2-inch frame through some Littlefield defenders to rack up a few of his 222 yards rushing Friday night against the Wildcats. His five touchdowns and other contributions to the game not only earned him team offensive player of the week honors, but he was named the Amarillo Globe News' player of the week from all classifications.

Cross country teams head to district meet after top finishes

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

Muleshoe High School cross country teams are looking to the district meet this Saturday after finishing near the top of the heap at South Plains College on Oct. 20.

All seven varsity girls finished in the top 20 — Eva Pylant eighth, Mitei Hawkins ninth, Mindy Locker 11th, Lilia Flores 12th, Jodi Hawkins 14th, Annie Cox 17th and Lindsey Wood 18th.

Christy Morgan 41st and Amanda López 61st.

• 2 p.m. — junior high and junior varsity girls;

• 3 p.m. — varsity girls; and
• 3:30 p.m. — varsity boys.

Women win big again in local football contest

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

As if the guys shouldn't be ashamed of themselves for letting women walk away with the top two places the previous week's football contest, they let the women win all three top prizes for last week.

The three (all from Muleshoe) each missed three games, with Shonda Hill edging her way into first place with a guess of 53 points on the tiebreaker. (The combined Muleshoe-Littlefield score turned out to be 61.)

But Hill won by only a point — Debbie Weir and Retha Tigue tied for second and third with guesses of 52 on the tiebreaker.

Also, all three women missed Baltimore at Cleveland. Hill and Weir paired up to miss Kansas City at Arizona, while Weir and Tigue each missed Carolina at Washington.

Hill's other miscue was picking Arkansas State over the University of North Texas, while Tigue's third miss was picking Whiteface over Sudan.

Several games were disas- see CONTEST on page 3

Crane Fest to benefit Child Welfare Board

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

The third annual Crane Fest is scheduled for Nov. 3 at the Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge.

Refuge manager Don Clapp reported Tuesday that as many as 2,200 sandhill cranes have been seen at the refuge this fall, with more arriving daily.

The Crane Fest schedule will start early, with a breakfast prepared by Cliff Black and company and served from 6 a.m. to 8 a.m. The food will be at the state picnic area just north of the refuge on Texas 214.

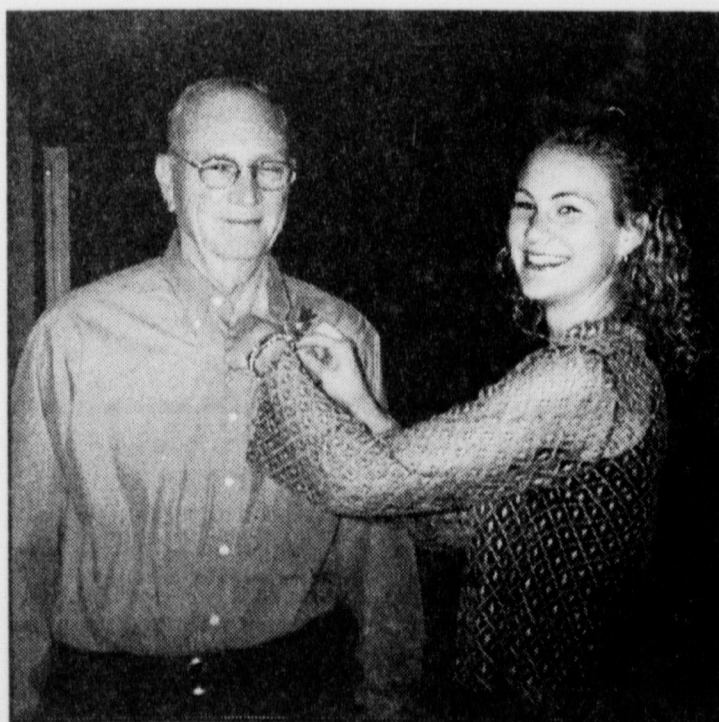

Proceeds go to the Bailey County Child Welfare Board.

At sunrise, or around 7 a.m., visitors interested in seeing the cranes leave their roosting sites should drive off 214 onto the Paul's Lake tour road in the northeast part of the refuge.

