CATTLE PRICES RAISED

LIGHT RECEIPTS BRING UPTURN OF 15@25e IN STEERS

Advance During Week-Not Much Change in Stockers and Feeders.

Gains noted, however, are the result of light runs at all points and the opinion prevails that it will not take much of an increase in general marketing early next week to bring about a reaction in the trend of trade. The International Live Stock Show will be in full blast at Chicago next week and that may be the means of bringing out too many cattle for immediate demands on that market. What the general market most needs right now is a period of moderate supplies to allow packers to work off a lot of medium and cheap beef accumulated in the recent heavy liquidation of short-fed stuff. If this relief is granted there is reason to hope for an imed there is reason to hope for an im-proved range of prices. On the other hand if the country continues to over-crowd the market with warmed-up and short-fed cattle a break from current levels is practically unevitable.

No strictly good or choice beeves have been on sale here this week. The best here have sold at $7.00@7.25, with a good portion of the short-fed offerings finding outlet at $6.25@7.00, and warmed-up classes on down as low as $5.00@5.25.

The following prices on steers are quotable on the St. Joseph market: Choice to prime, $8.00@8.90; good to choice, $7.25@8.00; fair to good short-fed, $6.50@7.25; medium to fair short-fed, $5.75@6.50; common to medium, $4.75@5.75.

COWS, BULLS AND MIXED. There was practically no butcher stock on sale at this point today. Trade was nominal, Bulls and calves Trade was nominal, Bulls and calves were steady.

Light receipts of butcher grades all the week at this market has been mainly responsible for the decidedly better feeling on all grades throughout the week. In general it has been a rather uneven and spotted affair, some sales showing 35 cents advance, while others have only quoted 10 cents higher. Considering the supplies there has been a good showing of good cows and heifers and they have met with a strong demand at all times and are quoted 15 to 25 cents higher with some of the heifer sales showing 35 cents advance. Canners

Canners and cutters have shown the least appreciation, being quoted mostly 10 cents up with some sales of fair cutters 15 cents higher. Mixed yearling and steers have been extremestrom and steers have been extrementable. higher as compared with sales at the close of last week's session. Some of this class of stock of choice quality and corn feds would sell in the neighborhood of $7.00, or better. There has been a fairly liberal supply of bulls offered this week and are quoted higher. Bologna and medium bulls are strong to 10 cents higher and good to choice corn fed kinds are selling 10 to 15 cents above the same good to choice corn fed kinds are sell-ing 10 to 15 cents above the same time last week. Calf buyers have been rather slow bidders and bearish in their motives and the general mar-

STOCKERS AND FEEDERS.

The few odd lots of stock and finishing cattle on offer today found a ready outlet at prices showing no change as compared with yesterday.

The rule of limited liquidation in practically every division of the local trade this week for which the holiday is mainly responsible has applied most forcibly to the stocker and feeder department. Fresh supplies from day to day while normal in proportion with the cattle receipts have been decidedly small at that; in fact, scarcity of offerings on some days bordered on the acute and comparison of ditions and prices are incomplete, at a result. However, general condition have been anything but rosy from yard dealers' standpoint. Few coun try buyers have put in appearance and the bulk of the week's buyng is still THIS WEEK.

the bulk of the week's buyng is still occupying speculators' pens. Buyers started the week with the avowed intentions of lowering cost, but light supplies prevented a successful bear campaign and at the close today best grades, regardless of weight, are around a dime higher as compared with last Friday, while common stuff has shown little fluctuation through the six day period. Stock cows and heifers have been in small supply. heifers have been in small supply, scarcity of such offerings has been mainly responsible for a slight up turn in prices. Salesmen have realiz all grades are the result.

The poultry raisers in the section tributary to St. Joseph are, of course, interested in getting best possible prices for their poultry, but from reportes received from the eastern markets it looks as though prices are not going to be as high this year as during the last few years.

Brisk Tone Features Auction Sale of Equines at Local Yards.

The regular semi-mothly auction sale of horses was held at the stock yards pavilion yesterday afternoon. There was a very encouraging attendance of buyers at the ringside and the sale was marked by a fairly snappy tone for all except the com-mon class of horses. There was a par-ticularly strong demand for good broke mares, three to six years old, weighing from 1,200 to 1,300 pounds, and some of the sales of this class of and some of the sales of this class of stock looked a little higher. Desirable draft animals also got quick action. Hogs.

Plain chunks were not actively sought Sheep...... after and dealers advise the holding of this stuff in the country for at least sixty days. Southern horses, too, were rather draggy and the trend was slightly lower on this class. It was a quiet season in the mule trade and the few mules offered did not elicit

MME. CURIE'S MERIT.

From the Philadelphia Record: The award of the $40,000 Nobel chemistry prize of Mme. Curie—undoubtedly the foremost woman scientist of the world—at a time when the notable advance of scientific inquiry and knowledge has filled the field of research with an of scientific field of research with an army of redoubtable competitors—will be generally and generously halled as the meed of unquestioned deserving. She had earlier recognition at the hands of the Nobel trustees in 1903, when she shared with her husband in the physics prize awarded for the discovery of radium. What Mme, Curie has accomplished by sheer intellectual force and constancy of endeavor in one of the most difficult fields of scientific investigation carries with it no claim of equal rights for her sex, but it is an assertion of womanly capacity that may not be denied. The world has moved forward a little because she was born into it.

ECONOMY IN GRAIN FEEDING.

Omaha Journal - Stockman: The scarcity and high price of corn this winter is going to teach cattle feeders another valuable lesson in econo of grain, Experience has demonstrat ed that corn is not absolutely essential in feeding operations and there will be plenty of good, fat stock marketed next spring that never knew the taste of maize.

STOCKING UP AFTER CHOLERA.

