COWS, BULLS AND MIXED. There was a brisk movement to the trading in butcher grades this morn-ing and all classes found a ready out-butcher grades were limited to a five load bunch of Okiahoma cows and heifers, which sold at $3.90. This sale as quoted fully 10c higher than last eek. Bulls sold firm with the close of last week. There was a stronger tone to the calf trade and all grades sold better. Top vealers are still sell-

NEGROES GO TO THE MINES

First Break From White Labor Anthracite Region.

Freeland, Pa., Nov. 13.—The scarcnished by T. P. Gordon, 1005-1008 nithracite coal mines has become a serious problem for mine owners, and

G. B. Markle & Co., the Jeddo operators, after vain attempts to secure white labor, native or foreign, finally decided to invade the south in ques of colored men, and the first real con signment, comprising a carload of ne-groes has arrived. They will be pu-to work on the tunnel now being driv en across the Highland Basin.

This is the first instance where no stock and finishing cattle at this point. Fresh offerings were limited to a small assortment of odds and ends, scattered through the yards which in all made up a supply that was hardly large enough to establish a market. All the regular buyers were riding the yards at a comparatively early hour in search of cattle, and selesmen had little trouble in realizing steady prices for their holdings. Trade was active from the autset and with small supplies and early delivery by the railroads trade resolved itself into a parable of the state of the production of smaller seams requires removal of great quantities of rock.

Coal operators have hesitated about introducing negroes to the hard coal regions in a definite way to work about the mines. Before taking this step G. B. Markle & Co. experimented with colored labor and found it very satisfactory in rock work, which is calling for a greater number of men now than ever before, because larger veins are being worked out and the extraction of smaller seams requires removal of great quantities of rock.

In fact, the census figures indicate a deincreased to a much greater extent class of meat-producing animals. In fact, the census figures indicate a decrease of about 2 per cent in sheep, although an increase of possibly 10 per cent may have been made in hogs. We cannot escape the conclusion that the production of meat-producing animals, particularly beef cattle, has not kept pace with other branches of the live stock industry. When it is considered that the population of the United States has increased 21 per cent, while the decrease in beef production has taken place, it is evident.

"Once upon a time there was a little star shining way up in the sky where it thought nobody could see it. Λ very small star it was, and often when the angel who had the care of the stars in that part of the sky came flying slowly by the little star would beg to be given a better place. 'No one can see me shining here,' the little star would say. 'There are so many big and splendid suns over yonder. If you would let me join them then I might be admired like they are.' In the evening, when the sun went down, the people who lived on earth could look up and see this little star. 'Our twinkle star,' the children called it. They often amused themselves by trying to count the twinkles, for the star was a lively thing, and it was hard to keep track of them. Many a mother with a sick or ailing child has pointed at the twilight hour to the little twinkle star looking in at the window and thus coaxed the small invalid to forget for a moment its pain or weariness. The lonely sailor out on the ocean and the traveler on some great desert found the star a friend whom they could depend in making their way across the great wastes. "'I'm tired of staying here. I'm going off to see a little of the sky,' the little star said at last. He felt he couldn't bear to stay at home any longer. "So he tore himself from his nice place, and that night the little children on earth looked up vainly to see their twinkle star.

"Far away through space he went rushing, a great white streak trailing out behind him. Something kept pushing him on and on and on till he was so tired he would have been glad to go back to his old place and rest.

The disturbances that have taken place recently have arisen simply because the students for the baccalaureate on the classical side discovered that the paper in Latin set them was intensely difficult, while the paper in Latin set before their rivals on the modern languages side was very easy. Hence shoutings, parading of the streets, demonstrations, stone throwing and window breaking, "conspuezing" and all the other various manifestations of the turbulent and Mother With Two Cubs Stopped a Rural Delivery Man and Gave Him a Lively Fight.

A mother bear with a Bat Nelson battle gleam in her eye and an Ad Wolgast fighting crouch and her two little cubs held up Uncle Sam's mail in the road between Sandy and Marmot and gave C. M. Bailey, rural mail carrier on the route, the time of his life when he accepted her challenge Saturday afternoon. Bailey was driving leisurely along toward Sandy in his mail wagon behind his two sturdy horses when the bear popped into sight as he rounded a curve. She was standing on her haunches in the middle of the road in a distinctly belligerent attitude, her cubs frisking about her. Bailey was so surprised that he pulled up his horses and waited for developments. He didn't have to wait very long. With a growl and a flourish of her forepaws the bear made for the mail carrier, the cubs waddling along after her on all fours. Bailey's horses snorted in terror at this unexpected move by Mother Bruin and whirled fortunate loft freed himself from an about in the road so sharply that the unfortunate situation, Landing easily wagon was upset and mail and mail carrier spilled out in the dust. As Bailey picked himself up he pulled his automatic revolver out of his pocket and fired at the bear, which was almost on him. The bullet went true, and she rolled over in the road, snarling and clawing. She seemed to have enough of battle, for the next minute she picked herself up and scampered off into the woods with the cubs, leaving a trail of blood behind