The birds like to spend the night in the lakes, possibly for defense.

"Visitors are advised to turn off their vehicle's headlights, if light is suf-

A&M expert speaks out on pesticide storage

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL COLLEGE STATION — Recent national events have caused a heightened awareness of inspecting and evaluating pesticide security programs.

Dr. Don Rennie, Texas Cooperative Extension agricultural and environmental safety specialist, recently said federal and state regulatory officials are asking agricultural pesticide users to review and update their security programs.

"Each of us is asked to conduct a thorough inspection of our pesticide and pesticide equipment's storage facilities to locate and eliminate any weak areas," Rennie said.

"Any inspection should be aimed at removing the risk of unauthorized entry into pesticide storage facilities. In addition, and most important, is the prevention of pesticide removal by unauthorized persons."

Tips he recommended include:

- Store pesticides in a separate location, preferably in a locked storage building dedicated to just that purpose. Keep pesticides separated by use and, when practical, store application equipment separately under lock and key;

- Always lock pesticide storage cabinets, closets, rooms and buildings. Locks should be case-hardened, tamper-resistant and in top working order. Use cable-seal locks to secure individual storage containers;

- Keep perimeter fences 6 to 8 feet tall, with appropriate signs (Danger—Pesticides, as well as No Smoking) and dusk-to-dawn security lighting supplied. Limit access to appropriate personnel, and keep tight control on access keys. Thoroughly scrutinize any unauthorized personnel;

- Maintain thorough stock records and perform frequent inventories. Also, establish contact with local law enforcement and fire authorities.

"Security also involves being alert to unusual or suspicious actions," Rennie said. "Indications that something is amiss may include unusual behavior by a purchaser or individual."

clear, and teams should have a good idea who they will face in the post-season," he said.

Since Shallowater returned to Class 3A, the Muleshoe-Shallowater game has been a hard-fought battle each year.

The Mustangs may well have the best offense the Mules have faced since playing Forney in the semi-final game last year.

Eric Morris may be the best kickoff and punt returner in the state, and some have compared Kiel Kitchens to the Mules' own Lincoln Riley in his ability to pass and run the option.

Friday's game time is 7:30 p.m. at Benny Douglas Stadium.

hospital administrator Jim Bone in briefing the district's board.

The highway will instead gain a center turn lane within the present right-of-way, but Bone said there are still encroachments into the state's right-of-way.

The hospital district may have to move a clinic sign seven feet, and one of the banks may lose some landscaping.

Bone said the hospital district was told that the roadway will be rebuilt entirely and new curbs installed.

ters for the contestants. Stanford's win over Oregon ambushed 34 of the 40 entrants, but several others were nearly as tough to predict. Those games (and the number missing them) were Baltimore at Cleveland (33), Carolina at Washington (30), Kansas City at Arizona (29), Nazareth at Hart (25) and Sudan at Whiteface (23).

In fact, 77 percent of this week's players missed five games or more.

All three of the Crawford kids from Lazbuddie finished in the top 10 — and all missed four games, but not the same four.

Crescent came in fourth by guessing 70 on the tiebreaker, Court was fifth with a guess of 48 and Castle was ninth with 38.

Filling out the top 10 were Kathleen Hayes of Muleshoe (sixth with four misses, 47 tiebreaker), Isaac Nicolas of Farwell (seventh, four misses and 43), Richard Hawkins of Muleshoe (eighth, four misses and 42), and tied for 10th were Carl Jacobs and Frances Stegall, both of Muleshoe (five misses and 49).

An interesting footnote last week was that Farwell's, Nicolas brothers (Isaac and Tony) were the only entrants to miss on the Florida State victory over Virginia.

A family member says the brothers have been predicting a big upset for Florida State. Sorry guys, but last week wasn't it!

HOROSCOPES

OCT. 28-NOV. 3

For entertainment purposes only

Aries — March 21/April 20
The impending holiday puts you into a festive mood. Don your favorite Halloween get-up and make your rounds at local costume parties. Be careful, however, you could get in over your head and regret having overindulged. Some rest will take care of your situation.

