STRONG TONE IN STEERS

ACTIVE CALL FOR BOTH CORN FEDS AND GRASSERS, PRICES FIRM TO 10c UP.

NOTHING PRIME ON OFFER

A Steady to Strong Trade in She Stock With Good Action On All Kinds -Stockers and Feeders Steady.

Under decreasing receipts and ar eager demand the fat cattle market is showing a decidedly strong undertone all along the line, with the good corn fed varieties gradually working to a higher elevation. Trade today in practically all grades of beef steers was active with prices quotably strong to a dime higher than yesterday.

Only a moderate Thursday supply of cattle was on sale at this point and outside markets had light runs. The estimate, locally, called for 2,000 head in comparison with a run of 2,513 last Thursday and 1,916 a year ago. The estimate looked plenty high enough, most traders placing the supply The five markets re ported a total of 17,600 cattle today as against 20,300 a week ago and 18,-400 a year ago. Total marketing at five points for the first four days of the week indicate a shrinkage of 7,700 head as ocmpared with the same

The supply of native corn fed beeves today was again small, while the demand from local packers and eastern shippers was fully as vigorous as yesterday when values made a gain of 10@15c. The result was an active and strong trade in all useful and attrac-tive grades of native steers, with sales bunches of good, useful medium to strong weight steers att hand, however, which found clearance at $7.25 to 7.60, with bulk of all the native offerings selling in a range of $6.50@

COWS, BUILS AND MIXED. The receipts of butcher stuff con-tinue light. The demand was good for all desirable classes and all kinds sold stendy to strong. The supply of canners and cutters was light and what few were here sold good. Pack-ers were in line to buy some choice corn fed cows and mixed helfers and steers. Very little of this kind have been marketed this week. There was a couple of small bum hes of fancy yearling heifers and steers on sale to-day, and these met with ready outle prices that looked stronger, though it is hard to make compar-isons, as this class of stock has been a rarety on this market recently. Canners and cutters have been scarce also, and have been selling at good prices all week, some selling as high as $3.25, bulk from $2.75@3.00 with a few of the "hatrack" variety as low as $2.50. Best corn fed cows ranged as $2.50. Best corn fed cows ranged Range cattle, mostly from Kansas from $4.75@5.25, fair to good grades pastures, comprised about 40 per cen $3.75@4.50. Choice to prime yearling of the total offerings here today, but the aggregate was the smallest of any $7.50@7.75, or fully in line with best beef steers. A small lot of this kind almost exclusively of steers, only a sold today at $7.50.

The bull market is showing better included

Shippers Buy About Ten Per Cent of the Day's Crop, Adding Zest to Competition-Top at $7.60.

Trade in the live pork division today had better action than on any day for the past week and prices showed however, still showed a degree of undaily run received on previous days. in boosting prices here and there Buyers were in the trade at an early about a nickel the general movement. Buyers were in the trade at an early hour but owing to limited supplies they were not able to increase their holdings to any great extent. After the liberal volume of outgoing trade yesterday, when speculators reduced their holdings to scant proportions, and the presence of a good many outside buyers today, demand was keen and everything that would suit requirements met a ready outlet at prices fully steady with the previous session. Trade was fairly active from the outset and sellers experienced litters. the outset and sellers experienced little difficulty in effecting a complete clearance within the morning session. # LOOKING OVER CONDITIONS

Maysville Man Here Monday Viewing Conditions of Local Market.

Among the visitors of note at the local market Monday was George Mc-Pherson of Maysville, Mo., one of the most extensive-farmers in DeKalb county. Mr. McPherson took an ex-cursion through the yards and was visibly interested in operations, and confided to his questioner that in his opinion the local vards afforded facilities for the handling of live stock shipments that could not be surpassed by any market on the river. In answer to a question as to the conditions in general in his section of the country, "Farmers in the vicinity of Maysville are getting a little uneasy However, there is nothing serious in ports: the situation at present. Two weeks Catt ago last Sunday we had a good soaking rain and on the following Monday we had another rain, so that corn is in fair shape and conditions generally about as good as could be expected. Marketable hogs and cattle have been shipped out pretty closely and outside of a few scattered herds there is hardly enough fat cattle and hogs on feed to mention."

Love of Nature.

It is a mistake to conclude that men are insensible to those beauties which they are not continually talking about and analyzing—that the love of Nature is a new feeling because the taste for the picturesque is a modern taste. When the mountaineer descends into the plain, he soon begins to pine for his native bills, and many have been known to fall sick-nay, even to die, of that love. Yet had he never left the hills, you would never have heard him

"ONIGHT," said daddy, "I will tell you a bedtime story that the little almond eyed Japanese kiddies often have told to them as they go nodding off to sleep under the wistaria or cherry blossoms. If you will look out of your window straight up into the sky you will name?" see what it is all about."

The children craned their necks eagerly, and Evelyn announced: "I see up in the sky a streak of white light like fog that stretches across part of the sky."