As soon as the shaken Bailey could collect himself he caught his horses, which had stopped after running a short distance down the road, and with the aid of a party of autoists One might almost say that there is one unchangeable feature of Paris and his wagon and hitched up.—Morning if You Do No Damage It Is Easy to Wander Through Private Property.

At this season it is pleasant to leave the dusty highway and take to the fields. But many timid pedestrians are frightened away by the notice "Trespassers Will Be Prosecuted." They need have no fear.

As the law stands, any trespasser who does the smallest damage-injures a fence, breaks a small branch, etc .- can be summoned before a magistrate and fined. But if he does no damage, the landlord must bring an action at law and get an injunction. This costs a lot of money, and unless the trespasser is a man of means the landlord won't bring his action at law. All he can do otherwise is to ask you to get out. If you go peaceably you can return an hour later, and repeat the visit as often as you wish. Nothhad brought about their downfall, leave again. How the Patrons of the Five-Foot Federal Building at Virginia, Cal., Are Accommodated.

Virginia, Cal., boasts of having the smallest postoffice building in the world. It is situated in a lonely spot on the stage road north of San Diego City, and is maintained for the convenience of rich ranch owners in the vicinity. Not more than six or eight people get mail there, but their letters are of sufficient financial importance for a postoffice to be provided for their use. The postmaster's salary does not keep him in cigarettes, but he only has to be on duty on the days when the stage coach is due to pass. The stage driver drops the mail, the few letters from Virginia are handed up and the postmaster proceeds to distribute the letters, post cards and newspapers in lock boxes hung on the outside of the postoffice. After the scanty mail is distributed the postmaster locks up the little oftice and goes away.

When a citi n of Virginia mails a letter he does not buy a stamp, but deposits letter and money through the letter drop in the door. If the letter is a heavy one and likely to require more than one stamp he drops a qua ter or a half dollar in with it and finds his change in his letter box next mail day. As the postmaster knows the handwriting of ever man, woman and child in the postal district he never puts the change in the wrong box. About once a year, generally near the holidays, a registered letter or package arrives, and then the accommodating postmaster delivers it. In Virginia registered mail is put in the letter drop, with the fee, and the receipt placed in the proper lock box the same as the change for stamps. The little postoffice building is constructed of rough slabs of pine, unpainted and windowless, and is only five feet square, and about the height of an c. dinary man, who can only stand erect inside by taking off his

RUINS OF ANCIENT BABYLON

Explorers Have Laid Bare Palace of Nebuchadnezzar and Temple That King Built.

Exploration in the ancient city of Babylon is proceeding and the last report of the German Oriental society gives interesting particulars of it. The palace of Nebuchadnezzar is being laid bare in all its vastness and the line of fortification of the heights on quis?" which the palace stood is now almost completely traced.

The streets and private dwellings lying round the foot of the hill are being cleared. Among other finds is a small temple, the work of Nebuchadnezzar, beautifully built, in apparently perfect preservation and still showing the black and white color scheme characteristic of the Assyrians. Operations on the thick stone wall, 30 feet high, connecting Palace hill and the so-called Hill of Amran led to the discovery of a magnificent gate, which Professor Koldewey identifies with the Gate of Urasch, often referred to in terms of admiration by old Greek writers. Meanwhile the professor's colleague, Dr. Andraes, is exploring the great temple of the god Assur, in the upper part of the ancient city, and the ruins of Hatra, some 40 miles distant, where valuable materials for the early history and customs of the Beduins are being brought

Where Scars Are Prized.

The natives of some of the islands of the Pacific are always glad to see the doctor on his periodical visits. At Kaiser Withelm's harbor the German government has stationed Dr. Heisegang as medical officer. He is a busy man. Natives by the dozen come to him, not to be treated for illness, but to get the benefit of his professional opinion on how to scar themselves artistically. The natives are very fond of scars, and nearly all of them are covered with specimens which have resulted from self-inflicted wounds which were kept open by frequent scratching or by the introduction of foreign substances like sand, bamboo, shells and so forth. The excrescence which results from the average vaccination is scratched off at the proper time, and the resulting large scar is very dear to the native.