Taurus — April 21/May 21
When your partner wants to host a Halloween party you're less than thrilled, Taurus. Keep an open mind and stop being bull-headed. You're bound to have an enjoyable time — you even may be the life of the party. Expect a friend from your past to make an appearance where you least expect on Wednesday.

Gemini — May 22/June 21
You're giving in to your alter ego this week, Gemini and it's not pleasant. It's time to stifle that short temper and keep your opinions to yourself. Not everyone appreciates constructive criticism. Let loose at a holiday party to de-stress in a fun environment. Expect good news on Friday.

Cancer — June 22/July 22
That business opportunity that was mentioned several months ago will finally come to fruition, Cancer. It's time you finally get your big break. Your newfound good news will spark several projects you've since kept on the back burner. Even family members will join in to lend a hand. Enjoy your much-deserved prosperity.

Leo — July 23/August 23
An estranged family member wants to reconcile this week, Leo. Put your pride aside and accept the apology — after all blood is thicker than water. Your relationship with your partner continues to be enhanced positively when an unexpected gift puts you in the mood for romance.

Virgo — Aug 24/Sept 22
You've been a little bit too charitable this week, Virgo. It's time to graciously say "no" to a few people who require your help. You may find you'd rather focus your attention on a pet whose been a close companion lately, and a confidant who doesn't judge your actions. Thoughts to expand your family begin to surface.

Libra — Sept 23/Oct 23
You at your wits' end with your current situation at home, Libra. It's time to make a drastic change. You may have to enlist the help of a family member to get you started with your plans for change. Expect some good news on Monday.

Scorpio — Oct 24/Nov 22
Your making the most of your birthday month to enjoy the festivities of the season. A daytrip to a vineyard or pumpkin picking will provide a respite from your overly-ambitious schedule. Take some time to just savor the moment and resolve not to think about problems or work until Sunday.

Sagittarius — Nov 23/Dec 21
The cooler weather has recharged your sluggish thinking. You decide to embark on an intensive fitness plan, starting with a trip to the local gym to sign up for a membership. Consult a doctor before beginning — you don't want to indulge in anything that will compromise your health.

Capricorn — Dec 22/Jan 20
It's time to stop juggling two love interests, Capricorn. They're bound to find out what you've been doing, which can only end in tears for all involved. Rather, list the positive and negative traits each possesses and choose the one who best complements your personality. You already know who that is.

Aquarius — Jan 21/Feb 18
Your new position at work turns out to be better than you'd imagined. Supervisors recognize all of your hard work and make recommendations for further advancements. Don't let success go to your head, however. Too many people rely upon you for advice and as a provider.

Pisces — Feb 19/March 20
You now realize that you made the wrong choice when it came to a financial investment. Accept your losses and move on — fast schemes to recoup your losses will not work this time. You may find you need to borrow some money from a close friend.

ficient for safe driving, when nearing the Paul's Lake wildlife observation platform," Clapp said. Bright lights might alarm the cranes and cause them to take flight before daylight.

After the sunrise liftoff, visitors driving county roads adjacent to the refuge are likely to see cranes feeding in farm fields.

Aside from Paul's Lake, which is east of Texas 214, the cranes may be using Goose and White lakes west of the highway if water is available. Only Upper Goose Lake has water in it now.

Those lakes are along the road to refuge headquarters complex, which is about two miles west of 214.

The visitor center contains wildlife-oriented exhibits and will be open from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Visitors wishing to view cranes at the refuge later in the day should plan to arrive at Paul's Lake around 5:30 p.m., as the cranes return to the lakes about sunset.

If visitor interest is sufficient, activities will be added such as short wildlife programs, wildlife videos and wildlife-viewing tours, Clapp said.

Besides cranes, visitors to the refuge are likely to see prairie dogs and burrowing owls along the Paul's Lake tour route. The lake itself is home to sandpipers, various duck species and American avocets.

The nature trail near the refuge campground is a likely place to see great horned owls, scaled ("blue") quail, northern flickers, loggerhead shrikes, and migrating bluebirds and warblers.