"That's it," assented daddy. "That's what we call the Milky way. The Japanese daddies tell their children it is called the Silver River of Heaven. Up there, according to their story, once lived a beautiful maiden named Shokujo. She was the daughter of the Sun King, and she was known as the Spinning Princess because of her kindly industry in making cloth for garments for others. She never wasted her time on play or foolishness like the other girls and cared little for dress, so that older folks praised her very much. Because she was so very beautiful and was a king's daughter, of course, many young men tried to win her favor. But Shokujo, who was a model daughter, noticed none of them, but waited quietly until her father should select one for her to marry, which is the Japanese way.

"Finally Shokujo's father selected a young man whom he thought would make a good husband for his daughter. The accepted suitor was Kingin, who tended his herd of cows on the same bank of the Silver river as that where the princess span. They were married and lived very happily together, but unfortunately the son-in-law soon fell into disgrace with his father-in-law, the Sun. "The Sun King decided to separate the couple, because he thought the husband had a bad influence over his once industrious daughter. Although they were broken hearted on being thus divided, Shokujo and Kingin knew that they must obey the order. The most wonderful bridge was provided to take the exiled husband over the Silver river. This was a flock of magples that poised wing to wing while he crossed with his herd as if on dry land. "Long and sorrowfully the couple stood one at his side of the river, the other at hers. They are now pointed out as two bright stars, one on each side of the Milky way. Once a year, however, the star-wife crosses the river and the faithful couple are for a few hours reunited. The Japanese have a great festival to celebrate the meeting. Up there you see the stars. The wife we call Lyra, and the husband is known to us as Capricornus."

The widow didn't go home with tears in her eyes. She was too mad for that. She hunted around for a stout club and stood it in a convenient spot, and that club was meant for the Widower Skeen in case he pes-

It so happened, however, that he was called away for the next two weeks on business, and the club was not brought into use. One day, just as the two weeks were up, the Widow Faber started out to pay a visit to a woman across the creek that ran through the town. On the path she took this creek was crossed by a footbridge. It was a shaky affair at best, and few people used it. She had just reached the middle of the structure when she saw Mr. Skeen advancing from the other end. She halted and he came along up and said:

"Well, widow, you see I am back. "Yes."

"I was in hopes I would find you at home, as I wish to talk about our getting married. Better go back with

"Oh, yes, you will. You forgot that I am a determined man. I'll call this evening for you to set the date!" "If you pester me again I'll-

She had no time to complete the sentence. Under their united weight the old bridge went down with a crash. It was a fall of ten feet, and the creek had a depth of six feet and a swift current. The widow screamed and gasped and gurgled, but the widower was cool. He supported her and made a landing a hundred feet below. As she leaned up against a tree, limp and bedraggled, he said:

"Widow Faber, may I call this evening and talk the wedding over?" "No, no, no!" she gasped.

If the Man Who Painted Sign at Harper's Ferry Is Alive, a Fortune Awaits Him.

The living worth of good work is always recognized, even in small achieve wealth or fame, vet it is said that a fortune awaits the man who painted a station sign at Harper's Ferry, on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, shortly after the completion of the line at that point. The Western Society of Engineers has the sign on exhibition at their rooms.

The engineers are trying to ascertain who mixed the paint and applied it to the sign, which was placed in position at the Harper's Ferry station about thirty years ago. The summer's heat and winter's storms have in no way dimmed the luster of the paint used to make the words "Harper's Ferry." They stand out as boldly as the day they were formed by the artist's brush.

The wood around the letters has been worn about one-sixteenth of an inch by sand beaten against it by flerce winds, but the letters have withstood the elements.

It is asserted that no paint manufactured nowadays is equal in durability to that which was applied to the old sign, and if the person who mixed it is living and will take advantage of the secret he possesses as to its composition it is said he can, by engaging in the paint-manufacturing business, soon accumulate

Not Surprised. "Funny thing about Bolivar,"

What's that?" said Bjones

"Why, they operated on him for appendicitis the other day, and, by ginger! when they came to look there wasn't anything there," said Wiggins. "Well, I'm not curprised," said Bjones, "I never could see anything in Bolivar myself."—Harper's Weekly.

WE'RE NOT DOING OUR BEST

We Wore, We Would Not Have to Die in Order to Reach

How mankind defers from day to ay the best it can do and the most peautiful things it can enjoy, said H. Mable most truthfully. It does seem that many good people are putting off real enjoyment until they get to Heaven, never thinking that that is a very slow and risky way of getting there. Some people think that getting into Heaven is going to make a great change, when the fact is the ascent will be so gradual as to make little difference. The Bible is full of this

The doctrine that an old crusty, selfish, deceitful, neighbor-hating man will turn into an angel at the pearly gates is not scriptural, and it does not scand to reason. No, sir; a man gets to Heaven because he belongs there; because he has made the best of life, has done the kindest things, helped the weak, filled his days with cheer, good will and good works, and decked his life with the beatitudes of his Mas-

We are not doing it so well as we might, as Mr. Mable suggests. No one does his best. No one enjoys the most beautiful things. If we did, we would not have to die to get to heav-We would then be doing our part in answering the prayer, "Thy kingdom come on earth as it is in heaven." -Ohio State Journal.