Wallace's Farmer: The extreme life of the hog cholera germ is not know it is less than a year, and that if a man stays out of the hog business for that time, he should be safe in bringing new hogs on the place, even though he does not disinfect. Most veteri narians agree, however, that a thorough job of disjofecting is done, it is the place within two or three months after the disease has subsided. Some go so far as to say that if the disin feeting is done properly, hogs may be brought on the place with safety

The method of disinfecting is thoroughly to clean out all straw and rubthorough scrubbing is then given with rosive sublimate, one part to 1,000 parts of water. It is well then to follow with a good coat of whitewash. To disinfect the yards plow them or To be effective, all this work must be done with the greatest thorough-

Daddy's Bedtime

The Funny Hen That Wouldn't Live In the Town

Biddy's Fare

TENS are stupid things, aren't they, daddy?" concluded Evelyn after telling of the trouble she and Jack had every evening getting old Toppie, their pet bantam, into the coop where the hen could sleep comfortably instead of shivering on the back fence.

"Well," answered daddy, "I've heard it said that hens are not as bright as some feathered folks; but, I declare, if we may believe a story I heard yesterday we shall have to put chickens down as being quite clever.

"This hen is a white Leghorn, a pet in the family where it belongs. The hen had been brought up in the country, and when her master's family moved to the town where she had only a small yard to run in Mistress Biddy showed in many ways that she did not like the change.

"The hen's master worked on a weekly newspaper, and so when one day the chicken came hopping into the office no one chased ber out. Every one there was quite well acquainted with the hen. Biddy picked up a copy of the paper and scurried out to the street with it.

"The butcher, across the way, was just waiting to read the news, so he took the paper out of the ben's beak. As he was a very, very honest wan, the butcher put a nickel in Biddy's mouth to pay for the paper. The ben, so he says, seemed very much pleased and hurried away with the money. "Just as Biddy reached the corner the street car stopped to let some people off, and the hen hopped on the car. She dropped the nickel on the floor, and the conductor rang up her fare. "The chicken, so the conductor says, rode peacefully along until she reached the place in the country where she used to live. "'Cluck, cluck!' cried Mistress Biddy, and, though he had never studied the hicken language, the conductor knew she wanted to get off. "She hopped merrily off the car and made a beeline for her old home. It was locked and empty. Then she went over to a neighbor's. The first thing the ben did was to lay a nice big egg in a box of straw to show that she meant to pay her way. After that she was made welcome by the neighbors.

"Since then Biddy has been living in her old home or as near to it as she can get board, and she seems a happy and contented hen.

"Her master has made up his mind to let her stay where she is for the present. He has told a good many w erful tales about the hen himself, but this story, which the town's practical joker started about the hen's trip to the country, beats any of his yarns. You can believe the story or not, as you like."

Daddy turned a laughing face to Jack and Evelyn. "I'm afraid, daddy, we just couldn't believe that one," replied the children.

EVEN BLACKBIRD HAS SENSE

He Limits His Hours of Labor as Strictly as Any Union Workman.

There's some common sense even in blackbird. A small army of those dusky feathered fliers have been demonstrating each day that they observe hours of labor just as strictly as any workman in town. Living in the big aged trees on Bethany College campus are thousands of these blackbirds. Each night they perch in the topmost branches of these trees. Each morning at daybreak they leave their homes and fly in great numbers to the east side of the city. There they remain all day, doing their work of gaining a living in the fields at the outskirts of town.

Sufficiently Permanent.

Mrs. Cameron was seventy-two years old, but she was so well-preserved that there seemed no reason to think that her days might not be lengthened to reach the family standard-over eighty-five.

When her trusty maid of all work fell ill, Mrs. Cameron, saying that she should pension the faithful Nancy, set about to obtain another. She advertised for a girl who wished a "permanent place," and offered high wages. The first applicant was a grim Scotchwoman, who looked Mrs. Cameron over, and then spoke her mind.

"You're well-favored, ma'am," she said, "but you're fair old for a' that, an' I'm lookin' for a pairmanency."

"You stay here till after my funeral," said Mrs. Cameron, with an appreciative twinkle in her eye, "and see if it hasn't been pretty permanent."

"Aweel, I'll try it," said the woman, after another survey of her future mistress; and she held her "pairmanency" for fifteen years, at the end of which time she attended the funeral of her mistress, and after it learned that a goodly sum had been left to "my cautious Tina," on the receipt of which she retired from active service. -Youth's Companion.

lvy at a Funeral.

Standing beside a coffin containing the body of her husband, Mrs. Charles Buhland of Indianapolis carried out his last requests. Dressed in white, she sang two hymns, read his requests and delivered a brief eulogy. Buhland did not want any crepe at the door and he insisted that no black should be worn in mourning for him. # and Invites Everyone to Visit Him Here

Toyland at Hirsch's contains the largest stock of good dependable toys west of the Mississippi. This business has grown from a very small one to the very largest-and its growth has been stimulated entirely by meeting the demands of the public-and as each year comes round we buy larger quantities, securing better prices, and our customers derive the benefit of these price concessions. We want every man, woman and child to visit Toyland as often as possible. It is indeed a treat for everyone.

It would be impossible to give every description and price in detail, but for your guidance and information we have enumerated as many items as space will permit.

We'll see you in Toyland.

A Wonderful Doll Show

Santa Claus has brought thousands of beautiful dolls of every description from every corner of the world for our Doll Show in Toyland. Boy and girl dolls from Germany, France, Austria, Japan, England and our own United States, besides other small nations. The Doll Show will be equally interesting to old and young and we promise that you'll see many new features you have never imagined. The past year has brought forth astonishing results in lifelike features and the expressions are truly wonderful. Don't let your children miss this treat. Bring them with you every time you come.