The first returning cranes this year were seen on Sept. 23, and their numbers on the refuge generally peak in mid-November when several thousand are present.

Gardeners are opinionated the world over

By RONN SMITH
Editor

A couple of weeks ago, I quoted quite a bit from an article in Texas Co-op Power magazine, in which a landscape designer took people to task for throwing away leaves that fall in their yards.

Now comes the November issue of the British magazine Gardens Illustrated.

A man named Graham Rice, who has homes on both sides of the Atlantic, writes a regular column appropriately called "Transatlantic Gardener." This month, he contrasts the British attitude toward fallen leaves with the American one, and finds us puzzling:

"Taking away all the leaves and the fertility they contain seems completely mad. . . . Everyone blows the leaves off the plants, then buys mulch to take their place. . . . What crazy behaviour."

I emphasize again that the British are the world's pre-eminent gardeners.

I also emphasize again that it's very easy to get used to a layer of "duff" — leaf and twig litter — on the ground, and once you learn to appreciate what it's doing for your soil, you really don't like to see soil left bare for the wind and sun to attack.

Bare dirt is an abomination in nature.

In case anyone believes the British to be gentler with their tongues than Americans (and where did that idea come from, anyway?), check out some other comments in the same issue of Gardens Illustrated.

One of the monthly columns begins by aiming a good old Bronx cheer at the vintage-1876 Royal National Rose Society — a group not usually on the receiving end of a loud raspberry.

The magazine item concerns a fund-raising affair in which the rose society has engaged an Oklahoma businesswoman (yes, an Okie raising money for the Brits!) to help raise $20 million for "the extravagant Diana Memorial garden." (That's the OTHER writer's words, not mine.)

The kicker is that the society agreed to give the Oklahoma woman a 25 percent commission, which means she could get $5 million off the top.

The project's website causes "one to wonder how so venerable a society could have got involved in such a tacky enterprise," the anonymous columnist sniffs.

The website includes "four verses of sentimental doggerel" about Princess Diana's contribution to roses, and the columnist is not amused: "Do not attempt to read these unless you have a strong stomach," he or she advises.

Well, if that wouldn't toast one's kippers. . .

Then there was the matter of a couple in Oxfordshire who "had been taken to task for having the cheek to grow beans and cabbages on farmland that they had incorporated (without seeking local council permission) into the garden surrounding their barn conversion.

"If they were farming, they could have grown as many beans as they liked, not to mention any number of ugly, polluting crops. But growing beans for your own consumption is not farming, it's gardening, and that is bang out of order on land designated for agriculture."

After delivering a verbal SCUD missile to local council members, the columnist concludes:

"Gardening, whatever one's taste, should be one of the great freedoms of a democracy, and gardeners must be free to grow whatever they like on their own patch."

So knock off the whining about my blueberry and pawpaw and exotic flower experiments.

We have only about another month to plant spring-flowering bulbs. Area garden centers generally have a selection of tulips, daffodils, crocus, bearded iris and Dutch iris — and sometimes you'll find snowdrops or crown of thorns or other more exotic types.

Add a few each year. Happy planting! (Questions and comments can be sent to Garden Writer, 571 County Road 1018, Muleshoe, Texas 79347, or e-mailed to ronnsmith@hotmail.com.)

Aging expert: Try 'TV diet' in crisis

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL
HOUSTON — Just as people sometimes eat too much, they can also overindulge in their "TV diet."

An expert in aging issues at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston believes that older Americans, like younger people, watch too much television a habit that can cause anxiety or depression or worsen such conditions especially during national crises like the recent terrorist attacks.

"Many older individuals, particularly those who live alone or who don't get out of their homes as much as they once did, look to their television as a source of comfort. During times of crises the sheer volume of news coverage of tragic events can be overwhelming," said Dr. Robert Roush, associate professor at Baylor's Huffington Center on Aging.

"Seeing violence occur can result in a loss of sense of security among older people who may not be as mobile or socially connected as they once were. Bad TV news can result in heightened fears or depression," he said.

His advice? Stay informed, but take a break.