BABY WORKS FOR HIS LIVING

Infant Is Found in London Who Hooks Eyes on Cards for His Poor Mother.

A baby aged two and one-half years who works for his living by hooking eyes on a card for his poor, working mother, has been discovered in Lon-

"Gravely and industriously this baby toller placed hook after hook in its place on the cord, saving a few minutes every hour to the mother who earns three shillings a week at the most monotonous, weary, treadmill type of woman's work that exists. There are 12 hooks and eyes on each card, and the worker is paid tenpence for every gross of cards. First she sews the hooks on the cards and the child links each hook with an eye. Then the eyes are stitched in place.' In Great Britain there are 200,000 school children in full attendance who work out of school hours for wages. There are between 80,000 and 90,000 half-timers who do a half-day in the factory and a half-day in the school. whilst the full-time workers between thirteen and fourteen years of age probably number 300,000. From these statistics alone it can be seen that over half a million children under fourteen years of age are breadwinners. There are 120,000 factory children under fourteen and nearly 400,- whole happiness and inner salvation depend on their doctrine and practice of the remnant. We have referred already to the decay and obscurity of later life. But the position is equally true of multitudes in their prime. been drowned, and here's a bull roar- With them also the fragment is all that seems left. They have lost the thing which made life desirable. Their fortune has gone, or their friend, or their health. Passion has wrought disillusion. The man or woman on whom they had staked their affections is not what they thought. The cup which brimmed and sparkled has turned into a draught of hitterness Is this, then, life's defeat? Not unless we so choose. There is no loss of fortune. no wreck of personal affection, no disaster in the sphere of the visible but can be turned by the soul's inner energy into some higher phase of the living .- J. Brierley.

The Remnant.

Aeroplane Is Simple.

The working parts of the modern flying machine are infinitely fewer in number than those of the automobile. the motor boat, the railroad locomotive or the steamship. Far more complex is the operation of a high-powered motor car than that of a high-powered aeroplane. Far more delicately adjusted are the thousands of parts of the steam or electric locomotive than the mechanism of the flying machine. It is this very simplicity of construction and operation that has enabled the aeroplane to outdo in continuous motion every other known form of conveyance, except steamers, motor boats and sailing ships, and these last named are able to maintain their motion only because of their huge driving mechanism, out of all proportion to the bulk that is propelled.

Learning to Spell.

Little Margaret, who is three years old, lived for a long time next door to a family who kept a cat bearing the name of Billy. Then she moved away from the family, and did not see the cat again.

Several days ago Margaret's mother tried to teach her how to spell cat and dog. After many efforts she succeeded in getting her daughter to spell the words after her, and stopped for the first lesson

The day following the mother said

suddenly:
"Margaret, what does c-a-t spell?"
She did not have to wait for an answer. Quick as a flash the child tashed toward her.

CARRETA HAS LONG HISTORY Ancient Indian Vehicle That Has Been

In Use Over Two Hundred Years.

The ancient carreta, now in the exhibit room of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, has had an event ful history, as wagons go. It was the property of Alfonso, a Tesuque Indian, eighty-five years old. Alfonso said it had belonged to his greatgrandfather and that it had been exhibited at a local flesta years before as the oldest carreta in the neighborhood. From these facts, well substantiated, and the great age to which Indians live, as a rule, this ancient carreta is estimated to be much over 200 years old. It was purchased by Captain Newton Chittenden, a noted Indian explorer, antiquarian and ethnologist, now living in Pomona, Cal.

On November 23, 1896, this old time cart left Redlands, Cal., on its own wheels and reached Los Angeles De-cember 15, a distance of over sixty miles. Captain Chittenden accompanied it, camping on the way and walked most of the distance, watching with anxious eyes to see that it did not fall to pieces, like the "deacon's wonderful one-horse shay," from its great age. But it survived the journey in good shape and wrs hauled to the Chamber of Commerce exhibit room, where, sheltered from wind and weather, it may remain a possible 200 years more.

The wheels are made of cross sections of a sycamore tree, 38 inches in diameter and about six inches thick at the outer rim. The hubs are of one piece with the body of the wheels and are roughly extended out to a length of 18 inches. Wooden pins through the axle secure the clums: wheels. The body is made of cottonwood, excepting the tongue, which is a twisted and gnarled stick of mesquite four feet long. It was driven by oxen hitched to the horns with thongs of rawhide. Its counterpart may be seen in the country districts of Mexico today, drawn in a similar manner, as this was when new, 200 years and more ago.

Speak Only on Invitation.

In the heavily cushioned seats of a train speeding through Massachusetts sat Josiah White and his wife. It was the first time either had been outside the limits of St. Lawrence county, to say nothing of riding in such luxury, with new and ever-changing scenery around them. As the train neared Boston Josiah nudged his wife.

"Abbie," said he, close to her ear, "don't say a word to me and I won't to you while we're goin' through this city. It ain't polite, unless ye're in-