A young islander whose face and body are a mass of cuts, bruises and scars is considered the catch of the season by the dusky belles.

Snowballing in Summer.

A pretty game was devised by a mother planning for an outdoor birthday party. The little ones were lined up on the lawn and pelted with snowballs made of cotton and covered with white crepe paper napkins tied with white thread, thread and projecting paper ends being clipped off after making. Of course the delighted youngsters scrambled after the white balls. Laater on a contest was arranged, captains being chosen on two sides and ten balls being allotted to each small player.—The Designer.

That Lend Them Money for Productive Purposes.

With the help of the Jewish Agricultural and Industrial Aid society three co-operative unions have been recently established, one in Fairfield county, Connecticut, one in Rensselaer county, New York, and the third in Ellington,

These credit unions are established in connection with the Jewish Farmers' associations in those places, which are branches of the Federation of Jewish Farmers of America. The farmers in each branch raised $500 by selling shares, and the Jewish Agricultural and Industrial Aid society loaned $1,000 to them at a low rate of inter-

The First Free Lunch.

To Ned Mather, a native of this city and a man who spent his declining years here, is given credit for originating the idea of free lunches, says the Watertown Standard. He inaugurated the first free lunch in Baltimore, and Baltimore historians place the year at either 1865 or 1866. The front bar at Barnum's hotel in Baltimore, where the quality folks gathered, is where it is said to have

One day Mather conceived the idea of free lunch in the place and sent word to the kitchen to ascertain from the cook what she had cooked that day in which she felt particular pride. The cook sent back word that the Smithfield ham was worthy to tickle the palate of a king. Mather ordered her to make up some sandwiches, and when the usual crowd came they found these spread on a table and declared Mather a philanthropist of the most useful and praiseworthy type.

Up to that time all that there was of a free lunch was a few crackers on the bar, but no one ever thought of eating them.

Vaccination for Typhold. The last report of the surgeon general of the army adds more evidence to the already overwhelming testimony in favor of the protective value of anti-typhoid vaccination. The figures given for the fiscal year ending June 80, 1909, showed an incidence of typhoid fever sixteen times greater among the unvaccinated than among the vaccinated troops. Up to October 1, 1910, only five cases had developed among the non-immunized. Moreover, of these five cases four were so mild as to leave doubt as to the diagnosis, and there were no bad effects of any kind as a result of the vaccination .-

It is expected that college women throughout the country will be interested in the plans of the New York bureau of occupations that has recently been organized to bring to the attention of the undergraduates different kinds of employment for which they may fit themselves during their college career. The Woman's Educational and Industrial Union of Boston has had such an organization for some time under the management of Miss Laura D. Gill. It has placed many women in suitable positions and helps those in uncongenial occupations to something better.

If Moliere Lived Now He Would Not Ridicule Their Education and Activities.

Thirty years ago there were three colleges for women in France and one preparatory school; now there are seventy-five colleges and forty-nine preparatory schools. What does the hange mean? Moliere, over two centuries ago, in "Les Precieuses Ridicules" and "Les Femmes Savantes," attacked the pose, self-consciousness and loss of proportion which the women of his time sometimes showed in attempting to be learned. Moliere aughed, however, not at education, but at lack of common sense. If he lived now he would not try to set back the clock, and ask women to devote to the needle the same attention that she gave before machinery was invented. He would not ask her to live as she lived before there were public schools for her children; creameries to make her butter and cheese; big manufacturers to take her place in preserving food: immense combinations to spin cotton, make cloth, do the dyeing, make up the clothing. He would welcome the vacuum cleaner, the gas stove and the dumb waiter, and his laughter would be not for those who use modern labor saving devices, but for the futile sentimen talists who cry for the vanishing of the past. The outside education and activities of women are as unquestion able and irresistible as are the printing press, the steam engine and the cotton gin.-Collier's Weekly.

Easier Tasks and Shorter Hours of Practice.

The musical education of the child.

we must remember, is, in nine cases out of ten, a plus quantity-something in addition to an already complete course of study laid out by that exacting and often heartless person known as the educator. It invades the play hour, makes it by no means small exactions upon the lready tired brain, and often proves more destructive of the central gray matter and more wearing to the nerves than all the rest of the child's curriculum put Marie Corelli, who reported the core together.