"For people who are able to do so, it would help to get out, take a walk, go visit friends or relatives, tour a museum or art gallery — do something that brings yourself joy," he said.

Other possible distractions include:

- Attend a noontime concert, see a theater performance or watch a light-hearted movie;
- Go to the bookstore. Try to avoid books about the serious news of the times, but instead seek quick novels or other easy reading material that you enjoy;

- Take a class in something you have wanted to learn such as flower arranging, playing an instrument, computers, art or yoga;

Roush offers the following for people who may not be able to get around as easily:

- Get on-line and explore the many positive aspects of the World Wide Web. Look into genealogical research, or look up old friends. Shop for unusual, hard-to-find items, but avoid news sites that may be just as overwhelming as watching television;
- Watch a favorite old movie or a situation comedy to offset negative news stories;
- Listen to soothing music or play an instrument if you have that ability; or
- Reread a comforting book.

Roush says it's particularly important that older individuals feel "connected" and engaged in life, especially during times of crisis.

"If you can't physically hug your family, friends and loved ones, do it on the phone, by e-mail or send them a card," Roush said. "Show them that you care and that you are all right."

Just as it is important for older people to take charge of the situation and try to find positive outlets at such times, it is equally crucial that family members and loved ones think to contact them in return.

can go a long way toward making your mother or father or aunt feel that they are not alone. Negative events can't be avoided. But there are positive, self-affirming ways to handle them," Roush said.

"Also, many older people have experienced World War II, the Korean Conflict, the Cold War, the Cuban Missile Crisis, Vietnam and other crises. They can play a positive role in helping younger people cope with the new war," he added.

Several religious leaders support peace monument

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL
Even as the sounds of war thunder across the Middle East, behind the scenes, people with a vision of a world without war are struggling for peace.

In a historic meeting earlier this month in the Middle East, the World Peace Monument project brought together world leaders, signing their names to a charter dedicated to striving for peace in the world.

Alexander Bloch, who originated the idea for the monument, met in Tel Aviv, Israel, with Archbishop Riah H. Abu El-Assal, head of the Anglican Church in Jerusalem and the Middle East.

They joined in a historic meeting to obtain the signature of Yasser Arafat. In another meeting, they were to obtain the signature of King Abdullah II of Jordan.

The goal is to provide a living and lasting monument to the vision of peace on Earth.

But more than a symbol of peace, the monument will be the center of a complex with the communication capabilities to allow the formation of a global network of people who share the same vision.

The project leaders anticipate that the multi-lingual website associated with the monument will lead to the development of an influential and positive voice for peace, one that will influence world leaders.

Leaders from all three of the great religions that originated in the Mideast have joined in support of this initiative.

Among its existing membership of more than 2,000 signatories there are two ex-presidents of Israel, heads of state, and leaders from every religious denomination.

A partial list of world figures who have endorsed the project can be found at www.world-peace-monument.com/english/e\_main.htm.

Between Wildcats

Danny Bonilla of the freshman Mules tries to pick his way among Littlefield Wildcats during the Oct. 18 match-up between the two teams. Bonilla scored all four Muleshoe touchdowns, helping the Mules escape with a 26-20 win after they led 26-6 into the fourth quarter.

Whitharral whittles on Three Way

By DELTON WILHITE
Journal correspondent

WHITHARRAL — The Whitharral Panthers feasted on the Eagles of Three Way for homecoming Friday night.

Jordan Barker completed four touchdown passes as the top-ranked Panthers extended their season record to 7-0 with a 51-6 win.

Brandon Hoskins made three of the TD grabs and J.R. Reyna caught one. The 45-point rule stopped the game with 7:49 left in the third period when Hoskins returned an Eagle punt 40 yards for the final score of the night.

Three Way's highlights came early in the game as Rhett Richardson returned the Panther kick off to the Eagle 25. Chris Kindle found Robert Rodriguez open to move the Eagles to the 36, and then connected with Anthony Furgeson on the Panther 30.

Kindle pitched to Rodriguez on an option, and he found Canaan Heinrich open on Whitharral's 23.

A play fake froze the defense and Kindle tossed to Chase Cannon on the Panthers' two-yard line. Rodriguez took a pitch in to match the Panthers at 6-6 with 1:51 remaining in the first period. Barker then went to work dismantling the Eagle defense, and by halftime the Panthers led 44-6.

After receiving the kickoff to start the second half, the Eagles were forced to go three and out.

Hoskins' punt return to paydirt and the ensuing one-point conversion gave the Panthers the 45-point advantage to stop the game.

The Eagles, now 0-1 in district, play host to the Lazbuddie Longhorns at 6 p.m. Oct. 26.

Freshmen shut out Littlefield 12-0 for second district victory

By DELTON WILHITE
Journal correspondent

LITTLEFIELD — The seventh-grade Mules extended their district record to 2-0 by defeating the Littlefield Wildcats 12-0 on the "Cat home turf.

The teams exchanged fumbles early as they felt out each other's defense.

Faced with a fourth-and-six on the Mules' 20, the Wildcats went to the air. Timothy Conner applied the defensive pressure that forced the 'Cat quarterback to throw short and allowed the Mules to take over on downs.

Tony Guzmán powered the Mules to their 35 and D.J. Robertson dropped back to find Conner open in 'Cat territory. Guzmán took the handoff up the middle for a 48-yard romp to paydirt, and the first frame ended with the Mules leading 6-0.

The second quarter was a defensive struggle, as neither team threatened before the first half expired.

Muleshoe received the opening kickoff after intermission, and Dustin Barker gained yardage in large chunks to move the Mules into Littlefield's end of the field.

Robertson hit Martín Rodríguez on a fly pattern down the sideline on the 'Cat 30 and carried to the 20. Rodríguez was hit, the

Eighth-graders fall to Littlefield

By DELTON WILHITE
Journal correspondent

It was a good-news, bad-news night for the eighth-grade Mules on Thursday in Littlefield. The good news was that Juan Carlos Reyes and Brady Black were both back in the lineup, but the bad news was the Mules lost a slugfest to the Wildcats, 26-20.

The Mules owned a 14-12 advantage at the intermission, but then lost the handle on the ball on their own 28. The 'Cats cashed in on the Mule miscue to go up 18-14 as the third period got underway.

Jarad Flores returned the ensuing kickoff to the Mule 45, and Black carried the ball past midfield. Black took a pitch from Kevin Kilmer on the 'Cat 40 and broke a tackle on the 35. Caleb Heinrich made a kick-out block on the 'Cat corner to send Black to the end zone and regain the lead 20-14.

The seesaw battle continued as the final period got under way. Littlefield started their final scoring drive on their 36. The 'Cats systematically marched downfield and scored on a five-yard toss into the end zone. They picked up the two-point conversion when the quarterback kept on the option play, putting the 'Cats in the lead to stay 26-20.

Michael Gonzales returned the short kick to Muleshoe's 45. As Black carried across midfield, the ball was punched from his cast hand. Flores scooped up the loose ball on the 'Cat 43 and outraced everyone to the end zone.

A little-known rule that a fumble on fourth down can be advanced only by the original ball carrier returned the ball to the 'Cat 43. On the next play, the Mules fumbled and Littlefield ground away the final minutes of the game.

The Mules had claimed the lead early in the game by forcing the 'Cats to punt on their opening series. A short punt gave the Mules possession on the Wildcat 40 and on third-and-10, Black went up the middle on a quick-hitter to the Littlefield one-yard line.

Kilmer plunged in for the Mules' first tally.

A penalty brought a 97-yard Littlefield kickoff return back to the Mule 40. Littlefield powered down field and tied the game at six each on a 10-yard dive up the middle.

As the second period got under way, Cody Kirby pressured the 'Cat passer and Flores picked off the errant throw on the Mule 41. From the shotgun formation, Flores faked to Reyes and kept on the option around the right end 40 yards to score. Reyes took the pitch for the two-points and put the Mules on top 14-6.

Littlefield answered with a five-yard pass for the last points before halftime.

The Mules are now 1-1 in district and face the Shallowater Mustangs on Oct. 25 in Benny Douglass Stadium.
